

Ripley Items.

The program for the Ripley township Sunday School convention will soon be presented to the public.

J. Edward Dawson and wife of Chicago function, were last Sunday guests at the home of F. C. Young.

The first quarterly meeting of the M. E. church, North Fairfield charge will be held in North Fairfield, Oct. 8, at 2 o'clock p. m.

Rev. A. R. Brown will be at the Delphi church next Sunday evening in regular service, and will preach each alternate Sunday evening during the year.

Willard Howard and wife, C. C. Castin and sister, E. A. Boardman and sons, Cecil and Elden, attended the Augusta Maring funeral in Shiloh a week ago Sunday.

Mrs. E. C. Young attended the reception given Pastor Mott and wife in Plymouth Monday of last week, and now becomes most eloquent in describing the good time she had.

Miss Oleta Young is one of the teachers in the New Haven centralized schools. She, like others from Ripley who have taught in New Haven, think it the best in pleasant work.

Ross Pettit and George Saeet, who drove such sensational and exciting races at the Ripley fair will have their flyers in the Atica race this week, which will draw many Ripleyans.

It is reported here that the cows on the Donaldson farm had browsed and eaten the leaves and berries from a tree that had been cut down Saturday and on Sunday one of the cows was dead and the other three were very sick.

H. H. Sibbett and sister, Minnie Hoffman and children, were guests of an old uncle, 81 years of age, who works every day, at Crawfordsville, Ind., from last week Wednesday until Sunday eve, making a run by auto of 825 on the day home.

Mrs. Susie Simmons, one of Ripley's popular Sunday School teachers and president of the W. M. F. S. fell down a stair-way last week one day, and was thought to be badly injured by a broken bone, but to her delight no bones were broken and the bruises she received will soon pass away.

Mrs. Edna Huffman is a true practitioner of the world's champion walker, Weston. She frequently, when her husband is busy on the farm east of Boughtonville, will walk several miles to her parents' home without any confusion or worry, even during the days of the flying automobile.

Population Increasing.

With the population of the nation increasing at the rate of 2,000,000 annually, the United States will have 150,000,000 people to feed in 1950 according to statistics given out by the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University. This will require an increase in crop production of nearly 100,000,000 bushels and an unusual increase in live stock production. In 1908, 784,239 beef cattle were exported but in 1914 the 376 cattle were sent out; the pork exportation exceeded 1,500,000,000 pounds in 1906 but now it has dwindled to nearly 900,000,000. Meanwhile South American countries are exporting food products to the United States while prices of all food stuffs are growing higher.

To meet the demand for increased production and more economical agricultural methods, the College of Agriculture at the Ohio State University, Columbus, will open a new course on October 17, in which men and boys with farm experience will be allowed to enter without further entrance requirement; no high school training is required. Five months of practical farm instruction is given in farm crops, soil fertility, dairying, animal husbandry, poultry raising, fruit and vegetable growing and farm management. The complete course will cover three years, the year's instruction closing on March 16, 1917, allowing all the students to return to their farms for the planting and harvesting season.

Says Promise Not Kept.

In the answer and cross petition of Elmer and Doreas Rose to the petition of Sadie L. Beaver, they ask the court to set aside a judgment for $1,000. F. D. Gunesalus is their attorney. The defendant, Doreas Rose says she is the daughter of Henry Backenstos and the wife of Elmer Rose. The defendants say that Henry Backenstos proposed and promised if they would move onto the farm of 100 acres, operate it, and make repairs they should have an interest in the farm and at his death he would deed the farm to them. The husband says he spent $100 in repairs, but the defendant neglected to deed the farm to his daughter. They ask that they be reimbursed for this when the farm is sold.

Presbyterian Church.

So we have spent our first Sunday in the church, after the painting and varnishing of the interior. The people were apparently pleased with the new conditions. There is some encouragement even from that source. The services for next Sunday are: 9:30 Sunday School, "Prisoner tries to convert Judge." 10:30 Freshing, 6:00 Christian Endeavor, "What new work should our society undertake."

Methodist Notes.

A few rooms in the parsonage were repaired this week. This makes the parsonage in splendid repair and one of the best in the district. Mrs. Shmitt has been added to the parsonage committee and surely served well this week.

Fifteen tons of coal was recently put in the basement of the church. With the aid of this, Frank Bingham will see to it that the church is comfortable this winter.

Next Sunday morning the first conference of the district, the conference year will be observed. In connection therewith a brief testimony meeting will be held. In the evening the District Superintendent, the Rev. Chas. Gallimore, of Norwalk, will preach. He will also conduct the first quarterly conference Monday morning, Oct. 9, beginning at nine o'clock. It is an important meeting.

A postponed meeting of the Sunday school will be held at the parsonage Wednesday evening, Oct. 11. Everyone interested in Sunday School work is invited to be present.

Those voting in favor of such additional levy of taxes shall vote their ballot "For an additional levy of taxes for the purpose of Water Works Filtration Plant, not exceeding three mills, for not exceeding five years." Those opposed to such additional levy of taxes shall vote their ballot "For no additional levy of taxes for the purpose of Water Works Filtration Plant, not exceeding three mills, for not exceeding five years." The above is a likeness of C. J. Anderson, the Republican candidate for the State Representative from Richland County.

Mr. Anderson was born on a farm near Shelby, Ohio, in the year 1878. During the early years of his life he attended school during the winters and worked on his father's farm during the summers; this continued until he became a lawyer. He graduated from the Shelby Public Schools in the year 1895. He began the practice of law in his home town of Shelby, in the year 1900 in which business he has been engaged ever since, first alone, then as a member of the firm of Mabee & Anderson, and at present as a member of the firm of Mabee, Anderson & Colie. As a lawyer Mr. Anderson has acted as an advisor rather than a court lawyer, and has been usually successful in bringing about peaceful and satisfactory settlements of his clients' matters without taking them into court. Mr. Anderson has been during his entire life time actively connected with many of the public interests of his community.

Mr. Anderson has always been in favor of true progress and keeping abreast of the times, but he has been, and is opposed to the flood of new laws and theories which have been poured upon the public within the last four years; approximately 62,000 new laws having been enacted by the state and national legislatures within the last four or five years. Mr. Anderson's motto is "Fewer Laws and Better Ones, Not Promises But Results." He does not promise the people, if he is elected a large number of new laws, but does promise the people his honest best efforts to try to retain what has been tried and found good in the laws we already have, and as far as possible to do away with many that have been found useless and even vicious.

Alan smiled a twisted smile. "Sending home," he repeated, and added resignedly, "Oh, all right." Then he started up...

Lieber, once brave, florid and clumsy, was transformed. He worked quickly, with sure hands. The body lay stripped on the settle. Under it still lay the hammock and dusty blankets...

Gerry longed to stay by Alan's side, and through his returning consciousness, gaze upon the world he had forewarned...

Margarita's eyes searched his face, her beam rose and fell rapidly. "The not go," she said, and Gerry started at the passion in her voice.

And then he drew out the other letter and the curl in his lip straightened out to a line of sweetness and the light in his eyes turned to a fiery, blind adoration...

"We know, master," answered one of the boys, "but we can't ride behind an account of the dust."

Lieber dragged a great medicine chest out from his room. With alcohol he rapidly washed out the dust-dusted nostrils of the stricken man and bathed his face and then the limbs and body...

Lieber did not go with them. When he had seen them off, he looked himself giving orders for the tidying up of the veranda, the feeding of Alan's convalescent, and the preparation of a room for the self-inflicted guest...

"No, I'm allowed, eh?" said Alkali. "Well, we've seen that!" "You bet, and Deadwood."

Alkali like and Deadwood Dick drifted into a western city the other day with full wallets and a mighty thirst. They had been enticed by prospectors for many months, so of course they made a bedside for Saloon Billy. The sign over the first door they came to staggered them...

Alan seemed to have become childlike in his weakness. He spent what strength he had in trying to crawl into a board ripped from a kerosene box. When he had finished he called McDougal and showed him his "handiwork."

"When the cavalcade came within easy view Gerry stood up and watched. He could not hide his curiosity like him, I mean he had to be just as particular. Four men could carry a sick man to Lieber's in a hammock in four days...

"Quinine and arsenic," said Lieber shortly. "Then why—why—" protested Gerry. "A great desire to protect what was left of Alan had come over him."

HOME BEAUTY

Flowers and Shrubs
Their Care and Cultivation

Francis Scott Key Rose—the Flowers Are Unusually Large.

FAVORITE ROSES

By ELIZABETH VAN BENTHUSEN.
There is absolutely nothing in the realm of esthetic culture that is so thoroughly dominated by personal fancy as the selection of a pet rose. Every lover of the garden and of the home beautiful selects a favorite rose almost as soon as the interest of flower culture is born.

I have been much interested in the season's favorites and the reasons given by rose enthusiasts for their likes and dislikes. They offer to the student and the cultivator valuable hints in the care and selection of any favorite, because what one may find as an argument for his pet blossom may be equally true in any number of cases and many of my readers may be able readily to meet the claims advanced by them and find equal merit for their own selections.

The delicate formation, coloring and perfume of the rose all combine to make its study especially worth while. Intelligent choice of a favorite often marks the flower-lover as gifted—and a selection that does not follow popular fancy always reveals an amateur who is not superficial. For instance, the enthusiasts are now experimenting with the Gross aux Tepils, a lovely hybrid tea, to find out how well it will stand the winter in northern climates. Personally, I think that the rose is sufficiently hardy to stand anything save an unusually cold zone. It has the advantage, too, of being a prolific producer of blooms. From May until November the raiser of the pretty tea rose is rarely without some sweet evidence of the possession.

It can be planted in the sunshine or in the shade, under hanging trees or in the open, and a little severe pruning in the early spring is about all that the delicate rose demands. There is something in the rose that binds the present to the past, and one feels like the owner of a rare old bit of period furniture when it forms part of the garden.

Those who do not believe the ancient usage that every rose must have its thorns are showing much partiality this year for the Paul Neyron. Every month it produces its flowers, with the blossoms on long stems and leaves of a beautiful dark green. If cut when in bud, the flowers have a remarkable lasting quality. As I said, it is almost thornless, and its flower develops near ly every shade of pink. It needs little save proper planting in soil free from weeds and fertilizing with old manure. Harrison's Yellow, an Austrian heir, is also one of the favorite flowers of this season's cultivators. It is a sturdy member of the rose family, possessing the hardiness that makes such an appeal to the rose lover. Harrison's Yellow is no pampered child of luxury. It "just grows up," like Topsy, if it has the least chance. The buds of clear, pure yellow begin to show in May. The foliage is fine and small, with a pleasing green. A lay man or woman ought to adore the type, for it needs practically no pruning, unless one wishes to limit the growth. The flowers are put forth on wood of the previous season, so that if pruning is to be done at all it ought to be done only after flowering.

The Killarney rose is also being given a prominent place in the year's planting. Its freedom from disease and from insects commend it to many of the best growers, and the pink-and-white flowers have an odor of wonderful character. They should be set out in the spring as soon as the danger of frost is over. Dig a hole two feet square by two feet deep, place a few stones at the bottom for drainage, and then fill with good soil, mixed with well-rotted manure.

If large roses are wanted, cut the buds so that only a few remain. Cutting the long stems improves the plant. After thorough blooming, prune back freely, and the bush will remain healthy and will increase in size. They require covering before the frost appears.

THE BIGGEST GERMAN TREE

The German empire has produced many things that have held records for magnitude but none of them hold more interest than the empire's biggest tree. It is a huge linden located on the outskirts of the village of Straßfelden, in Bavaria. The folklore and history of the region say that the tree is five hundred years old.

The authorities have filled the hollow interior with cement to strengthen and preserve the landmark. It is 80 feet in circumference.

During the Napoleonic invasion of Germany it is related that the French Marshal Berthier rode his horse into the hollow of the tree and turned the animal around there.

Man Feels Independent When He Has a Good Herd of Cattle.

BUILDING UP A DAIRY HERD

Generally speaking, there is no best breed of dairy cow, although some are better for certain purposes than others. There are first-class cows in every breed, and also many unprofitable ones. Success depends more upon the selection of profitable individuals than upon the breed. The Jersey, Holstein, Guernsey and Ayrshire breeds are considered the standard special-purpose breeds, and the Red Polled, Shorthorn and the Brown Swiss the most common dual-purpose breeds, being used to some extent for beef production. The Jerseys and Guernseys are considered most economical for production of butterfat, and the Holsteins and Ayrshires are considered more profitable for milk production. The Holsteins should be kept on good pasture and on heavy rations. Profitable animals must be selected on basis of performance (shown by milk and butter records) and developed by care and good feeding. The beginner should consider his market carefully, select the breed he likes best from those most suited to local conditions and then stick with that breed, building up his herd by selection.

The dairyman, to be successful, must keep only such cows that pay a good annual profit. Many cows do not pay for their feed, while others may pay from $5 to $50 per year over expenses. The unprofitable cow is worth only what she will bring on the butcher's block (about $30). The cow that produces $50 profit over all expenses is worth ten times that produce no profit, both as a breeder and producer, and should at least be valued at $100 to $150.

Breeding Better Than Buying.
Some dairymen buy fresh cows, breeding to a common sire and selling the young stock and other cows to the butcher. Others breed their own stock, use good sires, keep milk records and develop heifers from their best stock. The first method has only one advantage, that of allowing the dairyman to use all his pastures and buildings for cows that are milking. Recognizing the value of a good cow, the dairyman should always be prepared to buy one that is better than what he has, but it is much safer to depend on breeding up his own herd, for this depends on buying gets cull stock, usually, unless he pays much more than it would cost to breed it himself. He must be big risk or buying diseased cattle with tuberculous or contagious abortion. The man who breeds up his own stock can develop his heifers to his liking so that they will be quiet and gentle and also healthy. He will usually be able to build up a good herd more surely and quickly.

Sire is Half the Herd.

The sire is half the herd, but if he is a good one he is pretty near all of it. Grade cows may range in value from $25 to $250, and the sire that can produce the latter kind is worth many times more than the one that produces the $25 kind. If a heifer can be produced that will average $50 to $100 pounds more butter or 1,000 pounds more milk per year than her dam, the annual profit from such a heifer will accordingly be from $10 to $25 more per year. If 20 heifers are raised, $200 to $500 will be gained each year by using a good bull. Consequently it is hard to understand the progressive dairyman can afford to let a difference of $100 or so in the original cost of a herd bull stand between him and an additional annual income of $500. Yet dairymen will buy $25 scrub bulls that are worse than, unless as improvers of their herds, while purebred males costing $50 to $150 more would pay for themselves many times over in the increased value of the young stock produced. The sire that cannot increase the value of the herd is dear at any price. When the owner of a grade herd may be justified in buying a high-priced a sire as the breeder of pure breeds, a good animal will always be cheapest in the end.

Selection of Dairy Sires.

Only a purebred sire should be used, from ancestors of known merit and of good blood type, masculinity and constitution. Select, if possible, the son of a first-class dairy cow as the characteristic of the dam are most likely to be reproduced in the heifers of the next generation. The best indication of the value of a bull is the character of his offspring, and this is the safest and surest guide. Many aged bulls with good records and splendid offspring are sold at bargain prices to avoid inbreeding, and afford an excellent opportunity to the man who wishes a good bull at moderate cost. Strength and virility must go with good ancestry to make a good sire. The grade sire should have no place in the dairy herd.

Select Cows on Their Records.

Cows may be selected according to type and apparently by men who are good judges, but the only safe and sure basis for selection is the annual milk record.

1. That the keeping of milk records in all parts of the country and in all classes of herds has shown that several
2. That in the best herds there are usually some unprofitable cows, and very many such in the poorer herds.
3. That without records the owners of the herds could not tell with any degree of accuracy which cows were paying profitably and which were not.
4. That many dairymen would have made a greater yearly profit had they sent their herd to the butcher at the beginning of the year, thus saving half their feed and labor expenses and getting all the profit from their best cows.

A fact worth noting is that several of the world's record cows of different breeds now worth thousands of dollars each.

Scrub Cow Which Lacked $154 of Producing Enough Milk to Pay for Her Feed and Care in One Year.

For sale to their present owners for small sums by men who had not taken the trouble to find out what kind of cows they were keeping.

Essential to Keep Records.

It is difficult, therefore, to see how a dairyman can afford to run the risk of keeping unprofitable cows by refusing to keep records. A merchant who could not take time to keep books or inventories or raise goods by advanced methods must be the rule on the dairy farm if a profitable business is to be built up. Even if it should take one week to work in a year, a good system of records, the time will be well spent if the work of the year were to result in an annual profit of $1,715, or a loss of $320 as a consequence of keeping records or not keeping them. The time required is really very small. The milk record is the dairyman's barometer; by means of it he can keep checked up on his individual cows, on his milkers and on his system of feeding. By means of it he will notice any increase or decrease in milk flow, and in the latter case he will be able to avoid trouble by removing the cause. More carefully is taken in feeding the cows, especially when their records are kept. A circular balance scale and a sheet of paper ruled off, together with the Babcock test will do the work. Cow testing associations are doing good work all over the country. From ten to twenty or more farmers may club together and agree to pay a qualified man to test their herds each month, sharing expenses equally. The system is particularly valuable to the men with purebred herds, as they can get their good animals tested for advanced record. Record keeping helps the dairyman to get rid of his "robber."

Cull Out Unprofitable Cows.

Cows that prove unprofitable should be sold at once. Those paying only a small profit may be kept until better ones are bought or raised on their places. Young heifers that do not show up during their first lactation period may sometimes make a good showing on a second year's trial. Good cows can often be purchased that will pay for their feed, care and cost prices one year and return a good profit beside.

Obituary.
Mrs. Simmons was rather taken shock by learning that her new domestic's name was the same as her own daughter's.

"Your name, Katherine, and my daughter's being the same makes matters somewhat confusing," said Mrs. Simmons. Suppose we change it?"
"Oh don't mind, ma'am," replied the girl.
"That's very nice," said the mistress. "How do you like, say, the name of 'Well, ma'am," returned the domestic. "It's not worth it at all over particular. Oh'm merrill to call 'it' young lady my name 'ye'd suggest, ma'am."

Pride of Late King George of Greece Reduced to Ashes—Played Large Part in History.
The wonderful forest of Tatoi, the pride of the late King George of Greece, was destroyed when fire reduced to ashes the summer residence of his son King Constantine. The tens of thousands of dollars spent in cultivating a flourishing pine wood, as an example of what might be done with forestry in barren Attica, have been burned up on a mountain as if the banknotes themselves had been thrown in the fire.

Tatoi played a large part in the history of Greece. Here the Spartans established themselves in 413 B. C. to cut off the supply of grain and foodstuffs bound into Athens from Euboea, with the purpose of starving the Athenian population. And in 404 B. C. while Lysander blockaded Athens and the Spartans by sea, the Spartans descended from the vicinity of Tatoi, attacked and forced the capitulation of Athens, ending the Peloponnesian war. The burned forest, laboriously planted and protected, was considered to be a memorial to the past greatness of Greece.

Didn't Want Much.
One Saturday night a lady who possessed a fruit and vegetable shop hurried to her last customer, a very red-faced woman.
She asked for a penny's worth of vegetables, and wanted a piece of everything.
When she had been given what she desired, she politely asked if they could be wrapped in a piece of paper and tied with a string.
The shopkeeper turned to her, quite calm, and said, "I will run across to the butcher's for a bone, and I think that will complete your Sunday dinner."

Six hundred thousand automobiles were built in the United States in the year ending June 30, 1915, as compared with 445,000 in the preceding year. The output for the year ending June 30, 1916, is estimated at 900,000.

Ohio cities that have wood block pavements are having much trouble with them just now. The extremely dry summer caused the blocks to shrink and the cracks became filled with sand. The recent rains swelled the blocks again and as they had no chance to expand the streets are full of humphs.

A final rally was made by the Ohio Prohibitionists, who it was announced would not be able to secure the required number of petitioners to place their ticket in the field, with the result that over 1100 more than the needed number of signatures were furnished, and the party will be represented on the state ballot next month.

A proclamation, issued by Governor Willis, which stated Ohio people are requested to observe October 9 as fire prevention day has been received by Fire Chief Dick. It asks that the citizens make an effort on this day to clear away anything that might tend to increase the number of fires as cold weather sets in. Examine your chimneys and see that all danger from fire is removed on the above day.

The Lincoln farm of 100 acres, the little log cabin in which Abraham Lincoln was born, a magnificent memorial hall which shelters it, and an endowment fund of $50,000 for its maintenance has been presented as a gift to the nation by the Lincoln Farm Association. Impressive ceremonies, in which the president and other high officials participated, occurred at Hodgenville, Ky., a few days ago.

The contract of making the Ohio license tags for 1917 has just been closed by Secretary of State E. H. Brandt, with the Abbott Stamping Company, of Detroit, and calls for three hundred thousand sets of tags. The price is 13.10 cents for each set of two tags, which is the lowest ever paid. This year the state paid about 15 cents a set. The new tags will have a yellow background and black letters.

The bird lovers are happy. At the session of congress just closed, the senate ratified a treaty providing protection for birds that migrate between Canada and the United States. This came at the same time that an effort was being made in the courts to destroy the federal law with the same effect. The treaty binds Canada to the policy of protecting these birds, while the statute sets the treaty provisions at work so far as this country is concerned.

From different parts of the country come stories of a swindle successfully worked on farmers who thought they were going to get cheap groceries. Two smooth strangers went through the communities taking orders for a house in Chicago, pretending to sell a standard brand of sugar and flour so cheaply that every farmer visited took from $10 to $60 worth, and other things besides. Because of the low prices, the flour and sugar had to be "paid in advance." It is alleged that in one community the swindlers picked up some $5,000 and no groceries delivered.

Does yours bring joy to the breakfast table ?

North—East—South—West—women are solving the coffee problem.

Armies have solved it. "An army travels on its stomach" and of the army breakfast, ask any soldier what he would miss most.

Famous restaurants have solved it. They know that without the right coffee they would have failed.

One of the greatest American judges has said that unhappiness in the home commences with the first cup of poor coffee.

There is a coffee which brings a million men to breakfast "in a hurry"—a coffee that makes all these men eager to get to the breakfast table, slow to leave it.

Your grocer has this coffee—Arbuckle's. Today you can introduce its rich, full flavor in your home. Serve Arbuckle's for a week and notice how much more his breakfast means to him. Bring joy to your breakfast table.

Today there are whole towns where Arbuckle's is practically the only coffee used. In one State, alone, in a year, four pounds of Arbuckle's Coffee was used for every man, woman and child in the State—four times as many pounds of coffee as the population of the State!

DETROIT STREET CAR ACCIDENT

Detroit Street Car, Filled With Passengers, Wrecked at Crossing by Train.

NINETY THREE IN CAR

Most of Dead Were Killed by Jumping and Falling Under Wheels of the Freight Cars; Second Accident at the Crossing.

Detroit, Mich.—Thirteen persons were killed and more than 25 injured, several probably fatally, last Sunday when a street car, having just picked up two freight cars crashed into a crowded street car at Forest-st. and Dequindre-st. on the East Side. There were more than 90 persons in the street car, many of them returning from the theaters.

The street car was struck almost in the center, the impact pushing it from the tracks and sliding it alongside of the freight cars.

Passenger-occupied cars were jumping from both the front and rear doors and climbing through windows.

Most of the dead were killed by jumping from the cars and falling under the wheels of the still moving freight cars.

Ambulances from every hospital in Detroit were rushed to the scene and quickly took the injured to the hospitals, where medical aid was given.

At midnight one hospital alone reported 16 injured and one dead had been taken there.

The accident is the third of a similar nature here in the last year and the second to occur at the Forest-st. crossing.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH CLAIMS THREE WOMEN

Neighbors Find Spinsters Dead Sitting in Rocking Chairs; No Cause Is Found.

Lansette, O.—Death mysteriously smote three women here Sunday afternoon as they sat in their rocking chairs in a room at the Smetters home.

They were found sitting in natural attitudes, one of them with her glasses on and a newspaper in her lap, as though she had laid the paper by to read a short time.

There was no sign of violence or of poison. Complete mystery shrouds the cause of their deaths.

The women are Miss Anna Smetters, 48; Miss Alice Smetters, 50; and Miss Mary Stretton, 50.

Neighbors entered the house about 6:30 p. m. when it was discovered that neither of the Smetters sisters had been seen during the afternoon.

It is believed the deaths of the women occurred within three hours before 6:30, as Miss Stretton was seen by her at the house at about 3:30.

Miss Stretton, a widow, and W. C. Stretton, an oil well contractor, and spent much time with the two maiden ladies.

Dr. G. O. Barry, who was called, was baffled and could give no reason for death. He said there were no signs of poison and no escape of gas. The coroner took the bodies in charge.

60 INJURED IN CRASH

PLATFORM AT CHURCH DEDICATION FALLS, BENDING 250 TO BASEMENT.

Singhanton, N. Y.—Sixty persons were injured, three seriously, in Johnson City, a suburb, when a temporary platform seating a congregation of more than 250 collapsed as the ceremonies of dedicating the new First Presbyterian church were begun.

Those who were to have been speakers, and the band and choir, sitting apart from the main body, were left in a state of alarm. The chasm filled with debris and struggling men and women.

The accident was caused by the buckling of wooden supports under the north end as this section fell to the rear of the platform sloping and tearing free from the siding. The congregation fell 25 feet into the church basement.

Aged Women Suffocated. New York City, Tuesday, two aged women, Miss Sarah Weeder, 70, and Miss Carolyn Outerbeck, 68, were suffocated when they fell through their home in Brooklyn. Their bodies were found on the third floor of the house. One was under the bed and the other was found lying at the window.

Ashes Strain on Lake. Coshocton, O.—Charles Gosser, a leading citizen, died Thursday, provided in his will that his remains be cremated and the ashes strwn on the waters of Lake Erie.

The remains were taken to Cleveland for cremation, after which six packages, which accompanied the remains to that city took the ashes to a motor bus nearby to the breakwater and consigned them to the water.

Mrs. Gosser was a student of the reformatory of Hiram, Ohio, where she had been confined for several years.

ONION ARRESTED IN WOMAN'S DEATH

Grand Rapids Officers Take Ashtabula Man as Suspect in Murder.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—The identity of the richly dressed woman found slain along the Dixie highway near here has been established and her alleged slayer arrested.

The woman is Mrs. Anna H. St. John of Mayville, N. Y., 55 years old, and the man is John Allerton, alias the mischievous framework and adding a new peril to the shrieking and groaning occupants of the wrecked cars.

The steel girders of the bridge twisted like pieces of rubber. Trolley wires snapped, coiling and snarling around the public framework and adding a new peril to the shrieking and groaning occupants of the wrecked cars.

The magnitude of the wreck was immediately apparent to the police force, carrying the two cars and a horse and wagon with it to the railroad tracks below.

The steel girders of the bridge twisted like pieces of rubber. Trolley wires snapped, coiling and snarling around the public framework and adding a new peril to the shrieking and groaning occupants of the wrecked cars.

Passengers, with blood streaming from deep gashes, crawled from beneath the wreckage and under the glass windows. Others lay prone among the members.

Within 15 minutes there were two or three hundred members of the police force and fire brigades on the scene. Half a dozen ambulances were drawn up at the edge of the damaged bridge.

As fast as the ambulances arrived they were hurried away to neighboring hospitals with the injured. First aid students from near-by factories rendered what assistance they could before the passengers were removed to the hospitals.

Conductor Killed. The last body to be removed from the westbound car, which was much more seriously damaged than the other one, was that of Otto Borchert, the conductor. His body was in the front vestibule of the car.

Borchert, it was said, was frantically struggling to check the speed of the car when it left the tracks. His body was found crushed alongside the steering apparatus.

Probably there were close to 60 people on the car when it rounded the bend and turned on to the steep declivity approaching the bridge. Gathering momentum with each yard of travel, the car, oscillating furiously, was traveling close to 60 miles an hour when it jumped the tracks near the bridge and crushed into the car coming in the opposite direction.

Blackmailer Sent Up. New York City, Tuesday, a local inventor, who pleaded guilty to obtaining $100,000 from Edward Lauterbach, lawyer and Republican politician, during the last 15 years by systematic threats, has been sentenced to Sing Sing prison for not less than four nor more than eight years.

In important testimony Judge Nott denounced Lett, saying the defendant justified the belief that the defendant for years had lived on money his wife obtained from other men.

Get Gems Worth $3,000. Marietta, O.—Two mysterious diamond robberies, the value of the stones stolen being more than $2,000, came to light here when police announced the home of Rev. James L. Sirock and Mrs. Harvey Wilson had been robbed recently.

Mrs. Wilson, widow of one of Marietta's prominent citizens, estimates her loss at $2,500, while Rev. Mr. Sirock fixes the value of the diamonds taken at $3,000. Police say they have more than $500. Police say they have a clew.

BREAKING OF PISTON ROD Given As the Cause of Wreck by the Railroad Officials—Injured Cared For at Private Hospital.

Western Ohio Newspaper News Service. Cincinnati, O.—Two trainmen were killed and about a score of passengers were more or less seriously injured last Saturday when fast Pennsylvania train No. 1241, from New York to Cincinnati, known as the Keystone Express, was wrecked near Kings Mills Station, 20 miles from Cincinnati. The two members of the train crew killed were Engineer J. J. Berry and Fireman S. Miller, both of Cincinnati. None of the passengers are believed to have been injured fatally. According to Cincinnati officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the accident was due to breaking of a piston rod in the locomotive which caused the train was a heavy one of 10 coaches and sleepers and therefore, two engines were attached to bring it into Cincinnati. When the rod broke, both engines leaped from the rails and pulled two coaches with them. One of the engines rolled almost to the bank of the Miami river, along which the railroad roadbed is laid. The other locomotive lurched around completely and burrowed into the earth. The other two coaches did not overturn. Berry and Miller were in the cab of the first locomotive. The injured were taken to the private hospital of the Kings Mills manufacturing company in Kings Mills and given first aid by the company's physicians and Dr. C. R. Holmes of Cincinnati, who was on the train.

CARDINES FOR ROAD LEVEE RAISE

MAJORITY OF NOMINEES FOR GENERAL ASSEMBLY APPROVE HALF-MILL INCREASE. BOTH PARTIES WILL SUPPORT

In Many Counties Highway Enthusiasts Organize Along Non-Partisan Lines. Western Newspaper Union News Service. Columbus, O.—From the tenor of responses that have been received to letters sent to nominating committees and assemblies by the Ohio Good Roads Federation, it does not seem to be even doubtful that a large majority in favor of restoration of the half-mill levy for good roads. Thus far, assurances have been received from a majority of the candidates that they will favor any program of road legislation that may be suggested as contributing to the good roads cause.

In the list of measures are those to obtain proper cooperation between national and state governments, correction of error and discrepancies found in the present road code and restoration of the half-mill levy to the state. The proposal to increase the levy from three-tenths of a mill to a half-mill is not mentioned by either political party, but it is understood that it will not be regarded as a political question.

In many counties road enthusiasts have organized along nonpartisan lines and will support candidates for the general assembly who are in favor of extension of the good roads work without party distinction. However, in a large majority of instances no organization will be necessary, as both Democratic and Republican nominees have said in their declaration that they expect to support a half-mill levy. It is urged that the state highway department now has had sufficient experience to enable it to enlarge its program. To this fact is the additional one that the amounts of money available for distribution to the counties have been entirely adequate to care for the needs of the counties not to meet one-half of their requests.

Supreme Court to Act.

Quick work will be necessary on the part of the supreme court if it is to be known in time to do any good whatever in the case of the election of a split ticket for presidential electors this fall. The last legislature, in repealing a law passed by the Democratic legislature providing for separated national and state tickets, forgot to repeal the law abolishing the squares for the names of the candidates for elector, and as a result, unless the supreme court can find a way out of it, the voters will have to vote for all the electors on a ticket or for none of them. Attorney General Turner has brought a suit in supreme court attacking the constitutionality of the law which abolished the squares before the names of the candidates. If the court holds that this law is no good, or that it was repealed by implication, if by no other cause, then the voters will have to put an X in the circle at the top of the ticket, and the voters for the candidates on his ticket, and will be barred from voting a split ticket.

Farmers Favor Credit Law.

Quite a number from the claims of Cincinnati, Toledo, and Columbus as sites for the new farm credit district, the Farm Loan Board heard much interesting chatter at its session in this city. All the members were present save Mr. Norris, who was compelled by illness. Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo acted as master of ceremonies and explained the act very fully.

The chief interest was in the growth of sentiment in favor of the farm credit system since the series of hearings have begun. Farmers testified that while they originally were skeptical concerning the law, they now are convinced that it is a very good measure, and benefits will be seen in a few years. It was brought out, too, that one and all believe that it will be as popular as its twin companion, the Federal Reserve act, which has been tried and applauded in many of the favored with which the board was favored.

Rooms Not Exempt.

It was held by the attorney general that when a part of the real estate of an institution of public character is rented for commercial purposes, the part being room of a building owned and occupied by the institution, such rooms are not exempt from taxation.

Brick Companies Merge.

Papers have just been filed with the secretary of State for the incorporation of a brick company at Cleveland, with a capital stock of $4,000,000. The new company is a consolidation of two firms, the Barwick Brick company and the Farr Firebrick company, located at Cleveland, where the new concern, to be known as the Barwick-Farr company, will operate. The papers names as incorporators, J. A. Jackson, L. B. Phillips, J. W. Dawson, E. B. Barwick and E. W. Fox.

Report of Medical Board.

"A class medical practice appeals to the public when one, if understood, is the state medical board. In its annual report just filed with the governor, the board reports an increased interest in medical practice reported by the new Practitioner's law regulating limited practitioners, imposed many new duties upon the board. Under this act 479 limited practitioners and 149 osteopaths were licensed. A total of 148 physicians and surgeons were registered, 17 osteopaths were registered by examination and two by reciprocity. One physician lost his right to practice his profession, and the board reported that it licensed 3,863 licenses to nurses. Action is pending on 58 applications.

Fireworks Cause 24 Fires.

There was a better "Safe and Sound Fourth" this year than usual. A report just issued by the state fire marshal shows that 24 fires were caused by fireworks on July 4, which were the result of fireworks. This is the lowest number ever reported for that day. The fire caused a total loss of $382,466 in July. There were 383 fires, so the average loss per fire was $1,000. Careless handling of matches and matches in the hands of children caused 42 fires. There were nine suspicious fires and eight of unmistakable incendiary origin. Lighted candles caused 63 fires with a total loss of $100,000. Spontaneous combustion caused 13 fires with $64,262. Careless smoking caused 19 fires with $100,000. Locomotive sparks caused nine fires and $73,390 loss.

Soldiers Return Home.

The first batch of Ohio soldiers to be sent home from El Paso has reached Columbus. They were from the Second regiment and were sent north without the federal army muster of dependent relatives to support. There were 14 in the party. They were sent to Camp Willis, where Lieut. Ernest C. Turner, federal army muster officer, will discharge them. Other soldiers are expected to reach Columbus this week to be discharged for the same reason.

Railroads Want Review.

Five railroads entering West Virginia have asked the public service commission for permission to revise their freight rates effective December 1. The schedules filed with the commission provide for increases in some cases and reductions in others. They are the Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio, Pennsylvania and Michigan, the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis and the Wahab-Pittsburg Terminal company.

Riddle State Settled.

Atty. Gen. Edward C. Turner just passed the status of P. E. Riddle, of Lima, who once conducted the Ohio Rock Boy contests. He holds that Riddle was an independent contractor with the State Board of Agriculture. The board is not authorized to pay for the expenses of any other person aside from the secretary. The details of the trip 1914 have never been entirely cleaned up, but will be with the rendition of the ruling.

Proprietor To Make Good.

The Franklin county common pleas court holds that a proprietor must pay if his waiter cheats a customer. A year ago Samuel Collins, colored, entered the restaurant of William Bullock, of Columbus, and was charged a hundred dollar bill in payment of his twenty-five-cent meal. The waiter left the restaurant to get change and never returned. The court has just ordered Bullock to pay Collins $99.75.

Bids Must Be Asked.

The state building commission, in making improvements in the state house or the Wyandotte building, must receive competitive bids on all jobs over $100. Attorney General Turner ruled that the state house is to be improved by a system of landscape gardening, according to the plan submitted by the commission. It also plans to reconstruct the interior and exterior dome of the state house.

Inspector of Schools.

O. E. Oliver, East Palestine, Columbiana county, was appointed inspector of colleges and secondary schools by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Pearson. This appointment is in conformity with a modified plan heretofore Ohio State university has been appointing two inspectors. From now on the university is to appoint one and the state superintendent one.

Bids on Camp Equipment.

Bids have been opened by Colonel W. H. Campbell of Camp Willis, which cost nearly a quarter of a million dollars to establish. They include the purchase of government land and little salvage for the use of the property. The bids have been forwarded to General Barry of the central post at the Barwick-Farr company. He will make the award. The officers who received the bids were much disappointed over the small sums offered for the property.

FOR JUNIOR GIRLS

SEASON'S GARMENTS ARE AMONG THE SMARTEST. Frock Composed of Two Fabrics should Delight the Weaver-Velvet and Satin the Best Materials to Be Employed.

A frock of two fabrics for a girl of from eight to twelve years is shown in the sketch. The selection of fabrics and colors is one that may be dictated by the mother of the young woman to be outfitted. The garment is very smart, however, and for first choice velvet and satin are recommended. The "tam" may match the frock, and an altogether charming street outfit result. If preferred, velvet and broadcloth may be combined instead of the velvet and satin as suggested. The cross is one of the straightline garments thoroughly approved by high-grade designers of children's frocks, and an invariable fastening at the right side front is effected. A box plait on either side of the front and two similarly plaited in the back give the garment sufficient fullness and flare. The front of soft broadcloth or satin is gathered in at the waistline, and confined with a two-inch-wide velvet belt. The lower half of the frock and the flaring turned-back cuffs are of broadcloth or matching the front of the frock.

To make this frock for the average ten-year-old girl, two yards of velvet or other material 36 inches wide will be required for the major portions, together with one and a quarter yards of contrasting material the same width for the front collar and cuffs. The question of school frocks is a vital one to the mother of daughters of school age, and foremost in frocks of the character are the dark blue serge. Wide collar frocks are noted in bright colors make excellent trimmings. Dull gold is a tone applied to dark blue with excellent results.

For Fall Wear.

This waterfall monkeyskin dress is for early fall wear. The edge of the skirt, the cuffs and the little band on the collar are of a heavy velvet. The collar is unusually high and does not insure comfort, even in the early fall. The dress is extremely simple in its cut and trimming but nevertheless is dainty and pleasing a garment as any fair lady would wish to wear.

Belts of colored leather and soft suede in colors, as well as patent buckles are equally popular, and perfectly straight dresses, loosely belted, are also good.

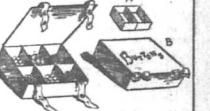

High-collared, normal and long-waisted models are equally popular, and perfectly straight dresses, loosely belted, are also good. The general outline or silhouette of frock dresses does not change so rapidly as in garments for the grown-up members of the family. Each season, however, introduces its own trimming novelties, and the needs of the junior girl and her smaller sister should be studied carefully.

Paris is flooded not only with rain but with the products of war-relief work. Some of the most practical and practical has been developed recently by one of these organizations; this is the crocheting or knitting of collars, cuffs and decorative trimmings for dresses. This crocheting or knitting is done in bright-colored woolen yarn, which looks astonishingly pretty on the faces of children's frocks. Sometimes a flower or even a geometric sign of another color is knitted into a cuff or revers with very good results.

As an old necktie, a child in made of bright-colored knitted woolen beads, strung on a black silk cord. Knitted woolen cravats are effective on school frocks for children. The hands of these same small people may be thrust into tiny knitted muffs edged with narrow bands of fur. Knitted hats trimmed with knitted flowers are also edged with fur. The knitting needle has lately been responsible for very much.—From Vogue.

Keep the Buttons Apart.

Most of us know how difficult it is to find any particular button that may be required, but buttons are kept loosely mixed together in a work-bag or work-box, so that it is well worth while to prepare a receptacle for them in which the different kinds can be kept separate from each other. We give a sketch of a nest little article for this purpose that is composed of six small cardboard boxes all of the same shape and size. The boxes are placed side to side and joined together with paper fasteners, and diagram A shows two of the boxes fastened together with paper fasteners. No difficulty will be found in doing this, and the interior of the divisions so formed can then be lined with this white silk.

The sides of the boxes are covered with dark green silk, tacked on to the edges of the boxes turned over underneath and fastened down with strong adhesive. The cover is made of dark green silk or linen, lined with this white silk and edged with gold silk fringe. The ribbon strings are sewn on in front to secure the cover when it is drawn over the boxes. Diagram B shows this done, and the word "Buttons" is worked where indicated with gold silk.

Correct Costumes.

Town and country suits are the latest requirement of the woman who lives in town, but plays golf out of town. She must possess a suit informal for golf wear, against a country background, yet the same costume be presentable on the train and in the city streets, and can be tucked and forth to her club. Town and country suits are of Jersey cloth but nevertheless are dainty and pleasing to the coat usually some variation of the Norfolk lines. Mannish kid gloves, a tailored sports hat not too gay in hue and crown, glided kid sports shoes with low rubber heels complete an exceedingly fetching and quite correct costume.

Petticoat Hints.

Many distressing things are inflicted upon the public by the careless dresser, but none is more painful than the petticoat which doesn't come within several inches of the hem of the skirt. With the present light and thin materials so much worn, it is too common to see the petticoat protruding at daylight below the opaqueness of the rest of the skirt by the petticoat. The smart and pretty effect of the frock is spoiled by the unadvised transparency, and the woman who is guilty of such carelessness is never herself down as a body-dresser, but is always a body-dresser or expensive her gown may be of or expensive her gown may be of
