How to Push Plymouth.

Some people talk much and do little. Others talk little and do much. A few are betwixt and between and never succeed in setting themselves or the world adrift.

There is however, a happy medium which will afford us the necessary outlet for our thoughts and yet serve the good of the community at large.

Don't be a clam, and don't be a big noise. Talk when you feel like it, but talk sense and talk to people who have sense. When we do that, we will gradually bring to the surface the good points in each other; we will open up opportunities for the development of the community, and will be able to hit upon the means of pushing our town along.

Lehenthal was indicted for arson and burning in connection with the Pitt street fire, and for a similar crime in adding and abetting the burning of a dwelling at 26 Pitt street Dec. 1, 1913. He is still confined in his home.

Indictments for arson and burning were returned against both Hawkins brothers for their part in the October fire, and Edward Hawkins, who was named confessed to covering both crimes, was also indicted for the first offense in 1913. His bail still remains at $500, and his brother has furnished bond in the same amount.

Examined Our Streets.

The significance of this undertaking can be partially appreciated when it is realized that it includes a critical examination of upward of seventy million square yards of concrete pavement or nearly 7,000 miles of road.

The Portland Cement Association in undertaking this work exhibits a broadminded policy, which will result in not only good roads, but will be of value to every taxpayer interested in having the most reliable methods of construction used in the streets and roads for which he is taxed.

Obituary.

Rachel Fillon, daughter of David and Rachel Fillon, was born in Worthington township, Richland county, July 24, 1836, and departed this life November 8, 1916, aged 80 years, 3 months and 14 days.

One hundred and thirty-five were present at the church last Sunday, being the largest number present this calendar year. With a little more regularity on the part of some of the great institutions of our commonwealth is the demand of the times.

The pastor will preach morning and evening next Sunday. The union Thanksgiving service will be held, in accordance with the wish of a majority of our church people, Thanksgiving evening, at seven o'clock.

The next meeting of the Sunday School Board will be held Monday evening, Dec. 4. It will be an important meeting.

The W. H. M. S. is packing a ham to be sent to the Deacons Home in Cleveland. A list of names of women and children is solicited and should be sent to Mrs. Judson before Dec. 5.

The Winter Convention of the Huron county Sunday School Association will be held in North Fairfield beginning Monday evening, December 11, and continuing over Tuesday, the 12th, with both forenoon and afternoon sessions.

The churches and schools of North Fairfield have extended a cordial invitation to the members of the Sunday School workers and the plans contemplate one of the best mid-year conventions ever held.

Every Sunday School in Huron county, of all denominations, is urged to affiliate and to send regularly accredited delegates to this Winter Convention. There is no limit to the number from any school.

Improvement of live stock is the need of the hour. As cost of production increases, breeders and feeders cannot achieve maximum results with the inferior and mediocre grades of cattle that constitute too large a percentage of the stuff now reaching market.

It is an accepted axiom that the profit is in the gain. It corresponds with the law of Transportation. Specialists that the money is in the straps, meaning passengers who are not furnished seats.

The management of the International Live Stock Exposition is expediting an idea that is slowly gaining ground. Education is a proverbially slow process and progress is attained only by persistent endeavor.

Bulletins which are now being sent to any address show that the course includes practically all the lines of agriculture from breeding and feeding of live stock, dairying, horticulture, poultry, farm machinery, floriculture, and soil fertility to veterinary medicine.

In addition, a lecture at 4 p. m. on each day is planned for the students who enter. These are to be given by well informed men engaged in farming on a commercial scale and officials from the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

The following helpful program was carried out in a manner creditable to all who participated last Sunday morning at the usual hour for preaching service at the Presbyterian church.

SAW NO USE IN GETTING UP

Correspondent in City Visited by Zeppelins Simply Stayed in Bed and Touched Wood.

I was billeted at the time of the first Zeppelin raid in a little, amply house of three floors and six apartments. The house was packed with the original tenants, Jew and Greek, together with such lodgers as myself. In our flat of four rooms and a kitchen were the landlord and his lady, four sons and two daughters. The sons slept on the sitting-room floor, and if you came home in the dark you were likely to tread on them. Two French officers shared the best bedrooms, while I slept alone in the second best. "Bang-bang-bang" went the bombs from the Zeppelins; the French officers cried "En bas!" and the boys banged at my door yelling "Embros!" which is Greek for "Forward!" As it didn't seem to matter much where one went, the whole thing, falling drougins, being purely a question of luck. I stayed in bed and touched wood. The crashes of the big bombs were terrifying. The houses shook with each explosion; but as all things—good or bad—must come to an end, so too, after a while, ended this business. A wonderful orange-colored blaze lit up the world outside, and so I got out of bed and watched it, deciding at last to dress and see things at close quarters—Albert Kinross, in the Atlantic.

Dewey, discussing the naval battle of Skagerrak, said at a Washington luncheon: "A naval officer, to succeed, must be very quick-witted and resourceful. In fact, he must be like Hamilton Footittes."

"Ham Footittes leaned on the rail of his sea-going yacht, soliloquizing about love while the blue waves rolled and heaved splendidly, each blue wave being a spew under a roll of canvas. "But the waves were here and there threadbare, and suddenly a wave ripped and a head bobbed up in the midst of the heaving sea and stared around in bewildered fashion. "Ham Footittes silenced the audience's fitters with one stern glance. "Man overboard!" he yelled in stentorian tones. Then the super, managing to draw back his head through the hole in the wave, disappeared. Ham Footittes heaved a stormy sigh. "Another victim seized by the relentless sea, alas," he said."

Hardy Roses, Which Need a Little Protection Just Before the Ground Freezes.

THE GARDEN'S OVERCOAT

By L. M. BENNINGTON.

What lover of the garden is there who has not every year faced with more or less trepidation the question of putting the garden in its overcoat, or, to be more in line with the bromidic expression of the years, into winter quarters?

Getting around in the spring to find cherished plants dead and withered is like coming back to the home town to get tidings that old friends have died. There is more or less emptiness in the proceeding.

These troubles may be avoided with a little thought. In November and December when the ground has been slightly frozen, the garden may be safely put into winter quarters.

Many plants do not require much attention or protection, and others which need some protection will be killed with too much cocodling.

There is something appealingly human about flowers that makes them follow individual types and preferences.

Almost all rosebushes will go through winter nicely if earth is thrown up around them to the depth of nearly a foot just before the ground freezes. A few inches of leaves or manure must be added to the ground after the freezing weather sets in.

Tea roses in the North will not stand much cold, and it is best to place them in pots and set them in a cool cellar. Many of the tea roses will bloom all winter if kept in a moderately warm room. The rambler roses will generally go through the winter without protection. In the instances of the newer climbers, which may be hurt, it is a good plan to lay them flat on the earth and cover with a foot of earth as a matter of insurance.

New Buddleas, or summer lilacs, can be treated just like the roses. They will be killed back, to be sure, but if they have been well protected with earth they will make a quick start in the coming spring and by the end of July will be in bloom again. Many a time people have dug up the roots, thinking them dead, when all in the world they wanted was to be let alone. Rhododendrons are often winter-killed. In many cases they die because they get too much attention. Mound up leaves around them, the higher the better, first wetting the ground thoroughly. Sun-scald, which causes much damage, can be avoided by setting up boards to the south of the valuable specimens. Straw mats, or mats made from burlap bags will protect English ivy. Enormous vereta, the handsome new climber which is being largely substituted for English ivy, does not seem to need any protection in any section.

The perennial beds would not require any protection if snow would only fall at the beginning of the season and stay until spring.

The alternate freezing and thawing does the mischief. Fichus, German iris, phlox and poppies of the Oriental type really need no covering. Their roots are strong. A light overcoat of leaves, straw or pine boughs, however, is good for many of the perennials. A heavy blanket will not permit ventilation.

Some of the finest perennials, like Japanese anemone and tritons, are sensitive to cold and are safest in a cold cellar. If covered with straw and protected from standing water, pansies, English daisies and forget-me-nots will generally stand the winter nicely.

SOME WINTER HINTS

There is no necessity for being idle in the cold months.

Rake the leaves and add them to the manure pile.

Take out rocks by blasting. Pick the stones from the fields. Haul and spread manure.

In the early spring don't forget that a good application of lime is required for the field.

Farmers' Bulletin No. 745, issued by the department of agriculture, deals with the use that may be made of waste lands—A subject about which there is never too much information.

Rhododendrons Are Often Winter-Killed Because They Get Too Much Attention.

Kidney Disorder

(By DR. V. M. PIERCE.)

The most simple methods are usually the most effective ones when treating any disorder of the human system. The mere drinking a cup of hot water each morning, plenty of pure water all day, and a little Anzur before every meal has been found the most effective means of overcoming kidney trouble. Death would occur if the kidneys did not work day and night in separating poisons and uric acid from the blood.

The danger signs are backache, depression, pain, heaviness, drowsiness, irritability, headache, chilliness, rheumatic twinges, swollen joints or gout.

Since it is such a simple matter to step into your favorite drug store and obtain Anzur, anyone who earnestly desires to regain health and new life will waste no time in beginning this treatment.

Some time ago I had backache very bad; it would ache just like a toothache. Anzur Tablets relieved me of the backache—I have no more pain in my back. If they help me, they will help others."—MRS. L. For several days prior to election the deficit in the United States treasury remained practically stationary at $76,000,000. In two days after election it jumped to $81,333,000. It makes some difference whether the administration is looking for votes or the population of the dry states.

Population of the dry states of the union is 32,306,341. Population of the wet states is 59,665,926. The population of the states that voted dry at the late election is 4,922,222. Missouri, California and Maryland, which voted wet at the same election, have a population of 7,362,186.

Republican leaders in Cuyahoga county Tuesday were planning a court fight to force an official count of the 133,483 ballots cast there Nov. 7. They hope that enough errors will be discovered to wipe out the margin of 5,571 given former Governor Cox in the state and return Governor Willis to the state house.

A Vermillion man is giving politicians a tip on a new measure, that would doubtless mean much error to the man successful in having it passed. It provides for the election of county commissioners by districts, thereby doing away with the monopoly so often gained by the filling of these important offices by county seat men or from the larger towns without regard to their residential districts. It is a good suggestion and will likely be heard from later.

The first lot of 1917 auto tags have just been received by W. H. Walker, registrar of automobiles at Columbus. The first car load arrived Monday with 17,000 sets. The second car came Tuesday. The tags are contracted to buy at least 250,000 sets from the Abbot Stamping Co., of Detroit, Mich., at 13.9 cents a tag. The tag has black figures and a yellow background. The figures are larger than those on this year's tags, and are the most easily read of any tag ever used in this state.

Miss Jeanette Rankin, the first woman ever elected to congress, is virtually a prisoner in her home in Missoula, Mont. At the door her husband, a hockey athlete, and once did things on Harvard's football field, is on guard. He is there because Miss Rankin asked him to keep away scores who have been harassing her since her election was assured. Would-be wooers, agents, cranks, beggars, moving picture operators, photographers, and freelance writers have camped on her doorstep night and day in more than a week and Miss Rankin, driven to desperation by their importunities, has gone into seclusion.

Persons who have an olfactory prejudice against the onion will read a report just issued by the department of agriculture, that the Ohio crop of that impressive vegetable this year is enormous. No other state in the union approaches Ohio year in the production of onions and the crop entitled to the first rank in the bumper class. The department's estimate of the Ohio onion crop this year is 1,445,167 bushels, more than five times the size of last year's Ohio onion crop, which was 272,624 bushels. And what makes the field seem all the more remarkable is that only eleven Ohio counties in the onion belt are included in this estimate. They are Hardin, Ashtabula, Huron, Lucas, Medina, Portage, Starke, Summit, Wayne and Wyandot.

"Where Are My Children?"

The Deisler Theatre will have the opportunity of showing to its patrons the most talked of photo drama of the season Saturday, Nov. 25, where it will be shown at 2:30 and 8 o'clock. "Where Are My Children?" which features Tyrone Power and his meritorious company of players. No sermon from the pulpit has brought its lesson more vividly to the mind of the public than this powerful photo play. Clergymen have publicly voiced their appreciation of the lesson it teaches, and have preached sermons about it. Mothers Clubs, social workers, juvenile court officers, physicians and clergymen are alike in their commendation of the lesson it teaches, and the delicate way in which the subject is handled.

It is stated, that this film is doing more good in arousing the public to a need of eugenic laws, the teaching of the young the laws of life, and condemning the wanton, wicked murder of unborn babies, than any previous agitation on the subject. The pathos of childlessness and barren old age are pictured so vividly in the concluding scenes, that it will move the most hardened of men and women.

No father or mother can witness the charming innocence of the beautiful young girl, who through ignorance, was the victim of a designing rogue, but who will make a definite promise to themselves that they will not only warn their own girls of such temptation, but that they will do all in their power to see that other girls are given the right knowledge to protect themselves. The admission price will be 25 cents.

To have the privilege of investing in the $100,000 MOVIE THEATRE to be erected at Elyria, Ohio

Shares are now selling at $10, each full paid and nonassessable---we predict that in a few months these shares will be selling at $20 a share or higher, as we have every reason to believe that this investment will pay 40 per cent dividends.

Elyria is a city of 22,000, growing by leaps and bounds---only four small movies in the city---wonderful opportunity for a first-class movie.

Only a limited number of shares to be sold in Plymouth, so it will be necessary for you to arrange for your stock at once if you wish to invest in this promising enterprise, as the allotment will soon be exhausted.

Officers and directors are Elyria's leading business and professional men.

Mr. Reuben Deisler, of the Deisler Theatre, is accepting stock subscriptions for the New Movie Theatre and will be pleased to talk with you concerning it.

GOOD NEIGHBOR AND BAD

If the disposition of the government and people of the United States toward Mexico had not been friendly in the highest degree there would have been no international commotion. If, with little hope of success, that body is beginning today what are likely to be its final actions, the blame cannot be placed upon this country.

We have asked nothing of Mexico that one nation has not a right to ask another. As a world power, held in some degree responsible for the security of life and property south of the Rio Grande, we are justly interested in the maintenance of orderly government in that quarter. As a neighbor entertaining nothing but good will toward an afflicted people, we stand ready to assist in the pacification and rebuilding of a republic which some day should take a place of dignity in the world. Thus the unwisdom and arrogance, if not downright hostility, have met us at every turn.

It were a man in all Mexico who is able to see how differently great power is used on this hemisphere than in Europe. Mexico has been devastated and impoverished by its own chieftains. It has fallen a victim to the ambitions of its own leaders. Its tyrannies have been self-imposed, all of its sufferings self-inflicted. The very nation which it regards with as much distrust has safeguarded Mexico from foreign aggression and with unparalelled patience has been able to check such of its own citizens as have insisted upon action that might appear as predatory or vengeful.

Belgium, highly civilized and at peace, was reduced to ruin and slavery because it chanced to be in the path of an empire and conquest. Hungary Poland was first scourged and starved and then, as a measure of imperial policy, was bidden to re-arrange its oppressor's armies as the price of its liberation. Serbia was literally wiped off the map because it would not surrender its liberty. Armenia was put to the sword to signalize Turkey's entrance into the war on the side of the central powers.

Mexico has less claim upon the compassion of its neighbors than most of these people had, for it has been turbulent, defiant and lawless for years. Mexico is not necessarily more secure under the protection of treaties and international law than these nations fancied themselves to be. Yet the only real evil of which Mexico complains could be removed almost in a day and by its own act, if it were so disposed.

There must be some man or group of men in that vast territory capable of appreciating the value of friendship. There must be considerable elements of the population familiar with the truth as to the situation at home and abroad. Why is it, then, that with so many proofs of American forbearance, so much evidence on our part of a desire to be helpful, so many facts and words attesting our sincerity, all are silent and hateful?—New York World.

Many of the contributions to the campaign fund are made in the nature of an investment.

No woman is ever so poor she doesn't think her children are in danger of being kidnaped.

It is the man who has no income who feels that he wants to be particularly willing to pay an income tax.

If you want your friends to rally to your defense, don't put in a defense a continuous performance.

There may be something the matter with the child whose parents are always finding fault with the teacher.

You will want several of these good-looking Rugs the moment you see them. They're different from ordinary grass, fibre or fibre rugs; cost less and wear longer. Be sure to get the best and frequent washings won't harm them.

Every room in the house should have a Complete Rug. Get it today and let us tell you all about them.

MYSTERY

Is Parentage of Boy Baby Found Buried in Box.

The parentage of the baby boy whose body was found buried along the banks of Ori creek Sunday afternoon by three small boys, continues to be a mystery to county officials.

Coroner J. M. Pumphrey is preparing to make an exhaustive investigation in an attempt to learn who buried the child, and to that end has made arrangements to secure from all local physicians a list of babies born the past month.

This list will then be investigated, and a process of elimination is believed that the mystery may be solved.

The autopsy held Monday afternoon by Coroner Pumphrey, assisted by Dr. H. W. Blair and Dr. J. R. Claypool, revealed that it was a newly-born child and that it had not been murdered, but had been born dead.

The skull was first examined, and it was found there was no fracture, or other marks of violence on it. It was thought when the body was first exhumed that the skull had been crushed.

A piece of the baby's lung was next taken out and placed in water. The portion immediately went to the bottom of the vessel, showing that the baby had never breathed. This is considered an infallible test.

The body was unusually large for that of a new-born babe, and until an examination was made, it was thought to be the body of a baby at least a month or six weeks old.

It had been attended by a physician, and had been dressed completely with articles of apparel exceptionally fine material. The physicians performing the autopsy were mystified as to why the attending physician had so carefully administered to the child, when there does not seem to be any doubt that it was born dead.

Coroner Pumphrey Tuesday afternoon that he has learned that there is an Italian grocer by the name of A. Glasco. This is the name that was on the shipping tag on the box the baby was buried in.

Dr. Pumphrey hoped that Glasco may shed some light on the mystery, as it is probable the box was shipped to him, and he may remember having given or sold it to someone.

Coroner Pumphrey Tuesday noon gave Undertaker McCormick permission to bury the body. It was interred at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the county division of Mount View cemetery.—Mt. Vernon Republican.

FOODSTUFF EMBARGO

Will Be Fought Out in Congress During December.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Congress in December will have to fight out the question of an embargo on foodstuffs consigned to Europe, it was made certain today. Representative Fitzgerald, of New York, chairman of the house appropriations committee, today announced that he would introduce an embargo measure covering foodstuffs when congress convenes.

He said an embargo offers the only effective way of striking back at Great Britain because of her "insupportable black-listing" of American business firms, and would also reduce the cost of living in the United States.

LILLE.

Lille, which has just celebrated the first anniversary of its German career, with the reverse pedal on, is a city of 200,000 people, located 150 miles northeast of Paris.

It is a fortified city of the "first rank" and was undented last year by twenty forts. The guns in these forts speak German as readily as they do French, which is a source of great grief to the people of Lille who have been busy paying for them for fifty years.

Lille is the most important city in northern France. In times of peace it makes linen thread, handles fax, weaves cloth, makes guns, locomotives and railroad supplies and entertains tourists. For the last year, however, it has been largely engaged in taking in boarders.

Lille probably does the largest boarding house business on earth just now. The boarders are all German and do not pay anything at present, but their credit is simply magnificent.

Lille is a very young French town, having been founded less than 900 years ago. It has some magnificent public buildings and is a very handsome town, but its main street, since the visitors came, has looked like the main street of Pompeii. However, Lille is used to being stepped on by Mars. It had scarcely gotten a good start when it was destroyed in 1213. It was rebuilt by Joanna of Constantinople, which shows that railroad connections with the Orient must have been a good deal better than they are now.

Being captured is also no novelty to Lille. It was captured in 1297, in 1667 and in 1708. The English, Dutch and Spanish have all taken Lille. This fact enables the oldest inhabitants to make great noises of themselves, comparing the present occasion with the hard times when they were boys.

The Austrians also tackled Lille in 1792, but could not take it. Because of this fact a great triumphal arch was erected. It is closed just now, however for lack of business.

"The boarders are all German."

Lille is full of factories and railroads, but it does not allow itself to sprawl frowisly over the landscape for all of this. American mayors of busy cities which average an acre of beauty per square mile of profits, should be compelled to visit Lille in times of peace, armed with a notebook weighing at least four pounds.

Short Jenks: "I feel quite normally upright. I have quit both smoking and Sunday fishing, while my pastor continues to smoke."

Some men have so much system about their work that they don't get much work done.

There being no nobility in this country, a politician's children are not apt to inherit much.

DAMAGE CASE DRAWS GREAT MANY AUDITORS.

Juror Became Ill, Delays Case—Foreign Couple Divorced in Probate Court.

The $5,000 damage case of Sallie M. Carr vs. Nell W. Olson and L. W. Olson, which began Monday before Judge Wood in the court of appeals room, has not been finished. The case was delayed Monday when one of the jurors became ill. The case was resumed Tuesday.

The plaintiff lived in an apartment at 146 Marion avenue, being a tenant of the defendants. On Feb. 24, 1914, she was overcome by gas fumes, she alleges, caused by a defective furnace in the adjoining apartment. Several witnesses are being heard. Judge Wolfe and L. H. Bean are attorneys for the plaintiff, and Attorney W. S. Meier for the defendants.

Defendant Granted Divorce. In the divorce case of Sago Vukogoritz vs. Milan Vukogoritz, tried in probate court, the defendant is given the decree on his cross petition. The court finds that the defendant is not guilty of cruelty, as alleged in plaintiff's petition. The court further:

Are First-Day Victims of Every Great Meal?

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Twelve employees of the city health department made up of an equal number of men and women today began a two weeks' experiment of living on forty cents a day each in an effort to demonstrate that the high cost of living can be vanquished.

Pledged to eschew themselves all toothsome morsels, and partake only of the scientifically prepared meals served them, they will eat no big Thanksgiving dinner this year and at the annual reception of the health department this week their diet calls for one soda cracker and as much water as they may wish.

The test began with breakfast today. The menu had been kept secret and the 12 "martyrs" anxiously sat down to their first meal. Their faces cleared, however, when they were served fresh apples, liver and bacon, one-egg muffins, butter and coffee, and were informed they could have a second helping if they desired.

For luncheon they were to have creamed or baked codfish, corn-bread, butter and coleslaw, and for dinner parsnips, cranberry sauce, rice and vegetable soup, pot roast, sauted spinach pudding and tea.

Don't forget the Alpha Bazar Dec. 8 and 9.

Tribe—We will be heavy to have a good band.

Do your Xmas shopping at the Alpha Bazar.

Next week Thursday will be Thanksgiving.

Geel! The holidays and tax paying time are in sight.

Geel! And Christmas is only four weeks ahead of us.

You certainly can find something to be thankful for next week Thursday.

Honestly, you'll never regret it if you start your Christmas shopping this week.

Wanted—Work either with team or alone. Call on Ben Christner, or phone B-66.

Plymouth has again been hit by the cost of high living—milk having been advanced to 82 per quart.

House to rent—Good house, water and gas and plenty of fruit. Enquire of Geo. Tyson.

The Alpha Sewing circle will meet Tuesday Nov. 28, with Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Granger and Mrs. Sykes, as hosts.

The Unity Bible class will meet with Mrs. Elizabeth Sykes and Miss Emma Fox, at the home of Mrs. Sykes, Dec. 6, 1915.

Will have a car load of Massillon coal on hand the last of the week. Parties wishing game should call on Ralph Snyder, New Haven.

During the winter months why not arrange to open up a rest room in Plymouth? It would be one of the biggest assets the town could have.

The W. H. & F. Missionary Society of the Lutheran church will meet in the church parlors on Monday, Nov. 29. Any members having thank offering boxes will please bring them.

If you are looking for a nice line of Christmas gifts in towels, handkerchiefs and bed goods, also, a kind of crochet cottons, go to Mrs. Geo. Seisinger's Millinery Parlors.

Cheer up! New Year's eve coming on Monday will have a great many people a good deal of money, brown taste, furred tongue and splitting headache in the cold gray dawn of the morning after.

The following articles are for sale by Mrs. Katherine Ruby: Linoleum loyds, (blue and white, never used.) Churn, 5 gallon; 23 gallon copper kettle, 2 buggy, 2 chairs, 2 chairs, wringers, kitchen sink and pump, practically new.

Plymouth people will have the opportunity of witnessing the first foot ball game here the coming Sunday afternoon on the Ellis field, when a team from Norwalk will line up against local players. The game will be called at 2:30 and the admission price will be 25c.

The tax payers of Norwich township believe in good roads. Although they have expended thousands of dollars for road improvement, and already have the best roads in the county, another issue of $50,000 worth of bonds has been voted. The proposition carried by a large majority.

There are those in every town who believe in boosting along things that stand and count for the betterment and advancement of the community in which they live. Bear in mind, there is nothing that will run itself; there is nothing that will make itself. Any town, city or community is just what its residents make it.

Even the lowly peanut has jumped in the upward climb of food prices. Wholesale dealers have been notified that Jumbo peanuts, which have been quoted at 61 cents a pound wholesale, have advanced one-half cent. When this increase reaches the retailer, he will likely make the sack of peanuts still smaller.

"Fine Feathers," a convincing play by Eugene Walters, author of "The Easiest Way" and other notable successes will be seen at the Masonic Temple Theatre, Chicago Junction, Nov. 25. The story tells of a wife's love for finery and good times despite her limited capital and during the course of its action those leeches of society, the big men who graft under the cloak of responsibility, are exposed.

There will be a meeting of farmers and rural residents at the town hall, New Haven, Monday evening, Nov. 27, at 8 o'clock, to consider the matter of organizing a Farmers Equity Union. The meeting will be addressed by Mr. Frank J. Taylor of Lima, Ohio, national director of the Farmers Equity Union of the state of Ohio. Every farmer and his family and friends and all interested in the business of farming should attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Jacobs of this city received word Wednesday morning announcing the death of their youngest daughter, Mrs. Bert Holmes, which occurred at the Bioline hospital in Chicago Junction on the above morning, and which followed an operation of the abdominal Sunday. She is survived by her husband and little son aged about 18 months, as well as her parents, three brothers and one sister. Funeral services were held from her late home in Chicago Junction, this Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock, interment being made in Maple Grove cemetery at New Haven.

Lovers of roller skating will be pleased to know that Plymouth is going to have a rink. Earl Pickering having leased Hamilton's hall for this purpose, and will open the same with a matinee Thanksgiving afternoon, and skating every afternoon and evening thereafter.

Mrs. Emma Palmer, of Irwin avenue, received a telegram Saturday announcing the sudden death from heart trouble of her sister, M. S. Chas. Myers, which occurred Saturday morning at her home in Hazyards, Ohio. She was aged 34 years and will be remembered hereabouts as Dessie Shourds.

A freak of the great fire that swept over the Scioto marsh near Kenton, some time ago, is a "busted" tree. The tree, which is said to crumble, but the ensilage, cut from the crop of 120 acres of corn land, stands upright, having been packed so tightly it did not crumble when the walls collapsed.

Richard Powers, 65, farmer, residing near Sandusky, was accidentally locked in a granary by a farm hand of this evening of last week, and his pitiable plight was not discovered until some time Saturday, when screams emanating from the granary were heard. Powers was very weak as the result of hunger and kept himself warm by wrapping himself in corn stalks, which he fortunately was in the granary.

Mrs. Florence Smith, who since the death of her husband a year or more ago, has been making her home with her sisters, the Hills girls southwest of town, was found unconscious on the floor in her bed room Tuesday morning, having suffered a paralytic stroke, having no use of her left leg whatever, and Wednesday morning as this was penned, she was still unconscious, and what the outcome will be is awaited with much concern by her many friends.

This year there are but two bushels of corn where there were three last year; there is but one bushel of wheat where there were two last year; there are but two bushels of oats where there were three last year; there are but two bushels of potatoes where there were three last year; there is but one bushel of apples where there were two last year; and with the lessening of crop, the price has been no lessening of the number of mouths to feed, and prices are going up.

We were in error last week in announcing that Burns, of the Mountains, would fill the second number of the winter recital course, at the Presbyterian church Friday evening, Dec. 1. The entertainer of this evening will be Edwin M. Whitney, reader of the "The Story of the Story Tellers." The charm of his work is his great versatility. Plenty of laughs if you want them, or tears if you prefer, but whatever they are they are given with force and refinement only to be found in one who has natural talent supplemented by years of experience. The price for the four remaining numbers has been reduced to $1.00, which is $1.00 more than the price of the first. The guarantors are far from being out on the course and Plymouth people should come forward and purchase tickets enough to relieve them of any financial loss.

A Great Reduction in Hats—Ladies' hats at $1.50, $1.00, 75c and 50c. Children's hats at 75c. Hats at Mrs. Geo. Seisinger's Millinery Parlors.

The annual union Thanksgiving service will be held in the Methodist Episcopal church next Thursday evening, beginning promptly at seven o'clock. The Methodist pastor, the Rev. C. E. Motz, will deliver the sermon and a union choir will render special Thanksgiving music. The service will be held in the evening two minutes of minor note, a majority of our people expressed a preference for the evening hour. This is a meeting for all the community, for its observance is nationwide. All our citizens and people in general are invited.

Work of funneling in the tar binder on North street was started the first of the week, and notwithstanding the cold has been progressing very nicely. By the end of the week this work will have been completed from the east as far as Porter street. This section can be thrown open to traffic, thus giving people from the east access to the town over Porter street. About 200 feet of brick still remains to be laid on the west section of the improvement, and whether or not the work will be completed this fall depends on the weather conditions from now on.

The little farm residence on what is known as the Rose place, about two miles south of Plymouth on the Bucyrus road, and which was recently purchased by a widow lady named Shields, who together with her four small children occupied the home, was totally destroyed by fire about 7:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. The fire originated from a defective flue and spread with such rapidity that only a very few of the household goods could be saved. The goods which were saved upon Mrs. Shields, as we understand no insurance was carried on the home or household goods.

The fellow who goes through life continually kicking at other people, usually is propelled into eternity by a kick from the devil. Kicking does not pay either the kicker or the fellow who is kicked. It is the justice of an unjust kick leaves many a heart-ache behind which rankles and grows into bitterness, which lasts for many months and years. At times, it comes only with the death of the victim. But the victim of the kick is not the only one who loses in the game. The kicker makes a reputation for himself with every kick he gives, and that reputation follows him through life. When the day comes that he needs the service of a friend, he often finds that he has kicked the only people to whom it is possible for him to turn. He loses because he has kicked himself out of the confidence of his fellowmen. Don't kick.

FIGHT AN 8-HOUR DAY
ROADS TO BE HARDER

Railway Counsel Says 'It Will Be a Miracle if Roads Survive Over-regulation.'

'ROADS ALWAYS WANT FIGHT'

Adamson Says Measure Will Be Held Constitutional and 'Rail Heads Better Look Out or They Might Get Into Jail.'

Washington, D. C.—That the conflict on the Adamson eight hour law will be intense grows more evident. Speaking before the national council of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, President Van Hise, of the University of Wisconsin, said the manner in which the law was passed "made his cheek burn with shame."

Before the same meeting, Representative Adamson, whose name the measure bears, defended the administration's policy. He said positively that the measure would be held constitutional by the supreme court. He declared the law is certainly going into effect Jan. 1, and that the railroads "had better look out or they might get into jail."

After leaving the Chamber of Commerce meeting, Mr. Adamson said: "The argument against the bill is all poppycock. The point that the bill is unconstitutional is a mere technicality. The constitution states that a man's property cannot be taken from him in any way. We are given authority to regulate interstate commerce."

"The law will go into effect Jan. 1. And if by any chance it is found that it is not strong enough, we will make a stronger one."

"I don't fear that the supreme court will say that the law is unconstitutional. Read back 25 years and see if any bill from our government has been declared unconstitutional. We have lawyers on our committee."

"The railroads always have wanted to fight. They find it easier to fight a small safety device. They better look out. Some of them are able to get into jail if they resist this. They find it easier to fight a law to go into the courts if they want to."

Says Law is Constitutional. "The eight-hour law is constitutional. You say at the same time the bill was passed some men in congress said it was a matter of expediency and might be changed afterwards. You say you must remember some men were very much opposed to the bill."

The feature of the law which will conflict in the speeches by Dr. Charles R. Van Hise and of Representative Adamson.

Mr. Van Hise advocated the creation of a wage commission as the solution of the railroad problem. Mr. Adamson opposed such a commission, asserting that the railroad interests themselves would not favor it on the ground that regulation of wages would include salaries of railroad officials. The railroads, he said, do not want salaries interfered with.

Mr. Adamson thought the difficulty of railroad regulation might be resolved by an enlargement of the interstate commerce commission with sufficient members to allow groups to visit different parts of the country and hold hearings and the testimony when ever disputes arise.

The department of justice announced that the bill by the railroads will be taken up in order and disposed of as quickly as possible. The cases of the Santa Fe and Union Pacific are the first to be taken up. They come up in Chicago Nov. 13, and it seems as if that city will be the initial battle ground.

The Baltimore & Ohio, New York, New Haven & Hartford and the Illinois Central have filed petitions to enjoin enforcement of the law.

Men Thought Lost Are Safe. Toledo, Ohio.—Clinton Lyon and Schlegel Bartholomew of Monroe, Mich., thought to have been lost on Lake Erie, are safe. They drifted to West Sister island and were picked up. They have arrived here. The two men left Monroe, owned by Commodore Charles Greening. Greening started a searching party for the boat and two men just before word of their safety reached him.

ADVOCATES BILLION FOR EUROPEAN WAR RELIEF

Myron T. Herrick Urges National-Wide Fund for War Sufferers in Europe.

Philadelphia, Penn.—Former Ambassador to France Myron T. Herrick electrified a distinguished audience of Philadelphians at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Stotsbury by the suggestion that the government of the United States should directly launch upon a gigantic program for the giving of aid to the sufferers in all the warring nations of Europe, the raising of an immense relief fund of a billion dollars.

He suggested the state and federal governments might even give their aid to the extent of making appropriations.

He suggested the state and federal governments might even give their aid to the extent of making appropriations.

"We were to set the mark at a billion," he said. "That would be little enough to meet the extraordinary demands of this worst calamity the world has ever known. It is often hundreds of millions that we are asked to create this gigantic charity to labor in all belligerent countries for the relief of the wounded and the destitute, its beneficent work would far overshadow all the antismites which now vex us. We should have all these nations as our friends."

The speech of the former ambassador was made before probably 200 men and women whose wealth ran into hundreds of millions. They were started first at the figures set by Mr. Herrick. Then they applauded him to the echo.

Herrick's speech was directly an appeal to the humanity of the United States and the "active neutrality" which should actuate this nation and its people in what he called the "opportunity of 10,000 years."

He spoke to the assemblage preceding the first view given in this city of the new and striking pictures showing the work of the American ambulance field service and of the American hospital in France, a picture which will be placed in public view for the raising of a fund for the American ambulance in this city.

Girl Breaks Cross-Country Record. Binghamton, New York.—Ruth Bancroft Law broke the American cross-country, non-stop record in her attempted surprise to sunset aeroplane flight from Chicago to New York.

Driving her antiquated Curtiss monoplane, she flew from Chicago to Hornell, a distance of 500 miles (air line) in 8 hours and 55 minutes. She thus captured the brief honor held by Victor Carlstrom, who on Nov. 2 flew from Chicago to Erie, Pa., 452 miles, in an attempt similar to that made by Miss Law.

Heavy Fire Damage. Monticello, N. Y.—More than $200,000 damage was done by a fire which swept Roscoe village, a summer resort town on the Ontario & Western railroad. The fire started in the Parkview building, in the center of the business section.

Train Crash Kills 159. Laredo, Texas.—A passenger train of fifty-nine persons were killed and many more or less seriously injured in a railroad wreck on the Interoceanic line to Vera Cruz, between DeWitt and San Miguel, near Jalapa, on Nov. 12, according to reliable reports received here.

STOKER-BILDER
Ailing for Months the Emperor Deified Doctors; Insisted on Directing Country's Affairs.

HAD RULED FOR 68 YEARS

Death Had Been Expected For Days; End Comes at Schornbrunn; Life Filled With Tragedies; Karl Franz New Ruler.

London, England.—Franz Josef of Hapsburg, emperor of Austria and Apostolic king of Hungary, who ruled the dual monarchy for 68 years, is dead.

Had Stormy Reign. The stormy reign of the ruler of one of the great nations now a part of the warring Teutonic allies, which has been dogged by tragedy and marred ever and again by warfare with one nation or another, is at an end.

The death of an aged emperor has been expected for days. For years he had been failing in health and his weakness increased as did the intensity of the European war. But he doggedly made an effort to take part in the last in his council in his star-struck country. Lately, however, he had been too weak.

On Nov. 12 there was received here the first intimation that he could not live long. He then was reported as suffering severely from a catarrhal ailment of the stomach, which represented that his condition was becoming worse. Vienna, to the last, however, gave out encouraging reports.

He had given some credence to the reports of his ill health was the report that the heir to the throne was to be associated with the affairs of the government beginning Dec. 2, the anniversary of Franz Josef's accession to the throne.

Last Saturday Vienna gave up all hopes of the monarch's recovery and the last sacrament of the church was administered, but despite this recognition by authorities that the end was near, Franz Josef remained out of bed until Monday.

The emperor demonstrated that he was still vigorous, despite his advancing years. He refused to give acquiescence to the orders of the attending physicians, insisting on giving daily audiences.

Aged 29 and dear in the hearts of his people, a prince of the House of Hapsburg, Archduke Karl Franz, emperor of Austria and king of Hungary.

Over the throne he ascends as emperor of Austria and king of Hungary, his assassination June 28, 1914, of his uncle, Archduke Franz Ferdinand, who was heir to the throne but whose moribund condition barred his children from succession. His death made Karl Franz heir.

Karl Franz is a grand-nephew of Emperor Franz Josef, whose death made the young man ruler. His wife, who becomes empress-queen of Austria-Hungary, was Princess Zita of Bourbon and Parma.

Archduke Karl Franz has been in command of the Austrian armies on various fronts the last two years. Emperor Karl Franz died at Vienna Aug. 17, 1887. His father was Archduke Otto Franz Josef, who died 10 years ago and was the younger brother of Franz Ferdinand.

He was brought up almost altogether under the influence and direction of the aged Emperor Franz Josef. He is the first member of the imperial house to have been educated in the public schools at Vienna, where he mixes with pupils of every class of society.

Given Wage Advance. UNITED STATES STEEL CORPORATION GRANTS THIRD RAISE IN YEAR. New York City.—Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, has announced that in this announcement is made of another increase of wages for employees of that concern. This is the third raise in wages since last year.

Harvest and Peace

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

Not only for the harvest yield We stripped from stalks in serrated ranks. We look across the quiet field And raise the anthem of our thanks. The moonlight lies along the hill, Below a silver river gleam and still. And all the night is sweet and still. And all the land in calm repose.

Not only for the bounteous store Of garnered grain we offer praise, But for the quiet sea and shore, The night of rest, the pleasant days. As year by year our acres bloom, As year by year our flocks increase, Afar from war and war's red gloom, We look upon a land at peace.

CHARMETTE

AY after day Billy McKickers sat in his studio just off the tiny park and painted away at Charmette. Together they had decided the picture must hang in the grand salon, therefore it must be wonderfully done indeed. With herself as the subject, Billy had assured her that only of course it would take time and she must be very, very quiet. "For," he explained, "you have as many different expressions as have the gods themselves, and of course I cannot paint them all. So you must fix your eyes and mind upon one thing, that your expression may always remain the same."

Whereat Charmette, being very much in love with Billy, fastened both upon him and her expression was a happy one indeed. Then when he would lay his brush aside with a little weary sigh and tell her that they were through for the sitting, she would come hopping off her pillow down and running behind him rest her chin upon the top of his head as she packed and he happily and solemnly criticized herself upon the canvas.

"And do I really look like that, Billy?" she would half whisper while he was slipping and arm around her slim waist. "Whereat he would say: "Yes, dear,—only of course much prettier. But I will be that fact out at all going along." So Charmette would tidy things up a bit, he would wash his hands, then away they would go chattering like sparrows about the wonderful time so soon to come when Billy would be of age and receive his heritage in America, for when that day came they were to be married and he was to take her back to his own land.

They had been married for a year and a half, and he had heard of it until the coming of Billy. And then came the dark time when Paris stilled and grew pale and the very ground he stepped on beneath the tread of the advancing legions.

It was evening and he was lying upon the bank of a stream that ran close by his old home. At his brook was tinkling like bells and the coolness of its waters was upon his face, but he was thirsty, and he was rolling over he buried his face in the ripples and drank interminably. Then as he turned upon his back again a splash of water struck his head, and some one was crouching over him. Then was close by him, began whispering like a hurt puppy. Endlessly the whispering continued, till, unable to endure them longer, he bent up and lay he complained cease his noise. And as he did this the fog was swept away and he found himself surrounded in the debris of a battle-wreath with the noise of the conflict still coming to him from afar. A frightful pain stabbed his brain and from his throat burst a weak moan. Then it was that he realized that he had been his own voice which had been whimpering. Then all grew dark once more.

For what seemed an eternity he listened to unseen persons whispering about him, while slowly, very slowly the darkness came to him. Then when he opened his eyes. He was lying in a clean hospital with rows of cots on every side. Once more his head was throbbing, and he was in the weakness of long illness. A nurse with a red cross upon her arm passed before him, stopped before him and smiled.

Her Expression Was a Happy One Indeed. Through Belgium they came pounding in the vastest machine ever built by man as they smashed her great fortresses like anvil beneath a juggernaut and swept over her in a great tide, rolling the defenders before them as a wave rolls before the prow of a ship. And in those terrible hours the hand of Billy left his brush and sought that of Charmette as they sat with faces turned eastward searching the sky for the rings of shell smoke which they knew must soon float in the air in grim banquet of death. Then it was that one morning the girl came to him with a letter in her hand and tears flooding her blue eyes.

"They have destroyed my home, and my old father and mother are outcasts. I must go to them. Good-bye, Billy," she sobbed. He kissed her. "Be sure and come to me with you." She only pushed him away, smiling to a regiment of red-trousered soldiers that was hurrying to the front. "No, no! Do not go to the front. I am a military training in your own country. Tomorrow you must join the army of France."

"But you?" he pleaded, and broke down. She returned his kiss. "If we are both alive we will find each other upon your great day of thanksgiving two weeks away. And until then— But there is a need of going into their parting, for the last words of love are sacred. However, three days later she was in Belgium and he was marching and counter-marching in that wonderful unknown army which even the eagle eyes of the enemy's spies had not discovered; the army of minute men which lay hidden behind Paris.

Came the day when the hot breath of advancing hosts was in the very eyes of the great capital upon the Seine. In companies, regiments, battalions and divisions they came in an endless martial sea, sweeping the legions of the red-troop before them each day. And then it was that the great French general sprang his trap. In cars, buses, automobiles and by every means which ingenuity could devise, the secret army from behind the city was rushed to the front. Billy, in the midst of it, heard the rumble and grinding of the battle front fall away, and scenting it felt the hair on the back of his head bristle as it does upon a dog when he smells a wolf. Then in the greatest surge that swept over him the thought of Charmette, and tears blinded him as he imagined her so tender and helpless and so lonely in her desolate country; and with it a longing vast and unutterable to throw down his gun and go rushing blindly away. In search of her that he might take her in his arms and bear her away from all this hell to the peace and happiness that had been theirs through the long summer when the days had fallen softly as thistledown. God! how he hated it all—this war and blood and carnage. And then without knowing where he happened found himself rushing forward into a gray murk with thousands of his companions on either side. "Oh, Billy! Billy!" she cried. "It is all days in one; the day of your inheritance; the day of your birth; the day of our marriage—your marvelous Thanksgiving!"

He relaxed upon his pillows and a smile came creeping over his face. "Jolly old Thanksgiving," he whispered. (Copyright, 1916, Western Newspaper Union.)

DAY MEANT FOR WEDDING

At Thanksgiving Time One Should Weigh His Motives and Ability to Help His Fellow Men. The true meaning of a national Thanksgiving day is often misunderstood. To some it is merely a day for bagging a few quail, squirrels, or other wild game. To others it is a day to indulge in some recreation and enjoy a square meal. To some it is a day for recounting our material gains over our less fortunate brothers during the fleeting year. There are other various notions as to the real purpose of a Thanksgiving day each year.

Whatever may be the ideal purpose of a real Thanksgiving day, it should be one as full as possible of good cheer, but to employ the day in recounting our material achievements—gains and losses—is a sin with the blackest tint of egotism. The true meaning of Thanksgiving means more than the duty which each individual owes to the Creator every day of his years. It is a day when each person should weigh his motives along with his ability to help his fellow man in his own individual way, and to render thanks for not only the goodness which has befallen him, but to pledge with it an effort to strive to be a greater blessing to the community in which he lives, than any previous year.—Exchange.

PREPAREDNESS. The Best Blessing. We need to be on our guard at the Thanksgiving season against an exaggeration of the importance of material blessings. A big yield of corn or wheat is not to be congratulated in weighing our national blessings, with an awakened public conscience. Added material comforts in the home are a potent stimulant to our sympathy and understanding between the different members of the family. It is well to thank God for bountiful harvest and comfortable homes, but our best gratitude be kept for the higher things, the blessings of the spirit.

"And so your mind has awakened at last," he murmured softly. "It has been many weeks. For a long time we feared you would die, but it seems that you are to get well."

"And where am I?" he managed to say. "In Paris. This is the hospital for wounded Americans. And by the way, a friend has just arrived, your wife, waiting for several days. I will bring her."

But she had no time to bring. Down the aisle a girl came running to throw herself upon her knees by his bedside.

"Oh, Billy! Billy!" she cried. "It is all days in one; the day of your inheritance; the day of your birth; the day of our marriage—your marvelous Thanksgiving!"

CHIEFS MEET PRESIDENT

Organized Workers of the Country Pledge Themselves to Back William; Will Fight Court Decision "Labor is Property."

Washington, D. C.—The American Federation of Labor with its membership of more than 1,000,000 has filed for the first time...

While the conference at the White House was in progress the delegates to the convention of the American Federation of Labor at Baltimore unanimously adopted a resolution pledging the federation to disregard and defy any injunction that may be issued which is "founded on the dictum that labor is property."

Powerful Methods Foreseen. The amalgamation of the railroad brotherhoods with the American Federation of Labor...

The controversy involving the future of the entire transportation business of the country overshadows all other matters to come before the approaching session of congress...

Railway owners, employes, publicists, economists and representatives of commercial organizations in all parts of the United States appeared before the joint congressional committee to give official notice of their desire to be heard on matters of railway legislation ranging from government ownership to rate controversies.

When the joint committee began its sessions Senator Newlands said: "Force Must Settle Fight."

"It is evident that the only method of settling disputes between the railroad and their employes is by resort to force."

This announcement attracted the utmost interest because there had been doubt whether the committee would file disposed to go into this phase of the railroad problem.

After receiving the brotherhood heads and Chairman Adamson, author of the eight-hour law, President Wilson virtually flashed his message to congress in which he will recommend completion of the railway legislative program he has already outlined.

These recommendations include provisions for the enlargement of the interstate commerce commission and for compulsory arbitration of interstate strikes. The latter is bitterly opposed by the brotherhood leaders.

Railroad executives figured only inconspicuously in activities here. Representatives appeared before the senate interstate commerce committee and learned that their spokesman will be heard on the subject of the problem generally next Thursday.

ADMITS SINKING ARABIA

SEMI-OFFICIAL REPORT SAYS A GERMAN SUBMARINE SENT THE BOAT DOWN

Washington, D. C.—Announcement by the semi-official Overseas News agency that a German submarine sank the British liner Arabia made a deep impression in official quarters here and apparently removed all possibility that this might cause its place with that of the Persia, sunk in the Mediterranean in some manner never cleared up.

The British admiralty said the Persia was torpedoed without warning, but none of the central powers would admit responsibility for the sinking.

Officials were loath to discuss the matter in the absence of official information, which it is understood is being sought from all sources.

Hughes Home for Sale. Washington, D. C.—For sale or rent. This sign of a large real estate firm appears on the residence of Charles E. Hughes, 2100 16th St., N. W.

It means that Mr. Hughes has decided he will not live in Washington unless at 1613 Pennsylvania Ave., the official street number of the White House.

According to friends here of the former supreme court justice, he will be associated with a large law firm in New York.

CONTROL ROAD TO BUKHAREST

French and Serbs Continue Pursuit of Bulgarians in Macedonia; Teutonic Positions on Acre Bombarded by Allies.

Amsterdam, Holland.—The capture by Gen. Von Falkenhayn of the important town of Craiova in western Wallachia is claimed by Berlin and admitted by Petrograd, seals the doom of Roumania, military critics believe. Roumanian armies, are reported retreating near Filidaria, about 40 miles northwest of Craiova.

This is one of the most important moves the Roumanians have made in the Roumanian campaign and military experts are of the opinion the Roumanian force which had been operating in the Orsova region seriously imperiled, if not entirely cut off.

These experts say the capture of Craiova clinches the Austro-German hold upon a large section of western Wallachia and means the cutting off of the important Roumanian forces from their line of retreat by the railroad. The railroad running through Craiova to Bukharest affords the only convenient line of retreat for the Orsova and Filidaria region.

The loss of Craiova effectively bars their way eastward, except across country. Further eastward in Wallachia the arrival of the Orsova region strengthened the Roumanian defense. The Russians took the offensive north of Campulung, according to Berlin, but were repulsed. The Roumanians are resisting persistently in the Alt valley south of Rothernsberg pass, but the most important military positions to Gen. Von Falkenhayn's troops.

Still Pursue Bulgarians. On the Macedonian front, French and Serbian troops are continuing their pursuit of the German and Bulgarian forces which evacuated Monastir and retreated to the east. Berlin reports the entente advance here as a "feeling out" of the German-Bulgarian positions by reconnoitering detachments. The new line is indicated by press dispatches to lie about 17 miles northward of Monastir, and is reported to be strongly entrenched and defended in part by fresh German forces.

East of the Monastir region, Berlin declares Serbian attempts to advance were repulsed. West of Monastir the Italians, according to Paris, repulsed a counter attack.

The German positions on both sides of the Acre and the St. Pierre Vaast wood were shelled heavily by the allies, the war office announces. There was a slight yield in artillery activity in the Champagne.

The repulse of an Austro-German attack on the Russian line in the wooded Carpathians. According to Petrograd's statement on operations along the western Russian front.

The repulse of two attacks by the German and Austro-German forces on the Carso front is announced by Rome.

Examination for Lumber Experts. The examination of lumber experts are being held in various American cities in an effort of the government to select a number of expert witnesses to visit American lumber markets. A scientific study of what the lumber needs of Europe will be at the close of the war. The investigation of the European lumber market is to be made under the direction of the federal trade commission, the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce and the leading American lumber associations of the country. The examination is being conducted under civil service rules.

Lands See Dry Nation. St. Louis, Missouri.—Judge Kenesaw E. Landis of Chicago, who is residing in the East St. Louis court, declared national prohibition was coming, and added that "it would be a damned good thing."

It has just been told that Bryan had predicted that a federal constitutional prohibition amendment probably would be ready for passage in the next session. "I think it is a reasonable prediction," said Judge Landis.

Rescue Passengers and Crew. Dover, England.—Fifty-three passengers and crew of the American steamer Siberia, stranded on the Goodwin Sands, have been rescued by the Kingsdown lifeboat. The rescued persons had a distressing experience during the 24 hours they were on the steamer awaiting assistance.

Men Won't Strike. East Liverpool, Ohio.—Twenty-five men in 26 parties of East Liverpool and Wellsville, O., Chester and Newell, W. Va., announce that, by a vote of 145 to 149, they have accepted the manufacturers' offer of a 10 per cent wage increase, thus avoiding a strike.

If the wage raise been rejected, a strike would have occurred, suspending operations in all potteries in this district and affecting approximately 20,000 persons engaged in the pottery works.

BIRSKY and ZAPP. By MONTAGUE GLASS

"THE HIGH cost of living is terrible expensive nowadays," Louis Birsky the real estate remarked, as he seated himself opposite Barnett Zapp in Wasserbauer's restaurant. This observation had been provoked by a notice in the bill of fare that on and after a certain date the 40 cent regular dinner would be increased to 50 cents. Zapp looked up from a plate of lobster soup to inquire Birsky's sentiment with a nod so emphatic that drops of the greasy fluid were scattered all around.

"I bet yer," Zapp said, cleaning his mustache with his lower lip. "Only this mornin' I see it costs Marcus Fast two thousand dollars for an automobile."

"You don't tell me!" Louis exclaimed. "And Harris Shapohlak met also to pay for some diamonds fifteen hundred dollars." Zapp continued, while Birsky wagged his head from side to side, and made incoherent noises through his nose indicative of shocked surprise.

"I always thought them two fellers were scattered all around," he commented. "A couple of tighter propositions don't exist at all," Zapp agreed.

"What do they do to get rich and buy all them things?" Birsky asked. "Who says they bought 'em?" Zapp asked. "All I says is that Marcus Fast pays two hundred dollars for an automobile and Harris Shapohlak pays five hundred dollars for some diamonds, understand me, but it was Jacob J. Robbford who bought the automobile and Sam Pittz bought the diamonds. Also I could prove it to you, buy on white."

Here he produced a clipping which read as follows:

BUSINESS TROUBLES. Rebfield & Pittz—Schedules in the bankruptcy of Rebfield & Pittz, cloak and suit manufacturers, were filed in the office of the clerk of the United States District Court yesterday. The principal creditors are as follows: Franco-American Woolen Co., $10,000; Rosenthal Bank, secured, $10,000; M. Fast & Co., $2,000; S. S. Shapohlak, $12,000.

"What did them Franco-American people pay for?" Birsky asked. "A steam yacht?"

"I couldn't tell you exactly," Zapp replied, "but you could reckon twenty-five hundred dollars that Mrs. Rebfield must go to go to Palm Beach a year ago, understand me, and another couple thousand that Bertha Pittz is the Belle of the Boardwalk in Arverne last summer, Birsky, and that's the way it goes."

"Then two boys certainly lived beyond their means," Zapp said. "And it ain't their fault that they didn't live beyond their means, Birsky, he's got a downtown conscience and an uptown confidence."

That's why when Rebfield buys his automobile on Broadway and Fifty-seventh Street for net cash, he didn't worry about the way he got it. A couple of Canal Street woolen lunatics like Marcus Fast and Harris Shapohlak."

"Ain't it funny how most of them extravagant fellers is got such an elegant reputation for good pay?" Birsky said. "On the West Side about Forty-second Street," Zapp answered. "And that's what I'm telling you, Birsky. Marcus Fast pays for Rebfield's automobile just so sure as if he would of 'em."

"He Owek?"

"He didn't worry himself how Much He Owek?"

"He made out a check to the order of the feller that sold it, Birsky, and all them diamonds Bertha Pittz wears should ought to be hanging on Mrs. Shapohlak's right ear. In fact, Mrs. Shapohlak don't know it, Birsky, but Sam Pittz stole them diamonds from her."

Birsky shrugged his shoulders deprecatingly.

"You ought to be careful what you are saying, Zapp," he advised. "From a big mouth many a feller comes to pay fifty dollars for a smart lawyer to get a libel case thrown out of court already."

"A rabbi would tell you the same what I do, Birsky. The difference between a smart thief and a feller which lives beyond his means is that the sneak thief robs only from perfect strangers."

"What do you mean—robbing?" Birsky protested. "According to you, if a feller buys a couple thousand dollars goods which he needs in his business, understand me, on credit sixty days, 'n' understand me, then he couldn't pay for 'em, understand me, he is robbing already. An idee!"

"I didn't say no such thing," Zapp declared. "All I says is if a feller buys a couple thousand dollars goods which he needs in his business on sixty days' credit, and he couldn't pay for 'em on account he is buying for net cash, an automobile which he didn't need and couldn't afford, understand me, then he is robbing, Birsky, and that's all there is to it."

"How do you know Rebfield gives cash for the automobile, Zapp?" "Question!" Zapp exclaimed. "Automobiles is always sold for cash, Birsky, in especially to fellers which couldn't afford an automobile, understand me, because if such a feller would buy one on ten days' credit only—"

"Mind!" because for a thousand dollars only, Zapp, you could get a car and thirty-five horsepower already, five passenger-bay, electric self-starter and lighter and everything up to date. Such a car is a go-winner bargain at one thousand dollars."

"If you could afford the thousand dollars, Birsky," Zapp said, "which way the real estate business is dead nowadays, Birsky, you've got about as much chance as I've got to buy a thousand dollar automobile."

Birsky hid the lower one-third of his blushes in a cup of coffee. "The fact is," he said at last, "I've got maturing on me this week for fifteen hundred dollars an endowment policy, Zapp, and if you would come up to my house next Sunday morning I'll take a little run out to Ozone Grove, and I'll show you them lots I was talking to you about."

"You mean them lots they threatened last month to foreclose on you, Birsky?" Zapp asked.

Birsky's face grew a shade more crimson. "I paid 'em two hundred dollars a bonus, and they gave me a three-year extension," he explained huskily and gulped down the remainder of his coffee.

"How much was that mortgage?" Zapp inquired.

"Just fifteen hundred dollars," Birsky admitted.

"And do you think you would get the kind deal, perform the duty of the home."

There is More Fellers Feels Like Committing Murder the Day After One Delicetessen Supper.

and in between times his rent or life insurance falls due, understand me, it's a hell of a job to get out of riding in the automobile, that right away he finds out the linings ain't up to sample or the buttons ain't sewed on right for cash. Birsky never gets no cancellations from nobody."

"Never mind, Zapp. You would see that pretty soon the automobiles will be sold at auction. Few are going to be so crazy to buy automobiles, now that gasoline is shovled up so high," Birsky said.

"Well, that don't change my plan no way," Zapp replied. "Because the way the waist business is after Christmas, Birsky, if I owned the Hudson River suit automobiles was run with water, wouldn't a feller be better off putting up the money for gas, Birsky, than to pay more on gasoline, they stick two cents a pound on pastrami over Frankfurters."

"The again is something for a manufacturer of sodasmit or pepsin tablets to worry about, not me, Birsky. Anyhow, Birsky, if clear stores don't sell cigarettes to mix with the sugar of the age of sixteen, there ought to be a law prohibiting delicetessen dealers from selling their machobos to suits and the age of twenty-two."

"Even so, Zapp, there's lots of fellers in the delicetessen business which is obliged to run automobile deliveries, and for every penny they've got to pay more on gasoline, they stick two cents a pound on pastrami over Frankfurters."

the money when the three years is up?" Zapp insisted.

"I don't know," Birsky retorted, "and I don't care, Zapp. Because we only live once, Zapp, and we are soon dead."

"Sooner, even," Zapp concluded, "if you ride fast enough in automobiles."

Pearl Fishers. It is a well-known fact that pearl divers do not need to do much work. They often have to dive for 100 feet or more without any special outfit, and the strain wears them out before their heads are even in the water. From a depth of 100 feet a pearl diver usually brings up two oyster shells at a time. It is exciting work. The diver never knows what he has brought to the surface a shell including a priceless gem or not. The Malay pearl divers, are perhaps, the finest in the world. When he is going to dive, the diver slowly lowers himself down from the side of the boat to the water and takes several breaths, each breath getting deeper and deeper. Finally, he takes a tremendously long breath, turns head downward, and plunges into the ocean depths. In two, three or perhaps four minutes his form is seen in the water coming up. His face is turned up. His strong hands beat the water away from under him in vigorous downward sweeps. His face looks terrible strained. At last, breathless and exhausted, he reaches the surface and is hauled into the boat, where he lies for a few moments, apparently exhausted. But in comparative few minutes he is ready to plunge again.

As Bad as a Mule. "Yee," said the mighty humor, "it's an old gun, I grant you. But what times we've had together!" He fondled the old gun and barrel, as if it were a child. "Ab, many a time I might have been a dead man but for this out-of-date weapon?"

"I took care of it," said the young soldier. "Oh, I should say so! It's got the fastest recoil of any rifle ever had. That's what makes it so valuable. It's once out in the Rockies a grizzly bear was charging me. I fired—and missed. The bear met it head-on, and he died. The fact that the kick in this rifle jerked me back thirty yards and enabled me to reload—well, I shouldn't be talking about it." "Yes; it's got a great deal of kick!"

Then they arose and gave him and his gun another.

DO IT NOW, GOOD WATCHWORD

Habit of Procrastination Has Never Yet Failed to Bring Train of Evils in Its Wake.

"Sometime" is a useful word that is often overworked, remarks the Milwaukee Journal. One says, "Sometime I will do it," but the time never comes. Sometime is no time when a big deed is to be done. Sometime is no time when a definite task is to be done. A thing put off beyond its rightful time exacts a penalty from you by right to other duties. One may think he is gaining time by postponing the duty of the hour. In fact, he is wasting time. "Tomorrow" and ever "tomorrow" has been the ruin of many. Do now the thing that should be done now. Have you had a quarrel, and are you ready for reconciliation? Do not postpone it. The other person may get hardened in his views and become unwilling to be reconciled. He may die and you ready for reconciliation? Do not postpone it. His views and become unwilling to be reconciled. He may die and you ready for reconciliation? Do not postpone it. His views and become unwilling to be reconciled. He may die and you ready for reconciliation? Do not postpone it.

His Magnificent Memory. "Children," spake-ol'd the ancient man, "I am remember-just as well as if it was yesterday, when I was a boy, and beef-steak and potatoes were so cheap that we had 'em at our house every day, and we were always permitted to eat all we wanted of 'em. Oh, I tell ye, I've got a wonderful—"

The Costs of Elections.

Fifty million dollars, at the lowest estimate was spent in 1916 on our quadrennial political jag. It is a moderate estimate, for, by being a little far fetched, it could be doubled. It may, indeed, amount to a cool hundred million. But a total expenditure of fifty million means an expense of $3.50 per voter and 50c per capita for the entire population. It can be defended on the Tom Reed theory that this is a fifty-million-dollar country.

Laws of recent years enacted by congress and most of the states requiring the filing of sworn statements of the origin and disposition of campaign funds have lately, for the first time in the history of the nation, made available fairly accurate data on the high cost of politics in this country.

Politics comes highest in presidential election years, not only because of the large expenditures of the national committee, but because three-fourths of the 100,000 and more elective officers—national, state, county, municipal—are filed at or about the same time. Indeed, scarcely more than 5 per cent of the total cost of politics for the country, as a whole this year, was borne by the big party committees.

Some 200,000 individuals were seeking offices in the United States. All spent some money and money was spent by others for a great many of them. There was several thousand "campaign committees" of various kinds and quality.

Cup of Salt Brings $2.

Correcting the misconception held by many that Alaska is a region of ice and snow, Dr. E. S. Sherman, in a recent talk before the pharmaceutical club of the Ohio State University, said that all kinds of berries, fruits and vegetables are raised along the coast, which does not have a cold climate.

"Mining and salmon canning are the main industries in Alaska," he said. "The white people in Alaska are chiefly from the western part of the United States and the Alaskan towns resemble those of the western states. The gold fever strikes booming towns and changes them over night. At one place where gold prospectors rumbled in, the scarcity of food boosted prices until $9 bought six cups of flour and $2 one cup of salt."

Change in Fifty Years.

Fifty years ago, Jacob Flowers and Miss Mary Heinrich drove five miles to Gallon to be married at the Methodist parsonage. The mud came over the hubs of their buggy wheels. Flowers and his wife drove to Gallon over the same route on the fifth anniversary of their wedding.

This time they rode in an auto. On the same spot where they were married the ceremony was repeated. Mrs. Carlone Glover, a bridesmaid at the wedding, came from Boulder, Colo., to the golden wedding. The Flowers had lived in one house since their wedding day.

What would he give for the coffee you serve?

Like a million other women, you can serve coffee that he would give most anything to have—coffee which starts the day "right" for all.

Everyone loves the rich flavor of Arbuckles' Coffee. Of all the coffees in America today, it is by far the most popular!

One woman says: "My husband used to swallow his coffee and hurry off. Now we have Arbuckles' and you'd think it was Sunday the way he lingers over his breakfast."

Until you try Arbuckles' you will never know what a difference good coffee can make in your home.

Today there are whole towns where Arbuckles is practically the only coffee used. In one State, alone, in a year, four pounds of Arbuckles' Coffee was used for every man, woman and child in the State—four times as many pounds of coffee as the population of the State! Arbuckle Bros., New York.
