

To the Voters of Richland County.

I am running for my second term for County Surveyor and it has been the custom of both political parties to elect a man for second term who has done the good.

I first ask the voters to investigate my record as an Engineer, my manner of conducting my office and most important my manner of supervision of construction.

A small percent of voters have read business with the County Surveyor and few people really know what his duties consist of.

At the present time the condition of the work in progress and the time of year makes it almost impossible for me to make a campaign, and I will accept defeat before I will neglect my duties.

That the intelligent voter may be able to properly pass on this matter and appreciate the seriousness of change to and educating an inexperienced man for this position, I will mention a few of the many duties.

The County Surveyor is County Highway Superintendent. He has general charge of all maintenance, construction, repair, estimates, alteration, and everything connected with highways and bridges. He has charge of all surveys, plans, estimates, contracts and supervision for all township roads, and for all County roads.

He must keep a separate account of all the various jobs if he is able and willing to and he should be able at any time to know just where the township stands as to its status. I invite the public to investigate my system of bookkeeping.

He must file all bills for the payment of road and bridge work and this job comes twice each month. He must make up all pay rolls for state construction, engineering, maintenance and force accounts separately.

He must order and inspect all material for all classes of roads or he must be able to instruct inspectors, engineers and assistants as to the manner of doing this work. He is engineer for eighteen boards of township trustees and he must instruct them as to all road and bridge work.

He has general charge of sixty-two road superintendents and he is supposed to be able to instruct them as to the manner of grading, dragging and maintaining roads and bridges. The most important of all, he is the executive officer for the Board of County Commissioners. A boy's job, eh?

He is in charge this year over $300,000 worth of road improvement and about $20,000 in bridges and owing to the fact that the road superintendents and inspectors on this work are either unwilling or unqualified to properly handle this work, I have been unable to give the maintenance and repair of earth roads the proper amount of supervision.

Last spring was the worst spring we have ever experienced for earth or poke rick roads and I must complain that the township trustees and the road superintendents for the condition of most earth roads. Although there are a great many bad roads, the worst of the worst was for labor Richland county has ever experienced and the road superintendents and contractors could not accomplish all that was contracted under the labor conditions.

During the next four years, Richland county will invest about $1,000,000 in improved roads; do you want to educate an inexperienced man for this job or do you want the benefit of my 24 years experience?

Compare my experience with my opponent's eight years of teaching country school, going to school, driving cart, wool horse blanket with hood, grindstone, corn sheller, copper kettle, 2 brass kettles, 3 ft ladder, Round Oak heating stove, gas heating stove, gasoline range, 12 ft extension table, 4 beds, 20 yds rag carpet, lounges, chairs, and numerous other articles not mentioned. Terms made known on day of sale.

How many things do I put before my religious duties? Have I ever tried giving one tenth of my income to the Lord? The regular services will be held next Sunday. To the Voters of Richland County:

It has been impossible for me to make a thorough canvass of the county and I take the method of sending a message to the voters. I want them to know that I will appreciate their votes on November 7th and it will be my earnest desire to conscientiously and thoroughly administer the duties devolving upon the Coroner of Richland County if elected.

I have practiced medicine in Richland County, both in the north and south ends of the county and in Mansfield for 17 years. I invite an inspection of my ability to perform the duties of the office.

Obituary.

Caroline Ervin was born in Cranberry township, Crawford county, Oct. 22, 1846, and departed this life Oct. 28, 1916, aged 70 years and 4 days. She was the fourth child in a family of ten.

The deceased was married to Arthur B. Vier, March 21, 1872. To this union were born three children, O. E. and W. J. of New Haven, and Mrs. C. E. Blake of Cleveland.

Besides the children, there remain to mourn their loss, two grandchildren, Ray Sheeley of Cleveland, and Clarence Sevier of New Haven; two brothers, E. H. Ervin of Plymouth, and Silas Ervin of Prescott; one daughter, Mrs. Harriet Drake of Prescott, Iowa. Her husband died March 9, 1914.

Her last illness began two years ago last July. Her health did not improve, so a year ago the home was sold and she came to New Haven to live with her son, Oran. Here her children did all in their power to lighten the weary weeks of suffering, gladly repaying in a small measure her loving care and devotion to them.

The funeral services were held Saturday at 1 p. m. at her son's home, Rev. C. E. Mott officiating. Interment was made in Greenleaf cemetery.

CARD. We desire to thank every one who assisted in any way during the illness, death and burial of our mother, Mrs. C. E. Blake, W. J. B. Vier, O. E. B. Vier and Family.

CANDIDATE OF THE PEOPLE IS JUDGE E. L. PORTERFIELD

"A SPLENDID, PATRIOTIC AMERICAN," SAYS GOVERNOR WILLIS

Voters in the six counties of the Seventeenth congressional district who have decided that William A. Ashbrook has been sufficiently honored in having been permitted to serve five terms in congress and that there is no justification for electing him to a SIXTH term are particularly fortunate in having opportunity on Nov. 7 to cast their vote for a man who is in every way competent to serve this important district in congress in a manner which will be most satisfactory to the people and which will reflect credit upon the district that he represents.

JUDGE E. L. PORTERFIELD Candidate for Congressman in Seventeenth District.

Judge E. L. Porterfield, of Delaware, who is the Republican nominee for congressman in the Seventeenth district, to succeed William A. Ashbrook, is, as Governor Willis says of him, "one of the common people—a splendid, patriotic American." He is distinctly one of the popularly known as a self-made man, and his splendid physique bespeaks the early training of the farm on which he was reared.

He was born near Ashley, Delaware county, and his boyhood combined the pleasures and the hard work of the farm. At the age of 13 he began teaching school and after teaching in country schools for six years he taught in the Ashley village schools for seven years, having in the meantime taken up the study of law. He also, while teaching, found time for the study of such branches as made it possible for him to stand an examination and secure a law teachers' certificate from the state. It was before being admitted to the practice of law that Lee Porterfield, as he is known among his acquaintances, ran for the republican nomination as probate judge of Delaware county and defeated the seven attorneys who opposed him for the nomination. He served as probate judge for two terms of three years each, his second election having been without Democratic opposition.

Of his home life it may be said that Judge Porterfield is married and has two daughters. He is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and is vice president of the men's Bible class of the Abury M. E. church of Delaware. His fraternal affiliations are with the Elks and the Knights of Pythias lodges.

In an endorsement of Judge Porterfield signed by a number of the leading citizens of Delaware, including city officials, bankers, physicians, attorneys, veterans, manufacturers and merchants, it is stated that

The Probate Court and Third Term

The chief objections against probate cases seem to raise against Judge Rowley for re-election to the Probate Court is that he is a candidate for a third term.

But they utterly fail to realize the progress in this office is considerably different from any other county offices, as a glance over the state will show.

Probate Judge Hadden, of Cleveland, a Republican, is running for his fourth term, and is unpopular with the Democrats. Judge Shane of Secaucus is running for his third term. Judge Conroy of Fremont, is serving his fourth term. The late Judge Hirman of Elvira, served continuously for about thirty years, and countless other instances can be offered.

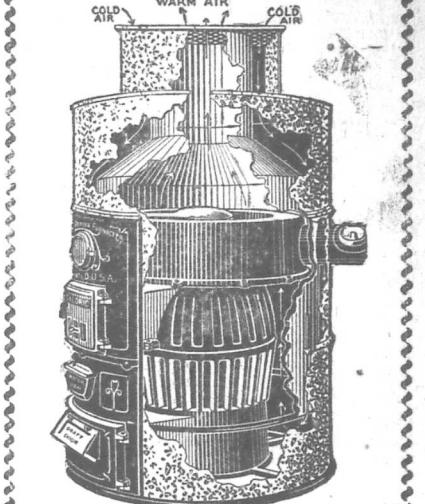

In Huron County, Judge Knean served three terms, and Judge D. H. Fox five terms. The fact is, this office and that of Suror have not been so regarded even in this county.

Whatever prejudice there may be as to the usual county offices, should not exist in regard to judicial office, especially under the recent laws which take it out of the old category and provide for a separate and special ballot. To regard it as formerly is to make it the football of politics and to assert that experience should give way to inexperience.

Adv. How many who daily handle the little "penny" or copper cent, know that the Indian upon one side is not an Indian head at all, but is the head of a little Anglo-Saxon girl, Sarah Longacre who lived in Philadelphia in 1825 when a competition was opened for designs for a new copper cent about to be issued. It was said one thousand designs were submitted. James Barton Longacre was an engraver in the United States mint in Philadelphia from 1825 to 1850, and had his little daughter pose for the design, and at that time an old Indian chief was a great friend to the Longacre family and had little Sarah put on his head dress of feathers. Get that penny out of your pocket and look at the face of the little Philadelphia girl, who posed for the design. See how sweet she looks under her hat of feathers.

Their Care and Cultivation

A Beautiful Flower Garden.

POINTS IN POTTING PLANTS

By EVA RYMAN-GAILLARD.

Plants grown for beauty of their foliage should be given rather large pots, holding plenty of rich soil, while those grown for blossoms should be in smaller ones.

Root-bound plants seem to produce more and finer blossoms, but this should not be construed to mean keeping them so tightly root-bound that they starve to death.

When the pot is full of roots shift the plant to one an inch or two larger, and fill the space with good soil.

Never fill a pot so full of soil that the water runs off the top instead of settling into the soil. Leave a space vacant in the top of the pot, an inch or more, according to the size of the pot and the amount of water needed by the plant.

For plants having hard, woody stems, the soil may be level on the surface, and no harm is done as the water standing around the stem will not injure it, but for soft, crown-rooted plants like the primrose, the soil should be higher in the center than at the edge.

It is well, too, to avoid pouring water into the crown of the plant, as the manner in which the leaves come up makes them drain the water down into the crown of the plant, and produce pieces of sod on them to hold them in place. If this is not done, they will be sure to spring back to an upright position before you get them covered.

Cover with dry earth to the depth of four inches. If leaves are used, it will be necessary to make a little pan to confine the leaves.

After covering the bushes with soil leaves provide a second covering of boards, or something that will shed rain. If water is allowed to settle into the soil above the bushes, and remain there, they will be greatly injured by it. One must plan to keep the covering as dry as possible. This is of the greatest importance. If the ground is not well drained, make little ditches between your plants in the fall, for surplus to run into.

If tiny seedlings are to be potted off, the thumb not may be best for the first transplanting, but even here I would use small, shallow boxes for "flats" until the second or third transplanting would bring the plants up to where they are ready for the three-inch pots, or the open ground.

The commercial grower who must economize in space, and give constant attention to the plants, has use for the smallest pots, but they are a nuisance to the average grower of plants.

Plants grown for beauty should be given rather large pots.

Plants Grown for Beauty Should Be Given Rather Large Pots.

duce what is known as "crown-rot," which kills all buds which form.

Much is said of using "thumb pots" in which to root cuttings, but (after rooting hundreds) I prefer three-inch pots to the smaller ones.

Or, you can heap the earth against it, on the side toward which you propose to bend it, and over this the canes can be bent. I prefer this method because it does not disturb the roots. The earth should not be as high where it touches the plant as it is a few inches from it.

The object is to form a support of soil which will enable you to curve the bushes over it, thus avoiding the sharp sudden bends which do so much injury to one's plants.

Lay all the bushes in one direction, placing the stalks close together. By doing this, much covering can be saved.

When the plants are laid down,

COLD FRAMES FOR WINTERING PLANTS

By L. M. BENNINGTON.

Successful gardening depends on early production. Cold frame plants are more certain to live than hotbed plants and give a larger per cent of good stuff than do the more tender hotbed plants.

To construct one use two frames instead of one. The larger frame is four and one-half feet by seven and one-half feet and one foot deep. The inner one is one foot smaller each way and only eight inches deep.

The space all around the inner frame, six inches wide, is filled with dry sawdust well packed down.

The covering for the inner frame is a glass-covered sash made to fit quite close to the frame to exclude the air.

The outer frame is covered with an oiled canvased frame so as to be waterproof.

A strip of carpet, or other good material, is kept over the inner sash in severe weather.

We prefer shallow frames to keep the plants from growing spindling.

We choose a location free from cold winds and where a good exposure to the sun can be had.

In such a frame there are 3,276 square inches, and allowing three square inches to the plant, one can have over 1,000 plants per frame.

Good rich soil is used and the under soil is given light to the plants by removing the outer sash, and if safe we raise the inner sash to admit fresh air.

These frames are not expensive where one can do his own work and they add a good per cent to the investment.

GOOD SCHEME WENT WRONG FULL OF SPIRIT OF REVOLT

On the Next Occasion Mr. Wibbits Will Pick Out a More Trustworthy Messenger.

Deep Feeling Against Injustice Was a Factor in the Career of Bobbie Burns.

"I am sorry the doctor says that I have to be alone on my holidays," Wingram Wibbits said to his wife as he unpacked his trunk again to put a collar stud in. "But at least, if I can't have you with me I can send you a postcard every day with pictures of the sea and things on them, excepting on Sundays, of course."

She kissed him for his unselfishness and he departed. She got the entire 12 postcards, one for each week day, and all with lovely views of the same view, the sea.

When he returned home, peeling handsomely from sunburn, his first question was: "You got all my cards, I hope?"

"All twelve, Wingram," she replied. "The views of that wave were lovely and I appreciated the handwriting as much as ever, and the dates were all put in beautifully, but still—"

"Yes, Malina?"

"Well, you must have given them to a awful sufferer to post for you to save you the trouble. He posted them all on one day, just as you wrote them, and I got the whole lot two days after you left."

Exercising himself, Wingram called a taxicab and rode 13 miles out into the country and sat on a fence with his thoughts.

Revolt was temperamental and chronic in Burns. Sometimes this revolt was followed by a reaction of feeling; then the baffled rebel could only fall back upon resignation, as on a fustian that man was made to moan, and "death the poor man's dearest friend, the kindest and the best"; but this revolt was a constant factor in Burns' career.

It made him the fiery democrat, the Whig partisan; it got him into trouble by tempting him to approve in public of the earliest outbursts of the French revolution.

And yet revolt was restrained in him by profound insight of the law of compensation. He perceived that honest poverty, clean, well mannered, blessed with reverence, was never the fit object of pity, for the poor, on the average, were lazier happy than the rich.

AN IMPORTANT ISSUE.

Not only to attain a high standard of efficiency but to maintain our present standing among the public schools of Ohio it is now essential that the voters of our school district cast a ballot in favor of the 2 mill levy at the coming election Tuesday, Nov. 7. For Congress

FRANKLIN P. RIEGLE.
 You will cast your ballot next Tuesday for a man to represent you in Congress. He will be your spokesman. What sort of a man do you wish to speak for you when laws are being made?
 Franklin P. Rieggle, the Republican candidate, has behind him a record which is your privilege to inspect. He seeks laboring men if the dozen laws he supported in the legislature in behalf of wage earners do not make him a worthy spokesman for them.
 He asks the business interests of this community if his present membership of a growing and near factory in a small city does not make him a worthy spokesman for those whose problems of business are essentially those which arise in the village or small city.
 The newspapers of his county have told you that he is clean, energetic and keen. The village townmen and the citizen of Wood County have supported him in his ambition for public service.
 Mr. Voter, your ballot would help Mr. Rieggle's candidacy for Congress. Look into his record and then, being satisfied, put an X before Rieggle's name next Tuesday. 1916.

JOY RIDING PARTY IN STOLEN AUTO MEETS WITH DISASTER WHEN CAR UPSETS. INJURED ARE UNDER ARREST

Husband Killed and Mother Burned to Death When Auto Runs into Ditch; Two Daughters and Friend Injured.

Cleveland, O.—While joyriding in a stolen automobile, two Cleveland boys, with two girl companions, were victims of a spill in Lakewood that caused the death of one boy and injuries to the other occupants of the car.

The dead boy was Daniel Morrissey, 15, who was at the wheel when the accident happened. The other occupants were Leo Conghlin, 15; Theresa Higgins, 16; Katherine McCormick and two other boys who were uninjured.

Placed Under Arrest.—Coughlin is hurt internally, Miss Higgins has her right leg broken and Mrs. McCormick is severely bruised. The three injured survivors are under arrest at Lakewood hospital. The boy is charged with violating the auto law and the two girls are held as delinquents.

Rounding the sharp bend into the subway at a high speed, the car swerved and turned completely over. Morrissey was dead when picked up and was taken to Mastick's undertaking rooms.

The two boys who were not hurt took advantage of the confusion to escape and could not be found when police later learned there were six persons in the party.

The machine in which the victims were riding was a seven-passenger Studebaker. Earlier in the day police had been notified that the car had been stolen.

Ravenna, O.—One woman was instantly killed, her husband instantly killed and their two daughters and a girl friend seriously injured when their automobile turned over at Deshler.

The victims are Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Walsh, widely known Kemmore people; Helen Walsh, 17; Esther Walsh, 14; and Anna Leach, 15.

Racing With Another Car.—According to witnesses of the accident, Mr. Walsh was racing with a Buick machine driven by a man from Pittsburgh. On a slippery road and smooth surface, the cars developed high speed.

Seeing Drakelager the Walsh car swerved suddenly, slipped into a ditch and overturned, pinning Mrs. Walsh and the three girls beneath it.

Mr. Walsh, who was driving, and the car was thrown headlong over the windshield and killed instantly when his head hit the bank.

Soon after the automobile upset it was afire. Help was speeded at hand, but before the car could be righted Mrs. Walsh had been burned so severely that she died shortly afterwards.

The three girls, all cut, bruised and unconscious, were taken to Ravenna. Death at the hospital stated that all three will recover.

The charge was made by B. C. Roloff, director of the United Charities here. He declares that chickens and mice that pigeons, chickens and white mice would not live more than three weeks on the high priced white flour that is made into bread today.

SIR J. SIMMONS

COAL TRADE OF LAKEDOWNS BECOMING WHITE

Cleveland, Using 750 Carloads a Day, Gets Only 125; Cut Supply to Homes.

COMPLAINT IS WIDESPREAD

Washington Officials Regard Situation as Serious; Seeking Solution of Problem; Railroads Doing All They Can to Give Relief.

Cleveland, O.—Only 125 carloads of coal entered Cleveland Tuesday over the prosperity-rushed and jam-packed railroads. A small number of cars of coal to arrive on any day in months.

To keep even with daily consumption Cleveland must have every day 750 new cars of coal, the number the railroads bring each 24 hours in normal times.

The prevalence of high railroad officials, coal men and the Chamber of Commerce committee on transportation confirmed the seriousness of the coal situation.

SUBMARINE SINKS TWO BRITISH STEAMSHIPS

Fifty Americans Aboard Marina, Sunk by German Torpedo Off Irish Coast.

Washington, D. C.—Preliminary reports of the sinking by German submarines of the British steamers Marina and Rowanmore, partly manned by Americans, are too incomplete to enable officials of the state department to make official notice of belligerent acts to form an opinion as to whether there had been a violation of neutral rights or of pledges given the United States by Germany.

Secretary Lansing declined to comment further than to admit that the reports appeared more serious than the usual routine dispatches announced through the American and Canadian consular offices.

On its face, the case of the Marina, reported by Consul Frost at Queenstown, presents the gravest situation that has arisen since the sinking of the channel liner Sussex, which was sunk off the coast of Ireland by German governments to the verge of a break.

Although he cautioned that his information was purely "provisional," Secretary Lansing said that the Marina, a British transport, with a mixed crew of British and Americans, was reported sunk without warning by German submarine off the coast of Ireland, near Cape Clear, and that 70 of the crew of 104 are missing.

Another message from Mr. Frost said members of the crew of the Rowanmore, including Americans, had been sheltered in their boats while abandoning the ship, after being chased for 50 hours. There were no casualties reported.

Apparently all depends upon the accuracy of the first reports, whether the Marina actually was attacked without warning or whether she was regarded as only another of the scores of British carriers that have been sunk since the result of their skippers' desperate effort to outrun enemy shells.

Until a full report has come from Great Britain the report will be taken by the state department.

Most of the officials of the department are inclined to be very optimistic. They point out that time after time first accounts have made it appear that a ship had been sunk illegally, and that in every instance since the Sussex complete reports have proved that no laws or pledges had been violated by the submarine destroyer.

Conspicuously little importance is attached to the case of the Rowanmore, because it is admitted that the vessel attempted to escape and only stopped to account for 50 minutes and having her steering gear shot away. There was a heavy fog at the time, and officials think it would have been easy for gun-crews to follow leaving their battering shot to have imagined that the submarine was sending shells in their direction. This opinion is strengthened by the fact that no one was lost.

Although no American lives were lost in the submarine attack on the Rowanmore and the ship altered her own status if she made an attempt to escape, officials were disturbed by the report that the boats were shelled and that they had cleared from the abandoned ship.

McClure Pleads Guilty.—Toledo, O.—Fred M. CHURCH PLEADS TO ADVERT NATION'S DECAY

Episcopal Letter Urges Preparedness; 'Soul of the Country Periled by Prosperity.'

St. Louis, Mo.—Warning Americans against "the danger of race antipathy flashing into hatred" and against "unconsecrated property which is hourly being made manhood to decay," the pastoral letter of the Protestant Episcopal church was read at the final joint session of the triennial conference.

The letter strongly urges national preparedness. It is the message of the 108 bishops of the church to its congregations and, under the church law, will be read in every Episcopal church in the country.

"America is involved today in a world-wide confusion which finds its most acute expression in the battlefields of Europe. No self isolation on our part is possible. The fortunes of America are interwoven as the threads of a tapestry.

"Political expediency may in war time require neutrality of the state, but it cannot hold in leash the sympathies of the individual citizen. A man cannot be passionless and retain his manhood.

"If presently we aspire to act as peacemakers in behalf of the warring nations, let our aspirations be tempered by the reflection that we are tainted with the sin of inaction which the eruption of war is a symptom, not a cause.

"National preparedness is a clear duty. If this service assumes the form of military defense, such can secure a menace and will surely fall short of pacific effect, unless all the productive forces of manhood are at the same moment shaped into a service of the people.

"The only thorough preparedness is that exemplified by Christ, the preparedness of character based upon life with God."

Hunter Killed by Own Gun.—Corry, Pa.—Albert DeLorsh, aged 66 years, a well-known sportsman of this section, accidentally shot and killed himself three miles from Cambridge Springs. He was in a motorboat on French creek.

Predicts Cheaper Coal.—Youngstown, O.—The prediction that coal prices have reached the peak in the present upward movement and that recession is likely to develop, was made in a formal statement issued here by L. J. Campbell, assistant to the president of the Youngstown Sheet Steel & Tube Co.

Consumers are urged not to be frightened into paying famine prices for coal, as a break in present quotations may be expected soon.

"Speeches are said to have been the chief factor in swelling coal prices.
