

Letter From Camp Sherman.

Oct. 20, 1917.

To my many Plymouth friends: This is a beautiful Saturday afternoon and I find the Plymouth boys all well and doing fine. We get Saturday afternoon and Sunday off, and we utilize the time by playing wash and other duties which we do not find time for during the week.

This is a wonderful place and I find it very comfortable, and it certainly makes one think of war. We are kept busy from morning till evening drilling, marching and playing games, as they have many outdoor frames for us, and every one is requested to take part. Our barracks are very comfortable, being equipped with large furnaces, and comfortably built. We have hot and cold shower baths taken hot and cold water for washing, so you see we are pretty well taken care of. Of course it isn't home by long ways but might be lots worse.

I have been getting along fine and am acting as Company clerk, having my office with the captain, who is a very fine man. Our officers are all strict and the boys love them, as they treat us fine. I think if each soldier would do his duty there would be no fault to find on either side. I have seen and when one reaches camp it is used by all of us at the same time. So you see we are interested in the boys and they are interested in us and appreciate a card or anything that comes to us from home.

They are transferring a bunch of these prisoners who had never known whether we are to go or not. I think the climate there would be suitable to most of us, but they are some dissatisfied fellows, so I think the Plymouth boys are too content to stay where they are.

We all wish to be remembered to our Plymouth friends, and would be glad to hear a word from you once in awhile. Yours very truly, ELDEN NIMMONS

A Letter From Camp Sheridan.

Camp Sheridan, Ala. Oct. 10, '17. Members of the Red Cross, Plymouth, Ohio.

Dear Friends:—Received the comfort kit yesterday and was very much pleased to know that I had not been forgotten by my Plymouth friends. Would like to be there to thank you personally but it is impossible for me to do next best.

The first thing I used was a pair of the socks. The socks that were issued to us are rather light, they have thin soles and I had to buy washing and darning them. I put a pair on to sleep. This may sound funny but it is added by the drill regulations. The days are regular summer days, but the nights are regular late fall nights in Ohio. I tell you it puts pep in you. Get up at 12:30 (all meals are called mess). Drill again at 1:15 and recall at 4:30. Mess again at 5:00 and retreat at 6:00. Retreat at 10:30. Battery formation and stand at attention during the playing of the Star Spangled Banner. Taps sound at 10:30 and all lights must be out, they are generally out before that as most of us are ready to "turn in" after retreat. In case there is a light, the light is found, is confined to quarters for a week. When confined to quarters you give up the comfort kit and have to report to the non-com. in charge of quarters every hour until 10:30. We had 30 confined last week for not having their hats corded sewed on.

We have every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon off and all day Sunday. Wednesday and Saturday are devoted to athletics. Leagues are organized in each regiment and regular schedules are made both in base-ball and football. We have a good base-ball team and expect to have a champion football team. We see Ned Earnest and "Barney" Andrews every day or so. Ned likes it fine and I never saw him looking any better. I can say the same for myself and also I am feeling better.

I bought five Liberty Bonds Monday. Guess I'm doing my bit! Our Battery subscribed for $20,000.00 worth of them.

Just got back from 5:00 o'clock mess, had beef-steak, mashed potatoes, gravy, applesauce, ice-cream and bread, so good. Had plenty of it too, this is a typical meal.

Well, I will close for this time. Thanking the Red Cross again for the comfort kit and the Camp Fire girls for the candy, I am Yours sincerely, CONRAD BIZARD, Battery "B" 138th F. A. Camp Sheridan, Ala.

Be sure and hear a Gov. Willis at the Armory, Norwalk, Monday, Oct. 29, 7:30. It will be the dry's big time. Come over and hear a good talk.

DR. W. S. SYKES

Writes from Belgium to friends in Cleveland, the letter being published in the Cleveland News of Oct. 19th. Below are a few excerpts from the letter, which bristles with thrilling accounts of the brutality of the Hun.

"For nearly six weeks now I have been up near the firing line where there is something doing nearly all of the time. It seems that the artillery is never quiet. The country up there is nothing but a mass of craters and shell holes."

"To survive at all, men must live in deep, wet tunnels, trenches and dugouts—most disagreeable and unhealthy. But it is so 'unhealthy' above ground that of the two evils one chooses the least."

"The way the Hun has been attacking and sinking hospital ships is a fright, and, as though his taste for blood could not be satisfied, he has begun to drop bombs on field hospitals. Even our good wounded men can be assured no safety."

"On the roofs of the Red Cross huts are emblazoned huge crosses which women may see at a glance. But in spite of this think what the Hun has done."

Night after night these atrocities have went on. At one place casualties ran considerably over a hundred. One American nurse was badly injured and had one eye completely lost. At another place, where casualties occurred. Fortunately, unfortunately, as you may look at it, this last included twenty wounded German prisoners who had been as tenderly cared for as our own men. One of these prisoners who was re-wounded remarked: 'Only half our own wine would do such dirty tricks.'

Eleven of this twenty were killed and of one of them only a hand and ear was found. Many of our own men were killed or wounded."

"Drs. Crile and Lower narrowly escaped. If they had been in their beds they would have been riddled, but every one was out watching the airplane as it was kept in the glare of the searchlights. Without a second's warning the explosion came. You cannot see the bombs dropping in the night."

Dr. Sykes writes then of his removal to a position nearer the line to give immediate aid to critically wounded. He was there only a week when the bombing began at that point. He reports that the Hun, instead of affording protection, was a target.

"And the Hun's made his hits at directly upon it as his fiendish skill and ingenuity would permit. Then the Hun began to shell us on Tuesday morning. Several shells fell right in the midst of the camp, sending showers of earth and stone as high as the Rose-Shoe building."

It finally became so hot we disposed of our patients as best we could, and got the nurses out—and how brave and cool every one of them was—and got into dugouts. As the following day he says: "We had dropped flat on the ground. A piece of shell struck me on the helmet. He certainly thanked my steel helmet. The blow knocked the helmet down over my eyes and when I took it off I found a nice dent in the top of it. I certainly thanked my lucky stars that I was wearing my 'tin hat.' An American doctor with a field ambulance tells me snipers pick off the stretcher-bearers as well as the litter. If they missed them in the field they spotted the door of the dugout used as a dressing station and picked them off coming out."

FILTRATION BOND PROPOSITION.

Plymouth, Ohio, Oct. 23, 1917.

Feeling that the voters are entitled to know the situation regarding the Filtration Plant, we offer the following explanation of the situation regarding the Notice to Voters which has been published in the Advertiser for the past few weeks.

As is well known, the State Board of Health has pushed the matter of pure water for our village for a long time, and has issued orders to have the village properly supplied with pure water.

Acting in accord with the order, the village council submitted the proposition to the voters at the November election of 1916. It was carried to bond the village for the sum of $18,000 for a filtration plant in connection with the present water works.

The village council then proceeded to carry out the wishes of the majority of voters, and an engineer was employed to make plans and specifications, which were approved by the State Board of Health. The necessary resolutions and ordinances were passed, and the bonds were sold.

The attorney of the purchaser of the bonds advised their rejection, for the reason that the state legislature had made a slight amendment to the law governing the procedure, after the vote was taken on the proposition and before the bonds were sold. To remedy the situation the attorney advised that another vote be taken and so the proposition is again brought before the voters for a decision at the November election this year. The same proposition, substantially, is before the people as last year, and not an additional sum as might be inferred from what has already been done on the filtration proposition.

The Village Council, By the Mayor and Clerk.

Huron County Hospital.

The same enthusiasm that was manifested during the campaign to raise money for building the new Memorial Hospital in Norwalk is again shown in a slight amendment to the law governing the procedure, after the vote was taken on the proposition and before the bonds were sold. To remedy the situation the attorney advised that another vote be taken and so the proposition is again brought before the voters for a decision at the November election this year. The same proposition, substantially, is before the people as last year, and not an additional sum as might be inferred from what has already been done on the filtration proposition.

Some of the many big features at the Fair will be the country store, at which will be displayed farm products donated by farmers; a large fruit and vegetable display in charge of Russell Robertson, the well-known fruit grower and expert, and a big exhibit of canned products, home-making etc. There will also be various amusements, including a musical entertainment every evening. Every article donated will be sold, and the proceeds go to Memorial Hospital.

Will Run Own Special.

The annual Buckeye corn boys' special is to be one of the few, if not the only excursion, to be run to Washington this fall, according to railroad officials. The slide long excursions have generally been abandoned and regular passenger service has been reduced, the specials bearing 75 black pine-wine, 45 fine wood and an equal number of their friends and parents, has been positively assured. Six locomotives and an ugh Pullman equipment for 1,000 persons will be used on the trip. The special trains will leave Ohio on Decem 3, and at 8:30 will be made at 10:30. The Washington Excursion. The corn and other contests in which the free trips to the East are offered are conducted by the Board of Agriculture and Forestry, Service of the Ohio State University.

Red Cross.

Plymouth Chapter Red Cross returns thanks to Mr. and Mrs. DeJure for the use of the theatre and the donation; to Mr. Ralston and orchestra for the music; to Miss Minnie and Mr. Ed. Carpen for efficiently looking after reserving the seats; to Mrs. Charles Miller and the Committee, who worked so faithfully to make our recent entertainment a success. Especially thankful are we to the members of the cast who acquitted themselves to the delight of the audience. We appreciate the good patronage.

Stock Sale.

I will sell at public sale at my barn, 76 East Whitely, Shelb, Ohio, on Saturday, Oct. 27, at 10 o'clock, p. m. 10 good cows, 10 steers, from 500 to 700 lbs. each, 20 stock cattle, 75 black face ewes, 45 fine wood and 40 feeding lambs, also two teams of horses belonging to S. L. Price & Son. BLOOM BUCK.

Conserve the Food and Grain.

Only three grains of corn, mother.

"Till the coming of the morn."

The writer remembers hearing the above lines quoted years ago at a "revelation" in a playlet, "The Starving Child." Now the plaint comes back, pitiful yet strong, when we think of the hundreds, ay, thousands of unfortunate, innocent children who are literally starving in the villages and hamlets of the old world—a condition brought about by the cruelties and inhumanity of some of the belligerent nations, notably Germany. But what we wish to emphasize is that no right-thinking parent will allow his children to waste cereals on a hollow 'em frolic when so much suffering is extant in our neighboring countries. So admonish the youngsters to exercise a less costly prank than one that does them no good, but does an injustice to the needy in every land, who are crying for food while we have an abundance of all good things.

Liberty Loan or What?

The United States is involved in a wholly righteous war. It is fighting that, we and all the world besides, may have the right to live freely and happily. It is fighting to rid the world forever of the blighting and sinister menace of militarism. It must win, and it will win. In a cause such as that for which this country is fighting, there can be no better investment than the Liberty Loan. To win this war the government needs vast sums of money, and it is going to get all the money it needs somewhere and somehow. There are two ways by which the country can get funds—loans or taxation. It is for you, me, and all the rest to decide whether we will loan our money to the government at 4 per cent, or give it through taxation. But the problem is not as simple as it seems. The failure of the government to secure the proportion of the money it needs in the shape of loans, in other words, the failure of the Liberty Loan, would be disastrous as to seriously affect every merchant, every farmer, every salaried man, and workman. It would mean that taxes would have to be heavily increased. The government has already taxed business about as much as it can stand. A material increase in taxes on business will seriously impair the efficiency of many industries. The government must therefore be doing for our industries what is best for them at top speed to supply the requirements of the war. Consequently, increased taxes would mean that the failure of the loan would mean that the credit of every merchant and stockholder will be curtailed, and their buying power lessened.

The failure of the loan would mean that the credit of every merchant and stockholder will be curtailed, and their buying power lessened. The failure of the loan would mean that the credit of every merchant and stockholder will be curtailed, and their buying power lessened. Says Soldier Must Have Tobacco in War Time.

American soldiers are now in France. More are going every week. They'll soon be in the front trenches fighting. They need a smoke now and then to make things a little more comfortable for them to eat their porridge after a terrible day under terrific bombardment.

Our boys in France Tobacco Fund. 25 West Court Street, New York City, has been organized to furnish tobacco to the soldiers. Every dollar you contribute buys four packages of tobacco, each with a retail value of 45 cents. In each package is a postcard addressed to the person who paid for it. The soldier receives the package and sends his thanks on the card to his friend back home.

When newspapers of the caliber of the Cleveland Plain Dealer come out with an editorial in favor of a dry Ohio, it begins to look as if the Orange fire against old John Barleycorn would be likely to drive him from his trenches about November 6.

After three years of war and privation the German people have not recently subscribed $3,107,500,000 on the seventh war loan. Certainly this ought to inspire America to double the three billions asked for the second Liberty Loan. Our country never waged a more noble or necessary conflict than the one in which we are now engaged, nor were our people ever better able to contribute to the government's need. When to the appeal of the president is added the additional argument of the safety of the investment, its immunity from taxes and the rate of interest offered, there should be a rush of investors. The government must have money and will get it—it is for the people to elect whether they will contribute freely and at a profit or to themselves or compel harsher means.

In these days there is need of the teaching of practical patriotism in our schools. The work of teaching our boys and girls to be patriotic is not finished when they have been taught to salute the flag and to sing the Star Spangled Banner, for patriotism means far more than that. Real patriotism manifests itself in many ways, such as buying bonds and doing without meat, wheat and candy to conserve our resources. The real patriot appreciates what his country does for him and what his duty to his country in return. If, for example, the coal miners of Ohio had learned the lesson of real patriotism they would not strike and cripple their country in the hour of her peril. Let our teachers not forget that one of the most important lessons that the child should learn is his duty to his country.

It is a sad commentary on this age of civilization when one adds to the individual backed by almost unlimited power becomes obsessed with the idea that he is destined by the Almighty to rule and dominate the whole world. Before the beginning of the great war Kaiser Bill made the following declaration: "From childhood I have been under the influence of five men, Alexander, Julius Caesar, Theodor Second, Frederick the Great and Napoleon. Each of these men dreamed of dominating the world empire which they failed. I am dreaming a dream of German World Empire—and MY MAILED FIST SHALL SUCCEED!"

The German crown prince, six months before the beginning of hostilities, told an American woman that he hoped she would outlive him while his father was alive, but if not he would start a war the moment he came to the throne—"just for the sake of it." He told her that the plans were laid to attack and conquer France, then England, the United States and Russia.

OBERLIN BUSINESS COLLEGE ITEMS.

The second Fall Term of the Oberlin Business College opens Monday, November 5, 1917. This school is having one of the most prosperous years in its history, the attendance being even larger than last year.

The demand for its graduates is greater than ever. The college is increasing its staff of teachers and has left last week to accept positions at $75 per month to start with.

Thirty-seven students are now taking the Civil Service Business College take the examination Nov. 23. The college received word last week from Washington that the Government is in need of 10,000 men and women and once and urge the officials of the college to get as many young men and women as possible to get ready for Government positions.

There never was a better time to enter a business college and those who take their training at Oberlin are fitted for the better class of positions. Many new students will enter the Oberlin Business College November 5. New classes will be formed in Shorthand, Typewriting, Civil Service, Bookkeeping and other subjects.

Ex-Gov. Frank B. Willis will be at the Armory at Dayton on Monday evening, October 29, at 7:30. His subject will be "Why Ohio should go dry." Governor Cox has been invited to be present at the Armory. Arrange your affairs to be at the Armory at that time. Come early for the house will be packed.

THE SOLDIERS IN CAMP ARE WATCHING THE FOLKS AT HOME

Brigadier General Charles X. Zimmerman, now at Camp Sheridan, Montgomery, Ala., sends this message to the people of the Fourth Federal Reserve district:
 "Ohio soldiers want to get at the Germans as soon as possible and are more than willing to pay part of the cost to fight. That is why officers and men here are buying Liberty Bonds with the same zeal that they are putting into their training. Another reason why they are subscribing to the Liberty Loan is because the same liberal Uncle Sam who feeds and clothes them here in camp stands back of every bond.
 "It is the safest investment in the world and the Liberty Bond is one of the greatest means yet devised of saving for the future. Soldiers may put aside a part of their pay each month

Buy Liberty Bonds and Protect Your Homes
Says President of Women's Club Federation

Mrs. George Zimmerman, of Fremont, O., President of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs and chairman of the Women's Committee of the Ohio Branch Council of National Defense, has issued this stirring call to the women of the Fourth Federal Reserve District to assist in this second Liberty Loan campaign:
"BUY YOUR BOND FOR LIBERTY TODAY."
 "Because it is a good investment."
 "Because it helps to keep business going, as every cent of the money raised by these bonds is spent in this country."
 "Because if these bonds do not sell, the necessary money must be raised by such heavy taxation as to cripple every industry in the land, and the poor would not be able to provide themselves with the bare necessities of life. Everything would go into taxation. Hence come these bonds as true saviors of the poor."
 "Because the buying of a bond gives the investor a real part in winning the war."
 "Because it helps to save the lives of American soldiers and hastens the day when from the battle front and from the training camps our young men may return to their rightful places in civilian life."
 "Remember that this war is more than a national crisis; it is individual in its effect upon the nation. It brings to each and every one the menace of disorder and peril."
 "Prussiaism is a menace not to France and England alone, but to the United States—to your state, to your city, to your home. Women of America, BUY YOUR BOND FOR LIBERTY TODAY TO PROTECT YOUR HOME."

The funeral was held from the home at 2 o'clock today (Friday).
Attendants at the Lutheran church last Sunday were somewhat amused at the antics of the big organ, some even being inclined to accuse it of pro-German sympathy. At the beginning of the services the organ behaved fairly well, but after a stirring address by the pastor in favor of the Liberty Bonds, the sheet of the big instrument refused to produce a single sound, the piano taking its place to close the services.

Washington.—Seventy American soldiers and sailors were killed when a German submarine torpedoed the United States army transport Antilles.

News of this first heavy blow struck against America by Germany reached the navy department from Vice Admiral Sims Oct. 12.

The Antilles, a former Morgan line boat, was torpedoed by the enemy while on a voyage to France. She was under way at the time, but neither the torpedo which sent her to the bottom nor the destroying submarine was sighted.

The men had no chance for their lives. Struck aboard the engine room bulkhead, the Antilles sank like a plummet, going down in five minutes.

No Chance to Take to Ship's Boats.

There were about 217 aboard her and there was little or no chance to take to the boats. Of these, 167 were saved, many being reported to have been fished from the waters by the shells of the convoy. The death list includes three of the ship's officers, four sailors and 16 soldiers. The rest of the victims were members of the merchant crew.

No army units were on the vessel. Such officers and men of the army as were aboard were on special assignments, invalidated home or had been discharged for some military reason. The list of those who will not be available until it can be obtained from Gen. Pershing in France. The army personnel aboard returning ships is not communicated to the war department in advance.

This is the first disaster to an American transport since the beginning of the war.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels authorized the following statement:

"The department is in receipt of a dispatch from Vice Admiral Sims which states that the steamship Antilles, an army transport, was torpedoed on Oct. 17 while returning to this country from the waters of France. This vessel was under convoy of American patrol vessels at the time."

"The torpedo which struck the Antilles was not the only one which submarine which fired it. The torpedo hit abreast of the engine room bulkhead, and the ship sank within five minutes. One hundred and thirty-seven were on board the Antilles when she was saved. About 70 men are missing. All the naval officers and officers of the army who were on board at the time were saved, with the exception of the man here given as the only survivor."

Will Publish Casualties Immediately.

"There were about 33 of the army enlisted personnel on board, of whom 17 were saved. The names of the missing army enlisted personnel and of the merchant crew of the ship cannot be given until the muster roll in France of those on board has been compiled. As soon as the muster roll is in receipt of further details concerning the casualties they will be made public immediately."

Coming on the heels of Vice Admiral Sims' report of the torpedoing of an American destroyer, the sinking of the Antilles caused a distinct shock to the military and naval establishments.

Many Attend Radio Schools.

Washington.—Five hundred Ohioans are attending schools conducted by the army signal corps to supply wireless telegraph operators for army units. Thousands more are expected to join new schools.

Banks at Highest Mark.

Washington.—Reserves of national banks, notwithstanding the government's great program of war financing, again have exceeded their previous record of strength. Comptroller Williams announced that total resources on Sept. 11 were $16,649,000,000.

$15,000,000,000 of deposits should be withdrawn from the banks, he said. The deposits would still be $236,000,000 greater than they were on Sept. 1, 1915. Deposits are $13,792,000,000 greater than on Sept. 15, 1917.

RED CROSS WORK

TELL HOW MONEY IS SPENT

Henry P. Davison, Chairman of War Council, and Harry D. Gibson, General Manager, Make Long Trip.

Washington.—At the request of the Red Cross war council, Henry P. Davison, chairman of the council, and Harry D. Gibson, general manager of the American Red Cross, have undertaken a tour through the West, in the course of which they will visit points at which division managers of the Red Cross have been stationed. The purpose of the trip is to meet with representatives of Red Cross chapters and with those who have contributed to Red Cross funds and with the public generally, and also the purpose of the war council to render an account of its stewardship, to interest the people in the work of the Red Cross and to let the public know just how the $100,000,000 war fund is being used.

Large meetings at St. Louis October 22, the schedule for the trip includes Denver, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Chicago and Cleveland.

U. S. DESTROYER IS TORPEDOED

Warship Is Attacked by U-boat, One Man Being Killed and Five Injured.

Washington.—An American destroyer on patrol duty in the European zone was torpedoed by an enemy submarine. One American was killed and five others were wounded. The destroyer managed to make port in spite of severe damage.

The torpedo made the first hit on an American warship since the war began and the death of the sailor was the first death in action of an American bluejacket since the Spanish war. Gunner's Mate Osmond Kelly Ingram was the man killed. He was blown overboard by the explosion and his body was not recovered.

Frank W. Kruse, fireman, Toledo, O., is one of the wounded. In accordance with the policy of secrecy concerning American naval operations, the navy department did not divulge the name of the destroyer or the exact place of the encounter.

SAYS IT'S UP TO THE RETAILER

Hoover Declares 'The Corner Has Been Turned in High Prices.'

Washington.—It is up to the retailer.

If he does not deliver the nation's food at several doors a reasonable price, means will be found to make him do so. This, summed up, is the attitude of Herbert C. Hoover, food administrator, in announcing that, subject to cooperation of the farmer and the retailer, "the corner has been turned in high prices."

"Most of the essential commodities should, one after another, continue to show reductions between now and the end of the year," Mr. Hoover said, in a formal statement.

Mr. Hoover said he had every hope that the retailers will cooperate, as the farmers and other food handlers are cooperating in an effort to feed the nation and the allies at reasonable prices. Everybody along the line down to the retailer, he declared, already is helping. But the retailer has yet to toe the mark.

PRO-GERMANS, BEWARE

Teutons Who Oppose Big Loan Will Be Punished.

Washington.—The government has just set in motion the machinery to apprehend and punish pro-German workers who are attempting to sabotage the campaign in more than a dozen ways to defeat the Liberty Loan.

Warns Bank Intimidators.

Washington.—Secretary McAdoo has just issued a statement requesting bankers to report to him the names of any persons attempting to intimidate them in connection with subscriptions to the Liberty Loan, and promising that prosecutions to the full extent of the law would follow.

The secretary's statement was prompted by reports from various parts of the country that depositors have threatened banks with withdrawal of funds if they subscribe to the Liberty Loan.

RAIDERS DESTROY MERCHANTMEN

Two German Vessels Also Sunk Other Craft, Causing the Loss of 134 Lives.

London.—Nine escorted merchantmen and two convoys of British merchant vessels were sunk in the North sea in an attack by two German raiders. All the officers and men of the destroyers, the Mary Rose and Stonehenge, were lost. The death list totals 134.

In announcing the disaster, the British war office stated that three merchant vessels of the convoyed group escaped, but that five Norwegian, one Danish and three Swedish vessels were sunk without striking.

Thirty-seven Scandinavians were rescued by British patrol craft.

The German raiders, it appears, succeeded in evading the British watchers on dark nights on both the outward and the homeward gash.

The raiders, which were heavily armed, showed anxiety to escape before they could be intercepted by British forces, and made no attempt to rescue the crews of the sunken destroyers.

U. S. Solon Killed Accidently by His Brother.

Milwaukee.—United States Senator Paul Husting of Wisconsin died at a farm house near Rush Lake, Wis., as the result of wounds accidentally inflicted with a shotgun by his brother, Gustav Husting, while the two were hunting ducks.

Senator Husting recently returned to his home at Mayville after the close of the session of congress, where he was one of the leading supporters of the administration's war program. He was a Democrat and was 51 years of age.

With his brother, he had gone on a hunting expedition to Rush Lake, and the two were in a boat when the accident occurred. He had sighted a flock of ducks and had called for his brother to fire, and, at the discharge of the shotgun, he rose slightly, receiving the full charge of the gun in his back.

BETTER STORAGE IMPROVEMENTS

Food Administration Seeks to Reduce Annual Wastage in Potatoes.

SMALL GROWERS WARNED

Much of Loss From Sweating, Disease, Frost and Other Causes Can Be Prevented, Declares Expert.

Washington.—A large part of the potato crop of the United States is wasted every year through the existence of bad storage conditions. The government food administration is determined that this loss shall be reduced this year, when every bushel of potatoes will be needed by the people of this country. In order to secure the adoption of the best storage methods by the small growers of the country, Lou D. Sweet, head of the potato division of the food administration, has issued the following statement:

"It is of great importance that all the potatoes raised this year should be stored under proper conditions. Even when every precaution is taken the wastage of potatoes during the winter is considerable; under bad conditions of storage it is very great indeed."

"In order that the best methods may be adopted by the small growers, those who have not had the experience in the storage of potatoes should know the chief causes of the wastage. These causes are:

- 1. Sweating, heating and consequent rotting often due to insufficient ventilation.
- 2. Rotting, due to potatoes getting wet at the time of putting them in storage.
- 3. Injury from frost.
- 4. Decay, owing to disease in the tubers at the time of storage.
- 5. Sprouting of tubers in the spring.

Losses May Be Reduced.

It is not possible to prevent altogether losses from these causes, but by using the best methods of storage it is possible to reduce them very materially.

What may be done by taking care to guard against losses from each of these causes:

"Sweating and heating occur if the potatoes are piled in too large piles, so that the air cannot circulate between the tubers. The risk of loss from this cause is greatest in the potatoes immediately after the harvest, when they are wet and have been dug, and it is especially important that potatoes when dug should not be put in unnecessarily large piles, nor kept in an ill-ventilated room."

"If the potatoes at the digging time are allowed to get wet and go into storage in that condition, rotting is sure to be destroyed. Be careful to have your potatoes dry before storing."

"Potatoes are easily damaged by frost. If they become frozen, there is a great loss of tubers. Take precaution to protect the tubers from frost before and after digging."

Eliminate Diseased Tubers.

"There are several diseases of the potato which are selected at the digging time, and diseased tubers are mixed with the sound ones, the disease spreads rapidly; therefore, it is necessary to sort the potatoes carefully, eliminating all of the disease, the cuts, cuts, and dirt before placing them into permanent storage for the winter. All of the cuts, cuts, and dirt should be fed to the poultry and live stock, but should be steamed or boiled before being fed, as in this way the disease is killed and will not destroy the germs of the disease, so that it will not get into the manure and thence into the land."

"The use of a cellar or storage room, and by holding the temperature as near 35 degrees F. as possible, you can keep the potatoes from sprouting."

"Seed for next year's planting should be selected from hills that produce all nice, true type potatoes. The seed should be selected at the digging time, and stored separately in crates or boxes, and by storing them in a well-lighted room where the temperature can be held at from 34 to 40 degrees, with a little ventilation and this seed planted next spring, the grower will make a start toward increasing the yield of his potatoes."

BETTER STORAGE IMPROVEMENTS

Food Administration Seeks to Reduce Annual Wastage in Potatoes.

SMALL GROWERS WARNED

Much of Loss From Sweating, Disease, Frost and Other Causes Can Be Prevented, Declares Expert.

Washington.—A large part of the potato crop of the United States is wasted every year through the existence of bad storage conditions. The government food administration is determined that this loss shall be reduced this year, when every bushel of potatoes will be needed by the people of this country. In order to secure the adoption of the best storage methods by the small growers of the country, Lou D. Sweet, head of the potato division of the food administration, has issued the following statement:

"It is of great importance that all the potatoes raised this year should be stored under proper conditions. Even when every precaution is taken the wastage of potatoes during the winter is considerable; under bad conditions of storage it is very great indeed."

"In order that the best methods may be adopted by the small growers, those who have not had the experience in the storage of potatoes should know the chief causes of the wastage. These causes are:

- 1. Sweating, heating and consequent rotting often due to insufficient ventilation.
- 2. Rotting, due to potatoes getting wet at the time of putting them in storage.
- 3. Injury from frost.
- 4. Decay, owing to disease in the tubers at the time of storage.
- 5. Sprouting of tubers in the spring.

Losses May Be Reduced.

It is not possible to prevent altogether losses from these causes, but by using the best methods of storage it is possible to reduce them very materially.

What may be done by taking care to guard against losses from each of these causes:

"Sweating and heating occur if the potatoes are piled in too large piles, so that the air cannot circulate between the tubers. The risk of loss from this cause is greatest in the potatoes immediately after the harvest, when they are wet and have been dug, and it is especially important that potatoes when dug should not be put in unnecessarily large piles, nor kept in an ill-ventilated room."

"If the potatoes at the digging time are allowed to get wet and go into storage in that condition, rotting is sure to be destroyed. Be careful to have your potatoes dry before storing."

"Potatoes are easily damaged by frost. If they become frozen, there is a great loss of tubers. Take precaution to protect the tubers from frost before and after digging."

Eliminate Diseased Tubers.

"There are several diseases of the potato which are selected at the digging time, and diseased tubers are mixed with the sound ones, the disease spreads rapidly; therefore, it is necessary to sort the potatoes carefully, eliminating all of the disease, the cuts, cuts, and dirt before placing them into permanent storage for the winter. All of the cuts, cuts, and dirt should be fed to the poultry and live stock, but should be steamed or boiled before being fed, as in this way the disease is killed and will not destroy the germs of the disease, so that it will not get into the manure and thence into the land."

"The use of a cellar or storage room, and by holding the temperature as near 35 degrees F. as possible, you can keep the potatoes from sprouting."

"Seed for next year's planting should be selected from hills that produce all nice, true type potatoes. The seed should be selected at the digging time, and stored separately in crates or boxes, and by storing them in a well-lighted room where the temperature can be held at from 34 to 40 degrees, with a little ventilation and this seed planted next spring, the grower will make a start toward increasing the yield of his potatoes."

Pikea in capital of the Buckeye State

Columbus.—(Special).—The annual buckeye corn festival will be one of the few, if not the only excursions, to be run to Washington this fall, according to railroad officials. While excursions have generally been abandoned and regular passenger service has been reduced, the special heading the 500 prize-winning kids and families and an equal number of their friends and parents, has been positively assured. Alfalfa has solved problem of washing on a steep side hill "somewhere" in Portage county, according to C. R. Shunway, the agricultural agent at that county. Everything up to was almost out of the question. Finally in desperation in 1910, it was decided to put in alfalfa. A crop of oats was removed. The land was plowed. It was limed, dragged, worked and put into a soft, mellow condition. The alfalfa was sown in rows, and was put on. Then the seed was sown the last of July.

The farmer figured that the crops gathered had been worth not less than $70 per acre for the six seasons it has been cut.

Pension Aged Ministers.
An annuity plan providing for a $5,000-500 "Piergia Memorial Fund" for aged and disabled ministers of the congregational church and their dependents was adopted by the National Council of Congregational Churches.

This action was characterized by leaders of the church as the most important act before the council. Ministers from the age of 30 to 65 will contribute 6 per cent of their salaries to the fund and at the pension age will receive annually one-half of the sum of their annual salary.

Restaurants to Win War.
The organization for a war time food conservation in public eating places in the state is being organized by Helen O. Mills, Columbus, and Cincinnati restaurant man, was appointed on the staff of State Food Administrator Fred C. Croston.

Mills will at once begin the enlistment of 1,800 or more restaurants in the state in the general administration campaign to help win the war by food conservation.

Within a short time every restaurant, hotel and club in Ohio is expected to be observing meatless and wheatless days.

Cox Reviews Draft Men.
The last big review of the Ohio selective draft troops at Camp Sherman was held Oct. 19 on the occasion of the visit there of Gov. Cox.

The review included all infantry troops and a brigade of artillery and probably other units, so that at least 25,000 men and officers participated. It was the first review of the whole division since the selectives came to Chillicothe.

The grounds used are in the northeast corner of the reservation, at the extreme north end of the sections occupied by the artillery.

Thousands of thousands of Catholics are now in Ohio homes. The combined strength of federal and state authority was exerted Oct. 18 against the coal problem, which is pronounced near a solution than at any moment since the start of coal war.

Homer H. Johnson, of Cleveland, state fuel administrator, arrived at Columbus to establish at last an Ohio organization under the United States Coal Administration. Washington Just as the "home relief" movement of 29 per cent of coal loaded at Ohio mines means temporary emergency relief, the coming of Administrator Johnson promises of continued and permanent centralizing of effort to meet the coal situation.

Gov. James M. Cox issued an urgent appeal to the public to cooperate in every ounce of man power in the mines into the scale to raise production to the point of possible relief.

Administrator Johnson's first action was to confer with Gov. Cox on the personnel of the state committee of coal administration.

Johnson's plan was emphasized by Johnson after he emerged from the governor's office.

He emphatically backed up the appeal of the Federal Aid to the Coal Miner Act. He said that the fact that Harry A. Garfield that miners who confederate coal are not aiding the public nor helping settle the difficulty.

Johnson said that the central supervising body of his organization. There will be probably one man on it from every county in Ohio.

Country to See Greatest Athletic Activity During The Next Twelve Months

Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft, director of the department of physical science at Princeton, predicts a year of unusual athletic activity among the army trainee camps. He says: "There will be more real and widespread athletic activity in this country during the next twelve months than ever before in our history."

Dr. Raycroft is a member of the war department's commission on training camp athletics.

"The colleges have abandoned athletics is entirely a false notion that has attained too general circulation and acceptance," says Dr. Raycroft. "The colleges have not and will not abandon athletics; what some of them did abandon was intercollegiate competition."

"Take Princeton, for example. Of our student body of some 1,000 young men, nearly 800 promptly enlisted for our service and have been in regular training for it. It left them neither time nor opportunity to engage in competition with other college athletes, and we therefore made a series of necessities."

Stenographer on Limited Trains Has Difficult Job

One of the most difficult stenographic jobs in the world is said to be that of stenographer on the limited trains between New York and New Jersey. A recent writer says of the work:

"You have to take dictation in any one of your eleven cars, and you have to be listening over to hear the words distinctly, in any position and on any kind of paper and at any and all times. You have to take dictation from every range of human endeavor and human thought. I've taken dictation from men in pretty nearly every line of business, from the street curriers to shoemakers. I've written wills for lawyers, taken confessions from criminals handed over to the sheriff, and I've written articles for New York newspaper editors, taken medical opinions for doctors, handled the correspondence of dozens of bank presidents, and I've written letters for men who have killed themselves twenty-four hours later, drafted telegrams for elopers seeking forgiveness from their wives, and I've written graphic work that I haven't had a hand to spare. I've been a train stenographer. I can't imagine what it could be."

Worries of a Housewife.

Women are given to worry more than are men. When anything threatens to worry a man, he finds solace in the covers about his head, says Zim in Cartoons Magazine. But women cannot look adversity in the face with such calm abandon. They are not built that way, as new as it may make out, it is a sign of intelligence in temperament. Woman is more highly organized than man. Her nervous system is much better developed. If you notice a look of worry on your wife's face and ask, "Well, what's up today?" she sighs and says, "Everything. Everything."

We're getting old and shabby and the house is becoming dreadfully dilapidated, and now to cap the climax I've broken my now stick."

Fixed the Verdict.

One of the shortest summings up on record is believed to be that by the late Commissioner Kerr at the Old Bailey in a case where a man was charged with being in the unlawful possession of a gold watch and chain. The appearance of the prisoner certainly did not correspond with the legitimate possession of such costly ornaments, but he asserted his innocence and was acquitted and declared that he had found the watch and chain on the pavement.

The judge looked at the man in the dock and then at the man in the box. "Gentlemen of the Jury," he said, "I have walked over the pavement of this city for many long years, and I've never found a gold watch and chain there yet. Consider your verdict."

And the verdict was "Guilty"—London Tit-Bits.

Over a pint of cold cooked Lima beans pour three or four tablespoonsful of olive oil, two tablespoonsful of vinegar, one teaspoonful of ground mustard, one teaspoonful of salt and half a teaspoonful of paprika. Toss and mix; serve with chopped pickle.

Onions and Cheese.
A most satisfying and wholesome dish is onions and cheese. Cook the onions until tender, place a layer of melted butter, salt and a thick layer of grated cheese cover with another layer of onions and white sauce and finish the top with buttered crumbs. Bake until well heated and the crumbs will brown. Hard cooked eggs may be cut up and added to onions in place of the cheese if desired.

Nut Roast.
Take a cupful of finely chopped nut meats, one cupful of bread crumbs, a minced onion, a tablespoonful of chopped parsley, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, two tablespoonsful of melted butter, salt and pepper, two beaten eggs and enough milk to moisten. That Mother.

Not long ago I stood in the street as the boys of the regiment marched by to the train. Beside me stood a woman. She attracted attention because I could see that she was eagerly watching for some one in the marching line. It was not long before I could tell that the one she was looking for was coming in a minute a tall, well built boy just of age. I should say, approached. As he walked, and with the slightest tremor in his voice, said "Goodbye, mother."

I could see that the boy was proud of his mother—proud that he was her son, and proud that he was doing his best to fulfill her ideal of what an American boy should be. By her quick breathing I could tell that the mother was doing her best to control herself. Doubtless she had lived through these minutes many times in the last few days, and she had determined that her boy, tho' that she loved infinitely more than life itself, should go away with the feeling that his mother could be true to the things she had tried to teach him.

All she said was "Goodbye son, God keep you." It was an incident that I shall never forget. I wish that I could tell you what I saw in her face. Her boy was going, going, perhaps, never to return. All the dreams that she had of her boy's future, all the plans that she had made for him, and all that they had made together, were things of the past.

She was making the supreme sacrifice. She was giving her boy, the boy that she had nursed, cuddled, watched and prayed over, to her country, to your country, to my country. She was giving of her life that freedom may be preserved for you and me. Her face showed no sign of resentment. I could see the yearning for the boy that was going, but I could also see that she was proud that she had such a son to give to her country.

I have no boy to give. I am too old to fight well, and it is only those who can fight well that are wanted. It is not in me now to equal that mother's sacrifice. It is strange that in the scheme of things the opportunities for sacrifice are so unevenly distributed. But as I walked away, I made up my mind that my dollars, at least, would go to help bring that boy back to his mother. And if I ever weaken in my determination, I am sure that the inspiration of that woman's face will strengthen my resolution.

How do you feel about it?

LAXATIVE for Aged People

THE BANE of old age is constipation. The bowels become weak and unable to perform their functions without aid. For this purpose only the mildest and gentlest laxative should be used. The use of harsh cathartics aggravates the trouble and makes the constipation worse. Chamberlain's Tablets are a favorite with people of middle age and older on account of their gentle action.
