The "Gray Van" Has Arrived at Alabama.

Waco, Tenn., Nov. 1st, 1917. Dear Teddy: I wrote you of our camping one-fourth mile from the National Military Cemetery at Nashville, 25 miles from Alabama line.

At Fairville, Ky. I took a picture of an old water mill, still doing business. Hob bought a sack of cornmeal, -old mill but new prices. I never have met any more big-hearted people than these southerners, (after they look us over and conclude we are not gypsies.) Gallatin is a very pretty town of 2800 population and county-seat of Sumner county. The court house occupies the center of the square and the town built around it. So many of these southern towns are laid out the same way. Looks pretty but makes lots of walking, especially when you are on the way to Alabama.

I went into a grocery to buy pretzels and the big fat man, who looks like a great big brown pretzel himself, opened up his eyes in amazement, and said, "Misses, I reckon since the saloons are closed down the pretzels have gone over." Bought "bigger toes" instead.

The Jackson Highway from Gallatin to Nashville, as I have said before, is very hilly, but they have a way of making a landing - a resting place, half way up and one long hill had two. We go some going down but with the lorry and our heavy-soled Dunk and Jack, we enjoy the spin.

Our landlady (?) invited us to call on her and we were very glad to have the opportunity to go through the old fashioned southern farm house, built a hundred years ago on an Indian floor with the front windows opening to the floor, old-fashioned fire-places with the large andirons and great logs of wood. The parlor was furnished in mahogany and there were three 'tees' in their respective corners. In the other corner, was a chest of drawers, the top was fitted and folding out into a writing desk.

The upholstery was red plush and with "mistahs" and the "missus" chairs, the old picture and lamp completed the furnishings of this room. The only modern thing in the room was a Will-N velvet rug and it certainly looked out of place.

The very large dining room with its double curtains at the two windows was dark and gloomy. The old Irish Thomas sat in a chair and didn't know you. The large dining table, chairs, china closet, high-boy, wine table with marble top, and side table were of mahogany. Opening into this was a small breakfast-room fitted out only with table and chairs. The kitchen seemed to me to be about the size of a small square. On one side shelves built from side to side and ceiling to floor or "terra firma." When I made you dizzy when you would stand looking about the washing dishes the colored folk was in for and the scrubbing of tables, etc. Got it being in a wagon and my knapsack. The hall-lamp took my fancy. If I had not been afraid I would have taken back home. The mirror above the door, the one familiar thing my eye fell on in the library was the large "hold you see all" like the one in the "sibule of your youth."

Teddy A. and I went on each side of the long drive, where you sang a mournful dirge as the birds were settling for the night, the many trees on the large lawn. Gladder yet I'm livin' in a wagon.

The "Missus" daughter asked me to go into Nashville with her in the morning and at 7:20 a. m. we were off on the "Blue Grays" electric. A very smoky city indeed and not much done. I headed for the postoffice and was more than pleased with my "hand out." They had 'em all laid up in their "Show Box." The driver said, "What will you do 'Gray Van' any how?"

As I stood on the corner of 8th Avenue and Broadway, Hob came up unannounced and tapped me on the shoulder, but I jumped a foot, I had been waiting for the call but not that way.

A very long hill out of Nashville, Tenn., on 8th Avenue, our team slipped and slid around considerable. Jack finally fell down, but we got on a couple. We were all out. The hill, seems to me was a half-mile long and paved with brick. Some more beautiful farm houses than I have seen this side. We are near Athens and I want to mail this here.

I think I shall go down to Montgomery. We only have 98 miles to go. Make it in three days if we have good luck. Why not come down and go back with me. I will be in a few days perhaps one or two in Columbia, unless I go to the hotel. I would be perfectly welcome with Teddy. I know, but I don't think I can do a good wash up, although I've had some of the dirt-off.

OBITUARIES.

MRS. JANE WILSON.

Mrs. Jane Wilson was born in Plymouth, June 23, 1842, and passed away, Oct. 13, 1917, aged 74 years, 3 months and 21 days. She was married to Mr. John Wilson May 13, 1869. They were blessed with four children, William, of Findlay, O.; Mrs. Dr. J. T. Gaskill of this city; Charles, who passed away years ago at 41 years; and Mary, who died at the age of 8 years. Mrs. Wilson had three sisters and three brothers. One died in infancy and two others were advanced in years. Only one sister remains to mourn her loss, Mrs. Slaybaugh, of Elyria, Ohio. In her early life Mrs. Wilson was a member of the Methodist church, but became later a member of the Lutheran church. Of this church she remained a faithful member until death. She spent practically her whole life in Plymouth. Mrs. Wilson was a quiet, peaceable woman, strict and confidant were by her distasteful. She held a large place in the regard and esteem of many people. Her home was a center for this she thought and lived. Her Savior was her comfort, inspiration and hope. The influence of her life will long linger as a sweet memory with her family and friends. How sweet it is to grow old if our feet be found walking in the way of righteousness. "He giveth his beloved sleep."

JACOB KOTZ.

Mr. Jacob Kotz was born in Northampton county, Pa. April 3, 1828, and passed away Nov. 1, 1917, aged 79 years, 6 months and 28 days. He was born and reared on the farm and spent his entire life in that occupation. In 1850 he was married to Miss Mary Anne Birtz of Northampton county. Here they resided for several years, in March 1858 they came to Ohio and moved on Henry Trauger's farm, west of Plymouth. While there he purchased the farm and moved to Plymouth in November of the same year they took up their residence upon it and remained there until 1893. They came to Plymouth from the farm and have resided here ever since.

They were the parents of six children, Mr. Frank Kotz, Mrs. F. A. Beelman and Mrs. William Bender of Shelby; Mrs. J. S. Snyder of West Liberty; and Mrs. Charles B. Wentz, of Plymouth; one son, Uriah, who died at the age of fourteen months.

Mr. Kotz is survived by his wife, five children, ten grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. Ann in Michigan. He united with the Lutheran church in Pennsylvania, at the age of eighteen years. On coming to Ohio he transferred his membership to the Lutheran-church of Plymouth. Of this church he was a faithful member for over thirty years.

Mr. Kotz was a quiet, unassuming man of whom, his old friends say, no one could say a harmful word. He worked for his family and for his neighbors, served his God, suffered awhile and went to his reward. His life was well spent. That is his family and his friends say. Some have larger places than others. For each one to fill his place properly is to answer the problem of life.

Julia D. Baechner was born in Sax Coburg, Germany, Nov. 1844, and came to America with her parents in June, 1850. They made their home at Peninsula, N. Y., for eight years, then came to Ohio. She remained in Sax Coburg, Dec. 9, 1873, and they made their home in Plymouth. Mr. Marr died in 1905 in April, 1915 she went to Irondequoit, N. Y., to live with her sister, Mrs. Jacob Brasser. She died at the home of her brother, Mr. C. Baechner, where she had gone for a short time Nov. 1, 1917.

The remains were brought to Plymouth Saturday last and funeral was held at the home of Mrs. Brasser Sunday afternoon. The remains were accompanied here by the sister, Mrs. Brasser, and her daughter, Miss Brasser.

A Letter From Camp Sherman.

Camp Sherman, O., Nov. 4, 1917. To my Plymouth Friends:

This has been a beautiful day at the camp and there were hundreds of visitors here from early morning till evening. I could not help but think of my Plymouth friends, so though I would drop you a few lines it is beginning to look quite war like around here and our boys are detailed to dig trenches this week, the trenches are to be exactly as those in France and will be occupied by the boys later on, it is expected that the Company will occupy a trench for a week at a time later on so as to get used to trench life. There are a number of French officers here now several Americans who have just returned from the front so I suppose the boys will get the latest dope on the subject. I feel very fortunate that I do not get into this job as I am too short to be much of a ditcher and besides I prefer working in the office for Capt. Fleming. However if I do get an invitation to take part I will see if I can't get to be water boy or something of that nature.

We had a letter at the Y. M. C. A. last night by a French officer and I can assure you that it was quite thrilling as well as interesting. I have made inquiry as to Pompey Brown who is somewhere in the Camp but have been unable to locate him so far. The Plymouth boys are all well so far as I know and are pretty good looking bunch of soldiers. They all say that I am getting fat, but I can't account for it unless it is a special make of beans they have here, for I put in from 10 to 14 hours a day, but I don't mind that one bit as it makes the time pass and I get quickly. Am glad to get the Advertiser as I am still much interested in the old town as ever.

With regards all of my many friends back home, I remain as ever, Y. M. C. A. ELDEN NIMMONS.

SONS OF FAMOUS WARRIORS ARE IN WORLD'S CONFLICT

Many Noted American Names of Civil War Days Now on U. S. Army Roll at the Front.

By EDWARD B. CLARK. Washington.—When American troops get into the actual fighting in France it is probable, if the rumor shall allow names to be used, that the people of the United States will read of the doings of soldiers whose names will take readers back to the Civil war days.

In the American army today are a Grant, a Lee, a Sheridan, a Longstreet, a Miles, a Wheeler, a Hancock, a Henry, a Sherman, a Smeener, and a Christian who is a grandson of Gen. Stonewall Jackson.

When Theodore Roosevelt was president of the United States he appointed a Grant, a Lee and a Sheridan as his aides. The Grant was Ulysses S. Grant III, a grandson of General Grant, the Lee was Fitzhugh Lee, a son of the Confederate general of the same name and a grand nephew of Robert E. Lee; the Sheridan was Philip H. Sheridan, son of the famous Union cavalry leader.

When he was in office as president, Colonel Roosevelt visited Georgia, which was his mother's birthplace. There he met the widow of Stonewall Jackson, and he told her that it was his intention to appoint her grandson, Thomas Jackson Christian, to the Military Academy. He did appoint the young man, and today the appointee is an officer in the United States army.

Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, who died not long ago in Kentucky, has a son of the same name serving in the army. General Bolivar's grandson, Grant, was students at West Point together in the forties, and they met again in battle in the Civil war. When Grant was dying in England, Buckner made a trip from the South to Mount McGregor to see his early comrade and later antagonist. The meeting was a most affectionate one.

Young Fitzhugh Lee is an officer of cavalry. In the Roosevelt administration one of Lee's duties as an aide was to ride across country almost daily with the president. When the order was issued that army officers in order to prove their physical endurance should ride a hundred miles within the limit of three days, as a test, Roosevelt made the ride himself in one day, of course changing horses. He took with him on that ride young Lee. The two covered 103 miles, virtually straight away and returned.

Maj. Douglas MacArthur of the Engineers corps, who is graduated number one in his West Point class about ten years ago, is a son of Lieutenant General MacArthur, who at the time of his retirement from the army was the ranking officer on the active list of the United States Army. General MacArthur died not long ago.

It was young Major MacArthur who acted as censor in the war department for about three months. That work has been transferred to another, and now Major MacArthur is awaiting orders to go "Somewhere."

Sherman Miles, the son of Gen. Nelson A. Miles, is a major in the service at the present time. He was sent as an observer to the front in the Balkan wars of a few years ago, and had an interesting and instructive experience.

Adm. R. Chaffee is a captain in the American army. He is the son of the general of the same name who led the American troops in their advance on Peking in 1900.

Lieut. Col. Gay V. Henry, just at present is commandant of cadets at West Point, but it is believed that he with all the others named soon will be ordered to go "Somewhere." Henry is a son of Gen. Gay V. Henry, the famous cavalry leader in the Civil war, and who later won additional fame as an Indian fighter in the West. It was General Henry who made the famous "Red Bank" ride, with his troopers of the Ninth cavalry, of nearly 100 miles to the relief of a detachment of cavalry which was being besieged by Indians.

Duty of the Individual

By DEAN DAVID KINLEY, Vice President of the University of Illinois.

The war calls for sacrifice. From some it has taken life. From others it has taken things dearer than life. From others still it has taken the small thing that call property. What it may take from you and me is yet to be seen. How great is our spirit of sacrifice? Shall we be ready when our country and humanity and God call us, to say that all that we have we sacrifice and dedicate to our ideals of duty and loyalty? In this hour of our country's need, in this day of world suffering, I would impress upon university men and women particularly the thought that their highest duty is the sacrifice of what they have to their country's call. The spirit of sacrifice is ennobling. Out of it great good comes, great deeds arise and leadership is established.

The duty of sacrifice and service rests upon us all. In the providence of God to whom much is given from them much shall be required in this day of world trial. If not given willingly it will be taken. If it must be taken the individual who loses it loses also the spiritual nobility that marks the individual who is ready to sacrifice for and serve his fellow men. If the leaders in thought, those who have gone farthest in education, fail, how shall we expect those whose privileges have been fewer or less to rise to the height of the idealism that is the need of the hour? Duty is not general; it is specific. It rests on the individual and not on some fictitious group called society. It is an individual matter and each one must search his own heart to find whether he is living up to the ideals and spirit of the God of his father and mother. Service, sacrifice, is the prerogative and the duty of the soldier, the citizen and the Christian.

West Point, but it is believed that he with all the others named soon will be ordered to go "Somewhere." Henry is a son of Gen. Gay V. Henry, the famous cavalry leader in the Civil war, and who later won additional fame as an Indian fighter in the West. It was General Henry who made the famous "Red Bank" ride, with his troopers of the Ninth cavalry, of nearly 100 miles to the relief of a detachment of cavalry which was being besieged by Indians.

Now Famous War Tank Said To Have Had a Forerunner In the Nineteenth Century.

Julius Verne in "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" gave an inkling of the present-day activities of the submarine. H. G. Wells predicted the war of air raiders, and now a historical deliver comes forward with the statement that the tank had a forerunner in the nineteenth century. John Napier, lord of Merchiston, the mathematician who invented logarithms, devised a war engine something like the present-day tank. Napier confided to Bacon's elder brother certain "secret inventions" for the purpose of confounding "enemies of God's truth." They included burning mirrors and a chariot of metal double musket proof, the motion of which was controlled by those within and from which shot was discharged through small holes, "the enemy being abused and uncertain what defense to make against a moving mouth of metal."

This description sounds much like the early type of tank and the "conforming" of the enemy, as predicted by Napier, was to have been accomplished by the tanks of the British when they first appeared among the Germans. Napier's engine never went into service for the Scottish inventor directed that his weird instrument of war be kept secret unless necessity compelled its use. Napier, who was born in 1590, died in 1637.

"To Take French Leave" Is Phrase of Uncertain Origin.

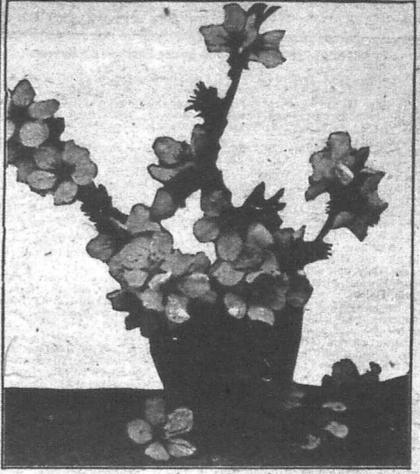

The origin of the phrase "to take French leave" has been the subject of many a philologist's comment. The outcome of them, for the most part, has been to increase interest in the question. It has been generally suggested that the custom of disappearing unobtrusively from a crowded reception, instead of "bowing one's way through a throng of admirers," is of the hostess, is a custom which was the natural outgrowth of courteous consideration for everyone involved. It was borrowed by the English from the French. Again, it has been suggested that the French, to the phrase "French leave," has no connection with the French people, except to the extent that it is implied in the etymology of the word "frank," meaning free, and that the expression may mean simply a free mission not granted but assumed. But the question is further muddled by the fact that the French have a phrase "prendre congé" in a manner analogous to "to retire a l'Anglaise," with precisely the same significance, with the hit at the English. In Germany the phrase is identical with the one from Hilpert's German dictionary it would appear that it is more than 100 years old, while the custom which it relates, withstanding without final leave taking, was an established practice in Germany 300 years ago.

Phonetic Spelling. A good story is told by Lady Logan concerning a coachman named William Turley, whom her husband, Sir John Logan, had in his service, and who ultimately became private coachman to Queen Alexandra.

He was (writes the authoress) a very honest, trustworthy man, but I often wondered whether, in the royal service, he made out his accounts in the original fashion he used to do with us. He had an unbounded talent for phonetic spelling. The first monthly stable bill puzzled my husband not a little. On the left-hand side of the paper appeared a column of figures, and under the right-hand side a column of capital "A's."

"What does this mean, Turley?" asked Sir John. "That's A, Sir John." "No I see. But what is 'A' for?" "For the loaves, Sir John," said honest William, with an indication of reproachful surprise at his master's question.

THE HOME BEAUTIFUL Flowers and Shrubs Their Care and Cultivation

Almonds.

PLAN FOR FUTURE BEAUTY

By LIMA R. ROSE. We who grow plants in our rooms do so for the beauty of their foliage, flowers, or both, and get the pleasure from them to just the degree that we can bring them to their utmost perfection. To attain this, (with plants of any kind) one must know their characteristics and requirements and, consider whether available conditions in the home are adapted to the plants desired.

If a plant standing in the open beds, or in sunny southern windows in making a grand showing of flowers, or brilliantly colored foliage do not get one like it expecting the same results unless it can have similar conditions. The same results cannot be secured if the plant is put into a shaded or northern window.

On the other hand primulas and other plants that produce perfect flowers in cool, semi-shaded rooms will not prove satisfactory in a place adapted to those needing more tropical conditions. The plant-lover who expects to have all sorts of plants grow and bloom in the same window will certainly be found wondering why some of them do not come up to expectation.

Even the texture of the foliage needs to be taken into consideration for rough-leaved plants, that are injured by frequent washings have no chance to develop beautiful foliage in a room where furniture needs dusting every day.

ing all its stalks (to those in the room) is not very ornamental. Very often plants are bodded out for the summer and then potted for the winter garden window, and almost as often the potting is delayed until the plants must be taken in or frozen; and the result is a lot of plants that need a good share of the winter in which to recuperate.

If they are growing where crowded, sacrifice a few branches from the surrounding plants in order to give them space for shapely development, then pinch out the ends of the branches on the selected plants to force the formation of lateral branches. These lateral branches furnish the blooming points on geraniums and most flowering plants, and the more of them that can be forced to start, the more flowers one has during the winter.

Do not select plants that have bloomed profusely during the summer for it is against nature to expect them to keep it up during the winter. Above all, after deciding which plants shall be potted for the winter display, keep all the buds pinched out—do not let a single blossom develop until the plants are established in winter quarters.

Do not leave plants in the bed unfilled by cold weather to take them in. Plan to pot them while the weather is still, after deciding which plants shall be potted for the winter display, keep all the buds pinched out—do not let a single blossom develop until the plants are established in winter quarters.

NEW ENGLAND GROWER USES CULL FRUIT

It costs as much to grow cull as first-grade apples, and if they are not sold above the cost of production there is a loss. In speaking of this subject recently, Prof. W. W. Chesnoy of Massachusetts told of a large New England grower who never loses anything from his 50 acres of small fruit.

Royal Baking Powder saves eggs in baking

In many recipes only half as many eggs are required, in some none at all, if an additional quantity of Royal Baking Powder is used, about a teaspoon, in place of each egg omitted.

Try the following recipes which also conserve white flour as urged by the government.

- Corn Meal Griddle Cakes: 1/2 cup corn meal, 1/2 cup buttermilk, 1/2 cup milk, 1/2 cup shortening, 1/2 cup flour, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup salt. Eggless, Milkless, Butterless Cake: 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1/2 cup water, 1/2 cup seeded raisins, 1/2 cup shortening, 1/2 cup flour, 1/2 cup Royal Baking Powder.

WRINKLES

Wrinkles disfigure, and a dry, sallow, rough skin spoils any woman's good looks. To those whose skin has reached this condition, we suggest the application of Ust, a pure, antioil, diaphanous liquid preparation (not a cream or paste). It is the only thing that will feed the hungry, dry skin back to youthful smoothness, freshness, and plumpness, and drive away disagreeing wrinkles that come so quickly when the skin is not properly nourished.

Ust is fine for the treatment of skin blemishes such as freckles, blackheads and many forms of Eczema. A few applications of Ust proves its worth and in a reasonable time brings wonderful results. For further distribution a bargain. Once only, Try Ust Face Powder de Luxe, which is no ordinary face powder, but a preparation appealing to people of discriminating and refined taste. Four tins—flour, white, pink and lavender, delicately perfumed. One 50c bottle Ust and one 50c box Ust Face Powder de Luxe for 75c. Address Ust Mfg. Co., 865 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

HAULING IN CULL APPLES TO MAKE CIDER.

LENGTH OF TIME TO MILK COWS IS GIVEN

Some Animals Will Give Milk the Year Round if Properly Fed and Given Good Care.

All cows should be well fed, and any animal which is not well fed as when giving milk, though the food need not consist of any grain.

Good bright corn fodder, mixed hay, with a half feed of sweet corn ensilage morning and evening will keep the cow in good healthy condition. It does not injure a cow to put her on fish when dry. The rapid taking of fish at this period is an indication of sound health.

As a general rule, it is a poor cow that will not continue to give milk up to within a few weeks of calving. Some cows will give milk the year round if properly fed and cared for. It is better for the cow and the calf to let the cow go dry at least four or six weeks before calving.

If this method is followed a stronger and healthier milk will be dropped, and the yield of milk for the next season will be greater.

The practice of drying cows early in the winter and calculating to milk them only about eight or nine months of the year had its origin not in a desire to benefit the cows or coming calves, but in the desire to have easy work during the winter in taking care of dry cows.

Young cows with their first calves should be given milk-producing rations, whose milk-secreting tendencies should be encouraged as much as possible.

A good cow, properly fed, should give 6,000 pounds of milk in 12 months. This is not a large yield in a well-managed dairy. Heifers should be well fed and should be bred to come fresh when young.

The buyer of seed should purchase with a guarantee as to purity and not wait until part of his alfalfa acreage comes up in weeds to learn of the quality of seed purchased.

San Jose Scale is HARD TO ERADICATE

Where Trees Are Badly Infested They Should Be Sprayed This Winter and Spring.

Many fruit growers have been applying a dormant spray every winter in orchards which are not infested with San Jose scale. The dormant spray should be omitted in orchards free from San Jose scale.

Every fruit grower should inspect his trees carefully to see if San Jose scale is present. If the scale is found on the trees and is badly infested, they should be sprayed thoroughly this winter and again in the spring, just before the growth starts.

Where the trees are not badly infested, one or two spraying is necessary, and the best time for the application is in the spring.

Same Old Prices. The voice of an anxious woman called the city clerk's office on the telephone the other day, relates the Indianapolis News.

"Is this the marriage parlor?" she asked. When told there were no marriage parlors connected with the office, she said she was anxious to get some information about the "price of marriage."

"I heard some talk about the price of marriage going up and I wanted to know if they had a standard price during the war," she explained.

She gave a sigh of relief when informed that the price of marriage licenses had not been increased, and that most justices of the peace and ministers still relied on the generosity of the bridegroom for their compensation for performing the ceremony.

Housekeepers Can Save $200,000,000 on Food

In these days when the high cost of living pinches nearly every home, no waste of food is more wasteful than the most destructive of food wastes—leftovers. It will often do a hundred dollars' damage of careful estimate in a single night, and it is a waste of money to throw away what these pests' habits destroyed annually.

The Coming of a GREAT ENGINE

It Makes High Power Out of Low Grade Gas

Men who drive cars are face to face with a condition that becomes more and more serious each day.
 That condition is the constantly declining grade of gasoline.
 Nearly every engineer has said goodbye forever to high-grade gas.
 For the moment, and possibly for all time, multi-cylinders, counter balanced crankshafts, and little tricks with valves give way in engineers' discussions to the "gas problem".
 Every alert engineer is bending his utmost to make "one drop of gas now do the work of two".
 Just as great situations produce great men, so out of this condition has come a great engine.
 It is a Chalmers.
 It makes high power out of low grade gas.
 Compared with other engines of the same size or thereabouts, it shows:
*More power More rapid acceleration
 Greater economy Greater length of life
 Greater smoothness*
And an amazing ability to start quickly on a cold day, and to "warm up" without delay.
 The Chalmers engine is a simple one. That is one reason why it is so good.
 In many engines of the moment the gas passes on its way from the carburetor to the cylinder through a tunnel, which runs all the way through the engine block.
 Before the gas gets to the cylinder it is forced to turn many sharp angles and does not become completely mixed with the air.
 This results in raw gas running into not only one but all the cylinders, particularly when the car is cold, and especially when running for the first five or ten miles.
 In the case of the Chalmers engine this type of intake manifold has been completely eliminated.

A new manifold, termed "The Ramshorn," has been constructed of simple piping. It is on the exterior of the engine. It is a manifold of easy curves so that there are no sharp corners for the raw gas to lodge against and be pushed into the cylinders.
 The next development was to give the gas the proper amount of heat after it came from the carburetor.
 What is termed a "hot plate" is built in at the top of the throat of the carburetor so that the gas coming straight up from the carburetor hits the "hot plate", the dimensions of which have been worked out very scientifically, and then passes around the easy curves of the smooth manifold in a perfect state of mixture and at the proper temperature to each of the cylinders.
 The case of this Chalmers engine has been proved.
 1. On August 1 and 2, Joe Dawson drove a Chalmers equipped with this same engine 1,898 miles in 24 hours—faster and farther than anyone ever before had traveled on land, sea or air.
 If there's a flaw in pattern, or part, a solid day of bitter, brutal speed will find it.
 2. There are over 1,000 Chalmers containing this engine now in use. They check up past all expectations.
 Therefore, the Maxwell Motor Company, which has leased The Chalmers Motor Company, has put its O. K. on this engine, and accordingly on the Chalmers car.
 90 per cent of any automobile is the engine; and no car can be a bit better than its engine.
 So you are safe in writing your check for a Chalmers.

If that you don't succeed try, try again. The virtue of this adage has been proved many times in the world's history and many times in the life of every man. The who succeeds makes his failures rungs in the ladder to success. The story of the success of any really great man is the story of try, try again.
The practice of burning leaves in the evenings should be discouraged as it tends to create an unpleasant taste and smell in the otherwise fragrant air—and is very detrimental to weak lungs, asthma and its kindred ailments. Burn them in the morning—but better yet use them for fertilizer, the original plant food fertilizer.
The talk given by Mr. Fred Brown at the Lutheran church, Tuesday afternoon, drew a full house, and all speak highly of the entertaining manner in which he handled the subject. Coming quite recently from France where he was a member of an ambulance corps, his information was from first hands, without any newspaper coloring, and was much appreciated.

J. J. McMann, Chairman.

Why is it so many voters, especially the women who wish to vote for certain candidates and are compelled to write the name on the ballot, neglect to put the necessary X mark to the left of the name in space indicated and in many cases leave the mark out altogether? A ballot without a cross mark doesn't count one at an election and the complaint to the candidate is left very much in doubt.
People who read should not fail to get McClure's September, and peruse the article by Parker Emerson Brown on "Plain Bill Hokentrolern." He says Kings, Kaisers and Czars are only men after all. William Baumgardner, 27, was electrocuted Wednesday morning at North Fairfield. He was employed by the telephone company and was engaged in making repairs in putting in a cross arm, and the line wire came in contact with the high tension wire of the S. N. & M. electric railway, and the young man was hurled to death. He was in the employ of the telephone company for about two years.
On account of the early frosts in certain sections of the state, home grown seed corn adapted to the local communities will be scarce, according to W. E. Harger of the College of Agriculture. Although the one or two field sections of corn under ideal conditions is past, seed may still be selected. It will be profitable, therefore, to select and take best care of this corn that is possible. Seed corn left over from last year, if in good condition, will also prove satisfactory.

Don't Slaughter Brood Sows.
Owing to a falling hog market and the steady price of corn and other feeds, there is a tendency to sell or slaughter brood sows. The owner knows that the present price of pork is high. If he keeps his sows he will be required to use high-priced feed. On the other hand, the hog man who sticks to the business through high and low prices is the one who makes the most money. The man who sells now on a falling market is frequently the man who is tempted to go into the business when hogs are high.
There is a shortage of hogs over the United States as well as in the world at large. From January 1, 1916, to January 1, 1917, the decrease in the United States was 313,000 head. In France the number of hogs has decreased 40 per cent.
Pork lends itself more readily than any other meat for use in the army. With the enormous and unusual needs of the men at the front, as well as those of our allies, the demand will be great and the price satisfactory.

GETS COAT OF TARR AND FEATHERS Victim Has Been for Months Past Considered Radically Pro-German.

Lansing, Mich.—William Sailer, 55, one of the best known residents of Lansing, Mich. of W. S. Sailer, a former Chicago National League club first baseman, who has been for months past considered radically pro-German, was kidnapped within two blocks of his home, taken to the links of the Lansing-Golf club and given a coat of tar and feathers. Sailer refused to admit the police to his house or to furnish any clue to the authorities which might lead them to the arrest of his assailants.

Prior to the tarring and feathering Sailer was given a mock trial before a jury of 20 vigilantes robed in white, including white masks. He admitted, so witnesses said, that he had been pro-German; that he had subscribed to the Liberty Loan under pressure, and said he would resign his position, and confessed to an act of disrespect to the American flag.

When the procedure was over Sailer was dumped into an automobile and taken back to the city where he was dropped on the street near his home.

WIELDS POTATO KNIFE Man in Crowd Slashes Four Young Women.

New York—Four young women were slashed in the nighttime crowds on Broadway, in the financial district here, with a potato knife by Antoni Karasinski, a Pole, who, arrested after a struggle, told the police a rambling story of being bothered for 12 years by women against whom he decided to avenge himself.

He said he had complained to Washington in a letter asking to have the annoyance stopped, but getting no answer, determined to take the matter into his own hands.

The attacks were made in different parts of lower Broadway, and the thoroughfare into a turmoil while the victims were being carried and the mob proceeded for the mysterious slasher, who escaped unseen after each attack.

He was finally picked up in the mobs by his second victim and later identified by another.

MANY U-BOATS ARE SUNK Half of Foo Submarines Destroyed, Says Britain.

London—Between 40 and 50 per cent of the German submarines operating in the North sea, the Arctic and the Atlantic since the beginning of the war have been sunk, said Sir Eric Geddes, first lord of the admiralty, in the house of commons.

"During the last quarter the Germans lost as many submarines as they lost in 1916," added Sir Eric.

The output of merchant shipping in the first nine months of this year, he said, was 123 per cent higher than in the corresponding period last year.

The admiralty has ordered the new national ship building yards to be necessary.

Freud of Suspicion, Lorain—O. C. Deschley, former Cleveland railroad detective who was arrested in Garret, Ind., in connection with the murder of Harry Sawyer, 13, Lorain school girl, was charged of all connection with the crime.

Deschley's innocence was established when Mrs. George Kimmis, who Mrs. Mike Casado failed to identify him as the man they saw in the murder scene a few minutes before the girl was killed while en route to school.

They were taken before the prisoner at the county jail and when they saw him both women declared he was not the man they had in mind.

Army Officer Freed of Charge of Murder

Capt. William J. Condon of the U. S. Reserve Medical corps was acquitted at New Brunswick, N. J., of the murder of John V. Piper, whose body was found in some shrubbery 15 miles from New Brunswick four months after he had mysteriously disappeared last winter.

Piper did odd jobs around the Condon home and left his home on the night he disappeared to collect some money Doctor Condon owed him for work done around the Condon home, and after the finding of the body.

WAR TAX NOW REACHES EVERYBODY IN AMERICA

Washington—The war, "somewhere in France," from 12 a. m. Nov. 1 on, will be brought home forcibly to "everyone here at home."

Not a man, woman or child in the United States will be exempt from the taxes which this country is at war, because at midnight the new war taxes became effective.

It does not make any difference whether it is a little tax on the baby after a bath or a perfect for father after dinner—there's the tax.

Did you hop out of bed for your abstinences this morning and dab a lot of soap on your face, little children for the next cake will cost you more?

Did you think to put a 3-cent stamp on that letter your wife told you to put in the box on your way to the office? Well, it is a cent to your pocket, you'd better put another penny on it.

It becomes a tax-paying proposition from now on. It will be a matter of a penny here and a penny there. Hardly a breath can be drawn untaxed—indeed, breaths that are smoke or liquor laden, have each been taxed for some days.

But most of the taxes which are to raise more than $2,000,000,000 annually to meet the costs of war become effective Nov. 1. Virtually all go into effect, and they are the most noticeable—the unexcused and the unexcused things that men and women and children do, talk about and amuse themselves with.

Some of these are: Five cents on every dime paid for admission to movies, theaters, cabaret shows or other entertainment.

Eight per cent on every railroad fare of 25 cents or over and 10 per cent on Pullman accommodations.

Five cents on every telephone, telegram and 1 cent on every 20 cents paid for express packages.

Picked up in Capital of the Buckeye State

Columbus.—(Special)—Failure of the last legislature to appropriate additional money to pay teachers' salaries in weak school districts, occasioned by the enactment of a law increasing salaries, will leave several thousand teachers in the state holding the bag for their pay at the end of the current school term unless Gov. Cox calls a special session of the legislature appropriate additional funds.

At the state auditors office it is estimated that it will require approximately $250,000 additional state funds to pay the teachers for the school year at the increased salary rate.

The amount appropriated for this relief was only $200,000, and this will run out last until the first of the year, Deputy State Auditor Baker, who handles the funds, estimates. The number of teachers who will have to wait for their salaries another year holding the bag, the legislature is called to appropriate the additional money is estimated at several thousands.

In addition to this deficit in the school funds there may be another deficit which at this time there is no means of estimating. The law increasing the salaries of teachers also carries a provision whereby weak school districts already having deficits in their tuition fund at the beginning of the school year, may retroactively be obligated and present them, when due, to the state for payment.

There are hundreds of school districts which already carry large deficits, but whether any have refunded those obligations with bonds maturing during the present fiscal year is not yet known. It is not necessary to a possibility that many thousand dollars' worth of such bonds may be presented to the state for payment during the year.

It is expected that teachers whose salaries depend upon the action of the legislature in appropriating money to aid the district employing them will be extremely resentful because of the legislature's failure to provide the necessary funds.

The piling up of needs for more money which is believed here, force Gov. Cox to call a special legislative session of the state to consider the needs of school districts need a quarter of a million dollars, the state emergency fund has already been drained far beyond the point where it can be replenished this fiscal year, the bureau of markets needs money before it can begin operation, several hundred thousand dollars in claims against the state are unpaid because of the failure of the sundry appropriation bill, and salaries of the soldiers for their second year is unappropriated.

Auditor Donahy's Report. The end of the road, This conclusion is based on the annual report of State Auditor A. V. Donahy, just made public, which reveals a condition of public finances in Ohio called nothing short of appalling.

Three points take prominence in the report: Cities are staggering under such a load of debt that they cannot pay interest and to pay off indebtedness in the past fiscal year an amount greater than the total sum they raised by taxation for municipal purposes.

Donahy blames public officials and says that "many cities have violated general law on the statute books of the state."

The auditor urges "Ohio voters to reject all bond issues 'until conditions become normal'."

But away and above everything else in the statement stands out the direct pronouncement by the auditor of state that the Smith law is a disaster.

He reads its funeral sermon in this language: "Every year for five years I have as a solecism in my mind the daily assembly that if public debt creation is not more rigidly restricted, the Smith law is a disaster."

There is one alternative, Donahy suggested in discussing his report, other than loosening the limitations of the Smith law by legislative action.

Instead, the measure he would approve as a remedy would be: "Limit also the creation of debt and then let government live within its means—or starve."

PEAS TO STOP THE WASTE IN EGGS

Poultry and Egg Shippers to Cooperate with the Food Administration.

HOPE TO SAVE $50,000,000

Shippers Who Purchase Eggs to Pay Only for Those Fit for Human Consumption—Prompt Chilling of Eggs is Advocated.

Washington.—New methods and equipment to save the $50,000,000 worth of eggs wasted every year in this country and make the poultry industry an effective ally in the cause of food conservation were discussed recently at a conference of representative poultry and egg shippers with the food administration.

The conference was addressed by the food administrator, G. H. Powell, and E. Henry of his staff, and Dr. Mary Pennington of the United States food research laboratory, Philadelphia, and W. F. Friese of the food administration.

The waste in eggs in 1914, according to the department agriculture, was $50,000,000. This year it will be fully as large; for although the supply has gone down, losses have increased materially. Wasteful methods in handling poultry were also exceedingly expensive. The food administration made practical suggestions to reduce the amount of which received the approval of the conference.

Pay Only for Good Eggs

It was recommended that shippers who purchase eggs pay for only those fit for human consumption. The custom has been to buy eggs by the case, without candling, before purchase. Candling was almost always sure to show that a large percentage of the eggs were bad. To get his money back, the shipper would purchase away the bad eggs and raise his price, which was felt all along the line to the consumer.

New York.—Some of the American college boys who went over to France last May as ambulance drivers for the excitement of the war behind the firing line are returning to their homes as the ambulance work for a letter from the United States army and will be done by regular enlisted men. The writing is an extract from a letter written by a Williams boy two weeks ago, who went over with his college unit to drive an ambulance at the front.

WOMEN REPLACE MEN IN MACHINE SHOPS

Ogden, Utah.—Women in overalls replacing men who have been called into the draft army or have volunteered for service with Uncle Sam's army, have made their first appearance here when the Southern Pacific railroad employed about a dozen of the fair sex for work in the local repair shops.

Chilling of eggs to 60 degrees Fahrenheit, or below, as soon after purchase as possible, was advocated. Most eggs are fertile, and the life-germ will deteriorate fast if not chilled. Even in infertile eggs the bacterial growth develops very soon. Housewives were urged to equip their plants with the latest cooling machinery.

All second-grade eggs, heated, shrunken or cracked, should be marketed as often and as near the source as possible. These are usually discarded or frozen, and are used by confectioners and bakers.

Before shipping, all eggs should be carefully rehandled and those badly "checked"—that is, with shells cracked—should be removed. Packing in standard cases is recommended, to prevent breakage. Eggs should be gathered by farmers daily and marketed at least twice a week.

The practice of selling poultry with feed, sand or gravel in their crops, which is paid for by weight with the bird, is discouraged. This crafty device has caused many accidents in the industry, and several municipal investigations, notably one in New York.

The animal was caught by a brave police and trap the companion of its mistress. It is subservient to one person only and that is the young lady found in the photo. Paris has taken the idea and more than one is seen on the streets of the Parisian capital.

250 grammes, about nine ounces. Sugar tickets soon will be issued, with monthly allowances of 180 ounces and nine ounce ounces. Butter is to be rationed too, the amount differing with districts, but nowhere to exceed three ounces a month.

With the institution of rations in Switzerland hundreds of German and Austrian visitors left for home. One reason was they can no longer send home food by parcel post, and, other, more potent, is that under the Swiss regulations food tickets are only issued after thorough inquiry into the visitor's nationality and business. A large inflow of people went on spring, this is also stopped.

Now Has Another's Nerve. Chicago.—Capt. R. Hugh Kuyvet, intelligence officer of the Fifteenth Infantry brigade in central European force, is on his way back to the front after being invalidated when a German shell inflicted twenty wounds. For six months he was paralyzed, but today in Chicago he was as vigorous as ever, the result, he says, of the transplanting of a nerve from another man's leg to his own.

SAWDOUS IN GERMAN BREAD

Analysis Shows That About Two-Thirds is a Wood Product.

Boche.—That German bread is mainly sawdust is now proved by a military analysis made in the Swiss legation in Bern. The analysis was made by a German, who returned to home ill with dysentery. He brought a loaf of German bread to see if it was responsible for his ailment. The analysis reports just analyzed the loaf and found it contained 12 per cent, barley, 22 per cent and the remaining 66 per cent was sawdust.

Bread tickets also are in force in Switzerland. The daily allowance is Commander Seeks Place to Put Division Theater on Cantonment Grounds Rather Than in City—Y. M. C. A. Buildings May Be Used for Present.

Western Newspaper Union News Service. Camp Sherman.—These are anything but melancholy days at Camp Sherman.

With elections, football games, prospective trips to the old home town, intensive "dressing up" drills for the track platform, which will accompany the division football team on its trips about the state, rumors of troop movements hobbling up with pleasing regularity, the amusements of the day when the camp will be officially turned over to General Glenn and promotions coming from regimental headquarters daily, Ohio soldiers have no time for murky thoughts.

Day after day company commanders read orders from division headquarters which drive home the fact that General Glenn never overlooks a bet which will help Ohio's honor more to be comfortable and contented as well as good soldier.

In the last few days officers close to General Glenn have taken correspondence into their confidence and revealed some of the big things the general has in store for his boys. One of these, which is an "open secret," is that General Glenn is opposed to the purchase of a movie picture theater in Chillicothe.

He wants the playhouse right in the center of camp. If there is place for the picture theater, he generally goes what he goes after it's a ten-to-one shot the theater will be erected in Camp Sherman.

End Comes at 84—Had Played Important Role in Congress—Known As "Old Facts and Figures."

Aden.—Gen. Charles Henry Grosvenor, 84, for 30 years a national figure, and known throughout the land as "Old Facts and Figures," died at the family home here. He had long been ill. For many years Grosvenor gave out estimates on the probable vote in national elections, coming astonishingly close to the actual figures. He was a great champion of McKinley and took an active part in all the campaigns of the civil war.

Charles Henry Grosvenor was born at Pomfret, Conn., September 20, 1832. His parents came to Ohio in 1838 and he attended one of the country log schools. When the civil war started he enlisted with the 18th Ohio Infantry as a private and on April 19, 1865, he was promoted to the rank of colonel and brigadier general.

He was a member of the Ohio House of Representatives, 1874-8, being speaker during the last two years.

Commander Seeks Place to Put Division Theater on Cantonment Grounds Rather Than in City—Y. M. C. A. Buildings May Be Used for Present.

Western Newspaper Union News Service. Camp Sherman.—These are anything but melancholy days at Camp Sherman.

With elections, football games, prospective trips to the old home town, intensive "dressing up" drills for the track platform, which will accompany the division football team on its trips about the state, rumors of troop movements hobbling up with pleasing regularity, the amusements of the day when the camp will be officially turned over to General Glenn and promotions coming from regimental headquarters daily, Ohio soldiers have no time for murky thoughts.

Day after day company commanders read orders from division headquarters which drive home the fact that General Glenn never overlooks a bet which will help Ohio's honor more to be comfortable and contented as well as good soldier.

In the last few days officers close to General Glenn have taken correspondence into their confidence and revealed some of the big things the general has in store for his boys. One of these, which is an "open secret," is that General Glenn is opposed to the purchase of a movie picture theater in Chillicothe.

He wants the playhouse right in the center of camp. If there is place for the picture theater, he generally goes what he goes after it's a ten-to-one shot the theater will be erected in Camp Sherman.

COUNTY COMMITTEES MEET

Session at Columbus Warms Up Upon Entry of U. S. Senator Pomeroy—Flays Those Who Profit.

Columbus.—Insurgent sentiment blazed high in the meeting of the county committee with State Fuel Ad-

The flare-up was augmented, perhaps, by the address of United States Senator Pomeroy, who came into the Senate chamber in the midst of the meeting and did not get the full scope of what had happened. He flayed pernicious practices of some operators and gave evidence to show profit taking based on the extreme needs of the country in the perious times of war.

It was helped along, too, by J. J. Cable, Lima attorney, who spoke of the troubles that the people of his district have been experiencing, and who suggested that there should be equitable distribution of coal; that the Northwest should not be used all the coal it can while Ohio has far from enough.

Gov. J. C. Hawell, of Dayton, moved a protest to Washington against shipping coal to the Northwest while the home people were without fuel. There was a dozen seconds to the proposition.

PROTEST TO BOND ISSUES

For Cities During War Is Made By Ohioans, Donahay Says.

Columbus.—A flood of letters which has been coming to Auditor of State V. Donahay bears testimony that citizens are opposing bond issues in all the Ohio cities. The money issues under the present constitution is to be accompanied by a statement of the tax levy to be made to pay interest and sinking fund charges.

Donahay predicted that few bond issues will overcome the popular opposition. It is an ill-advised time to issue public bonds for frills when the cost of necessities is absorbing more than a proportion of the public income, that is of private income, but warred.

OHIO TRAILS SPECULATORS.

Profiteering in Potatoes Said To Have Been Uncovered.

The committee named a man who is said to have bought potatoes from the state for speculative purposes. A retail dealer in Cleveland was reported to have bought large quantities of sugar, with a view to speculation, until it reached a price of 25 cents a pound, which he had predicted.

THREE U. S. SOLDIERS DIE IN GERMAN RAID

Five Are Wounded and Twelve Captured in First Actual Fighting Over Sea.

Washington.—Three American soldiers here were killed, five wounded and 12 captured in a German raid, Washington has just announced. The war department has received a dispatch from the commanding general of the American expeditionary forces in which he states that before daylight Nov. 3, a raid occupied for instruction by a company of American infantry, was sailed by the enemy put down a heavy barrage fire, cutting off the salient from the rear. The enemy losses are not known. One wounded German was taken prisoner.

NINETEEN DIE IN BLAZE

Pateron, N. J.—Nineteen men lost their lives at a fire which destroyed the Pateron Salvation Army rescue building here. Eighteen of the victims were burned to death before rescuers could reach them. The other, one of 14 taken to the hospital, died there of his injuries.

Many others were badly injured, either in the panic-stricken men who stampeded from the building, or by fire reaching them.

Six of the dead were identified at the morgue. They were: Henry Dowling, Michael Grimes, Fred Brezner, John Shuman, Frank Costello and William A. McNab.

Most if not all of the other victims are believed to have been burned before they could be rescued.

The fire started among a large stock of newspapers and magazines stored in the rear of the building. It spread rapidly to the large pile of kindling wood in the yard near by, and leaped up the side of the building, which burned like tinder.

There were 85 men sleeping in the building. Some were old and some were crippled. Few were in the full vigor of manhood, as the rescue mission is to conduct a haven for the poor and homeless.

We have arranged for a series of six interesting articles, "War Talks, by Uncle Dan," written by Mr. Howard H. Gross, president of the Universal Military Training League, of which this is the first. They tell in a graphic way why military training is of value, both to the nation and to the individual, and our readers will find them of unusual interest.

WAR TALKS

By UNCLE DAN

Number One

America Must Fight Hard or Germany May Win—Necessity for Military Training.

"Now, Billie," said his mother, "your Uncle Dan is coming tomorrow to spend a week with us on the farm, and if you want to know about the war, here's your opportunity. Uncle Dan is probably one of the best-informed men in the country." Billie clapped his hands and gave such a whoop that he frightened the baby, but what could you expect of a fifteen-year-old boy who is a living interrogation point and wants to know about war?

Uncle Dan arrived in due time and Billie watched for an opportunity. It came that evening after dinner when Uncle Dan had lighted a cigar and taken a seat on the porch.

"I'm mighty glad you came, Uncle Dan. I want to talk to you about the war. We have just put military training in our town and high school, but we had a hard time to do it. The Joneses and the Greggs objected. They said the war wouldn't come over here. Grandma Jones said, 'They ain't no use to worry, it will soon blow over. Well, we put the training in just the same. You ever heard Judge Brownell, the president of the school board, do the stackers up. He said unless we take off our coats and go to it, Germany may yet win, and if she does, she will take over the great British fleet as a war trophy and compel us to do what ever she wants to; that she could make us pay all the cost of the war; that the Kaiser could tax us as he pleased and that we couldn't help ourselves. He could make every one pay over a part of what he earns; that he could make the farmers pay rates for their own farms, etc. Now, Uncle, what do you think of that?"

"Well, my boy," said Uncle Dan, "all that Judge Brownell says might easily come true and many unless we go quickly to the aid of the allies with large numbers of men and help them break the German line. Unless we can beat the submarines, they may prevent us from getting enough food to the allies to keep them going. In that case Germany would win. As matters stand today, our greatest need is trained men. If we had had several millions of men with military training in our industry and on our farms when the war came, who could have been called at once for service, I do not believe the Kaiser would have forced the war upon us. As it was, we had no respect for us. As it was, we are in it and must go through with it. But never again must we be caught so wholly unprepared."

"There is only one safe way," said Uncle Dan, "and that is to adopt permanently universal military training, apply it to every young man who is physically fit, and in nine months or the twentieth year. The training can be carried forward in the United States training camps that are now being established for training new recruits for the selective draft. As soon as these men vacate these stations, they should be filled by younger men, and this should be made the permanent policy of the country."

Billie's mother, Mrs. Graham, had overheard the conversation. She came out and said: "Really, Brother Dan, are you serious as to the danger of our country? If it is as bad as that, it is high time for us to wake up and do something about it."

"Exactly," replied Uncle Dan. "It is better to wake up now than to be rudely awakened later. We may as well understand, later, that this is our war and we must win it or God help America. Everything that we have or hope to have—our liberties, our blessings, our opportunities are all involved in the war issue before us. Nothing must stand between us and winning this war. It is a question whether the people, right or the Kaiser's might shall dominate the world. If there ever was a holy war, this is it. We are fighting for world liberty. We are fighting for the freedom of humanity. We are fighting for the right of men to govern themselves instead of being governed against their will by a war-mad overlord. Perilous times are ahead of us. We must be prepared to make any sacrifice, to perform any service that may be required of us."

"Oh, Uncle Dan," exclaimed Billie, "may I bring my chin, Jimmie Collins, when we have our next talk? He is a bug on this war business and just wants to see you."

"Certainly," said Uncle Dan, with a hearty laugh. "If we are to have more talks, I shall be glad to have Jimmie join us."

Billie clapped his hands and ran to the kitchen and told Jimmie to get over to see Uncle Dan the next evening.
