AT HOME BEAUTIES

Flowers and Shrubs by Their Care and Cultivation

NATIVE BULBS

By LIMA R. ROSE.

You would not think one could find enough native bulbs to stock a garden, but every year I discover some new ones and have high hope for future searches.

The first thing that opens in my wild garden is the iris. Our mountain sides are covered with it in the spring, and the flower stalks on the mountain are seldom more than seven or eight inches high, but mine are much taller, and the purple flowers very much larger.

Dog-tooth violet comes next, and is one of my prime favorites. I departed from my usual rule and planted the bulbs in a large jar, which was sunk in the earth and filled with a rich soil of creek loam, leaf mold and fertilizer from my lawn, and planted the bulbs from the barn. The flowers are much larger than those I found growing by the brook two years ago. The leaves are very handsome, rich, dark green, mottled curiously with dark brown and white. The flower is a clear lemon yellow tinge, with recurved petals about two inches long and dark brown stamens.

Besides white and yellow water lilies, I have two others that are natives. One, a delicate little white beauty, that is called the "fairly lily," the other larger, blooming in early spring and sending up a leafless flower stalk. It is also white in color.

My white-robins and lady slippers also come on early, in colors pink, white, pale yellow and rich purple. The violet wood sorrel is quite as pretty as its laughy greenhouse kin-folk, its flowers being of a deep violet color instead of reddish purple, and its leaves dark green with a deep chocolate zone.

I have sometimes succeeded in getting the anemone to grow, but can never live through the winter. Buttercups grow for me without any trouble, and I have some queer little bulbs which the colored folks call "Adam and Eve."

They have no bloom but the dark green leaves with maroon linings are very pretty. The bulbs are nearly white and look as if they might be good to eat! If you put them in water those that float are Adams and those that sink are Eve's.

Over in his dark, damp den of a corner, covered with wild clematis and wild passion flower, looms up a giant Jack-in-the-Pulpit. He seems to be called Indian turk, and much preferred that you should note the resemblance between his purplish-black and yellow striped spathe and the queen-cakes. In the late autumn when the Clematis festoons his might with cream-colored sprays, the spathe will be gone and in its place will flame a spike of scarlet berries.

PROPAGATING BY CUTTING

By W. R. GILBERT.

Where thousands of plants are grown for positions in the open air during the summer, this is an important operation from March onward. Considerable foresight and knowledge of the work are necessary to obtain the plants in suitable condition and in sufficient numbers when the time for planting out arrives.

Smith was taking his paper knife obediently into the desk blotter. "And yet we go on calling this a civilized country?" he said indignantly. "Then with a sudden change of front: "I'm in this fight to stay until I win out or die out, Billy; you know that. As I have said, Miss Verda can kill me off if she chooses to; but she won't choose to. Now let's get to work. It's pretty late to rent a justice of the peace out of here to issue a warrant for us, but we'll do it. Then we'll go after Lanterby and make him turn state's evidence. Come on; let's get busy."

But Starbuck, reaching softly for a chair, said he would not. Instead he snatched his little body out of the chair and launched it in a sudden lunge spring at the door. To Smith's astonishment, the door, which should have been latched, came in at Starbuck's wrenching jerk of the knob, bringing with it, hatches and with a crash, started out of him, the new stenographer, Shaw.

"There's your man's evidence," said Starbuck grimly, pushing the hatched door listener into a chair. "Just put the auger a couple of inches into this fellow and see what you can find." Richard Shaw had an atrocious habit of quarter of an hour when Smith and Starbuck applied the thumb screws to force a confession out of him. Nevertheless, knowing that the ground upon which he stood, he never shuffed and prevaricated under the charges and questionings until it became apparent that nothing short of bribery or physical torture would get the truth out of him. Smith was not willing to offer that, and since the literal thumb screws were out of the question, Shaw was locked into one of the vacant rooms across the corridor until he could be taken to the ground upon which he stood.

"That is one time when I fired and missed the whole side of the barn," Starbuck admitted, when Shaw had been ensnared to the makeshift cell across the hall. "I know that fellow is on Stanton's pay roll; and it's reasonably certain that he got his job with you so that he could keep cases on you. But we can't prove anything that we say, so long as he refuses to talk."

"Yes," Smith agreed. "It can't change him, and that's about all that can be done with him."

"He is a pretty smooth article," said Starbuck reflectively. "He used to be a clerk in Maxwell's railroad office, and was mixed up in some kind of crookedness. I don't remember just what."

Smith caught quickly at the suggestion. "Wait a minute, Billy," he broke in; "there's no doubt in my mind that he's a spy."

"Good. We'll do that first; and then we'll get Stanton where I can pick him, Billy; no, there's nothing personal about it; but when a great corporation like the Escalante Land company gets down to plain anarchy and dynamiting it's time to take somebody sweet for it. Let's go and get Shaw."

"Together they went across the corridor, and Smith unlocked the door of the deserted room. The light switch was on the door-jamb and Starbuck flipped and pressed the button. The single incandescent bulb hanging from the ceiling sprang alive—and showed the two men at the door an empty room and an open window. The bird had flown.

Starbuck was grinning again when he went to look out of the window. The roof of the adjoining building was only a few feet below the sill level, and there was a convenient fire escape ladder leading to the ground.

"It's us for that roudhouse out on the Topaz trail before the news gets around to Stanton and Lanterby," he said definitely; and they lost no time in securing an auto for the night.

But that too, proved to be a false place on the hill road, the bar was still open, and a cut game was running in an upstairs room. Starbuck did the necessary cross-questioning of the dog-faced bartender.

"I know me, Pug, and what I can do to you if I have to. We want Hank Lanterby. Pitch out and show us where."

The barkeeper threw up one hand as if he were warding off a blow. "You'd have him in a holy minute, for all of me, Billy; you sure could," he protested indignantly.

"On the level!" snapped Starbuck. "That's straight; I wouldn't lie to you, Billy. Telephone call came from town a little spell ago, and I got Hank outta bed. He horn'd! The barkeeper's mare ain't faded inside of a pair."

Starbuck turned to Smith with a wry smile. "You may as well like back, 'phone Williams to keep his eye on things up at the dam, and go to bed, 'ere'll be nothing more doing tonight."

CHAPTER XVI.

At Any Cost.

With all things moving favorably for Timanoy High Line up to the night of the flood, the battle for the great water-right seemed to take a sudden slant against the local promoters, after the failure to cripple Stanton by the seizure of his bonds, and the subsequent efforts to force the next day there were banquety rumors in the air, none of them of any value for starting point.

that he had forfeited the right to see her. Out of the chaotic wreck of things but one driving motive survived, and it had grown to the stature of an obsession: the determination to bring victory out of defeat for Timanoy High Line to fall, if he must fall, fighting to the last gasp and with his face to the enemy.

"I know," he said, replying, after the reflective pause that charge passed on by Colonel Dexter. "There is a friend of mine here from the East, and I have been obliged to show her some attention, so they say I am neglecting my job. They are also talking it around that I am your Joash, and saying that your only hope is to pitch me overboard."

"That's Dave Kinzie," growled the Missourian. "He seems to have it in for you, some way."

"Nevertheless, he was right," Smith returned gloomily. Then: "I am about at the end of my rope, Colonel—the rope I warned you about when you brought me here and put me into the saddle; and I'm trying desperately to hang on until my job's done. When it is done, when Timanoy High Line can stand fairly on its own feet and fight its own battles, I'm gone."

"Oh, no, you're not," denied the ranchman-president in generous protest. "You come out here and get your wife and daughter into the lincolnt if it can help it."

Colonel Dexter got out of his chair and walked to the office window. When he came back it was with a look of sure-enough chasing you, John?—for something that you have done? Is that what you're trying to tell me?"

"Never again, colonel. It can only be a matter of a few days now, and I'm not going to just give up and your wife and daughter into the lincolnt if it can help it."

John?

We've got to hold him, proof or no proof. Where would we be apt to catch Maxwell at this time of night?"

"Call him up in bed, he'll be wakened. Call him upon the phone and state the case briefly. Tell him if he has any slip on his neck that will warrant us in turning him over to the sheriff, we'll do it to know it."

"You've getting the range now," laughed the ex-couroner, and instead of using the desk he went to sit himself into the sound-proof telephone booth.

PERFECT HEALTH

What Came From Reading a Pinkham Advertisement.

Paterson, N. J. - "I thank you for the Lydia E. Pinkham medicine as it has done for me so much good and brought me back to health and beauty. Some time ago I felt so run down, had pains in my back and sides, was very irregular, dazed, nervous, had much bad dreams, did not feel like eating and had short breath. I read your advertisement in the newspapers and decided to try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It worked from the first bottle, so I took a second and a third, also a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Purifier, and now I am just as well as any other woman. I advise every woman, single or married, who is troubled with any of the aforesaid ailments, to try your wonderful Vegetable Compound the combined purifier and I am sure they will help her to get rid of her troubles as they did me." The Prison, Building Head of the Italian community, said at a luncheon in New York:

"The Germans need, above all things, a spiritless bath or cleaning. When I contemplate them I feel like the restaurateur."

"A restaurateur in the Galleria in Milan was scolded by a tramp who wanted work. The restaurateur, being short-handed, agreed to take the tramp on. But, heavens, he was dirty. 'I'll put you at the dish washing,' said the restaurateur, and then he took out a two-lira note. 'But, here, take this first, and go and get a bath.'"

"As the tramp, bowing and scraping, started off, the restaurateur called him back and said: "There may be some change. In that event, take another bath."

Fakes in Seed Wheat.

A new name to an old variety of wheat improves its selling qualities in the hands of an unscrupulous dealer. High sounding names and extravagant prices go together. Generally the claim is made that less seed per acre is required. One peck per acre is the recommendation for some of these. Since so little seed is required, the price is at least correspondingly high.

Within the past few years one of these varieties was distributed under the name of Marvelous, Miracle and Stoner. On investigation this was not found to be superior to the good standard varieties which are sold at the same rate. If extravagant claims are made for wheat, it is probably one of the old varieties under a new name.

It is not necessary to change seed wheat every two or three years to avoid danger of running out. As long as a reasonable effort is taken to prevent mixing with inferior varieties or the introduction of weed seeds, there is no advantage in changing seed unless it is possible to secure one of the high yielding varieties which is better adapted to one's soil and climate than one usually grown.

Draft Board in Routine Matter.

Work of Richland county's selective board is fast becoming a matter of strictly routine work which runs smoothly in well balanced channels and day by day grinds out the names of young men who will go to make up the immense national army which soon is to be in camp at various cantonments.

Clerks and assistants Tuesday were making out papers calling 506 more men for examinations. These examinations are to start next Tuesday and will continue at the rate of 500 a day coming to a close Saturday night.

Just how many of the third five hundred will be necessary before the county's quota of 259 and an additional 10 per cent, to be held for future use, is highly problematical.

The board members themselves are still considering the exemptions that have been claimed by the men who were examined in the second 500 called last week.

The county board has certified an additional list of names to the district board at Cleveland. In this list are the names of men who claim exemption because of their occupation. The number however, is not as large as those contained in lists of the past.

When the district board receives these claims, blanks will be sent to the applicant, which must be filled out and returned within five days. Then they are passed upon by the district board and either approved or rejected.

The Maccabees Rally.

Plymouth was the rallying point for the Knights of the Maccabees of this section last Friday evening, August 24th, when the reorganization of Plymouth Tent was completed under the direction of Deputy H. E. Sharp of Galion. Twenty new members were admitted and a class of ten more is being instructed for the next meeting.

The guest of honor was Col. E. L. Young, Great Commander of Ohio, who lives at Norwalk. Delegations were present from New Haven, Chicago Junction, Shiloh, Shelby, Galion, Norwalk and Mansfield. The degree work was splendidly put on by the team from Mansfield, led by Commander Johnson and Capt. Cairns. Great Commander Young made the address, of the occasion and other fine talks were made by visitors. The work of Deputy Sharp and the earnest cooperation given him by Commander Danhoff, Record Keeper Mittenbuhler, Sir Knights Ward, Toole, Lynn, and others was highly commended.

A generous luncheon was served by Landford Pickens of the Dreyfonger Hotel, and the team boys from Mansfield were loud in praise of the hospitality of Plymouth Bees. Plymouth Tent will meet every Monday evening in the K. of H. Hall and the prospects are exceedingly bright for a large, strong branch of the Maccabees here. This order has over three hundred thousand members. It is the largest insurance fraternity in Ohio, and its state headquarters are in Norwalk. The officers of Plymouth Tent are as follows: Commander, D. W. Danner; Lieutenant, O. M. Toole; Record Keeper, Geo. Mittenbuhler; Chaplain, James Ward; Sergeant, Bruce Reed; Master-at-arms, D. C. Failer; First Guard, C. Ward; Second Guard, Wm. Reed; Sentinel, L. W. Lynn; Picket, Roy Ziegler.

LARGE ADVANCE ENROLLMENT
At Oberlin Business College.

There has never been a time in the history of business when a complete business training meant so much to a young man or young woman as it does at the present time. The demand for competent stenographers, bookkeepers and office assistants of all classes is overwhelming. There is an unprecedented scarcity of office help throughout the country.

Because the Oberlin Business College offers the best training to be secured in Ohio, students from all sections of the state are now enrolling at this school. The fact that five times as many calls are received at the office as can be filled, assures the student of immediate employment upon completion of his course. Fall Term opens, Tuesday, Sept. 4.

Has Never Seen a Trolley Car.

Within six miles of Norwalk there dwells a woman who has never seen a street car or trolley, and yet is in the best of health. She is an intellectual and hard working woman, too, wife of a prominent farmer, and they have plenty of money and comforts. But she explains that although she lives so close to town, she has been too busy to make the trip. For 22 years she has not been to Norwalk or any other town of the county. The only trips she has made is to drive to neighbors and to relatives, her husband and children do her shopping for her. She is a constant reader of the daily paper, and is happy, serene and contented as well as industrious. But it is unusual, nevertheless. Her age is about 60.—Norwalk Reflector.

Monday will be Labor Day. Down to the state fair this week? And here it is the first day of September. The school bell will jingle Monday morning. Cedar Point will close its doors for the season Monday evening. See the Kapok mattress at Ralston's. It is something new. For Sale—Delaune breeding ewes. Enquire of the Farmers Farm Co. And President Wilson has decided not to smoke the "Pope of Peace." Several Plymouth teachers attended the institute held at Norwalk this week. For Sale—A phonograph, in good condition. Inquire at Russell T. Chapell's grocery store. Following is a recent real estate transfer: "Moses Bachrach to Benton Chronister, lot 97, Plymouth #1." For Rent—The Dr. Burnett residence on Plymouth street. A fine location for roomers. Immediate possession. The Unity Bible Class of the Lutheran church will meet with Mrs. Jackson Bevier Wednesday evening, Sept. 5. All are invited. Work on the repairs at the school building are well under way, and it is hoped to have everything in readiness for the opening Monday morning. The law requiring lights on all vehicles, buggies as well as automobiles, is being enforced about as well as a lot of the other late laws recently enacted. The senate Tuesday, by a vote of 39 to 29, struck from the war revenue bill the provision for an increase in the postage from two cents to three cents. Plymouth has been granted additional mail service—a mail will be carried by the late night westbound train, but will close at 7 p. m. O. S. Earnest, P. M. Announcements received by local dealers from the over-the-houses in the east, carry the glad tidings that, owing to the increase in the cost of labor and material, cylinders will be much higher this year. They will sell for 50 cents a quart, an advance of 10 cents over last year. The season opens Sept. 4. The change in the office of Richland county surveyor will take place Monday, Sept. 3. Emmet Merkel, who has held the position for many years and will be succeeded by Boyd Wierman, Democrat, who was elected last fall. The latter has named Carl Stander, Herman Weil and Harry Kemp, assistants. American householders will soon be buying sugar for less money but there must be a careful use of sugar. The increase in the cost of sugar, in conference with packers in Chicago. The allies are on sugar rations and Americans must use less sugar. However, who states that the pound price will probably be one and one half cents less. Exhibits of boys' and girls' war crop products as well as articles of sewing are being exhibited at most of the county fairs in Ohio. Considerably over 10,000 Ohio boys and girls have undertaken to do their bit this summer in helping their country in the war, and all are eligible to exhibit their products. The youngsters have been aided in their efforts by the College of Agriculture, which has organized them for this work. Not another drop of whiskey will be manufactured in the United States until after the termination of the war. On the night of the 11th of September 8. Lutheran Church.
The concluding half of the sermon on the Ministration of Death and the Ministration of Life, will be delivered. Come and hear the conclusion of the matter. Time, 10:30.
Sunday School at 9:30 and Luther League at 6 o'clock.

Presbyterian Church.
After a vacation of one month all the services of the church will be resumed on next Sabbath.
The pastor will preach in the morning at the usual hour. In the evening the young peoples' meeting will be continued with the evening service, beginning at 7 o'clock. Special music is anticipated. A number of young people will assist in the service. Come! Everyone is invited.
Remember the mid-week prayer service on Thursday evening.
Keep in mind the concert by the colored troupe, Monday evening, Sept. 10.

Methodist Notes.
Epworth League picnic, Labor Day.
Why go to church? The church furnishes all classes of men a form of recreation that is most delightful. A change of occupation is rest, and the man who sleeps in the morning because he has toiled through the week, and reads all day because he is weary after his six days' work will begin the new week both dull and weary.
The combined services adopted for the Sunday evenings of the month of August ended last Sunday. The meeting was in charge of Miss Ruth L'Amoureux and Miss Laverne Lynn and proved most helpful and interesting as the other meetings.
The pastor will preach morning and evening next Sunday. One week from Sunday, which is the last Sunday of the Conference year, opportunity for baptism will be given, also opportunity for any to unite with the church.
Everything is in readiness for the Every-Member canvass next Sunday afternoon. The canvass will begin at one o'clock. The slogan is, "Everybody at church in the morning, and everybody at home in the afternoon." The adoption of the new financial plan and the hearty and sympathetic co-operation in the plan throughout the year on the part of every member will mightily increase the effectiveness of the church, for it is true, if everyone who nobody shirks you can raise a church from the dead.

Received Certificate
This certifies that Iona Belle Bittinger has satisfactorily completed a course of instruction in first aid to the injured, given under the auspices of the American National Red Cross, at Kent, Ohio.
Issued at Washington, August 6, 1917.
Major Medical Corps, U. S. Army.
In charge: First Aid Division, Woodrow Wilson, President.

We All Got It.
Yes, we all get it, both going and coming.
The farmer gets big prices for his produce and pays stiff ones for his clothing, shoes and implements.
And the editors' dig down like hell for everything they get, and get it in the neck at every dig.
Some getting, that.

Dagger Found in Her Heart.
With the exception of the funeral of Mrs. Edith Ayres, first American Red Cross nurse killed in this war, the town of Attra Saturday of last week witnessed the largest funeral in its history, when Bethel churchyard received the body of Mrs. Walter O. Bigham, 25, who was found dead with a dagger buried in her heart.
There has been considerable gossip in that vicinity since the death of the woman and Prosecutor Spitzer and Coroner McConnell are conducting a thorough probe.

New Game Law.
Section 12523 Whoever traps or hunts upon lands, ponds, lakes or private waters of another, except water claimed by riparian right of ownership in adjacent lands, or shoots, or catches, or kills, or injures or pursues a bird, wild fowl or wild animal without obtaining written permission from the owner or his authorized agent, shall be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than fifteen dollars, and, for each subsequent offense, shall be fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than fifty dollars. In default of payment of such fine and costs, he shall be committed to the jail of the county or to a workhouse and shall be confined one day for each dollar of such fine and costs. He shall not be released therefrom except upon payment of the portion of the fine and costs remaining unpaid, and upon the order of the secretary of agriculture.

FIGHT IT NOW.
You cannot run away from a weakness. You must some time fight it out or perish, and, if that be so, why not fight and conquer it now and where you stand?—Robert Louis Stevenson.

RUSSIAN LOANS

Washington.—The United States reaffirmed its faith in the new Russian democracy, and gave concrete evidence of its confidence by loaning another $100,000,000 to the provisional government.

Announcement of the loan came soon after Secretary Lansing had denied formally that reports from Russia were of an unfavorable nature.

On the contrary, he said, confident dispatches were the basis for his belief that the administration at Petrograd was strengthening its position.

"I regard the government of Russia as stronger today than it has been for a month," Lansing said, "both from political and military points of view."

The secretary indicated that he felt little concern over the German advance upon Riga, recalling that the place had been evacuated five times during the war. Maj. Gen. Scott, chief of staff, and a member of the Root commission, agreed that the capture of Riga would not be an important strategical loss.

A German advance upon Petrograd from Riga would be followed by removal of the seat of government to Moscow, seat of the conservative forces upon whom the allies are counting to maintain a firm republican government, and the city looked upon by millions of Russians as their natural capital.

Much of the money now placed to Russia's credit, bringing her total loans from the United States to $275,000,000, probably will be spent immediately for supplies and equipment, such as railroad locomotives and rails.

YANKEE AVIATORS ARE CITED FOR BRAVERY

Frank Headquarters of the French Army.—The Lafayette squadron, composed of American aviators enlisted in the French aerial service, was cited in army orders for its courage and spirit of sacrifice. The citation, which is signed by Gen. Petain, commander-in-chief of the French armies operating on the French front, follows:

The squadron composed of American volunteers who have come to fight for France in the pure spirit of sacrifice, has fought incessantly under the command of Gen. Thevenet, who formed it for an ardent fight against our enemies. In very severe combats it has paid the price of serious losses which, far from weakening, have increased its morale. The squadron has brought down 25 enemy airplanes. It has aroused the profound admiration of our troops. It has had it under their orders and also of French squadrons which are fighting beside it and have desired to rival it in valor.

JAPANESE COMMISSION HONORS WASHINGTON

Washington.—Viscount Ishii, special ambassador from Japan, placing a wreath of roses and chrysanthemums on the tomb of George Washington at Mount Vernon, claimed the right for Japan to honor Washington's memory, and reaffirmed her devotion to the allies' cause.

The members of the Japanese mission, with Secretary and Mrs. Daniels at their heads, called for a testimonial on the president's yacht Mayflower, accompanying them were Ambassador Sato, Secretaries Lansing, Redfield Baker, Postmaster General Burleson, Speaker Clark, members of the senate and house, high members of the army, navy, and marine corps, members of the cabinet, and other prominent people in diplomatic and official life.

Gov. John L. Chen, U. S. E. A., of Washington, who enlisted in the Twenty-second Michigan infantry as a drummer boy at the age of 15, was elected over a vice commandant who had been in the military service.

J. M. BAER

Washington.—The United States reaffirmed its faith in the new Russian democracy, and gave concrete evidence of its confidence by loaning another $100,000,000 to the provisional government.

GARFIELD REINSTATED

Former Ohioan Is Made Coal Administrator. Anthracite Prices for Producers and Jobbers Are Fixed by President.

Washington.—Government control of the coal industry was made almost complete when President Wilson named Dr. Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams college, fuel administrator, fixed anthracite prices for producers and jobbers and set a limit on profits to be made by bituminous shippers. Dr. Garfield is a former Cleveland.

The next and final step will be to make regulations for coal distribution and to fix anthracite and bituminous retail prices.

Anthracite jobbers delivering coal at Buffalo and points east of that city will be allowed a maximum profit of 20 cents a ton of 2,240 pounds and those delivering it west of Buffalo may charge an excess of 50 cents. The combined gross profits of any number of jobbers handling a shipment must not exceed the limit of profit set for a single jobber, except that a screening charge of five cents may be made on rail shipments at Atlantic or lake ports.

The anthracite prices fixed effective Sept. 1 are virtually the same as those which the industry made under a voluntary arrangement made by producers with the trade commission. The prices that may be charged by jobbers, however, will reduce present costs sharply. Bituminous jobbers' profits, too, will be cut by the new price scale set for wholesale transactions.

HOW TO SEND MAIL TO FIGHTING BOYS

Washington.—Before long several thousand young men will be in the various cantonment camps of the national army, and their relatives and other friends will wish to write to them in order to expedite the delivery of their mail and give the boys the best service possible, both to the officers and to their correspondents. If they know in advance the company and regiment to which the soldier is assigned, to address mail according to the following plan:

A Company, First Infantry, Camp Dodge, Iowa.

PRIVATE JOHN JONES, of Minnesota.

If the company and regiment are not known, the mail should be addressed thus:

PRIVATE JOHN JONES, of Minnesota.

When all troops are organized the mail for each man will be distributed direct to his company and regiment. Until then it will be delivered through his state section.

Puzzles Draft Physicians. Manassas Draft board examining physicians were puzzled when Stephen T. Dalton of Shelby came up for examination.

NEWS AND IN THE CAPITAL ACTIVITIES OF STATE DEPARTMENTS AND OTHER HAPPENINGS

Columbus.—(Special).—If you wish to help the United States in the war, there is a new tip from the Ohio defense commission. It says: "Can you not eat and eat all you can't eat. But there's another way to conserve the products needed in the war from truck and farm gardens:

"It's the old-fashioned method of 'burying' vegetables and other food stuffs—common enough 10 and 15 years ago, but almost forgotten now.

"Here's how to store cabbage: Dig a trench about a foot deep. Select sound plants and lay them in heads down. Then dig a narrow and deeper trench on each side of your cabbage row. This provides drainage. Cover the cabbage with this layer of straw and about 12 inches of dirt.

"A little freezing won't hurt the cabbages if they are allowed to thaw out gradually. Cabbage also can be kept nice and crisp for winter use by trimming off stubs and outer leaves, wrapping closely in paper, packing in boxes or barrels and storing in cool place—a cellar, for instance, that has no furnace or is partitioned off."

Register Soldiers to Vote. Boards of elections in Ohio cities will begin at once to register for the November election the soldiers and drafted men who are expecting early calls to leave their home counties, and to register any soldiers quartered in camps or cantonments in their home counties.

Instructions have been sent the boards by Secretary of State W. D. Taft on the first step toward carrying out the administration's promise that all Ohio soldiers who want to vote will be given the opportunity of registering and casting their ballots.

Supplementary instructions will follow, directing the boards how to proceed to register soldiers who already have left their home counties and are stationed at points within and outside Ohio.

Each board is instructed to announce through the papers that it will proceed at once to register all soldiers and drafted men, who can qualify as electors and are expecting to be called out of the county before the regular registration date, they will register before the clerk of the board at any time prior to Sept. 1, and thereafter until the first registration day.

At the time of appearance, soldiers and drafted men will make their applications for absent voters' supplies, the supplies to be forwarded to applicants at proper times. Applicants who cannot give the address to which supplies should be forwarded will be instructed to furnish that address by mail as soon as possible.

The boards are to designate clerks to register soldiers who may be encamped in their home counties, and to obtain the addresses of those soldiers for absent voters' supplies.

Clerks of boards will begin to register at once applications for absent voters' supplies from soldiers and drafted men who live in the counties outside registration cities.

Ohio Guards' Strength. Ohio's national arm is finally accepted for federal service, totals approximately 25,000 officers and enlisted men, according to Maj. Leon J. Smith, chief assistant adjutant general. This is 6,000 more men than required for a division under the new organization plan.

The recent call and muster into the federal service added approximately 20,000 more Ohio guardsmen to Uncle Sam's national guard army. Approximately 5,000 already were in federal service, not having been mustered out after the return from the Mexican border.

Ohio, therefore, will send approximately 21,000 officers and men in her division to the Montgomery, Ala., training camp. The Fourth regiment, which is being sent to France, will be "Rainbow division" to France soon.

How to Help Win War. Here is the latest tip from the Ohio defense commission on how you can help your country win the war:

"On war on a patriotic duty," says N. N. Cahoon, Ohio secretary of agriculture. "Hundreds of car loads of grain, hay and other crops can be rescued from grasshoppers alone by a systematic campaign throughout the country.

Vice Zone is Closed. U. S. Dist. Atty. Stuart R. Bolin announced that he would file a criminal act of Congress, passed May 13, prohibiting "brothels, bawdy houses and immoral resorts," from operating within a five-mile zone of the Coast Guard barracks and Ohio State university has been put into effect.

The enforcement of this act of Congress, which prohibits the operation of immoral houses within the corporate limits of Columbus and it is believed there is little likelihood of their being located outside the city authorized land.

Ohio Won't Regulate Prices. Ohio's plan of regulating coal prices to consumers was given up when it was seen the federal government intended to do the regulating.

The state government had proposed under the direction of Gov. Cox to fix prices at which retailers would sell locally throughout the state, believing Washington would simply set the prices at the mines.

Gov. Cox has just made public a telegram to the federal trade commission in which he said "An announcement that the federal government will fix retail dealers' coal prices in addition to prices at the mines, makes it impossible for the state of Ohio to proceed with independent action already started."

Several weeks ago the state, through the defense council, started an inquiry to get lower coal prices for consumers. When it was announced federal regulation would soon be provided, the state then planned to fix prices after arriving at the cost of handling and distribution, plus the normal profit to the retailer.

There was great interest in the Interior Franklin K. Lane last spring fixing the price at the mine at a $3.50 a ton more than the operators expected, was premature.

Many retail and wholesale coal dealers stockpiled on coal purchased at higher prices under this Washington agreement. They are now threatened with a loss unless the retail and wholesale prices take this into account.

There are six principal Ohio districts in which the thin vein price of 25 a ton for mine run will prevail, as set by Washington. They are Jackson, Pomeroy, Crooksville, Coeburn, Massillon and the scattered sub-districts in the northeastern Ohio. Those in which the price will be 10 a ton are eastern Ohio, Cambridge and Hocking.

Atty. Gen. Joseph McInnes asserted the prices established are entirely fair and merely touched off the suggestion that mines will be forced out of business. The low level of prices will be disastrous to the wagon mines, which have opened up in great numbers under the stimulus of abnormal prices, but McInnes did not believe prices should be curtailed.

McInnes also sent formal letters to 500 Ohio majors requesting reports of retail prices every two weeks and that if proper quotations are not made by dealers they will take it up with federal authorities.

Ohio's Livestock Loss. Ohio is regaining her lost prestige in the number and value of live livestock. The state today has more hogs, cattle, sheep and horses than any year since the late 1910s.

BERNARD M. BARUCH

Washington.—An agreement by the country's beet sugar producers to limit the price of their product so as to effect a reduction of about 1 1/2¢ a pound in the present price of sugar was announced by the food administration, with a notice to the public that this should mean a saving of $20,000,000 between now and the first of next year. It also was announced that there would be no special distribution charges to avoid exorbitant prices.

In the near future the administration will fix the price at which wholesale sugar should be delivered at large canning centers. The beet sugar price fixed is the equivalent of 17 1/2¢ a sugar basis f. o. b. seaport refining point.

The beet sugar production, of about 800,000 tons, begins to come into the market during the first of next year, and the bulk of supplies between then and the first of next year, when the Cuban crop will be available.

RENEFIELD INDIGNANT

Flays Man Who Urges Peace Move Aid.

"No Word in Communi- cation Which Speaks 'American Spirit'"

Washington.—Secretary of Commerce Redfield flayed a correspondent who asked him to support Senator La Follette's peace resolution. His letter was considered in some quarters as stating in general terms at least, the government's attitude towards peace at this time.

"There is no word in our communication which speaks an 'American spirit,'" he wrote, in replying to J. E. Van Dyke of East Orange, N. J. "You seem interested to assert evil intentions on the part of the nations associated with us in the war and an equally earnest wish to slur over the spirit and acts on the part of Germany which brought this war into being."

"Subtly and by indirection, you take such a course as would stab your country in the back, as would the hands of the president and make ineffective for righteousness the sacrifices of our men and our treasure. You deal with superficialities and neglect the substance. You seem not to know that there are two great opposing ideals in the world, one of which must go down for the other. These ideals are autocracy and democracy."

"No humane note rings in your letter. No pity for slaughtered nations shows in it. But you have an excuse for Germany, and the w- w- forces have none."

Two air raids on England, it killed.

London.—Two air raids were made on England within 24 hours, resulting in death to 11 and injury to 13 others in coast towns.

The raids were at Dover, an important naval base on the English channel, and at Margate and Ramsgate. The victims of German planes lived either in Ramsgate or Dover, no fatalities being reported by the English at Margate.

Valiant efforts on the part of air squadrons in the coast towns were actively engaged the flying Germans, prevented their making a break toward the interior.

Roosevelt Wants Just Peace. New York.—Members of the Belgian war mission were entertained by Col. Theodore Roosevelt at his home at Oyster Bay. In a short address to the visitors the colonel declared the greatest measure to be advanced at this time was "talk of an unconditional peace."

"We must have a peace that is just, and no peace will be just which does not give to Belgium a heavy indemnity," Col. Roosevelt said. He advocated that Roosevelt and a great Slav commonwealth.

AGED MUSIC MASTER EXPIRES HIS MISSION

Detroit.—"Shadows are falling for you and me."

It was the sad cadence of Tosti's "Goody" that an old man played on an old piano trembled. With all his mission, and an audience of unfortunate men listened with eyes downcast and brimming with tears—for they sensed its consummation of sugar. That there was room for reduction must be evident when we consider that the average American consumption is about 125 pounds per person per annum, whereas the new sugar regulations in England limit the consumption to 21 pounds per person per annum.

As the violin sobbed on, its strains mounted to a crescendo of despair. Forced to give up the fight in the competition of living, the old music master had come as a pauper, to the haunts of human castaways, to pass the closing years of his life in bitter reminiscence of the days when success was his and his studio was a center of musical culture in Detroit.

It was the last goodby of Fritz Haasfurter, the finale of a life blasted by misfortune.
