

KEEP YOUR LIBERTY BOND.

The Liberty Bond is a government bond—a good bond as the government never has issued. Just as safe, just as reliable.

Don't forget this: Not that in all the history the government has never defaulted one of its bonds. There is no better security on earth. It is as good as a greenback, so far as its safety is concerned.

It pays you four percent interest annually, just as much as you can get for your greenbacks and savings bank. And its face value will never shrink.

There have been times when government bonds went below par, just as in recent months Liberty Bonds have sold below par. But there was never any valid reason why they should have done so.

And they never stayed there so very long at a time.

Since the war of 1812 there has been an issue of United States Bonds that failed to go above par. Some dropped below for a time but they always rose again.

Five percent bonds due in 1885 sold at 127 in 1883. Six percent bonds due in 1881 sold at 123 in 1878.

Four percent bonds due in 1907 sold at 130 in 1899. Another four percent issue due in 1925 sold at 139 in 1901.

Three percent bonds due in 1930 went to 109.

And the day is coming when these Liberty Bonds will sell above par. Where the government bonds went below par there was always a good reason. Someone needed money quickly. In order to get it bonds were offered on the market for whatever price they would bring. This happened usually in tight money periods. With normal conditions they went back to normal values.

Less is impossible up on a government bond investment. Back of these bonds are all the wealth of the nation, something more than $250,000,000,000. Every dollar of the wealth can be taxed by the government for the redemption of its bonds.

So long as there is a United States its bonds will be the best investment on earth. No other country is so rich; no other has such security back of its bonds.

Don't sell your Liberty Bonds. Keep them. They will be rewarded by having the price equal and exceed what you paid for them.

Teachers to Help.

Rural and village teachers of Richland county, as well as those of the rest of the state, are going to do their bit toward meeting the alarming seed corn shortage in Ohio. One of the aims of the corn that is thought to be good is not sowing the seed. To supplement investigations made by the College of Agriculture and the Agricultural Experiment Station, County Superintendent E. W. Bell is requesting that a test be made in the rural and village teachers of the seed corn to reveal the situation in their districts and to return the results of the tests to him. He will send them to the College of Agriculture, where they will be summarized. If the survey shows that the county faces a serious seed corn shortage, federal money will be made available to seed corn in localities where it is available and selling it at cost to farmers.

At the production of corn in this county is 1,079,000 bushels according to the best available information, and the acreage devoted to this crop is 31,000, the planting of seed corn to the industry to get a good supply would prove a serious embarrassment to the crop in this county.

In each rural and village school teachers are asked by the county superintendent to take 2 kernels from each of 50 ears of corn and to make a representative test in accordance with the instructions forwarded to them. The accuracy with which this test is made will have a great deal to do with whether the situation in the county will be met by or afforded this county. The task entrusted to them, therefore, is an important one. In a proclamation the superintendent and in the word sent by the county superintendent, it is expected that this test will be made beginning January 28. In order that the results may be summarized in time, the teachers are being urged to make their report promptly.

Farmers' Institutes.

Are you planning to attend some farmers' institute this season and are you going to be contented with what you know? If you are contented and are not taking advantage of every opportunity to learn how to make your land more productive, we are afraid you are not doing your part. Farmers, especially, should avail themselves of the advantages of the farmers' institutes and the state experiment station. Both are state institutions and cost you nothing. You take no money out of your pocket. Either one will enrich you mentally and financially and will also help with the war.

Obituary.

Emily Olson Paine, daughter of Ezra and Emily Weathera Debus, was born near Pavoia, Ohio, on the 10th day of December, 1849, and died at the home of her son, Walter Paine, near Ashland, Ohio, on Friday morning, December 14, 1917, at the age of 68 years and 4 days.

In 1872 she was united in marriage to Leander Paine, to which union were born 4 sons, one dying in infancy. At an early age she united with the Methodist church at Pavoia, and later at Plymouth, Ohio, and lived an earnest Christian life until death. She was a devoted mother; ever self-sacrificing for the comfort of her loved ones. The most of her married life was lived at Plymouth and Ripley. Six years ago they moved to Ashland, Ohio, and three years ago to Hayward, Calif.

Those who will feel her loss most keenly are the husband, who on account of his age, was unable to be with his family in this hour of bereavement, the oldest son, Frank Paine, of Findlay, Ohio, Walter Paine and wife of church at Pavoia, and late at Plymouth, Ohio; Herbert Paine of Hayward, Calif.; also three grandsons, besides one sister, two brothers and other relatives.

The remains were laid at rest in Greenlawn cemetery, Plymouth.

Farmers are Misled in Phosphate Supply.

Ohio farmers are receiving mimeographed circulars issued by a fertilizer company in another state which may lead to disappointment. These circulars are out to sell the raw phosphate rock of Tennessee and other southern states, from which phosphoric acid is made by mixing with approximately an equal weight of sulphuric acid. The raw rock may contain 12 or 13 per cent of phosphorus, equivalent to 18 or 23 per cent "phosphoric acid." As a fertilizer made into acid phosphate the percentage of phosphoric acid would be only half as great. In other words, a ton of ordinary raw rock mixed with two tons of sulphuric acid will produce two tons of 16 per cent acid phosphate.

But the work of the Ohio Experiment Station has shown that for use as farmers are in the habit of using fertilizers, one ton of acid phosphate is worth as much as two or three tons of the raw rock.

The foot of the plant must be soluble in water, but the phosphate rock has been found to be weathered, and everything that water could dissolve a little more, but not enough to make it probable to use until it has been rendered soluble by chemical treatment, or by composting with stable manure. Farmers who buy the untreated rock expecting to get the same effect from it, they have been getting from acid phosphate will be sorely disappointed. The Experiment Station says.

Lime and Fertilizer Can Improve Pasture.

Lime, fertilizer and manure are the keys to improvement of permanent pastures having good bluegrass pastures, according to specialists at the Ohio Experiment Station who have conducted surveys and tests in seven counties in the southern half of the state. Having now proved somewhat detrimental to fields of this sort, but it has given the best stand of grass in the absence of a bluegrass sod.

For land where ragwort plants, leave out in winter or red clover does not thrive, alkali is recommended as an important clover seed to use in the winter mixture. Because of its smaller seeds it may constitute one-fourth of the entire bulk of clover seed. Where white clover thrives lime is considered unnecessary.

Nitrate of soda has brought a greater growth of grass having a dark green color. Phosphorus and potash have not been found to be detrimental to the growth of grass and brought in more white clover, particularly on the Clermont County Experiment Farm.

Heavy stocking with farm animals secured to aid in keeping down weeds and grasses and was not detrimental to the sward. Clipping pastures in June and August has helped to kill weeds and to cause grass to come up from.

TELLS ABOUT JOHN RANDOLPH

Thomas H. Benton relates interview with Eccentric Man, in Which He Depicts His Melancholy Mood.

Thomas H. Benton in his "Thirty Years' View" gives an interesting account of an interview he had with the eccentric John Randolph of Roanoke.

The interview was at Mr. Benton's room in Crawford's hotel, in Georgetown. It was in the gloom of the evening, before the lamps were lit. Mr. Randolph, reclining on a soft, silent and thoughtful, repeated, as if to himself, Johnson's lines on "Genility and Imbecility," that show his life under its most melancholy form:

"In life's last scenes what prodigies surprise,
Fears of the brave and follies of the wise.
Down Marlborough's eyes the streams
Of dotage flow,
And Swift expresses a drivel and a show."

When Mr. Randolph finished repeating these lines, Mr. Benton said to him: "Mr. Randolph, I have often heard you repeat these as if they could have an application to yourself, while no one can have less reason than yourself to fear the fate of Swift."

To this Randolph replied: "I have lived in dread of insanity."

While Randolph was not insane in the ordinary sense of the word, it is certain that he had occasional temporary aberrations of the mind, and it was during such times that his talk was most brilliant, a copious flow for hours of wit and classic allusion, a perfect scattering of the diamonds of the mind.

His will was contested on the ground of insanity, but it was not set aside.

MIX DOUGH WITH SEA WATER

Wider Adoption of the Practice Is Recommended by French Naval Pharmacist, Health Authorities.

It has long been a custom in certain parts of France to make up the dough for bread with sea-water instead of with customary fresh water, with the addition of salt required to make bread both beautiful and appetizing, says the Literary Digest. M. Albert Saint Serin, a French naval pharmacist of the first class, urges the wider adoption of the practice, which has, according to him, several advantages over the best yeast bread, owing to the affinity for water possessed by the magnesium chloride seawater contains; it is very wholesome, and it provides not only a large quantity of sodium and magnesium, but other mineral substances which the body can make use of.

The water must be collected at a suitable distance from land and should be taken from a depth of six or seven yards if possible. The yeast must be prepared with fresh water and the salt water used for mixing the dough. The French writer adds:

"Bread made with sea water, useful for everybody, is to be recommended especially for growing children, for convalescents, and for all those who need to repair the wastes due to fever or to hard labor."

Half-Way Work.

We are, none of us, so good architects as to be able to work habitually beneath our strength; and yet there is not a building that I know of, lately raised, wherein it is not sufficiently evident that neither architect nor builder has done his best. It is the specific characteristic of modern work. All old work nearly has been hard work. It may be the hard work of children, of barbarians, of rustics; but it is always their utmost. Let us have done with this kind of work at once; cast off every temptation to it; do not let us degrade ourselves voluntarily, and then murmur at the result, over our shortcomings; let us confess our poverty or our pastime, but do not belie our human intellect. It is not a question of doing more, but of doing better. Do not let us boss our roofs with wretched, half-worked, blundered rosettes; do not let us flank our gates with rigid imitations of medieval statuary. Such things are more inept suits to common sense, and only unfit us for feeling the nobility of their prototypes.—Ruskin.

In the Embryo.

Gertrude strutted about like a peacock with her aunt's hat and veil on. Billy, her cousin, peeped in at her. "Oh, ticks off the veil, they're only for ladies," he said. Gertrude lost no time in saying: "Well, I'm the beginning of a lady, ain't I?"

Some Early Carriers.

The candles of the Romans were composed of string surrounded either by wax or pitch. Splinters of wood, covered with fat, were used by the English poorer classes in 1300.

FREE STARTED FROM BOTTOM OF LADDER

Helped Father Clear Farm Out of Pennsylvania Woods

Joseph Leverage Free, whose untiring energy and stick-to-itiveness has brought to a successful conclusion, promotion, construction and opening for business of Hotel Winton, Cleveland's finest and most modern hotel and one of the finest hotels in the country, got his start from the bottom of the ladder.

When a boy in his teens he worked on a farm for $5 a month. For several winters he worked for his board and went to school. Along with his brothers he helped his father clear a new farm out of the Pennsylvania woods. He taught school in the country to earn the money with which to go to normal school and college.

Nineteen years ago Mr. Free quit school teaching to go into business for himself. The first venture was a country store at the Cross road, just over the line in Pennsylvania. Men used to sit on Free's cracker barrels and talk about the fertile soil of the Bloomfield swamp, just across the Ohio line. While Free sold groceries and boots and shoes and hardware, he listened to the gossip.

Years later—five years ago, in fact, he bought up the whole swamp, consisting of some 5,000 acres, organized a company and put in a big drainage ditch eight miles in length. After selling off about a thousand acres of this land he organized a truck gardening company, in which he interested M. L. Reutenik and other prominent truck growers.

The past season this company harvested 28,000 bushels of onions and 10,000 bushels of carrots, and they are only nicely getting under way with the celery, and other crops. The railway siding, warehouses and tenement houses, and experts who have visited this section declare that it is to be one of the greatest intensive farming enterprises in the United States.

A dozen years ago Free used to come up to Cleveland to buy lumber and trade in real estate. At that time he took over land on Noble road at $400 an acre in a trading way. Today the real estate business told him it was not worth $200. Today one can see Free's name on sign boards for two miles on Noble road, but the section is one of the most popular residence districts about the city.

From the bottom of the ladder he started up to the top. He has helped his father clear a new farm out of the Pennsylvania woods. He taught school in the country to earn the money with which to go to normal school and college. Nineteen years ago Mr. Free quit school teaching to go into business for himself. BAKER'S COCOA has great food value

THE food value of cocoa has been proven by centuries of use, and dietitians and physicians the world over are enthusiastic in their endorsements of it. It is said to contain more nourishment than beef, in a more readily assimilated form. The choice, however, should be a high-grade cocoa—"Baker's" of course.

The Great Joker.
Frederick W. Vanderbilt, at a dinner in Poughkeepsie, discussed the production of his war garden.

"I told you all that my war garden has produced," he said, "you wouldn't believe me. You'd think I was as mendacious a joker as Mark Twain."

"A young girl once asked Mark Twain to write her an autograph album. She said it must be something she could show her mother. The great humorist dipped his pen in the ink and wrote:

"Never tell a lie."

"Beautiful," said the girl, in a slightly disappointed voice; but Mark wasn't done yet. He dipped his pen in the ink again and added:

"Except to keep in practice."

NEW EAR'S GREETINGS

The Heads of Canada's Western Provinces, and Their Message.

The United States having been in the great world's war for about a month, the touch of war's spirit has permeated the great commonwealth, and in every hamlet and district is felt and shown the interest that was to be expected from a people whose love of liberty and justice rises supreme to all else. Day by day their appreciation of what it means to give up now for the future happiness of themselves and the generations that follow grows deeper and greater. There will be losses of loved ones, but there will be no loss of mourning to indicate the great sorrow that will be felt. It is realized that the sacrifice is the toll that is demanded for making the whole world better and happier. Hence, there is preparation and willingness to sacrifice until the goal—the defeat and downfall of despotism—is assured. When the people look back and see what Canada has done, and learn that Canada today is bigger and better than ever, they will take heart, and with increasing confidence carry on to a greater courage. Canada has been in the war for three and a half years. She has sent 400,000 out of a population of eight million, she has subscribed to Victory Bonds over and over again and there is no sound of a whimper. At each demand that is made she has responded as she meets it and gets ready for the next. Recently her people were asked to subscribe $300,000,000. She handed over $400,000,000.

Having already contributed 400,000 soldiers, Canada was recently asked to approve of sending another 100,000. With a sweeping majority, consent was given.

How the war affects Canada is best shown by the willingness of the people to contribute to the war effort. The great and noble part they are taking in this great conflict. They are a unit in making the world better. Canada's wealth is her strength, she meets it to advantage than in the present struggle. It possesses great wealth in the soil, in its mines, its other natural resources, and wonderful riches in the tenacity and courage of its men and its women. The soil and the climate, and the hardihood and determination of the farming folk, who are cultivating and irrigating, growing wheat and raising cattle to build up the resources so necessary to carry on the war, are factors that will count.

Probably the best word of encouragement comes from the Premiers of the three great provinces where the bulk of the food products will come from. When on reads what these men, prominent in their country, say, it gives inspiration. If there are any who may be discouraged by the length of the war, that these gentlemen send forward should remove all doubt. Three and a half years in the war, able to speak with authority, could not help but bright to those who may have their seasons of doubt!

Hon. T. C. Norris, Premier of Manitoba has prospered exceedingly during the year 1917, and the new year finds us not only still ready and willing, but unconsciously able to bear whatever burdens the fourth year of the war may bring.

"Manitoba farmers, generally speaking, have never been in better position to carry on. Out of her prosperity Manitoba is giving lavishly toward the winning of the war. Every appeal for more money has been met with a generous response. The people of the Province are well settled into the collar in all war efforts. There's a spirit of deternment and courage in the financial position, of confidence in the certain outcome, of which there is no room for pessimism. Manitoba will carry on."

Such a message had a potent and successful year in 1917, and when Premier Martin sent out his New Year message it was filled with an optimism that few have fully appreciated.

"There is no doubt that the province today is in a better condition financially than ever before. True, the effects of the war and the high cost of raw materials have not altogether passed away, but speaking generally, the farmers on the plains and the merchants in the towns are in a better financial position today than at any previous time. Our people are industrious and progressive. "While we have in some portions of the Province a high price for raw materials and scientific methods are making rapid strides and we are looking forward with every confidence to a glorious future and development of a people on the central plains of Canada, of which the whole Dominion and the British Empire will have every reason to be proud."

While Alberta has given over to the war thousands of her virile manhood, thus taking from the farmer a large part of his man power, the province stands up bold and buoyant. The farm help thus temporarily removed means a demand for farm help and increased acreage. Hon. Chas. Stewart, Premier of Alberta, in a message to the people on the 1st of January, speaks with authority of the future and so lightly of the work of the past year, that his statement is reproduced. He says:

"The prosperity of the farming communities is reflected in the towns and cities by increased wholesale business."

and bank clearances. Wholesale reports increases from 20 per cent to 25 per cent over the corresponding month in the history of the Province. Alberta being essentially an agricultural Province at the present time, these conditions are a source of great gratification to our people, and no doubt will be to Canada as a whole—taking into consideration the fact that Alberta forms no small part of the granary to which the Empire at present looks as the source of its food supply.—Advertisement.

Air Raid Costumes.
In the West end there was a very smart display, I am told, of Zeppelin costumes. These are usually made of silk or satin, warmly lined, of the nature of a dressing gown, but are trimmed with fur, with a cap to match. On lively nights they are laid out near the bed so that the lady can in a few minutes be ready for the street or the cellar. The caps are particularly smart, and solve the difficulty of arranging the hair. Various styles and colors are worn, but the part of the outfit.—Manchester Guardian.

Aviator Reaches Ground Safely Although All the Wires on His Machine Are Loosened—Spends Holiday in Air.

Washington.—Word pictures of the work of the members of the Lafayette Squadron and other American aviators in France are given in letters which Dr. Charles D. Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, has received from his son, E. S. Walcott, who, after flying in "somewhere" behind the German lines along the western front. The allusions to the work of the American aviators contained in these letters are all the more interesting in this view of the fact that the men about whom Walcott wrote have just been commissioned in the American air service on the recommendation of General Pershing.

Doctor Walcott has received a dispatch from Paris informing him that his son fell within the enemy lines December while fighting three single-seaters, after having demolished an enemy two-seater, and that his fate is uncertain. Inquiries are being made to ascertain, if possible, from German front the German lines along the western front. The allusions to the work of the American aviators contained in these letters are all the more interesting in this view of the fact that the men about whom Walcott wrote have just been commissioned in the American air service on the recommendation of General Pershing.

AN AIRPLANE CAMERA

This type of camera which no doubt will be used by American aviators to take pictures of the enemy's positions is attached to the airplane and is operated by the pulling of strings or the pressing of buttons. The camera is almost automatic, as everything can be set in advance and the entire operation of taking the picture is the pressing of the button or the pulling of the string. The camera takes an almost perfect view of the terrain and will be invaluable in the reconnaissance work of the army. The camera is loaded with plates and a number of pictures can be taken successively without additional work. A British royal flying corps man is in the machine.

Chippewa Falls Park Board Forced to Stay Because of Cost of Keep.

Chippewa Falls, Wis.—An increase in the deer and the amount of food for the animals, has caused the park board to have three of the deer slain, and the remainder placed on sale in one of the markets. Permission to kill the deer had to be obtained from the state conservation commission.

HUSBAND SAVES WIFE

From Suffering by Getting Her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pittsburgh, Pa.—"For many months I was not able to do my work owing to a weakness which caused backache and headaches. A friend called my attention to one of your newspaper advertisements and I immediately bought three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me. After taking two bottles I felt fine and my troubles caused by that weakness are a thing of the past. All women who suffer as I did should get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. J. A. Robinson, 620 Knapp St., N. E., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Women who suffer from any form of weakness, as indicated by displacements, inflammation, irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness or "the blues," should accept Mrs. Robinson's suggestion and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a thorough trial.

For over forty years it has been correcting such ailments. If you have mysterious complications write for advice to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

A Skilled Juvenile Artist. Bessie is a bright one. The other day her teacher set her and her schoolmates to drawing, letting them choose their own subjects. After the teacher had examined what the other children had drawn, she took up Bessie's sheet.

"Why, what's this?" she said. "You haven't drawn anything and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a thorough trial."

Body Terribly Swollen. Mr. Madara's Condition Was Critical Until Doan's Was Used. Health Was Restored.

"For six months I couldn't walk, I was so swollen as the result of kidney trouble," says Geo. T. Madara, 15 Mt. Vernon Ave., Pittsburg, Pa. "I had a 'backache' drove me nearly wild and big lumps formed over each kidney. I was so bloated until I weighed over 200 pounds and I was in a sight to behold. The water in my system pressed around my heart and I sometimes felt as if I was being strangled. The kidney secretions were scanty and contained a thick sediment."

"No one can imagine how I suffered. I finally went to the hospital, but when an operation was suggested I would not consent and came home."

"I heard how Doan's Kidney Pills had helped others, so I discarded all the other medicines and started taking them. The second day I began to improve and in a few days my back stopped aching and the water went down. The other kidney troubles had left me, and I was as well as ever."

TILE TRAP FOR COTTONTAILS

Inexpensive and Permanent Device for Rabbits is Described in Farmers' Bulletin 702.

To make an inexpensive and permanent sewer pipe trap for cottontail rabbits which has proven very effective as described in Farmers' Bulletin 702, proceed as follows:

Set a 12 by 6-inch "tee" sewer tile with the long end upward, and bury it so that the 6-inch opening at the side is below the surface of the ground. Connect two lengths of 6-inch sewer pipe horizontally with the side opening. Second grade sewer pipe will do. Cover the joints with soil so as to exclude light. Provide a tight removable cover, such as an old narrow disk, for the top of the large tile. The projecting end of the small tile is then surrounded with rocks, brush or wood, so as to make the hole look inviting to rabbits and encourage them to frequent the den. Rabbits, of course, are free to go in or out of these dens, which should be constructed in promising spots on the farm and in the orchard. A trained dog will locate inhabited dens. The outlet is closed with a disk of wood on a stake, or the dog guards the opening. The cover is lifted and the rabbits captured by hand.

GOOD HOUSE FOR BACK-YARD FLOCK

Comfort, Not Luxury, is Important for Flock's Need.

OLD SHED IS SATISFACTORY Made Warm and Airy, and With Many Conveniences, is All That is Necessary—Divide Yard for Growing Green Feed.

A house for the back-yard flock need not be expensive. It should be comfortable. Often there is an unused shed or building on the place which can easily be converted into a chicken house. The front of the poultry house should face toward the south, if possible, so that the sun will shine into it. A house which provides a floor space of three or four square feet for each bird is ample in size and fowls are often successfully kept with an allowance not greater than two and one-half to three square feet. Houses must be dry and free from draft, but must allow ventilation. Very satisfactory houses can be made cheaply from piano boxes or other packing cases. Where there is a board fence it is sometimes possible to take advantage of this by building the poultry house in the corner of the fence, making the fence itself, with the cracks covered by strips of battens, serve as the back and one side of the house.

A cheap house 8 feet square can be made of 2 by 4-inch planks and 12-inch boards and covered with roofing paper. Such a house will hold enough for a flock of 20 to 25 hens. It can be built quickly and is cheap in construction. Plans for building it, which can be seen in following, with a description of all the material needed are given in a new publication of the United States Department of Agriculture, Farmers' Bulletin 828.

If the back yard is well drained, the ground itself should be dry enough to serve as the floor of the house. Often a slight dampness can be corrected by filling up the floor several inches above the outside ground with sand, cinders, gravel or dirt. Three or four inches of surface of floor, and especially on the house, should be removed and replaced with fresh dirt two or three times a year. If the ground is so wet or damp that the condition cannot be corrected by filling, it is best to provide a board floor, as this will keep the house dry, will allow easier cleaning, and will promote the general health and well-being of the hens. A house with a board floor should be set on posts or blocks. In this way the floor will not rot so quickly and rats are not so likely to take refuge under it.

To keep the flock in a clean and sanitary condition, the dropping boards should be provided and roosts above them. This makes it easy to remove the droppings each morning, and helps greatly to keep the house free from objectionable odors. A little sand sprinkled on the dropping boards after each cleaning will make the cleaning easier. The dropping boards and roosts should be placed against the back wall. Here they are out of the way and at the same time where they are less likely to be reached by drafts. The droppings board should be about 20 to 30 inches from the floor, depending on the height of the building. This gives space under the board for the chickens' feet to rest on, and it is not too high for the heavier hens to fly to. The roosts should be three or four inches above the dropping board. A piece of 2 by 4 or 2 by 3 laid on edge, and with the upper corners rounded off, makes a good roost. Roosts cannot be provided and may be very simple. Any box about one foot square and five or six inches deep is suitable. An ordinary orange box with a partition in the middle serves this purpose very well. The droppings board and roosts should be placed two feet apart. With the top removed the box is laid on its side and a strip three or four inches wide nailed across the lower front. Nests can be fastened to the walls of the house or set on the floor. It is preferable to fasten them

BURN ALL ORCHARD RUBBISH

Winter or Dormant Spraying Will Do Great Work in Destroying and Controlling Pests.

Fungus, which causes serious loss to the fruit grower, lives through the winter on fallen leaves, fruit, dead branches and pruning trash. Do not give the chance to attack the fruit again next spring. Destroy all rubbish by fire. A winter or dormant spray will do great work in controlling insect pests.

QUINCES IN GARDEN CORNER

Trees Succeed in Almost Any Out-of-the-Way Place. Yield Wealth of Exquisite Jellies.

Quinces succeed well in any out-of-the-way corner. It has been said that the quince is essentially a fence-corner tree, and an odd corner of the garden or back yard may easily be made to yield a veritable wealth of the most exquisite jellies, conserves and marmalades, where commonly nothing but weeds would grow.

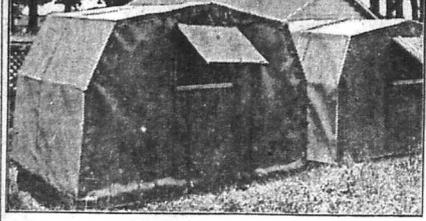

USE FOR ARSENATE OF LIME

Can Be Utilized in Bordeaux Mixture and in Dilute Lime-Sulphur Spray—Add Milk of Lime.

Arsenate of lime can be used in Bordeaux mixture and in dilute lime-sulphur spray, just as is arsenate of lead. When used in water the milk of lime made from slacking three or four pounds of stone lime should be added to each 50 gallons of water.

against the wall, as they take too much room if set on the floor. One nest should be provided for each four or five hens. Straw or other material used in the nests should be kept clean and not allowed to become so low that the eggs will strike the wooden bottom of the nest, and by forcing the grain in the nest. This may cause the eggs to break and will start the hens to eating them—a very troublesome habit which is very difficult to break up once it is formed.

A litter of straw or leaves about three or four inches deep on the floor of the house helps to absorb the droppings, and by forcing the grain in the litter the hens are obliged to exercise by scratching for it.

Wire fencing is preferable to boards if it is cheaper and the fence is likely to fly over. If cats prove troublesome, where one is raising young chickens, it may be necessary to cover the top of the yard with net also. This is practicable for small enclosures. A board should not be used at the top of the wire fence as this gives the hens a visible place to alight and tends to teach them to fly over. A foot fence is high enough for most conditions, but if the hens show a tendency to fly over such a fence the feathered ones will be clipped. The larger the yard which can be provided, the better the hens will do, as it not only gives them better opportunity to exercise but also makes it possible to maintain a sod in the yard. In most cases not enough grass can be raised to keep a sod maintained. If the yard is divided by bars, it can be divided into two parts and green crops, such as oats, alfalfa or clover, be raised, allowing one to start in one yard while the other is confined to the other. The yard should be turned or sanded up frequently if it is necessary to keep it in the best condition. This will not tend to keep down any odors which might arise but also allow the droppings to be blown into the soil more readily and therefore keep the yard in better condition for the hens.

Although it is necessary to keep the hens confined to their yard most of the time, it is sometimes possible to let them out where they may range on the lawn for an hour or so during the evening when someone can be at hand to watch them or certain seasons of the year to allow them to run in the garden plot. The next article on back-yard poultry keeping will discuss the feeding of the flock and be as suggestive as to the use of kitchen waste and the amount of grain and other feed needed.

THIS HOUSE FOR PIANO BOXES; FOR 12 HENS—$12.

A very satisfactory hen house can be made of two piano boxes. The boxes are divided lengthwise to back 3 feet apart, the back and top of each removed, a frame for roof and floor added and a partition between the two boxes built in with the boards removed from the boxes. The whole is covered with roofing paper. A piece of the door should be left open or covered with a piece of muslin to allow light and ventilation, and windows in the rear of the house may be provided. With piano boxes at $2.50 each, such a house can be easily and quickly built for $12. It will accommodate 12 hens comfortably.

As it is better to have a cold, dry poultry house than a warm, damp one, a piece of ventilation should be provided. A cloth curtain over an opening has proved a very successful method of ventilation.

If the poultry yards are to be on only one side of the house they should be located on the south side in order that the sun may have the benefit of the first dry ground in early spring and the warmth from the reflection of the sun on the house during the winter.

Your flock need not be objectionable to the neighbors. There will be no disagreeable droppings if dropping boards are provided in the chicken house and these are cleaned daily. The noise of the male bird is an unnecessary annoyance if the male is kept in a flock apart from the hens. Hens lay just as well without the male.

BROUGHT THEM UP STANDING

American Soldiers Misunderstood their "Enemy's" Announcements and Wanted a Cut of That "Pie."

Stories of the Thanksgiving day dinner party certain fast shops and restaurants prepared for American soldiers in Paris are still current with guesses as to how many turkeys with their "bones" were consumed.

One of the best yarns is told of a party of Uncle Sam's engineers who had their spread at an English tea place near the Madeleine, where an elaborate menu at a fixed price had been advertised.

The soldier boys came early and ate steadily and thoroughly. Their perusal of dessert and filling the clock round of dessert and filling the clock several times he became quite jumpy as the boys showed no signs of their intention to leave the table. Then he had a look at the menu and it was he would suggest it was time to settle for their dinner.

"Pie at the end!" he shouted.

Every American soldier was on his feet in a flash.

"Where's that pie, cookery?" they demanded.

But that water had started for Bility.

London Coffee Stalls.

Coffee stalls run by women, which are a common sight in London and other large cities of Great Britain to day, are a revival rather than a new expedient, says a writer in the Daily Chronicle. For it was a woman who nearly a century ago, started the first coffee stall outside the London docks to supply working men with early breakfasts. And for many years women had a monopoly in this kind of catering until the early morning stall developed into an all-night institution, which required a man to look after.

Rapid Spread of Rice Business.

The growth in California of the rice business has been phenomenal. In the spring of 1900 the office of cereal investigations of the United States department of agriculture began tests of varieties of rice near Biggs. Similar tests were made at places in the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys. In 1912 the first commercial crop of rice, 1,400 acres, was planted on adobe soil near Biggs. The results were so satisfactory that 6,000 acres were planted the succeeding year. From that the rice area grew to 16,000 acres in 1914; 28,000 acres in 1915; 70,000 acres in 1916; and 100,000 acres in 1917. The total value of this year's crop is estimated at $11,000,000.

They were celebrating the pastor's birthday at Ebenezer African Methodist church, and the Ladies Aid society was giving a party. Salina was talking to her mistress about the preparations—which were elaborate—and the dress she was going to wear, which was a delicate pearl gray.

"Yesum, Doctor Green, de pastor, am a middle-aged man. So me dem decide we wouldn't wear no bright colors, but I'll wear suitable and respectful hair to wear quiet colors. And we ain't 'sine we're no for dresses, cuz Doctor Green, he say he like 'em high in de neck."

A Parable.

The soldier threaded his weary way back to the Colonel's dugout. He had been in a dozen skirmishes with the enemy in as many weeks. He was still intact but scratched and wearied from crawling through barbed wire and in and out of shell craters.

He entered the dugout and saluted with click of heels and hand to cap. "Colonel," he said, "I think I will have to quit. The battles are getting to be so many. It's rather too much of a good thing, I have given about all I can of time and strength and blood to this war. I am going home."

No; the incident didn't happen. But why shouldn't it? There are lots of civilians here at home turning down such appeals as the Red Cross and the Liberty Loans because "the calls are so many."

Largest Shorthand Class in History of the Oberlin Business College.

Oberlin Business College is having one of the most successful years in its history. The new class in shorthand is the largest ever formed at the opening of a Winter Term. This school has gained a reputation for being one of the most thorough schools of business training in the entire country, having been the first business college in Ohio to be placed upon the Accredited List of Ohio Colleges by the State School Department.

Because of its great reputation the demand for its students is unprecedented. Five of its recent graduates have accepted Civil Service positions at Washington paying $1100 a year. Calls are at hand from a number of High Schools for commercial teachers. Those who go to Oberlin seem to be prepared for the better grade of positions and if any of our readers are interested they could never find a better time than the present to enter because of the great demand in business, office, and government positions caused by the war conditions.

Sarah Hamilton.

Mrs. Sarah Plank Hamilton after a few hours illness, died suddenly Friday evening, Jan. 18, 1918, aged 76 years. Mrs. Hamilton was of a happy and cheerful disposition, and if there were dark clouds, she always wore the silver lining. She led a busy, active life, and seemingly up to the time of her death was apparently in good health. She was fond of the society of children and young people and took a great interest in them, and there are many who will remember her kindness to them from childhood up. She had long been a faithful member of the Presbyterian church, and was an active member of the Missionary society. Her charities and gifts were many.

Mrs. Hamilton was the mother of two sons, Mr. William Hamilton, of Chicago, Ill., deceased, and Mr. Chauncey Hamilton, of this place, with whom the last days of her life were spent. Besides her son, she leaves two grandsons, and one grandnephew. The funeral services were held from the home Monday afternoon, at 1:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. G. C. Smith, of the Lutheran church. Interment in Greenlawn cemetery.

THE STORE THAT NEVER DISAPPOINTS

TO OUR CUSTOMERS: After a thorough investigation we are in a position to state that next fall will see Suits and Overcoats, $10, and in the finer qualities $15 and even $20, per garment higher. The shortage of wool and the high prices of woolen clothes are very real conditions and we can see no possibility of relief in time to affect the 1918 fall prices in any way. In July, 1917, we had published in our daily papers and weekly papers throughout the county, over our signature, for the trade to buy their clothing requirements now, as prices for the Fall and Winter season of 1917 would be much higher. Some took advantage of this and laid in their winter supply, and by so doing saved considerable. What we advised the trade to do we ourselves did, bought heavy, especially in Suits and Overcoats, buying weights in suits that can be worn twelve months in the year. If you are at all familiar with our store you know we are one of the largest, if not the largest, clothing establishment in Richmond and adjoining counties, and our merchandise is composed of only the best standard makes. We are in a position to offer you a good All Wool Suits and Overcoats at the old prices, but for how long we can do this we are unable to say. This is not guesswork, but the direct result of careful study and investigation of the market in all lines. The thought may come to you, if clothing for the Fall and Winter of 1918 is so much advanced, why is it that The Kennedy Mammoth Clothing House is so anxious to notify the trade and willing to sell at prices they claim in some cases less than prices quoted on the wholesale market of today. The fact that we are Retailers, not Speculators, and as retailers our first thought is for our customers, who have made it possible for us to grow and develop until we are the representative house of its kind in Richmond County. THE SCHOOL

600 GRADUATES OF PREVIOUS TRAINING CAMPS TO BE GIVEN MORE INSTRUCTION.

INFANTRY GOES TO RANGE

Entire 331st Infantry Will Be Stationed at Rifle Range Daily for Two Weeks—Tactical Situation Remains Unchanged—Investigators at Work.

Western Newspaper: Union News Service. Camp Sherman.—Six hundred officers here, principally graduates of one of the second training camps, will attend another officers' school, which is to start soon at the rifle range.

The school is expected to accomplish several things. Camp Sherman is flooded with officers, due to the arrival of a month ago of hundreds from Ft. Benjamin Harrison and others since then from other schools.

The division almost had its full quota of officers before the arrival of the Ft. Benjamin Harrison men, and the new school is designed to provide a place for them where they will have a definite program to follow and certain ends to accomplish, it was declared at division headquarters.

The entire 331st Infantry went to the rifle range for the first time. The regiment will be stationed at the range daily for two weeks if the weather permits. Under the instruction of Lieutenant Colonel MacNab, Division Firing Instructor, officers of the regiment are to look for excellent marks.

SENTENCE SOLDIERS TO JAIL

Court-Martial Officers Contribute Pledge to Sick Wife of Soldier Convicted of Stealing.

Camp Sherman.—There is a look of perplexity on the faces of the blind goddess who weighs justice at Camp Sherman.

The puzzled look came to Justice when she learned of the action taken by 13 military officers who sat in judgment over Private Charles R. Brooker, Co. C, Three Hundred and Eighth Signal Battalion, summoned before her to answer the charge of stealing a fountain pen and a safety razor from Sergeant Hannan.

In a voice eloquent and tender with sorrow, Private Brooker related his life story. He told of the girl he had loved and married, of the one hundred dollars a month which provided all the comforts a sick wife needed and the house of Brooker was happy.

The silver lining dropped from the clouds, however, with the coming of the winter. Brooker was stricken by a law which knows no sentiment. With winter came illness. And Uncle Sam's pay checks to his soldiers became tangled in the red tape and were many days late in reaching their destination.

The wife needed medicine. She was too proud to ask aid of her parents, and Brooker's earnings were too small to borrow from his comrades, but they were fondness, victims of red tape. The necessity for medicine remained. Hours and hours were spent in vain.

Hours and hours were spent in vain. The money went to the country doctor and the druggist. Military law knows neither necessity nor sentiment. Certain punishments are made to fit certain crimes.

The vote was taken and Private Brooker was found guilty and sentenced to six months at hard labor in quarters.

Outside the courtroom, their military duty performed, the 13 men met to discuss the case. It was a short consultation. Pledges were made.

The court declined to order Jacob Semarkovic, C. M. McCabe, Tom Bewers, Charles Freeman, Jim Murray and Jim Barton, also of Marshall county, as asked in the moving petition.

Picked Up in Capital of the Buckeye State

Columbus.—(Special.)—After listening to addresses urging the amalgamation of the prohibition party with the proposed new National party to be composed of Progressives, Socialists and Prohibitionists, Ohio Prohibitionists in a special convention decided to select 40 delegates to the National party convention to be held in Chicago.

Half of these delegates were selected at convention and the remainder will be chosen by the executive committee. It had been the intention to nominate a state ticket, headed by a candidate for governor, but later it was decided to postpone the selection of such a ticket until after the Chicago convention.

The Ohio delegates to the Chicago meeting will not be instructed whether to vote for or against amalgamation with the National party. With 6 of the 22 Prohibition districts of the state represented, the Ohio Dry Republican Federation, after listening to addresses by former Gov. Frank H. Willis and former Republican State Chairman H. M. Daugherty, decided to keep its organization intact and to make a fight in the Republican primaries next August to nominate for the legislature and county committee members who are in favor of state wide prohibition.

Wets to Fight Dry. Plans for combating the attempt to be made by Ohio dry forces this year again to make Ohio dry were under discussion at the annual convention of the Ohio Retail Liquor Dealers' Association which held its business session here.

These officers were elected: President, Fred Fortlage, Cleveland; vice president, George E. Babe, Dayton; treasurer, Fred Felton, Dayton. Support was pledged to the Thrift Stamp and conservation programs of the government and county organizations have authorized the county later and close earlier if they deem it advisable in aiding the conservation movement.

Miss Union Officials Elected. President Frank J. Hayes and nine other officials and members of the United Mine Workers of America were ordered by the United States supreme court to show cause why they should not be declared in contempt of court for violating injunctions restraining representatives of the organization from soliciting and inducing employees of the Hitchman Coal & Coke Co. of Wheeling, W. Va.

Those named in the proceedings are: President Frank Hayes, Secretary John L. Lewis and Secretary-Treasurer William Green of Ohio of the United Mine Workers; John Moore of Ohio, president of the Ohio Coal & Oil Workers; John O. Bricker, a U. S. senator; and Joe Kramar, B. W. Lewis, Peter Brantner, Charles Stefanski and James H. Murray and Jim Barton, also of Marshall county, as asked in the moving petition.

The contempt proceedings are an outgrowth of years of injunction legislation between the miners' union and the coal company.

In 1907 Federal Judge Dayton in St. Virginia declared the miners' union an illegal organization and issued broad injunctions prohibiting "peaceful picketing" or persuasion of the company's employees to join the union.

The case was appealed and a higher court dismissed the injunctions, and the decision that the miners' organization was legal. In 1912, the contempt petition the coal company represented that because of intimidation and threats the company's Ohio mine was idle for lack of workmen.

Save, Says Ohio War Board. The Ohio war board says: "Back to Europe the casual person comes and says: 'Oh, yes! They had food over there—sugar was a little short, but I didn't see any starving in France or England.' The answer to that is: This: The United States is sending over most of her food.

There is no reserve of foodstuffs in Europe; productive forces are paralyzed. Their armies and ours cannot fight with food. As long as we have a surplus in the United States of wheat it was easy enough to export it.

But we are now confronted with a world shortage. What we must continue to send must come from our savings. This can only be accomplished by rigid observance of wheatless days and wheatless meals in every home and every eating place in this country.

Fox Hunters Fight Fire. Wooster.—An unusually hot and extremely magnetic farm fire nearly got the kibosh on the big game township fox hunt.

Fifty hundred and fifty farmers, led by competent marshals and captains, set boldly "over the top" at 11 a. m. They advanced in battle array, some east, some west, some north, some south, but all in the general direction of the converging point previously agreed upon.

The north, east and west line were under splendid discipline. Sturdily and bravely they pushed forward through snow covered ravines, over hills and into wooded districts, their shouts ringing as they cut through the trees and their clubs were used with abandon on all brush heaps or ralphies on route.

At 5:00 were the reports of the war being a large portion of the east and south line. One eagle-eyed hunter in this division, however, beheld a mass of smoke curling from the chimney of a house and saw that it was not coming from the chimney.

"Fire," he yelled.

SAVING THE FATS FOR FOOD

This Farm Method of Saving Fats From Rinds, Bones, and Scraps Can Be Used on a Small Scale on Any Kitchen Stove.

GREAT VALUE OF SUET IN COOKING

Most Housewives Know That It Is Excellent Shortening.

IT HAS SOME MEAT TISSUE

Possesses Same Food Value as Lard, and if Properly Treated, It is a Satisfactory Substitute for Frying Purposes.

Special pains should always be taken to save and use suet because of its great value in cooking. Suet is a very good shortening and commonly they also have special dishes in which the chopped suet is used instead of a rendered fat. In addition to the fat it contains, chopped suet has some meat tissue. Rendered suet possesses the same food value as lard or other similar shortening and is properly tried out it is a satisfactory substitute for frying purposes, for shortening, and for making savory fats. Anyone who regards suet as useful only in making soap is wrong for it is a valuable food. Its use for soap making should be considered only when the fat has become too rancid for use or when it has been burned when used for frying.

Trying Out Suet.

Those who do not know how to render and use suet sometimes object to it on the ground of its hardness and special flavor. Fresh suet, however, can be so rendered as to make a soft useful fat practically free from any distinctive flavor or odor. The following is a simple method for trying out suet: Remove the skin and lean parts from beef fat and cut it into small pieces. Put it into a saucepan and cover it with cold water. Place it on the stove uncovered, as it is believed that steam carries away strong flavors. When the water is nearly all evaporated set the kettle back and let the fat fry out. When the fat has ceased bubbling and the scraps of skin are piled, allow the scraps to settle at the bottom of the kettle, strain the fat through a cloth, and set it away to cool.

Suet and Leaf Lard.

For those who want a mixture of suet and leaf lard which is a softer fat than rendered suet but with different flavor, the following recipe will be useful: Take two parts of suet and one of leaf lard, finely ground, and mix together. Render this with whole milk in the proportion of one-half pint to four pounds of the mixed suet and lard. (Render means to melt down or clarify by melting.) This may be conveniently done if the suet and lard mixture be finely divided by passing it through a meat grinder and then heated in a double boiler, when the fat will be quickly released from the suet, and when strained and allowed to cool will form a cake on the surface of the liquid which may be easily removed.

Plan Meals Carefully.

Do not be ashamed to plan meals closely. Provide enough, of course, but practice thrift and plan economical dishes, and use the "left-overs" for making palatable dishes—there are many such.

Preparations for Decorating.

In furnishing a room with objects of background to one-third of decorative value are the right proportions.

Destroy Home Pests. Clean up the cabbage patch! Don't raise a crop of insect pests on the stalks. That is what is likely to happen if stalks of cabbage or cauliflower, collards, brussels sprouts, and such vegetables are left in the garden after they have fulfilled their food mission. Entomologists of the United States department of agriculture advise that where such remnants of the garden can be promptly fed to hogs or cattle a double purpose will be served— insect pests will be kept down and a food provided for meat-making animals. The plants just named are affected by the same class of insects of which there are several distinct kinds—cabbage worms, the cabbage looper, harlequin cabbage bug, cabbage aphid, and the plant louse, and crows and other insects in autumn and even during early winter. Cabbage heads which have not properly matured for use are especially liable to be attacked, and for other reasons also may provide a place of refuge for bugs. All such crop remnants which cannot be used for food should be promptly destroyed by burning. If the gardener is familiar with the use of arsenicals some stalks may be left growing to serve as traps for insects, the specialists say. The pests which gather on such traps can be readily destroyed by dusting the plants with dry paris green or arsenical dust diluted with about 20 parts of fine sifted lime or road dust.

Foods Rich in Iron. Compared with most other foods, milk contains much more, but very little iron. Spinach and other green vegetables, and egg yolks are rich in iron. This is one reason why combinations of egg yolks or vegetables with milk are good, particularly for feeding children, for they have special need for lime and iron.

THE TWO SWORDS

By Lewis F. Crawford, President State Board of Regents, North Dakota

"The Hymn of the German Sword" appeared in a German paper published in Leipzig, Germany, and has been widely copied in papers of other countries. A copy which came to the attention of Lewis F. Crawford, Senator, State N. D., president of the state board of regents, impressed him so strongly that he prepared "The American Sword," as a contrast to the spirit shown in the German sword."

HYMN OF THE GERMAN SWORD

It is not duty of mine to be either just or compassionate; it suffices that I am sanctified by my exalted mission, and that I blind the eyes of my enemies with such streams of tears as shall make the prouddest of them cringe in terror under the vault of heaven.

I have slaughtered the old and the sorrowful; I have struck off the breasts of women; and I have run through the bodies of children who gazed at me with the eyes of the wounded lion.

Day after day I ride aloft on the shadowy horses in the Valley of Cyperus and at night I draw forth the life blood of every enemy's son that dares to dispute my path.

It is meet and right that I should cry aloud in my pride, for am I not the flaming messenger of the Lord Almighty?

I am German and I am beyond all the other nations that all the rest of the earth, be they who they may, should feel themselves well done by when they are allowed to fight with the dogs for the crumbs that fall from my table.

When Germany the divine is happy, then the rest of the world bleats in smiles; but when Germany suffers, God in person is rent with anguish, and, wrathful and avenging, he turns all the waters into rivers of blood.

THE AMERICAN SWORD

I am the American sword. I have never been unthought except in the cause of justice and humanity.

I punish only under solemn and compelling obligation.

In my presence national perfidy and dishonor never go unchallenged.

I am the sword of the oppressed and of the poor nations that all the rest of the earth, be they who they may, should feel themselves well done by when they are allowed to fight with the dogs for the crumbs that fall from my table.

When Germany the divine is happy, then the rest of the world bleats in smiles; but when Germany suffers, God in person is rent with anguish, and, wrathful and avenging, he turns all the waters into rivers of blood.

Government Lessons Reach Millions of the Boys and Girls in United States

"Machine industry and community life are the special themes of the series of lessons on the war, recently issued by the United States bureau of education, department of the interior, and now being studied by a million or more school boys and girls of all grades throughout the nation.

"The bureau's series of lessons on 'Community and Citizenship' Life, as they were termed by President Wilson in his original announcement to the schools, have now reached their third issue.

Recent issues dealt with the organization of modern industrial life as compared with pioneer days, the effect of war on commerce in nitrate, the war and airplanes, production and wise consumption, and similar topics. The idea of teaching the principles of conservation underlying successful prosecution of the war originated with that good administrator, President Wilson. The various elements of the plan has now been taken over by the bureau of education. Prof. Charles H. Judd of the University of Chicago, with the aid of a corps of writers in the various fields, is preparing these government texts for the pupils in the elementary and high schools.

Parents and teachers will be interested in the lessons. The older high school students will learn of the rise of the hand loom and the spinning wheel through the changes brought by the industrial revolution, the large-scale production, world markets, and social problems of modern industry. The various elements of the plan in factory operating, education as encouraged by industry, the contribution of the press, are also treated in the lesson for older pupils.

Small Girl Has Her Separate Skirt and Blouses.

Very Serviceable—Useful for School or Kindergarten—Out of Bloomers Makes Petticoats Unnecessary.

Even the very small girl has her separate skirt and her collection of dainty little lingerie blouses. The wee lass hasn't attained to embroidered petticoats and chiffon affairs as yet. Either cotton or wool fabric may be used for the separate skirt and matching bloomers for a six-year-old, and both of these garments are held snugly in place by means of buttons and buttonholes. The blouse should be finished at its lower edge with a firm, strong band with two rows of buttons spaced on it. The underneath row is for the bloomers, and these may be of white bone or pearl. The outer row, especially if the skirt is of wool fabric, should harmonize in color with the former shade shown in the skirt material.

Separate skirts and washable blouses for small girls make up very serviceable school or kindergarten outfits. A fresh, clean blouse every morning is a necessity, of course, but less labor is required to launder a blouse than an outer frock, and the skirt and bloomers can be worn several weeks without cleaning, other than a casual brushing and pressing.

Of course, the use of bloomers eliminates the necessity of petticoats, and here economy is again served.

Handkerchiefs, fine dimity or plain white lawn, are excellent blouse fabrics for the very young lady. The one shown in the sketch has clusters of tucks back and front, with narrow ruffle finishing collar and cuffs.

EASY WAY TO SAVE THE MUFF

Attractive Hanger Can Be Made With Very Little Material and Very Little Trouble.

Instead of hanging your muff on a crotch hook from the cord or bracket provided in one case you can lengthen the life of the lining considerably by hanging your muff over a regular muff hanger. One of these hangers is easily made from an old wooden coat hanger with one arm sawed off, the other reversed so that the curve comes upward. It should be camouflaged with pretty light color, or else wound with ribbon. The wire hook can be placed at one end so that it can be hung in a convenient manner from the closet hook.

Another way to make an attractive muff hanger is to wind a thin wooden rod with ribbon, add attach ribbon hangers at each end with a bow or bone ring at the top. At one end the ribbon should be provided with a hook so that it can be unclipped while the rod is slipped through the muff.

HOW TO MEND FRAYED EDGES

Cuffs That Are Worn Can Easily Be Put in Good Shape With a Little Work on the Machine.

Cuffs that are worn on the edge can be easily mended by wetting the cuff. Wring as dry as possible; smooth the cuff out with the hands. With sewing point start the stitching. You will be surprised how easily the cuff will rip open.

Smooth out the edges and then turn in the ragged edges on both sides of cuff, making new edges, baste together and stitch on the machine while cuff is still damp.

Be careful to put a piece of paper between the feed plate and the damp cuff, thus protecting the machine. Rip paper away from cuff after stitching, also the bastings while the cuff is damp as they come out much more easily.

Any article that is full of starch can be ripped much easier if it is first dipped into water.

NOVEL KIND OF TRIMMING

Suggestion for Those Who Don't Want Beads or Embroidery and Prefer Something Newer Than Applique.

Have you a dress in the making that "needs" something in the way of a bit of distinguishing decoration? No, you don't want embroidery, and you don't want beads, and you prefer something newer even than applique. Well, if you are looking for something startlingly new, the following ought to prove of paramount interest to you: Provide yourself with some plain, narrow tulle or ribbon, either satin or metallic, apply it in the desired motifs on the underside of the garment; secure it and finish the edges with machine hemstitching. On the right side you will thus have achieved an unusually interesting embossed effect.

Metallic ribbons thus applied is particularly lovely on evening dresses. And it is a very new departure from ribbon embroidery.

FEMINE FRILLS

The coat tunic is a novelty. Many frills are in vogue style. Tapestry shopping bags are new. Satin coats are heavily embroidered. Many of the winter suits are belted. Fluted ribbons are used for trimming.

Stock collars are made of white satin. Blue satin makes a pretty dress. Gray more trims a black satin dress.

Some waitresses have dropped to the hips. Aristocrat's crowns are seen in French hats. Hats may or may not match the suit in color.

Full sleeves of velvet are used on cloth dresses. Sashkin is a good trimming for brown velvets. Suit coats are apt to fall straight on the hips.

Evening gowns are frailest and loveliest girdled. The tunic is not a runner, but a fact of fashion. Tunic effects are noticed on almost every frock.

Wool frocks are trimmed with fringe of monkey. Velvet Lounging Robes. Negligees or lounging robes of velvet, fur-trimmed, are cut on simple simon or baby's lines and are ideal garments to select for gifts.
