

A Tour Abroad

BY A. B. JORDAN
World Traveler, Lecturer and Writer.

On the Atlantic

This letter is being written on board one of the fastest and most luxurious ships that cross the Atlantic. My home is 700 miles from New York. Six days ago I bid friends goodbye, stopped in New York 18 hours and now I am within less than 200 miles of European shores. Day after tomorrow of just seven days later I will dine in London. In point of speed it would seem that the top of the world has been reached. Perhaps it has. There was a lapse of 2,000 years between the two-wheel cart and the automobile. The luxury-loving, self-indulging Nero must have smirked with satisfaction when he was borne to the chariot races in a gold-tasseled litter resting upon the shoulders of brassy slaves. Nero thought perhaps that he had reached the top of the world, but the average American laborer of today enjoys greater comforts and conveniences. As a passenger on a modern liner Nero would be ashamed to stick his head out of the stercor.

Our Ship

The ship on which I am traveling represents one of the finished products of mechanical science. The scene of comfort and convenience, she caters to the whims of the luxury-loving traveler. She has a speed of 30 miles per hour, is the length of three average city blocks and her crew and passengers outnumber the population of the average American town. On the 2,400 mile a day journey between New York and Cherbourg her mighty engines drink up 70 tons of fuel oil. The record of 4 days and 12 hours from New York to Cherbourg is held by the Laurana, stater ship of the ill-fated Lusitania whose body was ripped open by a German torpedo within sight of the Irish coast a few weeks before war was declared.

Midnight Sailings

Midnight sailings are becoming popular with big liners. This innovation is a bid for the patronage of the idle rich and the busy man of affairs. The New York sailing schedule of the boat on which I am traveling is 12:10 midnight. This is a convenient hour for the great majority of first-class passengers—men and women who have seen so much of the world that a journey across the ocean on a modern liner means no more than a two-hour trip to some well-known travel agency. They leave after theatre dinner parties and manage to get aboard a few minutes before the ship sails. Ladies in evening gowns and magnificent opera cloaks and dinner coats or in expensive full dress motor to the pier in expensive limousines and chatter gaily up the gang plank where they perch on a second dinner party that lasts far into the night. And then too one sees the half-tipsy fellow still in dinner clothes as he waddles to the gangplank with the aid of a trusty ship's steward. When the revelers awake next morning the ship is far out at sea and many of them take lunch in their staterooms and do not reappear on the decks till evening. Midnight sailings are fine for the idle rich and the busy commercial tourist who look upon journeys across the ocean as commonplace incidents in one's life, but they do not appeal to the great middle classes that travel for pleasure. There is something that is thrilling as one sees the big liner warped out of her berth by the wasp-like little tugs, when farewells are shouted, handkerchiefs are waved and the mighty engines take up the steady thrum that does not cease till the other side is reached. There is an intensely human side to this scene which money cannot buy.

Our Passengers

The passengers list is comparatively light at this season. The tourist season is over and the passenger list is made up of wealthy foreigners who have been spending the summer in America or the idle Americans who are running over to England or France to spend a few days with relatives or friends. The second class is made up largely of business and traveling men who form a part of the big army of executive Americans. There is an interesting feature in the passenger list in putting American made goods all over England and the continent. And next you will find the swarthy-skinned folk of Italy on December 22 by a Ford car.

HERE'S CHAMPION POTATO GROWER

Here's another potato story and the only reason we do not print a picture of the "spud" is that Saturday was a cloudy day and it was impossible to take a photograph. However, we have several of Plymouth's most truthful men, and even the grower, to verify the fact.

J. C. Woodworth of New Haven was exhibiting two potatoes Saturday that totalled 5 pounds (app and all) but that's the way most things are weighed. Both potatoes were the same size and here's the measurements: Length 9 1/2 inches, or a total of 19 inches; width 6 1/2 inches or a total of 13 inches; weight, 2 1/2 pounds.

Mr. Woodworth states that on an acre and one-eighth he produced 325 bushels or a total of 19500 pounds. He states that this does not allow for shrinkage. However, it is estimated to be one of the heaviest yields in this section of the state averaging 280 bushels to the acre.

Haindel Moves Grocery Store

Now Located in McIntire Building; Will Continue Cream Station.

With the view of giving better service and a wider selection, L. E. Haindel has moved his grocery business from the store he has occupied for the past three years to the McIntire building on the corner of Plymouth street and the Public Square. A complete stock of groceries has been placed upon the shelves and patrons may now find selection much easier than heretofore. There are many new features attached to the new location that will prove pleasing to the public, one of which is the manner in which all cream will be handled. Additional floor space, more light and other improvements will make this department stand out as one of the best in this part of the country.

The Haindel store has enjoyed a large patronage and with the new facilities and improved service the management is now offering it is expected that the list of patrons will grow.

CASE SCHEDULED FRIDAY

The case of Hicks versus Tilson is scheduled to come up at court in Newark Friday at which time a hearing will be given to the suit of F. L. Hicks for damages as a result of being struck by Tilson on December 22 by a Ford car.

Local Water Issue Defeated by Sweeping Majority Rumored Trimmer Beats Adelman for Sheriff.

Well, the country's safe again. Election is over and the only casualties reported is the downfall of a few Democrats and Republicans and as far as Ohio is concerned it's hard to say whether it's a Democratic or Republican state.

Vic Donahay, twice governor of the state, has been chosen again by the people for a third term, an honor that only three other democratic governors of republican states can claim. Senator Willis was returned to the Senate with an overwhelming majority over his opponent Alie Pomorene. While no authoritative information was available Wednesday afternoon, it was reported that C. D. Trimmer was elected sheriff of Huron county over his opponent, Frank Adelman. Trimmer had a large following in this section of the county and it is believed that the heavy vote cast in Willard is responsible for his election.

The primary amendment was badly defeated and in most every instance the voters showed their disapproval of changing the system of electing state and county officials. The resolution asking for the purchase of the quarry site as a source of water supply was also defeated by a measure of ninety votes in favor of the purchase with 272 votes opposing it. The outcome of this decision leaves Plymouth's water situation just where it started a few months ago. What action village officials will take to secure the needed water supply is unknown.

Dances to Be Given by Lodge

Knights of Pythias to Hold Weekly Affairs at Lodge Rooms.

The local lodge of Knights of Pythias has planned for a series of invitation dances to be given throughout the season and it is expected these affairs will prove popular, especially among the younger set. A good orchestra has been secured for the events, and the half and half dance, and also the square dance will be a feature of the program. The dances are being sponsored by the lodge as an amusement feature of this organization and not as a money-making proposition.

PROCLAMATION

Whereas, on November 11, at Eleven o'clock a.m. the Armistice was signed which noted the close of the World War—

Whereas it has been the custom of the country to observe this time in some suitable manner to be Resolved, therefore, as a request, in honor of those who suffered as a result of the war, that beginning at 15 seconds before eleven o'clock, on the Eleventh day of November, the fire sirens, whistles of our factories, church and school bells be sounded for the 15 seconds, when at eleven o'clock all business, labor and engagements of any and all activities cease for three (3) minutes, and direct our thoughts and voice and prayers toward what may bring about the everlasting peace and good will of all nations and peoples.

Basket Ball Team Is Organized Here

Can't Tell the "Diff"

Ralph Zetters from Attica experienced a little inconvenience here Saturday night when he discovered his Ford car missing which was parked in front of Beelman's Shoe Store. He reported the car stolen to police, who kept a vigil watchout until the wee hours of the morn.

About 9 o'clock Sunday morning Marshal Burkett received a telephone call from Ernie Rooks who stated that he had made a mistake Saturday evening and drove the wrong car home. Mr. Rooks states that he hurriedly entered the Ford coupe and did not notice the mistake until he saw the license plate Sunday morning. In the meantime Mr. Zetters was forced to spend the night in Plymouth with a friend. Both cars were 1925 Ford coupes.

Practice Begins Under Direction of Coach Himes; Team Sponsored by Local Ford Dealers.

A town basketball team, sponsored by Russell and Reynolds, local Ford dealers, has been organized and practice began last Tuesday night. Many fans of this sport were well pleased with the news this week when it became known that Plymouth was to have a town team for the season.

Attractive suits have been ordered for the players and no doubt they will make a splendid showing in their outfit which will be navy blue with the wording "Russell and Reynolds, Ford" in white letters, while the sweater shirts will be white with blue letters with the same wording. Rev. A. M. Himes is coach of the team and he is giving the boys a hard workout on Tuesdays and Thursdays. All games will be played Wednesday night. However, the team will not play all games at home.

War Hero Buried at Norwalk

Remains of Horace Ward Who Made Supreme Sacrifice During World Conflict Laid to Rest Sunday.

As the clear notes of a bugle sounded "Taps" across the valley Horace A. Ward, killed in action when a detachment of U. S. Marines were defending Bruges, Belgium, on June 6, 1918, was laid to his eternal rest in the family lot in Woodlawn cemetery Sunday afternoon.

He was the beloved son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Ward, of Medina road, and enlisted in the 7th Co., 6th Regt. U. S. Marines, in the spring of 1917, when the call came for defenders.

A gallant soldier, he was in the line of duty and front line of action before Bruges, when a German machine gun bullet took his life. It was on a bright June morning, when the trees were in new leaf and the poppies bloom the fields gardens of brigit had been there. He was given a soldier's burial there.

His burial place was later learned by his parents, through the army records and a good watch his father had given him the Christmas before.

The body was brought back on a government naval vessel.

Ken Bur Bell Post and Exat Post of Plymouth, turned out en masse, and the impressive funeral rites were read by Post Chaplain Clark Tucker. A touching funeral oration was preached by the Rev. A. J. Funnell of Sandusky, former Chaplain of the 15th in France. As the body was lowered into the grave a firing squad, from Co. G in uniform, fired the final salute and then the clear notes of the bugle rang out in the crisp autumn air.

Hosts of friends and patriots turned out to attend the impressive obsequies. Reflector Herald.

NOTICE

To prevent the spread of hoc Cholera I will not haul any livestock from any farm where Cholera exists.

To Leave Farm

Mr. William Simmons, who resides in the vicinity of Boughtonville will quit farming and move to Toledo where he and Mrs. Simmons will make their home for the winter with their son, Howard Simmons. Mr. Simmons will hold a public sale at his home on November 18 at which time he will dispose of his personal property and other items.

Mrs. Simmons has suffered ill health for the past few months and has been forced to take a complete rest. Her many friends wish for her an early recovery. This amiable couple will be greatly missed in the community in which they have made their home for the past years.

Forest Van Wagner Appointed on Council

The regular meeting of council was held Wednesday night and only routine matters were given attention. At the appointment by Mayor Derr of Forest Van Wagner to serve on the council to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Lawrence Buzard was also made at this meeting.

A large part of the evening was spent in discussion of the proposed Ohio Power Co. who has been trying for some time to get the village officials to sign a 50-year franchise to the power company for the purpose of distributing and selling electrical energy (so the contract reads). After a lengthy discussion the proposed contract was turned down by council.

BOX SOCIAL

On Friday evening November 12, a box social will be held at the Town Hall at New Haven, under the auspices of the senior class of New Haven High School. The program preceding the auction of the boxes will begin at 8 o'clock. Children's boxes will be sold separately. Pie and coffee will also be on sale. Everyone is invited and a good time is assured.

Shiloh School Issues First School Paper

Last week "The Tatler," Shiloh's initial school paper made its appearance and it is one of the best school papers exhibited in any of the schools in the county. The patrons of the school and the business men are to be congratulated for the cooperation in making possible the issuing of such a paper, as there is no town of Shiloh that can boast of an exclusive publication of the paper will make its appearance every six weeks.

Through the efforts of the editorial staff and under the supervision of Superintendent Ford and Miss Brink the paper is made of interesting reading matter pleasingly arranged with illustrations. As a whole the school paper is a credit to the town and the institution.

Twenty-nine percent of the total in come of Ohio farms comes from live stock.

Greene County farmers have found that it costs them $6.32 an acre to husk their corn by hand and take care of the stover, and $4.87 to husk with a shredder.

The corn crop, according to Ohio State University specialists, is a month late drying out. Moisture tests show 28 to 30 percent water in the corn. It should be 23 to 24 percent by now in normal weather.

Good Elimination is Essential to Good Health.
THE kidneys are the blood filters. If they fail to function properly there is apt to be a retention of toxic poisons in the blood. A dull, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backaches, headaches, and dizziness are symptoms of this condition. Further evidence of improper kidney function is often found in burning or scanty passage of secretions. Each year more and more people are learning the value of Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, in this condition. Scarcely a nook or hamlet anywhere but has many enthusiastic users. Ask your neighbor!

How to Play BRIDGE

A new series of lessons by Wynne Ferguson
Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

ARTICLE No. 1
The writer has often referred to the charm of the unexpected at auction. When you think you have an invincible hand, a bad "break," surprises and disconcerts you and you only make one or two odd. On the other hand, the game has its compensation, for how often does an apparently worthless hand turn out to be a big winner. Very often the one picture card in the hand is just the one to make your partner's hand invincible. And so turn apparent defeat into an unexpected victory. "Never say die" is just as good a motto for auction bridges as for anything else. Here is a good example of the hopeless hand turning out to be a winner. Z dealt and held the following hand:

Hearts - Q, 4, 2
Clubs - A, 10, 9, 8, 7, 5, 3
Diamonds - 10, 7, 6
Spades - 7, 3, 2

Naturally he passed, and probably with the thought: "Here goes game." His partner, however, had a most remarkable hand:

Hearts - A, J, 9, 8, 7, 5, 3
Clubs - none
Diamonds - none
Spades - A, Q, J, 10, 9, 5

The bid finally reached five hearts, was doubled and Z's partner redoubled. He just made the bid, losing only one spade and one heart trick. Z's one face card, the queen of hearts, saved the day, and Z's hand which looked so hopelessly ruined contained the element of victory. Never despair and never give up a rubber until your opponents actually win it. Until they do, there is always hope and that is what makes auction bridge the greatest of card games.

In preceding articles the writer has often referred to the 4-4-4-1 type of hand and strongly advised an effort to be made to win such a hand, one that best fits in with the partner's hand. Here are two good examples:

Hand No. 1
Hearts - A, Q, K, 6
Clubs - K, 5, 4, 2

Hearts - A, J, 9, 8, 7
Clubs - Q, 3, 2
Diamonds - 10, 4, 3
Spades - Q, J

Hearts - 6
Clubs - 7, 6, 5
Diamonds - 7, 5, 2
Spades - A, K, 5, 4, 2

No score, first game. Z dealt and bid one spade. A passed and Y bid one trump. B passed and A opened the ace of hearts. He then played and won the game. How can Z play the hand that he can win the balance of the tricks against any defense? Solution in the next article.

Risks Life for Sake of Realism

When a screen actress twice risks life and limb for the sake of realism in a single picture and then meets with an accident that nearly costs her life, it would not be surprising that some other less risky avocation might be chosen. Not so with Seena Owen, film star, who had a most strenuous time while playing her featured role in the new Metropolitan picture, "Ship-wrecked," which will be shown at the Opera House, Saturday.

Her first daring feat consisted in plunging off a dock at night, into the ocean. The water was filled with bits of wreckage because of the storm which prevailed, but she fortunately escaped striking any of this. She found herself in black waters drifting out to sea when she was rescued by Joseph Schildkraut who assisted her into a small boat.

Miss Owen's second perilous adventure was an accident. Mistaking a camera platform which had been at-

Vera Reynolds Has Colorful Rise to Fame

Probably no screen actress has had a more colorful rise to fame than has Vera Reynolds. Recently she captured stardom by Cecil B. DeMille.

A graduate of the staple-cook school, the path traversed by Miss Reynolds in her rise to screen popularity was not an easy one. She entered the films when only twelve and worked her way through the comedies. For six years she was kicked around—no producer sensing her genius.

Then came her big chance in "Foot of Clay." "The Golden Bed" followed—and since then her rise has been rapid. Her first starring vehicle is "Sunny Side Up," which comes to the Opera House next Sunday.

Hand No. 2
Hearts - Q, 4, 2
Clubs - A, 9, 6, 2
Diamonds - 10, 7, 6
Spades - K, Q, 10, 4

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid one trump and A passed. What should Y bid? Y should undoubtedly bid two hearts. This type of hand is very seldom suitable for no-trump, so overbid your partner's no-trump with that one of the four card suits which offers the best possibilities. In this case, the heart suit is fairly strong and should be bid.

Just a Big Hotel
If you have never been abroad and want to get a good idea of a modern steamship, merely think of a big American hotel. Our ship has its elevators, its palm gardens, its swimming pools, its gymnasiums, its dining rooms and restaurants, its lounge, smoking rooms, writing room, and libraries. It is a ship, flow along in the same smooth way day after day. It is more like a summer resort in the middle of the ocean. It has the summer resort characters. The rocking chair brings down not a morsel that will furnish food for growth. The gossip of the ship originates in this half-enclosed court where tongues keep pace with knitting needles. This news bureau of the ship will tell you confidentially about Mr. Money Bags who is flying to Paris to get a quick divorce from madam whose social ambitions do not appeal to her practical minded husband, or the beautiful blonde who promenade late in the evening with her maid for company who is in the wife of millionaire Blank. She is not content with her husband and spends the most of her time abroad. The countess who appears to be very exclusive turns out to be the head milliner of a fashionable dress-making establishment on her way to Paris to study with the form and features of an aristocrat about whom the ship's company had woven many romantic tales turns out to be a former chorus girl on her way to play a minor roll in a London theatre. The plain little man with heavy losses who puts around asking unusual questions and carries the air of a weary grocery clerk on a brief vacation is introduced at the concert on the fourth night out as a world celebrity. The modern ocean liner is the smoking room of a Pullman car in an exaggerated sense. Do not believe half you hear.

Rivalry of the Sea.
There is rivalry between the American and British ships. This spirit is reflected in the ship's crew. I am on a British ship. Yesterday the Levianth caught up with us and then began a mid-ocean race in real earnest. Gradually the mighty Levianth took the lead and disappeared some time during the night. The greeting of the room steward next morning was, "Well we passed the Levianth during the night!" It was said in a spirit of exultation which was pardonable. But it was a mistake. The Levianth beat us into Cherbourg by 10 hours.

The Language of the Sea.
Some fifty different languages are spoken in the world but the language of the sea, like the language of love, is universal. When Mr. Daniels was secretary of the navy an effort was made to change certain nautical terms to common everyday terms. I have often wondered why "3 bells" which means 3 o'clock could not be changed to plain 3 o'clock or why "starboard" was not called right and "port" plain. But the change would cause confusion. A ship's crew is made up of many nationalities who speak many different languages, but all understand the language of the sea in terms of bells, and the German sailor is as much at home on an English ship as the English sailor is on a German ship. It is likely that this language, now several thousand years old, will be used on ships until the world adopts a universal language.

There are many diversions on a modern liner, but even six days in crossing seems like a long time and the flickering lights at the mouth of the Channel which will begin to appear at dusk will be welcome.

LOAFING ELIMINATED IN LIGHTED HENHOUSE

"The use of lights in the poultry house in winter, to give the hens a longer feeding day, is so closely linked with good breeding, feeding, housing, and management that one cannot be separated from the other. The joint results justify the trouble and expense incurred in the use of lights on layers."

"This is the conclusion of the latest bulletin, "Artificial Lighting for Poultry Houses," published by the extension Service of the Ohio State University.

"Artificial lighting to increase egg production, at least during the season of high prices, is fundamentally sound and has great potential possibility," R. E. Gray, author of the bulletin and specialist in poultry husbandry at the University says. "High egg production depends on a large consumption of the right kinds of feed. The long nights during the fall and winter leave the hen only about half the time that summer days permit in which to consume feed. By sensible use of lights during this season, the long periods of idleness are broken and the bird is given a longer period of work."

"Like any other practice which gives such spectacular results as have been obtained by artificial lighting, careless or thoughtless management will result only in disaster."

Possible results from lighting suggested by the bulletin are: eggs in winter and the year around; the prevention of winter molt and a hastening of breeders into production; hastening the maturity of late hatched pullets; in all, increasing "the labor income materially."

Earthquake Kills Many in Armenia

A devastating earthquake, creating inestimable damage, killing three hundred people and making thousands of little wards of the Near East Relief shelterless in Armenia, places a new and staggering burden on the relief organization, according to the Relief Committee.

An emergency fund to prevent the children suffering and to aid untold distress among native Armenians, make an appeal to Ohio's sympathetic folks necessary, says a call from Cleveland relief headquarters. Nine thousand little children—orphans wards of America—miraculously escaped from damaged stone barracks and are living in tents and sleeping on the ground in land known for its bitter winter. A call for funds has been broadcasted throughout the nation, since the National Near East Relief is faced with an almost depleted treasury. Children will suffer bitter hardship as the result of a concentrated effort to relieve distress in other quarters, it is declared.

The Near East Relief is understood to be the only relief agency in the remote section of the Russian Caucasus where the disaster occurred. Contributions to aid in this crisis should be marked "Special Disaster Fund" and addressed to J. A. House, treasurer of Near East Relief, Euclid Building, Cleveland, Ohio. Governor Donahy Newton, D. Baker and Dr. Charles T. Wain of Cleveland, are among prominent Ohioans who form the committee.

HALF LAMB'S QUALITY RESTS ON ITS SIRE

The ram is half the flock and more. If he is a poor individual the entire lamb crop will suffer; if of the right type much improvement can be made in a single generation. In selecting a ram look for strong points in him that are lacking in the ewe flock. An ideal make-up, according to L. A. Kauffman of the department of animal husbandry at the Ohio State University, is an average size for the breed. The fleece should be dense and fine. A good fleece is the hardest characteristic to find on a well built individual. Care should be taken that the ram has the necessary masculine appearance and a constitution that will, if necessary, ward off disease and bad weather successfully. results with a ram lamb are often disappointing. The lamb has not had time to mature and there will not be many lambs, neither will they be as strong as those sired by a mature ram. Breeders aiming to use rams that are a year or more old to sire their flocks experience very little difficulty. Mr. Kauffman observes. The possibilities of good vigorous offspring are increased if the sire is of purebred parentage. A greater concentration of the desirable traits can be obtained from a known ancestry. In instances where the ram is moved from one flock to another for a breeding season, the breeder will be better satisfied if the ram is moved some time before the breeding season. Mr. Kauffman believes. This allows him to become acquainted, know his new surroundings, and become accustomed to his feed.

NEWS FROM DELPHI

Ollie J. Catlin spent Sunday and Monday with her daughter in Mansfield.

Fred Keller and M. Kern, Spanish war vets of Norwalk, spent Sunday with their comrade, Wm. Van Buskirk and family.

F. P. Boardman attended the funeral of his cousin James Ward's son brought back from over seas, last Sunday afternoon in Norwalk.

Mrs. Josephine Wicks and husband of Lakewood were Sunday guests of her parents T. G. Campbell and wife. Chester Crane a Junior in the Shiloh high school spent Saturday evening and Sunday with his parents F. E. Craig and wife.

A very interesting program was given by the orchestra last Wednesday eve. Dan Brown and Howard Cole of North Fairfield and Walter Merling of Willard and Floriday "left in" were an appreciated help. Dan Brown has been regular since organization.

The boys in-class 3 in Delphi Sunday school lost in the contest with girls' months average attendance and paid the penalty by entertaining the girls with a Halloween masquerade in the Methodist church parlors. At the close of the evening dainty refreshments in keeping with the holiday were served by hosts. Most of the guests were carbed in masquerade fashion. Over 20 were present.

The great daily papers, the Sunday weekly and 4 or 5 weeklies seem to find mail route to Boughtonville a real battle ground for subscriptions. The Ben Franklin highway through Delphi seems to be a dividing line between the Mansfield News on the south and The Sandusky Register and Reflector Herald on the north. The News and Register each have a truck going daily. The News in the evening, the Register in the morning. It means up to the minute news for breakfast and supper to Delphi people. Likewise the Blade and Bee of Toledo and The Plain Dealer and News of Cleveland are overtable guests in the class here. Our semi-weekly and weekly have their many friends here as well.

Oakland Has Big Production

Pontiac, Mich.—The Oakland Motor Car company through September and so far into October the tremendous production and sales stride it has made since the beginning of the year—strides which have placed the company in seventh place in sales, among all the motor car companies of the world.

Through September of this year the company has produced more than 112,000 cars. Incidentally, September production of 16,836 Oakland and Pontiac Six cars is the second largest in the history of the company, being exceeded only by August of this year.

The growth of the dealer organization has kept pace with the popularity of both cars. At the beginning of this year, the dealer organization numbered 1,127 and on October 1st (this number had been practically doubled—to 2,264 dealers. A year ago last January, the dealer organization numbered but 597 but this number represented the dealer organization after it had been cut down and just before the drive was made for new dealers.

C. W. Matheson, vice-president and director of sales, who recently returned from a six weeks' trip through the entire Pacific coast region reported that every time he asked the dealers how many cars they would need in the near future, the invariable reply was to send them as many as could be produced.

This optimism augurs well for the plan to produce 1,600 cars daily beginning next January. 1,000 Pontiac Sixes a day and 600 Oakland Sixes a day. To accomplish this, the present factories will be used for the production of the Pontiac Six.

However, the Star sedan, it is said, was running about 15 miles an hour and came onto the Overland. The crash resulted in a smashed fender to the Star machine as well as damaged axle and other minor parts. Both machines were filled with passengers but no one was reported hurt. ### HOUDINI

In the quaint old times when warlocks afflicted the midnight moon with their broomstick cavalcades Houdini would have ridden in the van and called commands to all the skinny brotherhood. Our pre-Columbian bears would have bowed to him as to a demigod or demigore, and he would have been more feared than kings. None of the famous exponents of magical magic, even with their exploit of Houdini. He would have been the greatest man of a kingdom or of a batch of kingdoms—until the people became sufficiently scared to burn him alive to all their nervousness.

The wizards of old engaged in contests to determine whose magic was most potent. Conjuror vied with conjurer, each summoning his private army of faithful devils for aid and comfort. All men believed in the natural powers, but Houdini in an age of skepticism and of scientific enlightenment successfully defied the investigation which he earnestly invited. He was an original genius. He did things that no other man had ever done, and he did everything that had been done by other men who pretended to magical potency. He was a great and unique entertainer, for no man is more entertaining than one who warns that he is going to fool us—and then does it.

THE SMALL CITY ARRIVES

According to the municipal experts of various kinds the era of the small city and town is arriving. It is now seen that a city can actually grow bigger than is good for it, and rural authorities are claiming that the great metropolises will in time arrive at the stage where it will be impossible physically to grow, in extent of territory at least.

There are perhaps many reasons why the smaller community is coming into its own. Perhaps the most potent of these is that the smaller community is no longer what it used to be—in fact a great deal better. The city or town with muddy streets is rarely found in this day of good roads and automobiles. Civic pride has grown in the smaller as well as in the larger cities. Ramshackle buildings are being eliminated everywhere, and the smaller communities now have fine public buildings including adequate schools and libraries, up to date hospitals and sanitariums. They are all coming to have fine parks too, parks that would do credit to some of the larger cities of the country.

But the improvement has not all been along inanimate lines. The people have improved too. It was when there was once the broad, open spaces they dress just as well, if not better, eat better food, ride in as good automobiles, and have the same books and general entertainment that they do in the big cities. The time was when you could spot a stranger on Broadway or Michigan Avenue or Broad Street by his general appearance. Try and do it to day and see how easily you can be fooled.

COTTON AND GRAIN GROWERS MEET

Farmers of the cereal belt and Southern cotton growers will meet at St. Louis November 16 and 17 for the purpose of forming a union designed to force relief at the hands of congress.

The Grain Belt Federation of Farm Organizations, in session at Des Moines adopted a series of resolutions declaring that the present economic system compels the farmer to buy on a scale of prices more than 100 per cent above 1914, and at the same time forces him to sell his major products in competition with the lowest prices of other lands. As a result the farmer has had a capital loss of 15 thousand millions and a loss of 13 thousand millions in purchasing power during the past five years.

Organized farmers express the opinion that the time has come when producers must adopt a definite co-operative contract as to marketing of grain, live stock, dairy products, and in the amount produced. While this may appear to be Socialistic it is simply following the example set by manufacturing industries. The argument has been and will be produced, that such combinations will have a tendency to increase the cost of living, but even so, it may result in that "economic balance" which has been so earnestly advocated. Anyway, the farmers figure, it is "a poor rule that will not work both ways."

IMPROMPTU CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

The humane state of Michigan knows no gibbet or guillotine or electric chair, and is the most populous of the group of American commonwealths that have abolished capital punishment. In Michigan a killer may kill and be comfortable in the assurance that the law will not take him if it gets him. Yet, now and then, a Michigan murderer kills a murderer or a hard guy in Michigan. The law for instance the doings of Patrolman Frank J. Dombecky subscribes to the doctrine of bullets for plug-uglies, and he has proved himself a very practical disciple.

A year ago some thugs killed a friend and fellow patrolman of Dombecky's, and Dombecky, knowing that the law would not exact the mosaic penalty, proceeded to shoot and kill the killer much to the satisfaction of the community. In spite of the fact that Michigan does no execution formal legal killing it has admiration for a policeman who kills informally and incidentally.

Last week some scared children ran to Patrolman Dombecky and told him that men were robbing a bank around the corner. Dombecky, the impromptu Nemesis, stopped not to reason why, but interjected himself into the business, and hastily killed one of the four robbers and wounded another. Unfortunately Dombecky himself was wounded by a third thug, but he will recover.

Poll-taxes who, with reasonable discernment, are extremely quick on the trigger are desirable assets in any community. They are especially desirable in Michigan, because if the thugs are not killed off-hand the worst that can happen to them is a lifetime of restraint but comparative ease at the expense of the state. With every thug that Dombecky kills he saves the state money and throws the fear of God into the efficient Michigan thugger. There ought to be a medal for a patrolman who has formed the habit of disposing of gunners, and we would suggest that he should be moved up into a better job if it is not apparent that as a patrolman he is so excessively useful. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Rightlander says that in any case fewer persons are falling downstairs since the bungalows came in.—Boston Herald.

It is conservatively estimated that about 99.44 per cent of those American men who spend an aggregate of $5,000,000 a year on hair dye think that there is something positively terrible about bobbed hair for women.—Pitt Wayne News-Sentinel.

It is announced, somewhat superfluously, that Dean Inge has written a book about America. Why not? He came over here and spent several days, didn't he?—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The department of commerce has given to the world its remarkable discovery that the automobile has ruined the manufacture of buggies. If those experts keep on, they'll find maybe that steam cars slowed up things for stage coaches, too.

A four-wheel church bell was stolen from the belfry of a Massachusetts town the other night. The thieves probably wanted it to hang about the neck of the local policeman.

We Publish the Truth—the Whole Truth and Nothing But the Truth

VOLUME 1 PUBLISHED IN THE INTEREST OF PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL NUMBER 3

EDITORIAL

There is only one time for most action—the Present. One recalls the old saying—Tomorrow never Comes. And yet the majority of people today are waiting for tomorrow.

It is, in truth, so easy to say, "Tomorrow will do," but that is easier said than done. The longer a drop of ink remains on a textile, the harder it is to remove.

This does not mean that there should be no preparation now and results later on. Far from it, it means that you are capable of doing now what you are doing tomorrow if you do not; your standard of capability may not be as high.

Now down to our school affairs. Boys, today is the time to bring up your grades for athletics, and to keep them up. Today is the time for that late book-review. Today is the time to realize that the Present will soon be the Past, and to say to yourself—Today, not Tomorrow.

Declamatory Contest to Be Held in M. E. Church

Five students of Plymouth High and one graduate of '26, have entered a declamatory contest to be held in the Methodist Church, Sunday evening, November 7th. The contest is open to all between ages of 12-19. The subjects have been chosen from the booklets on "World Peace." The winner of this local contest will receive a bronze medal and be sent to represent Plymouth in the county contest. To win, the one having highest number of points will receive a silver medal and represent the county in the last or conference contest. Three prizes awarded there are as follows: 1st, gold medal—$500—four year college scholar ship. 2nd, $200—2 year scholarship. 3rd, $200—1 year scholarship.

Besides being of educational value to the contestants, these contests present to the Public the exact standing, and crisis of the World and the Peace question. Few realize in what a critical position World Peace stands.

This contest is surely worth the work of any student devoted to it. Participants are: Joseph Snyder, Emeline Fate, Mary Sheely, Corinne Scott, Ruth Balduff, Marguerite Boardman.

Bill Caldwell, Capt. Elect. Team's Grades Come Up

At a meeting of the boys Basketball squad last week Willard (Bill) Caldwell was elected Captain of the team of '26-'27. "Bill" was a regular team member last year and made a good record for his team and his High School, so here's to Bill! The squad began work on the First of November and the prospects for a successful team are beginning to look much better already. However, some of the squad seem to be having a great deal of trouble keeping their grades up to the required standard but the majority have succeeded. Remember Studies First is our motto at P. H. S. this year.

Tennis Passe in October, Why Not Just Read This

Tennis is supposed to be passe at this late date. However, some very industrious students were seen—busily engaged in sweeping leaves from the court preparatory to a game. Just what kind of tennis would this be? wonder? It is rather unusual to sweep leaves from the court before playing tennis. But Mildred, Morley, Peg and Corinne have always been ardent tennis fans.

'Twas Happy Halloween For Plymouth High

On Monday morning there were many suspicions when a few books were not found where their owners promised to have left them. Hello, we've had just past and perhaps someone. But no damage was done despite the usual number of prowlers at Halloween's time. There was no longer a bell-rung to cut because the bell is now rung by a wire cable so the school house was left practically intact for a change.

Home Nursing Course Is Added to Curriculum

Mrs. Walter's Home Sanitation class will begin this week a course in Home Nursing. Such a class was successfully conducted last year by Miss Ouse with the help of nurses from the Child Health Demonstration Department of Mansfield. The work this year will be much like the preceding course.

Experiments in Physics Aid to Science Classes

Along with their "book learn" members of the Physics and General Science classes are getting a good deal of practical experience. Many of the experiments performed are useful as well as interesting. The latter class recently demonstrated that water contains air and also that soil contains it. The Physics class prove such complicated statements as "the resultant of two parallel forces is equal to their sum." Some time ago by dropping tennis and baseballs from the top of the school building the class learned something about the velocity of falling bodies. Such experiments will be continued throughout the school year.

Physical Education Popular Course

Physical Ed. continues to be one of the popular courses at P. H. S. At present this work is made up largely of "setting up exercises." The problem of buying gym. suits is being discussed. It has been decided that in the future tennis shoes are to be worn to class.

English Literature Classes Write Poetry (Poetry?)

Instead of the usual weekly theme, members of the English Literature classes were asked to write poetry last week. Many felt this an impossible task while others attempted it. Several hitherto unknown poets thus made their debut. Some was doggerel such as would be expected from school boys, but there were several really good poems. If space had been allowed some of these should have been printed.

Definitions As Given By Juniors & Seniors

When asked by Miss Gooding, to define, given words in English Literature class, the following results were obtained. Dog—domestic animal, barks has four legs and tail. Coward—feminine, who is afraid of a mouse. But after all is said and done, the fair sex is gradually losing its fear of the mouse. For proof, only the other day two girls were seen, attempting to pry a mouse from behind the radiator with a certain pole.

Is It a Brand of Oil Or Just a New State?

The Lost Chord or The Music Corner of the Post

The Girls' and Boys' Glee Clubs have been rather handicapped this semester by lack of ample material. However this will soon be remedied by the arrival of new books, which have been ordered by both organizations.

The boys have spent their Club periods in voice training and sight reading, which will prepare them for the more intensive work which will follow.

Old music is being utilized by the girls, until the new books arrive, and rehearsals are progressing quite well. But we've heard from an unquestioned source, that some of these little girls, who are marked down in conduct, because of talking, are LOSING out 'cause they're afraid to BING out! Is it because they are bashful? Anyhow—we want to see everyone trying in the future. As the course means a credit, it worth the work.

Football As Method For Raising History Grades

The American History class has shown much improvement under the new method introduced with the class. Instead of baseball this week the two teams represent football. One is led as the Shelby team; the other, Mansfield. The rules of football are carried out as closely as possible. Each day represents one quarter of the game. The first quarter ended with a score of 6 to 10 in favor of Shelby, and the second quarter 6 to 0. Only one touchdown has been scored because of the excellent play of the teams. There has been quite a number of arguments between the two teams, but the disputes are very well settled by our competent umpire.

SOCIAL INTERCOURSE

Man is created for mutual helpfulness, for religious and social intercourse. In no true man can be happy without the same and develop into those noble specimens of humanity for which we were designed by the Creator. But let us remember that right here are fearful rocks of either hand of the narrow channel through which the voyage of life must be made, ere we shall hear the well done from the lips of the Universal Father.

Consequently it behooves us to study how we can possibly pass by "the many danger signals, avoid the ever present breakers and reach at last the haven of rest, where all good people hope to anchor their ark of a well spent life amidst the rosate hues of the breaking of eternal day.

Note it is understood, it is impossible to withdraw from society altogether, and avoid all personal attachments or intimacies, still we must exercise the greatest care under circumstances providentially surrounding us, lest we mar our peace and bring reproach upon religion. The church and the school-to-day are being looked upon as the mighty factors in shaping the life of the nation and while I am strongly in favor of separation of church and state, yet I believe that both have a glorious mission to bring all good people to one common level, regardless of nationality or social standing.

There are so many modes of improving our fast fleeting moments, according to our different conceptions and abilities, that it is impossible for finite mind to frame a standard rule yet the right use of the moment should be of vital interest to all. Often the happenings of a single moment have been the pivot upon which hinged the destiny of nations. Therefore I would urge upon every true American patriot to allow no moment to pass into eternity without some efforts to be useful in the world. The poet opens the door, when he says: "There are lonely hearts to cherish, as the days are going by hence the promised blessing for the cup of cold water."

To miss our opportunity to succor the broken hearted or restore the broken link between God and man will end in despair. Let us therefore be improvers of our God-given time, and some day we shall reap if we sow beside all waters.

A short distance from him was another auto the brakes of which was in poor condition, and it came back striking him twice before he could make his escape. He is still confined to his bed but the doctor thinks there will be no serious results. Mr. Chew is well known here and his many friends will be glad to learn that his condition is favorable.

PRINCE OF PEACE DECLARATION CONTEST

Ten young people of the High school will appear on the program at the Lutheran church on Sunday evening at 7:30 in the first Prince of Peace declaration contest in Shiloh.

This contest is an annual affair sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches in the interest of world peace. Our young people benefit by it both in the experience in speaking and by reason of the fact that the winner of the contest wins both a bronze medal and the privilege of competing with representatives of other communities in a county contest to be held within the next month.

The final contest is between representatives of the congressional districts and the prize is $500 and a four year college scholarship.

The above features give every incentive to the participants to put their best efforts into the work. Those who will compete on Sunday evening are: Agnes Baker, Jeanette Firestone, Mildred Griffith, Donald Hamman, Leola Hamman, Mildred Mellick, Reva Miller, Thomas Ruckman, Midge Wells and Ted Wolf.

The members and friends of the M. E. church met at the church parlors on Thursday evening for a social time. George Wolever in the role of toastmaster opened the exercises in a very becoming manner, after which the "ever faithful quartette" rendered some appropriate music. Mr. Firestone for the official band, Miss Hamman for the Sunday school, Mrs. Cynthia Short for the W. F. M. Society and Mrs. Huddleston for the Ladies Aid dwell upon the good fellowship existing between the different branches of the church and the retiring pastor, Dr. Mente and family. Laying stress upon the helpful assistance rendered during his pastorate to the church and community. After which their attention was directed to the incoming pastor, Rev. McBroome, his good wife and son, promising most loyal support to these in the years to come, while a most hearty welcome was extended to these good people who are now the occupants of the M. E. parsonage.

Prof. Ford then spoke for Shiloh high dwelling upon the chapel services conducted by Rev. Mente during the last semester of school, and assuring Rev. Mente of the friendship of faculty and schools.

Dr. Mente very feelingly responded to these tokens of good will, and turning to Rev. McBroome, assured him that all of the good people of Shiloh stood ready to rally around his standard as the new standard-bearer of the church, trusting that the coming year may bring blessing untold to the town.

To which the new pastor replied in a very well chosen address of thanks, asking for and promising cooperation for the best of the community.

A duet rendered by the Huddleston sisters and song "Blest Be the Tie" by the audience, closed this part of the exercises.

Miss Leola Hamman entertained with a very well rendered humorous recitation, after which refreshments numerous to mention were served. At a late hour the friends departed for their homes.

Supt. Ford, Prof. J. H. Bacon, Lloyd Black, P. L. Willet, Earl Willet, Miss Margaret Bushey and Helen Brink attended the Teachers' Convention at Cleveland Friday and Miss Waters at Toledo.

Miss Leola Hamman is ill with tonsillitis.

EXTRA SPUDS COST

5 CENTS A BUSHEL

For spraying his potatoes as a demonstration in Scioto County, Frank Boynton harvested 49 bushels more potatoes an acre than from his unsprayed plot.

Certified seed was planted on all light.

the plots of the demonstration. Potatoes that were not sprayed yielded 86 bushels an acre. Ten bushels of these were graded cups. The sprayed potatoes in the same field and on the same type of ground with like fertilizer treatment yielded 135 bushels to the acre and only 2 bushels were graded as cups.

Only two things were possible, due to weather condition that did not permit using the power sprayer in the fields. These two sprays, according to E. B. Tussing, extension specialist in vegetables gardening at the Ohio State University, cost approximately $2.50 each per acre for labor and materials. For $5.00 an acre the demonstration farmers added 49 bushels of potatoes to their total crop per acre and had eight bushels fewer culms than on the unsprayed plots. The additional yield cost five cents a bushel.

The machine on the demonstration farm is the first power spraying outfit for potatoes in the potato growing section of Scioto County. Mr. Tussing observes. The use of sprays preserves the green leaf surface of which the plant from fungus and insect attacks. A plant without leaves cannot produce tubers, because they act only in storing the food that is manufactured in the green leaves with the aid of sun-

Echo Meeting Held At Presbyterian Church

The Echo meeting at Presbyterian church last Sunday evening was well attended, and the reports were enthusiastically given, and highly appreciated by the audience.

About fifteen hundred delegates met in the new Westminster Presbyterian church, Dayton, Ohio, last Friday to study and discuss the vital subject, as presented by expert leaders—"How Best to Invest Our Lives that will really count for time and eternity," and "How we may best serve others."

The delegates were made up of young people about sixteen years, just at the age when expectancy is ripe for something to turn up in their lives that will really count for themselves and others.

District number one, in Richland county, of which Plymouth is a part, sent twelve delegates. Those from Plymouth were: Presbyterian, Ollie Cline, Florence Danner, Clarice Beamer, Martha Bowman and Mrs. J. W. Miller. From the M. E. church, Geraldine Smith. Those from Shiloh were Faye Hamman, Lela Hamman, Lela Barnard, Mary Hollenback and Tom Ruckman. From Richland county there were seventy five delegates at the Dayton convention. Tuscarawas county won the cup and Richland county came in second. We needed but four more delegates for the required number and a few other points we lacked which we could easily have gained, and then we would have won the cup for Richland county.

One of the outstanding speakers at the convention was Miss Cynthia Pearl Mann, author of "Teaching the Youth of the Church." She emphasizes the newer theory of education, "That the pupil is a reacting agent, not a recipient, that each individual must create his own personality by his own activity." The educational principle that life becomes by doing, should be applied to every life situation, to every type of knowledge and experience, and to every method by which pupils may become through doing.

Each delegate reported the high points in the various addresses that suggested a higher type of young manhood and womanhood.

A very impressive part of the convention was the singing. A special feature of the music was the singing of the Westminster Presbyterian choir, composed of sixty voices. So perfect was the singing by this choir that to the audience it seemed as if a single voice was furnishing the music. One delegate reported that she was so affected by the singing that when the choir had departed and the music had died away, she found herself still with head resting on her hand while tears were trickling down her cheeks. She looked about her, and saw that many others were similarly affected. The audience was literally held spell-bound. This choir made a singing tour through the east last year, including Philadelphia, New York and Boston. This choir is regarded by musical critics as being the best in the country.

Mr. E. E. Baldus led the singing for the Echo meeting. Rev. Gibson of the M. E. church offered the prayer. The Presbyterian orchestra rendered a very fine selection and the men's chorus sang a very pleasing number. The Echo meeting closed by the audience praying the Mizpah benediction.

The delegates, while at Dayton, planned two Echo meetings, one at Plymouth and one at Shiloh. The Shiloh Echo meeting will be held on Sunday evening, November 14, 1926.

Bay Bridge Construction to Begin at an Early Date

Final approval of the proposed Beckwith bridge to be built across Sandusky Bay has just been given by C. F. Schiesinger, state director of highways, following a second hearing on the matter last week at Columbus. In approving the new bridge which will extend from Erie to Ottawa county across the Bay, the state director states that plans submitted by C. S. Beckwith of Cleveland were thoroughly studied by J. R. Burkley, chief engineer of the state bureau of bridges. They were found by the engineer to be in accord with the needs of the district and to not conflict with other transportation facilities.

The bridge to be of concrete and steel will be approximately two miles long, and will serve to open up a much shorter automobile route between Sandusky, and will at the same time make it possible for travel from points between Cleveland and Toledo to follow a lake route practically all the way. There will be a toll charge, it is stated.

The Wooster Presbytery

First hand information was given by folks who have had years of experience in personal contact in foreign lands, in various forms of missionary activity. The address of Miss Julia M. Hodge of Manila, Philippine Islands, was very informing. She said it is inspiring to see the aggressive spirit of evangelism which animates many of the lay members in the Philippine Islands. A government hemp inspector in Cuba, P. I. visited and preached to a congregation several months gratuitously, making the trip some distance from his home each Sunday. The Philippine Christians have the heroism of the early church in many instances.

An Educational Commission, headed by Professor Monroe of Columbia University, which made a thorough investigation of the educational work in the Philippines the past year, stated in part:

"The most influential Protestant institution of higher learning in the Philippine Islands is the Silliman Institute, founded and operated by the Presbyterian church in the U. S. In location, acreage, buildings, equipment and sanitary arrangements this institution is a most attractive contrast to the private universities. Its large library is administered by a trained librarian. Its finest building is devoted to the teaching of the sciences. It has one of the ablest staffs of teachers in the Islands. Throughout the Islands the Commission heard only words of praise for graduates of the Silliman Institute, particularly of those who entered the public schools as teachers."

At the afternoon, Dr. James A. Verburg delivered an inspiring address, emphasizing the modern idea of education, that it is the ability to conduct our conduct in our acquired experience.

The closing part of the convention was very impressive. The consecration service and the beautiful solo sung by Ruth Baldus, with Margaret Nimmons accompanist were among some of the very helpful ideas that one will not soon forget.

There were large delegations from the W. M. S. of Wooster Presbyterian. A very tasteful and appetizing luncheon was served at the noon hour in the dining room.
