Pastor Tells of Trip Thru W. Virginia

Rev. W. H. Gibson Writes of Vacation In Former Pastorates.

Left Plymouth 7 a.m., Monday, and soon ran into broken country, large fields of wheat mostly still in shock, hay mostly cut; corn, some of which is good—much of it will be poor if it ears at all. Arriving at Newark, and in the few minutes, while they changed engines, we telephoned some old friends. Arrived at Zanesville for a trip down the "Hudson of the West" (Muskingum Valley.) Here are great fields of fine corn; tasselling, and as we neared Marietta, saw whole fields of tomatoes ready.

"The hills seem like old friends, with their steep bluffs looking a challenge to the passerby, to 'climb me if you dare,' as once we did, as our duties called us here and there.

"Spent the afternoon and night with brother and family and thoroughly enjoyed the visit.

"Tuesday morning at daybreak, the rain began to pour, but the "Yellow Cab" was on duty now, so we found ourselves at Williamson, W. Va., waiting for the train for Slaterville. The Ohio Valley seems more beautiful than ever. This gray drizzle brings out the beauty of these "Everlasting Hills," in a peculiar way. The wooded slopes of corn, here in silk, farm houses, dotting the landscape, the beautiful Ohio, impelled by refuse from mills, as it is farther up, the dam, holding water to check until it looks like a sea of green glass, as it winds its way from the distance above to the distance below, all blend in God's eternal harmonies of nature, until we wonder, where is a soul so dead to all these expressions of God as not to let his heart in thanks for the privilege of living in such a world?

"Newport, the scene of our labors, in years gone by, lies sleeping in the hollow of the great arm of the river, like a babe nestling on the bosom of a mother. We expect to visit friends there the last of this week."

"Out of St. Mary's, W. Va., we have crossed the bridge that spans Middle Island river, and thought of the miles it has traveled, three majestic scenery from where, in a few hours, we will again be at its banks where years ago we first met our father and brothers and sisters.

"Oil wells are still working, but not much new work being done. Marietta is not as it used to be, employment is at low ebb, and wages not so good as when the oil boom was on. Most factories are closed, or run on half time.

"We have just passed "Roy's Run" and from the train we look up the "hollow," and see towering hills that lift their heads into the pale blue sky, and wonder how we ever troubled ourselves with Fanny, and the cart, calling at the weaves scattered all about them. Yet, then we knew no other way, but now, in days of easier travel, better roads, (now mostly improved even here,) we wonder if we could stand the work we did in those days. We remember, the revival meetings held, 5 to 8 and 9 weeks at each place, scores converted at altars strong men weeping on account of their sins, the shouting of the saved make us rather long for a recurrence of these experiences. Will write more later, as we are now drawing near to Slaterville, where the trolley will take us thru majestic scenery of hill and valley of inland West Virginia.

Innocence Abroad

Geo. Harvey, Well Known Farmer, Died Thursday

George Harvey, farmer, whose back was broken on July 21, when he fell from the top of a load of hay, died at the Zeigler farm near Shenandoah, died from the injury last Thursday afternoon.

The deceased was 67 years of age and resided most all of his life in the vicinity of Rome and Orliesburg. He moved to Shenandoah about two years ago. He is survived by his wife, an adopted daughter, Mrs. Amar Backeatos and two sisters who also live in Michigan.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon with Rev. J. W. Stewart officiating. Burial was made in the Rome cemetery.

OLD PLYMOUTHITE VISITS OLD HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Sterrett of Los Angeles were the guests Sunday of their cousin, Mrs. Daniel C. Grace Hanick and Mrs. Cassie Lottman. Mr. Sterrett was returning from Philadelphia where his state had sent him to the Sesquicentennial with the motion picture views of the California Pageant of 1925. Mr. Sterrett is the professor of Art in the Los Angeles public schools. He also took his films to Columbia University of New York and the Northwestern University of Chicago, as they were of an educational nature. Mrs. Sterrett will be remembered at Miss Edna Weh of Plymouth a teacher in our schools. Mrs. J. G. Van Horn of Sturgis, Mich., accompanied her sister, Mrs. Sterrett to Plymouth.

BABY CLINIC HELD TUESDAY

The regular clinic for well babies was held at the Chamber of Commerce building Tuesday July 27. Babies were examined by Dr. Shafer. The clinic will be held August 10 from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m.

Dr. Barrett will be present to examine the babies on that day.

SAYS DONAHAY SHOULD QUIT

COLUMBUS.—Declares "a Texas lady governor should be no more gallant than an Ohio governor" A. P. Sanders, Ottawa, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination against Governor A. V. Donahay should resign, or else the people will force the governor to resign today for not keeping his last campaign promises.

"Four years ago in your campaign you said if elected you would not tax and spend, and you did not resign," Sanders wrote to Governor Donahay Wednesday.

"All Ohio would applaud your courageous action. A Texas lady governor should be no more gallant than an Ohio governor," it concluded.

HUMPOBILE RETURNED

Dr. and Mrs. S. S. Holtz received their new Humptobile from Linn M. May where it has been in a repair shop there, due to an accident which happened several weeks ago. The machine was badly damaged when it was struck by a traction car in Lima.

EXPLOSION HURLS WILLARD WORKMAN THROUGH WINDOW

WILLARD.—An explosion of undetermined origin at 1 o'clock Sunday morning, nearly caused the death of Glenn Hite, 25, and Joe Beamer, 23, employees of the B. & O. pump house in which the explosion occurred.

Beamer was thrown through a window by the force of the blast, while Hite was pinned in the burning building by heavy timbers which were located and fell upon him when the shoring had gone.

Both youths are in Community hospital with fine chances for recovery.

Hite's wife, Mrs. Beamer, was glued through the window, his clothing was on fire. Freeing himself he dove into the water, but quickly

after the hull sank and rolled him about in the grass to extinguish the flames.

Hite's hands and arms were badly burned, while Beamer's face, hands and body were severely injured.

The explosion nearly wrecked the pump house. It burst into flames after the explosion, but quick action by the fire department prevented a greater disaster. Railroad officials said that it would be used again after repairs had been made.

Windows for blocks around were shaken by the blast.

BUS ACCIDENT

The Shely-Norwalk bus, scheduled to arrive here at 6:05, ran over an embankment near the Huron Valley Farm, Friday afternoon turning over twice. The bus was in charge of M. Benedict, who was accompanied by one passenger. Both the driver and passenger suffered only minor injuries. The driver of the bus claims that he was crowded off the road.

PICNIC POSTPONED

The Friendship class picnic of the M. C. church to be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Kenestrick, was postponed two weeks and now will be held Tuesday, August 3. Every member will want to be present. Miss Carson of Delaware will be with us to enjoy this afternoon's outing at the beautiful home of Mrs. Kenestrick. Meet at the church at 2 o'clock, bring sandwiches, and other dish and silver.

The use of autos will be very much appreciated. The committee on entertainment for the afternoon is Mrs. Harry Brooks, Mrs. Lee May and Mrs. Harry Haindell.

BREAKS RIBS

While on top of a haystack Harry Griffith fell and struck his back on a wagon tongue breaking several ribs. The accident occurred last Wednesday evening. It is very remarkable that Mr. Griffith did not suffer a broken back as the fall was a distance of about ten feet. Mr. Griffith is recovering from the shock and his injuries.

TO LOCATE IN PLYMOUTH

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nye and family will reside in Plymouth in the F. B. Lofland home on Sandusky street.

Mr. Nye travels for the Corn Products Co. with offices in Cleveland. Mrs. Nye is a daughter of Mrs. S. S. Holtz.

TO HOLD FESTIVAL

The PTA of New Haven will hold an ice cream social at New Haven in the school yard, Friday night. All kinds of delicious ice cream will be served. The public is cordially invited to attend.

BUDS HOUND DOG

Allie DeVore has purchased a pedigree hound dog from a Tennessee breeder. This gives Mr. DeVore a fine pair of dogs for hunting.

Livestock Entry List In Danger

More Than 6000 Animals to Be Shown at 1926 Exposition This Fall

When approximately 6000 animals were shown in the horse, swine, cattle and sheep departments at the 1925 Ohio State Fair, the management believed that it had achieved for the exposition a record that would stand unchallenged for years to come.

But, according to present indications and the interest being manifested in the livestock departments, the record hung up last year will be definitely eclipsed and passed for the 1926 Fair—August 30 to September 4.

This is being accomplished as a result of increased premiums awards and improvement of physical equipment and facilities on the big exposition grounds in Columbus.

With the immense cattle exhibition building completed two years ago, it was believed that the same would house adequately the annually growing entry list for some time to come. But, in 1925, the capacity of the structure was taxed when nearly 1800 animals were accommodated in the building. By reason of the increased money offerings in the cattle department for 1926, it was confidently predicted that the entries will mount until a new mark is established.

For several years, the sheep show at Ohio State Fair has been acknowledged the largest and most representative of any held in the world. In 1923, over 200 animals were exhibited in this department; 1924, close to 2400 and last year almost 100 more entries were recorded in the single classes alone. The sheep show at the largest in the world is in spite of the fact that the management limits the entries to two animals in each class by each exhibitor.

Two immense structures are used to accommodate the swine entries. Arrangements are being made this year to provide space for an increased number of animals. Where close to 1600 swine were shown last year, it is believed that the 1926 exhibit will be well above this mark.

As against 225 Percherons and Belgians shown in the horse department last year, early reports indicate that the 300 mark will be exceeded for 1926. The premium offerings in the department are well above a year ago. Another feature that horse breeders an admirers feel emphasized at the Ohio State Fair is the night horse show, where substantial money offerings are made by the management. This is one of the really great expositions of its kind held in this country.

SHILoh FAMILY IN WRECK

Mrs. Bert Laird, returning home from Mansfield Friday evening, failed to make the turn at Plankton into the Shiloh road, running her machine into the ditch and damaging it so甚 extent that it could not be brought to town on its own power. The wind shield was demolished and it is a wonder that Mrs. Laird and her friends escaped with slight bruises.

Plymouth Pre-School Clinic On August 2

Tuesday, August 3, at 2:00 p.m., a clinic for pre-school children will be held at the school house. All children who will start to school for the first time this fall are especially invited.

It is quite important that each child must be well when he starts to school.

IT IS the duty of the parents to see that he is examined and to know if he is all right and if not to see that all remedial defects are taken care of before school begins so that the child will have no handicap to interfere with doing his best work. The parents of children who will be first graders this year are especially urged to attend this clinic.

Dr. Barrett, Health Commissioner and Emma Bell Kelms, Health nurse, will be in charge.

Don't forget the date, Tuesday August 3, 2:00 p.m. at the school clinic.

NOTICE

All former teachers and pupils and their families of Marsh School District No. 1, Richmond township, Huron Co., are cordially invited to attend the home coming to be held at the Marsh School house September 4, 1926. Come and bring well filled baskets.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF OHIO.

ARTICLE XVIII, SECTION 111.
PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION 111 OF ARTICLE XVIII OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF OHIO, RELATING TO THE COST OF ACQUIRING PROPERTY.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members voting in each house concurring, that this shall be submitted to the electors of that state in the manner provided by law, as an amendment to the Constitution of Ohio, to amend section 111 of Article XVIII of the Constitution of Ohio, so as to read as follows:

"Any municipality acquiring property by purchase or otherwise, any improvement may provide money therefore, in whole or in part, from funds appropriated by the improvement whether allotment, adjustment or otherwise, such funds shall in no case exceed special assessments conferred thereon."

Be it further resolved, that at such election above referred to this amendment shall be proposed to the electors of the state, provided by law and designated as follows:

"Authorizing municipalities, or any portion of the same, to assess property for public improvements upon lands benefited thereby, in order to raise, under the laws, sufficient to defray such purpose."

It is so ordered, and amendment shall take effect on the first day of January, 1927.

Adopted March 27, 1925.

Lizzie Takes Us Home
Experiences Encountered On An Overland Trip From Florida
BY ELSA M. SEILER

Chapter 18—More Hospitality

The next morning we rose early, hoping to get further on our way than we did for the past two days. I found myself in the kitchen, preparing to wash, when the odor of suds prevailed the house.

Wishing to go out in the yard, I started and she handed me a boy's jacket and said "Here, hang this on you, it is cold out." I "hung" it on and was glad I did for it was bitterly cold out of doors and the snowflakes were falling.

We packed up, went to a restaurant for our breakfast where we huddled close to the stove, in which a fire had just been lighted. After breakfast we left Old Lizzie out and said farewell to our hostess.

The Boss remarked that he did not like the way Lizzie sounded at all and believed that we had better have her looked over if we could find a Ford garage. We had not gone many rods when we saw the welcome sign, "Authorized Ford Garage" and found a very pleasant young man in charge.

The man drove Lizzie into the shop below and we found that most of the work done the day before was wrong and would have to be done over.

I prepared myself for another wait, and went into the ladies' room on the first floor and met Bo with me. They had just started a fire in the furnace and the steam pipes were not ever warm, but I got as close to them as I could, wrapped my coat around me, and Bo curled up on his blanket on the floor, and I wrapped him up, head and ears, and he went to sleep.

I had finished the magazine I got on Sunday, so I decided to go back into the town and buy another to while away the time of waiting. Leaving Bo with the Boss I started out, and faced the bitter cold wind that was blowing, while the snowflakes were settling in patches on the dead grass.

In a few minutes I was in the village and found to my astonishment that there was not a magazine or book to be bought in the whole town.

The storekeeper told me that the few that took magazines had them sent in by mail.

I could not even buy a daily paper. I walked back to the garage, and in a little while the Boss came up and said that the garage man had said that I might come down to the work shop and stay as it was so cold in the waiting room. In the meantime a woman, the proprietor's wife had come in and seeing Bo wrapped up on the floor, said "What have you got there?" Bo told her that he was my dog and wondering in my own mind if that was the custom of the place to leave their babies on the floor. I would not have been surprised at anything by this time.

I went down to the work shop and saw the men minding there and a sharpie of the other workers.

At noon we went to the restaurant we had patronized the previous evening and had a very good dinner, and the proprietor on hearing of our plight supplemented the meal with a few extras, such as home made pickles, and new maple syrup.

It was about three o'clock when Lizzie was ready to start out again, and the garage man assured us that we would not have any more trouble with her but would be able to get nicely now. He asked us to write him and let him know how we fared and we promised we would.

We put the side curtains on and started out. We went to Ligonier on Latrobe and Greensburg. We wished to avoid the traffic at Pittsburgh so turned there and went to Delmont. It was so bitterly cold that we decided to make a stop when we could find a place, and decided as Delmont was a small town that we would try our luck there.

I inquired and found there were two hotels there. The American hotel was out of the question on account of Bo, but another small place run by an Italian looked promising, and I was told it was a clean respectable place, I went to the door and inquired if we could get a room for the night. The proprietor said "You want a room?" I said "Yes, how much will it cost?" He told me a dollar and a half and I went back and found my host waiting for me at the door. I supposed he wanted to tell me where to park the car, but when I walked up to him he said, "I have to charge you a dollar and a half a piece for the room." I looked at him and said "Well, I can get it from anyone." I said "You go ahead and get it then, I won't pay it."

And walked away, and the last we saw of him he was standing in the doorway, peering out like a turtle in his shell, watching us drive away. I never have seen our Florida license and decided we were tourists and would stand the extra charge.

On we drove and looked for a "Rooms for Tourists" sign in vain. In fact we were looking for one so hard that we missed one turn and went about four miles out of our way over the steep hills. I stopped at place after place and asked if they could not accommodate us, but I was met by story stores and a curt: "We don't take stoppers," or possibly be directed to a place a mile or so further on, where I made the same fate when I inquired.

The country looks cold and barren, for there were no leaves on the trees, and the wind was sweeping along finding all the crevices in the curtains. I kept on covered up on the back seat, and he was the most comfortable of the party.

Finally it grew dark and still we had no place to stay. No one would take us in, and I did not know what we would do. Finally learning that we were about fifteen miles from New Kensington we decided to push on, and try our luck there. It was hard driving for in Pennsylvania they do not dim their lights, and the road was all strange to us.

Parsnass comes first and seeing a garage office lighted up, it was nearing nine o'clock then, we stopped and I went in to inquire. One of the men standing around spoke up and said "I believe I know of a woman who will take you in."

I could have hugged him for the welcome words. He called up some one, and soon turned to me and said "Yes, she will give you a room." We left the car at the garage and this man took us in his car and soon stopped at a large house.

We went up the steps with our bags, Bo and I, and was ushered into a warm room and made welcome. May Heaven will look better to me, but I doubt it.

Outsiders took us up stairs and we washed up with plenty of hot water and came down stairs again and she bustled around and soon had hot coffee and a lunch on the table, which certainly tasted good after our long wait.

She said we might bring Bo down too, and he laid on the rug near the register and slept and slept.

They had a radio and we were entertained until eleven o'clock with the pretty music. Finally my eyes refused to open any longer and we went upstairs to bed, where we found plenty of covers and a feather tick, into which we snuggled, and were soon in the land of dreams.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

The girl scouts met on Wednesday, July 21st, with twenty present. There was an interesting meeting and it was decided to have a bake sale on Saturday, July 23rd. Jane DeWitt passed her tenderfoot test, making nine girls ready to register. As I have received my commission from New York I hope to register the troop this week so the girls may obtain the tenderfoot pins and belong to the national organization.

I am very much pleased with the way the girls are responding and feel sure that Plymouth will have a Girl Scout troop of which they may be proud.

Rosemary Bachrach has been elected historian and will keep the scrapbook with all printed notices in it.

Two more new candidates came to this meeting. Helen Dick and Mildred King. Two of the new members have attended three meetings and after the next meeting will be eligible to take the tenderfoot test. One girl who has attended two meetings reports that she is already ready for her test now, so as soon as she attends two more meetings she will be a real Scout.

Uniforms are coming from New York very slowly, as they report that the force is small at this time of year and the work is heavy, but we have not felt the need of uniforms during this hot weather, and will probably be well equipped by the fall time comes.

Please do not forget the bake sale Saturday afternoon, at Brown & Miller's hardware store. There will be all sorts of good things to eat and if any one wishes to donate a pie or cake the girls will call for it if you will notify one of them or Mrs. Seller. Please help us to make this a success.

Lizzie Takes Us Home
Experiences Encountered On An Overland Trip From Florida
BY ELSA M. SEILER

Chapter 18—More Hospitality

The next morning we rose early, hoping to get further on our way than we did for the past two days. I found myself in the kitchen, preparing to wash, when the odor of suds prevailed the house.

Wishing to go out in the yard, I started and she handed me a boy's jacket and said "Here, hang this on you, it is cold out." I "hung" it on and was glad I did for it was bitterly cold out of doors and the snowflakes were falling.

We packed up, went to a restaurant for our breakfast where we huddled close to the stove, in which a fire had just been lighted. After breakfast we left Old Lizzie out and said farewell to our hostess.

The Boss remarked that he did not like the way Lizzie sounded at all and believed that we had better have her looked over if we could find a Ford garage. We had not gone many rods when we saw the welcome sign, "Authorized Ford Garage" and found a very pleasant young man in charge.

The man drove Lizzie into the shop below and we found that most of the work done the day before was wrong and would have to be done over.

I prepared myself for another wait, and went into the ladies' room on the first floor and met Bo with me. They had just started a fire in the furnace and the steam pipes were not ever warm, but I got as close to them as I could, wrapped my coat around me, and Bo curled up on his blanket on the floor, and I wrapped him up, head and ears, and he went to sleep.

I had finished the magazine I got on Sunday, so I decided to go back into the town and buy another to while away the time of waiting. Leaving Bo with the Boss I started out, and faced the bitter cold wind that was blowing, while the snowflakes were settling in patches on the dead grass.

In a few minutes I was in the village and found to my astonishment that there was not a magazine or book to be bought in the whole town.

The storekeeper told me that the few that took magazines had them sent in by mail. I could not even buy a daily paper. I walked back to the garage, and in a little while the Boss came up and said that the garage man had said that I might come down to the work shop and stay as it was so cold in the waiting room. In the meantime a woman, the proprietor's wife had come in and seeing Bo wrapped up on the floor, said "What have you got there?" Bo told her that he was my dog and wondering in my own mind if that was the custom of the place to leave their babies on the floor. I would not have been surprised at anything by this time.

I went down to the work shop and saw the manning there and a sharpie of the other workers.

At noon we went to the restaurant we had patronized the previous evening and had a very good dinner, and the proprietor on hearing of our plight supplemented the meal with a few extras, such as home made pickles, and new maple syrup.

It was about three o'clock when Lizzie was ready to start out again, and the garage man assured us that we would not have any more trouble with her but would be able to get nicely now. He asked us to write him and let him know how we fared and we promised we would.

We put the side curtains on and started out. We went to Ligonier on Latrobe and Greensburg. We wished to avoid the traffic at Pittsburgh so turned there and went to Delmont. It was so bitterly cold that we decided to make a stop when we could find a place, and decided as Delmont was a small town that we would try our luck there.

I inquired and found there were two hotels there. The American hotel was out of the question on account of Bo, but another small place run by an Italian looked promising, and I was told it was a clean respectable place, I went to the door and inquired if we could get a room for the night. The proprietor said "You want a room?" I said "Yes, how much will it cost?" He told me a dollar and a half and I went back and found my host waiting for me at the door. I supposed he wanted to tell me where to park the car, but when I walked up to him he said, "I have to charge you a dollar and a half a piece for the room." I looked at him and said "Well, I can get it from anyone." I said "You go ahead and get it then, I won't pay it."

And walked away, and the last we Isaac Walton League of America.

saw of him he was standing in the doorway, peering out like a turtle in his shell, watching us drive away. I never have seen our Florida license and decided we were tourists and would stand the extra charge.

On we drove and looked for a "Rooms for Tourists" sign in vain. In fact we were looking for one so hard that we missed one turn and went about four miles out of our way over the steep hills. I stopped at place after place and asked if they could not accommodate us, but I was met by story stores and a curt: "We don't take stoppers," or possibly be directed to a place a mile or so further on, where I made the same fate when I inquired.

The country looks cold and barren, for there were no leaves on the trees, and the wind was sweeping along finding its crevices in the curtains. I kept on covered up on the back seat, and he was the most comfortable of the party.

Finally it grew dark and still we had no place to stay. No one would take us in, and I did not know what we would do. Finally learning that we were about fifteen miles from New Kensington we decided to push on, and try our luck there. It was hard driving for in Pennsylvania they do not dim their lights, and the road was all strange to us.

Parsnass comes first and seeing a garage office lighted up, it was nearing nine o'clock then, we stopped and I went in to inquire. One of the men standing around spoke up and said "I believe I know of a woman who will take you in." I could have hugged him for the welcome words. He called up some one, and soon turned to me and said "Yes, she will give you a room." We left the car at the garage and this man took us in his car and soon stopped at a large house. We went up the steps with our bags, Bo and I, and was ushered into a warm room and made welcome. May Heaven will look better to me, but I doubt it.

Outsiders took us up stairs and we washed up with plenty of hot water and came down stairs again and she bustled around and soon had hot coffee and a lunch on the table, which certainly tasted good after our long wait.

She said we might bring Bo down too, and he laid on the rug near the register and slept and slept.

They had a radio and we were entertained until eleven o'clock with the pretty music. Finally my eyes refused to open any longer and we went upstairs to bed, where we found plenty of covers and a feather tick, into which we snuggled, and were soon in the land of dreams.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

The girl scouts met on Wednesday, July 21st, with twenty present. There was an interesting meeting and it was decided to have a bake sale on Saturday, July 23rd. Jane DeWitt passed her tenderfoot test, making nine girls ready to register. As I have received my commission from New York I hope to register the troop this week so the girls may obtain the tenderfoot pins and belong to the national organization.

I am very much pleased with the way the girls are responding and feel sure that Plymouth will have a Girl Scout troop of which they may be proud.

Rosemary Bachrach has been elected historian and will keep the scrapbook with all printed notices in it. Two more new candidates came to this meeting, Helen Dick and Mildred King. Two of the new members have attended three meetings and after the next meeting will be eligible to take the tenderfoot test. One girl who has attended two meetings reports that she is already ready for her test now, so as soon as she attends two more meetings she will be a real Scout.

Uniforms are coming from New York very slowly, as they report that the force is small at this time of year and the work is heavy, but we have not felt the need of uniforms during this hot weather, and will probably be well equipped by the fall time comes.

Please do not forget the bake sale Saturday afternoon, at Brown & 24th's hardware store. There will be all sorts of good things to eat, and if any one wishes to donate a pie or cake the girls will call for it if you will notify one of them or Mrs. Seller. Please help us to make this a success.

TO THE VOTERS OF OLD HURON COUNTY

As my term of office as Sheriff of Huron County, Ohio, is drawing to a close, I wish at this time to thank the VOTERS of the County for their liberal support.

The Deputies and myself have made some mistakes during our term of office; the man that makes mistakes, does nothing.

And now I wish to recommend and VOUCH for a MAN for the nomination for SHERIFF of HURON COUNTY, at the PRIMARIES on August 10th, 1926. He has SERVED you as POLICE Officer for 20 years, DEPUTY SHERIFF of HURON COUNTY for FOUR years. You all know him—some better than others, and I defy any citizen to say that he has not enforced the LAW, WITHOUT FEAR or FAVOR, always on the JOB. He stands classed today as one of the best Police Officers in the STATE of OHIO. Born in Norwalk township, raised in the City of Norwalk, lived in Huron County all his life, and a TAX PAYER; if nominated for Sheriff of HURON COUNTY, we will all be proud to say we have nominated one of the best POLICE OFFICERS in the STATE of OHIO for SHERIFF OF HURON COUNTY.

Now Mr. and Mrs. VOTER, STOP and THINK, ponder it well, and you will make a mistake when you place your MARK in front of Frank A. Alderman's name for Sheriff of Huron County. BE SURE AND VOTE AT THE PRIMARIES ON AUGUST 10th, 1926.

(Signed) Edward Gregory, Sheriff of Huron County, Ohio

Oven Canning—the Popular Way*Fruits and Vegetables Retain Natural Color, Shape and Flavor

YOU will find a particular advantage in owning a Tappan Gas Range during the Canning Season. If you plan to own a new range, come in now and learn how the roomy, improved oven, with the oven heat regulator—Wilcolator—will make your canning an easier process. You will be delighted with its cooking and baking year thru. Enjoy the new Oven Canning Method. After simple preliminary preparations, the cans are set onto the sturdy oven racks and heated to a given degree for a stated time—much more interesting and easier than the old tedious methods.

TAPPAN GAS RANGE

You are invited to come in and receive a Tappan Canning Chart, which gives complete instructions for canning. It will be a pleasure to show you also the many distinctive features of the Tappan. You will be impressed by its beauty, improved features for cooking and baking, the quality and splendid value for the money.

A Canning Chart awaits your visit. Enjoy a while shopping in our store.

A STORY OF "POLITICAL HYSTERIA"

In the good old days when votes were secured largely by attacking corporations, the people of Oregon were lured against the Southern Pacific, on the charge that it had failed to administer its land grants in accordance with the terms of the grant. Demand was made that the land on which it had paid taxes for nearly half a century be forfeited to the government. Political pressure was so strong, that the land was taken back by the government, even against its wishes and in spite of the objections of the railroad company owning it. This was done with full knowledge that when the land reverted to the government, the taxes paid by the railroad company would be lost. The theory was, that if the government owned the land, there would be a rush of settlers to buy the rocky hillsides and river canyons.

The beautiful picture painted by the politicians did not materialize. There has been less land settlement than ever before, and on top of it all, sparsely settled counties in Southern Oregon have been losing about $600,000 a year in taxes, which has almost been a deathblow to some of them.

And now what happens? Oregon's representatives in Congress have been successful in passing a bill in the House and the Senate, which provides that the Federal Government will reimburse Oregon for 10 years' lost taxes, which aggregate some $4,907,000. How this can be done lawfully is hard to understand. Public property is tax-free. If the Federal Government pays a few counties $4,907,000 taxes on government land in those counties, why can it not be forced to pay taxes on all Federal lands in other states? In Arizona, for instance, 69 per cent of land belongs to the Government, and the state is hard pressed to collect its necessary tax revenue from the 40 per cent of privately owned lands within its boundaries.

No better illustration could be given, of the blighting effect of unnecessary ownership of property, which is thereby removed from taxation and the tax load shifted to the shoulders of remaining private property.

Under state and Federal ownership of hydroelectric power plants and other lines of business and industry, the same thing would take place as in this case of the Oregon land grant. The public properties would pay no taxes, private industries would be killed, and the taxpayers, in addition to losing millions annually, would have to make good the lost taxes by assessments against remaining taxable property. The Oregon land grant case should be an object lesson to the whole nation.

O

EXAGGERATED ROAD STATEMENTS

Some "remarkable" statements occasionally gain circulation. A good example is one which apparently recently dated from Washington, to the effect that tires wear out 17 times as fast on a macadam road as on a paved road. On the face of it, this is an extravagant and unreasonable assertion, for anyone who drives an automobile knows that a tire will run more than 1,000 miles on a macadam road, which would be its approximate life based on the tire mentioned.

Another interesting statement credited to the representative of a cement organization, says: "Concrete roads well built according to our specifications, will last 100 years and then be good to start on the second century lap."

If there have been any "hundred-year roads" built in the United States few people have seen them. They would certainly be more than 6 to 10 inches in thickness, the average which is now laid on highways. This type of concrete road does well to last 10 years without expensive repairs, under heavy traffic conditions.

Few counties or states could afford to build concrete roads sufficiently thick to withstand the pound and jar of traffic for 100 years. The surface of such a road would become so rough that it would have to be retopped with some suitable material before the 100 years expired.

So much money has been wasted on experimental road construction, that it is well to be reasonable in discussing road matters involving tax expenditures.

O

REGULATE THE CARELESS DRIVER

In 1925, total fatalities in the United States involving automobiles amounted to 19,564. Of these, 17,750 occurred either off or at the intersections of streets and highways, and 1,784 at railroad grade crossings. In other words, nearly 91 percent of all these fatalities occurred on highways away from railroad crossings.

If the public is to be protected against careless or inexperienced drivers radical changes must be made—not in all grade crossings of railroads which would burden taxpayers and at best prevent only a small portion of the accidents—but in the issuance of licenses, policing practices and the driving on highways. The source of danger is the driver, not the grade crossing.

Drastic penalties should be attached to the offense of driving an automobile while intoxicated, failing to give or obey traffic signals, driving at night without proper headlights, driving at excessive speed. Forfeiture of license and jail penalties are too meager where the transgressions result in avoidable accidents.

The National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters is carrying on an aggressive campaign against the careless drivers in its effort to reduce accidents. Its companies refuse to insure known careless or reckless drivers, for with insurance such drivers feel that all necessity for carefulness on their part has been removed, and that death or injury which they inflict will be "covered by insurance."

RADIO AN EXCEPTION TO RULE

Radio is in its infancy; but it is the liveliest youngster of record. It has become a national institution for amusement, for education and for material application. Broadcasting from police stations and the sheriff's offices leads to apprehension of crooks who would otherwise make a clean get-away. Broadcasting weather conditions is of inestimable value to farmers. Radio has reduced enormously the hazard of ocean navigation, and has saved countless lives.

"Most remarkable of all," says the Los Angeles Times, "no serious abuse of the radio has yet developed. Science is immoral. Its inventions are generally applicable alike to good and evil. Weapons protect life by destroying life. Most health-giving remedies can also be used as poisons. Chemistry is alike a blessing and a bane. To the present time, radio is a happy exception to the rule."

IT WOULDN'T WORK

A Chicago judge the other day proposed the immediate enactment of a law limiting the number of divorces to an individual to two. We wonder why he says two, or maybe he means to limit them to two at a time, or possibly he thinks that one person should not be permitted to make more than two mistakes along that line.

We presume that if this law is passed, that one who had gotten two divorces would be more careful to marry as the third mate, one who had had but one divorce, so that there could be a divorce granted the other side of the house. If one was a good mathematician and did not get them crossed, they could keep this going on indefinitely and we presume that one of the qualifications that would have to be considered very seriously in proposals, would be that only one divorce had been granted thus far. There would be little mating of those wherein each had had two divorces because of course, when they were married that would make four divorces between them and that more would be legally impossible; they would be tied for ever.—Bucyrus Telegraph-Forum.

"SEVENTH HEAVEN"
MAKING A RECORD RUN AT CLEVELAND

Robert McLaughlin will be present John Golden's great melodramatic success "Seventh Heaven," at the Ohio Theatre, Cleveland, beginning Sunday night. "Seventh Heaven" was written by Austin Strong and broke all dramatic records in New York running for more than 700 consecutive nights on Broadway.

"Seventh Heaven" tells the story of a sewer rat in Paris who is elevated to the rank of street cleaner. He considers himself a very remarkable fellow. To save a little street waif from being arrested by the police, he announces that she is his wife. He takes her to his home, a picture six flights which seems so wonderful to a little Diane that she calls it seventh Heaven. Gradually Chic begins to fall in love with him since she has been in love with him since first saw him, they plan to marry. But before the church ceremony can be performed, mobilization is called and Chic has to march away to war.

The whole story of a play should never be revealed in advance, as it would spoil the full enjoyment of witnessing it. But the stamp of approval of the whole country has already been placed in the favor of this play as one of the most delightful pictures ever filmed.

Film Star Wins Title
Of Female Lon Chaney

"The feminine Lon Chaney" is the title of the picture which has been given at University City, following the remarkable feat she performed in the dual role of "Stella Maris" and "Unity Blaize." Universal's filmization of Locke's "Stella Maris," which comes to the Castamba, Friday, 7:00 and 8:30. Miss Philbin wears a makeup which makes her literally another person. Strangely enough, too, in the picture preceding this one, "The Phantom of the Opera," she played opposite Lon Chaney, who himself wore one of his strange and baffling facial disguises.

Charles Brabin, the director of the picture, expressed his amazement at the transformation which the little star, noted for beauty, was able to affect, for in the role of the English slavey her appearance is forbidding. C. of C. Membership

Beautiful Free Act

At Seccaium Park

One of the prettiest free acts to be witnessed at Seccaium Park this season is the Butterfly Girls who are appearing twice daily, 4:45 and 6:30 this evening. The act beautiful originated from two standards thirty-five feet high with beautiful costumes. Many stunts are pulled in mid air on bicycles while suspended from the teeth of Miss Moore, who bears the reputation of one of the outstanding artists in an act of this kind. Park plan dancing every night and with the continued hot spell the big swimming pool is receiving its share of the patronage.

BUCK JONES BOTH AGGRESSIVE AND GENTLE IN FILMS

Theatre patrons who admired Buck Jones in "Lazybones" and enjoyed his quaint conception of the indolent, irresponsible but lovable "Lazybones," will find many traces of the same fine character sketches in his newest Fox picture, "The Gentle Cyclone," which comes to the Castamba Theatre Shultz, Saturday.

Buck, of course, is the "cyclone" and despite the suggestion of gentleness in the title of the picture, Mr. Jones at times is as vigorous and torrid as his fondest fan could wish. In fact, in many of the scenes of "The Gentle Cyclone," Buck swings a pair of very lusty and decisive fists.

The role presents Mr. Jones in fine contrasts, for at times he is as gentle and apparently as harmless as the title suggests. Again, he is the wild-riding, fear-defying Buck Jones of many a valiant western picture.

Partnership Dissolved

The Electric & Radio Supply Company, 14 South Gamble Street, Shelby, Ohio, until recently doing business as a partnership in that city, has been dissolved. E. P. Brunk, one of the former partners, has opened a new business under the title of Brunk's Electric and Radio Company and will continue at the above address along the same lines as the dissolved partnership.

Brunk's Electric & Radio Company is an authorized dealer for Atwater-Kent Radios, Radolas, Servel Electric Refrigeration, Delco Light Plants, Savage Electric Washers, Liberty Vacuum Cleaners and a complete line of electrical appliances as well as radio accessories and supplies.

Their efforts will be confined to the sale of standard lines of nationally advertised electrical devices. A glance at the brands outlined will convince anyone that they are centering their efforts on quality lines of merchandise.

An added feature of the business will be the unusual service rendered to customers, at the shop, for which will require about six weeks in which to secure delivery of all equipment, will undoubtedly be the most complete in this section for testing and repairing Atwater-Kent Radios, Radolas, Servel Refrigerators and all of the lines handled by the company.

You Should Heat Your Home With

WILLIAMS OIL-O-MATIC HEATING

"You can literally forget your heating plant after OIL-O-MATIC is installed. I never come near it except to see that the boiler is supplied with water and to show my friends this wonderful appliance. The OIL-O-MATIC is more efficient and more reliable than any human being could possibly be."

"The temperature never varies more than two degrees, no matter how cold it may be outside."

"You can't imagine how much additional convenience and comfort we enjoy and how much easier it is to keep our house clean."

"It is truly fine to have it perfectly comfortable at all times without any worry or care. While the cost is about the same I wouldn't think of burning coal again, even if OIL-O-MATIC heat were three times as expensive."

"I would advise you to see the OIL-O-MATIC dealer at once, for every day you do without OIL-O-MATIC you are depriving yourself and family of convenience and comfort that is far more valuable than money."

250 gallons of Fuel Oil FREE if you place your order for a Burner before September 1, 1926

Musical Program Please

The musical entertainment, rendered by Mr. Maurice Davis and Miss Rapp, was enjoyed by a large audience Sunday evening at the M. E. church.

The program was composed of concert, trombone and clarinet solos and duets and a vocal number, sung by Mr. Davis.

Tappan Gas Range

Demonstration Now On

Since last September when the initial drive was made by the Brown and Miller Hardware Store to increase the sales of Tappan Stoves in this district, thirty-four of the famous ranges have been placed in homes in and near Plymouth. With the opening of their annual campaign this store has already made many sales. The closing of the present sale will be featured with a cooking demonstration, to which all women are invited.

The Tappan Range is known as the stove with the round corner and possesses many features that higher price stoves claim. Brown and Miller have given nation-wide publicity through the manufacturers in literature pertaining to the sales of Tappan stoves.

O. E. S. Notice

All members of the Order of Eastern Star and their families are invited to attend their Annual Picnic August 10th at the cottage of Mrs. P. H. Miller, on the Huron River. The route suggested is north to Neuman's Corners and East Guinea Corners and then East $\frac{1}{2}$ mile to Lewis' Corners and then East $\frac{1}{2}$ mile to the cottage.

The committee is composed of Mrs. P. H. Root, Mrs. J. DeVier, Mrs. C. E. Tebbes, and Mrs. Chas. A. Seiler and will furnish autos for those who lack transportation and who call one of them.

The ladies will leave at 2 p.m. and autos will be waiting to take the men out at 5:30 p.m. Each member is requested to take dishes and sandwiches for their own family and two other articles.

Miss Hermina Buurma of Kalamazoo, Mich., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Buurma and family for a few days.

Mrs. William Dykstra and daughter Virginia were Thursday afternoon visitors of Mrs. Jacob Wiers.

E. Harsena and Wm. Dykstra and sons have each purchased a new Chevrolet truck to be used in the oil business. Jacob Wiers has purchased a new Dodge truck. Mr. Mattox has also been a buyer. His price is a new Ford roadster. Paul Wycenski is also a passenger of a new Ford.

Celeryville Falling
 Celeryville was found lagging at the bat last Thursday in her game with the B. & O., but the B. & O. in her attempt was unable to give Celeryville a shut out. Thompson of the B. & O. began to lay down in the sixth, but to him is credited good pitching as is also to Mayor of Celeryville. Several times Celeryville put men on bases, but things seemed to go against her as only 1 run was scored.

A good game of ball was played up to the last half of the sixth when the B. & O. managed to cop 3 runs. The score: Celeryville 1000000-1—
 B. & O. 200002X-5.

Batteries: Celeryville, Mayor and Holthouse; B. & O., Thompson and Dudder.

The schedule for next week is:

Aug. 4—Celeryville—Plymouth.

Aug. 5—High School—B. & O.

BROWN & MILLER

Plymouth, Ohio,

GEO. DECK DIED THURS.

It Melts Freckles Away In Four Days Or Your Money Back

George Deck, 64, life-long resident of Plymouth, died last Thursday morning at the Lutheran hospital, Cleveland, after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Deck has been ill since last January, and on last Tuesday week his condition became so critical that it was decided that an operation was the only hope for life. He was taken to Cleveland last Tuesday, but passed away before the operation could be performed.

George Deck was a son of John Frederick and Matilda Deck, who were pioneers in this vicinity, having moved here from Pennsylvania in 1854. The deceased had always made this community his home, and was widely known. One brother, Clayton Deck, and two half-sisters, Mrs. Chas. Smith of Crestline, and Mrs. F. W. Van Wranken survive.

The remains were brought to Plymouth from Cleveland Thursday morning. Funeral services were held Monday by Rev. W. H. Gibson, of the Methodist church.

Weber's Drug Store was one of the first to learn that a clever chemist had at last discovered a real freckle remover—one that dissolves the brown pigment so that freckles actually melt away.

And when the unsightly spots have all gone what a difference in the texture of the skin—so soft as the finest velvet and clear and clean and youthful looking.

This new discovery is a cream and called Flyte. It is easy to apply and never stains. Weber's Drug Store and every forward-looking druggist sells it and if it fails the purchase price will be returned. Ask for a jar of Flyte.

A little more than four years ago the Isak Walton League of America came into existence with 54 members. Today there are nearly 200,000 Waltonians affiliated with 2,500 chapters in every state in the union.

BASEBALL WILLARD B. & O.

VS. MARBLEHEAD

Greenwich Field—Sunday, Aug. 1, 2:30 P.M.

The B. & O. defeated the Chinks at Greenwich last Sunday in a fast game and have lost but one game this season—a ten-inning game.

The team from Marblehead is composed of players who have given members of the Willard club trouble in past games and is one of the hardest teams in this section to defeat.
