

Willard Y Meets Ford Team Here

Among the interesting games this week will be the clash between the Willard Y. M. C. A. and the local Russell and Reynolds Ford teams. This is a return engagement. The game played at Willard was a thriller, the local five coming through with a 2 point margin, score 42 to 40. The local team should be in good shape for this game and the visitors will come with blood in their eyes, determined to wipe out the disgrace of the former score. If you want to see the last one, come to Hamilton Hall tonight.

Mrs. C. B. Rowalt Called By Death

Mrs. Charles C. B. Rowalt, 57, died at her home here Saturday morning, following an illness of several months. News of the death of this beloved woman was received with much regret by a host of friends, and she will be greatly missed in church and social circles.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Presbyterian church with Rev. J. W. Miller in charge. Interment was made in Greenhills cemetery.

Daisy Blanche Gerhart daughter of John and Elizabeth Gerhart was born June 30, 1889, on a farm in Washington Twp., Richland county, Ohio and departed this life January 22, 1927. She was united in marriage to Charles Beech Rowalt, June 23, 1897. To this union were born three daughters Ruth of Mansfield, Helen residing at home and Mrs. Hobart Moomaw of Willard. Besides the husband and daughters, surviving are three brothers, Frank and John Gerhart of Belleville, Otis of Lexington and one sister, Mrs. Elmer Miller, also of Lexington. She was a devoted member of the Presbyterian church, attending regularly until illness kept her at home. She was a loving wife and mother, patient at all times even in her last illness. She was a Christian woman, a loyal friend and neighbor always glad to lend a helping hand to those in need of assistance, and was loved and highly respected by all that knew her.

He Comes Up Smiling

This Armenian boy was photographed by Miss Elsie Jarvis of Washington, D. C., a Near East Relief nurse, as he emerged smilingly from the ruins of his home, destroyed by the earthquake. He was happy that the huge stones of which the house was built had left him uninjured in falling.

AN EDITORIAL

Plymouth is about to take a step forward. There are several local projects that are being discussed among the citizens, two of which are paramount, pure water and a new school building.

The controversy of 1926 over the water deal has been cleared away. And The Advertiser believes that the citizens should co-operate with whatever plan may be put forth by the new council. It has been pointed out that the quarry was an undesirable site. And there yet remains a question to decide—wells or filtration plant.

There is a vast difference in costs of these two items, but we have about come to the conclusion that pure water at any price is cheap. On the other hand the several thousand dollars that may be saved on the cheaper method of supplying water could be used toward the building of a new school.

The water situation is far from being perfected but council has an open road, and whatever action they may take should receive the support of the town. It is hoped that this question will be opened at the meeting Tuesday night, and some action taken along this line.

The little lad leaves to mourn his death, his parents, and one brother, Freddie, and a sister, Grella. Sympathy is extended to the family in their loss.

There seems to be a great deal of disagreement among newspapers as to the exact economic condition in Florida at present. It seems to me that here is one question that could safely be left to the League of Nations.

The Public Forum

Opinions expressed under this heading are those of the contributors, not of The Advertiser.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
My attention has been called to an article published in the "Plymouth Advertiser" signed Rudy Rader.

This article pertained to the sale of a certain bunch of lambs on this market recently, and I deem it advisable to make certain comments concerning the same. The owner of those lambs delivered them to me saying he had a bunch of good lambs, and wanted top prices for them. After looking them over I told him that the fine wool lambs such as he had were classed as culls on the Cleveland Market, and would sell around 10c or possibly 10 1/2c. I showed this owner some top lambs that I had sold at 11c the price top lambs were bringing that day. He still insisted his lambs were tops, and I told him if he felt he should have top prices I could not get top prices as his lambs were not the right kind. They were turned to the National Commission Company, and I have been reliably informed they were sold the next day to a yard boy, and not to a bonified buyer at 11c per pound. This 11c it should be remembered was received after these lambs had been shrunk out over night, and would be equivalent to about 10c or 10 1/2c if they had been weighed the same day they arrived.

The lambs were bought with the intention of shipping to an Eastern killer, but it was found not advisable to use them on this order, and were later resold to a local killer at 10 1/2c a pound.

Mr. Rader states these lambs averaged 75 lbs. The scale records show they were weighed January 6th, and the 37 lambs weighed 2590 lbs. or an average of 70 lbs. per head. This shows that it would be impossible for them to bring $40.00 more than I could have received. When you consider the shrinking of their lambs sheep by holding them over night the more money if Mr. Rader had permitted me to sell them when they arrived.

For the year 1925 I sold 83,379 sheep and lambs or 23.57% of the total number that arrived at Cleveland by rail. The gain of $35,000 in 1926 over 1925 would surely indicate that patrons of this agency are receiving highly satisfactory service.

I wish to say further that at no time was there any discourteous or bad talking indulged in. The lambs were not priced to any buyers. No buyer asked to see them while they were in my possession. I agreed to get a buyer and price the lambs to him at 11c to see what bid I could secure if the owner so desired. It is the policy of this organization to give reliable information to all live stock producers at all times, and if stock is not good enough to sell at top figures the owner will be so informed. We feel that such information should be appreciated.

BROTHERS MEET AFTER TWENTY YEARS

When J. L. Judson walked aboard a grain boat at Toledo last Friday he was unable to recognize his brother, W. S. Judson, whom he had not seen for 20 years, nor did W. S. recognize J. L. But the meeting was a happy one although the strain of 20 years has made a difference in their character appearances.

Mr. W. S. Judson is a sailor on the Great Lakes and being in port only a few days at a time in nearby cities, was unable to arrange a meeting. Mr. J. L. Judson went up to Toledo Friday upon word of the arrival of the boat and spent a most interesting time.

Some of our enlightened statesmen seem to think the right road for Mexico to do so lies through Nicaragua, but terribly wicked for Uncle Sam even to protect his people's interest there.

Willard Is Scheduled For Growth

According to plans which are being worked out by the Baltimore and Ohio railway company, extensive yard improvements at Willard are assured, and the Huron county railroad town will also become headquarters of the general superintendent, D. F. Stevens, who is now located at Cleveland.

It is planned to eliminate Garrett, Ind., as a division point and all trains will be operated straight through from Willard to Chicago, which will be the longest division on the road. Owing to the fact that the division is comparatively level, it is pointed out that long trains can be effectually operated without difficulty.

Important Railroad Center
If these plans are carried out as contemplated Willard will become one of the most important railroad centers in the central west, and add greatly to its population. With the headquarters changed to Willard, the town will be the most important one on the Baltimore and Ohio system between Pittsburgh and Chicago.

It is planned to move the big ice houses where all meat trains secure supplies, about 600 feet west of the station, to allow additional space for a new system of tracks to accommodate long through trains which will be in need of ice. The icing system employed for many years will be changed so that at least half the time will be served in placing refrigeration in the meat cars.

New Office Building
A new office building is to be erected, according to present plans, which will accommodate several additional departments which will be concentrated in the central west. The headquarters will be added to the force of railway workers residing in the town.

With a greatly enlarged population from this source, the town of Willard will soon take its place in the city class—Mansfield News.

BREAKS ARM

Mrs. Charles Lookbaugh of West Broadway had the misfortune to slip on the ice and break her arm, last Tuesday. Mrs. Lookbaugh, was on her way to town when she suddenly slipped and lost her balance.

The fracture was reduced by Dr. Holtz but it will be some time before she has the use of her arm.

HERE'S A STORY

Frank Bingham entertained a friendly bunch down at Doc Caldwell's tire shop Wednesday afternoon with a thrilling bear story. The story was greatly enjoyed so they say. If anyone knows the correct distance from Plymouth to Shelby, please notify Doc so it can be posted on the bulletin board.

P. T. A. CONTEST BEGINS FEB. 10

An interesting contest is scheduled between the Huron County side of the village and the Richland County side. The next P. T. A. program will be put on by the Huron County side. The March program will be put on by the Richland County side. These programs will be judged by a committee of High School teachers and the results averaged with the attendance records and the winners determined.

The percentage of those who should attend, both parents and members, will determine the attendance record. A list of all parents and members on each side will be prepared and the attendance at both meetings carefully checked and the percentage figured. At the April meeting refreshments will be served by the losing side.

Remember that your attendance will be credited for your side at both meetings. The Huron County program will be judged at the March meeting and the Richland County program will be judged at the April meeting. The judges are anxious that as many adults as possible take part in the program and will score accordingly. If you are asked to help with the program, don't refuse. You may cause your side to lose. Rightly conducted with good sportsmanship on both sides, this contest should be great fun and increase the interest of our P. T. A.

LOW PER CAPITA COST ALWAYS VITAL CONSIDERATION IN TREATMENT OF INSANITY

Editor's Note—This is the 4th. of a series of articles that will appear each week in this newspaper dealing with Ohio's problem of increasing insanity. These articles are sponsored by the Ohio Association for the Welfare of the Mentally Sick, which has but one objective, namely, more scientific and more humane treatment of mentally sick patients in state hospitals and the rapid rehabilitation of these unfortunates.

Following the great work and spiritual leadership of Dorothy Lynn Dix, the various states began to provide suitable refuge for the insane, then confined in county jails and almshouses.

In their construction program, they built for durability. The walls of some of the older institutions are from two to three feet thick. Some of these institutions contained only from 50 to 100 patients at first. They were added to from time to time as the resident population became greater.

The Problem of Personnel
Next came the problem of personnel. In a vast majority of cases a physician was made superintendent, but in some instances a layman was in charge. The superintendent generally was provided with assistant physicians, depending upon the number of patients cared for. The superintendent's duties were largely executive, as he was held responsible for the whole plant, as is our present day custom.

On each ward, wherein patients were confined, they had a certain number of guards, whose training along nursing lines was unusually quite meager. The general plan of operation of the whole institution which copied from the institution which these patients had left—the jail and the county poor farm.

Keeping Down the Cost
From the very beginning a low per capita cost price was a matter of vital consideration. The institution was merely a place where these patients could be confined for the remainder of their lives.

Physicians of 30 years ago, tell us that when they served in state asylums, they never heard of a patient going home.

Each institution had an appointed board of trustees who assisted the superintendent in getting such funds as were necessary for the management of the institution from the legislature.

Slowly Advancing
In Ohio, from this rather meager beginning, we have slowly but surely had more buildings constructed and have taken on more personnel until we reached our present state. There have been certain changes in the management of our state institutions. In 1911 the various boards of local managers and trustees were discontinued and a central board of administration was abolished and a director of public welfare appointed.

Better Treatment
In a medical way, there has been some very marked improvements in the treatment of patients in the last 25 years. More patients are permitted to go home on trial visits, when their mental condition has again approached normal. This practice, however, did not make any great headway until the last few years, when overcrowded conditions made it imperative that more patients be sent home.

The general tendency of the management of our state hospitals has not varied much in the last 65 years. We still have a superintendent who is responsible not only for the medical welfare of his patient body, but is likewise responsible for all non-medical work around these great plants.

Girl Scout News

Plymouth troop held their first meeting in their new quarters on Monday evening, Jan. 24.

The chimney is all cleaned out so that a fire can be built, thanks to Mr. Kending. In fact, every one seems willing and anxious to help us get started, and Plymouth troop would not be where it is today if it had not been for this assistance. To repay those who have helped we hope to make Plymouth troop one of which the town may be proud. On Saturday Scouts, Lois Teal, Mary Helen Dick, Phyllis Kepner assisted by our auxiliary member Robert Bachrach distributed hand bills for Brown and Miller and earned $1.50 for the troop.

Mr. Brown reported that the work was well done, so possibly we will be in line for something of the kind again.

Robert Bachrach certainly has helped out the meeting as she was entertaining a nice little griddle germ that had come to visit her over Sunday, but on Tuesday was very much pleased and touched by the flowers presented to her by the troop, as well as a note from each member.

RANGER HEARS

THE CALL OF THE WILD!

The remarkable story of a dog who reverts to the primitive, is the theme of "Flashing Fangs," an F. B. O. production starring "Bangor," which is at the Opera House Friday. From the pet of the isolated settlement in the Hudson Bay country the dog becomes its scourge and menace, and terrifies all the inhabitants for miles around who live in perpetual dread of what the mad animal will do next. However, the love for his old master finally wins over his reversion to the wild, and he eventually goes back to the little cabin and becomes once again the beloved pet. His life as an outcast is filled with thrills and forms the main part of the story. The picture was made under the excellent direction of James Hogan, and the cast includes Charles Delaney, Betty May, Boris Karloff and Eddy Catty. The story is an original by Ewart Adamson who also wrote the continuity.

"THE SHOW OFF" AT THE TEMPLE, WILLARD, SUNDAY

Another whirling popular stage success has reached the screen—this time via the deft directorial chaperone of Malcolm St. Clair, the expert adaptation of Pierre Collings and the competent histrionic endeavors of Ford Sterling, Lois Wilson, Louise Brooks and Gregory Kelly. It is Geo. Kelly's optimistic and hilarious comedy, "The Show Off" which ran for two years at the Playhouse Theatre in New York.

Here is a picture that portrays the sunny side of modern American family life, and does it in such human and humorous fashion that the memory of it will linger long after other photoplays have been forgotten.

As the title suggests, "The Show Off" smilingly revolves around a typical American four-flusher—in this instance, a gusty, blustering, bluffing.

A Word With the Old Folks

Elderly People Are Learning Importance of Good Elimination.

IN the later years of life there is apt to be a slowing up of the bodily functions. Good elimination, however, is just as essential to the old as to the young. Many old folks have learned the value of Doan's Pills when a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys is required. Scanty or burning passages of kidney secretion are often signs of improper kidney function. In most every community are scores of users and endorsers who acclaim the merit of Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

and, by the grace of God and sheer brass, makes his in the most moving midst homey scenes and backgrounds familiar in every day life, the story amusingly and sympathetically sets forth the trouble the show-off causes his wife's family by his boastful lies and unlimited nerve, and how he finally redeems himself by putting over a big financial deal.

Ford Sterling fits the title part splendidly. The ease and sureness with which he registers his comedy points stamp him as a master of pantomime and the possessor of a fine sense of humor. With cheerful imperturbability he bluffs his way thru one complication after another and emerges smiling and triumphant. Miss Wilson, as his adoring wife, proves an admirable foil for Mr. Sterling. Her love for him never wavers, even when she learns that he is nothing but a 424-week clerk, and not the important executive he had pretended to be. Gregory Kelly and Miss Brooks acquit themselves with distinction in their respective roles.

ALEXANDER PANTAGES IS PLAYING WITH MIX

Lloyd Alexander Pantages, son of the theatre magnate, is playing with Tom Mix in the role of Tom Dane, under Lew Seltzer's direction. Mix is teaching Pantages, whose father is one of his best friends, the business of making motion picture dramas.

Pantages has a small part in "The Last Trail" for which he is especially fitted on account of his school days at Deane's, one of Santa Barbara's exclusive boarding schools for boys, where horse-back riding is a part of the daily routine.

The theatre magnate's son is a graduate of Los Angeles high school, and left the University of Southern California during his sophomore year for a motor tour of Europe with his mother and sister Carmeu.

"The Last Trail," which is hailed as one of the finest things Mix has ever done, is to be seen at the Temple Theatre, Willard, Ohio, Friday and Saturday of this week.

"BATTLING BUTLER"
A COMEDY TRIUMPH

Buster Keaton has taken his front-face into the prize ring. At least, he masquerades as a pugilist, gets himself involved in a peck of trouble and finally has to fight the world's champion. And what a fight it is!

The famous comedian's hilarious ventures into the realm of fantasia forms the basis of the plot of "Battling Butler," Keaton's latest picture, showing at the Temple Theatre, Willard, on Wednesday and Thursday. Heralded as Buster's crowning achievement in laugh provoking, "Battling Butler" is living up to its promise by convulsing audiences at every performance.

"Battling Butler" is different; it has an absorbing plot and is invested with elaborate settings that would do credit to the biggest dramatic productions. The supporting cast, including captivating Sally O'Neil, Suits Edwards, Tom Wilson, Francis McDonald, Mary O'Brien, Eddie Borden and Buddy Pine is excellent.

The comedy gives Buster the opportunity to again show his versatility. He portrays a rich young idler who falls in love and then has to pose as a prize-fighter in order to win the girl, whose family believes him to be a weakling because of his fine clothes, valet and luxurious surroundings. The comedian takes the name of "Battling Butler," but when the real "Butler" appears on the scene, Buster finds himself hopelessly tangled in the web of deception. How he finally triumphs and whips the champion in a vicious battle that makes the fight in the original "Spollers" look like a picnic party, provides a sensational climax in which thrills vie with mirthful moments.

"Battling Butler" was produced by Joseph M. Schenck for Metro-Goldwyn release.

"THERE YOU ARE" IS NAGEL'S MOST HILARIOUS FILM

"There You Are," Conrad Nagel's most hilarious excursion into the realm of comedy, it is to be seen at the Shelby Opera House, Sunday, when it purges its illing way. The new story, in which Nagel goes his comedy hit in "Dance Madness" one better, is a side-splitting filmization of F. Hugh Herbert's novel of the same name, relating the trials and tribulations that best a case of eloping (played by Nagel and Edith Roberts) in their attempt to escape an angry father and battery of traffic policemen. In the face of such obstacles as misplaced identity, a lost baby saddled upon them—and a colic dog that proves a Nemesis.

The new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature is essentially a whimsical comedy—but it is staged in a setting of thrills, such as a wild race of the elopers with a small army of motorcycle policemen through city traffic, a desperate leap from an apartment house to a careening taxi in which Nagel shows his skill as an athlete and other swift-moving incidents.

The cast of the new picture is notable, including, besides the two principals, such players as George Fawcett, Owen Lee, Phillips Samley, Edna Gribbin, Gertrude Bennett, Elmo Billings, Billy Engle and others of note.

"EAGLE OF THE SEA," A TALE OF PIRATE ROMANCE & ADVENTURE

Ahoy there, lubbers! A fleet of plundering pirates is coming to town! Hang out the banners. Get out your cutlasses and come on down to the Opera House, Shelby, Monday and Tuesday for that's the date on which Frank Lloyd's "The Eagle of the Sea" hoves into harbor. Those who've read Charles Tenney Jackson's novel, "Captain Sazarak," know that it's the tale of Jean Lafitte, dashing devil-do, last of the Spanish Main buccanniers.

Packed with action, romance and color, "The Eagle of the Sea" starts at a time when General Andrew Jackson is being welcomed back to the city he's saved. New Orleans. Lafitte, a fugitive from justice, visits the town in disguise. While there, a number of things happen. He falls in love with the belle of the south, is recognized by Jackson, becomes involved in a plot to rescue Napoleon from St. Helena, succeeds in averting an international war and—but why continue? Certainly, after these few words, you too, will feel a stirring in your bones; to action even as they did when you were just a kid and you'll be there to cheer "The Eagle" on.

It was forty degrees below zero in Moscow last week so you can't blame those Reds for trying to get into Mexico and Central America.

SEEDLINGS AVAILABLE FOR WOODS PLANTING

Hurry calls have been sent by the extension department in forestry at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, Wooster to farmers who expect to plant trees for reforestation purposes. Some of the best species of trees for spring planting have already been exhausted at the state forest nursery, extension forester F. W. Dean reports. Landowners who want choice planting stock for spring must order them in the next few weeks.

Both hardwood and evergreen trees are available for distribution. They are supplied free of charge by the Experiment Station to the landowner, who must, however, pay transportation charges. These charges rarely exceed $2.50 for a thousand trees.

Further information on planting forest seedlings may be obtained from the county agent, or the extension forester at the Experiment Station, Wooster. They also have application blanks for seedlings.

It is to be noted that most of the folks who criticize the Mussolini do it from outside the Italian frontier.

THE YOKE FOLLOWS A NEW LINE
Deeply V'd in front, this unusual yoke is also V'd in back—but not quite so deeply. However, the effect is very striking and appeals to the fastidious woman who likes to have her costumes a bit different from the usual. The front of the yoke is lined with ribbon and so is the bottom of the sleeve. The blouse is gathered into the yoke at the front, allowing plenty of fullness. The favored material is light-weight cashmere, flannel, worsted, moire, heavy crepe de chine and satin crepe.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE

Critics of the present policy of the administration in some instances seem to have a mistaken idea of the purpose and application of the Monroe doctrine. This doctrine was not promulgated and has not been used solely for the protection of the United States and has never been used to promote American commercial interests in the Western hemisphere.

The Monroe doctrine has been of considerable more benefit to the people of the other American republics than to the citizens of the United States. This republic would have grown and developed along its present line whether there had been a Monroe doctrine or not. But the case of other American republics might have been different.

For instance if Mexico had been left open to exploitation by the more progressive nations of Europe the native Mexican would not be the sovereign Mexico of today. It will not be seriously denied that the average inhabitant of the principal countries of Europe is more enterprising, more efficient and better educated, if not more intelligent naturally than the average Mexican.

Without the Monroe doctrine there is little doubt that Mexico would have been colonized by enterprising nations of Europe. Europe would have taken Mexico as such, would have lost its sovereignty. Indeed while the United States was occupied with the civil war, Europe succeeded in forcing on the Mexicans an Austrian emperor, who might have stuck had it not been for the application of the Monroe doctrine.

Without the Monroe doctrine Mexico would doubtless be today a European controlled country, either divided into European colonies, or ruled by a European monarch.

Of course it may be argued by some that the Mexican would be better off had he benefitted by European control and the influx of enterprising European stock. But this is besides the question. The Mexican believes in Mexico such as it is and he wants to retain his sovereignty, and develop or fail to develop the country in accordance with his own inclinations. He and his brother in the other Latin republics have only been able to do this through the application of the Monroe doctrine, a doctrine which has been of far greater political benefit to him than to the United States.

The Spanish speaking peoples of Europe, South and Central America have bought two big buildings in New York to establish a center of trade and diplomacy, which seems to indicate that they are not so much alarmed over our foreign policy as some of our own alarmists.

AARHUS, DENMARK

The law of physics teaches that the greater the force with which a descending object hits bottom the greater the rebound. In an economic sense the same law applies to nations, families and individuals. The Denmark of today sits on the roof of the agricultural world, but the Denmark of yesterday was perhaps the most impoverished agricultural nation in the world. Denmark has been an agricultural country since the dawn of history.

The "Wild Dane," even in the period when the fierce old Vikings over-ran northern Europe, was a farmer. He farmed and fought with alternating regularity. Following the close of the Middle Ages when the Dane settled down to peaceful pursuits the size of his land holdings was in proportion to the service he had rendered his king. Homesteads ranging in size from 1180 to 20,000 acres covered the nation.

The unequal distribution of land developed a system of feudal bondage which not only tied the tenant to the farm but actually compelled his children to work the land belonging to the large landholders. For generation after generation the laboring classes were little more than slaves. Under this grinding oppression the rift between landlord and tenant widened, agriculture began to perish and there set in a period of national disintegration that actually threatened the destruction of the country and its people. Denmark had hit bottom. In 1788 a leader arose, the serf was given the right of suffrage and bondage was abolished. The work of rehabilitation began by cutting arable land into small strips and parceling it out to ambitious farmers under the share-crop or half-and-half system. This system continued until 1899 when the Small Holdings Act, which enabled the tenant to purchase small tracts on easy terms, went into effect. This was the beginning of the wonderful era of agricultural prosperity which has made Denmark the wonder of the modern world.

Using Drastic Methods

One of the first acts of the new regime was to abolish the law of entail. Since the Middle Ages large estates of from 1000 to 20,000 acres had been handed down from father to son. A farmer of 8 to 15 acres and sold his land and desired to become a home-owner. After completing his college course the applicant appears before a board of examiners composed of practical men. Testimony is taken the same as in a court of law. Witnesses testify as to his character, his practical experience in farm work, his habits, etc. and after reviewing the testimony the board determines how many acres of land he is capable of managing successfully. After the applicant has passed the examination the government settles him on a holding, assists him in stocking his farm with cows, hogs and chickens, takes a 4 1/2 percent interest bearing mortgage on the whole, extends the principal payments over a long period of years and lets him work out his own salvation. In the 26 years the plan has been in operation the government has not lost a penny. Bear in mind that 65 percent of the members of the such Rigsdag (or congress) are farmers. In the United States 85 percent of the members of congress represent some other profession.

Solving the Sex Problem

In a dainty little red-tiled, brick bungalow five miles from Odder lives pretty Anna Marsdon. She is the owner of a 12-acre tract of fertile land purchased from the government. Her mother is dead and her father is a laboring man in a city 75 miles distant. The 26 summers in Anna Marsdon's life have only served to heighten the roses in her pretty cheeks and brighten the sparkling blue eyes from which blended humor and intelligence radiate like the rays of the morning sun. She is one of the leaders among the group of farmers by whom she is surrounded. It was 11 o'clock in the morning when we walked up the little flower-bordered path that led to Anna Marsdon's cottage. She was at work with pail and swab in the kitchen. Quickly she exchanged her wooden shoes for a pair of dainty white slippers, dried her hands on a pretty dotted apron and made us a courtesy with the grace of a queen. Would she be so good as to show the American around her farm? Why, certainly. "Shall we go to the barn and look at the stock?" and so led by Anna Marsdon, the girl farmer of the Odder section, we entered a red-tiled brick barn where we found, tethered in neat iron-railed stalls, five fine Holsteins that were producing 90 pounds of milk a day. In a small pasture nearby were six more Holsteins with records equally as good. Well quartered in sanitary pens on the other side of the barn were a score of fine Poland China hogs which produced the bacon that helped meet the interest payments on Anna Marsdon's farm. In a poultry yard back of the barn was a collection of white Leghorns that swelled the weekly revenue of the Marsdon farm. The premises seemed to have been modeled after spotless town. In every corner where trash might collect was a bed of pretty flowers. This was the domain over which Anna Marsdon was queen. "And do you manage it all by yourself?" I enquired. "Oh, no," replied Miss Marsdon with becoming modesty, "I have one hired man whom I pay $25 a month. At first I did all the work; I milked cows and drove teams and slaughtered hogs, but the hours were too long and sometimes I had to work far into the night. With the help of the hired man I have more time to devote to domestic affairs. Will you come in and see my home?" She asked nervously, inside the pretty home I found hardwood floors polished like glass. In the green and white dining room dainty lace pieces rested on the surface of polished furniture while white lace window curtains fell in graceful folds almost to the floor. Everywhere I noted a touch of the artistic. There was only one dark spot that was as pathetic amid such beautiful surroundings. A lone chair sat at the head of the beautifully polished table. I took a chance. "Miss Marsdon, I have only one criticism to make of your beautiful little higglylow." "And what is that?" she enquired with the simplicity of a child. "You need an assistant; a strong handsome husband should have a chair at the opposite end of this table. She blushed like a rose, burst into a peal of laughter and replied: "Oh, no! no! I can discharge a worthless hired man any time I see fit, but worthless husbands are hard to get rid off!" Perhaps she was right.

Anna Marsdon was born of the peasant class but she is one of the queens of Denmark. She comes of the stock that has given a new birth to agriculture in Denmark—that has landed this once impoverished nation in the lap of agricultural prosperity.

THE CROSSING PUZZLE

Here is the crossing puzzle. Be sure the wording got. Has cost the lives of many. And no solution as yet.

Reading of the R. R. crossing. Of accidents and wonder why They fall to look and listen. Is all they can say in reply.

Attempted to cross a crossing. Across they failed to get. They got a cross at a crossing. You can see their cross yet.

They tried to get across. And they did get a cross; And had they got across. They would not need a cross!

The cross marks the fatal spot. By reader and traveler soon forgot.

We keep on speeding, fear not. Need more warning, wonder what!

Automobiles are not human. Breathe but have no brains. Are subject to their master. And have no fear of R.R. trains.

Then do stop, look and listen. You owe this to self and friend. Have respect for those with you. And the folks that on them depend.

Stop, Look and then Listen. Your safety depends on this. Safety first in your traveling. Then the trains you will miss. —By W. H. FETTERS

Governor Al Smith's presidential boom was launched the other day in New York, but it is to be remembered that there are more rivers to be crossed between Manhattan and Washington than there are between Manhattan and Albany.

The Junior High Debate on the question of a six year high school proved to be very interesting. The following Junior High pupils debated the question: Affirmative, Cora Howell and Dora Blum; Negative, Viola Porter and Opal Briggs.

G. A. Weaver, chalk talk lecturer appeared as a substitute number for Dr. Taylor, Wednesday evening. Mr. Weaver proved to be a good substitute and entertained his audience for an hour and a half with his drawings and speaking.

The basketball contest between Shiloh and Shelby proved to be quite a drawing card Saturday evening. One of the largest crowds witnessed the game Saturday evening of any Basketball game this year.

The girls proved to be rather easy to conquer but the boys game was a tuck and tuck affair with finally Shelby nosing out the Shiloh boys in the three minute overtime period. The score for the girls game was 24 to 16 in favor of Shiloh. The boys game scored 25-11 in favor of Shelby at the end of the overtime period.

A splendid spirit prevailed through out the game making one of the most interesting games played this season. This Coming Week will be a busy one in Basketball with the game at Plymouth Friday evening, and Tire here Saturday evening.

A SPRING OFFENSIVE

The above term was used in former years with respect to a conflict waged far enough away that most of us did not know much more than we read in the papers. Others had intimate knowledge of the activity.

The plan being worked out for Shiloh and vicinity does not call for action of our spiked cannon beside the flagpole, but it does call for action from every Man, Woman and Child, in Shiloh between now and April 17, the same being Easter, 1927.

The participants in this campaign will be all those who for the interests of the community want to see the activity of our churches brought up to the point where it holds the attention of no less than three-fourths of our people in and around Shiloh and they give it real, live support.

To you folks that compose the other fourth, we extend a challenge to prove that you would like to get along without the Church in the community and succeed; that you personally are better off outside than inside the church.

If you want to hear more definite announcements of the plans for this proposed offensive against indifference and lack of interest in the True Realities of Life, be at church next Sunday (either one will do, but be there).

A New Line in Frocks for Girls

Instead of remaining horizontal, the waistline and the yoke of this dress dip suddenly in V formation in the front. The effect is very smart, particularly since the skirt and blouse above are tucked together in tuck formation. The neckline is V'd also, carrying out the general plan of the frock. Materials best suited for this frock are twills, serge and flannel, contrasting material being selected for the collar and cuffs which in turn are trimmed with souche braid. The plait extends only across the front of the dress—the back being plain with a narrow belt at the waistline.

Local Children Enter Meat Story Contest

Miss Mildred Walter, home economics teacher at Plymouth High School is entering a number of her students for competition in the Fourth National Meat Story contest which is just getting under way in high schools of the United States. Miss Walter has made request of the National Live Stock and Meat Board of Chicago, under whose auspices the contest is held annually, for the necessary number of entry blanks for her girls.

Those competing in the contest will soon begin the preparation of their stories, it is said, and the stories then must be forwarded to Chicago where they will be judged by a committee of home economics authorities, University scholarships and cash prizes are to be awarded to successful contestants in all sections of the country, according to the contest rules.

No restrictions are placed on subjects except that they must deal with some phase of the subject of meat or live stock. A few typical titles mentioned are "Meat—Its History and Uses," "Meat and Its Relation to Health," "The Story of Beef, Pork or Lamb," "Meat, a Factor in Aggressive Civilization," "Meat Hints for the Young Housewife," "Bill Cutting Cuts and How I Cook Them," "The Value of Meat in the Diet," and "I Learn to Buy Meat."

The National Meat Story contest has become an annual institution in high schools, to quote the National Live Stock and Meat Board. The Board points out that this plan of instruction has been found most successful by teachers in schools in every state in the Union. It not only assists the teaching of the subject of meat but tends to direct more attention to the entire course of home economics, and home economics is considered of greater importance today than ever before as the trend is toward education to solve the many problems which confront the housewife.

HIGH COST OF LIVING

The average cost of living on the farm has been gradually going up until it has reached $1,598 annually per family, of which about 41.2 per cent is for food. The average length of a day's work on the farm is 11.4 hours. The old folks say that these figures are not much like they were when pop was a boy.

PLYMOUTH COUPLES HAPPILY MARRIED

Recently we noted in an editorial, that a Washington statistician had made the statement that the average term of married life in this country has dwindled to fifteen years. No doubt this is true taken as a whole, but will say that the statistician is all wrong over our way, for in Plymouth today the following couples have been married over fifty years:

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Kochenderfer, 59 years, and this venerable couple can celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary December 25, 1926.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Patterson, 54.
Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Brewbaker, 54.
Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Page, 52.
Mr. and Mrs. Adam Weaver, 51.
Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Smith, 50.
Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Tyson, 50.
Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Griswell, 50.
Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Coe, 50.

Then we might retrospect and write of the sixtieth and fiftieth wedding celebrations and anniversaries of our citizens who have passed beyond:

Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Walker, 60 years.
Mr. and Mrs. H. Holtz, 59.
Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Gonsalus, 60.
Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Brinkerhoff, 59.
Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sherman, Sr., 55.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Upp.
Mr. and Mrs. Mose Dilstein.
Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Kapenberg.
Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson.
Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Sherman.
Mr. and Mrs. James Gillespie.
Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kotz.
Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Abbott.
Mr. and Mrs. William Kirkpatrick.
Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Willett.
Mr. and Mrs. John Tyson.
Mr. and Mrs. George Myers.
Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Willment.
Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bachrach.
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart.
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walte.
Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Spear 58 yrs.
Mr. and Mrs. H. P. L'Amoreaux.

The last three named are survived by their widows, also Mr. Willment is living.

There may be others of whom we have no knowledge, but this shows that the Gods gave the wheel a turn that set the good ship Marriage on a straight course here.

Of course the French government belongs to the League of Nations, but just the same the French have passed all of their best troops on the Italian frontier, indicating that they don't have as much faith in the League as do some of our own internationalists.
