Paragraphs

When Lindbergh made his famous trans-Atlantic flight and landed safely in Paris, all the murder and holdup stories were crowded off the front page. Judging from the glaring headlines of the past two weeks it's about time for Lindy to make another flight.

It's strange, too, that newspapers nowadays think they have to have gruesome murders and daring holdups trip with an air mail pilot or a seat in the cab of a transcontinental limited would make an interesting story.

The North Fairfield High School is to be congratulated on its first issue of "The Torch Light," an organ published twice a month by the students. It is very readable and serves the community as well as the schools. Those who are supporting the venture through advertisements and otherwise are to be commended for the showing they are making in this publication.

Being a printer we have always been closely associated with all kinds of "pl." But to our surprise and delight we were favored with a delicious pumpkin pie last Saturday, baked by no other than Mrs. Dent Shields, the recipient accompanied the gift but we doubt if our better half has had enough years of experience to turn out a delicacy that appeals to the appetite such as this. It's no wonder that whole Shields family wears a smile. We thank you, very much, Mrs. Shields.

Wish somebody would talk up a little bit. Every day we are confronted with a few questions such as "How's politics," and "What's the outlook for the new school?" etc. Of course we can make up things, but we want to stick to the truth.

Jake Myers had a good congregation at the barbers shop Saturday night. We haven't started our "open house" season as yet, but when we do we're going to invite all our former friends right in, where they can get at home by a big hot stove. Just look for an announcement concerning this feature will be a "falling hour." No, not bedtime stories.

Mrs. E. A. Wasson of Newark, N. J. who paid a recent visit to our village after an absence of 38 years called in that occurred in earlier days. So far as known, Mrs. Wasson is the only living person who attended the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Sol Spear.

You can't get ahead of some women. Just the other day the wife told me she was going to start her Christmas shopping this week. Well, fellows, it's no use—got to come sooner or later.

Wonder what's become of all the robbers?

Getting Ready to Start Work On North St. Road

Work on the North street road will probably commence at an early date as materials have arrived, and necessary equipment is being placed. The Richardson Construction Co., of Willard, has the contract for the improvement of this two-mile stretch, which is to be crushed stone treated with asphalt chips. The stone will be unloaded on a siding of The Northern Ohio and trucks will be filled with a special loader. It is expected that the work will be rushed to capacity and the jobs be finished before cold weather sets in.

SCHOOL BOND ISSUE TO BE VOTED ON 7 NOVEMBER

Only a few more weeks and citizens will decide the fate of the proposed bond issue for Plymouth's new school. This situation is holding the attention of the entire village and hundreds of former residents, and as those draws near for the final decision a discussion of the proposition is being heard on all sides. Publication of a legal advertisement will be found in this issue calling attention to the voters of Plymouth village, and the resolution also calls for a $125,000 bond issue which will completely build and equip a modern school. The Parent-Teachers' association is to hold an open meeting tonight at the school house at which time the building project will be brought up. If you're interested and desire facts about construction costs, taxes, etc. be present at this meeting. If there was ever a time Plymouth needed a school house it is now, and only through cooperation of the voters can this measure be put through.

Fish In Huron River Throw "Regula Jag"

Fish in the east branch of Huron River have been on several "jags" the past week when fermented factory wastes from canning plants were emptied in the stream. It is said that most of the fish have recovered from the spree and seem little worse for the experience.

SMITH HUGHES DEPARTMENT
 This is the month when poultry goes into winter quarters. Housing space costs money as does the feed which is necessary to maintain the bird and produce eggs. Birds in cramped quarters cannot do their best. The average farmer usually has more birds than can be properly housed at this time of the year. It is necessary therefore, for him to keep only the producing hens and those that show promise of production. Due to the Jewish holidays this month it is a good time to pen up the slackers and fatten them a few weeks and send them to market. This gives the producing bird a chance to really do their best. Why feed the slacker? Cut your flock.

Editorial And News Comment On National Happenings

A renaissance in the political life of Indiana is about due. A former governor has just emerged from prison. The mayor of its leading city is found guilty of violating the corrupt practices act. The gentleman who boasted that he had Indiana in the palm of his hand is serving a life term for murder. Indiana can sink no deeper in the mire of political corruption. She must begin to rise. And the readiness of juries to convict show that the better element in the Hoosier state is going to have its way. Nightshirt control has gone. Many of the former wretches have begun to laugh at themselves. When a sense of humor makes its appearance, mystery and awe vanish. Indiana, we predict, will continue on the mend.

Chicago residents and visitors who foresaw the outcome of the recent prize fight somewhat correctly and entrusted large sums of money to a certain bookmaker as proof of their confidence in his own ability were said to have looked in vain for the custodian of the funds when they wished to get their money back with unearned increments. Other fight followers who guessed wrong may have deposited other sums with the same individual and not have returned in the expectation of collecting. Altogether it was estimated, the betting commissioner may have had as much as $500,000 of other men's money in his possession at the time of his mysterious disappearance. Depressing as it unquestionably is to learn of new cases of misplaced confidence in human honesty, we cannot experience surprise at this late date at fresh instances of dishonesty in connection with gambling.

National committeemen and other outstanding Democrats from California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, South Dakota, Utah and Wyoming met in council of war at Ogden, Ut., and formally resolved that the best thing their party could do in 1928 would be to nominate Governor Smith of New York for the presidency. While the meeting may have been called and the participants selected with that precise purpose in mind, the endorsement of the Smith candidacy by prominent Democrats from seven western states might be considered both admirable and suspicious as a disengagement of sectionalism and an advancement of solidarity. True, the meeting seems not to have been 100 per cent harmonious. Insisting on free speech in spite of obvious discouragements, a California representative called it a gathering of "Al Smith boosters." A judge from Salt Lake City expressed doubt that Governor Smith could carry even New York state for Democracy. In case the Republicans happened to nominate ex-Justice Hughes. The national committeemen for Utah denied that Utah Democrats were in the Smith cause, replying rhetorically, "So why kill ourselves and try to tell the east there is a great wave of sentiment in the west for Al Smith for President?"

A movie actress says marriage interferes with her career and seeks a divorce. Peggy Joyce has a career of getting divorces.

A year ago a group of jobholders at Washington decided that the national welfare depended upon their making a survey of how the country youth of America spends its leisure after school hours and throughout vacation season. The country has not yet received any statistics regarding this unappreciated task by diligent workers. To keep from being caught without a plausible excuse for remaining on the public payroll this outfit is going to transfer its survey from the rural to the city pupils. One of their spokesmen says they readily understand the status of the preschool child and the child in grammar school, but they throw up their hands when it comes to the high school boys and girls. One excuse is as good as another when it comes to tapping the public treasury. As for this newest peril, certain it is that if parents and teachers do not know how to reach school boy and girl spend their time, the discovery is not likely to be made by a group of tax-supported uplifters operating out of Washington.

Once more the football season is on. Weeks of preparatory work lead to an active test—in most instances only a preliminary skirmish. In another week each Saturday will bring many games of supreme importance to those whose tastes run to the American game, which is an institutional now as the period in the year during which it is played. Fundamentally, football is a game that requires skill, courage, brass nerve and co-ordination to the last degree. It is as much a part of the national life as any other game in the world of sports, and to the many thousands of persons it is the most attractive form of athletics.

What one wants to look at in a nation to see the signs of health, are its civic morality, its administration of the law, the influence of its churches, the tone of its press, the freedom of its universities and last, the conduct of its sports. It is time for the American public to insist upon a correct set of values. No pugilist on the face of the earth is worth even $100,000 for an evening's entertainment.

New York man is to build a hotel where only millionaires can afford to patronize. That's nothing new. There are no other kind now.

Looking back over the last thirty years one of the significant changes in American life is the universal condemnation of that hold-over from frontier times—lynching. Then the prevailing sentiment was, "He got what was coming to him." Now the prevailing sentiment is, "Society is disgraced because it did not give him what was his due, justice in the form of a fair trial."

"THE BLACK PIRATE"
In presenting "The Black Pirate," which is coming to the Shelby Opera House, Monday and Tuesday, October 17 and 18 is up to one of his pioneering tricks again. The film is in natural color, and a vast improvement we are told, over past efforts at presenting color. "Doug" has plucked out tones which are calculated to rest the eye—principally browns and greens and their complements. And all the color is selected in accordance with its dramatic value. Four months of experimental work was done along this line before a crank was turned on production.

The story is an original from the facile pen of Mr. Elton Thomas. All the "yo-hos" and "avasts" of 17th century piracy are in "The Black Pirate," along with everything that any pirate ever did, from burying treasure to walking the plank. Without being specific, Fairbanks chose the South Seas as his locale, thus giving his adventure plenty of sea room. Albert Parker was custodian of the megaphone on "The Black Pirate."

Billie Dove, that lovely young leading lady who is rapidly heading for stardom, furnishes the pulchritude in the picture, and also Doug's motive for clearing up a couple of aboriginals of pirates.

Mr. Fairbanks opens this picture, we are told, where most of them end—with the freebooters blowing up a galleon and then blowing up, and one to sea and crew. After this placid incident things get exciting, and the first thing we know the star is the black pirate, rowing about and capturing ships single-handed and all that. All right, two ships are blown up, and one is sunk under fire. The hero is made to walk the plank, and just how he extricated himself from that unhappy predicament after his hands have been tied behind his back is quite a story in itself. After "viewing" this film there no doubt will be an exodus of small boys to the equatorial seas of various vacant lots and back yards to dig for the huge quantities of doubloons and pieces of eight that "Doug" pirates bury.

"THE PENALTY"
Lon Chaney, he of the thousand faces, is showing his thousand-and-first visage at the Temple Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, October 17, 18 and 19.

The sinister crippler of "The Penalty," the tragic clown of "He Who Gets Slapped," the one-eyed monster of "The Road to Mandalay," has forsaken his weird trappings—for a disguise even more and greater.

He roars his way through the role of a tough old Marine sergeant; years in the service; veteran of many a battle—battering the new generations of recruits into the traditions of the service that is "The Marines."

A grim old fellow, this sergeant of the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer spectacle, "Tell It To The Marines," but under it all, proud of his boys; as fond of them as a father might be, even while he belabors them like a Simon

His is the story of many a tough old "top kicker" of the corps—and the explanation of his fanatical adoration of the Marines for their sergeants—the tougher the better.

"Tell It To The Marines" is Simon pure enlightenment—but it is more—it is the very soul of Uncle Sam's great service thrown on the screen.

"BEN-HUR"
"Ben-Hur," with its magnificent chariot race pictured in a death-defying contest on a vast circus arena—the knightly Ramon Novarro and the wicked Francis X. Bushman as the opposing heroes—will be shown at the Temple Theatre, Willard, O. on Oct. 23, 24, 25 and 26.

Theatregoers greatly enjoyed the stage "Ben-Hur" and vividly remember Bill Farnum, Bill Hart, Emmett Corrigan, Mary Shaw and others of the old casts. It was the most popular stage spectacle ever produced, touring America for twenty-two seasons. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, in arrangement with A. L. Erlanger, Chas. B. Dillingham and Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr. has made a new and greater "Ben-Hur" in the newer art of the motion picture that out-rips the former achievement even as the wizard-like powers of the Twentieth Century surpass the inventions of our forefathers.

"THE FOURTH COMMANDMENT"
Which commandment is it that commands children to honor and obey their father and mother?

It is a question, seemingly, that any clergyman could answer. Yet there are several answers to it, and all are different, and all are right.

That was the discovery made at Universal City when Emory Johnson started to film "The Fourth Commandment," the picture now being shown at the Shelby Opera House, Sunday, October 23.

The picture's theme is based on the relation of children to their parents and it was written and directed by Mrs. Emilie Johnson, mother of the director, Emory Johnson, with whom she has collaborated on all his big successes.

When it came to naming the production after the appropriate commandment, however, there was found various versions of the decalogue do-not agree.

Many versions of the Bible and the Mosiac law-pieces; it as the fifth, few allot it sixth place and a great number present it as the fourth commandment.

Mrs. Johnson believes it as the fourth commandment, and bases her argument upon the version of the Bible wherein the position of the ten laws, as inscribed upon the two tablets, as given as four on the first tablet and six on the second.

"The Fourth Commandment," one of the features of the Universal program of this season, has been pronounced by critics as one of the strongest dramatic films ever made for the screen.

"PAINTED PONIES"
Plenty of laughs and thrills, interspersed with deft dramatic touches, constitute the prime ingredients in Hoot Gibson's Universal-Jewel western, "Painted Ponies," which will be the attraction at the Castamba, Shelby, Saturday, October 22.

Directed by Reeves Eason, who has megaphoned some of the outstanding box-office successes of the past year, and containing a cast of the leading favorites of movieland, "Painted Ponies" is one of the best serio-comedies that this versatile and imaginative director has ever produced.

The rodeo scenes depict some of the most exciting cowboy stunts ever filmed, for they were made at the famous annual event at Saugus, California, Gibson, who performs on the back of a maddened steed, proves himself to be a real cowboy, still able to do the tricks that won for him the world championship in cowboy athletics three years in a row at Penitentiary, Ore.

Ethylene Clair, in the role of the heroine, brings to the screen the refreshing, entrancing beauty for which a great many movie fans have been shouting since her last appearance with Gibson in "A Hero on Horse Back."

Officers Make Raid In Wild West Style
Edgar Hilburton, of Willard, Claud and Lee Wilcox of North Fairfield were arrested late last Wednesday night on a charge of possessing intoxicating liquor. The arrests were made at an abandoned farm house just north of New London, where the men, it is said, were to transfer the shipment of whisky for local distribution. The raid was made by dry officers in typical western style. They had been tipped off as to what was going to take place at the abandoned farm house, and they proceeded out to the spot. Upon arriving they pulled their guns and shot into the air several times, and the three men in waiting were somewhat surprised. Hilburton was fined $500 and costs on the charge of possession in Judge Bechtel's court Thursday afternoon. Lee Wilcox, who had transported the liquor in his automobile from the place where it had been hidden north of Greenwich to the rendezvous where it was seized, was fined $300 and costs. Claud Wilcox, 17 will probably be a ward of the court.

OFFICE CAT
Getting a giddy husband to mend his ways is just about as hard as getting a giddy wife to mend your clothes.

Bryant called them "the melancholly days" but that was before the human race went football crazy.

Gladys thinks the reason there are so many bald-headed men in the first row is that most of them buy tickets from scalpers.

It's all right for the girls to make up if they feel they can improve on nature, but we can't help thinking it's a mistake to take one of those old-fashioned china dolls as a model.

Anyway, the woman who now makes her own clothes has a lot of time on her hands.

The "common people" are spoken of as if there were any other kind.

A new word has been coined. It is "navigator." The navigator travels the sea. The aviator is an air pilot. We presume the submarine fellows will soon be known as "Alligators."

Business Conditions As Seen By Federal Reserve

General business conditions developed a firmer tone in August, after a mild recession lasting several months. The Monthly Business Review, covering financial, industrial and agricultural conditions in the Fourth Federal Reserve District, and issued by the Federal Reserve Bank at Cleveland says:

Retail trade was particularly good, owing very largely to the unusually cool weather throughout most of the United States. As for September, the usual Fall rise is taking place in many lines, but in others, notably iron and steel, some hesitancy has again appeared, and the index of distribution declined slightly for the first two weeks of the month. In general, it may be said that business is fair, but not up to last year's levels. Lower automobile production throughout the entire year has been a factor in the slowing-down of business, while active building, on the other hand, has helped materially in preventing the decline from going further than it has. One notable feature of the situation has been the rise in the index of wholesale commodity prices, now in process for two months; but this has not been reflected for the most part in an increase in agricultural rather than industrial prices.

In the Fourth District, the iron and steel industry is still sluggish. Tire manufacturers continue relatively high operations, and are in better shape than a year ago. The shoe trade appears to be on the upgrade. Coal production has increased, regardless of the strike. West Virginia and Kentucky are producing at record high levels, and Pennsylvania has been running around 80 per cent of last year, but conditions in the Ohio fields are extremely depressed. The paint and varnish trade has enjoyed a prosperous summer. Makers of trucks and motor accessories have been suffering from the reaction in the automobile industry. The lumber trade is quiet, but building was ahead of August, 1926. Crop conditions are still somewhat unfavorable for the most part, although corn has been aided by hot weather early in September.

Reports show that tire factories in August were on a somewhat heavier scale than in July. The demand for tires as original equipment has fallen off but dealer requirements are holding up well. The public is still displaying a rather hesitant attitude in the matter of buying new cars, and production in August again fell far below last year's figure. Curtailment of Ford production in anticipation of the new model continued to be the main factor in the automobile situation. The stoppage of Ford production slowed up other automobile manufacturers.

CORN
Corn prospects for the District, as of September 1, estimated at 2 per cent from the August 1 estimate to a new low level of 133,971,000 bushels. This estimate is 32 per cent below the actual yield of 197,237,000 bushels in 1926. The condition of the crop for the country decreased 1.5 per cent from August 1 to 69.7 on September 1, and indicates a crop of 2457 million bushels against 2,647 million a year. The cool nights have retarded the growth, and though the crop has been fairly satisfactory, earing has been poor in many fields. The United States Department of Agriculture suggests that, due to the lateness and poor condition of the crop, much of the acreage planted for grain will be cut for silage and a much greater part of the crop will be hogged off than usual. There is still danger from frosts.

WHEAT
The 1927 wheat crop in the United States, as indicated by September reports, is 841 million bushels or 7 per cent above the average of the last 5 years. The crop for this District is estimated at 32 million bushels, a decline of 30 per cent from last year's crop of 45 million bushels. The report of planting intentions of farmers with regard to winter wheat shows an acreage increase of 13.7 per cent. If these intentions are carried out there would be about 48 million acres in winter wheat next year. Fall plowing has been making good progress and in some localities seeding has already begun.

OATS
The harvesting of oats is generally over and the estimate for the District is 53,839,800 bushels, a decrease of 3.2 per cent from 1926. The crop for the country as a whole decreased 3.1 per cent from last year and 9 per cent from the ten-year average, 1917-27. The yield is not only small but the threshold grain is considerably lighter than usual.

POTATOES
Potatoes show an increase of 13 per cent over the yield of 1926, based on the September 1 estimate for the District. The estimate for the United States shows a crop of 399,500,000 bushels, and for the District, 20,540,000 bushels. The yield is due mostly to larger acreage planted this year. The condition of the crop is not uniform. Some localities report a poor set, and there has been some destruction from the late blight. Sprayed fields look quite thrifty.

FRUITS
In sharp contrast with last year, fruit crops are light in practically all sections of the country except parts of California. The condition figure on all fruits except pears declined still further from the low estimate of August. The peach crop is the smallest since 1921, and is still quite prevalent in all sections. Apples and Eastern grapes show further declines from the low forecasts of a month ago due to the extended drought in the Lake regions. According to present indications, the apple crop in the United States will be only 50 per cent as large as last year, the peach crop 64 per cent, and the pear crop 70 per cent as large.

HAY-PASTURE
The hay crop in the country this year is by far the largest ever grown. The entire crop is estimated at 101 million tons against last year's harvest of 86.2 million tons. In some sections farmers experienced difficulty in harvesting the second cutting of alfalfa due to rains. Pastures are in excellent condition, crop in the smallest better than the ten-year average, 1917-1926.

W. C. T. U. TO HOLD STATE CONVENTION

Members of the Ohio W. C. T. U. are preparing a warm welcome at their state convention, Elyria, October 18-21 for Mrs. Ella A. Boole, a native of Ohio, now president of the national W. C. T. U. Mrs. Boole, whose recent utterances, favoring dry planks and dry candidates, have aroused women's organizations all over the country to cooperate with the W. C. T. U. will address the Elyria convention October 19 on "Why Dry Planks and Dry Candidates," and it is a foregone conclusion that the Ohio W. C. T. U. will adopt resolutions asking the political parties to insert dry planks in state and national platforms and nominate candidates who are the undoubted friends of prohibition.

Mrs. Boole was born at Van Wert, Ohio, was educated at Wooster College and is now a trustee of that institution. She is the only deaconess-at-large in the Presbyterian church and as a candidate for the United States Senate in New York State she received the largest number of votes ever accorded to a woman in this country.

Previous to her election to the head of the national W. C. T. U. she was vice-president of the organization; and for several years held office as the president of the New York State W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Florence D. Dillard, president of the Ohio W. C. T. U. is stressing the point that the state convention at Elyria will be fifty years after one of the earlier conventions held in that city. A jubilee service will be held and conditions in Ohio in the Crusade days will be contrasted with the situation today. It is more than likely that the W. C. T. U. will organize to support the "Marshall Bill."

THE P. H. S. POST

VOLUME II We Publish the Truth, the Whole Truth, and Nothing but the Truth NUMBER II

THIS AND THAT
Bulletin boards have been erected in each of the high school rooms. They have proved to be very useful.

Maps have been put up in the various rooms and are being used in some of the classes.

Each member of the Modern History class has subscribed for the "Time" magazine to be used as reference work.

The Physics experiment manuals have arrived and this class is performing two experiments weekly. The Encyclopedias and reference books have been arranged in alphabetical order. This makes it much easier for the student when using them.

Most of the English classes are studying classics at the present time and setting them out before the students. No casualties as yet.

Supt. Miller gave us a very interesting talk Monday morning. His subject was "Habits."

STUDENT COUNCIL IS AGAIN ORGANIZED

A group of High School students is elected each year to make necessary arrangements for events that are beneficial to the High School. This organization goes under the name of the Student Council. The president and one representative of each class comprise this council.

It is the ambition of the faculty and the student today to make P. H. S. a purely student government; this will take a few years. However, that is the end toward which this group of students is now striving.

The Student Council is making a plea to the High School to co-operate with the organization in making the best of the opportunities given to them. With the help of the students, this is sure to be a success.

The schedule worked out by the organization for the early morning period, from 8:45 to 9:15, is as follows:
Monday—Vocational Ideas (by local business men).
Wednesday—Chapel (by local ministers, etc.).
Thursday—Music (by Miss Lorimer).

Friday—School Spirit Meeting (conducted by the Council.)

one hurrying on his way merry-eyed, rosy-cheeked and happy. Health is Happiness and they are healthy; ready to start each morning in a vigorous manner.

Yes, again this year Miss Health is spending her time in Plymouth. Mr. Health rules, one of her assistants, and an old friend, has renewed his friendship and also introduced some new relatives of his.

When Mr. Health Rules visits the fifth and sixth grade room, he is greeted by his hostess, Health officer, Betty Aslakson. Bidding his adieu after a short visit, his new host in the fourth and fifth grade room is William Root. Not forgetting his old friends in the third and fourth grades, he calls on them. A host and hostess makes him unwelcome. "Health Officer, James Himes, in the third grade and Health Officer, Anna Mae Landis, in the fourth.) Then off to his friends in the first and second grades. My, how he chuckles in glee when he is told that the boys and girls are all buying tooth brushes to keep Mr. Decay away.

Then off he goes to other schools, thanking each one for their interest in him and he says in his very own way, "Don't forget boys and girls, practice me every day and then away you'll fly to Happyland."

First and Second Grades Have Guests

Parents in Plymouth are interested in their children's school-life. Many of the mothers have visited school in the past week.

Third and Fourth Grades
The per cent of attendance for the third and fourth grades for the first school month was 98.8. We are proud of our record.

Fourth and Fifth Grades

There are forty enrolled in the fourth and fifth grade room. Twenty-three fourth graders and seventeen in the fourth.

Dear Folks:

There is nothing much to tell you, but since I promised that I would write, I must keep my promise. Last Friday afternoon, because we didn't have a baseball game, we practiced some of our operetta songs. There are twenty-eight girls and twenty boys in the Glee Club, and when they start singing—one can well imagine the noise—I mean the music—that they make. Everyone is very much interested and the songs are extremely beautiful. Some of the characters have been chosen, but not all, and so I will send the list to you later.

We had Orchestra practice last Thursday starting at fifteen minutes of twelve and lasting until a quarter of twelve. Although it is hard to accomplish much in that time we feel that we are progressing. If we only had more players, we know that we could do wonders! Won't some one help us? Join the Orchestra!

As ever,

DID YOU GET YOUR LYCEUM TICKET?

The Juniors have them! Buy them early!

They come highly recommended and you'll miss something by not coming. So don your hat and coat, get your ticket and bring a friend. There's a seat waiting for you.

The Juniors of Plymouth High School wish to express their thanks to the Presbyterian council for the use of their church and to all who have co-operated in buying season tickets to make the Lyceum a success.
