TO THE PEOPLE OF PLYMOUTH

We who have been in the front of the fight against the $125,000 bonding proposition defeated at the polls on Tuesday wish it known that we do not now nor have we been against a new school house for Plymouth. We recognize the need of better accommodations for school pupils, but can tell the difference between a new school house and a burdensome twenty-three year bonding proposition. When the proposition is put up to the voters which is commensurate with the population of the town and the size of our pocket books, it will receive our hearty support.

WHY THE SCHOOL BOND ISSUE FAILED

Now that the battle of the "Pre-sponders" vs the "Economists" is over, time only can heal the wounded feelings, in which the doctor can not assist. In the Civil War, brother fought against brother, while in this strife, wife was pitted against husband.

The reason I was not in favor of the new school house was on account of what seemed to me extravagance in asking for One Hundred and Twenty-Five Thousand Dollars. Had the original plans been revised for a Bond Issue not to exceed $75,000.00, it would have carried.

From the looks of the drawing of the proposed building, one might take it to be Art Institute for some city rather than a school for a village of fifteen hundred population. This village cannot afford to discard the old school-building, the condition of which was misrepresented. It is the same building the writer went to school, but has seen a number of improvements such as a heated hall, electric lights, toilets, domestic science room, and drinking fountains. The rooms have been redecorated within the last few years and new floors would have been laid had the money been available. The ceilings should be replaced. The building could not have been built better and would be good another fifty years with ordinary maintenance.

It takes more than a building to make a good school. When I compare the dignity and personality of some of my teachers thirty years ago, with some of the last few years, it is wonder on graduates are not properly prepared for college. Believe me, some of those older teachers commanded our respect. I have never heard of any teacher refusing a position in our school on account of the building. I know of some excellent teachers who could not leave Plymouth who are teaching in high grade schools elsewhere. Why? Just a matter of salary.

No person, to my knowledge, has questioned the desirability of adding to our school facilities, but I do not think the danger of losing our first grade Charter should be blamed entirely on the building and equipment. Personally I feel our school was decidedly below 100 per cent last year. There were a few good teachers, but there were many complaints and I felt justified in sending my daughter to Canton High School, which employs one of Plymouth's home-dirt teachers.

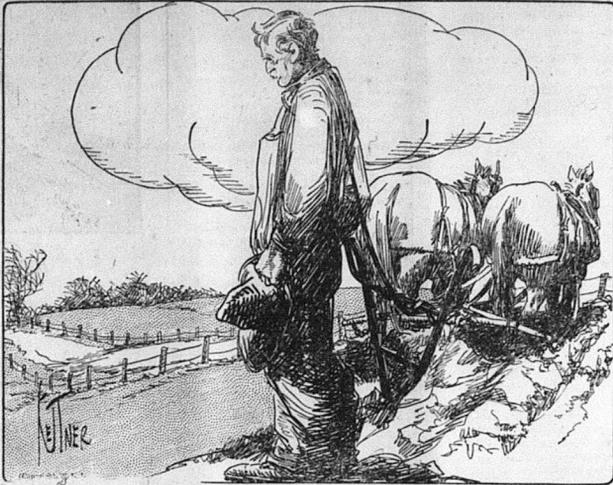

There were a number of features of the present campaign which in my mind were objectionable. The children should not have been wrought up to a high degree of expectancy. What do the kiddies know about the "whatdos" Let them do their playthings. Leave off the ribbons and the 100 per cent signs in business windows, which are liable to make what Mark Twain calls "polite liars."

Under present conditions of unemployment and clamor for tax reduction, it is a poor time to get extravagant.

EXCEPTIONS TAKEN TO ACCOUNT IN ESTATE

A motion to open an account and exceptions to the account have been filed in probate court by P. D. Parsel, J. L. Parsel, Crawford county, Sarah E. Root, and W. B. Parsel of Plymouth, in the cause of E. K. Trauger, administrator of the estate of William M. Parsel. Mrs. Root was the daughter of William Parsel. The others were grandchildren.

The exceptions claim they had no notice of the filing of the account by E. K. Trauger on September 12, 1927, in which Mary E. Reynolds presented a claim of $1,000 and Deibert Parsel a claim of $700. The exceptions say these claims have not been paid, the administrator being in doubt as to the validity of the claims. The exceptions declare these claims are fictitious. A. B. Mabey is attorney for the exceptions.

WOMAN OCCUPIES PULPIT 40 YEARS

HUMBOLDT, Iowa. The Rev. Mary A. Sanford, who served forty years in the Unitarian ministry, is taking her ease in Florida for the first time at the age of 75. Her first pastorate brought her a salary of $20 a month, even though two churches combined to employ her as a full time minister. She delivered her maiden sermon from a platform built of planks set upon boxes. Ordained at Humboldt in 1859, she served churches in Humboldt, Algona, Sioux City and Des Moines, la. The Rev. Sanford has been credited with being the first woman to introduce the suffragist movement in the south. She is a delegate to the international suffrage convention in Europe.

PRINCE OF PEACE CONTEST

The public will be given an opportunity to hear the pick of the Declaration contestants at the Methodist church next Sunday evening. The declarations are all written by the leading thinkers on the subject of World Wide Peace. They will receive their hearing. The winner will receive a bronze medal. The judges will be Prof. H. L. Ford of the Shiloh Schools, Mr. Crouch of the New Haven Schools and Homer Lindsey of the Willard Schools.

IMPROVING

Mrs. Warren McDougal had the misfortune to badly injure her hand about two weeks ago when she attempted to lower a window. The ropes broke and caught her hand between the sashes. At first it was thought the bones were broken but later proved that it was terribly bruised and the joints injured. It is gradually improving but will be several weeks yet before Mrs. McDougal will have the use of it.

ATTEND SEVENTH HEAVEN

Mrs. Jennie West, Mrs. Fred Charneau of Detroit, Miss Ida Cheesman and Miss M. M. Lerch attended the photoplay "Seventh Heaven" at Shelby, Monday evening.

The many friends of Miss Eva White who has been confined to Shelby Memorial Hospital will be glad to hear she is improving nicely.

A CALL TO PRAYER

For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places. Ephesians 6:12. Women loyal to the Constitution are deeply concerned over the present situation and outlook. It is not denied that men high in office are violators of the law and protect criminals, thereby breaking their solemn oath of office which should render them liable to impeachment. There is no relief in certain courts of the country where judges are said to be recreant to the Oath. The church that shirks responsibility for national sin thereby becomes an ally to the worst politics. We, the people, are responsible for this administration and the next. Ministers, educators, men and women citizens are responsible for every crime, every evil deed of lawlessness which through their weakness and neglect they permit to go unchecked in community, state and nation.

We are told from the Department of Enforcement in Washington that it will take fifty years to enforce laws based on the Constitution. They can be enforced in fifty days if the people demand that they be enforced.

Before we hold our annual Thanksgiving feast and football games, with an outpouring of our hearts for national prosperity, let us observe a day of humiliation and prayer for our nation, our rulers, our churches, ourselves. We pray for moral and spiritual revival. It never was more needed than in certain decadent areas of this nation. God calls for confession of sin, our sin is inaction. We therefore ask our women to lead in a call for such a DAY OF PRAYER, SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 13 in every village town and city in union services or in separate churches or in small groups in homes. We ask that ministers preach on civic righteousness and pray that the churches may help to end this shame of our nation.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union is one of the nine affiliated organizations which help to make up the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement, and it is under the guidance of the W. C. T. U. that a Prayer Service will be conducted in Plymouth. This service will be held at the Methodist church, Sunday afternoon, between the hours of 3:00 and 5:00. Leaders will be changed every half hour and people may come and go as is convenient.

Leaders for the half hour periods will be: Mr. Fisher, Willard Ross, G. C. Schneider and Mrs. J. H. Baltzell.

FRANK WAITE EXPERIENCED COLORFUL EVENTS IN LIFE

That Frank Waite enjoyed a colorful newspaper career, filled with lifting acts for the benefit of the communities in which he resided, and that he also enjoyed the confidence and admiration of a host of friends, is brought out in excerpts taken from the sermon which was given at the last rites held for him at his late home in California:

Frank Dawson Waite was a native of Plymouth, Ohio. There, five brothers of honorable English ancestry settled of whom one was the father of Frank Dawson. An honorable record of his life was given at the building is to the credit of this large connection even to the third generation. Frank Dawson grew up in Plymouth and at the age of sixteen, an armoured newspaper worker, left school to become the "devil" on the office of the Plymouth newspaper, "The Advertiser." Here he showed

DEATH TAKES MRS. DEISLER

Mrs. Nettie Belle Deisler, wife of Reuben Deisler, died Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock at her home after a lingering illness.

Mrs. Deisler made her home in Plymouth a number of years where Mr. Deisler is engaged in conducting a picture show, with one daughter, Mrs. Marie Falk, of Plymouth, and a son, Bert Lenhart, of Detroit, survive.

Other surviving relatives are her mother, Mrs. Mary Root, of Lexington, three sisters, Mrs. Ella Messimer, of Crestline; Mrs. Leona Belmer, of Mansfield; Mrs. Iona Hess, of Lexington; two brothers, William Reed, of Mansfield; Homer Reed, of Long Island, N. Y., and three grandchildren. Funeral services in charge of G. C. Albrecht of the Christian Science church and were held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home. Burial was made in Greenlawn cemetery.

MRS. CONRAD ACQUITTED

Mrs. Alice Conrad, of New Haven, tried at Norwalk on the charge of shop lifting, was acquitted by the jury.

She was charged with taking about $14 worth of silk hosiery and other merchandise from the Lippus store and of leaving the goods in the Clark restaurant. When the trial started, the husband brought into the court room the infant born to Mrs. Conrad after the indictment was returned.

The child was placed on some pillows in a chair, but Judge Irving Carpenter, the trial judge, ordered the child removed from the court room.

Prosecutor Martin represented the state and the defendant was represented by the law firm of Rowley & Carpenter of Norwalk and Attorney C. A. Selzer.

FRANK WAITE EXPERIENCED COLORFUL EVENTS IN LIFE

An interest that brought to his hand trusted work. For two years he has in Sandusky, still as typesetter and then went to Cleveland into the "Leader" office and here he passed the time in this city, he was married to a lifelong friend and playmate, Miss Zetella May McCormick of Plymouth, Ohio. Just in here Mark Hanna decided to launch the "Herald" and Mr. Waite became managing editor. In this most important work he continued till he removed to San Diego. With his business in law, W. M. McCormick came out on winter vacation in the last days of '86 and was at once captured with San Diego. Within a year he was back permanently. The "Sun" in those days was owned by Warren Wilson, published in the Sun Building.

KILLED AT GREENWICH Mrs. William Sherwood Steps in Path of Approaching Train

Mrs. William Sherwood, aged 63 years, was instantly killed last Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Main street crossing of the Big Four railroad in Greenwich, as she attempted to cross while the gates were lowered, just before the arrival of the train.

The coroner of Huron county was called and pronounced death as being due to accidental causes, and attached no blame to the crossing watchman or the train crew.

Besides her husband, William D. Sherwood, she is survived by her father, Charles Hopkins, of Italy, who is 94 years old.

Paul Russell to Handle 1928 Auto Licenses

The distribution of automobile tags this year will be handled by Paul Russell at his garage. Mr. Russell faithfully served the motorists here last year, and will again do so when the tags will go on sale, on an early date.

A small fee will be charged, but the fact that the service rendered by Mr. Russell is well beyond estimation, makes the fee insignificant. To avoid any confusion, Mr. Russell states that it is necessary to bring your bill of sale, and other papers when applying for a 1928 license. Just what date they will go on sale is not definitely known, but supposedly to be around the first of the month.

P. T. A. POSTPONED

Because Friday is being observed as a holiday, being Armistice Day, and because of numerous other events this week, it has been thought best to postpone the meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association one week. The program committee under the leadership of Mrs. Ralph Hoffman is preparing a good program. The Work Committee and the Membership Committee will have plans to present. It will be an important meeting. Don't forget the date, November 17.

BACK ALIMONY CLAIM IS FILED BY WIFE

Gertrude E. Bevier of Shelby has sued her former husband, J. Frank Holtz, for $327.50 which she claims is due her as back alimony.

Mrs. Bevier says when she was granted a decree, she was granted $5 a week for the support of their child, beginning in September, 1924. She admits her former husband kept up the payments until March 1, 1926.

Holtz had the child with him in Chicago 17½ weeks. His former wife says she is not asking alimony during that time. She avers he owes her for 65½ weeks or $327.50.

SISTER DIES

Mack Rogers received word Friday that his sister Mrs. N. N. Hills, of Washington, D. C. had died. Accompanied by his daughter, Miss Harriett and Royal Trauger, who drove, they left early Saturday morning to attend the funeral services.

Mrs. Hills is a former Plymouth girl and has numerous friends here who regret to learn of her death. She is survived by three daughters, one son and her husband having died several years ago.

VISITING IN MICHIGAN

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Doyle left early Wednesday morning by motor for Midland, Mich., where they will spend the winter with Mrs. Doyle's sister, Mrs. Hattie Smith. Their many friends will miss them in Plymouth, but hope for them a happy sojourn in the neighboring state.

Close Votes in Race for Council and Board of Public Affairs.

With the closing of the polls here at 6 p. m. Tuesday evening one of the most dramatic and tense elections Plymouth has ever known came to an end. On the proposed school bond issue, the main target of the election, was defeated by the small majority of 28. The school proposition was comparatively quiet until a week or so before the day of voting when opposition was seen to the issuance of bonds to the extent of $125,000., and the two factions, those for the bonds and those against them, literally staged a "little war" which held the interest of the town for a few days; before the final curtain of defeat was lowered.

It is the opinion of those who are in the position to know, that it will be necessary for Plymouth to wait another year before any further action can be taken on the matter of providing the village with proper school facilities. Just what steps must be taken are not definitely known, but it is generally believed that the town will either on its own accord or under state supervision, do something to relieve the present situation.

Much interest was shown in the school question here as one of the largest polls ever taken were on record here for the election Tuesday. In the early evening groups of people gathered and waited for the outcome of the election, and when word was sent out that the bonds were defeated more than one school child burst into tears.

Other features which caused local townsmen to center their attention upon was the mayor's race which was won by J. B. Derr with a good majority over his opponents, Searle and Seiler.

Without his consent supporters of J. W. McIntire entered his name as a candidate for re-election on the local school board, an detours show that he made a good race for a "last minute" man.

In Physics class they were discussing the elasticity of steel buildings. Mr. Jenkins was explaining that while he was in France he stood up against a building and looking up he could see it weave.

Emeline (doubtfully): Maybe it was you that was weaving?

Jenkins: "No, I didn't have any."

"Hungary?"
"Slam."
"Russia over here and I'll Fyie."
"Sugar my coffee and Denmark my bill."

If the baggage car got hurt would the locomotive tender?

Willmet: "Give me a sentence using the word 'Arure.'"
Harry: "Shakespeare wrote a play called 'Arure you like it.'"

Miss Gooding (angrily): "Now why aren't you quiet!"
Alveta: "I'll bite."

Raymond (to Ross who was in a sad mood): "Cheer up, you'll live."
Ross: "I know it, that's why I'm so sad."

PLYMOUTH SEE "THE BIG PARADE"

Many people witnessed the parade through the streets Saturday night. This was worked out by the school children to show the public their views in the new school building proposition.

The newly organized P. H. S. Band furnished music for the parade. Many posters, many for the occasion, were carried to prove the sincerity of the students. Songs were sung and yells were yelled when the entire group of paraders assembled on the square.

It was very effective to see students from the first to the twelfth grades marching on a bitterly cold night to show Plymouth how badly they wanted a new building.
E. H., '29

A second parade was held Monday afternoon. In this parade every student in the Plymouth schools participated. They marched all over town singing the songs, "Hail, Hail to Plymouth Hill," and "The Old School Building Ain't What It Used to Be," and then stopping to sing the Alma Mater. In between songs the students kept up various yells.

Due to the bad weather the parade which had been planned for Friday evening was postponed; nevertheless, the peppy students from old P. H. S. showed their spirit and pep at the Boosters' meeting which was held at the Hamilton hall. The purpose of this meeting was to bring before the public the more detailed facts concerning our new school building. Mr. Miller brought before the people just why we really needed a new school and in what a terrible condition the old building is. He offered to answer questions with the help of the school board, but as none of the radical opposers were present the discussion was limited.

Monday evening a second booster meeting was held which was similar to the first one. Many doubtful points concerning the proposed new building were brought up and discussed, and many people not only asked questions but gave their own opinions as well.

P. H. S. BAND IS ORGANIZED

At last we have a band! We've always wanted one, and now we have it. It isn't so large, but what there is of it is very satisfactory. Miss Lorimer organized it last Thursday, and gave them a few preliminary instructions. Since then they have been practicing and marching, and marching and practicing until they are nearly worn out.

The personnel of the band is: Drum Major—Dusty Willet.

Cornets—Berta Hale, Reg Erwin, Rex Teale.

Saxophone—Walter St. Clair, Jim Shepherd
Saxophone—Bob Schreck,
Bass Drum—John Kenman
Snare Drum—Johnny Root, Reg Himes.

It's a tough life—being an editor. It's a tougher life being an assistant or a reporter.

If we don't get out and share up some news we get bawled out and perhaps kicked off the staff.

If we do try to get some news and fail, we get bawled out.
If we do get some news we write it up so nicely and hand it to the teacher to be O. K.'d. When it is returned it is so revised and re-written that we don't recognize it and we get bawled out for incorrect language.

Then it goes to the printing office. If it is printed, there is usually something left out and we get bawled out. Sometimes it isn't even printed and we get bawled out.
It's not only a tough life but it's also a dog's life.

BASKET BALL NEWS

Owing to the fact that some repairs were necessary at Hamilton Hall the boys' basket ball team has confined its activities during the past week to track work for the purpose of getting into condition. However, the repairs are finished now so practice will start in earnest this week.

SOFT APRIL RAIN

Martha Marie had put the finishing touches on ten salads and placing a lettuce leaf here and there, declared them finished.

"Mrs. Burns, do take those potatoes in, they are steaming hot."
Martha Marie walked over to the window to cut the cake and glancing out saw and heard the steady drip, drip, drip of falling rain.

"Martha-e-e, close that window! It's cold in here, am I sure glad the Ladies' Aid doesn't serve every time they meet," and out bustled Mrs. Burns with the potatoes, nearly bumping into Mrs. Miller as she did so.

Then came the leaders of the Martha household, Bob, Jimmy and June who came tearing in the kitchen ready for "eats."

"Gee, you're purty, Aunt Marie," Jimmy said, stuffing his mouth full of cake, "Jimmy whiz—looksee, Aunt Martha."

Glancing up, Martha Marie Burns saw standing in the door, water dripping from his hat, a man around the age of 30 or 35.

"Dick—why Dick, do come in out of the rain." "Rush youngsters upstairs and get cleaned up," with the slightest command from Aunt Marie, the three youngsters hurried away to obey.

"Martha, you're looking fine and still the same ock of old, remember the candy you used to make for me?"

"Hush, Dickie, don't tease."
So this was the Martha Marie pal of his high school days. Many times he had taken her home from football games, class parties and the picnics he had planned for their immediate "crowd." He was proud of her as she stood at the gate entrance waiting for him to come from his football practices. There she was still with her clear blue eyes and clear pink-white complexion.

"What in the world are you thinking about I have been talking to you for a full five minutes with no attention whatever."
"Oh, pardon my negligence, Martha, I was thinking. Let's slip away from her for a few minutes, don't refuse."

"Just one moment, Dicky," and her moment was a moment. Long she had waited for this time to come and nothing could rob her of a minute of it.

Swiftly she came back, her unruly hair combed, with each wave distinct and on her face just a thin layer of smooth, highly scented powder.

Quickly the Stearns-Knight roadster carried them past the old street to Farmer, leading them to the high school bringing back each memory of their high school days.

As the wheels revolved Martha recalled her life. In young people's affairs Aunt Marie was the best chap. In the Ladies' Aid circle Aunt Martha planned the fun and "wets" and took charge of the financial duty of the association. She had marked, played and waited, from 18 to 30, thus she had waited.

"Outside the rain fell softly—drip, drip and then to interrupt her reverie: "Martie Marie, remember that last day you rode home in my Ford?"
"Oh yes, after your last, last touchdown in the game. I was SO proud of you."

Thus, together again, they were recalling the parties and good class times, each one made real by the glowing descriptions of Martha Marie.

Slowly she stared at her companion's eyes which were intent on the road ahead. They were not the same eyes, not so frank as of old, this expression was gone. Her breath caught sharply and she burst out hoarsely, "Dick, why didn't you come back before?" The words she realized were out of place but Dick smiled a weary smile.

"My Dear, my profession does not allow it, surely you haven't waited?" and laughed at the impossibility.

Did she wait! But what was Dick saying? "Remember, Martie that Thanksgiving game when we lost and you tried to comfort me?"

Did she remember! In the dim light Dick was looking at the woman beside him. A small breeze came thru the half-opened window and twirled a small wisp of hair. Goody! So this was Martha Marie.

With a bang his foot sought the accelerator. They rode the rest of the way in silence. Up they drew to the little bungalow of her brother's. Softly and tenderly Dick helped Martie from the car.
"Goodbye, Martha Marie."
Then she realized he was gone.

The rain hung silver hoops on the maple trees. No tears came to her eyes but there were unshed tears in her heart. The years had taught her not to cry out. Softly she smiled: "To late, to late!"

"The children were getting ready for bed when she came upstairs. June sat on the floor waiting for Aunt Martie's bedtime story. Absently Martha stroked the little curls. Someone June understood. She wondered vaguely why Aunt Martie kept looking thru the window at the maple tree. Many times they had had tea parties there but outside the soft April rain dreamily dripped, dripped, dripped.

SMITH-HUGHES DEPARTMENT

Edited by members of the Freshman English Class it is the plan of the department to put on a short course here this winter. This is open to young men between the ages of 16 and 25 who are not in school and who are living on a farm. The group will select the subject to be discussed, such as: Poultry, farm shops, soils, swine management, etc. One meeting will be held one evening each week for twelve weeks. From 60 to 80 minutes will be spent in a discussion of the subject. This will be followed by an hour of recreation or visit. We now have a list of 40 names and are aiming at 50. Any help will be appreciated. It will be necessary to begin not later than Dec. 1 so as to finish before Spring begins.

Basketball practices will begin this week for both the boys and girls. One regular practice will be held Wednesday evening. The first scheduled game is with Adario, Nov. 25th, following with a double header at Plymouth, Dec. 2nd.

Rev. McBroom had charging of chapel services Monday morning. His talk was a continuation of his topic, "Realms of Truth." He spoke of the coal fields of China that have never been developed until recently. The Chinese were afraid to dig deep into the ground for fear of letting out demons. When the Chinese people heard about the Bible they lost all of their fear of the demons. Their coal fields have since been developed. He spoke for a few minutes on the "Gentle Theory of Disease." Diseases are not nearly so dangerous as they used to be. Rev. McBroom stated that all this progress had been due to the knowledge of the truth. His talk was the beginning of National Education Week. Monday was Health day and Rev. McBroom's talk was along that topic. Mr. Ford has asked the teachers to weave into their class room work during the week topics relating to National Education week. Rev. McBroom will speak to the grades Thursday afternoon concerning School Opportunities.

Friday, Dr. Mente will address all the pupils of the schools on the topic of Armistice and Peace. Parents are urged to visit the school this week. Make Friday a Visitation day. The different rooms throughout the school will have appropriate Armistice day programs prepared for Friday afternoon. Mr. Ford also plans to have a speaker address the pupils of the Lon-

Reminders of the great world war are ever with us; and as we view the many disabled and crippled soldier boys who went across seas to defend the flag they love so well, we are reminded of their heroic struggles in foreign lands. The boys of the Civil war have their G. A. R. The Spanish war veterans their posts, the World War veterans their legion, to all of these only real soldiers can belong; but the Red Cross everybody can and should join, for it is thus we pay our debt to humanity. Over 70,000 disabled veterans and their families were the wards of this wonderful institution every month last year; disasters, floods, cyclone in America and in foreign lands have laid heavy tax upon the resources of the society; public health demands attention, nurses must be trained for emergency, and competent workers are out among the lowly and unfortunate under the sign of the Red Cross.

Shiloh is ready to do her part, as was manifested at the meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the Firestone home. Both Bloomingsgrove and Cass Township were represented, when Dr. Mente called the meeting to order. Rev. McBroom offered a short prayer after which Rev. E. B. Brown of First Church, Mansfield spoke very enthusiastically on the great need of the society at this time, calling attention to the fact that resources had fallen behind the demand of the time. He gave some startling figures, where by we gleaned that the Red Cross subscriptions in 1921 were 21 million dollars, but had gradually decreased until last year they amounted to only 3 million, greatly embarrassing the society. The organization of Shiloh is as follows: Mrs. Firestone, Pres.; Mrs. Will McDowell, Secretary; Miss Pearl Darling, Treasurer.

The following volunteer workers have been assigned and will call on you after Armistice day: Mrs. Frank Thurlie, Miss Mary Giger, Miss Anna Benton, Mrs. L. Domer, Mrs. Boyd Hammon, Mr. Elmer Moon, Mrs. Huddleston, Mrs. Middlesworth, Mrs. Clara Page, Mrs. Arthur McBride, Mrs. Frank Dawson, Mrs. Wm. McDowell, Miss Lela Barnard, Mrs. G. G. Pearl, Mrs. Jennie Vaughn, Miss Pearl Darling, Rev. McBroom. These will sell you membership in the Red Cross for the ensuing year.

There is just three sides to the school question. Your side, the other fellow's side, and the right side.

WEST WANTS TARIFF

Something seems already to have happened to the free trade scheme to conquer the West in the coming election. A few months ago we read glowing statements by free trade authorities to the effect that the farmers of the West were in revolt and that in the next election these same farmers would demand the repeal of the protective tariff and a return to the good old days when they burned corn in their cookstoves in Nebraska and Kansas because it was cheaper than coal.

But of late we have heard not nearly so much about this free trade conquest of the West. Evidently the plans are not developing so rapidly as was thought possible. There is even some evidence coming to the surface to indicate that what the farmers of the West want is not less tariff but more protection!

The so-called progressive senators of the West and Middle West met in conference in Washington a few days ago. These senators certainly know what the farmers are thinking about if anyone does, and what they said about the tariff at the conclusion of the conference is interesting. The following is taken from the accurate New York Times, itself a host in the army of low tariff forces:

"It seems from this exposition of the group's plans that Senator Borah and his associates intend to assist themselves through a concerted effort to make the regular party leaders concede the right of that part of the country west of the Mississippi to obtain legislation helpful to its interests. In this connection the agricultural problem was emphasized in the formal statement and to that Senator Borah added orally, in response to questions by newspaper men, that the western group would seek through the Tariff Commission's operations higher rates of duty upon a dozen or more products of the farm.

"The Tariff Commission now has before it petitions for raising the duties on the products which the western group desires to see obtain more protection. It is contended by the group that these products come in competition with similar foreign products which are able to undersell the American products in the American market. The list of these products, as outlined today, includes flaxseed, milk and cream, peanuts, soy beans, cottonseed, onions, eggs and egg products, cherries, fresh tomatoes, canned tomatoes and corn.

"Under the flexible provisions of the tariff law, the President has authority, after investigation by the Tariff Com-

Is It Well With The Lad?

By DR. G. R. MENTE.

I firmly believe we must keep the lad on his own level. Home once more must become the schoolroom, before he starts out to mingle with his fellows in the public school, the Sunday School and church; family worship, so sadly neglected in this age of commercialism, will add to solve the problem of the lad, for it will make impressions calculated to bring the youthful mind in touch with the infinite. To point the inquiring soul of our boys to the great light of eternal truth, kindled by religious teaching, will awaken a desire to explore the mysteries of the same; I do not refer to the kind of teaching which was the product of fanatical minds of yesterday, that is obsolete in the 20th century, but the kind that teaches the lessons emanating from the man of Galilee, who in his sweet, yet convincing way, taught mankind how to practice and be benefited by the Golden Rule. Let me assure you that study of the boy problem has been a revelation to me. In all its radiant beauty and its realities, its grand promises of future perfection, will be a fleeting cloud, a passing shadow, a cold, soulless thing to the boy if bound down by the past and formal letter of the law of past ages! The lad, remembering that he has a soul as well as a guidebook, for with such a one to show the warm tints of the pictures of real clean and moral living will awaken the passionate desire of the lad to know the way to life's solution, and the lessons taught become real, they live. We who were lads not long ago, for what is three score and ten in reckoning with eternity, will remember our anxiety to imitate our fathers, hence only high moral attitudes should be our places of abode, for the lad loves to imitate those whom he admires and worships as heroes. Did you ever read the story of the lad who received from a friend a present of two pet bantam hens? They were beauties, but the small eggs laid by them disgusted the lad, so taking an ostrich egg from a neighbor, fastening it on the nest of his pets, he wrote this message on a sheet of paper: "Look at this and do your best!" The lad reaches out for the big and heroic things of life, he despises the small and insignificant things along the common highway of every day's journey. I took a walk at eventide, alone, along the seashore, alone with mission, to raise or lower the duties on these products 50 per cent."

Evidently somebody was stringing the free traders a few months ago in telling them what the farmers wanted. Or maybe the wish was father to the thought.

the moaning waves, sad and melancholy thoughts were mine, little enthusiasms for me in the solitude, the sad whispers of the waves were meaningless. I returned home, discouraged, lonely and sad.

Again I wandered along the shore, but this time sympathetic footsteps press the beach with me, and the voice of the sea became eloquent. It is well with the lad! Oh! For sympathy to be remembered upon the lad so little understood, with his billows of passion, and desires ungratified. The successful business man who gathers rich experiences along life's journey and suddenly locks them up in his selfish breast, is not calculated to curb the will nor smother the fires of youthful exuberance; as a model, as a guide, as a teacher, he is a misfit.

Give me the fellow who plucks flowers with his heart as well as his hands and throws the sweet fragrance of their perfume over the life of the lad, and life's problems will become easier of solution.

You and I, teachers of the lad of the present age may grow old and hoary, for such is the destiny of all flesh, but let us be in constant prayerful attitude toward the infinite God, that we may never lose interest in the welfare of the lad, remembering that he is knocking at the door for recognition; that lad may ask questions, seemingly meaningless, do not disappoint him; he may ask because he wishes to learn, he may do so because he has nothing else to do, and how to acquaint ourselves properly calls for wisdom.

THEY'RE NOT ALL DIRTY

Dr. William Lyon Phelps of Yale University has said that when historians tell the story of our age they must of necessity refer to it as an era of "dirt." He cites "dirt" in politics, "dirt" even in religious controversy, "dirt" on the stage and finally "dirt" in the newspapers. By "dirt" in the newspapers Dr. Phelps refers particularly to the details, sordid details, many newspapers print regarding divorce and murder trials.

Newspapers long ago ceased to be philanthropic enterprises. They are organs of business. Many papers found their existence threatened by the flaming tabloids and the desire of the bulk of readers in certain sections for that type of reading matter. Many newspapers followed suit. But we say "many" newspapers, not all. If Dr. Phelps were to revise his statement today regarding the newspapers he would find that the vast majority of them are clean, so clean that any man can read them aloud before his family unabashed. The great number of newspapers are judged too often by a few—Manchester (Conn.) Evening News.
