

Go-to-Church Campaign To Begin Sunday

Non-Church Goers Will Be Urged to Attend During Month of March.

At a meeting of the Plymouth Ministers' Association on Tuesday plans for the 1927-28 Church Campaign were discussed and further worked out. It was decided to eliminate all contest features. No figures will be published that will bring out any comparison between the attendance at the different congregations. The purpose of the campaign is twofold.

First, in direct attention to the matter of church attendance. By asking people to participate in this campaign many may receive their first invitation to attend church services. Setting aside a month for this special effort may keep them from postponing their regular attendance.

Second, a further purpose is to get an accurate record for one month of the total church attendance. Our population is approximately 1800. What proportion of these attend church services? Making a large allowance for baptisms and outside memberships there should still be an average of 500 men, women and children connected with each church, and this does not count those from the surrounding territory who attend church in Plymouth. Help us learn the facts.

SHILOH CITIZENS HOLD ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

Organization of Chamber of Commerce Completed Friday Night When Roll Reaches Total of 30.

Mr. S. N. Vaughn, secretary of Mansfield Chamber of Commerce addressed the citizens meeting at the school auditorium on Friday evening, outlining the results attained by business groups of various types, with the different methods of work. A large representative membership, sufficient finances, and a determined persistent effort to work for improvements needed by the community are necessary to succeed.

A vote taken as to improvements needed in the community served to confirm the results of a previous vote taken at the former meeting on Feb. 1, showing the need of good roads, and many other improvements.

A Chamber of Commerce is a strictly democratic organization and every member upon joining is required to indicate the needs of the community as he sees them. It was the vote of the meeting that Shiloh Chamber of Commerce be organized and be in line to work with both the State and National Chamber of Commerce. If no error was made every one who was not previously a member attending the session joined the organization or 17 in all, these with the 13 members received on February 1st, at our own meeting with no outside speaker, brings the membership to 30.

It was the sense of the gathering that $1.00 per year be the money membership dues, but that loyalty, co-operation and sticking to the work will reward much more necessary and valuable than the $1.00. Officers selected for the year ending March 1st, 1928, are R. R. Howard, president; J. L. McQuate, vice president; H. W. Huddleston, secretary-treasurer; Directors, George W. Page, A. J. Willett, J. B. Zeigler, Norris Gilger, F. C. Dawson and C. D. Nelson.

FIRE PREVENTED AT MCQUATE'S GROCERY

SHILOH—When the east side barber, Mr. Miller was returning home Friday evening he noticed an unusual light in the McQuate grocery store and upon investigation saw a small blaze on the floor. Hastily summoning help and with the assistance of L. L. McQuate the door was opened and the fire extinguished although it would only have had a short time for Shiloh to have had a disastrous fire. It was supposed a coal fell from the fire which he had banked for the night, and left the door open.

"The Music Master" Revives Lost Art of Making Coiffures

Twenty years ago, when the stage production of "The Music Master" opened in New York, Mrs. Z. Gorfain, then one of the best known hair dressers in the city, went to see it with the man who later became her husband. "In fact," says Mrs. Gorfain, "it was one that night he asked me to marry him. And perhaps that's why I remember so well that the hat I wore was so very, like the hat that Miss Moran now wears in the screen version of the play, and that my hair was done in the same high pompadour that I had made for her."

This great drama on which Warfield rode to fame will have an appearance at the Castamba theatre, Shelby, next Tuesday and Wednesday.

LATEST ZANE GREY ROMANCE DUE AT TEMPLE

Zane Grey's genius for story telling and Paramount's superior skill in picturing his colorful tales of the old West in all their gripping realism find celluloid expression in a new melodramatic thriller with the unusual title of "Forlorn River."

This is the very latest of Mr. Grey's adventurous tales and recently appeared serially in "The Ladies' Home Journal." The picture opens at the Temple theatre, Willard, next Friday and Saturday.

"Forlorn River" deals with a band of cattle rustlers who were the terror of the northwest cattle country when that section of the West was America's last frontier. Around this exciting clash between the desperadoes and the honest ranchers, the author has woven a dramatic romance that has an unexpected twist.

"Film fans, who have come to expect certain things in a Zane Grey photoplay, will find them in overflowing measure in this new opus. There is an abundance of hair-trigger action, stunt riding and gunfights. In addition to an assortment of typical western thrills.

When the Cat's Away— Then the Mice Will Play

When the cat's away, the mice will play and when sister's gone, watch kid sister steal her sweetheart. At least, that's what happens in Frank Tuttle's current Paramount production, "Love 'em and Leave 'em," which arrives at the Temple theatre, Willard Sunday. Walsh, after turning down Bill Billingsley's proposal because she feels that he doesn't make enough money to support a wife, goes off to the country for a vacation. However, sunny days and moonlit nights are lonely without good old Bill, so she treks back to town. But—Bill isn't as good as he seemed, neither is he old. And on Mame's return, she finds that he has laid his hand and heart at the feet of her flighty little thirty sister. Janie has him tied to her finger and is making him jump through hoops. Mame, disgusted at their fakeness, decides to adopt Janie's slogan as her own, and she publicly announces her intention to "Love 'em and Leave 'em."

Copenhagen, Denmark

Many times I have been asked by American friends how I manage the languages in the various foreign countries through which I travel. My knowledge of foreign languages is limited, but any person who has a pretty fair knowledge of English can get along with the foreign language well enough to mingle with the people without much difficulty. English is spoken by hotel, railroad and department store employees. Head porters in large city hotels speak many languages. The head porter is a walking encyclopedia and it is to him that the guest carries his troubles. It is the man who practically runs the hotel. The proprietor lives the life of a hermit and clerks are seldom seen. The heads of departments in the cities speak English, and English is taught in the high schools. In small towns and large cities children speak English with fluency. A railway conductor probably speaks a half dozen languages. In the smaller towns the older people do not speak English. Occasionally you meet with a native Danish is a hard language. I was a guest a few days ago at a hotel in a small town of 4000 population. I was a single employee in the hotel could speak a word of English. I ordered my meals by pointing out the items on the menu. I gave the waiter my signs. I had an evening on my hands which I wanted to fill at a moving picture theatre. The waiter signs at my command and all the words in my vocabulary to make the porter understand my wishes. He shake his head discouragingly. "Move," "camera," "cinema," "cinematograph" and so on, but the poor fellow in his distress would shake his head, shrug his shoulders and throw up his hands in despair. "Rudolph Valentino!" I shouted in my own despair. Instantly his brows changed to smiles, his arms waved as a sign of approval and calling a helper he directed him to pilot me to the moving picture theatre. In the name of this idol of the screen I had found a universal language.

The Small Town Movie

Pictures and playhouses reflect the spirit and temper of a nation. Like a mirror reflects the rays of a morning sun. The moving picture industry is the high school of the nation. A large percent of the screen's celebrities live in America and America makes 75 percent of the pictures used in the world. The only foreign made pictures worth while are those with a historical background and the others are dull, listless and lacking in thrill, kick or punch. I covered Europe in 1923, and between Germany and France still ran high. This spirit was intensified in the movie theatres and playhouses in a Germany pictures and operas lampooned Germany. A few weeks later I crossed over to France. Here I found pictures and operas lampooning the German. In both countries the applause at the climax would almost lift the roof. But back to the small town movie in Denmark which is a type of the average movie theatre in Europe. It is a small building with an awkward interior. The un cushioned seats are hard and uncomfortable. The reserved or higher priced seats run from the rear to the front of the room. There are no ushers. The patrons are honest and would not think of buying a cheap ticket and occupying a high priced seat. Neither men nor women remove their hats. The children chatter and the audience talk with impunity in stage whisps. A reel an hour long will have three or four ten-minute intermissions. Doors are thrown open and half the audience melts away to the nearby sidewalk bars. The audience reasonably and nervous system reacts to the clang of a gong with the violence of an electric shock (the lights are lowered) and fifteen minutes more of picture is reeled across the screen. The American picture loses interest. The picture run to the tragic. The inevitable marriage comes in the middle and at the end we have either death or divorce. It is dull and listless. The American has been trained to the hour and a half or two-hour picture without a pause. His nerves are kept at high tension and the story grips him as it is unfolded on the screen with a degree of subtlety. A momentary pause is irritating. Perhaps that is why the American is a bundle of nerves. There is only one show in the little Danish theatre. At 10 o'clock the crowd files out chattering gaily, breaks into pairs or groups and in a few minutes the streets are deserted. It is at this hour the American town is just beginning to wake up.

Turning Milk into Money
The portly, rosy-cheeked Michael Jensen emerged from the doorway of a pretty slate-roofed red-brick hangar at the 19th century town in which I was riding stopped in front of the co-operative creamery of which Mr. Jensen is superintendent. Denmark has 1700 of these creameries. Mr. Jensen had been making milk tests in his laboratory and was drying his hands on a huge apron still tied about his waist as he advanced with the eagerness of a schoolboy to extend the cordial welcome that was renewed in his beaming countenance and mild brown eyes. As we entered the home the warms of welcome were renewed by the other members of Mr. Jensen's interesting family. We gathered around the polished mahogany dining table, where, following the national custom, beer was served. Followed by heavy black cigars. Mr. Jensen is a farm bred. After talking the required four years' practical training on the farm he entered the district agricultural college and took a direct course in dairying. The 23-year-old man has a car creamery, a neighborhood farmers'. We built our creamery 10 years ago on 5 per cent notes discounted by the banker. In 10 years our earnings paid up the notes and we attached them to the farmers. Every year since then we have made improvements, paid a 10 per cent dividend and have a substantial balance in the bank." This is the history of all the creameries in Denmark. Mr. Jensen's creamery serves a four-mile radius and has an annual output of 3250,000. The creamery collects the milk, removes the butter and returns the skim milk which is fed to the hogs. Salaries are fixed for the creamery men; cheese, until they discovered there was no profit in it. The farmer dropped it like a hot butter.

How Butter Tests are Made

At Aarhus, a city of 75,000 is located the butter factory that serves the 17 creameries in Mr. Jensen's district. Once a month the directors meet at Aarhus and make butter tests. The tests are made systematically and scientifically. A butter test was to be made the following day and the points on color, moisture, etc., where I was introduced to a group of directors who might have been taken for bankers or railroad executives. They were men of a high degree of intelligence. They were paid only a small fee. The tests were made in two groups. An employee drove an inch tube to the bottom of each can and drew it out filled with butter. Each director clipped off a small particle of butter with an ivory paddle, allowed it in his mouth and spat it out. The points on color, moisture, etc., ran from 1 to 15. Seven points was the dead line and butter falling below seven points was rejected. This particular test the lowest score was 11 1/2 points. That, I am told, is the lowest score in the world. Each can is given two tests—one test each by the two groups. Butter that tests seven points and above is given the "Lamb Brand" trademark—a symbol of purity and excellence the world over. The "Lamb" is an S shaped mark used by the Viking kings 1000 years ago. The penalty for falling below the 7 percent dead line is loss of the right to use the trademark. Following the tests the directors have a luncheon followed by the usual beer and cigars where for two hours everything important is discussed. The lunch ones are strictly social.

Dividends in Taxes

It sounds paradoxical to speak of a system that returns a dividend to the taxpayer, but Denmark's economic affairs are so finely adjusted that the taxpayer feels that he is receiving a direct dividend from every dollar of tax he pays. This statement is somewhat straining but nevertheless it is true. The reader who has followed the articles may have reached the conclusion that Denmark is heavily taxed to maintain so many agricultural colleges, and university professors, plant breeding, soil testing and experiment stations, animal husbandry, etc. merely as an agricultural. That is true. Out of every dollar of income the Dane is paying 25% to his government, but he does not complain. One big city taxpayer with whom I talked does not own a car, but he pays his tax money as an investment that returns handsome dividends.

"Wearing Out My Welcome"

But I have lingered too long in Denmark and I fear I am wearing out not only my welcome, but my readers. I have found small town and rural life in this little nation so appealing that I could remain here a year to admire the Majesty on which I have looked return passage to America leave in a few days and in the next letter we will make a hurried trip through Germany and France and then take the ship home. My air line ticket is from here to the principal cities in Europe. Four huge planes with a capacity of 15 passengers, each leave and arrive in Copenhagen every day. They run on the schedule of a limited express train. A passenger has not been scratched in the five years the line has been in operation. It is 36 hours by a fast express train from here to Paris. Through the air it is only nine hours. Europe is honey-combed with air lines and at any hour of the day you may look up and see a huge passenger-carrying plane roaring through the air at traffic speed. The air rates are one-third of the rail rates. Many Americans are using the air routes.

"Jim The Conqueror" New Kyne Film Hit

That delightful romancer, Peter B. Kyne, seems to have a particular penchant for writing stories that register effectively on the screen. The photoplay based on a Kyne story, "Jim the Conqueror," which will be at the Shelby Opera House Friday maintains the record of screen successes. "Jim the Conqueror" is a melodrama of modern ranching and modern romance. It starts in Italy and continues on the great American plains, with William Boyd in the role of a hard-fighting, fast-shooting conqueror of hearts and tamer of bad cattlemen of the west. The crux of the drama is a battle for land and water rights—a never-ending feud between the shepherds and cattlemen of the barren plains. "Lovely Elinor Fair" is the girl in the case. She is good to look at and scores is a sympathetic part.

Bathing Girl Once, Now a Famous Star

Marie Prevost did a great deal of "figuring" before eventually reaching stardom in the pictures.

She received her start with Mack Sennett as one of his bathing beauties several years ago. After serving an apprenticeship with the famous comedy producer as an inducement for the "fired" business man to give some thought to the seaside, she graduated to comedy hits.

Her climb was steady from then on, for her versatility attracting the attention of the larger producers. She signed a long term contract with Metropolitan Pictures Corporation. Her new starring vehicle, "For Wives Only," adapted for the screen from the great continental success "The Critical Year," by Rudolph Lothar and Hans Sachwitz will be the big feature at the Shelby Opera House Sunday.

Numbers and Values Prove Interesting to French Class

Learning to count in French has taken up much of the valuable time of the Juniors. All week they have been deeply engrossed in the work; and for three days they tried to compare the value of French money in American dollars and cents.

Shakespeare Popular

Shakespeare and his works have been a topic for conversation the last week among the Freshmen and Sophomores, for both are studying his plays.

The Freshmen are reading "Merchant of Venice." It is rather doubtful as to whether they really enjoy it or not, but we are certain that they shall like it better, when they near the end. We, as experienced sufferers, give the Freshmen the encouragement.

Faulty Elimination

Should Be Corrected—Good Elimination is Essential to Good Health.

If you would be well, see to your elimination. Faulty kidney action permits toxic material to remain in the blood and upset the whole system. Then, one is apt to have a tired, languid feeling and, sometimes, a toxic headache or headache, and often some irregularity of sections, such as scanty or burning passages. Boys Decide 28-5 Victory; Girls Tie

Last Wednesday evening the girls' basketball team of the Central M. E. church of Mansfield was on exhibition at Hamilton Hall when they contested with the girls of P. H. S. Both teams fought valiantly but each was unable to surpass the other. Action at the 3rd quarter was slow for both, and only a weak rally was made in the 4th. At the end of the game the score stood 18-18. Since the girls do not play overtime they were not permitted to play until one side should prove themselves the winners. Although the girls were disappointed at the loss of a victory they were glad that they were able to hold their opponents to a tie. Becker starred for the Plymouth team scoring twelve points.

In the final contest the boys took an easy victory from Weller. Both teams played hard but the Plymouth boys showed their superiority by outclassing them at every point and finished the game with a 28-8 score.

We are proud to say that although our team started out poorly at the first of the year, they have greatly improved and have the makings of a winning team for the next season.

Our Weekly Sermonette

(By Dr. G. R. Mente)

What is Man That Thou Art Mindful of Him. Pam. 8:4-5.
This is a vital question and can not be solved by any statistical reports, because the dual existence of man enters into this problem. When God created man in his own image, placing within him the breath of life, which made man a living soul, God made it very plain that there was not only the man of flesh and blood, but the spiritual being which holds the secrets of life, within its grasp. It is this spiritual part which constructs laws, devises way and means where-

At the program all the members of the red and white sides will have a part. The programs will consist of short stories, declamation, orations, impersonations, music and sketches.
Each of these sides have elected a captain, and their work will be to stir up enthusiasm in their group.

THIRD GRADE NEWS

The first, second and third grades are giving an entertainment in Hamilton Hall, Thursday evening, February 24. The former plans to present a play entitled, "The Making of America." It is a sketch of American life from the founding of America up to the present time. All of the third and the four B grades are in this one play and it is to be given in appropriate costume.

by man shall eventually reach a state of superiority over all animal creation. In the words of our text God atcheson—With a living man, his creature. Do you ask why? Let it suffice to know that man seeks to enter into the hidden mysteries of the universe; discerns the way and course of nature; hence he is glorified in these efforts to prove himself worthy of his creation.

Man is being glorified because he desires to live upon a higher plane than his ancestry did, had this desire not been implanted in his soul, he would still be in the primitive state of the cave dweller.

What would this world offer to you and me, were it not for the ever increasing desire for knowledge; what would this world amount to, if invention and science should recede into the dark past?
Thus I firmly believe the Almighty Creator glorified man by granting him the power to observe and the desire to improve his own and the condition of his fellow man. True it has taken millenniums to unravel the mysteries and penetrate the spiritual gloom which no doubt was hanging over the world, but this desire for knowledge has assisted science and discovery to throw off the mantle of spiritual darkness.

Hence I can readily understand why the psalmist speaks of the glorification of man, by referring not to the physical but spiritual part, which drives man on to find a solution for life's problems.

We are confident that the elevation of man is ever due to the mind, the coordination which to the divine spiritualities every good deed and brings him in touch with God.
We are entering upon the golden age, as we realize more and more the saying of the great teacher, when he tells us that it does not yet appear what we shall be, and that even greater things shall we do than he performed after He has gone to the Father; we are grasping more and more into the likeness as the days of our pilgrimage bring us nearer the goal.

Basket Ball In Which P.H.S. Wins and Loses

Last Friday night the basketballers of P. H. S. and many of the fans which follow these teams journeyed to the small town of Madison, where they competed with the quintets of that village.
In the preliminary contest the P. H. S. girls easily outplayed and outpointed their opponents. At the final while the score stood 18-14. Coach Fox and her team seemed quite pleased as this was the second victory over Madison for one season.

The final contest consisted of a struggle between the two boys teams. After having defeated Madison earlier in the season the local boys were back for another victory. They were not quite successful in overcoming the team that the Madison boys had filled up early in the game and were forced to go down to defeat. Their own floor would have told a different tale. Final score 16-11 against them. The game was rather loosely played by both contestants.

CASUALTY LIST

Bill Caldwell sprained his ankle in the Plymouth-Lucas basketball contest. Our sympathy is with Bill because he has had much trouble with his ankle. However, it does not keep him from playing, for he was right there missing it up in the Weller game.
Morley Stork seems to have trouble keeping his fingers straight, especially the smallest one on his left hand. He is either afraid of losing it or that it will grow out of place. Anyway, he keeps it tied up with the next one.
Just Backus created much excitement when he came to school with a large bandage on his hand. Demand for an explanation we learned that he accidentally scratched his finger on a pin during basketball practice.
Although Morley is unharmed, it seems that he must have at least had a close shave or an awful shock for he has been unable to make his hair stay down. It just will stand on end.
The front door of the school must have received an awful jolt for the door-knob is missing. Perhaps someone left it in a hurry and took it with them.
Wade Lehold sprained his wrist pulling screws out of the lab chairs.

Why do pupils have to study at home when supposed to have study period at school? Why are children rushed from school rooms to outdoors for fire drill without wraps on? Why do teachers subject pupils to drafts from windows? Why are pupils supposed to contribute to health funds? Also other funds? Why do teachers take recitation and not teach? Why do parents send their children to school? Why no daily calisthenics in all rooms? Why not do away with the unnecessary and do the necessary? MT HOPE LUTHERAN CHURCH
Lehr A. McCord, Pastor

Quinquagesima Sunday, Feb. 27. 10:00 a. m. Sunday school. R. O. Howard, Supr. The Sunday school of Shiloh have a task to perform. Whether they are progressing to the accomplishment of that task depends to a large extent on the support that you are giving. An average Sunday morning finds about 30 per cent of the residents of Shiloh in church. Would the other 70 per cent want it said that they consider it desirable that the community in which they live should be just 30 per cent of the kind of a community it ought to be? But the absence of 70 per cent of the people from the services of the church on Sunday is fair evidence of their attitude without furthering expression. Why not manifest some of the community spirit we feel so much in need of by filling the two churches every Sunday? Then watch the level of Community spirit and pride go up! Let's go. Why not have everybody in church movement from now till Easter?

11:00 a. m. Morning worship with sermon: "The Church's Responsibility to its Young People." Sunday is the day of prayer for colleges. In its observance the pastor has a message to the parents of young people both for present problems right in Shiloh, 6:30 p. m. Young Peoples' Service at the M. E. church. Come old and young and join in this service.

7:30 p. m. Community evening service with sermon by Rev. Deffenbers "What Do You Believe and Why?" Some people say creeds are man-made fairs, others say they are obsolete. What do you think? Bring your questions. Be ready to sing heartily, enter into the service.

The evening services of March 6 & 13 will be at the M. E. church in charge of Rev. McBroome, from then till Easter, at the Lutheran church.

"... because the Oakland Six is built to a degree of precision previously unknown in cars of its price"

You need not make any extended comparisons to understand why the Greater Oakland Six is so emphatically preferred by those who demand of their cars unusually long life and reliability.

The answer lies in the fundamental principle of Oakland construction—because the Oakland Six is built to a degree of precision previously unknown in cars of its price!

True, Oakland provides unexcelled beauty and style by the use of Flashes

1095 Bodies; and an extraordinary agility, smoothness and silence by employing such advanced features as the exclusive Rubber Silenced Chassis and the Harmonic Balancer.

But by working to limits that once typified the hand-built car, Oakland achieves a resistance to wear and road shock that borders on the unbelievable.

You need only talk to veteran Oakland owners to understand why the trend of fine car buying is swinging so strongly to the Greater Oakland Six.

Oakland Six, $1025 to $1295. Bodies by Fisher. All prices at factory. Easy to pay on the General Motors Time Payment Plan.

God's Most Neglected People

ONLY TWENTY CENTS PER DAY IS PAID FOR FOOD FOR AVERAGE INSANE PATIENT IN OHIO

Editor's Note—This is the sixth of a series of articles that will appear each week in this newspaper dealing with Ohio's problem of increasing insanity, the Ohio Association for the Welfare of the Mentally Sick, which has but one objective, namely, more scientific and more humane treatment of mentally sick patients in state hospitals and the rapid rehabilitation of these unfortunate.

Can you appreciate what it would mean if some loved one of yours should become mentally sick and it should become necessary to send him to a hospital and be placed under the care of a $35 to $45 a month unskilled, untrained attendant? It is not humanly possible to obtain the high-grade type nursing service that the mentally sick are entitled to for the small wage that is paid.

Food is another item entering into per capita cost price. To have a low per capita cost price the food must be low in both quality and quantity. The average paid out for food per day per patient in the states investigated follows: California, 15c; Michigan, 20c; Pennsylvania, 17c; New York, 24c; Massachusetts, 17c; Colorado, 16c; Indiana, 14c; New Jersey, 28c. Ohio will run under 20c per day per patient.

More For Prisoners
A recent article appeared in the newspapers stating that the jail at Cleveland is permitted 45c a day for ordinary prisoners and 60c per day for federal prisoners.

If you will divide the amount allowed each day by three, you will then get the amount of money that is paid for each meal. Why should the mentally sick be thus starved? They are victims of a system that holds the cost price per day as the most important thing in the management of our state institutions.

Maintenance Charges
There are other items entering into per capita cost price, among them general maintenance, which ranks as follows: California, 14c; Michigan, 21c; Pennsylvania, 43c; Massachusetts, 24c; New York, 35c; Colorado, 15c; Indiana, 11c; New Jersey, 21c.

This includes clothes, general plant equipment and taking into consideration any new projects.

Another item is that of fuel, light and water supply, on which we have the following figures: California, 4c; Michigan, 6c; Pennsylvania, 7c; Massachusetts, 7c; New York, 10c; Colorado, 5c; Indiana, 6c; New Jersey, 7c. The development of our state institutions for the care of the mentally sick in the last 65 years has revolved itself into an economic cost price problem, with small regard for the welfare and rehabilitation of those for whom these institutions were created—the mentally sick.

The names of these institutions have been changed to "hospitals," but that is the only change. Their personnel and their equipment from one year to the other is simply the per capita cost of the equipment of a large jail or poorhouse.

Letter from Columbus

By Chas. W. Rife
The matter of caring for Ohio's large population of convicted criminals is becoming most acute, and while many suggestions have been made for solving the problem, none of them seems to meet with approval. The Ohio penitentiary is entirely too small to care for its prisoners. The London prison farm is being developed as fast as it is possible with the limited appropriations, and more than 500 me are located there. Others are at Junction City, and still others at Roseville, the two state owned brick plants. Yet in spite of this "farming out" of the men the old prison on Spring Street has its sides bulging out with the overflow population. Many of the small cells are occupied by two men, while the halls and corridors are filled with beds and coats. The idle house is running over, and Warden Thomas is considering a double shift there. Half the men sleep in the daytime and set up all night, and the other half sit up all day and sleep at nights. Legislators have a big problem on their hands in finding room for the prisoners being sentenced to a state penal institution.

The Ohio department of agriculture, and representatives of the University of Pennsylvania, the University of Missouri, Cornell University and the U. S. Army will appear on the program.

The Ohio legislature isn't the fertile field for lobbyists it was two years ago one would judge by the few registered. Only 65 have registered with the secretary of state this year as compared with 155 two years ago. Those interested in legislation seem to have come to a realization that employing lobbyists is a good deal like throwing money away, and that the best way to accomplish an end is not to have workers too prominent in public view, but rather work through channels of political leadership. It may be more expensive, but experience has proven it more direct and positive in its results.

Now the Armhole Is Getting in Deep

But it is not "in deep" with the lady who wears it for this new semi-dolman sleeve is very popular—particularly with the woman who likes things in moderation. This dolman may be developed entirely in velvet, with a soft jabot of lace reaching from shoulder to hem. The velvet, of course, must be soft and lightweight. If preferred, crepe mester, Canton crepe, crepe fallis or crepe de Chine may be used with a jabot of Georgette in the same or a harmonizing shade. The front of the skirt is slightly flared, but the back remained straight.

There's No Better Buy-

Gives More Real Value Than Any Other Car Made---

More Mileage
The gas consumption on the new Ford Car is lower than ever before. This is due to a new and improved device which thoroughly transforms the raw gasoline into a high explosive nature before entering into the cylinder chambers. Tests over the country show that records have been made as high as 57 miles per gallon.

Low Up-Keep
When buying a car the wise shopper will inquire as to the "upkeep." Here again the Ford ranks first in low upkeep costs. The simplicity of the engine and other mechanism makes it so simple that the man who barely understands machinery can soon learn to make minor adjustments. The upkeep is ONE thing to figure when buying a car.

It is said on good authority that Myers V. Cooper, defeated for Governor last year by the voters of the state, is getting ready to run again next year. His friends have been active during the legislature but so far, according to best reports, haven't been able to accomplish much. Cooper is a millionaire, and while the last campaign cost his oodles of greenbacks, he likes the game and his entry in the contest next year may show that he has developed into a more successful politician than he did in his first attempt. Harry L. Davis, former governor is said to be favorable to Cooper trying it again. If his support means anything.

It has been many years since business men in this general of Ohio have enjoyed such prosperity at the present time, according to Claude Meeker, Columbus financier, and for more than a score of years dealer in stocks and bonds. "The state has been pretty well cleaned up of wild cat issues," Mr. Meeker said adding, "there are so many good investments now being offered which yield with perfect safety such a splendid return that millions of dollars are now being invested in these stocks. Investments of farmers, small town and village business men in these stocks is yielding a return of such proportions that many are able to live on the dividends paid them each month. The stocks in greatest demand are those which pay their dividends monthly, the money coming in like rent, while the investor has no worry over up-keep, insurance and taxes." In the opinion of Mr. Meeker the present wave of prosperity is due to extend over many years.

NOBIL'S Bargain STORE

BUYING HIGHS WASTE HIGH QUALITY TIMBER

Build poultry, milk feed, and hog houses out of short lumber when possible. It can be bought 15 to 35 per cent cheaper than long lengths. According to B. M. Stahl, specialist in farm buildings at the Ohio State University, farmers are wasting millions of dollars every year by cutting a long board in two, when two short ones would answer. Boards less than eight feet long have a reduced value because it is habit to specify long pieces in buying.

The original bill for a poultry house 20 feet wide and 80 feet long specified all long lumber. It was possible to use short lumber in half the places according to a second specification made by the United States Department of Commerce. In lumber specifications for a four house, 22 feet wide and 42 feet long the department substituted short length lumber for one-fifth of the order.

There is waste every time a long board is cut to patch a gate or a fence. Last year 20 percent of the soft wood lumber in the country was lost in the scrap pile. Short pieces, Mr. Stahl points out, are as inevitable in the saw mill as are savings and sawdust. Using them is one way of conserving the rapidly diminishing reserves in the country's forests.

Local Scouts at Norwalk Meet

The regional director, Miss Ray Mitchell visited Norwalk Monday and Tuesday of this week. Monday afternoon a conference was held at the home of Mrs. Simmons, captain of the Norwalk troop, when captains from New London, Plymouth and Norwalk were present.

On Tuesday afternoon a public meeting was held at the First Presbyterian church at Norwalk. Twenty-two scouts from Plymouth attended and cars were provided and driven by Mrs. Nye, Mrs. Dr. Holtz, Mr. M. Bachrach. The troop is also indebted to Mrs. Percy Root, who was unable to attend herself, but who provided a car and to Mrs. John Fleming, who also hired a car for the use of the girls. We started at 1 o'clock with five cars full of girls and the captain, with Mrs. Seiler bringing up in the rear with three more girls. Mrs. Roy Hatch also drove down, taking her mother and her daughter Doris.

We arrived at Norwalk shortly after two o'clock and assembled in the parlors of the church. Miss Mitchell gave a very interesting talk on scouting, and after that second class badges were presented to the Norwalk girls and to Eloise Shaver, Ruth Root and Jane Bachrach of Plymouth.

Merit badges were presented Rosemary Bachrach, Eloise Shaver and Jane Bachrach, and the following girls of Plymouth troop received the tenderfoot pin, which is the first step in scouting: Helen Colver, Ruth St. Clair, Edna Anderson, Phyllis Kennedy, Helen Williamson, and Zella Rockman. Louise Ross was prevented by illness from attending the meeting, but was one of the girls who had passed the tenderfoot test.

A half hour of songs followed, composed of nonsense songs, rhythmic melodies used by the scouts, and was enjoyed by all. At 4:45 the meeting closed and the Norwalk scouts said goodbye to their new found sisters promising to meet with them again in the near future.

"Pete" Lofland Star of Fast Game Here Thursday Night; Score 39-21.

The victors on the local floor from Bloomville met defeat from the Russel and Reynolds Ford Basket Ball team last Thursday evening to the tune of 39-21. The game was not considered as the score would seem to indicate. Bloomville played a good passing game but was unable to locate the basket. According to reports some of their basket experts were unable to play.

The first half was marked by close guarding on both sides with a score of 9 to 7 at the end of the half. Only two fouls were called in this half, one for each side. The whole game was remarkable for lack of roughness. The referee stated that this was the cleanest game he had worked this year.

Point getters for Plymouth were "Pete" Lofland who tallied them in from under the basket and lopped some longer ones for a total of 20 points and "Beck" Becker who slipped them in from all angles making 13 points in the second half.

RECOVERING FROM SHOCK AND BURNS

W. S. Miller of Lisbon, Ohio, is recovering in the Community Hospital, Willard, from injuries and shock received when 2300 volts of current passed through his body as an electric light wire became short-circuited with a phone line which he was holding. He was one of a crew stringing phone lines along Woodland avenue. In pulling the line across the city electric line the insulation on wires of the latter is said to have worn thru, causing a "short." Miller received the full load. He is employed by the local telephone company.

HERE 'N THERE

Karl Webber states that he saw a robin Wednesday morning. Mr. Webber says that while it may be a good sign of spring he is very skeptical as to the outcome of the present, pleasant weather of the past few days.

In the country you go to bed tired and wake up feeling fine, while in the city you go to bed feeling fine and wake up feeling bad. That's the difference between the country and city, so says Mr. George Schriener. He goes on to point out that Plymouth is neither country or city, and gives this as the reason for so many people feeling indifferent.

The feeling of patriotism is gradually dying out. At a recent showing of a news-reel in a Cleveland theatre not a hand-clap or murmur was made when the film showed a detachment of marines embarking for service in China. Not a hand-clap was heard when the American flag was displayed. And the audience was at most American.

We received a copy of the new traffic rules today. Here they are:

let the man behind use his imagination. Remember the twelve-millionth Ford is in the ditch.
2. After parking and you wish to back out, never look behind. Let the other guy think for you. Just ram back, and see how good he is doing.
3. It is well when coming out of an alley to step on the gas. Never mind the traffic, come out boldly, with a rush. If others object, give them the icy stare.

4. Always sound your horn loudly and insistently whenever there is a traffic tie-up. If the fellow ahead refuses to run into a street, car and keep you waiting three minutes, tell him just what you think of him.
5. If the speed limit is 20 miles, slow down to 35; courtesy makes safety.

6. Never pay any attention to stop signs, especially at the junction of crowded thoroughfares. He who hesitates deametheth himself before the traffic cop and makes the undertaker listless.
7. When entering a quit zone always open your cut-out and loudly blow your horn. If others resent it, pay no attention to them. It's your honn. Six more rules next week, watch for them, copy them, and hang them up in your car. Then you will be sure of your rights.

Never strike a man when he is down. You don't know how big he might be when he gets up.

There's a man in this town—we won't tell you his name—who says he is thankful for the bobbed hair. He says it brought clean necks. But maybe the necks were clean before the fade came. The bobbed hair only proves it.

We know some children who own a pet cat. The other day they discovered a rat near the premises and the cat was called upon to do his worst. It did. It turned tail and ran, with the rat in full pursuit.

We heard an echo yesterday from "them good old days." A horse whinied. Right here in town, too!
