Hope for the purpose of making plans for what is hoped to be, the largest convention ever held in Richland County, on June 7th. Those present the superintendents of both church schools and the townships manifested much interest, and will co-operate in every way with Mr. Moan to make this meeting a real inspirational feast for township and county.

Choir to Render Cantata At New Haven Sunday

So great was the success of the Methodist cantata Sunday evening that many requests were made to have it presented at the New Haven church next Sunday evening. After consulting several members of the choir and others it has been decided to render the musical program at New Haven. The choir is under the leadership of J. L. Judson. It is interesting to know that a well known Chicago director of music commended Mr. Judson the arrangement of numbers for the cantata.

The people of New Haven and vicinity may feel assured that they will be more than repaid for effort to attend this recital.

Paragraphs

Mayor Derr says the slot machines must go. An official notice will be found in this issue to that effect. Governor Donahay flayed the practice of slot machines recently in an open letter which should cause considerable interest by the public in removing these gambling devices.

While one person may have an extra nickel or two, the other man may be dropping his earnings into the machine while his children are going hungry or half clothed.

Farmers in this vicinity are busier than ants turning under the corn stalks. Tractors and horses can be seen on all sides when traveling thru the country.

If some of the old timers could come back they wouldn't recognize the town. Practically every building on the north side of the Square is painted or will be in the near future. It certainly makes Plymouth look progressive.

And speaking of progress, we might add that only a small per centage of the home merchants are taking the advantages of the home paper. It's not a case of philanthropy—this business of advertising—it's just a case of being satisfied with your business or getting more.

Wm Woollet says that he KNOWS advertising is PAYING him. It may take a little time to show results, but they generally come.

"Life's big prizes and preferences are given to the efficient and worthy. One achieves things worthwhile—by WISDOM or CRITICISING others—but by WISDOM, WILL, WORTHINESS," so says Rev. J. W. Miller, pastor of the Presbyterian church. This talented speaker will take for his text Sunday morning, "The Worth of a Man." To those who want to improve their mind by giving it food of a spiritual nature, we suggest you attend the Sunday morning service.

From the note of enthusiasm expressed in the files of The Advertiser from time to time, there must have been at one time a great deal of ambition to organize and keep in operation a chamber of commerce. Apparently the formation of this organization was completed, but it is very evident that much laxity has waxed into the commercial body. If we could produce some of the interest and personal responsibility that existed in Plymouth a few years ago, we would gladly attempt a one hundred per cent attendance at the chamber of commerce meeting next Tuesday night. If you are open for a real tip you'll not fail to secure your ticket for this meeting.

Has Narrow Escape In Flood District

Former Greenwich Woman Tells of Thrilling Experience of Trip Through Mississippi Area.

The following interesting letter was received by Miss May Lerch from Mrs. Vern Prayner Fenton, a former Greenwich resident, enroute from Pensacola, Fla., to Rogers, Arkansas. In a Mrs. Fenton relates their thrilling and narrow escape from death when caught in the floods which have been sweeping the Mississippi Valley, and the letter reads like an interesting chapter from a novel.

Mrs. Fenton is well known in Plymouth and their many friends here are glad to know that they escaped in spite of all their encounters.

Widener, Ark., 4-17-27, 10:00 a.m. Easter Sunday.

Dear Mary May:
Will try to keep "calmed down" enough to write you a letter. I am still dazed, bewildered, unstrung, and a year seems to have passed since we left Memphis, Friday morning at 9:30, after talking with the Motor Club Officials of Memphis, and being assured the auto roads through to Little Rock were "perfectly safe." Expected to get picture postals on way out of City—and send to you, Lynn, Nimmons; Cora, of our leaving Memphis, safely routed by the AAA Motor Club But, not being acquainted with streets, we got out of City—outside of business district, and left without writing Plymouth and other friends and relatives (as we had promised to do—before leaving Memphis.)

When we left Tourist Camp, Memphis, 9:30 Friday morning, the sun was shining, skies blue and cloudless, and all seemed well.

At 10:30 a.m., we were across Mississippi River (at Memphis), and in Arkansas—in a pouring rain. Good roads, paved, on highly graded and gravelled, and the "Dodge" (still in perfect mechanical condition all the way from Gonzalez, Fla.) slipped over the highway in beautiful style. The rain increased. Dark, thunder and lightning. Soon after 11:00 a.m., we came to a lower section, some lake burst its bounds, and we were caught in the swirling, muddy waters and swept off the grade into the ditch. The Dodge tipped over, a 45 degree angle, on Charlie's side, and we expected it to be turned over completely, and we—drowned. But, miraculously, something—no one knows what held the Dodge tight. My running board was under water, but I was not in the water. Charlie was flung down to his knees, and the waters like

Ripley Citizen Dies

SHILOH, O.—John Miller, a very highly respected citizen of Greenwich, but a member of the Ripley community nearly all his life, died at his home Saturday morning, having been ill about one week, with pneumonia. He was about sixty-seven years of age and well known in this community having many friends and relatives here. Among those who attended the funeral Monday afternoon at Ripley were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seaman, Mrs. John Kinneff and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Miller. His body was laid to rest in the Edwards Grove Cemetery.

Easteride At The Presbyterian Church

The services began with an inspirational program, as a Sunday prayer meeting.

At 10 a. m. "A Message from the Southern Mountains," as a missionary program by members from the Junior Boosters club.

At 11 a. m. "The Communion Meditation," and at 12 m. the cantata, "The King Triumphant," by E. L. Bashford, as a vesper service. These services were well attended and appreciated by the large audiences.

Remains of C. H. Stevens Laid to Rest Here

Funeral services for Charles H. Stevens, former Plymouth resident, were held Monday morning at 11 o'clock at his late home in Toledo and the body brought to Plymouth for interment in the family Mausoleum, following a burial service at 3 o'clock in charge of Rev. Miller.

Mr. Stevens was manager of the Toledo Branch of the Vogel and Pinning Company of Mansfield and resided for many years in that city.

He was stricken more than a year ago; his condition had been growing more critical during the last few months and passed away Friday afternoon.

Besides his wife, he is survived by his parents, a brother and a sister, all of whom reside in Detroit, Mich.

Charles G. Miller had charge of the funeral arrangements here.

Turtle Light Is Installed

The new turtle light has been installed and is found to be a great aid in directing traffic. The red light can be seen at a safe distance and all motorists are given a warning at the intersection of the Square to keep to the right.

Marshal Burkett has reported that several local people have been paying no attention to the turtle and he asks that a request be made for them to comply with the regulations concerning turns and other traffic laws.

The only suggestion now left for traffic to be guided safely through the square is the erection of large "slow" signs at the proper distance from the square. Motorists coming into town naturally think the 25-mile limit applies to the town as a whole and do not slow down. A lot of confusion can be avoided if proper signs are erected telling them the proper speed limit in the various zones.

Parcel Property Sold Saturday

Real estate belonging to the late Wm. Parsel was sold Saturday afternoon at the auctioneer's sale, the property bringing a fair price. The homestead place on 21st street was bought by Louis Gebert at $2400. It has a 60 foot frontage and 190 feet deep, with a six room house located on it.

The Mulberry street property was bid in by Dell Parsel at $1005. The size of the lot is 70x120 with a bungalow situated on it. Mr. Parsel already occupies this home.

The sale was conducted by Judge Hissman, of Mansfield, E. K. Trauger is the administrator for the estate.

Field Day For Methodists on Sun. April 24

According to plans announced by Dr. John Taylor Akron, district superintendent of the Norwalk District, Sunday, April 24 is to be observed as home mission field day for the entire district.

The plans have been worked out in co-operation with the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension with headquarters in Philadelphia, and it is expected that most of the pulpits of the district will be occupied either in the morning or in the evening by home mission speakers designated for that purpose.

Home missionary workers from many different fields will participate and the day promises to be a memorial one for the Norwalk District. It is to be a day of education and inspiration without financial solicitation.

Large Crowd Hears Cantata

The Choir of the Methodist Church gave the Easter Cantata, "The Prince of Life," by Evan S. Foster, to a full house, Sunday night.

The composition was exceptionally well rendered, and conceded by many to be one of the best ever given in town. The different choruses showed careful training on the part of the able director, Mr. J. L. Judson. The solos by Mrs. Rank, Mrs. Lehman and Miss L'Amoureux were very effective in their own way.

Special mention might also be made of the Tenor and Alto Duet by Mr. and Mrs. Davis, the Men's Quartet and the Ladies' Quartet.

The Methodist church has an organization in this Choir of which any church might justly be proud. Mrs. Eda Phillips is organist.

This Cantata will be given at New Haven next Sunday night.

Commissioners Plan Purchase of Road Machine

Plymouth Township commissioners are planning for the purchase of a road machine of the latest improved type. The estimated cost will be approximately $3,000. The machine has been given a thorough try-out and has been found to be capable of taking care of practically every class of road work. It is said the speed of road work can be greatly increased with this type machine. Plymouth township intends to keep its roads in the best of condition and with the caterpillar tractor which was recently purchased this will give them a good outfit.

FARMER KILLED WHEN HIT BY AUTO

SHILOH, O.—Allen Pfifer, a resident of this community for many years, and almost seventy-nine years of age, was killed by being struck by an automobile as he was crossing the road in front of his home east of town. The accident happened at about 5:30 p.m. Sunday. Mr. Pfifer lived until morning, and died while being taken to the hospital in Ashland. He leaves a widow and three children. The funeral services will be held in Ashland and the remains interred at Mt. Hope cemetery.

Our Weekly Sermonette

WHAT LESSON HAVE WE LEARNED FROM EASTER
We have just now passed through another annual Easter season. We have passed through the garden with the Master. We have followed Him into the judgment hall and heard the words of Pilate: "No fault in Him; we have followed Him to Calvary and in spirit heard the dying prayer, "Father, forgive." We have been among that throng that followed the Roman cortege to the tomb, saw the funeral seal placed upon the same, the watch set, and at the dawning of the Easter, we heard the messengers proclaim "Why seek ye the living among the dead?"

What benefit has this been to us? In other words, what has the suffering and death as well as the resurrection of Jesus factored in, as called the disciples of the great Teacher? The Divine record tells us that the whole life of the son of God was not so much a life of teaching new doctrinal truths, as it was a life of service. There is no parallel in history which could even faintly compare with the services rendered humanity by the great teacher during the short pilgrimage on earth. We read in the upper room of His performing the most menial service to the disciples by washing their feet, think of it! Here is a divine being, just came from the father, ready to return to His throne in glory, all power in His hands, more royal than a king, still taking upon Himself the rather menial role of washing the feet of common sinful men. If we fail to glean from the ever recurring Easter seasons the real meaning of brotherhood, we have not yet in any true sense entered into the real life of Jesus. Jesus teaches that our highest obligation is discharged in service, and the measure of our obligation to serve is the measure of our power or our resources. Love to God and love to man will naturally inspire the spirit of service, and this service furnishes in return the best evidence of our sense of responsibility to the kingdom of God. The Apostle wrote wisely, when he said "Show me Thy faith without works, and I will show thee faith with works," which means a living faith, for a faith without works is dead! Let us ever remember that the head of our church, the Christ of Galilee, makes not creed nor profession, nor official rank in the church, the test on which individual man shall finally be approved or condemned, but service. In as much as ye did it, or did it not unto one of the least of mine, shall be the applied law. Now if we look deeply into the heart and conviction of our times, we find that no voice is clearer, no de-

SHILOH SCHOOL NEWS

One of the important social affairs of the school year was held in the school auditorium last Friday evening when the Juniors entertained the Seniors. The auditorium was beautifully decorated in class colors of both classes—blue and gold and kelly and gold. Invitations also were of the same design. Mr. Roseberry and family furnished music for the occasion. The program following the class motto of the Juniors "I Serve" included talks by faculty members, seniors and juniors. Dr. Monte and Rev. McElroy also were present. Jack Perrel, president of the Junior class was the able toastmaster of the evening.

Next Monday evening, April 25th, the monthly P. T. A. program will be held in the school auditorium. An interesting program is being prepared by the committee in charge. In connection with the program the annual school display will be shown. This will include samples of work completed during the year in both the grades and high school. Don't forget the date.

NEW HAVEN SCHOOL NEWS

The Junior Class has invited the High school to a party in Woods Friday evening. We are looking forward to another good time. More later.

The boys went to Greenwich Friday afternoon and lost in a base ball game to the Greenwich side. The score was 18 to 1. This defeat has not taken the life out of the boys, but they are sure and are working for a victory.

The Senior Class and faculty members are once again honored by invitations to the Junior-Senior banquet April 29, at the chamber of commerce rooms at Plymouth.

Several windrows have been broken this spring. We wonder what is the best cure, and what the cure will be. In a debate held some time ago in the social civics class the side arguing that the school board should pay were the winners.

Mr. Mulholland is receiving his lessons on human nature from the first and second grade. Why don't all teachers follow such an example? Then probably our ideas would not so soon be laughed at. Let's try it out.

Rev. Himes of Plymouth conducted chapel Tuesday morning. His subject was "How to Raise Brains." Rev. Himes is always welcomed to New Haven and we hope he will call again.

Fifth and Sixth Easter Sunday school attendance was 67 per cent. Monday visitors were the Misses Ruth Smith and Elsie McGinty. Spring is here. Flowers make their appearance frequently at the desk.

Third and Fourth Sunday school attendance for the third grade was 69 per cent. Third grade English pupils are much interested in making a cross booklet.

Several pupils from other schools have entered the primary rooms and will soon be making their homes with us. Goldie Ramsdall of the Willard schools was a Monday visitor.

Friday afternoon we were pleasantly entertained to an Easter party.

Mrs. J. C. Woodworth and Mrs. Thor Woodworth were Friday afternoon visitors.

Helen Gleason, Paul Snyder, Clarence Durkin, and Raschel Snyder as alternates, represented New Haven at Wakeman. Clarence Vogel, Ralph Dufy, Harry Struck and Henrietta Kruger as alternate, represented the school at New Haven. Mr. C. M. Mulholland coached the New Haven debaters.

CHEER FOR CABBAGES

Rejuvenation is not confined to the animal kingdom. Even a cabbage may be "Steinached." Experiments have shown that cabbages, lasting two seasons ordinarily, may last five through the influence of radio activity. Men and women may not reach the age of Methuselah by traveling Steinach's roads to rejuvenation, but at least they need no longer succumb to the encroachments of senility. They need no longer sheepishly accept the ancient formula of the age: "sancti vires, sancti testis, sancti everthing." If the years assail them, they can stand up and fight back.

Instead of second childishness, they can achieve second youth, Steinach and Benjamin vouchnate them, under favorable conditions, not only second blooming, but a third and a fourth. Why grow ungraciously old, when one can stay gracefully young?

FIRM SOIL HELPS NEW TREE START

"Above all, get the soil firm around the roots." F. W. Dean, extension forester of Ohio State University, with his headquarters at Wooster, offers that as the most important point to make sure of in planting seedling trees.

Now, when some two million forest seedlings from the state forest nurseries are being planted by landowners in 65 Ohio counties, Mr. Dean suggests that planters keep in mind the following points: Evergreen seedlings can best be planted with the mattock or grub hoe, where the planting site is covered with sod, and inclined to be hilly or stony. A spade can also be used to advantage on cultivated soils or light soils. With the spade the trees are planted by using the "clef" or "split" method. Hardwood seedlings with long tap roots are planted in this way than by using the mattock and

LACE is being used more and more the season for both daytime and evening frocks, in both natural shades and its colors. For it combines effectively with other fabrics in the composed style, it is so softly flattering to the wearer, and it gives a frock just that touch of elegance that makes it quite formal enough for large luncheons, teas, afternoon receptions and informal dinners. Here it is used in the smart vogue fashion, matching or harmonizing in color with the silk crepe of the frock. The creation of an entirely new series of color combinations for the Greater Oakland Six is a typical instance of Oakland progressiveness. Mechanically, the Greater Oakland Six represents the supreme achievement in the Oakland pricefield. It provides elements of stamina and endurance seemingly beyond belief—demonstrated by the brilliant manner in which it completed the 100,000 mile treadmill test that precedes the transcontinental run it is now in the course of completing. Yet today the Greater Oakland Six embodies not only all the advantages of rigidly controlled quality, but also the freshness of new colors in Duco. Come in! Has Narrow —so cold. In no time, we were just a black speck in a roaring lake, 1-4 mile wide and across, all alone, water and debris swirling about us; rain coming down in torrents. Could only wait for the "end." It seemed, finally, a large high-built truck (one Dodge is so low came from same direction we had, and managed to stay on the grade; a colored man driving, and a large stalwart, 6-footer, white planter (land-owner) beside him. They got across, and stopped awhile. Then, planter waved us on, our flag ran of hope and life. In the course of time, the planter, his negro, a farmer and two mules, came to us, the men wading to their hips. Planter said to me: "I just couldn't forget your frightened face. I had to come back." (Can't tell me of diet's send him back.) Said he made that farmer come with the mules. One of the mules slipped, just in front of the Dodge, and went out of sight; but he came to the top again; they chained the team of mules (big fellows) to the front axle, and in a few minutes we moved thro' the waters, all of 1-4 mi., then, to visible, hard land. We gave the farmer, soaking wet to his waist, and shaking with cold, a $5.00 bill, and he beamed; he said he hadn't held a bill that size for sometime. When we turned to the planter, he said: "No, I cannot leave you here; your engine is too full of water to run, and I now fear for your safety beyond. We will just chain your car to our truck, and hang on to you until we know you are safe."

For miles they towed us thro' mud and moving waters, amid debris and awful holes. About 11 miles from here, we came to a fork, and the planter said he "lives" down the left fork; but, from there, we could go the right fork in safety. We urged money upon him, and he said: "You can give my negro $2.00, if you can afford it. I don't want a cent." We paid the $2.00, gladly.

Soon after he left us, our car (around clutch) began to pour forth awful black smoke. Chas. dipped water from the puddles and put out the fire. The water had ruined the relay on generator, and it shorted. Well, our Dodge, being an old model, had a magnet; so Chas. disconnected generator, cranked the car, and we went on in fine power. The roads from there on, were graded high; but waters, mad and roaring, lapped the grade on both sides, and we were away; passed families, fleeing for their lives in 2-mule wagons; all their family and possessions (including young calves and pigs and chickens) in the wagon, and their cattle and mules following. Some only had a few things for water, cats, fox and deer. One bewildered cow got panic-stricken and lunged in front of our car; dented the left front fender, and kicked the head-light around, at a most ridiculous angle. But, she and we escaped further "injuries." We came to Widen, Friday, 15th; it was close to Widen (500 population), and were told we could go no further, as two bridges were swept away, just beyond. We knew we couldn't go back to Memphis. They said they would be held here 30 days, anyway, until bridges could be built. We rented this room in garage, and we rented this room (on second floor of large grocery and restaurant combined) at $15.00 per day, room rent, no matter how long we stay, and 50c per day for Dodge. Sounded like a jail sentence for 30 days and costs. But, believe us, we were glad to be safe.

Widener is only decent sleeping and eating place between Memphis and Forest City (Ark), and the safest spot, as well, since we are in second story. Expected to be flooded here by a broken levee by last night, but levee (Miss. R.) broke on opposite side, and poured the flood out east of Miss. R., instead of this way, and our high water dangers, right in Widener, seem past. On a hill, in Widener. All surrounding country, known as "bottoms," is partially, horribly, flooded, and the exodus of the color-aid and poor whites is heart-rending. Since Friday noon, all day, and all through the nights, the roads are teeming with wagons, filled with people, children, tiny babies, chickens, calves, pigs, and a few possessions, fording the roaring floods to the big river, west of here. Hundreds of mules and many cattle pass every hour, also being driven to the ridges. It's pretty terrible! The air is echoing, night and day, with the clanking chains of the mule teams, the moaning of cows, the bawling of calves, the tramp, tramp of the mules and cattle.

Mr. R. R. (Rock Island) brought in a long train of box cars on the siding for the refugees from the lowland, and they are nearly full.

A family of poor whites, man and wife and 3 children (one a pony 5 weeks old baby) have been staying at the depot. Last eve, Charly and I gave them all our bedding, a big box of groceries, and a complete outfit of clothes for the mother. Chas. also gave them their everyday sweater, and before we left them, the puny baby boy (maybe a future president) was tenderly wrapped in a wet sweater, and the mother beaming with gratitude. We never experienced such "pity" nights. By 2:00 p.m., I was feeling the effects. By bed-time, completely "wiped."

This morning we went down past the string of box cars, for a paper and gave my hat (bare another) to the young colored woman, gaining warmth from her box-car refuge.

The road to Memphis is much more mappable now. Several levees are broken. Many Memphis Streets are flooded. Could not drive our car 1-1/2 miles from this town without getting stuck or hopelessly flooded.

Have a fine room, splendid bath, electric lights, victrola and radio service, and excellent food. Nice people.

It's a queer Easter. Skies have been gray and here and a thick fog close to the ground until about 10:00 a.m. Sun peeks out rather timidly at times. No rains since yesterday morning. The clanking of chains, tramp of mules and cattle, the yelling of men (directing the refugees, and the wailing animals) goes on incessantly. It's maddening! Doesn't seem if I ever want to see another mile on a map!

The Dodge is a curiosity. No one here can understand how we came the last 11 miles, for the magnet was full of water; the old pump had as much water as oil. Mechanically and electrically it is O. K., except the relay. The mechanic here at garage will give us a new one (in time) for about $5 and install same. We have everything dried out; nothing is the worse for the wetting except the coat and vest, and 2 boxes of gun shells. Can't "hunt" anything but mud-turtles, anyway; and the coat and vest were Charlie's oldest. Both escaped colds. Trunk and suitcases (3) mysteriously escaped slightest damage. We are very fortunate.

Just came up from restaurant (at 12:30); chicken, dressing, dumplings, creamed potatoes, drinks, green beans, bread and butter, cold salad, fruit salad, 40c each.

A very nice white woman, fashionably dressed, who with her husband left their home last eve, was in restaurant and said she was so high about their house (short distance from here) that no one could enter the house with a boat.

Rural Mail Carriers' hands were all blistered, Friday, from rowing boats, trying to deliver and collect mail.

Waters are still raising. Tourists marooned everywhere. Many stay in the water. Still men with teams are working constantly.

At dinner, some feared a levee near here might yet break and flood this town; but we are as high as we can possibly get, without an air plane, and not worrying much.

Since yesterday noon, we have been planning to leave, by train (Rock Island), for Rogers, on 8:17 a.m. train tomorrow, Monday morning. Garage man has fixed up a place in his public garage for the Dodge, and we will leave it here until Chas. can get it thro', not earlier than June, they think.

We will check auto-trunk and 2 suitcases; carry clarinet (5 in a case), bundle (of saw, square, level, hammer, etc.) and the other suit-case.

Trains were still running, 5 minutes after 1:00 the night of the P.S. to this before mailing in the morning. Can't mail today.

From Ganazlet to Memphis, we had a wonderful trip. Cloudy, but cool and delightful. Didn't see a sprinkle until Wed. eve., in Memphis Tourist Camp. Alabama mountains and hills are beautiful, much like the Rockies in many respects, and such beautiful wild flowers, surpassing those of the Rockies.

The Dodge was a beauty when we left Florida; now, it looks "like something the cat dragged in." With best wishes to yourself and friends.

MRS. JULIA AKERS DIED THURSDAY

Mrs. Juliette Akers, 56, died at the home of her son, L. P. Akers on West Broadway, April 14, death being due to infirmities of old age. Mrs. Akers was a native of West Liberty, and had resided there until about ten years ago when she moved to Plymouth. During her stay here she won a host of friends who regret to hear of her death.

Mrs. Juliette Akers was born in West Liberty, Ohio, September 17, 1841, and died April 14, 1927, at the home of her son, Lafayette Akers in Plymouth, Ohio, after a lingering illness. She was the daughter of Jonathan and Almira Wood and was married to Alexander Akers, December 10, 1859. To this union was born two children, Mrs. Mariette Devoe of Greenview, Ohio, who died May 10, 1926, and Lafayette Akers, who survives her. She is also survived by eight grand-children and fourteen great-grand-children who mourn her departure.

Her husband died of sickness soon after enlisting in the Civil War and was buried at Harpers Ferry, leaving her with two small children, the youngest being seven months old. Her life was busy and useful until overtaken by rheumatism which caused great suffering and more than three years of helplessness in which she was cared for by her son and his family. Her funeral was held in the afternoon of Easter Sunday.

Funeral services conducted by Rev. Gibson.

TWO BITS FOR WIRE

DISCOURAGES BORERS

A quarter's worth of wire attached to a sulky plow will do wonders in discouraging the European corn borer farmers in the borer-infested counties of Ohio are now discovering.

And for plowing under trash in general, where the desire is for a clean job of plowing, whether or not the corn borer is aimed at, wires attached to the plow will do the job efficiently, economically, allowing agricultural engineers giving plowing demonstrations in the corn borer area under the guidance of the agricultural college extension service of the Ohio State University.

For a wheeled plow, the engineers suggest, in heavy trash three wires may be used to each bottom. Select No. 9 soft wire and cut it into 10 or 12-foot lengths.

Attach one wire to the shank or stem of the rolling coultter at a point as low as possible. Another may be placed on the plow ahead of the first wire, and slightly higher. A third wire can go back of the first wire, that on the shank of the coultter, and as low as possible. All of these wires should drag under the furrow slice.

Should the stalks be heavy and hard to hold down on the top of the furrow slice increase the length of wire, for this will put more tension in the wire. Increasing the length is better than attaching a weight to the end of the wire.

Wide-bottom plows do best in covering trash, the engineers have found, because they turn the furrow slice over more completely. Coultters and jointers help materially. A sharp is another essential.

"Roses have thorns, and silver fountains mud."—Shakespeare.

FLORIDA HENS WORK HARDER THAN OHIO'S

Florida poultrymen would starve if their flocks produced no more eggs, on the average, than Ohio flocks do, according to a letter sent to P. B. Zumbro, poultry extension specialist at the Ohio State University, by a Florida poultryman.

The average egg production of the flocks cooperating with the county agents and state university in keeping records in 1926 was 143.6 eggs per hen, the Florida poultryman was told. That average, furthermore, is double the state average egg production. But the Floridian replied:

"I am surprised to know that the egg production on Ohio demonstration farms is so low. Here in Florida we figure that we must get at least 50 percent production throughout the year in order to come out even in the business."

Fifty percent production for the year, Mr. Zumbro points out, means 180 eggs per hen.

"How many of us would be interested in poultry here in Ohio," Mr. Zumbro asks, "if it were necessary to get an average of 180 eggs per hen in order to break even? Our Florida friend was sent a copy of the bulletin, 'Poultry Profits in Ohio.' Probably he will open his eyes when he sees that Ohio poultry demonstrators made on the average $2.69 labor income per hen last year. And this was on a production of 140 eggs.

"As competition becomes keener, however, it will be necessary for us to get high production here in Ohio. We all know that right now the people who are getting a high egg production, especially in the winter, are the ones who are pocketing the money."

Says Sam: Wonder what Huck Finn would have done if a grown man had told him "h. s. t. e."

TRACES MODERN PLOW

BACK TO JEFFERSON

How a president of the United States contributed largely to the development of the modern plow is revealed in a recent article in "Better Crops," by M. L. Hopkins of the University of Wisconsin.

After tracing the slow development of the plow from Biblical times on to the 18th century, Mr. Hopkins notes: "To state just when the first plow was invented is impossible, but history does record that few did more than Thomas Jefferson, farmer, statesman, and President of the United States, to promote the art of efficient plow making, for it was through his efforts that it was placed upon a scientific basis.

"Through Jefferson's journals we learn that he first became interested in plow improvements in 1778 while traveling through France as American Ambassador to France. Noticing the crude mold-boards on the plows of the native, aroused in him a desire to perfect an efficient plow. That interest led to scientific drawing and planning.

"In 1793 Jefferson put his theory to the test of practical experiment by using on his Virginia plantation several plows made after his pattern. The mold-board, being made according to scientific principles, enabled workmen in various parts of the country to form their mold-boards exactly alike.

"Jefferson's contribution," Mr. Hopkins concludes, "was one of the most valuable factors toward perfecting the plow."

"LOVE MAKES 'EM WILD' HAS MORE THAN ITS SHARE OF ROMANCE AND COMEDY

Johnny Harron and Sally Phipps have the leading romantic roles in "Love Makes 'Em Wild," Fox Films version of "Willie the Worm." The film is coming to the Shelby Opera House, next Sunday, J. Farrell MacDonald and Arthur Housman are in the fine cast chosen to enact the vehicle.

"Love Makes 'Em Wild," has more than its share of romance and hilarious comedy. It concerns Willie Angelo—disparagingly called the Worm—who had spent his life crawling in to holes and pulling them after him. He was blamed for everything at the office and he took the vituperation they heaped on him along with his weekly $30.

His worst nightmare, old man Green, was forever writing about errors in his account. As often as he visited the office Willie was fired to appease Green's anger.

Willie had fallen for an insurance policy which took all his spare money. He skimped lunches, eating leather coated doughnuts. The resultant heartburn sent Willie to a quack doctor, who said he had heart trouble and only two months to live. Willie decided to spend his accumulated insurance money before he rattled the nearby Gates.

There was Mary O'Shane at the office who had bet Willie would invite her to lunch; who had humiliated him by paying for his meals, completing the slur by telling him of her bet. There was a sneezing elevator boy, who had shut the gate insistently in his face. There was the janitor who had malignantly sneezed Willie. Finally, there was Blankenhorn, general manager, who had sneezed Willie repeatedly. There was always Mary's mocking, echoing laugh.

You will be delighted with this rip-roaring comedy. Don't forget the date, Sunday at 7:30 and 9:00.

"THE AUCTIONEER" WAS PICTURED IN ODD WAY

Alfred E. Green, Fox Films director of the screen version of "The Auctioneer" coming to the Shelby Opera House Monday and Tuesday, wanted atmosphere, and he wanted the real thing, but he was up against a very difficult problem.

For Mr. Green wanted a background of New York crowds for his picture, and he didn't want any self-conscious people in the foreground. So being very versatile, he hit upon the plan of stationing his cameraman at the entrance of the subway under a tent usually used by men working on some improvement in the sidewalk.

Here, through a hole in the tent side, scenes of one of the busiest corners of New York were taken—without any of the actors being conscious that they were appearing before the camera.

"The Auctioneer" is a story of two kindly Russian emigrants who adopt a "Yid" Irish wife and set up a shop in their own world—only to fall prey to poverty again, but through it all they are natural, kindhearted and philosophical.

George Sydney is cast in the title role, with Marion Nixon, Doris Lloyd, Gareth Hughes, Warren Sammy Cohen and William Austin in the supporting cast.

THE TRUTH

Our life is so uncertain.
Death is the one thing sure.
We see our friends again;
It seems so hard to endure.

The grim reaper is so busy.
Sometimes it seems unfair.
He gathers from places where
It often hurts to spare.

We are not like machinery—
Run until we wear out;
Counting on so many years,
Because we are young and stout.

We often fix this in minds,
In spite of what we are told;
We never think of death,
Until we grow so old.

Death has no exception
Regardless of the position you hold.
Of your standing and ability,
Not for your silver or gold.

More Power—Starts Quicker
Burns Clean—Stops Knocks

Who says you never get SOMETHING FOR NOTHING?

This time you actually do! Without paying a cent more than you've paid heretofore for ordinary gasolene, you now can have this immeasurably finer fuel for your motor. Improved Johnson Gasolene is refined by an improved process which changes the character of the gasolene. It is more powerful—burns cleaner—keeps out carbon knocks—acts like a tonic for your motor.

It's possible to give you this great added value—this "something for nothing"—because our rapidly increasing volume of sales is lowering our costs. We're passing on this advantage to you.

Fill Up Where You See This Sign

Strange, while here on earth. Our true value is not known. Until we close our eyes in death. And then it is only shown.

Fertilizer May Aid In War on Borer

With fire machinery, poison, parasites, hopes and wishes all being rushed to the front-line trenches to turn back the onrushing foreign invader, the corn borer, many are asking what part soil fertility will play in the battle to keep corn the dominant factor in American agriculture.

batting any crop pest, whether insect or disease. The experiment stations and other recognized agencies are urging the fullest utilization of known fertility practices to aid in reducing the damage done by the borer. Of special concern is the possible role that commercial plantages may play in controlling the ravages of the dread pest.

It has been known for some time that delayed planting of corn is a means of reducing the extent of infestation. On this fact has been developed the possibility that fertilizer may be an extremely useful agent in the corn borer fight through its effect in hastening maturity of the corn, thus enabling the corn grower to plant his seed late enough to escape serious infestation at the time when the moth is flying, and still mature the crop.

The Ohio Experiment station is already at work on this very problem. No definite conclusions or recommendations can be made from the first year work but some of the results are quite indicative. For example, corn planted June 5, with complete fertilizer in the hill, was done five days earlier than corn planted May 15, which received only acid phosphate broadcast thus making a total of twenty-five days difference in the time between planting and maturity.

"The work in 1927 will be expanded to determine whether a delayed side-dressing with the proper fertilizer may not hasten development after the peak of the moth flight has passed, and also whether the date of planting can be delayed beyond June 5 and still mature the crop with less opportunity for infestation." Write Professor R. M. Salter and L. E. Thatcher of the Ohio Experiment Station in their report for agronomic research work being done at that station in connection with the corn borer problem.

DERELICT---

Anyone Can Be Sorry

Derelicts on the sea of finance have only themselves to blame. 'Tis human to have an alibi—and blame conditions over which we think we have no control. But in the last analysis, this is not true. Every man in his heart knows we speak the truth.

The first rule of thrift is to keep the outgo always within the limits of income. Failure to do this results in shipwreck. The best anchor in time of storm is money—and money to fulfill its full purpose should be busy at all times. Your modern bank makes this possible—paying interest on savings and dividends on good and sound investments.

The firm, family or man who comes safely thru all storms is the one which has learned this lesson well and regulates its affairs accordingly.

and happy endings, in the face of seeming disaster.)

Not so long ago, a man died in Richland County and left a wife and three little, little children. The widow did not know how to make ends meet; she could not go to work for she had no one with whom to leave the children. They had no money to buy food and as their rent would soon be due, there would not be a roof over their heads for long. As her husband had been a World War Veteran, she came to Mrs. Gertrude English, Executive Secretary of the American Red Cross, in Richland County. Mrs. English knew the husband had been carrying insurance and upon hunting up his records was able to assure the widow that she did not need to worry any longer. The husband had left insurance in such form that the widow would receive a lump sum for immediate use and started monthly sums which would keep them going for a long time. The widow was able to buy a little cottage on the edge of town, big enough for her needs with the lump sum which she received and the monthly payments she received will buy food and clothing for herself and the babies.

Now, isn't that a happy ending for a "Sob Story?" And are you as sure that there will be as happy an ending to the story if you should die and your wife be left alone with some babies to look out for? Think it over! War Risk Insurance must be converted by July 2, 1927, as Congress has convened without making provision of time and unless at some future date, Congress should make such provision, the man who now lets his insurance go past July 2, 1927, without conversion, loses it entirely.

Mrs. English has urged all World War Veterans to come to her office in the Basement of the Public Library, Mansfield, Ohio, and convert their insurance without further delay—so that if disaster comes, there may be a "happy ending" financially for their wives and children.

CHOIR PRAISED FOR WORK IN CANTATA

He who inspires another to develop his talent to the fullest and use that talent for the betterment of mankind, has well earned the title of a good leader. On last Sabbath afternoon at the Presbyterian church, when the choir rendered the cantata, "The King Triumphant," Mr. E. E. Balduf, chorister at the Presbyterian church, proved to a large audience that he had earned the title of efficient leader.

The chorus work excelled anything ever done by this choir. The soloists, Duane Hawkins, Vera Hatch, Clarice Beamer, Deryl Cramer, Welden Cornell, William Harris, Agnes Carson and Ruth Balduf surpassed themselves in the splendid manner in which they sang.

The men's chorus and women's chorus showed not only fine voices but excellent training and much work.

Mr. Balduf is to be commended for his untiring labors and the choir for their faithfulness to the work.

The large audiences were unstinted in expressing their appreciation of the excellent manner in which the cantata was rendered.

Mr. Harry Hatch, Miss Vera Hatch, Shelby; Mr. Clyde Smalts, Mansfield; Mr. J. Argens, Mr. and Mrs. N. Young of Tiffin, assisted in the cantata.
