Maybe Its Georgia Creekers
Belief from Georgia creekers a bunch of the "wise guys" around the square took a "poke" at us Tuesday when they read a label on a shipment of peaches, reading thusly: Georgia Peaches, Grown by — George, at Nashville, Contents 1 Bushel. They wanted to know what a bushel was.

Speaking of Corn Borers and Robberies, we believe that the Republicans would have gotten more farmer votes if they had donated ten million dollars to prevent children stealing. Numerous reports have come to us this week, and we're tipping off the night prowler the fact that there are several loaded guns waiting for him.

Does crime pay? Undoubtedly it does, according to the papers. No two or three men can earn $65,000 as easily as did the bank robbers Tuesday morning when they held up the force at the bank in Gallon. Someone should be patriotic enough to offer $25,000 a robber for each one captured.

Experience counts nothing in this game of fishing. Albe Devore and Harriet Rogers, two anglers who are tall by looking at the ways just how fast a fish is traveling, have been given a setback. While Mr. and Mrs. DeVore and Miss Rogers were fishing at the Norwalk reservoir, Mrs. Devore landed a five-pound bass. Am I too strong, Albe?

Mose Kappenburg says that since the town has refused to use the quarry as a water supply, that he is going to make a drive for funds to erect an Old Malda' Home on the hill near the quarry. Man, won't the teachers take a detour.

Since everyone is planning on spending the day in Canada, we have decided to stay home, Setan.

Celery crops this year are reported in better condition than any time during the past five years. Our neighbors in Celeryville need much praise for their "stickability."

G. C. Catlin is giving us some real news from around Boughtonville. If you want to know what's going on in that community just read his column every week.

Well, if your name isn't in the paper this week, you failed to let us know what you were doing, where you are going, and what you expect to do, who visited you over the week, or if anyone's well, etc. etc. Just remember that the Advertiser is a community paper, with community ideas and that we want to let what Bill Jones is doing just the same as we do of Jim Smith. If you're in town Saturday night call in—we'll be glad to meet you. Been here two years and over, and still we don't know all our readers. Goodbye.

By the way, turn to Page three and read ALL the advertisements. And should you happen to buy ANYTHING on any of the stores who are represented at that page, PLEASE TELL THEM THAT YOU READ THEIR ADVERTISEMENTS. That'll be doing us a GREAT FAVOR. We thank you.

The board is working earnestly in every detail and is securing opinions of men who are high in the educational field.

The party taking the trip today includes J. E. Nimmans, G. W. Picketts, J. L. Judson, J. W. McIntire and Mrs. Wesley Ritter.

Independence Day

Hollanders Are Producing On N + k Lands

Outlook For Large Celery And Onion Crop Unusually Good.

A really amazing farming district in the Willard marsh, especially the part cultivated by the very enterprising and worthy colony of Hollanders at Celeryville.

A large acreage this season has been seeded in celery, onions and other crops. On both sides of the concrete road that runs southward from Celeryville, can be seen fields of celery and onions that are laid out with mathematical precision that would do credit to a first class surveyor. From the road, scarcely a weed can be seen in the rich black or brown soil, and the rows of celery and onions are as straight as a string and well nigh perfectly parallel. The Celeryville farmers are not taking chances on draught conditions. Hundreds of feet of water pipe have been erected and when dry weather comes, the celery and other crops can be irrigated.

The quality of celery grown in the marsh is A 1 and much more of this delectable vegetable would be used if its worth were more generally known. It is believed that enough celery could be grown in the marsh to supply the entire celery demand of Ohio and other states.

Something besides the fabulously rich soil of the marsh results in the large crops of fine celery. The skilled and industrious Celeryville workers have added greatly to the productivity of the marsh by proper fertilization and the working and the handling of the crops. It takes several years of careful cultivation and fertilizing to bring an acre of raw marsh land up to a point where crops can be grown in a satisfactory way.

Miss Eve Mumau Painfully Injured

Miss Mumau was removed to the home of Rev. Miller and it will be several days before she can resume her work.

Joseph Kiel Dies at Long Beach Cal

The following article was taken from the Mansfield News and will be of interest to many of the older residents of Plymouth and vicinity as Mr. Kiel was well known here:

"Joseph E. Kiel, who many years ago resided in Mansfield and whose wife was Mary McCormick, a native of Mansfield, died at Long Beach, Cal., on May 23, according to word that has just been received by relatives here. The family resided at 829 Loma avenue, Long Beach.

"Mr. Kiel was 85 years of age and was a veteran of the Civil War. Besides his wife, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Fred Shaffer, of Long Beach, Cal., and Mrs. Edward Shaffer, of Panama, and five grandchildren.

"Burial was made in the Sawtelle cemetery."

Many residents of Plymouth will remember Mr. Kiel and family, when he had a confectionery, bakery and ice cream parlor occupying a building that stood where the Nimmons building stands.

Shelby Women In Auto Mishap

Misses Beale Gates and Isabelle Bucholtz of Shelby met with an accident Sunday evening near the farm of A. C. Morse on the Plymouth road. They were driving a Ford sedan when a Dodge car passed them and in doing so struck the wheel of the sedan causing it to upset. Passing motorists came to their aid and were rushed to the Shelby Memorial hospital and were given medical aid. Upon examination they were found to be no bones broken. They were unable to learn the name of the passing car.

Freak Storm

O. C. Jewell residing north of Shelby on the Smith farm reports that a freak storm passed through his place, blowing their survey up a grade of about 100 feet and then completely swept it.

The wind traveling at a high rate of speed did little or no other damage, evidently contenting itself by playing a prank on the survey.

Large Crowd At Mass Meet

Holms and Wharton Give Interesting Talk at Shiloh Meeting.

Speaking to an audience of about 300 farmers, Frank Holmes, Editor of the Nevada News and C. E. Wharton, made two strong and impressive talks Monday night at a mass meeting held by the farmers in the vicinity of Shiloh at the Shiloh auditorium.

The National Clubs of Ohio, and explain just what the organization intended to do in helping the farmer to a better representation in legislative matters.

The platform of the clubs include the abolishing of every useless public official, a repeal of every graft and special privilege law, and to run the state and nation as a successful business man would his own private affairs.

The committee in charge of the meeting, and who looked after the arrangements, were: C. S. Bloom, chairman, Boyd Hamman, Harry Haun and Rudy Rader.

Frank Holmes held his audience spell-bound with many startling facts concerning the corn borer and its activities, and the fact that he has had no check on any institution in Northern Ohio convinces the average farmer that there is no foundation to the present drive of the corn borer war, which is causing vexation and worry to farmers in this state.

Holmes states that from a scientific and entomological standpoint, this "aggressive clean-up campaign" is, and from the very start has been a farce without the shadow of a sensible reason. The European corn borer might with equal propriety and good sense be called the European peach-borer, grapevine borer, elder stalk borer, or the borer of any other kind of nearly 300 different plants; and if you were to hand-pick every corn stubble in Ohio, and not leave a shred of corn fodder in the state as large as a postage stamp, the entire Pyrausta family of insects described in the most authentic entomologies extant in any civilized language would go right on. It is the teaching of the best authority in the civilized world that rational care, rotation, intelligent tillage of the soil, and reasonable cleanliness in the fields, is all that is required or necessary to control the Pyrausta—and that it is the only practice that has been followed in Europe for centuries. Under the treatment of Schrank, Zeller, Otero, Robinson, Water, Ledever, Hulst, Guenee, Fitch, Hubner, Strum and others, my encyclopaedia teaches me that the Pyrausta is represented abundantly in both hemispheres, and that he may as properly be called American as he can European. But little is known about it in European, or any other literature, for the reason that it has never been deemed a dangerous pest, and is never serious except in such fields where for 17 years there has been no rotation or crops. Rational rotation, intelligent tillage and reasonable cleanliness has controlled the Pyrausta family in Europe for centuries.

Celeryville Continues To Be Unlucky

The Y. M. C. A. and Celeryville baseball teams were waging a close combat when the game last Thursday evening was called at the end of the sixth inning because of darkness. The calling of the game by umpire Joe Wayland was a surprise, and breath-taking experience to the whole crowd of rooters. The game was running close and was giving some real entertainment and a sport to the crowd. But such was the fate of the game, having the effect of decreasing the peoples interest in baseball; and that is clearly shown by the low attendance at the games compared with former years.

The evening was cloudy and rainy and no one almost expected the game to be called on account of rain. Gradually it began to brighten up and by the fourth inning everyone was expecting the game to be played through. Celeryville lost the game by one run, the score being 3-2. The game was presided by Manager Vogel of the Celeryville team.

Doctors Have Left Every Third Village

Almost one-third of the small towns of the country have lost their physicians in the last decade, and there are no indications that this trend will not continue.

This is the conclusion Dr. William Allen Pusey, former president of the American Medical Association, presents to the medical fraternity in the June issue of The American Mercury.

During 20 average small towns (population of 1000 or less) in 41 states, Dr. Pusey found that of 940 towns which had physicians in 1914, only 639 had physicians in 1925.

His survey also revealed that rural doctors have the high average age of 52 years; that only 14 percent of the doctors graduated during the last ten years have gone into rural sections; and that the total number of medical college graduates in 1925 in rural countries is not likely to be more than 2.8 a county.

Costs of medical education, and of maintaining a modern office, have contributed to this situation, Dr. Pusey believes.

"The high cost of medical education," he writes, "peculiarly influences the distribution of rural doctors. In the first place, it bars out the rural medical students to whom the rural districts must look for their physicians. Almost no country boys are going to medical school today."

"In the second place, the rural district cannot pay the price in money that present medical service demands."

"SIMPLE SIS," IS O. HENRY PART O. Henry would have loved to draw a character like "Simple Sis," the wistful and unconsciously amusing laundry girl, in the picture of the same name, which Wagner Bros. are bringing to the Castamba Friday at Shelby. Thousands of girls like Sis exist, and Miss Pazenda's portrayal is so glowingly human, so ludicrous and yet so pathetic that it deserves to rank among the very great characterizations of the screen.

Farmers Incur Big Loss From Collisions

Approximately 60 percent of all losses incurred by farmers with automobiles come from collision. This fact is shown by a compilation of data on hundreds of insurance claims, findings of which have just been received by the Huron County Farm Bureau from Ezra C. Anstaeft of the Farm Bureau Mutual Automobile Insurance Company of Columbus.

In a survey made more than a year ago Mr. Anstaeft found that only 15 percent of the farmers of Ohio carried insurance of any kind on their autos, and of those who did only a fourth carried anything but fire and theft. Yet fire and theft claims make up only 17 percent of the claims received by the mutual and 19 percent of the money paid on losses.

Collision claims, Mr. Anstaeft reports, make up 64 percent of the number received, and 55 percent of all money paid by the mutual is paid on collision claims. Property damage, usually resulting from collision, makes up another 15 percent of the claims filed and losses paid.

Liability for personal injury made up the lowest percentage of claims filed, Mr. Anstaeft says, but under this heading have come claims for larger amounts.

Farmers as a class of automobile drivers are only exposed to about a third of the risk of the city driver, Mr. Anstaeft says, but not proportionately because of the nature of their business and property.

FIGHT FILM BLENDS

HUMOR, PATHOS, DRAMA "Knockout Rellly," Rich Dix' latest starring vehicle coming to the Castamba at Shelby Tuesday and Wednesday is the highly exciting cinema record of the fistic adventures of a young steel worker, who almost overnight finds himself on the verge of pugilistic fame, and whose career is a suddenly blasted by a combination of circumstances that land him in prison convicted of a crime of which he is innocent.

Episode piles on exciting episode as Dix struggles to receive his good name. A smashing denouement results in Dix' emerging a pugilistic champion. The thread of the story carries a strong love theme, with Mary Brian as the object of Rellly's affection.

GRAIND FED WITH PASTURE ADDS TO MILK YIELD

If you are one of the dairymen who believe that a radical change in diet for 30 days doesn't make much difference to a dairy cow, just try it on the human system for a while. Cut meat and potatoes and other substantial items from your menu for a month, then take stock of your physical condition.

Yet that is literally what you are doing to a dairy cow when you turn her out to pasture and deprive her of the grain ration she has had through the winter and spring. Such a feeding schedule means the elimination of solid, body-building feed, and the substitution of something that won't accomplish the same result.

Of course, cows like green, succulent grass, just as children like lots of things to eat that you wouldn't think of permitting them to live on. The cow won't complain, but sooner or later she will show in the milk pail the bad effects of the substitution. Even at its best grass isn't sufficient. It has a tonic effect, and may stimulate milk flow for a while, but after she has been on pasture alone for some time, the cow begins to take off her back what she puts in the pail.

Dairy authorities who have experimented extensively in this direction urge dairymen this year to try keeping their cows on a grain ration with the grass. This gives both cow and pasture a chance.

What is more important, an extensive tests have proved, cows so fed will start the fall in far better condition than would otherwise be possible, and will give a bigger yield straight through the entire year.

Our Weekly Sermonette

(By Dr. O. R. Mente)

WHAT ARE WE DOING FOR HUMANITY

Referring to our illustrations of last week, let us in the true spirit of prayer take up the same text. You all will agree with me that the easiest thing in the world to put us to confusion is darkness, at a time when not expected, in other words a knowledge that the supply of oil in our lamps is waning and soon we will find ourselves in want. The soul needs its bread every hour, day and night, to help the tired body carry the burdens thrust upon it, and encourage the tired nerves. The human brain could not possibly accomplish its work, if the man in charge would not wisely see to it that the fuel and water supply is not exhausted. The physical life is the frame work of the moral and spiritual life, hence should the frame be broken, the picture for the time being will lose its intrinsic value. Therefore it is of the most vital importance that, in order to help humanity to the highest level of moral living, we keep our own life and character unsoiled, for the little things that we do are the things the world judges us by. It has been often quoted by philosophers of the present and the past: That while there is life, there is hope. This little simple sounding proverb is of far greater importance than we commonly think, for our work for humanity depends solely upon our fellowship with God. Should the latter be broken, all our boasted humanitarian work will avail us naught. May I not plead that we open wide the doors of our heart and let the breath of God fill us to the overflowing? For no matter how far we have wandered if the breath of the infinite loving father is still bearing witness with our spirits that we are the children of God, there is infinite possibility of renewal. Some time ago I stood beside an old fashioned well, the pump refused to lift the water. Many unsuccessful attempts to have the old worn out pump give a rib water, were in vain. The well was full of water. The law of exhaustion had laid hold upon the old pump. Should this happen to any of us, would we condemn the well and start the digging of a new well? Oh, no, the well is all right, it has supplied the needs of many generations. The trouble is with the pump. The old valves are worn out. Priming it will sometimes start it going, but the best thing would be to renew the valve system and copious will be the supply of water. Some one said a few weeks ago in one of our great dailies that the world was drifting back into the primitive age, than man is more criminally inclined in this age than ever before. I do not agree with the critic, for I think the world has been in the last 50 years making strides to perfection far more important to the wholesale salvation of the world, than the critic will admit. Remember God's supply of living water is as abundant as ever. It is only our connection with the never failing supply that has failed.

Don't let the pump valves get dry. Don't neglect the means of keeping your soul life in constant touch with water of life, for you and I have a great work before us. Into our hands has been committed the bringing of the world to Calvary. Are we busy about Father's business, or as poet says: Can the world see Jesus in me, can the world see Jesus in you? If not why not? Keep your lamps filled and burning, have an abundant supply of oil on hand, for the bridegroom may come at the midnight hour. Shall he find us with our lamps going out? God forbid.

Plan Tourist Camp For Michigan Farm Visitors

EAST LANSING—Special tourists camps, with all Michigan camp facilities available, will be opened for farmers and others who tour from the middle west for the Michigan State College Country Life Week, July 21 to August 6.

The college campus is a statural park, said to be one of the most beautiful in the United States. In the expectation that many guests will drive to Michigan by automobile, those in charge of the country life conferences are completing plans to care for hundreds of tourists. Many will go on into northern Michigan for extended vacation trips after the special conferences are over, it is believed.

Says Sam: When wheat turns from green to sunburnt gold, and oats put on their shivery sheen, Man can do no less than bow before Dame Nature's bickery.

The last year he was in poor health and for the past nine months was tenderly cared for by his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Lloyd.

His wife passed away in 1904 and who can tell the hours of loneliness spent in the days of his widowhood by those who have passed through similar experience. He was a good citizen, kind neighbor and father, and faithful to the interests of the home and community where he lived.

He leaves besides the many friends, two brothers and two sisters, T. J. Moore of Lima, O., Mrs. D. C. Morrow of Shelby, O., Mrs. Hayes Mellick and Frank Morrow of Tiro, O., and seven grandchildren.

... and in America from the time the continent was settled; and he who disputes any part of this statement with me will go right up against the most world-wide authority extant in five languages.

The Genus Diatraea, saccharalis, by Guiling, the true or large corn borer (and of which I have as yet seen no mention in any other publication than The Nevada News), is the only insect named or mentioned as a corn borer in the most universally accepted authority extant in five languages. It originally made its presence in the world known by damage to sugar cane in the West Indies in 1828. It made its way to Louisiana in 1855. By 1881, it had spread northward to Maryland and Virginia; and from 1881 to 1927 it has not crossed the Ohio river in any manner or number to cause a ripple of excitement—a period of 46 years. It was fully treated by the scientist, Rev. Lansdown Guiling, who was awarded a gold medal by the Society of Arts for his careful, accurate and complete treatise on the subject; and from his treatise Dr. L. O. Howard made a full and complete record which he has reported to the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C. in the year 1881, where the United States Federal Bureau of Entomology, or anybody else, will find it fully reported and seems incredible that all of who have been writing, talking and legislating about the corn borer during the past year, no one else seems to be acquainted with this simple truth. But I have asserted and repeat that the only corn borer under scientific treatment in five languages is fully reported from the treatise of Rev. Lansdown Guiling, by Dr. L. O. Howard, and recorded in the United States Department of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C. for the year 1881—and any one can find it there who will take the trouble to look.

Miss Ruth Rowalt Becomes Bride of Mr. Lewis Lenhart

Miss Ruth Alice Rowalt, daughter of Charles Rowalt, of Plymouth, chose Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock for her marriage to Harry Lenhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lenhart, of Bellville. This was the affair one of simple appointments owing to the recent death of her mother.

The First Presbyterian church was the scene of the ceremony and was simply decorated with tall baskets of white peonies, palms and lilies (cathedral candles). Rev. A. M. Hughes, pastor of the church, was the officiating clergyman and with the groom and his best man, his brother Donald Lenhart took his place following the playing of the group of selections for a prelude.

Mrs. Albert Twitchell presided at the organ and prior to the ceremony the guests were being ushered to their places by George Hout and Jack Jones, of Bellville, played effectively "Venetian Love Song" by Nevin and the accompaniment to a group of songs delightfully rendered by Miss Geneva (soprano) "O Tender Eyes," by Carvel; "O Promise Me" by DeKoven and "I Love You Truly" by Bond. As the bride and bridesmaid came down the aisle and took their places before the clergyman, The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was played by Mr. Twitchell blending into the sweet strains of "O Perfect Love" as the solemn words of the ceremony were being said. At its conclusion Mendelssohn's recessional was played as the bridal party proceeded up the aisle and out of the church.

The bride was very attractive in her gown of white georgette crepe with silk lace garniture and long tulle veil fastened with a cluster of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses.

Miss Helen Rowalt, sister of the bride, was chosen as her bridesmaid and wore a gown of georgette crepe of a pale shade of yellow with a large hat and carried Opheelia roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Lenhart are spending their honeymoon on a journey to Cleveland, Buffalo and Niagara Falls and upon their return will be at home to their friends at 120 Marlon avenue.

Mrs. Lenhart wore a traveling gown of dark blue georgette crepe with hat and accessories in harmony of color. Mr. Lenhart is with the Teppan

Stove company.

Guests were Mr. Rowalt and daughters and Mrs. Kate Taylor of Plymouth, Mr. and Mrs. Lanehart, Mr. and Mrs. George Jones and son of Bellville and Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Moomaw of Willard and Donald Lanehart of Pittsburgh.

Motor Inspectors to Begin Work July 1st.

COLUMBUS, O.—Effective July 1, OHIO will be divided into twenty motor vehicle inspection districts with a resident inspector in each district. In addition to the regular resident inspectors a "flying squadron" consisting of five special investigators will work throughout the state on special cases directly under the supervision of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles at Columbus. This force with the addition of a special inspector and two special auditors will be headed by Chief Inspector Harold E. Culbert.

A two-day meeting of all inspectors was held in Columbus last week where Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Colonel Chalmers R. Wilson assigned the new territories and sketched out the new plan of operation. The work of checking up on truck weights will be continued and in addition thereto, after July 1st, a special drive will be made against motorists displaying but one tag in violation of the law. Many instances have been found where one set of tags have been purchased and used for two different cars, each set having but one tag. The law is very strict against this violation and it is thought that it will take but a few weeks to clear up Ohio of the one-tag motorists.

Special attention will also be paid to cars bearing Florida license, inasmuch as thousands of Ohio citizens and residents are still driving on Florida license tags purchased in the southern state during the winter. Section 12513-3 of the Ohio Code provides that any bona-fide citizen of Ohio must buy tags before operating his motor vehicles in Ohio, regardless of whether or not he has purchased tags in another state. The penalty is $25 fine for the first offense and from $50 to $500 or 30 days imprisonment or both, for the second offense. That Ohio has been losing considerable revenue through the use of automobile license tags issued in other states (especially Florida) to Ohio citizens is attested to when one recalls the conservative estimate places the number of cars in Ohio thus illegally licensed, at from twenty to thirty-four thousand.
