The Awakening

To try to enumerate the many attractive features of childhood is like attempting to number the waves on the shore of a limitless sea. Like the echoes of a hidden lyre is the music of childhood. Like the modest glow of the dew upon sleeping flowers is the smile of youth. "THE AWAKENING" is an inspirational, juvenal cantata that is radiant with the beautiful glamor of childhood, fresh with the morning dews, vibrant with the song of birds, and fragrant with the perfume of the flowers. This cantata will be rendered by the Primary children and the Juniors of the local Presbyterian church, Sunday, June 12, 7:45 p.m. YOU are invited.

Former New Haven Man Dies In Florida

A number of Plymouth and New Haven people will be shocked to learn of the tragic death of Bert Pennington, a former resident and piano tuner of Shelby, who committed suicide at his home in Ortega, Fla., last week. After accidentally wounding his brother, E. B. Pennington, 42, postmaster of Ortega, the elder Pennington placed the gun in his temple and sent a bullet through his brain.

It is said that Pennington was brooding over the death of his father, Frank C. Pennington, who died at Ortega, April 1.

The two brothers were associated in the grocery business and Bert had been a resident of Jacksonville for several years prior to his going to Ortega.

Frank C. Pennington will be well remembered by the older inhabitants of Plymouth and New Haven as he was a member of a well known family, living in the most pretentious home in the village of New Haven. He had one brother, and his mother was of the type of the old aristocracy of the south.

Oberlin to Hold 91st Commencement Bands and Parade to Make Festivities Unusual.

Final arrangements are being made this week to shape the program of the ninety-fourth annual commencement at Oberlin College into the most spectacular event of its kind in the history of the institution. The main exercises will take place on Saturday, June 15, culminating in a mobster parade in which two thousand young people and an equal number of alumni and students will take part. Seven military bands will furnish the music and scores of elaborately decorated and lighted floats will be in the line. Town and alumni groups will wear colorful costumes and many novel stunts and amusing features will be displayed during the march.

The entire village will be illuminated with thousands of Chinese lanterns, strands of colored electric light, and large electric sign pieces at various points around the streets and campus. A program of fireworks will conclude the evening, including many display pieces, picturing events in the life of the college and community. This great celebration is a tribute from the community and college to President Henry Churchill King, who retires from the headship of Oberlin after fifty years of active service. All the features of the evening are free and Oberlin extends a hearty invitation to the general public to be present. There will be special arrangements for parking and guarding automobiles during the evening.

MONKEY-EATING EAGLE FEARED THROUGHOUT MANILA

MANILA—An unusually large specimen of the monkey-eating eagle, which ornithologists say is the toughest bird in the world, has been captured by Filipinos in the forest of Purobroto, Pangasinan province. Almost everything that lives in the island, including humans, is afraid of the monkey-eaters. This one had been almost as big around as a man's wrists and claws larger than a man's hands.

There are said to be not more than 100 of the birds in the entire archipelago. Each patrol covers 30 square miles and allows no other bird of prey to enter. After exhausting a food supply a bird moves on to another "beat."

As a last resort the eagles will eat deer or livestock.

Treasures on another eagle's beat often means a conflict to the death between two of the giant birds.

Japan has the right idea. When a financial panic occurs they just close the banks, stop paying off, the excitement dies down, confidence is restored and more deposits come in after fifty years of active service. All the features of the evening are free

New Haven Closes Successful School Year

The school year of 1926 and '27 has drawn to a close and many a sad heart is parting from New Haven either "forever or just a while." Another school year has brought to an end the bonds of friendship and joy. The acquaintances which have been made can not always last, and this is kindly felt by many a student. All class and class room activities are over. Never again will the same students meet under the same roof, excepting at the Annual Banquet.

New Haven has never experienced a better year. This year's grade and High school faculty has never been surpassed. In the High school were two graduates of State. Supt. S. A. Porter has shown a willingness to cooperate with the students, and has at all times been ready to talk over any problems with them, and settle it on a fair and square basis. His cooperation in the adoption of student government can never be over appreciated.

C. M. Mulholland, the second graduate of state, has brought English, the most important subject in school, from a despised subject to one of the most interesting, helpful, and entertaining. His command of English, his ability to criticize, and his knowledge of poetry has brought the educational standards of New Haven to a higher level. He has always been willing to argue out any question with the student.

Miss Jessie I. Cole has been in New Haven for fifteen years. She understands the conditions of New Haven in the past and present, and is a force that holds the school together, and gives it more spirit. As a teacher of Mathematics, she would be hard to surpass. Her encouragement to Freshmen have kept many from leaving school.

Miss Geordie Ruth-Harris has also done her part. She has been very influential in speaking to the hearts of the students and helping them in their troubles. She could always be trusted and accepted as a mediator. Her knowledge of human nature has done much for New Haven.

Mr. Black, the 7th and 8th grade teacher, has also done his share. He has done much to set the upper grades students on their path to higher learning.

Miss Lucille Fenner believes in using the rod and save the child. As a 5th and 6th grade instructor she has raised the standards in her room and her presence for another year will be missed, more than can be realized.

Miss Dorothy Dowd has done her part in that great work as 3rd and 4th grade instructor. She has preserved the students in their knowledge and further successfully taught them.

Miss Geraldine Grubich can not be surpassed as a primary instructor. In starting of the young beginners, she has had her hands full. Miss Grubich parts with these words, "New Haven has been the best school of all I've ever taught."

All teachers not coming back next year are parting with a deep regret. The friendship and cooperation of the students has brought them to ties which are hard to break. But come they have, and come they must.

Interesting News From Shiloh

GREAT SUCCESS

A record breaking crowd attended the annual church school convention which convened Tuesday morning at the M. E. church. Over 600 church school workers registered, every township in the county being represented. It was the consensus of opinion heard on every side that it was the best county convention ever held in old Richland.

The principal speaker or rather instructors included Prof. P. H. Halsey, Rev. Frank J. Niles, secretary of the Ohio Sunday Alliance and W. C. Kramer, all forcible speakers and able men, both intellectually and spiritually, and their messages will long be remembered by the large attendance of interested church workers.

The music was inspiring, the decorations at the church and at the dining hall suited the day all of which carried the message of the familiar song, "There is Sunshine in the Soul Today."

The Boy Scouts deserve great praise for their splendid work, and also the girls who so willingly took their part in the work for the Master. The music by the orchestra during the dinner was a new feature for the county convention and was much appreciated.

At the close of the evening session some one voiced the sentiment of the large audience when they remarked Mr. Mohr, the efficient president, that, "It was the close of a perfect week was unanimously re-elected, and the slogan "On to Mansfield in 1928, 1930 Strong," will be kept before us thru conferences and township conventions until another record is made."

"Afraid to Love," a Love Tangle Not at all Serious

With what is purported to be her finest screen offering to date, "Afraid to Love," Florence Vidor, arrives at the Castamba, Shelby, Sunday.

"The Orchid Lady of the Screen," in this her third Paramount starring vehicle plays a role different in all respects from anything she had hitherto essayed. Having proved herself a capable comedienne with her recent picture "The Popular Sin," Miss Vidor again entertains in lighter vein.

"Afraid to Love," concerns itself with a highly humorous love tangle with Miss Vidor as the base, and Clive Brook and Jocelyn Lee as the other two sides.

Katherine Silverton, finds herself alone in the world and with her fortune at such a point that she has to go to work. Her family solicitor John Travers (Norman Trevor) insists that there must be some other solution to her difficulty, and discovers it when Sir Reginald Belzize (Clive Brook) comes to him for legal advice. Sir Reginald has an inheritance which entails a highly humorous love tangle with Miss Vidor as the base, and Clive Brook and Jocelyn Lee as the other two sides.

Calculagraph Makes Correct Charge on All Toll Tickets

How are long distance telephone calls timed? That is a question that is often asked and it, at the same time, one of the most important from both the telephone subscriber's and the telephone company's viewpoint that arises.

In every long distance office, at every long distance operator's hand is an instrument called the calculagraph, a combination clock and mechanical device that works with almost superhuman intelligence. It figures in every long distance call and upon it is based the charge to the subscriber.

For fifteen years this instrument has been in use and since beginning many improvements have been made to it. The diagram shows the last stamping by the calculagraph on a toll ticket done at the finish of conversation. From the length of conversation stamped on the ticket the proper charge is made. This ticket the subscriber can "see and believe" and be assured he has been correctly charged.

Our Weekly Sermonette

(By Dr. G. R. Meade)

A great deal has been written and proclaimed from pulpit and platform regarding the drawing of universal peace, and as followers of the great teacher of Galilee, we are trying to persuade men everywhere to practice the true principles of universal brotherhood. Still looking over the affairs of nations, we become at times a little alarmed, indeed somewhat discouraged, as we listen to the music in the ears of every true Christian to hear about disarmament and peace talks at the international gathering of the representative powers, at the same time I wonder if this is really looking to God for the solution of our difficulties, or if we still place our trust in man? Much has been said of late about the wrongs of war and desire to outlaw it forever, still I fear that in this frenzy of ours we may forget the real value of our privileges, an heirloom of the men who were willing to sacrifice all in order to make us a nation of shonens. There seems danger of committing the sin of ingratitude and forgetting of those who sleep in the trenches, the far away islands of the sea or beneath the poppies on Flanders fields, the brave, the lame, the blind, the slowly dying heroes, who were broken in health by the horrors of war.

Now if the remembering of those heroic men means the glorification of war, I fear many will misunderstand me. It is not even so late as the day as the writer of long ago said: "Here I stand, God helping me, I can not do otherwise." I believe that patriotism and patriotism should go hand in hand, for even the great teacher commands us to render unto God the things that be long to God, and unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's: Young America, the pulpit, the press, the platform are ringing with denunciation of war, at the same time let me ask: "It is wrong to instill patriotism into the hearts and minds of the coming generation?"

The real patriot and the pacifist are really striving for the same goal, but do not understand each other. There is nothing so abominable and devalued as war, and no one in his right mind would advocate it or desire it, unless driven on by the demon of greed and selfishness. Every right minded person desires peace, at the same time we are yet short of a solution of the problems, arising about dissatisfaction and disagreement among nations or individuals. As a follower of the lovely Nazarene, I as a patriot I ask: Is it wrong to tell our little folks that when Commodore Perry was about to engage the enemy upon Lake Erie he gathered his brave sailors about him and placing upon the captain of his flagship the flag of our nation, and upon it the bible, praying earnestly that God would give victory? While there were singing the 100 Psalm? Does the pacifist think it wrong for me to tell the youth that after the battle of Manila, Captain Phillips called all the boys of the war and joined in singing "Praise God from whom all Blessings Flow"? Shall we renounce from our histories all references of the heroic deeds of the men who preserved us a nation, or the boys who volunteered to go across that Democracy might not perish from the face of the earth? I am convinced that the only way to bring about the age of universal peace will be the church of Christ standing by her colors and in place of teaching creed and demagogicalism, to teach the real doctrine of the great teacher: "Universal fatherhood of all men." Whenever individual citizens are ready to say: "I, and my brethren's keeper," will be outlawed, and peace shall reign everywhere.

Huron County Fair Dates Announced

Huron County's seventh annual Fair since its reorganization in 1921 will be held August 30-31-September 1 and 2. Probably the greatest task which confronts the management at the present time is to arouse proper appreciation and a thorough understanding of just what this great undertaking means to the people of Huron County, both in town and country. The greatest asset to business and prosperity in Huron County in the past, in the present time and probably for many years to come, is its great agriculture.

While agriculturists has not been profitable to all that have been engaged in it and while there has been a great tendency to get away from the basic principals which have been responsible for most of the permanent successes in agriculture in the past, the county fair offers the biggest opportunity for promoting the things that have always been fundamental to successful farming wherever it is conducted.

Huron county has certain natural conditions which should be conducive to all kinds of livestock farming. A large percentage of the farm products of Huron always have and must go to market in the form of livestock and poultry products. A basic principle in merchandising any commodity is in recognizing the demand on the part of the buyer for quality products. The farmers, who tell me that they are making a profit are the ones that are recognizing this principle. They are producing some commodity a little better than the average.

The County Fair offers the greatest opportunity for the promotion and exhibiting of quality products in agriculture of any institution in the county. A striking example of the practical illustration of this principle is facing Ohio and Huron County posturism.

California Poultry farmers are simply running away with our Cleveland market for eggs. For several months California eggs have been selling for ten to twenty cents per dozen higher in Cleveland grocery stores than those produced locally. Poultry dealers tell me that it is practically impossible to merchandise Huron County eggs to the retail trade. Cleveland housewives want the California eggs because of their superior quality and are willing to pay additional for them. The same principle will apply with every product that our farms produce. The only justification for the County Fair is to assist and help Huron County farmers to raise the standard of the products they produce.

Telephone Personalities

The Chief Operator

IN every telephone operating room there must be a responsible head. This head, in telephone circles, is known as the chief operator, meaning that she is the chief of her department. Upon the chief operator rests the responsibility of seeing that satisfactory telephone service, from the subscriber's viewpoint and from an operating standpoint, is rendered. Her duties are numerous—she advises her girls, checks the office records, observes the service, answers complaints from subscribers and in general is the executive head of her department. The chief operator of a telephone office is one of the most important cogs in telephone machinery.

Fashion: A Drama in Three Acts

ACT I is laid in the offices of an important business house, morning. Act II takes place at luncheon hour on the porch of an exclusive country club. Act III is in a smart drawing-room, tea-time. Throughout the play the stylish heroine wears a trimly modish silk crape frock of semi-sport type. Two narrow bands drop with right-angled precision down the side front, ending in a point where the two inverted plaited begin. Buttons trim the bands below the belt, and link through the bound buttonholes of the sleeves. This frock has voted a decided success by the smartest women in the audience.

Engagement Announced

Complimenting their sister, Miss Ruth Rowalt, of Mansfield, Miss Helen Rowalt and Mrs. Hobart Moomaw of Willard entertained at the home of Miss Rowalt on West High street, Saturday evening. The early part of the evening was devoted to embroidering quilt blocks for the guest of honor and there were contests as another diversion in which the winners of gifts were Mrs. John M. Jones and Misses Minnie Klein, and Madelle Zimmerman of Mansfield, who presented their gifts to Miss Rowalt. The guests were invited to the dining room for the love ly luncheon which was served in two courses. Covers were placed for ten young women at a table beautiful in decoration of yellow and white. Tall yellow tapers in crystal holders were placed at either end and the centerpiece was of roses of a lovely shade of the prevailing color. Cleverly designed name cards bore the announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Ruth Rowalt and Harvey L. Lanehart, which will take place Thursday evening, June 23, at the First Presbyterian church in Mansfield. The hostesses presented their sister with a beautiful bridal gift. Another social courtesy will be extended to Miss Rowalt Friday evening when the Misses Minnie Klein and Freda McVicar will be her hostesses at the Kleins home in Mansfield.

Laura La Plante Stellar Blonde In "Love Thrill"

Laura La Plante will be seen in the starring role of the Universal-Jewell production, "The Love Thrill," at the Castamba, Shelby, Wednesday of next week.
And when one considers it, "The Love Thrill" was a particularly appropriate title for a picture for the pretty, blonde comedienne to appear in at that time, for immediately upon the completion of it, she became the blushing bride of William Seiter, a Universal director who has made several of her best pictures.
Another picture with quite an appropriate title is scheduled for Miss La Plante soon after, for Universal is planning to make a story entitled, "Brides Will Be Brides," with herself in the feminine lead. Mr. Seiter, incidentally, will direct the picture.
Captivating Women A Feature of "The Rat"
"The Rat," a new film sensation now playing in the leading theatres, is outstanding in many ways, but more particularly on account of the great array of feminine beauties incorporated in its great cast. Few if any pictures have ever had so many gorgeous women to feast the eyes as "The Rat." Apart from its beauty appeal "The Rat" is a tremendous dramatic sensation that will stir the emotions to the very depths of the soul. Don't miss seeing "The Rat" at the Castamba, Shelby, Monday and Tuesday of next week. The cast is headed by Mae Marsh, Ivor Novello and Isabel Jeans.
