

"Memory Lane" Has Many Travelers At Basswood

Picnic Held There Saturday Brings Old Friends Together Once More.

The Third Homecoming of the Basswood Picnic Association was held at the commodious home and grounds of F. L. Kemp, four miles southwest of Plymouth, near the Basswood schoolhouse, Saturday, August 6, 1927.

The weather was ideal for the occasion, and the place was selected for its beauty and convenience. About one hundred and thirty were in attendance, all coming with well filled baskets containing a great variety of delicious eatables, which were arranged on long tables and dined at comfortably seated and kindly waited upon. The addition of hot coffee and ice cold lemonade left nothing more to be desired.

During the afternoon, a very interesting program was rendered, consisting of singing, essays, recitations and several fine readings. Also a very pleasing address by Rev. W. H. Gibson of Plymouth, which was full of good thoughts. Reminiscences of his own school days, and emphasizing the thought that school life and young life is a preparation for the emergency which are bound to come to all who depart this life. The singing of "Blest Be The Tie That Binds," concluded this very entertaining program.

A short business session was held which was presided over by the president, Otis Grafmiller of Mansfield, Ohio, who was again elected president and treasurer. To succeed Mrs. Mabelle Stewart. After the appointing of several committees, the business meeting was brought to a close by tendering to Mr. Kemp a vote of thanks for his hospitality and for making the arrangements for the needs of the day.

Friends were present from Mansfield, Tiffin, Delaware, Lexington, Millmore, Attica, Tiro, Creston, Shelby, New Washington, Liberty Corners and Plymouth.

The character of those present pays a just tribute to former residents and teachers. Those who, in an early day, endured the hardships and privations incident to pioneer life, that the men and women of today might be able to enjoy the comforts and conveniences of modern life. It was a pleasure to meet the friends who, though different from those met with in former times, are none the less binding upon us of today to safeguard the welfare of mankind. To maintaining this organization by observing one day a year set apart for our coming together, means honoring those who have gone before, and for those present, cementing the ties of friendship into a union which time will only increase and make stronger.

Former teachers present were Mrs. Billie Schreiner and W. B. Ross of Shelby; Ohio; Mr. Ed Steele, Delaware; Otis Grafmiller, Mansfield; Miss Ruth Kaufman, Tiro; Frank Finner and F. L. Kemp, Plymouth.

Health Camp Has Unusual Attendance

Boys and Girls Enjoy Outing At Conger's Grove; Good Teamwork.

Tuesday brought to a close one of the most successful health camps ever conducted at Conger's Grove. The enrollment this year totaled 121 boys and girls. The program and routine of work was planned by a capable committee and everything went off in fine shape during the entire encampment.

The 4-H club of Greenwich had the largest delegation. These girls are proud of the fact that they paid their own expenses to the camp through the saving of their earnings.

The campers were divided into four groups, to wait on tables, wash dishes, prepare fruits and vegetables, and carry wood and water. Each child was on one of these details and the work was alternated each day so that all had an opportunity at the various duties of the camp. Swimming was the favorite camp feature and one the children enjoyed most.

Mr. Chronister and his corps of leaders are to be congratulated on the work done through the camp this summer, and it exemplifies what can be done in the future to promote healthy children and build up good will in the county.

Plans Elimination of All Dangerous Crossings

Columbus—Realizing the rapidly growing necessity of meeting the grade crossing problem on the state highway system, Director G. L. Schlesinger, of the state highway department, has formulated an extensive program for the elimination of dangerous grade crossings, throughout the state.

In the last session of the legislature provision was made that out of the gasoline tax funds assigned to the highway department, $1,000,000 per year could be used in eliminating grade crossings. Under the present law the cost of eliminating grade crossings is divided equally between the railroad companies and the public the railroads paying 50 per cent of the cost and the public the remaining 50 per cent. It is the present intention of the public share equally between the state and the county in which improvement takes place, thus on any given project, the cost is usually distributed twenty-five per cent to the state, twenty-five per cent to the county, and fifty per cent to the railroad company or companies. On the basis counties wishing to cooperate would provide another million dollars and the railroads would under the law provide $2,000,000, making $4,000,000 per year available for this type of work.

Director Schlesinger is receiving applications from counties wishing to cooperate on this class of work and intends to assign the entire million dollars now available, at once and

Black Elected Superintendent

At the monthly meeting of the New Haven Township school board held last week P. I. Black was chosen superintendent of the New Haven schools to succeed Mr. A. S. Porter, who held this position last year.

Mr. Black has been connected with the New Haven schools the past two years, teaching the seventh and eighth grades, and he has made an enviable record since he became a member of the New Haven staff.

Mr. Porter is now connected with the State University and is at present doing extension work in Seneca county. During his superintendency at New Haven he made many friends who regret to know that he will not be with the school this year. Mr. Porter prepared himself for work along the agricultural line and that he is accorded every success is the wish of his many friends in the vicinity of New Haven.

Normal School To Be Held At Mansfield

Announcement by Mr. Phelps, newly-elected county school superintendent that the Normal School will be held in Mansfield this year, beginning some time in September. It was announced reported that there would be no sessions of the school. However, Mr. F. L. Black, a member of the board, states that the school will open, and that entrance examinations will be held at an early date.

Member of Assembly Here

Dr. B. Franklin Lear, member of the 89th General Assembly from Trumbull county, called on Dr. B. P. Laah, local chiropractor, to discuss plans for carrying on the Referendum campaign this fall.

The chiropractors are asking for a separate Board of Chiropractic Examiners and are willing to leave this question to the voters of Ohio, November 8th.

This is the Referendum the voters can support without increasing their taxes one dollar.

WE BEG YOUR PARDON

In last week's issue the name of Mrs. H. N. Miller was used instead of Mrs. V. B. Miller. It was Mrs. Miller who celebrated their birthdays jointly. We beg your pardon.

It is hoped to have a full four million dollars obligated, before the end of 1928. This should ultimately take care of the elimination of about forty dangerous grade crossings.

PLANS FOR NEW SCHOOL TO BE SUBMITTED SOON

Estimated Costs and Other Details Will Be Made to Local Board.

The Plymouth school board met Tuesday night, at which time approval was made of the proposed plan to have an architect to draw up sketches, and to give estimated costs on a Junior-High and High school structure, and repairs to the present building, to make it suitable for the grades.

It is probable that the plans and costs will be ready within a short time and as soon as they are, a special meeting will be called, and a decision will be made by the board, as to which would be best suited for Plymouth, and the matter will then be put in shape for the voters.

Should the citizens of the Plymouth school district be far-sighted enough to see the opportunity that is before them perhaps petitions would be circulated and sentiment expressed concerning the proposed merger of the schools favorable.

Every citizen knows that Plymouth needs a school house, and The Advertiser believes that if the proposition comes up for public approval the movement will receive whole-hearted support.

Think it over now and be prepared to act when the time comes. Leaders are not useless. Sign petitions and enjoy an audience.

Ford Turns Over; Two Are Injured

Samuel and Stephen Ross, who are employed by the state highway department, were seriously injured Tuesday afternoon on the Shiloh road when the Ford car in which they were riding overturned near the Chesser home.

The men were rushed to the Shelby hospital where examinations showed they received severe cuts, bruises and broken bones.

The Rosses live in Millin township and are employed by the highway department. Finishing their work the men got into their car but before they had gone very far, something went wrong with the steering gear, which caused the wreck.

Car wrecked on the New Haven Road

A Chevrolet sedan belonging to William Harding of North Fairfield, was completely wrecked early Tuesday morning on the New Haven road, almost in front of the home of Mr. Ted Davis.

Various rumors were about Tuesday as to the driver of the machine. However, Mr. Harding says the car was stolen, and was wrecked while the party or parties were travelling south at a high rate of speed. Mr. Davis states that after the crash, he heard two raps on the front door, but before he could answer the knock, the person disappeared.

It is supposed that the car was driven by a Willard party as Mr. Harding is employed on the night side at the B & O shops, and he started work Tuesday morning and quit for home he discovered his car missing.

Those who viewed the wreck state that they do not understand how anyone in the car came out alive.

CHAS. V. TRUAX, Director

Ill sin entered the peaceful abode of man. The link of friendship was broken, man became a rebel, man was lost. And now from the heights of eternal glory, Jesus, the personification of divine love, descends to become man, that he might through his manhood redeem us from our fallen estate. The infinite enjoyments of heaven were forsaken, the regions of eternal day are left behind, that thru his poverty we might become rich, and though he thought it not robbery to be accounted equal with God, he connects himself with man's nature, he took upon himself the form of a servant, and humbled himself unto death, even the death on the cross. Mystery of mysteries, after taking up on himself the form of man, this vine person spends more than thirty years below, the friends finally forsaking him, while the enemies nail him to the cross that you and I might be saved from our sin. What a cessation of wonders, what unequalled love, what art thy limits? Is this wonderful Christ the rock of your salvation? If not, why not?

HIS GOOD TURN

That human kindness is still abundant and sometimes manifests itself under unexpected circumstance is illustrated by a little story in the Paris, France, Figaro.

A Paris "young man about town" being driven in a handsome closed car was halted at a street intersection to let a hearse pass. The hearse was followed only by a woman and two small children on foot. It was raining hard and she was trying to protect them with a shabby umbrella as they sorrowfully followed the father's corpse to the cemetery. The young man stepped from his car, asked the widow and children to get in and told his chauffeur to take them to the cemetery and then to their home. Then he bowed to the bereaved group and hailed a taxi for his own use.

And the Recording Angel wrote that on that day a brave boulevardier had done his good turn.

Our Weekly Sermonette

(By Dr. G. R. Mente)

OUR RELATIONSHIP TO CHRIST

What wonderful language is this! While we were yet sinners, Christ died for us! In plainer language: While we were enemies of the Almighty God, plans were carried out to reconcile man to the Creator by the death of his son. Can any one conceive of greater love, sympathy and interest in fallen man? I am not surprised to hear John on Palmos Isle exclaim: Worthy is the lamb that was slain, to receive honor, glory and adoration. I would that we might more willingly crucify this Christ, the King of our affections, the fountain of all joy. With what union of heart and voice ought we to thus express our obligation and affection, for while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. Let us join in the loud hosannas resounding from the heavens above. Let us join with angels and saints in glory, for the lamb that was slain is the wonderful theme, both on earth and in heaven.

The Christian's relation to God takes away anticipation of blessings untold, giving to us the consciousness of a real possession of those things of inestimable value. Rejoice oh those who follow Christ, for this multitude of blessings flows from no virtue of ours, but is enjoyed through the fellowship with Christ. Are we conscious of reconciliation with God? It is only through the death of the Lord Jesus. Have we been brought about? He made it possible through the blood shed on the cross. Are we delivered from the curse of the Law? It was Christ who was made a curse for us. Are we saved from the wrath to come? It is through the love of Jesus that this was brought about. Are we rich toward God? It was through the poverty of Jesus the soul of man was made rich. Oh, mercy and grace unbounded, shine upon the pathway of poor fallen man and reveal the great love of God. The incarnation of Jesus is indeed the most amazing event that ever happened since the creation of man. And through all eternity it will have no equal. With what astonishment must the angels have beheld the incarnation and suffering of Jesus? They knew him as the brightness of his father's glory, they worshipped him as Lord of lords, king of kings. They knew he had a part in the creation of all things and upheld this creation through millenniums. In heaven these immortal multitudes enjoyed happiness beneath his smile, on earth all things seemed supported by his hand, governed by his power and majesty. Thus the Lord Jesus existed, heaven his throne, the universe his kingdom. All seemed to be in harmony with the divine will,

Double your oil mileage

by using Sterling the Thousand Mile Oil

If it were possible to hitch a speedometer direct to your crankcase, you could then more accurately measure the mileage of the oil you use.

However, you have the statements of reliable oil producers who have made innumerable tests with their oils. Their statements have been accepted as authentic.

In using the general run of motor oils, you are advised that your oil should be changed every 500 miles—this is their safety limit.

Owing to the high quality of crude used in the manufacture of Sterling Oil, and the more efficient method used in refining it, Sterling mileage mark has been established at 1000 miles—just double the mileage given by the average oil.

You can pocket half the money you usually pay for oil by using Sterling. You only have to change oil half as often.

Band To Be Great Feature at State Fair

The All-Ohio State Fair Band will again be back at the Ohio State Fair, August 25th to September 3rd, under the direction of J. W. Wainwright of camp at Oliver Lake, LaGrange, Indiana, where they are under the instructions of Wainwright, Guy V. Sutphen of Toledo, and Superintendent Clark of the Kenton Public Schools, Sutphen is assistant music director of the camp and Clark, athletic director.

Four days before the opening of the fair, the entire group of 300 boys will be assembled at the Fair Grounds, where they will spend their time organizing for the activities of the week. They will practice as one large unit and will also be divided into several smaller organizations. Each of these made today by Director of Agriculture, Chas. V. Truax.

Different sections of the band are at present practicing at a summer will be under the leadership of one of the assistant directors and will play at different places in the grounds. These boys will form a town of their own at the Fair Grounds, with a complete organization. They will be housed in tents and cooks provided to prepare their meals.

The Ohio State Fair Band members will all be furnished with like uniforms which have all been purchased this year. Those uniforms are of blue velvet, gilt-trimmed, and have red sash and military caps.

The fair this fall marks the fourth year that patrons have been privileged to hear an All-Ohio Band. In 1924, a High School Band Contest was conducted over the entire state by the Ohio State Fair management. Six organizations judged to be the best in Ohio were brought to Columbus at the expense of the State Fair, and encamped on the grounds during the entire week. They played each day and were judged on their six-day performance.

For the past three years, Wainwright has visited Ohio high schools and selected individuals for the All-Ohio Band, judging them on their individual merit. The same procedure is being followed this year, only musicians of unusual ability being selected.

All those who still desire to enter the band may apply to Mr. J. W. Wainwright, Box 75 Postoria, Ohio.

Actual Views of the World War at Temple Theatre

No pink and well fed movie hero with fake battle scenes and harmless smoke clouds occupy these scenes. It is grim dark reality in every line and action from artillery duels between opposing batteries of the battles in the clouds. Charge after charge in succeeding waves with men dropping as death found them, paying the supreme sacrifice, knowing that their bodies would still carry on. In this remarkable picture will be found every element that went to make up the greatest war and the largest sacrifice of human life, the greatest destruction of property that has ever been known in the history of man.

The terrible destruction of infantry, artillery, battles in the clouds, chlorine and mustard gas attacks, the death by hand grenade, the murderous machine gun, the bayonet charge and liquid fire are all a part of "America's Greatest Picture" Corp. Bob Ingleton has had a varied career and is a 1918-1919 today as one of America's greatest photographers. Previous to his casting his lot with Uncle Sam he was the official photographer of the state of California.

The Corporal was one of the few signal corps photographers in France who returned with the victorious American army, yet he did not escape with a clean bill of health as he was wounded several times and produced and thru his experiences with the various units of the A. E. F. and his constant duty in the battle zones, he is able to present a clear lecture of conditions. Scenes showing activities of the 37th and 42nd "Rainbow" divisions together with the description given by Corp. Ingleton cannot but interest the Temple Patrons inasmuch as a number of the boys were members of these divisions.

"PAINTING TOWN," LAUGH SURPRISE AT CASTAMBA

Patry Ruth Miller and Glenn Tryon are featured in the all star cast of "Painting the Town," a Universal-Jewel-William James Craft production which will be shown at the Castamba, next Saturday.

This convulsive farce has occasioned a small sensation in the industry, for it brings out, in addition to the well known beauty and charm of Patry Miller, an outstanding young comedian who has not, hitherto, been looked upon as star material. In "Painting the Town" Glenn Tryon made the projection room audiences laugh so loud at Universal City that Carl Laemmle, president of the company, hastened to offer him a five year contract, which of course he accepted.

As soon as the farce was shown in New York to invited audiences consisting of critics and theatre managers, it was acclaimed as a great surprise farce and booked by the theatre managers who spoke first. Among others, S. L. Rothafel, manager of the Roxy, the largest theatre in the world, selected it to head his program.

MOTHER OF 111 KITTENS

Yakima, Wash. Although only of the alleycat aristocracy and known by the plebeian name of Peanuts, a Yakima puss is making a bid for an international championship in making the world unsafe for mice.

Peanuts has reared 111 kittens in the last 5 1/2 years. Her owner, Roy Dover, puts forward this record against those of a London cat with a record of 115 kittens in twelve years and a Seattle pedigreed Persian that added 112 kittens to the feline population of that city in 9 years.

SHEEP TAILS GO

We are going to get tailless sheep Prof. J. W. Wilson of South Dakota, has been busy himself breeding off the caudal appendage till now the lambs in the experimental flock are coming properly detailed at birth. He brought this about by mating native eyes with tailless, fat-rumped rams from the Levant.

A few of the lambs as yet show some fat-rumped characteristics, but these are rare enough to make this tendency quite simple to overcome by further selection and mating. But the tails are gone. No longer can these sheep "come home bringing their tails behind 'em."

In an opinion given out by Attorney General Turner, it was pointed out that prisoners from the Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield cannot be allowed to work on farms or for private concerns. Editorial And News Comment On National Happenings

Col. Charles Lindbergh, the best known American in the country today, speaks very briefly to the thousands of enthusiastic admirers who greet him on his tour over the country--but what he says in a few words could be memorized by every loyal American citizen. "The United States is a peace-loving country, and always has been and hope it always will be. But the best thing is preparedness for any emergency and one greatest way of building a military reserve that will protect this great nation against any armed force is adequate commercial air service, for it is easy to convert commercial planes to war planes. Being welcomed by thousands of people in every city he visits, is much against the wish of Lindbergh, however, he cannot evade the receptions that are given him. One look at this young man and you discover a genius who would much rather be tinkering with his plane than perched on a pedestal to be idolized. His famous flight, to him, is merely a personal satisfaction and his fame will live for he is not commercializing himself.

President Coolidge has caused a cosmic ripple among the scribes by his announcement that he does not "choose," which is taken very casually as a "feeler" as to how he stands with the nation. There is nothing very definite about this little assertion for it is a long way to the national convention and it is possibly instigated by party leaders that he will be drafted into the nomination for want of better material.

It has taken the wheels of justice seven years to grind out a final decision as to whether two murderers in Massachusetts shall pay the extreme penalty and was finally concluded by a four-month investigation of the governor who says they had a fair and unprejudiced trial. Justice was surely slow, but evidently sure in this case.

Charley Birger, gang lord of Southern Illinois, has been sentenced to death for murder. He caused the death of Mayor Adams of West City, who was friendly with another gang. There were gang activities including mail and other assorted varieties of burglary and robbery, bootlegging and murder whenever they thought necessary. It is optimistically asserted that the conviction means an end of gang rule in southern Illinois and all will agree that to Birger and his henchman no heirs or successors are desired.

China made the front page of the dailies last week by giving an earthquake in which 100,000 were killed. They could have accomplished the same result by planning a non-stop fight to somewhere or marrying a poor little French-Canadian girl.

Members of the House of David think King Ben will live forever and it is beginning to look as if he would have to if he wants to see the end of his trial.

If any farmer wants to make a big wave of money, let him develop red roasting ears so that when a girl eats corn on the cob nobody will notice that her lipstick has become warm and run all over the grain.

Mrs. Almee McPherson and her Ma, both of Los Angeles, have been on the outs for a few weeks, but they have it kissed and made up and have decided to split the $100,000 which has been amassed through their fanatical religious ventures.

England says this country is still childish when it comes to international affairs but there is some satisfaction in the contemplation of "And a little child shall lead them."

Lowman, the new prohibition chief wants better dry agents and while he's about it he should try to get drier ones.

The principal of a San Francisco school ordered a boy to go home because he was barefooted and wore overalls. It happened to be the son of a world War veteran who was sick in the hospital and of a mother who, instead of asking for some sympathy, is the ability to dress well. The people of San Francisco are to be congratulated in coming to the rescue of this barefoot boy the way they did and in forcing the school authorities to reverse the unjust order against him in less than three hours.

In strange contrast to the attitude of the San Francisco principal, Smith College girls have put a ban on stockings and will go about the campus barelegged in hot weather. Our educational system appears not only to be overloaded with fails, but so fails that are hopelessly inconsistent and irreconcilable.

California's new law to prevent on-the-spot-of-the-moment marriage was gone into effect, but it is doubted if it will cause much of a stir in Hollywood. Nothing will worry Hollywood so long as on-the-spot-of-the-moment divorces are not interfered with. Such a law has obvious merits and no serious disadvantages. It may, to be sure, prove an annoyance to those who think there is something clever about a secret marriage or who have the joyously juvenile inclination to surprise their friends. But that is not a matter for grave concern. The law will be no hindrance to the marriage of persons who have determined upon the step after suitable consideration, a classification which includes by far the majority; but it will have a stop-look-and-listen effect on the impetuous who would marry on a week's acquaintance or immediately after discovering that their dance steps harmonize, and it will be a bar to too youthful matches. Due publicity will also prevent fraudulent marriages. And next door to California, Mexico will have a bill before its legislature which would allow a divorce to be granted by the mere affidavit of a notary. No doubt should this bill become a law, Mexico will be a hot competitor for Nevada and the matrimonial weary will make a beaten path to that country.

101 Ranch Wild West, Enlarged, Heads This Way

Indians and Cossacks; cowboys and Benjamins; vaqueros and Arabs; bronchos and elephants--these are some of the 1,100 people and 600 animals coming to Mansfield, Tuesday August 16, with the 101 Ranch Wild West, which boasts the only circus parade of magnitude in America. This feature show, said to be the largest of its kind, past or present, has added a menagerie and horse fair to its many attractions. These are displayed under a six-pole tent, which gives the 101 Ranch a spread of canvas that will crowd the acreage of the regular circus lots in the great cities, as the big top is 540 by 300 feet-20 feet longer than any other tent ever built.

Unusually large wild west and rodeo displays alternate with Par Eastern novelties, and Miller Brothers, owners of the famous 136,000-acre 101 Ranch in Oklahoma and the show, have spared nothing to make this year's performance an epochal one. Performances are given at 2 and 8 P. M. The parade leaves the lot at 10:30 A. M.

NEWS ABOUT THE CHURCHES

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

Services for Sunday, August 14--Sunday school at 10, Worship at 11 a.m. Quite a few think it would be better to discontinue the evening services through August, so decision will be made at the next Sunday service.

On Sunday, August 21, the Sunday school will have opportunity to contribute to the World Service of the church. The year draws toward its close. Conference convenes September 6, and much remains to be done. Looking toward this, the meeting of the Official Board was held Monday evening, August 8, with good attendance, and a fine meeting. Reports showed the year's work well in hand, counting those from whom it is expected to bear during this month. The new heating plant is installed and is a good looking job. We are assured it has capacity to care for all needs in coldest weather, and the guarantee covers material, installation and cap-ability for five years. It is a Ralbot, installed by Mr. Murray, of Willard.

The pastor will take one Sunday off, August 21, when a representative of the Lord's Day Alliance will speak at New Haven and Plymouth at the morning services. If arrangements can be made.

BEE SWARM GIVES HORSE LONG CHASE

Berlin. A swarm of bees tried to cluster on the tail of a horse harnessed to a light butcher wagon in front of a northward butcher shop here. The horse proceeded to entertain an excited but helpless mob for at least ten minutes with some samples of wild west bucking. The frantic animal succeeded in freeing itself of the wagon and galloped madly down the avenue.

Meanwhile the fire brigade was called out. It started in hot pursuit with the hose assiduously spraying the horse's hind quarters whenever the spraying was good. After the chase continued for half a mile, the bees were driven away and the completely exhausted horse was corralled.

TO BUILD WORKHOUSE

The fact that the Dayton Work House will no longer receive prisoners from the vicinity of Marion, it has been announced that a work house will be built in Marion to care for prisoners from that territory. Through arrangements with nearby cities, Marion will no doubt receive quite a bit of support in the venture.

"MARRIED ALIVE" MARITAL SATIRE

"Married Alive," the Fox Film production coming to the Shelby Castamba, Sunday, shows what a lot of difference there can be between the ory and practice.

This clever satire on Polygamy deals with the theories of a brilliant Professor whose books and lectures on the subject have caused such a furor throughout the country and with the practices of a modern Bluebeard whose reputation is seemingly of the best and none of whose wives know the others exist.

Lou Tellegen is the Bluebeard whose collection of wives includes Margaret Livingston, Claire Adams, Marcella Daly and Emily Fitzroy, all of them distinctive types.

Matt Moore is the Professor whose theories are completely upset and changed by the end of the picture. Gertrude Claire is his adoring though disapproving aunt; Eric Mayne his dignified doctor and Charles Lane the excitable Vicar whose ward is one of Duxbury's wives.

Where Is The Wage-Earner Going?

By WALTER GORDON ARMSTRONG

The number of people who work for a living, who are gainfully employed, is growing smaller every year. This is one of the important facts brought out in an investigation carried on by the National Industrial Conference Board of New York. In 1925 only 37.2 per cent of the United States population worked for money. Or, if you choose, put it this way—only 28 people out of every 70 were gainfully employed.

The laborer trudging off to the factory, the executive at his desk, the farmer in the fields, clerks, teachers and typists, surround us with a vast thronging bee hive of activity. Does it seem possible that there are 63 out of every hundred a total of 72,000,000 at home, school and at play, supported and protected by the 37 per cent of workers? The figures, however, are probably correct.

What Does the World's Work? Drop back fifteen years to 1910, and we find there were approximately forty-two workers to the hundred. Out of 91,000,000 human beings 35,000,000 were gainfully employed.

If only 39.4 per cent in the United States were working for pay in 1920, how about the rest of the world? In Europe, Holland and Denmark alone showed a smaller percentage, 37.7 per cent, to be exact. The same year Great Britain and Ireland showed 44 per cent, France 53.3 per cent, Italy 46.8 per cent, and Germany 56.6 per cent.

As these figures are being reported for executives, it will be interesting to know just what sort of work occupied the 43,000,000 in 1925. Manufacturing and allied mechanical industries took care of 29.9 per cent. The number who have gone into the factories have shown a slight increase. If the average executive were asked the question, probably the major portion would say that there are many more workers in the manufacturing field than in agriculture. The figures do not support this impression, as in 1910 there were 33.2 per cent engaged in agriculture against 27.8 per cent in mechanical lines. Workers are leaving agriculture, however, as in 1925 only 24.5 per cent were so employed a falling off of 8.7 per cent in fifteen years.

Blame it on the war if you like, or perhaps our farmers have heard about the scientists working on synthetic beefsteaks, but the fact remains that men are leaving the farms. The automobile, moving pictures, better roads, radio, and many other developments have been influencing factors. The flow cannot be permanent, however, as the raising and growing of food will pay a profit and prove an attractive field of endeavor just as soon as the farmers apply the same modern methods to agriculture that business executives use in their factories and stores. The good old law of supply and demand will turn them back when there are more hungry men than potatoes and more eaters than bushels of wheat.

But, back to the facts. Everybody knows that there are fewer personal and domestic servants today than in 1910. The number has fallen from 9.9 per cent to 8.4 per cent. The day of the drudge who worked from daylight until well into the night, for a few dollars a week, has gone.

In the railroads and other systems of transportation employed 7.6 per cent of all workers and 2.7 per cent were engaged in mining. These two groups showed a slight increase. The non-industrial fields, the "white collar" jobs, took care of 35.3 per cent of all paid workers; 5.5 per cent were in the various types of professional service and showed a small increase over 1910.

Public service, under which heading is listed all branches of naval and military service, used only 1.8 per cent.

The largest single group in the non-industrial field, 10.7 per cent, were in trade, and this class has increased during the fifteen years covered by the report.

Clerical work in 1925 absorbed 8.9 per cent of all those gainfully employed. This group nearly doubled their position, as only 4.6 per cent were so employed in 1910. All along the line "white collar" men increased, which is another noteworthy shift of workers.

Better Conditions, Fewer Workers If it is true that the number of gainfully employed is growing smaller every year, then the natural question to ask is, "Why?" Probably no one is capable of giving an all-inclusive answer, but so far as can be determined the reasons are sound and show a healthy, constructive trend toward better economic conditions. The man who mourns the passing of "the good old days" is talking in his sleep. The world moves ahead, and, regardless of how much we may at times doubt it, leaders in business and politics are striving slowly but surely to build safer and better.

Only a few years ago "child labor" was a definite problem and, while it now seems impossible to believe, there were strong forces blocking any constructive legislation. The better influence prevailed and the fact that these boys and girls have left the mines and are going to school is one of the new conditions which has reduced the number of workers.

There was a time not so long ago when only a few young men and still fewer young women went to college. The fortunate sons of the wealthy and a few serious-minded boys from the better homes frequented the colleges of college students. All others went to work, and any grown man today knew many boys and young men who left school to "start at the bottom and work up." Today the colleges are filled with all classes and conditions of students and there is growing feeling of a more careful selection and weeding out of those who each year enter higher schools and universities would be beneficial. The larger number of young folks who are in college is another factor which has thinned out the ranks of the worker.

Restricted immigration has a bearing on the subject and has been a decided influence in the shifting of the different groups and classes. A volume could be written on the various phases of controlled immigration, but it answers the purpose here simply to mention as a factor.

Women Who Work Increasing Another fact to consider, and one which has an important bearing on the whole problem, is the ever-increasing number of women who are at work outside the home. The last census showed that 8,500,000 women are gainfully employed and that 2,000,000 of these are married. The number of women working in mechanical industries and manufacturing has increased 41 per cent in the past ten years. "One out of every five wage-earners is a woman and out of every four women is a wage-earner."

Eight and one-half million women at work out side of the home are doing more independent thinking than 8,500,000 men confined within the four walls of a domestic problem twenty-five years ago. Regardless of what work may split, don't overlook the fact that this influence is to be accepted, recognized and considered. The indirect effect of such an economic shift may, to ascertain extent, be measured by the direct. Commercial bakery production has increased about 12 per cent in two years. The value of bread, rolls, and coffee cakes alone approximates $600,000,000 a year. "Mother's" bread is fast becoming a figure of speech.

What The Changes Mean Careful planning and foresight are attributes of good management and every shift and change in economic conditions present new problems. The facts and figures given here, while interesting to those who thrive on statistics, are only of value to the active executive in so far as they serve for guide posts along the road of business progress.

As the number of domestic and personal servants decreases and if women continue to work outside the family circle, there will be an increasing call for the manufacture and sale of labor-saving devices for the home. Electric irons, washing machines, vacuum cleaners and similar household appliances will come more completely into their own. It is also quite probable that there will be a gradual but persistent trend toward simpler home furnishings. Combine this with the increased earning capacity of each worker, the general improvement in personal tastes and the tendency will be toward quality rather than inexpensive quantity.

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Dick of West Broadway arrived home Sunday from a two weeks' trip through the East. They visited relatives in Buffalo. A few days were also spent in Canada and Niagara Falls, from then on to Boston where they visited several historical places, among which was the home of Paul, where Hancock, Clark, Emerson, Longfellow, Hawthorne, Louise May Alcott, Orchard House, the battlefields of Lexington, Bunker Hill and many places that dated back to 1630.

From Boston they visited Mr. and Mrs. Marjorie Bistline of Dover, N. H. Together with these kind friends they enjoyed a motor trip of three hundred miles around the White mountains, passing through that magnificent valley between Mt. Webster and Mt. Willey, called Crawford. Notch about 100 miles in length. Then on to Crawford Lake and reached Mt. Washington. Here is obtained one of the best views of the White Mts. and here is the "King in his Glory," sitting in regal splendor with his crown over 6000 feet above the sea. On farther, they saw the White Mountains, Echo Lake and a view of the wonder of the hills. The profile, "The Old Man," of the mountains and Indian Head. Back by the way of Concord, we reach Dover and later visit the ship yards, dry docks and navy station, one of two of its kind in the United States, this being located at Portsmouth and Kittery, Maine. A few days was also spent with the Bistlines at their cottage of Wells Beach, Maine, on the ocean. On the return trip, they passed through the Catskill and Berkshire mountains. It surely is a worthwhile trip through the New England states.

Manless Tractor Plows On While Farmer Goes to Town

Lincoln, Neb.—By means of a manless tractor recently invented, a farmer may set his stirring plow at work in the field and go to the house to do his chores, or he and his family may put the machine to work and drive into town to do their shopping. After the tractor has been set to work it needs no one to watch it, and will run for gasoline and turned it loose in the field one evening. Toward midnight, he relates, neighboring farmers, fearing the machine might break loose and cut a swath through the countryside, roused him and demanded he stop the tractor. The next day he invited five neighbors to a demonstration and convinced them of its safety. Since that time he has been perfecting the device. Recently it was tested at the agricultural farm of the University of Nebraska here before several hundred farmers. It is claimed that the machine more than doubles the capacity of a Fordson tractor, as it can run day and night. The saving of labor is almost complete, excepting for one or two hours' attention. The device is simple. The tractor is guided by a mechanical arm extending a few feet beyond the front wheel of the tractor. The guiding arm pushes a shoe which rests in the furrow made on the previous round. So long as the pilot remains in the furrow the tractor goes straight ahead. Let anything serve the pilot from the exact course of the previous furrow and the gas supply valve is closed and the tractors stop. The stoppage of the noise warns the farmer that his tractor needs attention. It is necessary to plow the first furrow around the field and turn the corners so that the tractor may continue its work.
