

Chinese Missionary To Speak At Celeryville

Dr. S. Hui-zengta to Give a Very Descriptive Lecture of China.

An exceptional opportunity for the latest first hand information on China awaits everybody in the vicinity of Celeryville, Plymouth, Willard and other towns. Sunday evening, Sept. 11, at 7:30 o'clock Dr. Lee S. Hui-zengta of Shanghai, China, will be the speaker at the Mission meeting of the Christian Reformed Church at Celeryville.

Dr. Hui-zengta was the first pioneer missionary of the Christian Reformed church to begin mission work in China. He with his family have been in China over 10 years and because of the present troubles there, he is home on furlough.

Dr. Hui-zengta knows the Chinese language, customs and habits; and any information given out by him may be accepted as the truth. He is a medical missionary and was not connected with any business firm or any agency of pecuniary gain. He will be able to speak with no prejudice against China, America, or any other country.

Several other missionaries followed Dr. Hui-zengta to the new field and when conditions there became serious all foreigners were asked to come to places of safety. Nanking was one of the refuge cities. Dr. Hui-zengta and his assistant and their families immediately went there, and just a few days before the outbreaks at that place most of the missionary force left on boats for Shanghai. One of his assistants was on an American destroy on "Bloody Thursday" and beheld the Nanking outbreak at eye sight.

The following are a few extracts from letters sent home:

"Last week Thursday, March 11, we left Nanking. With our party were Mr. Johnson and her two boys, and Mrs. Smith with Eunice. On our way to the boat dock we began to appreciate some of the tenseness of the situation—the crowds of rude soldiers, the hard coolies, the general antipathy of trouble. We saw one soldier beat up a coolie because the coolie would not work fast enough for him. Another man was being led to execution because of looting. The soldiers tried to commandeer our carriage, but failed. After many hours of waiting we managed to get on board a Japanese river boat with our baggage. We were also carrying a trunk for each of De Vries, Kamps and Selles, containing their choicest possessions. The coolies were impatient in their attitude toward us foreigners.

"We arrived in Shanghai Friday evening. The boat docked on the opposite side of the river to where we wanted to go, a considerably unpleasant trip. The Chinese crowded so hard on the steam launch which came to take us across that we were not able to get on it ourselves. So we had to resort to a sampan rowed by three Chinese. This sampan was like a very large rowboat. On it were piled all our baggage, and the entire party with a representative of the Missionary Home. Under ordinary circumstances it would have been a good ride but this happened to be a rainy night and all we had to protect ourselves was a Chinese oil paper umbrella. Fortunately the New Orleans and the baby fairly dry and the hills at Mrs. De Kroon. The rest of us had to take the water as it came. Thus we rode with a row of battleships on one side, a row of ocean liners on the other, and the light of the Shanghai Bund blinking through the rain in the distance. We were in a half hour we reached the Bund and hastened in autos to the Missionary Home, where we were able to dry out and get something to eat.

"The shelling of Sorcery Hill was observed by the Sellesses. They were on board a United States destroyer when the firing began. The American sailors were guarded by about eight sailors, a force entirely inadequate to meet the hundreds of southern soldiers and the fierce mob. Moreover they were under strict orders not to fire. The southerners insolently demanded all their possessions, and even the sailors were taken a few guns from the sailors were in agony because of their compulsory inaction. At last things became so desperate that retreat was no longer possible. Counsel

FACTS Regarding the Trux Street Paving Project.

The Trux Street paving proposition was started last year by a movement of some of the property owners on that street asking the co-operation of the Village Council to secure state and county aid to get Trux Street paved in the same manner that Plymouth Street was paved.

The Village Council offered hearty support and a committee was named to Manassah to see the County Commissioners to ascertain if they would support the proposition.

The Commissioners, (particularly Commissioner Kuhn,) took up the proposition with the State Highway Department and also arranged for the county's share of the expense.

Owing to other highway work ahead of this no immediate action could be brought about, but the improvement came up for sale in the Fall of 1926, and there were no bidders, presumably because contractors were afraid of freezing weather before the paving could be completed any then it rained most of the time, so farmers who tried to sow wheat could flourish.

The State Highway Commission was unable to act in the Winter and Spring, for want of finances to work with, and it was not until August 9, that any money was available for the work. Ten days later the Trux Street Improvement was sold as we all know.

A committee of the Village Council met with the County Commissioners early in July, and they authorized temporary relief on Trux Street and assured us that there was no doubt of the sale on August 19.

In view of these facts it is unfair to the County Commissioners, or village officials, to insinuate that they were trying to delay action on the Trux Street improvement, and also it is unreasonable that any one, (unless it be the Governor of Ohio,) could command action of the State Highway Department.

With a careful consideration of these facts, we believe that Plymouth people are not credulous enough to believe that any officers, local or county, were trying to delay the paving of Trux Street, regardless of rumors or silly talk to the contrary.

The Village Council is composed of the following: A. E. Bruchack, W. E. McFadden, C. D. Wentz, W. O. Ritter, F. C. Van Wagner, J. B. Derr, Mayor, E. K. Trauger, Clerk.

PLANT TO BE KNOWN AS "HURON FERTILIZER AND TANKAGE CO."
Erection of the concrete block building for the above named industry is under way, one quarter mile east of New Haven on state road No. 17. The owners, J. R. Baumgardner and J. E. Barry are sparing no effort in making this plant strictly modern and sanitary, complying with the state law in every detail.

Their motto will be "Prompt and Sanitary service" in the removal of dead stock, such as horses, cows, hogs, Barry sheep for the farmers of Huron County and vicinity, as well as for the public in general, who may hear the misfortune of losing any stock.

In connection with this free service the owners will manufacture a pure high grade feeding tankage generally known as a bulking of manure, and are producing in quantity. No doubt the farmers of this community will welcome this opportunity and give this new concern their hearty cooperation.

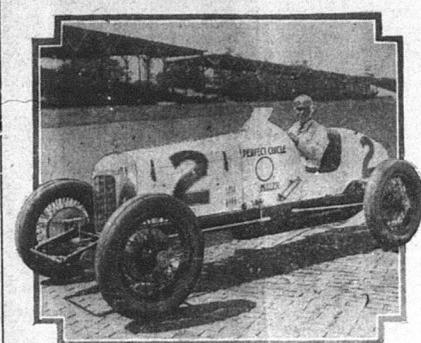

Operation will begin in the near future, and will be definitely announced later.

FRANK LOCKHART, AMERICAN AUTO ACE, FINDS ALL SPEEDWAYS ALIKE TO HIM

Youthful Driver Feels at Home on Dirt, Concrete and Brick Tracks as He Establishes New Marks—Travels 171.02 Miles an Hour.

MUD or dust, concrete or boards, rain or shine—these make no difference to young Frank Lockhart, of Los Angeles, who today at 24 is the fastest automobile driver in the United States, if not in the world.

Few motorists, even of the hardened professional racers, have had the varied experience of Lockhart, who has driven on almost every kind of track.

His best record—and he is after more—was set on a dry lake bed at Muroc, near Los Angeles, California, last April when he whizzed over the alkali sands at 171.02 miles an hour—a figure comparable to that of Major H. O. D. Segrave, the Briton, who drove his "Mystery Sunbeam" at 202.79 miles an hour at Daytona Beach, Florida. Major Segrave holds the British record, of course, and Lockhart the American.

Previous to Lockhart's feat, the best American record was established by the intrepid Tommy Milton, who a few years before he retired whizzed along at 124.4 miles an hour at Daytona Beach.

What makes Lockhart's figures more remarkable than even Major Segrave's is the fact that the American used a car with a displacement of only 91.5 cubic inches, as compared with the displacement in the Englishman's machine of 1200 cubic inches.

Rain likewise holds no terrors for Lockhart for racing fans recall that he won the Decoration Day race on the Indianapolis Speedway last year in a driving rainstorm. So sudden was

BUYS CARDING STORE
The Byrd-Miracle Co. has purchased the defunct firm of the Jay Smith Co., at Cardington, and will take possession at once.

Mr. Byrd is a partner of the Byrd-Miracle Co., and is well known in Plymouth, having at one time been connected with the Rule & Byrd Clothing Store.

Geo. W. Page Cops 10 Prizes At State Fair

Page's Anconas Awarded Four First Prizes; Mrs. Page's Pekin Ducks Take Share of Ribbons.

With a total of 97 Anconas shown from all parts of the State, Geo. W. Page won first Old Pen, first Young Pen, first Hen, first and second Cockerel, first, fourth and fifth Pullets, fifth Cocker and second Utility Pen.

Mrs. Page's Pekin Ducks got their share of ribbons, winning first and third young duck and in roomful of ducks. This was the Waterford Club meet and now Mrs. Page thinks she has some Ducks.

As we all know, who attended the Ohio State Fair last week, that the exhibit of all kinds of live stock and machinery was very large. The paid admission to the fair on Thursday was reported to be 52,200. More than one-third of the people were interested in the wonderful display of poultry.

Former Resident to Visit Here After Long Absence

The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Wasson of Newark, N. J. intend to spend the last week of Sept. in Plymouth. Mrs. Wasson may be remembered by those who still live in Plymouth as Mary Deveny, daughter of Mr. John DeVeny, who was a long resident of Plymouth, but who removed with his family to Cleveland in 1873.

Dr. and Mrs. Wasson expect to be the guests of the Smith Hotel and they hope to meet all of Mrs. Wasson's old friends while in Plymouth. It is likely that Mrs. Wasson will be somewhat surprised to find Plymouth just as it was half a century ago. J. M. Taylor, who was a visit for her last year, and who had been away from Plymouth for forty years, stated upon his visit here, that Plymouth looked the same as when he left.

While Mrs. Wasson will probably find many of her acquaintances missing, there are still a few, who no doubt will remember her, including Mrs. Robt. Nimmons, E. K. Trauger, Jackson BeVier, and others.

MRS. MONTIETH DIES
Mrs. Harriett Emma Montieth died at her home in Mansfield Friday evening after an illness of more than a year.

Funeral services were held at the home last Wednesday and interment was made in a Mansfield cemetery.

RECEPTION FOR TEACHERS
The September meeting of the Parent Teacher's Association will be in connection with a Reception to the teachers of the Plymouth Schools. This will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms on Thursday evening September 15. It was decided last spring that the penalty for losing the North Side-South Side Contest should be paid by giving this reception. Accordingly the following committees have been appointed: Program—Mrs. Sam Bachrach. Refreshments—Mrs. P. H. Root. Miss Harriet Rogers and Mrs. C. S. Walker.

OUT OF RACE
The rumor that Orson Hofman was to be a candidate for mayor is unfounded, according to Mr. Hofman, who stated yesterday that he does not intend to be a candidate for mayor. There are only three prospects left for the race, J. R. Derr, Dr. Geo. J. Searle, Sr., and Chas. A. Sella.

"Smallpox Scare" Is Over-Talked; Only One Case Reported So Far.

While Plymouth has been experiencing a "small pox scare" the past week, authorities state there is no need to fear an epidemic. One case is reported and every precaution is being taken to prevent new cases developing.

One victim of the disease, Mr. Ed Phillips, has been quarantined and all members of the family have been vaccinated as well as those who have been exposed. This case is being closely watched and it is likely to be the only one reported.

School children were given a thorough examination by the county nurse Wednesday and she states that everyone was found to be immune from any symptoms of small pox. The majority of the children have been vaccinated during the past two or three years and this will aid materially in battling the disease.

County Health Commissioner, Dr. Pilkey, of Norwalk was in town Monday and his report was favorable. However, he advised that mothers be careful with all foods, keeping it free from contamination and flies, and to feed children only the best of everything, and well cooked foods. It is also suggested—that the youngsters bathe daily and take plenty of exercise.

Whatever talk concerning an epidemic in Plymouth may be termed false, and it is safe to say that there will be no more developments in one or three weeks.

The above printed in behalf of the citizens and business men, and those coming into town may feel that they are entirely safe from smallpox, and need not have any fear of taking this contagious disease.

NOTICE
All men of the Presbyterian church are requested to meet at the church Saturday, Sept. 10, at 8 a. m. to complete excavating for the installation of the new furnace. If possible to be present, bring a substitute. Bring shovels and pick.

Our Schools

(By Supt. R. R. Miller.)

There is a theory of education which maintains that the purpose of the school is merely to provide a favorable environment for the pupil. If we include the teacher as a part of this environment, the theory is good; otherwise it contains a great fallacy. Before pointing out this fallacy, it will be well to concede the following points. Truth is universal, but it is not truth to you or to me until we have made it our own. So each one must learn for himself. No one can learn the pupils' lessons for him, he must learn for himself. The old proverb: "You can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink," may be paraphrased, "You can send a child to school but you can't make him think." The teacher can not make him think for the pupil, but by the help and guidance of the teacher, the pupil can learn for himself much more thoroughly than we can by himself.

Every time we perform a task successfully, we are strengthened; failure tends to weaken. Part of the work of the teacher is to direct effort into successful channels. The fool, even the brute can learn by personal experience. It is a mark of human intelligence when we learn to profit from the experience of others. So the theory of education is bad which holds that the children of the younger generation need to make all the mistakes of the older generations in order they may get experience.

Closely related to this is the expression we often hear, "What was good enough for our fathers is good enough for the children to-day." It is only by avoiding the pitfalls of the past, and projecting to new generation better opportunities than we had that the race can progress. This is not a plea for individual independence is bad. But let this be our motto, "NOTHING THAT IS GOOD FOR CHILDREN IS TOO GOOD FOR OUR CHILDREN."

HOW DO YOU LIKE IT?

In a recent issue of the "Evening Citizen" published at Glasgow, Scotland, we clipped the following concerning the word "ain't":

At this time when the B. B. C. is trying to purify our pronunciation, an American philologist is pleading for the admittance of "ain't" to polite conversation. It has to him, he avows (in the "American Mercury") a pleasant sound; and he suggests, logically enough, that mere prejudice is responsible for shudders of sensitive ears, which would be wrong with "mayn't" when ain't comes out loud as a pistol shot in some assembly of correct talkers. It is true, also, as he says, that people who wince at the sound "ain't" will defy the laws of grammar by saying "aren't I" for "am I not I," which, by the way, a small child of my acquaintance, in an endeavor to please elders with a passion for grammatical speech, boldly reduced to "amn't I."

"But I do not think any of its arguments, all his support from dictionaries, and the conservatism of pleading for earlier usage, will ever bring "ain't" back to drawing-room use. It has been too long a vulgarism to be redeemed (says Mark Over in "The Outlook"), even by an American professor of philology or anyone else. I wonder what the consequence of polite broadcaster who spoke the word "ain't" into the ether. How it would reverberate in the earphone of ten thousand homes where they pride themselves on speaking good English!

We believe that the true, English speaking American will not uphold any attempt to fiat the word in our dictionary, and that the world will never find a place in the American home.

OUR WEALTH

Some measure of the growth of wealth of the United States can be found in a recent statement by the Wall Street Journal analyzing the reports of many banks and companies for the year 1926. The cash and investment holdings of 129 concerns analyzed totaled over $15,000,000,000, and the significant fact that this was an increase of nearly $200,000,000 over the amount of the working capital of the same concerns increased a little over $450,000,000 during the same period.

The list was headed by the United States Steel Corporation, with the Standard Oil of New Jersey coming second, the General Electric and the General Motors fourth. There were eleven companies in the list with aggregate net worth and security holdings approximating a billion dollars in each case.

And the wealth of the smaller concerns in America and of individuals from the highest to the lowest is increasing proportionately. One has only to visualize the number of new business and office and public buildings, of comfortable new homes in every city and town and the endless procession of new automobiles to know that this is true.

And the Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph makes a point when it declares that, "Naturally this great wealth is envied by people of other countries which have not been so prosperous. Some of these people would be quite willing to compel Americans to give up part of their possessions. Force has often been used for purposes of this sort. This is one of the great reasons for maintaining a strong army and navy, adequate to keep our possessions at home and in our care."

Americans are against any war of aggression but will defend their country to the last man and the last dollar. And the man who opposes adequate protection in the way of what is really military insurance is too short sighted to be a good American in the best sense of the world, no matter how well meaning he may be.

USING AMERICAN MONEY

The outburst in America as well as the rest of the world during the Sacco-Vanzetti incident ought to be enough to convince the most skeptical that the Red menace is something more than a creation of fancy on the part of the American nationalists. There can be little doubt that the Red menace manifested at that time will result in some good, especially along the line of strengthening the defenses of the immigration act. And incidents continue to occur showing that the headquarters of the Communists at Moscow are by no means inactive.

A recent Associated Press dispatch from Berlin ought to furnish food for thought to those American who undoubtedly capitulate themselves, in that they ought to recognize the Soviet government in order to do more business with Russia. The dispatch quotes a Russian democratic newspaper to the effect that the German Communist party has been enjoying an allowance of $200,000 per month from communist headquarters at Moscow for the purpose of fomenting unrest. But the significant statement is to the effect that this money has been taken from the receipts of Russo-American trade.

It would seem, therefore, if this charge is true, that American capital going to Russia to promote commerce in Russia has been used in turn to create a world market for other parts of the world. Here is something for American capitalists, who depend on the American market for their lives and fortunes, to think over seriously.

OBITUARY

JAMES BEVIER

James Bevier was born near Binghamton, Broom C. N. Y., September 11, 1834, and died August 30, 1927. He was the tenth child of a family of twelve, born to Elisha and Rachel Johnson Bevier. When one year old, he with his parents, moved to Plymouth, Ohio, at which place his entire life was lived with the exception of a short period in which he lived at Potosky, Mich.

In the early sixties he worked at the sustaining time, the mill, and later still, as long as he worked would permit he conducted a repair shop and by this means he accumulated a small fortune in the community.

During the Civil War he was a member of Company "H" 1634 Regiment O. V. I. On March 28, 1872 he was married to Lucy Smith Carpenter, and to this union two children were born, a daughter and a son.

On April 26, 1883 Mrs. Bevier died, leaving him with two young children, who lived to grow to maturity, when they too passed away, leaving him again alone with two young children.

In early life he united with the Congregational Church, of Plymouth, later transferring his membership to the Methodist Church to which he remained a loyal and faithful member until death.

He took great pleasure in thinking of those who had passed before, and especially of the daughters and sons who had preceded him. He beheld the beauties of the Eternal World, and some of those who were waiting here coming. In his last moments his speech failed him, but with a smile, pointed upward, and indicated that loved ones were waiting his coming.

On all occasions he was true to his vows to the Church, and was a member of his local church. He could hear but little of the service. Truly, his delight was in the law of the Lord, and evidently in His law did he meditate day and night. So passes a true soldier from earth's ranks to join the immortal hosts, and who stand before Him, praising both day and night Him in whose blood sufficient virtue was obtained the cleansing from sin. We of earth will miss him, his pleasant greetings, his cheerful face upon our streets, his cunning remarks in jokes, always with a kind word and smile. Too few are thus disposed, and all the more our enjoyment in meeting those thus inclined.

He rests in peace. Interment was made in Great West Cemetery on September 1, after services conducted from his church by his pastor, W. H. Gibson.

ABRAM T. MORROW

Abram T. Morrow, son of William and Lucy Ann Morrow, was born on December 18, 1856 near Tiro, Crawford County, Ohio. On January 22, 1880 he was married to Adelpa Van Wagner. To this union were born four children, one of whom preceded him in death.

He is survived by his wife, one son, Clyde Morrow of Shelby; two daughters, Mrs. C. C. Pugh and Mrs. Ruth Scott of Plymouth and six grandchildren. He also leaves three brothers, one half brother and one half sister to mourn his loss.

A number of years ago, he united with the Auburn Center Baptist church, of which he remained a faithful member until his death. Since his residence in Plymouth he has attended the Lutheran church and has shown appreciation of the ministrations of this church.

LON CHANEY AT THE TEMPLE IN "THE UNKNOWN"

One of the most elaborate replicas of a circus ever staged for a picture is seen in "THE UNKNOWN" Lon Chaney's new starring vehicle, directed by Ted Browning, for Metro Goldwyn-Mayer, coming to the Temple Theatre Sept.

Nearly a thousand people, enacting the roles of spectators and performers in a Spanish circus and a complete circus cast, including professional acrobats, animal tamer, riders and other recruited appear in the film. A circus tent was pitched at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios for the opening scenes in the new mystery story, with professional circus performance. The film's principal characters include the Steck-Davenport Troupe, famous bareback riders, Jack Phillips riding clowns, "Smithy" the famous clown rider, the "Zani" Troupe, Mexican tight-wire walkers, "Bozo" the famous trained bear, and others. Lon Chaney plays Alonzo, a sinister underworld ruler masquerading as an "armless wonder" in the circus, with Joan Crawford as the "human target" for his knife-throwing and other feats of skill. Norman Kerry plays the romantic lead as the circus strong man, and John George the chief clown.

Although the picture is one of the largest and most elaborate productions Browning has ever directed, there are only four principals in the story. Hundreds of people will appear in the circus scenes and there will be many minor characters or "bits" in a constantly moving background of the principal characters will enact the strange mystery drama.

It is an original story by Browning, scenarized by Waldemar Young.

Carlile's In New Furniture Home

One of the most beautiful and convenient furniture stores in Northern Ohio was opened recently when the Carlile Furniture Co., announced the opening of their store in the new location on 210 East Second Street Mansfield, Ohio. The Carlile Furniture store was formerly located at Fourth and Walnut.

Mr. Carlile, in a recent interview, stated that their new store would enable them to show furniture just as it will appear in the home. The large spacious floors, draperies, etc., will add materially in the selection of furniture for various rooms in the home.

Carlile's have had years of dealing in the furniture business and their many satisfied customers in Plymouth will be glad to know that they have larger and better quarters than ever before. It is also pointed out that the store is out of the high rent district, and that the tremendous saving along this line will be given to the customer.

A personal invitation is extended to those interested in furniture to come and look over their line of new furnishings.

Fine Showing Of Suits At Rule's

During the war, and shortly afterwards, it was almost impossible to buy a custom-made suit that possessed quality, style and fit, for less than $35.00.

It will be interesting to the man or young man who wants a good suit at a reasonable price, to know that the N. B. Rule Clothing store has just received a large shipment of Gold Bond Suits for fall and winter wear at the specially low price of $23.50. These suits, are guaranteed all wool and, will compare favorably with those of a much higher price, and the fact that each suit is distinct in its own material and style, will appeal to the average young man.

The method now employed in the cutting and fitting of suits has been considerably improved, and it is safe to say that the average man can always be assured of a perfect suit in every respect.

Many Rural Schools Have Delayed Opening COLUMBUS.—The opening of many rural schools scheduled for this week has been postponed because of the reports of infantile paralysis. Dr. J. E. Menger, director of health, declares that dangers of little children will pass only when cold weather comes, and this may be weeks away. Infantile paralysis is contracted by coming in contact with others exposed to the disease. It is exceedingly dangerous to children especially those under school age. But the precaution of keeping the schools closed for a time has met with the approval of the state health department. Plans are to keep at least some of the rural schools where the disease is most prevalent, closed until colder weather comes to stay. Others may be opened within a week or two. All depends upon the reports which have been called for from all county and district health officials.

FAMILY GATHERING AT JACKSON BEVER HOME

The home of Jackson Bevier and his daughter, Cornelia, was the scene of a delightful gathering Tuesday, a welcome to Dr. Isabel Bevier, on her return from her European trip. Thirty-one relatives, gathered from a radius of more than fifty miles, drove in during the morning and at noon partook of a delicious dinner on the shady lawn.

Following the dinner, Miss Bevier gave a very interesting talk about her sojourn, describing some of the incidents of the voyage across, the meeting of the International Agricultural Congress at Rome, at which she presented the paper written by the Chief of the Bureau of Home Economics, Washington, D. C., and her interview with King Emanuel II. Miss Bevier spent four months in Italy, Switzerland, France and England. When at the close of the talk opportunity was given to question the speaker, further talk about Mussolini and present financial conditions in Italy and in England followed.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bevier, Mr. and Mrs. Will Bevier and family, Mr. Chester Bevier and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morrow and family of Shelby, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bevier of Tiro, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Bevier and family of New Washington, Mr. and Mrs. John McPherson of Staben, Mr. Sam Bevier and sister of Shiloh, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bartlett of Geneva and the Misses Isabel and Josephine Smith of Oberlin.

When the guests began to scatter at five in the afternoon, it was the unanimous verdict that the delightful day the weatherman had ordered, was only equaled by the splendid time all had had.

Editorial And News Comment On National Happenings

Entering a new season, a time when we take up the serious business of the world seriously, it is quite fitting that a day should be set aside dedicated to the sacredness of Labor. Summer time is play time and the time of sowing and working out of doors, and vacations, and soldiers given to heavy, serious thought. The season ahead of us is the opposite. And the first initiation of it is the September Monday set apart as a holiday, a final summer holiday, dedicated as it were, to the dignity of labor.

Labor is the most valuable of all commodities. No other commodity has an exchange value to match labor—it masters the exchanges of all the world. Labor is the conqueror of the world and the savior of the world for men "Stubbins labor conquers all things," reads an old Roman maxim, while Theodore Roosevelt defined it as the "law of all progress."

There is dignity of labor because of all men the laborer is the most God-like. Labor becomes the highway to the highest. The laborer works that he may forget and forgetting, he is happy. Laborers are the deepest foundation of society and its highest pinnacle. Let us then not be ashamed of whatever we have to do. Let us do with a feeling of pride and glory, remembering that "to labor is to worship."

It is possible that prison life is not entirely to the liking of that Mr. Stephenson who was once a grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan and a political power in Indiana, but is now only a lifer in the Indiana state prison, consequent upon the conviction of a murder for his part in an outrage that prompted a young woman to take her life. At least he has a legal representative showing activity outside the walls and complaining that the warden does not permit private interviews between attorney and client as often as they could wish. The lawyer has filed a writ in the interest of more interviews and threatens to summon as witnesses great titans, grand dragons, governor's brothers, state fire marshals and other political notables, including the chief janitor of the statehouse. . . . All of which should be news quite to the mind. If we were asked to recommend a subject accurately meeting the specifications for nothing to be about, we should propose another alleged political conspiracy in Indiana exactly like the one in Indiana. Any friends of Indiana politics to give anybody a new appreciation of the blessings of American life anywhere else.

The world championship for dumbness goes to the Pittsburgh jammers who allowed a visitor to call on inmates carrying four or more guns.

Wheat fields in Manitoba are being sprayed from the air by chemicals to prevent rust and other sources of injury to the growing crop. It is possible that the airplanes may be used at an early date to prevent moisture from growing crops. Unsuccessful attempts have been made for centuries to "make it rain." The airplane may be the answer.

Automobile stealing is indeed hard to prevent. Three men stole a car down in Georgia, though they had to saw their way out of the penitentiary to do it.

Brooding is a terrific factor in life, whether applied to the individual or to nations. It is probably more responsible than any other single agent for the increased number of student suicides. It was certainly more responsible than any other single element for the World War. . . . Germany brooded over what England was achieving and over the possibility of stopping it by violent means. Other European countries suffered from the same affliction thru a lesser degree. . . . Nations need publicity to relieve the pressure of their inward feelings, and children need the privilege of talking frankly to older people whom they can trust. . . . No doubt we spend too much time and money on baseball, golf and other sports, but they are wonderful safety valves. No one can guess what could happen if we had to shove up our excess energy and spare time. . . . As a matter of fact, we couldn't bottle it up, but for the opportunity to let off steam we do, there would probably be an explosion on the inside, or a disposition to raise more Cain be the outside.

Another thing that is always puzzling is that supposition that a driver will stop after killing somebody, if he wouldn't before.

William S. Vare, who may not be United States senator for Pennsylvania, is having his troubles in Philadelphia, which city he has long controlled. Former Mayor J. Hampton Moore has announced himself as an independent candidate for mayor with the assertion that the city primary slate drawn by Vare is an affront to republicanism and a challenge to civic decency. The organization candidate is Harry A. Mackley. Mr. Vare's bold and versatile attorney, who shocked the country by his recital of the political methods prevailing in Philadelphia.

Dancing Masters of America, assembled in concert in New York, advocate that the Charleston, black bottom an jim jam variety of dancing is passé in circles meaning to be "out of style." The old fashion dances seems to be the vogue and when comes the old "swing your partners" with the present mood of short skirts—oh, well, that's another story.

Fortunately for the world of movie fans the Chaplin divorce suit was not aired in public. While some entertaining morsels of gossip were thus lost to the public, the continued popularity of the famous comedian is thus assured. Since the days when Hollywood acquired Mr. Will Hays and a stern moral code along with him, public scandals have been anathema to the future success of a motion picture star. . . . The old world is accustomed to laugh at us for what it terms our excessive puritanism. Art, they say, has a universal appeal, and the private conduct of the artist has nothing to do with the public. They may be correct, but America cannot overthrow the customs and traditions of generations because an older civilization has evolved a different set. . . . We think that it is anything to our discredit that we are unwilling to separate the individual from his creative efforts. National idols have a responsibility to their admiring public.

Why complain because the Coolidge conference of governors accomplished "nothing" when the prohibition? What did such a conference ever accomplish?

Secretary Hoover, in looking over business for the first seven months of 1927, finds the construction industry up which, he said, much emphasis is always laid in an interpretation of business condition, has shown an increase of 2 per cent in amount of contracts awarded. Against the prophets of gloom Mr. Hoover's summary would not make a fair antidote.

GOOD MATERIAL IN COOPER WESTERN!

Advance reports tells us that who ever picked Gary Cooper as a star knew his job. He made his stellar debut in a good outdoor action picture "Arizona Bound," a few months ago, and on Saturday, he plays in another that's said to be even better. "The Last Outlaw," which comes to the Shelby Opera House will prove to be a big hit.

Cooper is an outstanding personality. Tall, lank, and rangy, he is a ruggedly handsome type of American youth who seems to fit in the saddle of Flash, his magnificent white horse, as though he had been born there. There is about Cooper's portrayal of Western heroes no suggestion of an actor in grease-paint. He looks, acts and breathes like a Westerner born and bred.

"The Last Outlaw" provides ideal material. It is a thrilling story, with Cooper cast as a young adventurer who accepts a job as deputy sheriff and at once sets himself mixed up in a cattle war. The role gives him ample opportunity for his talent—for his quick, contagious smile, and for the spectacular riding in which he is unusually skilled.

EDDIE SPECULATES ON ART OF COMEDY

"This business of being funny in pictures certainly has its drawbacks," says Eddie Cantor former Broadway comedy star whose latest Paramount mirth-provoker "Special Delivery" will open at the Casaranta Theatre Monday.

LOUISE FAZENDA BECOMES BLONDE FOR ART'S SAKE IN "CRADLE SNATCHERS"

Louise Fazenda undergoes a complete transformation in "Cradle Snatchers," a Howard Hawks production for Fox Films. In this picture Mr. Hawks wanted a dazzling blonde to play the part of Susan Martin. Miss Fazenda, while dazzling, is not blonde. So the director ordered the smartest blonde wig in Hollywood and told the hairdressers to do their stuff. The result was pleasing to the stalling and wholly satisfactory. It was the first time the dazzling little cometienne had worn such trappings. In "Cradle Snatchers" Miss Fazenda has the role of one of three wives who discover that their husbands have taken three blondes on a trip to the country instead of going fishing on a launch. And it is she who hires three college boys to act as sheiks to arouse the husband's jealousies. The complications which follow are the funniest ever staged and had Broadway audiences shouting with laughter.

This comedy may be seen at the Shelby Castamba, Wednesday and Thursday.

Today's Pontiac Six is the finest Pontiac Six ever built. Not merely does it offer the fashionable smartness of Fisher bodies in new Duco colors, but it brings to the buyer those many refinements which have been made in Pontiac Six design since the first Pontiac Six was introduced.

Yet it sells for less than ever—the result of price reductions made possible by the economies of increased volume production in the world's newest and finest motor car plant.

Unless you have actually driven today's Pontiac Six—actually studied the richness of its Fisher bodies and its exclusive features of modern design—you cannot know what thrilling power and smoothness, what thorough road mastery, and what enduring satisfaction can now be obtained in a six at $745!

ORDINANCE NO.
 Determining to proceed with the improvement of North Street from the end of the brick pavement east and north to the corporation line, by grading and paving the same with four inches of water bound macadam with surface treatment of chips. Be it ordained by the council of the village of Plymouth, Huron and Richland Counties, Ohio three-fourths of all members elected thereunto concurring:

Section 1. That it is hereby determined to proceed with the improvement of North Street from the end of the brick pavement east and north to the corporation line, by grading and paving the same with four inches of water bound macadam with surface treatment of chips in accordance with Resolution No. 1 passed on the 2nd day of August, 1927 and in accordance with the plans, specifications and estimates and profiles heretofore approved and now on file with the Clerk of New Haven Township, Huron county, Ohio and in accordance with an agreement heretofore entered into between the Village of Plymouth and New Haven Township, by which the Village of Plymouth agreed to pay 50 per cent, New Haven Township 35 per cent and Property Owners 15 per cent of the entire costs of the improvement.

Section 2. That all claims for damages resulting therefrom shall be judicially inquired into after the completion of the proposed improvement.

Section 3. That 15 per cent of the entire cost of said improvement shall be assessed by the acre upon all the lots and lands bounding and abutting upon the proposed improvement which said lots and lands are hereby determined to be especially benefited by said improvement, and the cost of said improvement shall include the expenses of the preliminary and other surveys, and printing and publishing of the notices, resolutions and ordinances required and the serving of said notices, the cost of construction together with interest on bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of the deferred assessments and all other necessary expenditures.

Section 4. That the assessments to be levied shall be payable in ten annual instalments with interest on deferred payments at the same rate as shall be borne by the bonds to be issued in anticipation of the levy and collection therefore; provided that the owner of any property assessed may at his option pay such assessments in cash within thirty days after the passage of the assessing ordinance.

Section 5. That the bonds of the Village of Plymouth shall be issued in anticipation of the levy and collection of assessments by instalments and in an amount equal thereto.

Section 6. That fifty per cent of the entire cost of said improvement, including the cost of intersections, together with the cost of any expenses of any appropriation proceeding and damages that might be awarded to any owner of adjoining lands and interest thereon, shall be paid out of the street maintenance fund; or by the issuance of bonds of the Village of Plymouth for such purposes as is provided by law; the balance of the entire cost of said improvement shall be borne by the Trustees of New Haven Township in such manner as they may provide.

Section 7. The contract for said improvement shall be let by the board of Trustees of New Haven Township in accordance with the agreement heretofore entered into.

Section 8. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Our Weekly Sermonette
 (By Dr. G. R. Mente)

JEHOVAH TALKS TO MEN

The question often arises in the mind of the bible student whether God really has ever made Himself known to any of His creatures, and if so, would he today communicate in person His wishes to humanity.

The first question shall be answered in this little talk while the second is shrouded in mystery.

Let us notice first of all that the deliverance of Israel from Egyptian bondage under the direction of Moses has its beginning with the personal contact, which Moses had with Jehovah; it is not strange that the history of the Exodus of the Israelites from bondage should have its beginning in the wilderness with the strange sign of the burning bush, for all thru the ages no man has ever attempted to do some great work, unless he had a vision of God becoming partner in the undertaking, provided the task was for the uplift of the race, never for selfish motives.

In case of the Jewish race such a revelation was specially needed for the moral and religious tendency of the individual, but in the midst of His daily ordinary work of keeping the Flocks of His Father in law Jehovah. The Lord therefore stamps itself upon our mind that the highest manifestations of Jehovah are not to him who is seeking some great thing for selfish purposes, but are found in the faithful and honest performance of the common every day task, and only those who are content to be faithful in the little things, or common things of life, shall ever be called by the Great Ruler of the universe to become ruler over 10 cities.

All revelation of the infinite to man begins with some symbol, the Angels of God formed the groundwork in the dream of Jacob, the Angels of the Lord appeared unto Moses out of the flames of a burning bush, and after awakening interest, the symbol changes into the higher spiritual truth which it was intended should be conveyed to Moses. The fire did not consume the bush, but turned into a voice calling: "Moses! Moses!" There was no superstitious fear but the quick ready answer: "Here I am. A command is issued to awaken the spirit of reverence: Take off thy shoes, draw not nigh, for this is Holy Ground!" Thus Jacob, Lawgiver of the Sinaitic Covenant learns his great lesson of reverence, so much needed in this great age of materialism.

How often God has been calling to men to do some great work for the benefit of the human family, and how few men have ever listened to the call, answered by George Washington and Abraham Lincoln and a few other great visionaries. Such is the brief story of God talking with Moses; it had the same moral effect upon this man that a vision of Jehovah always has upon His true servants. It makes him humble in the presence of his God. It gives him supernatural strength in the presence of man.

Before Jehovah, Moses humbled himself, hiding his face, before Pharaoh he lost all his former timidity and without fear he cries out: Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, let my people go; if I read the signs of the times aright the world to day needs a few such visionaries, men willing to listen to God and answer the call of the oppressed and weak. God gives us such men.

MADGE BELLAMY AND FINE
 CAST IN "COLLEEN"

An absorbing story, fine direction and the beautiful and ever poignant Madge Bellamy in the role of an Irish lassie, contribute equally in making a splendid and nearly perfect screen entertainment of "Colleen." Fox Film's latest release to the Playhouse. This happy comedy drama of racing horses and Irish hearts, starred with laughter and throbbing with thrills and suspense will bring unusual sized approval from the audience who will witness the showing of this picture at the Shelby Opera House on Monday and Tuesday.

Miss Bellamy gives one of the best performances of her career in this story of an old and impoverished Irish family which comes to America to retrieve its fortunes with their great race horse, "Colleen." But Miss Bellamy is not alone in making this production the splendid entertainment it is.

ED WYNN DEPENDS ON MANY FRIENDS

Thousands of people in all parts of the world will see "Rubber Heels," the Paramount screen debut of Ed Wynn, because they're personal friends of his, he believes. Wynn, it is said, has a wider acquaintance than any other stage or screen player.

In counting on the people who know me to pay the total cost of making "Rubber Heels," Wynn recently said, "Then any other people who struggle into the theaters to see it will provide the profit. It's all very simple. I figured it out by short dividers."

Ed Wynn's wide friendship depends on two things—first, a gift for making friends, and second, plenty of opportunity to exercise it.

"Rubber Heels," comes to the Shelby-Castamba Friday. Wynn is a graduate of a correspondence school for Chester Conklin, featured, has a funny time as the master of a gang of crooks who pose as private police. Thelma Todd and Robert Andrews head Mr. Wynn's supporting cast.

When Buick improves upon Buick—the standard for the year is set

Buick for 1928 introduces a higher standard of beauty and luxury than the world has ever known. Buick interiors are as modish as exquisite drawing-rooms— as harmoniously colored—and as comfortable. Buick's new Fisher bodies are low-slung without any loss of head-room or road-clearance.

And so, down to the smallest detail of construction, wherever refinements could be made, Buick has made them. Again Buick has improved upon Buick. Again the standard for the year is set.

NAMELESS AND ASTRAY—He was a kind-hearted old gentleman and I used him to see the poor little chap crying.

"What's the matter, my little man?" he asked, sympathetically.

"I'm lost, boo-hoo!"

"Lost? Nonsense, you mustn't give up hope so soon. Where do you live?" "Don't know," whined the youngster.

"We've just moved and I can't remember the address."

"Well, what's your name?"

"Don't know!" exclaimed the old gentleman.

"He" sobbed the boy. "My mother got married again this morning."

H. B. RULE, Clothier

On the Square Plymouth, Ohio

WHERE ARE THE MEN
Where are the men who make laws That regulate our town?
That spend the money paid in, That makes the tax-payer frown.

Who pass ordinances for us, Which we so much need,
That are tax-payer and voter, The people so little heed,
Where is the man to mow weeds, And level up our walks,
Cleans the rubbish off the street— It is service we want, that talks.

Where are the men who took oath, To his office to be true,
To just size up service given, Where is he—ask you?

Where are the men to take the place, Who will conditions improve,
To every tax-payer and voter, Your duty it does behoove.

Lyon Reward Distributed

NORWALK—(Special)—Each of the following Lachine, Mich., men will receive $25.00 as shares in the unpaid $500 of the $100 reward offered for the capture of Jas. and Leonard Lyon of Havana, convicted murderers; Oscar Cook, formerly of Norwalk; Charles E. Snyder, Charles E. Burns, Karl and Martin A. Alfson, Charles and Harold L. Miller and James Allen.

This part of the reward was not paid before because of dispute among the claimants. Shortly after the Lyon boys were brought back here, the county commissioners paid $500 of the $1,000 reward to Douglas McKenick, chief of police of Alpena, Mich. McKenick got a bullet in the neck from a 38 Colt special, when he stopped the Lyon brothers at Alpena to make a casual inquiry. James Lyon, the older brother, who was electrocuted not long ago, fired the shot. The Lyon brothers were captured on March 13, 1926, at Lachine, Mich. Both were found to be guilty of murdering Detective Frank E. McGrath near Havana, on Feb. 13, 1926. Leonard Lyon is serving a life term for the crime.

A comparatively short time after the capture, $1,000 in reward funds were distributed in Alpena-co by the American Railway Express Co. the firm which employed McGrath.

PUBLIC EXTRAVAGANCE

Eleven billion dollars a year in taxes is now spent by Our Country. The man who can get the most money out of the state of federal government for himself or his locality is too often considered the smartest politician.

There is a premium placed on public extravagance in state and municipal affairs, and we are told the most money out of the state of federal government for himself or his locality is too often considered the smartest politician. There is a premium placed on public extravagance in state and municipal affairs, and we are told the most money out of the state of federal government for himself or his locality is too often considered the smartest politician.

The cost of federal government has gone down since the World War, but the cost of state and municipal government has risen $2,277,000,000 in 1925, to $7,400,000,000 in 1926. The increase of public extravagance is shown on every hand by demands for everything of the finest and most luxurious quality.

If local taxes are to be reduced, we must inject more business and less politics in management of government affairs.

Fair Had Good Record In Spite of Handicaps

COLUMBUS—Attendance at the state fair last week was unusually good considering the adverse conditions which existed. The scare over infantile paralysis kept thousands from attending the annual exhibition. This was especially true of rural folk who feared to expose their children to the dangers of the disease which is causing so many deaths. It was notified that more visitors from the large cities attended this year. They came from Cleveland, Cincinnati, Dayton, Toledo and other points to a much greater extent than ever before. No sooner had the gates closed on the exposition than arrangements for next year were started, and the promise is to make the fair in 1928 the "greatest ever held."

FAITH BY MELVILLE SLOANE

STRONG, EARNEST FAITH! It always wins! No matter what the prize! Who sees SUCCESS, when he begins, is simply bound to RISE!

His FAITH that pains for man his rights, And gives him strength TO DO! It carries him to noble heights, And holds him STAUNCH and TRUE!

Finish of Citadel

The crown of cherubs holding swags of laurel and bay will soon be in place at top of the American Insurance Union Citadel at Columbus, Ohio, and the mighty tower will be complete. Two carloads of terra cotta, the monuments, arrived a week early on the job and were immediately unloaded. Scaffolding for the use of workmen had been erected some time

Chinese Missionary

Davis then gave the order to signal the ships for fire. A signaler climbed the roof of the Standard Oil Company's house and waved his signals to the ship. The Reds saw it and did their best to shoot him down but were not successful. The signals were observed by officials on board the American destroyers, and almost instantly a high explosive shell burst right next to the building. The sailors were delirious with joy, as that was their signal to begin to fight. They grasped their rifles and let the murdering Chinese have it. One of the sailors came back to the British cruiser contumaciously "scared stiff." They ran for their lives to any cover they could find like a lot of frightened rats, and the foreigners were able to get in the ships without further molestation. This should be of interest to all teachers, ministers, students, and those interested in the future of China. A welcome is sent to the entire public to attend a few seminars and listen to the moments with Dr. Halsema. His ability and knowledge is such that one of the large eastern Universities has presented him with a scholarship.

A. T. Morrow Died Sunday

Had Been In Ill Health For Months; Last Rites Held on Tuesday.

After suffering from a lingering illness for the past few months, Mr. A. T. Morrow, well-known Plymouth resident died at his home Sunday morning. The deceased was 71 years old, and was born near Tiro, in Crawford county.

Mr. Morrow had been employed at intervals in the local plant here for the past eight or nine years, and during his residence in Plymouth, made many warm friends who regret to learn of his death. He was a consistent, earnest christian, being a member of the Auburn Center Baptist Church, but while living in Plymouth, attended the Lutheran church.

The deceased is survived by his wife, one son, Clyde Morrow of Shelby, two daughters, Mrs. C. C. Pugh, and Mrs. Russell Scott of Plymouth, and six grandchildren. He also leaves three brothers, one half brother and one half sister to mourn his loss.

Funeral rites were conducted Tuesday afternoon at the Lutheran church with services by Rev. C. C. Pugh, of Morral, O., and Rev. A. M. Himes officiating. Interment was made in Greenlawn cemetery. Chas. G. Miller had charge of funeral arrangements.
