THREAT MADE ON NEW HAVEN, MAN FAILS TO GO THRU

Friday, January 13th, proved an eventful one for Oscar Howell, who owns and operates a truck farm half mile west of New Haven, for it was on the night of the 13th that two men came to the Howell home and robbed him of some $40 odd dollars. They cried out that their car was broken down and needed a flashlight or lantern. As Howell opened the door, one of the men put his foot on the inside so that the door could not be slammed. The men then entered the home, bound Howell and took what money they could find. Only one was wearing a mask.

Howell was quick in getting rid of his bonds and taking his shot gun, fired two shots at the retreating robbers. The shot failed to take effect, for one of the men uttered an oath, and said: "We'll come back later and get you."

Howell didn't think much of the threat, but Sunday night his car was quickly retraced it when a shot was fired through his window as he was in his room reading. The charge entered the wall. Again Howell resorted to his old trusty gun, and again it is not known whether any of the load took effect, for the parties Howell shot at had a good lead. Howell believes that whoever fired the shot through the window Sunday night is the party that made the threat on Friday night, January 13th.

Mr. Howell is well known in New Haven and Plymouth, as he has made his home in the New Haven district for the past thirty-five years.

NORTH FAIRFIELD INDEPENDENTS TO PLAY W. M. A. TEAM

Fritz Sisters to Give Concert in M. E. Church

The Fritz sisters of Mansfield, daughters of Mr. Fritz former Plymouth resident will give a concert at the Plymouth M. E. church, Friday, February 24th, 8:15 p. m. under the auspices of the Epworth League. The proceeds to be set aside as the start of a fund to finance the local Epworth League at the Lakeside institute next summer.

This group of musicians is surely unique, as it is very seldom one sees a whole orchestra from one family. The orchestra consists of three violins, one cello and pianist.

DR. HOLTZ TELLS OF BLUE GRASS SECTION

Friends here of Dr. S. S. Holtz and A. C. Morse will be interested in the following letter written by Dr. Holtz telling of the scenic beauty of the blue grass country around Lexington, Ky. The letter in full follows, and we hope to be able to print more of them:

February 7th, 1928
Well here we are in Lexington, Ky., a little more than three hundred miles from Plymouth which we left at 8 a. m. this morning and arrived here at 6 p. m.

The rain began to fall soon after we started and continued for the first one hundred miles but no sunshine during the day. We came via Gallon, Mt. Gleed, Delaware and Xenia to Cincinnati arriving at 2:30, crossed the bridge into Lexington, Ky. Our route then was through Independence, Fabsworth, Cynthia, Paris a distance of ninety-seven miles to Lexington. The road most of the way was hilly but the road bed was smooth and wound around the hills and through the valleys like a great serpent. On the hills here and there were little barns and cabins more or less pretentious until we came within fifteen miles of Lexington when the scene changed—we were in the Blue grass region so long famed for its whiskey, beautiful women and magnificent byrnes.

Here's where we saw those beautiful homes with their large inviting houses with the spacious blue grass lawns and great barns to house their thoroughbred running and trotting horses all of which can only be appreciated by seeing them.

We are stopping at the Drake Hotel an old fashioned but beautiful place with its quaint but comfortable furnishings and a table covered with all the delicacies of the season. At the head of the table was our friend A. C. Morse with his daughter Carrie, and granddaughter Lucille, on either side and your humble servant occupied the foot. The ladies who are dieting discussed the numbers of calories each dish contained and which they dared to eat without putting on too much adiposipolus while Morse and I ate our dinner.

Tomorrow we go south by way of London in the Middleboro, Kentucky to Cleveland near the line of Tennessee and Georgia.

It's bed time, so I close.

CONDITION OF MISS WILLET IMPROVED

The condition of Miss Florence Willet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Willet, who was seriously injured in an automobile wreck while enroute home Saturday morning from Canton, is reported as being very favorable, according to attending physicians. Miss Willet was resting very well Tuesday night and Wednesday, and it is expected reports will indicate a continued improvement.

Miss Florence Willet, accompanied by Miss Mary Lawrence, another teacher in the Canton schools, and whose home is in Peru, started out via auto Saturday morning for their respective homes, to spend the week end with their parents. The roads were unusually slippery and near Massillon the car skidded from the road into a ditch. Miss Willet being seriously and painfully injured, while Miss Lawrence escaped injured other than the shock.

Miss Willet was rushed to a hospital in Massillon, and Mr. and Mrs. Willet were later notified of the accident. Upon examination, it was shown that several ribs were broken as well as the right arm, it was feared for a time that Miss Willet also suffered internal injuries, but late reports indicate that she is somewhat better and has a chance for recovery.

MRS. J. WOODWORTH DIES SUDDENLY AT HOME WEDNESDAY

Friends in the community were greatly shocked to learn of the sudden death of Mrs. J. Woodworth at the family home Wednesday morning about 5:20. Mrs. Woodworth was stricken in the kitchen, and was overcome by death before aid could be rendered.

THEODORE BRINDEL IS CALLING ON OLD PLYMOUTH FRIENDS

Theodore Brindel of Fargo, N. D., was in town over the week end calling on old friends and acquaintances. No doubt Mr. Brindel's visit to Plymouth makes him feel quite young again in spite of his age, for he built many homes and buildings in Plymouth. He is now in his 80th year.

Mr. Brindel left Plymouth some thirty years ago, and has been making his home with his son Dave Brindel at Fargo, North Dakota. He returned a few days ago to visit with his son George Brindel who is a mail clerk at Willard, about two years ago, he and his son Dave motored through from Fargo to Willard.

Among the structures Mr. Brindel erected are the Channing home and barn, the Lutheran church and other old landmarks. He was a dinner guest Saturday in the Tubbs home and the day was thoroughly enjoyed for Mr. Tubbs was also a carpenter in the days of Mr. Brindel's residence here.

Continue to Park Without Tail Light

The past week's record shows that several motorists are still careless in parking their machines without a tail light. Several have been summoned before the mayor and on advice given by him that it is an unlawful act to park without proper lights, have had their names entered on the "honor roll." In most cases insurance companies claimed they were ignorant of the ruling, but as we all know ignorance of the law is no excuse, so it is very foolish to give this as an effort to get by. The best thing to do is leave your light on and avoid a lot of inconvenience.

Bill Passers Must Pay

Passing bills in Plymouth without proper license seems to be a thing of the past, according to the numerous calls Marshall Burkett received the past week. In several instances housewives have reported those who pass bills and the town treasury is on the increase.

Palace Restaurant Undergoes Changes

The Palace Restaurant has undergone considerable changes in its fixtures, and rearrangement of tables and counters make a more pleasing effect. Mr. Woolee, the new owner, states that by the end of the week he will be able to take care of the trade in a prompt and satisfactory manner.

Plaster Falls

Quite a bit of plastering over the stairway in Hamilton hall fell off the other night, and from the looks of things it is still a dangerous place for the passerby. It is hoped that it will be made at an early date.

Here are a few of the whimsical affairs we read of in the news column during the past week:

William Barton French starts out with a fortune of two million and commits suicide at 35; Omar Carrington, who was given up as a dying man forty years ago, celebrates his 53rd birthday; a Chicago girl loses both legs, instead of saving them straightened as she was promised and sues the doctor, who defends himself by threatening to sue the surgeon who amputated them; a Senate committee wages through the snails and ramifications of innumerable oil deal to find out what became of a $3,000,000 profit so that it can determine where Harry P. Sinclair got the $225,000 in Liberty bonds which he turned over to former Secretary Fall; after calling on all Italian mothers to produce children, Premier Mussolini declares that every citizen must become a soldier, and after agreeing to step aside Mr. Stedley asserts that the Democratic party must not nominate Smith.

What causes aviation crashes? Usually the human element. Eighty per cent of the crashes occurring during the last seven years can be traced directly to personnel. And the danger of accident is considerably reduced if the aviator has increased his annual flying time above four hundred hours.

The following will interest both the friends and opponents of a progressive aviation policy. It is from a report by the bureau of aeronautics of the war department:

"More than two-thirds of the crashes resulting from so-called engine failures are not a fundamental flaw of the power plant but in faulty operation, maintenance or inspection; the two leading causes of failure of the human element are bad judgment and inexperience; the factor that counts most with the efficiency of the individual pilot is experience. It is believed that the percentage of crashes will be reduced by the factor of the 'human element'."

So far as the mechanical side is concerned the progress has been entirely satisfactory. And the 1927 accident record showed an improvement of 346 per cent over 1921.

February 1928, will go into history as the month when the revived Ku Klux Klan became a lawless organization officially at least.

It seems difficult to believe that six years ago magazines and newspapers were filled with news accounts and feature stories concerning the Ku Klux society, its aims and ideals and its historical significance. The Klan hasn't died and will probably show signs of strength in a few states for a brief period of time. But the return of sheets and pillowcases to the beds from which they were removed after being used as conventional evening dress in the mysterious order's routine deliberations, reduces the Klan to the level of ordinary affairs. EDITOR'S NOTE: This article, concerning two Mansfield people who are serving as missionaries in Peru, is taken from The Mansfield News...

Rev. and Mrs. R. O. Stull, well known Mansfield young people who have for several years been working as a missionary in Peru...

We have to put first things last. Winning these people for Christ is what we have come to this lonely isolated section of earth for, but before we can preach the Gospel to them...

We are so far from the points of civilization that it is very hard to bring implements of labor here and for that reason the work is exceedingly difficult...

The Indians who were polling my canoe made a shelter of palms and here we sat in blankets under a big rain poncho over me I spent the night...

The food problem is no small one. I have eaten many things I never thought I would eat. Some things out here you eat because they are good, others you only eat because they are sustaining...

We are given days from the nearest grocery store or butcher shop so apart from the few supplies we could take in we had to depend entirely on wild foods...

We have pests of many kinds varying in size and ferocity from the tiger to the sand-fly. The tigers seek our domestic stock and the sand-flies seek us...

I sometimes wonder if the Pilgrim Fathers didn't have a rather mild experience compared with this. However we are striving out here. The work of our hands is being blessed...

The Indian has found the things the white man uses to be very useful to him, and he comes to work for us clearing our land, planting and harvesting our crops, etc. to gain as his reward...

We are well and God is keeping and blessing us in a wonderful way. We thoroughly appreciate the interest and prayers in Mansfield here in us and our work...

Republicans of each district will select their own delegates to the national convention and without being handicapped by Senator Willis. Prompt denial is made that delegations would be handicapped those in minority...

Population of the Ohio penitentiary has passed the 4,000 mark for the first time in the history of the great prison. At the various county and district courts of the state are still sending them in...

G. F. Schlesinger, Director of Highways, calls attention to the fact that the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court placing the responsibility for grade crossing accidents on the motorists will relieve the railroads of many damage and indemnity claims...

The undersigned will offer for sale on what is known as the Lewis Steele farm, three miles south of Plymouth and one-half mile east of Spring Mill road, two miles west and one mile south of Shiloh the following property...

W. C. FIELDS STARTS 'RUNNING WILD' IN 'POLICEMAN'S FIVVER'

W. C. Fields gave Astoria, a severe case of traffic delinquency not so long ago when he took a police department fivver for a wild ride amid a score of elegant road companions.

What the fivver lacked in size and gloss it made up in speed and temperament as it zigzagged its bumping way amid drivers' curses and the sounds of suddenly averted motor catastrophes. To increase the thrills Fields' control of the wheel was somewhat hampered by two fifteen ounce boxing gloves which encased his hands. At intervals in his triumphant passage down the auto-laden roadway Fields pawed the air and shouted: "Ta-ta-ta!"

Several laps behind the erratic fivver came a policeman on the run, his face purpling with the effort of sprinting while he constantly shrieked on his whistle and shook a threatening fist at the madman's retreating back. Residents in the neighborhood were in a wild state of excitement. Mothers pushed their perambulators along at double-quick speed in their efforts to keep pace with the impending disaster. When they caught up with Fields they were somewhat reticent, perhaps, but a little disappointed to learn that it all came under the head of good, clean film fun.

Keeping at a cautious distance in advance of the bouncing police car was a large automobile containing Director Gregory La Cagna and camera crew who recorded the adventurous ride for Fields' new Paramount comedy "Running Wild" which will be shown at the Shelby Opera House, Saturday evening, February 18th.

"GET YOUR MAN"

GIVES NEW IDEAS OF REAL PARIS LIFE
Parisian life! Of what does it consist?

Although the locale of "Get Your Man" Charles Bowena's latest starring picture, for Paramount will be shown at the Shelby Opera House, Monday and Tuesday, February 20 and 21 is Paris, a new background has been established.

There is no apache atmosphere, no gay night life, no fashionable resorts. The story is one of sparkling humor, with a was-was museum as the center of Parisian activities for Clara Bow and her leading man, Charles Rogers.

The plot also carries one to a massive chateau, into an exclusive perfume shop, along the business streets of Paris, down quaint French roads and through foreign gardens.

A new twist has even been added to the love element. A boy and a girl meet and fall instantly in love. But between them and happiness stands a huge barrier—the old French tradition in the matter of how mates are chosen for children of the nobility.

GEORGIOUS GOWNS WORN BY STAR OF "HONEYMOON HATE"

Some of the most stunning gowns ever seen on the screen are to be revealed in Florence Vidler's latest Paramount production "Honey Moon Hate" which comes to the Opera House Shelby on Sunday, February 19th. Miss Vidler made many a trip to her dressmaker's establishment and a number of revisions in style were necessary.

"I personally take all the responsibility for my wardrobe in a picture," Miss Vidler says, "because I believe that clothes are all important to an actress. For several years now, I have designed every dress, gown or frock that I have worn in my various productions. It's my hobby, it's my matter of dress and it's great fun." Miss Vidler wears a dozen different gowns in "Honey Moon Hate."

BUSTER KEATON: A RACE HORSE—MAYBE

Here's a story they tell on Buster Keaton who today is the featured "College" comes to the Temple Theatre, Willard Friday and Saturday.

While the frozen-faced star was making the big United Artists laugh feature which deals with the humorous side of higher education, tiding the credits to his latest comedy, "College," comes to the Temple Theatre, Willard Friday and Saturday.

While the frozen-faced star was making the big United Artists laugh feature which deals with the humorous side of higher education, tiding the credits to his latest comedy, "College," comes to the Temple Theatre, Willard Friday and Saturday.

Buster started an investigation and discovered that the steed named after him was due to start the following week in one of the featured stakes at a nearby track. He invited the entire Keaton company to be his guests at the races and see "Buster Keaton" in action. The horse "Buster Keaton" was the favorite, and the star Buster Keaton wagered a dinner with the members of his supporting cast.

Keaton paid for more than twenty dinners that night, for "Buster Keaton" didn't even finish.

"A the 'dog' they named after me," sighed Buster.

REGINALD BARKER'S NEWEST PRODUCTION IS BASED ON "THE BRANDING IRON"

The Dignit dramatic love drama laid against a background of the Swiss Alps. "Body and Soul," from the pen of Katharine Newlin Burt, published in book form as "The Branding Iron," has been made into a colorful motion picture by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and will soon be seen at the Temple Theatre, Willard.

"VALLEY OF GIANTS" STARRING SILLS

Peter B. Kynne's masterful story of the California Big Tree country, "The Valley of the Giants," comes to the Temple Theatre, Willard, Monday and Tuesday, February 20 and 21 with Milton Sills in the starring role.

Kynne's great romance of the Redwoods is ideal picture material, and Milton Sills is the ideal artist to portray the role of Bryce Cardigan, the young son of the blind timber baron who beats his father's bitter enemy and saves his property.

"The Valley of the Giants" is a yfite, stirring story of the West, where mighty Redwoods rear their branches 300 feet in the air, and life is rough and ready. There is human conflict, romance, danger, intrigue and suspense in the story, which holds the attention from the opening scene to the close.

Sills was never seen to better advantage than in this strong story, and his work as Bryce Cardigan is the best of his long screen career.

Pretty Doris Kenyon is seen opposite Sills, and a capable cast includes Arthur Stone, Paul Hurst, Yola d'Avril, George Fawcett, Phil Brady, Charles Selton and many others.

"The Valley of the Giants" was directed by Charles Brabin and produced for First National Pictures by Wid Gunning.

Through the medium of this picture, some of the most beautiful country in America is brought to the screen, and various activities in the lumber camps and mills are shown.

"The Valley of the Giants" is a superb entertainment throughout and will increase the great popularity of Sills and Miss Kenyon with their many admirers.

PAUL A. SNYDER

SHOW YOUR COLORS

This motto should be before us at all times, with emphasis on each word in the first place, show "colors." Or it might be said differently. Have colors to show. Many people have no definite color to show. They are like solid gray that seems to have nothing distinctive about it. It reflects practically nothing. There are some who would have New Haven be the same, a colorless institution. They want New Haven to remain obscure. They do not want to attract attention. They do not wish it to be conspicuous. They will perhaps not admit that they want us to be colorless. They perhaps want New Haven to have a color of its own, but not a distinctive color, not one that catches the eye. Lure, they will say, let us have a color of our own, but what do we care whether the world knows it or not, just so we know it. But that will not do. We want to have colors that show. Once more we say show colors. By all means reflect some light.

But now emphasize the second word. Show "YOUR" colors. Do not be like a mirror which has no color of its own, and yet reflects the color of all other objects. It is bad enough to have no bright colors to reflect, but to have none at all and to be reflecting every other object is still worse. The colorless gray can at least claim some individuality, but the mirror, has none whatever. This makes us the mirror of many New Haven students who are anxiously inquiring what the people are doing in other schools, and are diligently trying to imitate these other schools. These would make a mirror of New Haven. They do not seem to think of developing a distinct color of their own, and yet claim for us one that will be red, let us be red, if we are to be blue, let us be blue. Then when light shines upon us from other schools, we may be modified by it, but our own distinctive color will determine what the final results will be, and we will be ourselves at any rate.

And if we have color of our own let us not blush and try to hide our identity. Camouflage may be a good thing in warfare, but when it comes to a struggle between ideas it has no place. If your color is such that it must be kept in the dark, let us proceed at once to develop a new one. If it does not take it out into the sunlight, where it can be seen by all. Let each one make his own application.

Attractive place cards and Valentine decorations were used effectively and the favors were dainty bowls filled with hearts.

Those enjoying the affair were: Mrs. Hough, Frank Thompson of Cleveland, Mr. Wm. M. Johns and the hostess, Mrs. Emma Rank. After the dinner the party attended a performance at a Mansfield theatre.

ENTERTAINS AT FIVE HUNDRED

Mrs. D. E. Blosser entertained with two tables of Five Hundred Friday evening at her home on Portner Street.

Following the game a dainty repast was served. Mrs. Blosser made the high score of the evening and Mrs. Clint Moore was consoling.

The evening's meet list included Messrs. and Mesdames Albert Marvin, Carl Biller, Clint Moore and the host and hostess.

LADIES AID ENJOY ALL DAY MEETING

Members of the Ladies Aid Society of the M. E. church report one of the best and most enjoyable meetings ever held by the society when approximately forty-two members turned out for an all day meeting on Tuesday.

The home of Mrs. Georgia Boardman on West Broadway was the scene of these busy workers when three comforts were tied, one quilt finished and considerable rags sewed.

At noon a most sumptuous covered dish dinner was served to which full justice was done.

The ladies were well pleased with their day's work and sociability and gave Mrs. Boardman a vote of thanks for her hospitality.

The Tatler came off the press Friday, February 10th. It takes the high honors of the year. The story of Abraham Lincoln by Greta Russell surely shows that the poet has studied her history. The chapel write up by Marguerite Shaffer was good, she must have been paying attention. The exchange issue shows us that the Tatler is getting very popular. We even exchange school papers as far away as Daytona Beach, Florida. They recommended our paper as having a good sport column and said that the jokes were especially good.

The business men show that they have a real interest in the Tatler through the regular advertisements they carry in the advertising column the printer made an error which we wish to correct. In Geo. Page's feed and poultry ad his name was printed J. W. Page when it should have read, Geo. W. Page.

RAIN OR SHINE CLASS ENTERTAINED

The "Rain or Shine" class of the M. E. church lived up to its name when in spite of the inclement weather thirteen members and four guests arrived for its regular social and business evening held Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Ira Ross.

The devotions were in charge of Mrs. Paul Fisher while the business session was disposed of in regular form. The activity of the group in a Lesson Study was discussed and a committee appointed to report on their choice of decision at a later date.

The balance of the evening was given over to a social hour followed by a lovely lunch.

Members present included: Rev. and Mrs. McRoom, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Ross and children, Mrs. George Hershiser, Mrs. Raup, Mrs. Florence Brokaw, Miss Opal Phillips, Raymond Lehman, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Ross and children.

BASKETBALL

Last Friday evening the girls met Belleville on our home floor. The game was perhaps one of the poorest of the season. The score was 5 to 20 in our favor. The game was a good passing game but our girls absolutely could not make a basket.

The evening's meet list included Messrs. and Mesdames Albert Marvin, Carl Biller, Clint Moore and the host and hostess.

MORNELVA PATTERSON

Shiloh played Belleville here Friday February 10th and won with a score of 16-5. As this was the last game on our floor the boys went into the game feeling they had to win. Shiloh went in the lead the first quarter and was not in danger throughout the remainder of the contest. Bob Ruckman was Shiloh's high scorer, scoring 8 points. The Shiloh line-up was as follows:

B. Ruckman, lf. 4 0 8

CHAPEL

Dr. Mente had charge of the chapel service Monday morning. The chapel service was opened by singing "My Old Kentucky Home." Dr. Mente then spoke on the life of LaFayette.

Dr. Mente said that when LaFayette was three years old his father died and when he was thirteen years old his mother died leaving him a large estate. When LaFayette was still a young man he came to this country to help in the Revolutionary War. He was a very brave man and was soon at the head of an army. LaFayette went back to France and was very influential in getting them to help us against England. After the war was over LaFayette went back to France to fight in the Revolutionary War. After a few years he came back to the U. S. to see Washington's grave and monument. The U. S. offered to give him a large amount of money and land which he would not accept. The chapel service was then closed by singing "Rock of Ages."

P. T. A. MEETING

The monthly meeting of the parents and teachers association was held on Monday night, February 6th, 1928.

There was a very exceptionally good evening was Dr. Mente. He is a fine speaker and his talk which was on his boyhood was enjoyed by all.

Mary Downend's reading was well delivered and very humorous. Shiloh High School is certainly improving in dramatics under Miss Firewood's instructions.

There also was a song by Mrs. Dytha McBride's room and a solo by Mrs. Fannie McBride. It was well given in her usual abled manner. The music that was given by the Ruckman trio was very good and I am sure everybody enjoyed it.

The Parents and Teachers association have decided to hold their monthly meeting the first Monday night in the month. The next one will be under Mr. McRoom's instructions and will be held on March 5th.

TWENTIETH CENTURY CIRCLE HOLDS ANNUAL GUEST NITE

One of the most enjoyable functions of the social season was given Monday evening at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, when the Twentieth Century Circle held their annual banquet and guest nite.

The Reception committee welcomed the arriving guests and at seven o'clock were invited into the dining room. Long tables with their snow white linen, glistening silver and appointments of red and white, suggestive of the Valentine season made a most attractive scene.

Mrs. Jean Seville gave the words of welcome and a very tempting three course dinner served.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by the club members which proved a decided success, as was demonstrated by the hearty applause they received.

The opening number was a short sketch of Lincoln and Douglas by Mrs. Seaboltz. Miss Rilla Trauger then presented to the audience living scenes portraying George Washington, Pocahontas and Priscilla and the old Ferryport.

"Henry Made a Lady out of Lizzie" a popular hit of the musical season was also a hit of the evening as sung by Mrs. Seville.

"Johnny Goes to College" with characters taken by Mrs. Postle, Mrs. Deringer and Miss Jessie Trauger revealed the deep dark secrets of the age. Every member of the audience was sitting on the edge of his chair, while maw and paw argued pro and con, the advisability of letting Johnny in on the secrets of life.

Paw summoning up his courage finally blurted out "Well, Johnny, there is no Santa Claus."

The Dark Town Minstrels gathered from the four corners of the earth then put in their appearance. The manager of the company in giving her opinion of their entrance into Plymouth via Bell street calculated they made a mistake and the eighth letter of the alphabet substituted for "B" would prove a more suitable name.

The members of the company were as follows:

Madam Salamandy Afternoon Jones—Our left end woman—Mrs. Brown.

Madam Angelina Petunia Jackson—Our right end woman—Mrs. Postle.

Madam Rosie Rattle-de-Keys—Pianist—Mrs. Dick.

AMERICAN DEMAND FOR RUBBER OPENS AMERICAN EMPIRE

Progress of Plan to Create Our Own Source of Supply in Liberia Foreshadows Freedom from Foreign Control

The business of building a new empire in Africa is well advanced. American energy and American methods are converting one corner of that primitive world into something like a miniature America. Before long the far land of Liberia will have modern schools, power plants, motor roads, chain stores and other familiar institutions of American life. Already our movies afford the natives a glimpse of us at home. Engineers, agricultural specialists, medical men and more of many crafts make up this army of empire builders. All of this is possible because, for the first time in the march of the centuries, organized progress has come to a land that endures almost as it was in the beginning.

Even the name of Liberia falls strangely upon the ear in this hurrying world of ours. But the man with a smattering of his geography still in mind will recall that the country lies a degree or two above the equator, almost at the western tip of Africa. If his history is as clear as his geography he will remember that Liberia was the first and continues to be the greatest of the negro republics. Colonized a hundred years ago by some of our freed slaves, it was soon to become the scene of the black man's original experiment in self government.

That he has justified many hopes is proved by the position of Liberia today, a country stirred by the touch of Western progress. Its resources are a guarantee of future development. Politically it is well established. When the League of Nations convenes Liberia has a seat at the round table. Relations with our own country have been especially close; in fact Liberia looks to America as its best friend. But in spite of old ties and natural friendship, we never took an active part in Liberian development until the last year or two.

Thus the little republic founded under such stress has gone along its way, doing as best it might. Beginning with nothing, a great deal has been accomplished. Descendants of the colonizers have brought a measure of civilization to the 2,000,000 natives. But the task was a huge one indeed and progress limited to the means at hand. Doubtless the history of Liberia, of all western Africa, would have continued its slow evolution if the needs of modern America had not turned interest that way.

Indirectly the automobile was destined to alter the course of history. With the automobile came the world need for rubber. Although this precious substance was first found in the Amazon valley, control and development long since passed to the Middle East, where British and Dutch planters now raise practically the whole supply. In an effort to "corner" this supply the British government passed a restriction measure that has cost the American automobile about untold millions since 1922.

Apparently there was no means of relief; certainly no early relief. It takes five years for a rubber tree to become productive and such trees can be cultivated only within a few degrees of the equator. Seemingly the American consumer could do nothing but pay the bill. Yet there was something that might be done. Harvey S. Firestone, president of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, sat down in his private office at Akron, Ohio, and wondered how he should undertake the job.

Mr. Firestone was one of the pioneers in tire manufacture. He probably knows as much about the subject as any other man. And he reasoned that the increasing need for rubber meant complete surrender to foreign giants unless a new source could be found. But how to find it? The answer involved a world search of more than two years, which ended in Liberia. Climate, soil, government, people—everything invited to the biggest industrial enterprise known to western Africa. It really is much more than that—the conversion of the primitive.

In this way the empire builders turned eastward, instead of westward, as the course of empire has been said to travel. They were a force of young men, carrying surveyors' chains; of young doctors, bearing their instruments; of experts in soils, digging everywhere; of trained "rubber men" and every trade needed to head the empire from its pristine fastness. Surely American business never knew a richer romance. Not since the winning of the west have we engaged in such an enterprise. Where the west was won by many men, a generation of men engaged in a national effort, the new empire is to be the creation of a single effort.

Once convinced Liberia met American needs Mr. Firestone launched the undertaking with a vigor that has accomplished much in a short time. The Above—500 natives who heard about the Firestone development and walked from the interior for 10 days to obtain work on a Firestone Plantation. They have just been examined and vaccinated by doctors and are ready to go to work.

Left—Liberia's place in Africa and (in the smaller map) the Firestone concessions, which are indicated by the black areas.

Inspecting opening up of groove in rubber tree to facilitate flow of latex.

beginning was not made without ominous predictions. Voices overseas and at home pronounced the climate "impossible," the labor supply un dependable, the plan visionary. Yet the facts were plain enough. Climate, soil, government, people, were friendly. Only that long five years lay between the first planting and the first rubber. Then the Firestone plantations would be a whole world nearer to New York than the Middle East rubber ports. An American-owned, American-raised supply would replace an arbitrarily controlled, subject to foreign dictation at any time.

It is now almost two years since the rubber pioneers went into Africa. They took over 2,000 acres of trees planted some years before, a plantation that has yielded well. This small acreage merely proved the possibilities of the Liberian concession, granting 1,000,000 acres anywhere in the republic's boundaries. The real task was to locate suitable plantations and get them started toward cultivation.

The statement conveys no hint of the difficulties. We must think of a country without railroads, highways or river craft big enough to serve any worthwhile purpose. A few miles from the coast lies the jungle; the jungle that was in the beginning of time, a place of mystery, vast depths, unknown things. It even encroaches down to the coast, awaiting the white man, ready to mock him.

Into this jungle went the "rubber men." They ventured two years ago, but the span of their effort is hardly longer than a year. And a monument of achievement, golden in promise. So far they have established two plantations. One of them includes 50,000 acres about forty miles from the Liberian capital of Monrovia, a city named for our own President, James Monroe. This plantation on the Du River has a flourishing American town as its center.

The visitor might think himself in any typical western camp of the "boom" days. But it is rather better than a "boom" camp. A central power plant supplies light and current and operates a refrigeration and pumping system for the community. The American staff has a recreation field and comfortable quarters, living in the counterpane of American bungalows transplanted to Africa. A hospital serves American and native workers; hygiene goes hand in hand with industry. Here it is that the American staff comes in the evening to read last month's papers and talk about home. But their new home is not so very different from those left behind in America. It is not hard for forerunners of the Du as easily as on Main Street. In the past Liberia's cost of living has been somewhat high. English and Dutch traders have set the prices just about as they pleased and always with a liberal profit to themselves. The new stores will soon make it possible to buy almost any ordinary article at American prices. This intervention has been of wide benefit to the Liberian population.

Laying out a rubber plantation involves more human effort than any simple description could convey. First the land must be cleared of its great old trees and undergrowth. Then comes the burning and the stumping. Next the ground must be leveled and prepared for planting. After overcoming these varied difficulties the American forces have planted 15,000 acres within the year, a record for any organization in any country.

Five years from the writing the rubber seedlings will be sizable trees, an the rubber fluid (latex) will soon be converted into tires for the American automobile, right from his own farm, so to speak. Next year it is hoped to raise the record several notches higher. But how many years will be required to plant 1,000,000 acres is a matter that nobody guesses about. The point of importance was planting the first 15,000—a long step toward the greater goal.

About 150 miles from the Du plantation is the second big field of plantation, at Cape Palmas, twenty-five miles inland on the Cavalla River. Although the average cleared and the organization engaged is somewhat smaller this operation practically duplicates the other. Additional plantations will be established and each time there must be stores, power plants, hospitals and all the other essentials of life—created in the wilderness.

With both of the new plantations on rivers, but considerably removed from one another, it became necessary to join their activities by water transportation. The first of the Firestone fleet is the Duvalia, a hundred-foot schooner to ply along the coast. Others will follow as needed and the day seems not far distant when a trans-Atlantic service need be opened. Progress has arrived in Liberia; the past gives way rapidly to the present.

The staff of Americans carrying on this empire building has direction of 15,000 natives, a number certain to be largely increased as the work has hardly begun. Every article used in development up to this time has been transported thousands of miles. Scarcely a tool could be bought in the country. Each nail and screw had to be brought from home. In the work of hygiene these problems are multiplied and intensified. Everyone knows that tropical countries have a large quota of diseases. Liberia is more fortunate than many, though beset by common ailments. A Firestone endowment fund granted to Harvard University has made it possible for D. A. W. Sellards of the Tropical School of Medicine to study the Liberian problem. Instruction in hygiene, fever control, adequate hospitals are in prospect.

For some time American missionaries have contributed largely to education, as their funds and workers made it possible. But a comprehensive plan was needed, beginning with the youngest youngster and advancing to the adult. Representative educators and organizations are co-operating to that end. Meanwhile the Firestone interests have sent an experienced vocational instructor to Liberia for the purpose of establishing such education. The present year should see the first of the trade schools founded.

All observers agree that the Liberian native is reliable in character and quick to learn the white man's ways. The possibilities of uplifting the native population are considered exceptionally favorable. Each step lays its own special burden on the pioneers. Text books have been prepared for elementary instruction, covering the principles of physiology, arithmetic, geology and a suggestion of history. This instruction must be fitted to the native mind. Suppose we should tell a native child that Jack Frost came in the night and blew his breath on the window pane. That would be a meaningless bit of pleasantries as the Liberian youngster never heard of Jack Frost or saw his breath frosted on the glass or even a window pane itself.

One by one these difficulties are being overcome. Hardly any other enterprise of this scope ever advanced so far with such good fortune. We may instantly recall the first failure at the Panama Canal, followed by the struggle of later years, later years to complete "the big ditch." Or we may think of the first tunnel under the Alps. We have yet fresh in mind our difficulties in the Philippines, in Porto Rico. Never before has an American industry undertaken foreign pioneering on anything like this scale. It is empire building in the first person singular.

This latter day pioneering goes forward in the way of a big business enterprise. It is just another department of the industry. One of these days radio communication will be opened between Liberian plantations and the Akron factory. Then the head of the business may well say to his operator, "Just get Mr. Jones for me if he is in his office down on the Du." If Mr. Jones himself cannot be transported by any sort of magic we know, yet his words, his thoughts, his personality can be whisked across those thousands of miles by the magic of the speaking wire.

It is interesting to note that the Liberian government has embarked upon a series of improvements, along with those of private enterprise. The pioneers, having laid miles of good roads and planning many more, are encouraged to find the government working upon a system of its own. Then we may expect the busy motor car to fit along African roads in the way that we see it on our own. This public and private co-operation extends to education and public works of many kinds. The leaves is at work, Liberia is on the move.

Here, then, behold the miracle that rubber wrought. If it had not been for the automobile there would have been no need of tires. Without tires there could have been no vast store of wealth in Eastern rubber. Then we should have had a British restriction act and no occasion to open the latest empire. But since each of these things had to be in the course of progress it has brought much good of light, of the new day to a far land and broadened the undertaking.

While in Liberia, Mr. Firestone will travel by the company's own ship, visiting the several plantations and other sites considered favorable for planting. It is hoped to improve upon the record of 1927 in the year to come. Rubber trees already set out in the first stage of operation are reported as making rapid progress, which encourages the belief that production from the trees will easily begin within the 5-year period. The area cleared in 1927 was about 50,000 acres and the 5,000 acres yet to be planted will soon come under cultivation. Other extensive areas are to be cleared during the coming season which planting marked forward with all possible speed.

Mr. Firestone will not only inspect and organize the field forces, but estimate to give special attention to the task of supplying this force through the stores now being established. This latter enterprise presents enough problems to keep any man busy. It takes a nice judgment to know what sorts of hairpins should be ordered for the Liberian trade, along with the thousand and one articles demanded by natives and Americans. As the stores develop their plan of operation, they will handle almost any article that can be bought in a five and ten-cent store at home, added to thousands of necessary articles sold by the hardware dealer, the druggist and the grocer. In effect, they will be department stores transplanted, on a smaller scale.

An effort to introduce hygiene and medicine also will come under Mr. Firestone's attention. So far the undertaking has been attended by little sickness among the white forces and precautions will be taken to maintain this record. It is also hoped to improve the surroundings of the native workers and to gradually instruct them in benefits of sanitation. As they are a people quick to learn, his hope seems well founded. The medical staff looks to the health of all hands at all times.

Considered from any standpoint, the Liberian development has been well launched and the day of production on a broad scale is a matter of time. The steps taken, having been laid so far towards the goal, it only remains to intensify efforts and bring every acre under cultivation that the field force is able to clear. That force will be increased in the next year as rapidly as the administrative staff can train and accommodate native workers. The 15,000 acres already planted should be measurably increased and another January.

During Mr. Firestone's stay overseas, he will be accompanied by a moving picture operator who is to take a nature record of this adventure in empire building. Films will show a range of Liberian activities; how the natives live and work; the character of the country and the jungles, its towns and homes. Rubber planting in its many stages opens another interesting subject. Glimpses of the country's wild life will be shown upon the screen. There are mountains to be film-d, jungle rivers and their strange jungles, the remote tribes that have hardly more than seen a white man. Here is an opportunity worthy of the camera. This old globe of ours has but a few spots left where we can encounter the primitive, the unknown. Such a land becomes fascinating indeed when the ax of the pioneer is ringing only a step behind the movie operator.

It is remembered that Liberia's zoology, its plants and trees, are almost unknown to science, the value of such a film becomes apparent. Hereafter the country has not been examined to any great extent because of remote situation and the difficulty of penetrating its fastnesses. But the new day is bringing changes immeasurable to Liberia. Before long its name should be familiar wherever the automobile goes, because a large number of the American cars will be riding upon Liberian rubber.

THE QUEST

In a poem called "The Last Billet," by Theodore Goodridge Roberts, we read:

"Some evening I shall turn aside
To that dark hostelry of rest,
And at the threshold loose my spurs
And to the wind bequeath my quest!"

Mr. Roberts refers to death, but his poem is suggestive of the attitude toward the world that should overtake us when we go to bed at night. If we are to have complete rest we must turn aside from the chase and the struggle. We must loose our spurs and to the wind bequeath whatever quest we have been on. We cannot turn tomorrow's mill-wheel with the water that went through the mill-race today.

When you go to bed at night be sure that the day's work with its failures is everlastingly over. No use reviewing the field. Remorse is a useless emotion which only tears down the body and the mind. Yesterday cannot be called back and it cannot be changed. It might just as well be checked off forever as far as you are concerned.

After tonight's rest, when you have turned aside and bequeathed everything to the wind, you face but one task: That is to face a new day just as though it were your first day on earth. Only a fool impairs his usefulness by dragging the heavy yesterdays over the road with him.

PHOTOGRAPHIC COPY OF WILL.

First Will of This Character Received in Probate Court Here

A photographic copy of a will, the first ever received at the probate court of Richland county, has been sent to Mansfield for recording. It is the will of Lucy P. Beelman, late of Washington, D. C.

The will, which is written with pen and ink, is easily read from the photographic copy. The old way of getting authenticated copies of a will, was to have it copied then certified. The law provides that a will must be probated in each county where the testator owned real estate.

The will of Mrs. Beelman gives all the property, personal, real and mixed, to her daughter, Grace W. Beelman of Washington, D. C. The date on the will is March 7, 1927. John A. Bartholomew is named executor. The will is signed by R. B. Maxwell, Anna C. Maxwell and Myrtle McClain all of Washington.

Mrs. Beelman makes provisions in her will for the disposition of her property in case her daughter should die before she did. She gave money to different churches, organizations and homes, and to more distant relatives. As the daughter survived her mother, these bequests become null and void.

Miss Grace Beelman is well known in Plymouth, her father, J. Frank Beelman being editor of the Advertiser some years ago.

Night Coughs

Quickly Relieved

Stopped in 15 Minutes
Most coughing is caused by an irritated, inflamed throat or bronchial tubes which cough syrup and patent medicines do not touch. But a famous physician's prescription recently discovered called Thoxine goes direct to the cause, soothes the inflamed membranes and stops the cough almost instantly. One swallow does the work, and the remarkable thing about it is that it contains no dope, chloroform or other harmful drugs. Pleasant tasting. Safe for children. Once used the whole family will rely on it. 35c, 60c, and $1.00. Sold by Webber's Drug Store and by all good drug stores.
