

COUNCIL AND BOARD MEET

Monday night the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Public Affairs was held with all members present. Current monthly business was transacted and other minor matters attended to. E. W. Phillips was appointed to the light and water superintendency. He has held this position for the past few years.

Council was confronted with several matters including a petition of the local merchants to license all bill peddlers and house to house canvassers. It was pointed out that an ordinance of this nature was already on file but had not been enforced lately. The only difference between the new proposed ordinance and the old, was in the license fee. The petition was tabled for a thirty-day period pending the outcome of the old ordinance which will be enforced fully.

Council also made it plain that if the business men wish to keep their town free from the distribution of bills by outside firms who do not pay a license it is necessary for them to assist in reporting persons who are caught in the act. Housewife are requested to telephone Marshal Burkett so that he may find out if the proper license has been secured.

All monthly bills were looked after and other minor business details given attention.

Marshal Burkett reported that he has been active in the enforcement of parking regulations, especially those requiring the proper parking lights, and that he will continue to summon those who fail to heed to the law.

PAROLE SOUGHT FOR LYON

Leonard Lyon, who is serving a life term at Columbus for being an accessory in the murder of Detective Frank McGrath, for which his brother Jim Lyon was electrocuted, may soon be free. According to word received at Norwalk this week it is said that an effort is on foot to obtain a parole for Leonard Lyon.

Prosecutor Martin, who is now at Hot Springs, Ark., for his health, has stated he believes Leonard should remain in prison for a time at least, despite the fact that a number of supporters of the movement assert that Lyon is a "nice young fellow."

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS GUESTS OF SHELBY LODGE TONIGHT

Many local members of the K. of P. lodge will attend a meeting of that order in Shelby tonight, along with delegates from the Willard, Crestline and Mansfield lodges. A very interesting program will be given.

The local lodge here has made many attractive improvements in the newly purchased lodge home. One of the main additions to the new quarters is a club room, with magazine and smoking stands, reading tables, tables and lounges. This feature has been long needed by the local order and has met with approval by many of its members.

COLORED MAN GETS FINE

William Harvey and Henry Cox, both colored, will be sent to the Canton workhouse in default of fines imposed by Mayor E. K. McCormick, of Willard, on charges of possession of liquor. Rose Rutledge, also charged with the possession of liquor, is out on probation on bond of $500.

REMAINS OF MRS. MARY BRYER LAID TO REST HERE

The remains of Mrs. Mary Bryer of Cleveland were brought here last Friday for interment in Greenlawn cemetery.

Mrs. Bryer was found dead by police last Wednesday when they forced an entrance into her apartment after neighbors had failed to see her for several days. Heart disease was given as the cause of her death.

RADIOS IN SCHOOLS

Students in Tiffin public schools may have the advantage of radio music as a part of their regular training, the city school board has ruled. Radios are to be installed for two concerts by the New York Symphony Orchestra, and if the experiment proves successful, regular concerts will be given during the year. The movement, launched by the New York Orchestra, is said to be general throughout the United States.

SLIP OF TONGUE GIVES CLUE

Clarence Beard who was arrested last week in St. Louis in connection with a robbery there, and who was also connected with a robbery in Cleveland, gave officers a clue which brought results when he remarked to them: "Well, I suppose you'll look me for murder when you get to Cleveland." Beard later confessed he shot Stephen Zabroski, treasurer of a Cleveland bank, in a recent holdup.

LOCOMOTIVES DESTROYED

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad lost 29 of its locomotives last Wednesday as a result of a fire in the Connellville roundhouse, which it is believed, was started by defective wiring.

SHEEP ATTACKED BY DOGS

Just before daylight Sunday morning Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Fackler were suddenly aroused by a great commotion on their front porch. Hastily investigating they discovered a dog trying to kill one of their sheep, which in trying to escape had taken refuge there. Mr. Fackler was unable to get the dog and investigating farther he found twelve of his sheep badly lacerated and it was necessary to kill three of them. There undoubtedly had been more than one dog, and the farmers are on the lookout for them.

MEETING WITH INTEREST

Wednesday the Home Circle club held an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. Ethel Nesbitt. Eight members responded to the roll call with quotations from Lincoln. One new name, Mrs. Brown was added to the membership. Since the last meeting three members have been remembered with fruit and flowers. This club has been organized four years ago. Mrs. Almyra Kinell was the member to be removed by death and recognition was given the department of this noble woman. The program consisted of a discussion of the question: Resolved that the young people of today have as different a struggle to reach their goal as did the ancients. This discussion was led by Mrs. Grace Hamman and was very interesting. The decision was given in favor of the affirmative. The meeting adjourned by singing America. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Norris Benedict the first Wednesday of the month and a good attendance is desired as the club expects to begin some new work.

SENIOR AGRICULTURAL CLASS

A special class in agriculture composed of farmers in the community was organized Monday evening at the school house. RICHLAND COUNTY HAS 186 SCHOOL TEACHERS

Figures compiled by C. L. Davis, attendance officer show Richland county has 186 school teachers. Of this number 118 are in the rural schools and 70 in the village schools.

THE SCHOOLS OF RICHLAND COUNTY

have 34 married women and 33 single women teaching. There are 127 women and 59 men in the schools. The county has 55 new teachers this year. The total number of pupils in the county and village schools is 4,724.

SHOPLIFTERS HERE

Two young ladies, whose names we are withholding on account of their parents, and who gave Norwalk as their home, were halted into Mayor Derr's court Wednesday afternoon on a warrant issued by a local merchant charging them with shoplifting.

It was just a coincidence that Manager Lombard of the Plymouth hotel took the privilege of opening a box they had left in the lobby after using their lavatory. Manager Lombard missed a couple of cakes of soap, and as he was positive it was in the lavatory before the girls entered, he became suspicious and opened the box, finding several pieces of merchandise that led him to believe, was not properly purchased. He notified local stores and identify the goods was made, which resulted in the pair being apprehended just before the arrival of a southbound bus they had intended to take.

The young women had been in town practically all day soliciting subscriptions for various charities for which they were to receive aid in securing a college education. Just why they resorted to shoplifting to aid them alone cannot be understood by several who subscribed for their publications.

Anyway we are convinced that they were most desirous to return home after the trial for they were last seen heading down the road toward Norwalk.

MOTHER OF MRS. E. E. BALDUF PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Fred Simmons mother of Mrs. E. E. Balduf, passed away at her home in Findlay on Tuesday, following an illness of many years.

Mrs. Balduf was called home Saturday owing to her mother's critical condition who lingered until Tuesday when death ended many years of suffering. Mr. Balduf left Tuesday evening to attend the funeral. Deepest sympathy is extended the bereaved ones.

ATTEND ORGAN RECITAL

Several of the music lovers of this vicinity attended the organ recital at Shelby in the new Catholic church last Wednesday evening. The latter organ was introduced by Henry F. Seibert of New York. His recital work is broadcast over WEAF and WJZ of that city. One hundred of the representatives people of Shelby acted as patrons of this recital.

REMAINS BURIED HERE

The body of J. Newton Mattoon was interred in Pioneer's Rest Saturday afternoon at 3:30. The funeral was held from the J. Sackett funeral home in New London his home town, at 2 o'clock p. m. Saturday. He succumbed to an operation at Fairview Park Hospital, Cleveland, Ohio, February 2, 1928 at the age of 84 years 6 months and 17 days.

He was well known in Plymouth having spent a great share of his life in the home of C. H. Russell since the death of his wife nine years ago. He leaves a host of friends and relatives to mourn his loss.

There are a great many times that we think life is all wrong and that the world is against us. We cast a shadow of gloom in every direction—we think everyone has deserted us, and—well, what's the use? Let's stop and think a minute of the hardships of the great emancipator whose birthday anniversary occurs next Sunday. . . . When Abraham Lincoln was a young man he aspired for the legislature of Illinois, and at this first venture for public office, he was literally swamped. He next entered a business, failed, and spent seventeen years of his life paying up the debts of a worthless partner. He was in love with a beautiful young woman to whom he became engaged—then she died. His political aspirations for Congress, and was badly defeated. He then tried to get an appointment to the United States Land Office, but failed. He became a candidate for the United States Senate, and was again counted out at the ballot box. In 1852 he became a candidate for Vice Presidency and was once more on the losing side. In 1858 he was defeated by Douglas. One failure after another—but failures with terrible setbacks. In the face of all this he eventually became one of the greatest men in American history. He is loved and honored throughout the world. When you think of the effect of a series of setbacks like this, doesn't it make you feel kind of small to become discouraged just because you think you are having a hard time piloting this canoe of life?

New England, home of the stern and rock-like Puritan, has not forgotten Pilgrim father, seems to be doing things that would make its founders turn in their graves. Greenwich, the little Connecticut town, has been leading the way for some years. It seems to be easier to get a marriage license in Greenwich than a divorce in Paris. Then along came Newburyport, Mass., and elected perhaps the most remarkable mayor of modern times. Bossy Gills whose battle cry is "To the victor goes the grave." The latest to break into print is the little town of Danbury, also in Connecticut, and situated near the New York line. If you have ever had an idea that New England is the strict home of prayer, righteousness and intolerance—heritages left by the Pilgrim fathers, consider this hitherto unnoticed village. A few days ago a curfew law was announced in Danbury. It stipulated that the tiny city has no less than seventy-five gambling houses, and that does not include speak-easies. Gambling has been allowed to flourish and the houses are well patronized by New Yorkers. But a police captain has spoiled all the fun by ordering all gambling places to close at one o'clock a. m. It is estimated that Danbury has more gambling houses and speak-easies than it has stores.

Recent years have witnessed a mercantile development of some interest. Supplies of malt, hops, sugar, yeast, bottles, caps and other ingredients or accessories of home brewing have been made generally available, presumably in response to general demand. Announcements of proposed changes in prohibition-enforcement policies have not served to stop this traffic. Instead the brewing supplies

"WEST POINT" IS FULL OF MILITARY THRILLS

Cheering crowds—the thrill of the great Army-Navy football game—dress parade at West Point, with the cadet corps in spectacular maneuvers; the romantic old battleships of the great school for Uncle Sam's officers as a background for a romance as sweet as a sapphire—these are some of the ingredients for "West Point," William Haines' new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle now playing at the Temple Theatre, Willard, next Monday and Tuesday, February 13 and 14.

It is a story of youth, love and romance—with laughs and thrills, comedy and heart throbs deftly blended into an evening of glorious entertainment. And, of course—there's William Haines.

As the "wise cracking" young football star who comes to West Point to learn, through bitter experience, what the spirit and tradition of the cadet corps means, Haines has an ideal role. He exercises his unique gifts for comedy in the opening scenes, showing his training at West Point, and plays a sensational game of football in the big Army-Navy game, staged during the actual contest.

How Wise Was Wife
 Story of This Comedy Real Problem for Average Screen Fan

Was she a wise wife, or was it merely that he was a dumb husband? Arthur Somers Roche's magazine serial, "The Wise Wife," which E. Mason Hopper filmed for Pathe-De Mille, might just as well have been entitled, "The Dumb Husband." On the other hand, the former title may fit the bill, in that the husband is wise, but the wife was wiser.

Phyllis Haver, in the title role, first seen as Mrs. Blaisdell the domestic and "settled down" wife of "John Blaisdell" played by Tom Moore. Along comes Jacquelin Logan, in the portrayal of a snappy, up-to-date, twentieth century flapper from the sunny south, and vamps Blaisdell. Then Miss Haver gets busy and takes on flapper ways herself, shortens her dresses, and snaps up her appearance. Before many close-ups have rolled by she has won her husband back again.

The picture, which will be shown at the Shelby Opera House Sunday next, features in addition to Miss Haver and Miss Logan, Tom Moore and Joseph Striker. The comedy is said to be packed with thrills and laughs.

WHAT CHILDREN SHOULD KNOW

The Republic of France occupies a smaller area than our own five States of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee. Still that Nation has always exercised a tremendous influence in our own country. Usually the American people are very enthusiastic over France but there was an occasion in history when George Washington stood ready to lead an American Army against the aggressions of France.

The great Statue of Liberty on Bedloe's Island in New York harbor, was presented as a finished product to the United States, on July 4, 1884. It is perhaps the greatest reminder of peace and friendship in the world.

One mystery that the world has never solved is why Paris, a city of approximately 3,000,000 inhabitants, maintains its position as the dictator of the world of fashions.

American women as well as those of almost every country on the face of the globe look resolutely to Paris for fashions. If the autocrats in that beautiful French city say that buttons shall be worn next Spring, women immediately bristle with buttons and if they decree that the "petite robe a la passe" a young lady of fashion would sooner expire than suffer the humiliation of appearing in a red gown.

These famous coutouriers lately have not only been choosing the colors for Millady's frocks, but they have been presuming to insist that Millord's couple shall be finished of course, and something should surely be done about it.

The people whose duty it is to paint the nation's cars watch the style bulletins and fashion magazines for news of Paris color trends just as resolutely as do the professional dress-makers. Most of the gaily colored machines that purr along the highways of our great broad country are ducoed with color prescriptions that were evolved in the salons of the famous French modistes.

A class of petty politicians who bothered the people of the Southern States after the Civil War were called "carpet baggers." Indeed, as recently as that time traveling bags were made principally from carpet material, and trunks of quality were of mohair, or leather. Shakespeare, in "As You Like It," described "the whining schoolboy with his satchel, and ailing morning face," who "found his way to school." In these modern times traveling equipment bears no resemblance to the days when most things were "homemade."

It is worth any one's time to sailly into a luggage shop. You will find traveling cases of red and brown and green, lined with harmonious brocades and moires; auto trunks colored in all bright shades of this year's colorful machines; hat boxes in many a cheery hue, and all sorts of novelty bags and accessories to make one want to rush out and purchase a ticket for Timbuctoo. Then, too, there is a gray lizard grain suit case with all sorts of ruffles and trimmings that excites the glee and ecstasy of happy maidens. This particular traveling bag is rounded at all the corners and fastens with a center lock and two and snaps. Its lining is cream moire and it contains a tray which folds up into a tiny miniature of the parent bag and holds a stunning set of pearl and amber pyralin toilet articles in the Mayflower pattern. A novelty for the lady who travels much is a slight pillow, which is a clever little affair of green lizard Fabrikoid which is just as much a handbag as a cushion.

Really nice looking luggage will go a long way toward making any trip a success.

DINNER GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Votaw entertained Thursday at their home on West Broadway the following guests Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Wentland, Mrs. Jean Seville, Mrs. Jennie West, Miss M. M. Lerch and Miss Ida Cheesman. A delicious three course dinner was served at 6 o'clock followed by an evening's entertainment of bridge.

IT'S WARMING UP

The campaign for the Republican presidential nomination is warming up to the point where attacks are being made on the several candidates. Vice President Dawes is criticized because of his testimony before the Congressional committee engaged in investigating the conduct of the war after the war was over. He denounced practically the entire leadership of his party as demagogic and inefficient in the management. Ex-Governor Lowden is criticized because of an interview in London four or five years ago favorable to the League of Nations. Secretary Hoover is attacked because of his letter to Frederick Condit in 1915 expressing the opinion that President Wilson should be supported by the country without regard to party lines in peace and post-war negotiations, interpreted as in support of President Wilson's demand for a Democratic Congress.

In behalf of Vice President Dawes the reply is made that as a part of the Wilson administration's war activities, loyalty to his chief required defense of the conduct of the war. Governor Lowden's friends state that he was more strongly quoted in his interview than his words warranted. In behalf of Secretary Hoover it is stated that when appointed as a part of the war administration he was known to be a Republican, and that one crossing of the party lines during a war period called for another; that at the time the statement was made Secretary Hoover was abroad and had to face with the necessity of emphasizing the theory that the United States was united in support of the war and that while Americans were able to differentiate between loyalty to President Wilson and loyalty to the government's war cause, Europeans were not; that in October, 1918, the question was up as to whether the Germans would give in and the war be ended or whether peace negotiations would fall and many thousands of American lives be lost with additional billions of dollars. It is said that Secretary Hoover has never contemplated giving up his residence in the United States, that he has been continuously a member of the National Republican Club of New York for twenty years, and that in 1920 he "squashed" a movement to make him the Democratic presidential nominee and permitted his friends to make a hopeless fight for the Republican presidential nomination chiefly to permanently establish his identity as a member of the party of those two last national administrations he has been an important part of. It is also argued by Secretary Hoover's friends that the charges made against his party zeal will only strengthen him as an election vote-getter among independent and luke-warm Democratic voters and among many of those who have heretofore been numbered with that fifty per cent of the electorate which has not been going to the polls. These charges and counter charges are interesting as evidence that as 1928 opens there is a revival in political interest. As the Democratic and Republican national conventions approach there will doubtless be an increase in the political fireworks. Our national campaigns are good shows, well staged, and have been entirely too tame in recent years to suit those whose memories run back to more stirring days politically.

Town Saved By Operator's Calls

Thrills are few and far between in Pickerington, an Ohio village between Columbus and Lancaster. The life of a telephone operator there is rather commonplace. But occasionally there does come something different. One recent day, which started just like any other with the usual calls from one party line to another and an occasional out-of-town call, will long be remembered by Miss Hazel Ruble, the Pickerington operator.

The excitement was heralded in mid-afternoon by the lusty call of "Fire!" From the telephone office she saw flames leaping high from an old barn, directly across the narrow street from the telephone office. She turned her back upon the sight, calling the nearest fire apparatus. Reynoldsburg and Basal, near-by towns, were asked to send their equipment. The flames reached other buildings. Hazel called Lancaster, asking for more help. But the fire now had eaten its way to the Harner building, occupied by stores and apartments. Other buildings were endangered, and Hazel knew they would burn if the fire wasn't soon checked. She called Columbus, and just as her story was told the lines went dead. Poles had burned and toppled.

Soon help was arriving from all directions. By this time only about half a dozen telephone lines were in service, but she remained at her board in spite of the fact that the building next door was ablaze. When the fire was conquered and townspeople showered her with praise, she said she only did what every other operator would have done.

MILLIONS DOLLARS GAINED

Columbus O.—Ohio will be the gainer by more than a million dollars through the effectiveness of the "weight slip method" introduced into the system of selling truck license plates in Ohio by Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown. A check up on the sale of 1928 truck license plates shows that there has been a gain in revenue from truck licenses of from 15 to 20% through the efficiency of this new system.

In Cleveland a check was made of the first 4,000 trucks licensed in 1928 which had also been licensed at the beginning of 1927. A comparison of the weights given and fees received in 1927 and 1928 an increase of 18.1% or better than $23,500, additional revenue over that paid last year. With more than 200,000 trucks in Ohio and the gain averaging about the same on the sale of all trucks, it can readily be seen that the state and local subdivisions would gain approximately one and one-half million dollars revenue which has heretofore been lost. However, it is thought that the average may not be quite so high in the rural counties where lighter trucks are generally used.

That Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown is a business man first has been plainly demonstrated by the manner in which the Bureau of Motor Vehicles has been reorganized and by the way in which proper business methods have increased the state's revenues so amazingly. The savings made through business-like administration and the additional revenues collected through efficient management will be near the million and one-half mark while at least another million of new revenue is expected from the regular and usual increase in the number of motor vehicles licensed.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Boberlek are the proud parents of a baby girl, born on Feb. 2, 1928. The young lady has been named Lois Jean. Mrs. Boberlek and son Robert are with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dexter of Washington, Penn.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Glascock of Mansfield announce the birth of a son, Robert Eugene, on Thursday, February 2nd.

Mrs. Glascock will be remembered as Miss Leta Clark, a former Plymouth High School teacher.

LAST CHANCE

According to Stacy Brown of the Brown and Miller Hardware, housewives have just three more days to take advantage of the wonderful offer made by the Tappan Stove Co. of Mansfield to secure one of their gas ranges at a nominal price.

Those who have seen this new range marvel at its beauty—its trim lines and appearance—and of course it bears the Tappan mark of Quality. Just once in a great while does the Tappan Stove Co. make such an offer as the one they are now presenting, and if there's a housewife who has been planning the purchase of a stove it will be to her interest to look over this new range which is being sold at a low introductory price.

The direct federal appropriation for cooperative extension service in 1926-27 was $1,640,568.

Members of the Carroll County Farm Bureau received rebates in January totalling $818.52, on feed and fertilizer purchased through the Bureau from July, 1927, to January, 1928.

Men Chers Folks:

Nous avons une classe dans l'histoire de la musique. In other words, we have started class in the history of music which is taught only on Thursdays, and by Miss Lorimer. A fourth of a credit is given for the study—all of which is very nice—doncha think? And it is an entirely new subject in this school, and appearances are such that it will be well liked.

Intensive practice upon the opera-tta will be started immediately after the basket ball season has terminated. Our orchestra has purchased new books—and, sorry to say—we do not like the new songs as well as those in the old books. But that doesn't stop us from being good—or at least, making much noise.

The final home game of Plymouth HI will be with Lucas Friday evening, February 10th.

Plymouth boys went into a disastrous slump Friday night and lost to Shiloh 17 to 13. Shiloh completely outclassed our boys during the entire game and only their disability to score baskets kept the score from being greater than it was. In the first quarter the play was very even, the period ending with the score 4 to 4. In the second quarter Shiloh took the lead and held a margin of four points at the half; score, Shiloh 15, Plymouth 8. Plymouth did not score a single point in the third period while Shiloh increased their score to 15 points. In the last quarter Plymouth fought desperately but fell short of victory by just four points. Hamman starred for Shiloh while Hills and Barber played a good game for P. H. S.

The girls played Shiloh to a 17-17 deadlock in a hotly contested preliminary. Shiloh took a small lead in the first quarter and held it until the end of the third quarter. In the first period Sheely scored all of our points, a basket and a free throw, while the opponents made two baskets, making the score 4 to 3 at the quarter. The play was very even during the second period, Shiloh holding a lead of one point at the half; score Plymouth 7, Shiloh 7. The third quarter ended with Shiloh still in the lead, 11 to 10. Both teams began to play desperately at the start of the last quarter and the ball sailed thru the net rather often. Plymouth would score a basket and then Shiloh would come back with one. Plymouth led, 17 to 15 with just a few seconds to go but Dick slipped in a basket just before the whistle to tie the score. Moser took high scoring honors with 12 points while Fate and Sheely starred for P. H. S. with 7 points each.

IF FARM IS FRYING PAN, CITY IS FIRE

Boys Who Leave Agriculture Don't Better Condition By Making Change.
 "Formal education" to the extent of a year or more of high school education, seems to encourage the farm boy or girl to desert farming and the farm, for some other occupation. But when he does leave the farm, the chance is better than 50-50 that he will wind up as an unskilled laborer in a city, which position, in so far as social prestige is concerned, is decidedly less attractive than that of the operator of a farm.

These conclusions are based upon a closely conducted survey of two typical northwestern Ohio townships, made by C. E. Lively and P. C. Beck, of the Rural Sociology Department of the Ohio State University.
 The two sociologists discovered that a half more of the children who had started for themselves after a year or more of high school, went away from the farms, as compared with the children who never obtained high school training. Of those who left the farm for other jobs, 75 per cent became laborers, and 60 per cent unskilled laborers. Of those who stayed on the farm, 8 per cent became farm operators, either owning or renting their farms, but at any rate controlling their own activities. Only 17 of them became laborers on other men's farms.

"So far as social status is concerned, it would seem therefore, that more than half of those who left the farm have not bettered their condition," says the report of the sociologists.

CORN HIGHER IN OHIO AND LOWER IN WEST

Crop Conditions Reflected in Prices East and West of Mississippi.

Ohio farmers—if any—with corn to sell, are getting higher prices than they got a year ago, says C. R. Arnold of the Department of Rural Economics of the Ohio State University. "In comparing the farm prices of corn on last December 1, with a year ago December 1," says Arnold, "we find that in Ohio it was seventeen cents higher, this year; in Indiana it was twenty-eight cents higher; Illinois fifteen cents higher; Michigan, twelve cents higher; Wisconsin, nine cents higher. In South Dakota it was one cent lower than December 1, 1926; in North Dakota it was six cents lower; in Nebraska six cents lower, and in Kansas nine cents lower.

"The usual trend of corn prices is upward from January or February to August. The advance of prices during this period, however, is affected somewhat by the quality of the crop, the number of livestock on farms, the location of the crop and the condition of the new crop.

"Farm supplies are about the same as last year, and feeding requirements should not be much greater. However, there is some indication that the feeding quality of the corn in some sections is considerably below standard, which may increase the demand for good corn."

Says Sam: Some college professor without much to do, determined, by psychological tests, that brunettes reacted more strongly than blondes, to a moving picture love story. If true, that's another reason why gentlemen prefer

Ordinance

Determining to proceed with the improvement of Bell Street from Broadway to High Street by constructing a storm sewer there-in.

Be it ordained by the Council of the Village of Plymouth, State of Ohio, three-fourths of all members elected thereto concurring:

Section 1. That it is hereby determined to proceed with the improvement of Bell Street from a point fifty feet south of Broadway to High Street by constructing therein a storm sewer and by continuing said sewer from the intersection of Bell Street and High Street, along the right away of the B. & O. Railroad Co. to a manhole in what is known as the McLaughlin Ditch in accordance with Resolution No. passed on the 24th day of May, 1927, and in accordance with the plans, specifications, estimates and profiles heretofore approved and now on file in the office of the Clerk of the Village of Plymouth.

Section 2. That all claims for damages resulting therefrom shall be judicially inquired into and be a condition of the proposed improvement.

Section 3. That the whole cost of said improvement less forty-six per cent and the cost of intersections; (which percentage to be paid by the Village) shall include the whole cost of the street area drained by said sewer; shall be assessed by the town front on the following described lots and lands to-wit:

All the lots and lands bounding and abutting upon the proposed improvement which said lots and lands are hereinafter described, to be especially benefited by said improvement and the cost of said improvement shall include the expenses of the preliminary and other surveys, and of printing and publishing notices, resolutions and ordinances required and the survey of said streets and the cost of construction together with interest on bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of deferred assessments, and all other necessary expenditures.

Section 4. That the assessments so to be levied shall be paid in five annual installments with interest on deferred payments at the same rates as shall be borne by the bonds to be issued in anticipation of the collection thereof. Provided that the owner of any property assessed may, at his option, pay such assessments in cash within thirty days after the passage of the assessing ordinance.

Section 5. That bonds of the Village of Plymouth shall be issued in anticipation of the collection of assessments by installments and in an amount equal thereto.

Section 6. That the remainder of the cost of said improvement assumed by the Village of Plymouth shall be paid by the issuance of bonds as provided by law.

Section 7. That the clerk be and he is hereby authorized and directed to advertise for bids for the construction of said improvement according to law.

Section 8. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Rotation of Sugar Beets on Farms Increases Yields of Other Crops

CHICAGO—Systematic crop rotation pulmotoring the nation's worn out agricultural lands would do more to solve the farm relief problem than all the dude-ranch laws on the statute books, according to Stephen H. Love, president of the U. S. Beet Sugar Association, in an address here before an agricultural conference.

"Legislation cannot add a single bushel to America's annual farm production," declared Mr. Love. "Crop rotation can. Declining per acre grain yields have resulted from farmers harvesting the same crop from the same land year in and year out, impoverishing the soil.

"Results of scientific crop rotation with sugar beet culture as the pivot have demonstrated that the productivity of the soil in yielding crops can be increased from 50 to 80 per cent.

The corresponding addition to the farmer's income from augmented crop yields would remove the bugaboo of his financial straits.

"Europe long ago recognized the necessity of regular crop rotation. Germany which was the largest beet sugar producing country prior to the World War expanded its sugar industry from 450,000 tons in 1879 to 3,000,000 tons in 1914 by crop rotation. In addition it increased the general crop production of its farm land 80 per cent. In 1879 Germany harvested 683,187,000 bushels of the four crops. Thirty-five years later after institution of crop rotation the same acreage sown to the same four crops yielded 1,261,770,000 bushels, an increase of 588,583,000 bushels, or 86 per cent."

What the French really seem to want to do is to outlaw aggressive war, but of course everybody knows that every war ever waged has been purely a "defensive struggle" on both sides.

Telephone Personalities

THE CABLE SPLICER
In the work of constructing and maintaining telephone lines, the cable splicer is one of the most important telephone craftsmen. His labors are both aloft on aerial cables, and in manholes on underground cables. Cable has made possible the universal telephone service of today, for one cable, no thicker than a man's wrist, can contain 2,400 wires, connecting the telephone central office with a whole community. And the splicer makes the use of cable possible, for he joins together the short lengths of cable into a continuous line.

The splicer must identify each of the many conductors in a cable so as to be sure that the wires are properly connected throughout the consecutive lengths of cable. This he does by electrical tests.

Splicers were once seen principally in cities, but today cable is being used on long distance lines. In Ohio many of the principal long distance routes are being laid in cable, thus protecting the circuits against storm interference, and providing many more talk channels than were possible with open wires.

MT. HOPE LUTHERAN CHURCH

LEHR A. McCORD, Pastor
Sermon Sunday, February 12th 10:00 a. m. Sunday School, R. R. Howard, Supr. and met at Shiloh on the map as making the Sunday Schools mean something? It is easy to console ourselves with "That's the way it is all over" which is just the attitude that produces that "wax." HE who was the "WAY, the TRUTH and the LIFE" gives us a way to follow that calls men to his worship. Does it not call you?

SPECIAL! Don't miss the opening program next Sunday in charge of the "LIVE WIRES." The Boy Scout in the class will be in uniform. 10:00 a. m. Morning worship with sermon by the pastor: "Sowers of Seed." Every member is urged to be present at this service that they may enter into the program of activity of the church that is to be carried forward to Easter.

SPECIAL SERVICES

Announcement was made last Sunday by the pastor that beginning with Ash Wednesday, February 22, the opening of the Lenten season, special services will be held each Sunday and Wednesday evening at 7:30 p. m. to which the general public and especially non-attendants at any church services are cordially invited. The Sunday evening services beginning on February 26th will be of a popular character with special music. The Wednesday evening services will be devoted to Bible teachings with opportunity for Bible discussion with the subjects taken up. The subjects to be covered by these services together with those for the Sunday morning services will be announced next week.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Wednesday evening a good audience met at the auditorium for the February open meeting.

The High School orchestra rendered several selections.

Musical reading was given by Mildred Griffith and a vocal solo by L. A. Corey.

Close and interested attention was given the speaker of the evening, Judge Florence E. Allen of the State Supreme Court as she outlined the duties and responsibilities of citizens and officials in the administration of the Government. With clear vision seemed an easy matter for her to convince her audience that she spoke with authority as they listened to her well-chosen words.

The cause of good government is well served when such individuals of energy, ability and character are elevated to high official position.

Science has brought in all sorts of advances in material things in these later years, but this great material progress has caused the setting up of no new standards of human conduct; justice is still to be done and mercy loved as we walk humbly with God.

Speaking of her own office as Judge it became her mission to enforce the law, suppress crime and establish justice.

Criminals expect to be happy when they get money to gratify their desires. We are rich, not by what we have but in the opportunities we have to render service.

Some people are honest individually but dishonest in public affairs. Prevalence of perjury is increasing. It is very difficult to convict for perjury.

Lawyers must realize that they are officers of the court rather than being primarily interested in getting a present.

Before the adoption of the United States Constitution the prevailing idea was that the Government is a sovereignty and not bound by moral considerations.

The rallying cry was; the state can do no wrong. The United States Constitution repudiated these views and the Government was made the responsible servant to the citizens of the United States.

Moral backbone is needed in Government.

Moral backbone is needed in Government. Moral integrity must be demonstrated in officials.

The people must not despair when the Government is not properly administered but must insist that officials exert themselves for the good of all the people.

Citizens should look up the records of candidates for office and support only those who are worthy and capable. The basis of all good things is character. Parents must properly educate and train their children.

Home loving people must insist that high standards of morality be upheld by no courts. The United States Government is not properly administered but must insist that officials exert themselves for the good of all the people.

When any people come into the enjoyment of advantages which they have not personally worked for they must beware lest they become soft and fall.

We must diligently and constantly apply basic moral standards to all our relations.

No group must be allowed to be so powerful that it allows no jurisdiction of the law. Justice must be established for all.

remain on sale in grocery stores, drug stores, hardware stores and other stores. In addition to supply stores selling little or nothing else and apparently prospering on steady trade.

But the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Jackson, Miss., has both noticed the new goods with disapproval and done something to stop their sale. Jackson being the state capital, the union members naturally procured the introduction of a bill in the state legislature. If the measure is enacted, manufacturers will have a law against selling or giving away brewing supplies on penalty of a fine of $500 at least or imprisonment for one year. Most states have not contemplated adopting new statutes to provide the reform with more "teeth."

Perhaps they consider it easier to let Congress attend to all that. But federal enforcement law, with all its unusual weapons, seems unable to stop the catering to home brewers. The very existence of the supply business, open and unfrail, argues the need of a reformation. It seems inconceivable with prohibition to permit uncontrolled commerce in articles intended for use so illegal as to justify the raiding of homes. Indeed, an ardent prohibitionist might object to toleration of the supply trade as amounting to support of the reform in some degree by tacit public consent.

COURTESY INCREASES WITH USE OF "THANK YOU" BY OPERATORS

At Least, That's the Supplication, Since the Habit Seems To Be Spreading

A revival of the lost art of courtesy is noticeable in business life throughout Ohio. Some of it is undoubtedly "professional"—inspired by a promoter's desire to make his establishment attractive to his customers—but here and there in town one frequently strikes instances of a "thank you" that comes spontaneously from the speaker.

Taxi drivers are heard to say "thank you" when their fare gives the destination. Not long ago such politeness would have induced looks of amazement, not to mention a "state of total paralysis," but today the taxi passengers accept it with merely a pleasant nod.

The elevator operator—an attractive girl—cheerfully says "thank you" when the passenger has called out his floor number. A courteous and pleasant manner seems to prevail among most of the girls who are gradually taking over the elevator jobs in office buildings.

Street car conductors, old as well as young, are heard occasionally to express their appreciation when the passenger drops his fare in the box, and policemen are learning to assume a pleasant smile occasionally.

When the girls in the ten-cent stores, who used to be accused of having time only for chatter and chewing gum, now chime in with a polite phrase when customers hand over their dimes.

Whence all this politeness? One theory expresses several times presented that the general tendency may be the result of the recently adopted practice of telephone operators, who acknowledge numbers given by callers with a charming "Thank you."

In the territory of The Ohio Bell Telephone Company, where telephone girls give numbers to the operators more than 3,000,000 times a day," says Randolph Ellis, vice-president and general manager of the company. "That means more than 3,000,000 'thank you's' a day. The cumulative effect of the repetition, which has been going on every day for several months all over Ohio, must be tremendous. People have heard it so often that they have been spontaneously impressed with it, that they've possibly adopted it themselves without any direct intention."

The use of the expression has served a two-fold purpose in helping telephone service, say company officials. First of all, the practice of repeating the number perhaps had outlived its usefulness; it was monotonous and people seldom bothered to check the operator. By substituting "thank you" the service has been speeded up and the operator can still acknowledge the subscriber's request for a number.

In the second place, the calling person must talk distinctly in giving the number; otherwise the operator must ask for it a second or third time. When an operator says "Thank you" therefore, she is expressing appreciation for the caller's effort in giving the number distinctly, and encouraging him to do so in the future.
