THREW A SALT SHAKER AT HER

Beulah Ruckman charges in her divorce petition that her husband threw a salt shaker and other substantial articles at her and locked her in a room for hours at a time. She says the salt shaker just narrowly missed her. The wife charges further that her husband punishes their child, three years old, inhumanly.

Mrs. Ruckman claims her husband has not been congenial toward her since their marriage at Plymouth October 15, 1925. She says he ordered her to leave their home March 22. She complains her husband will not allow her friends to visit her.

The wife asks the court of common pleas to enjoin her husband from going where she is staying, fronting nuclear her or disposing of the household goods, for divorce alimony. In custody of their child. The plaintiff is a minor and brings the action through Blanche Knight, George W. Biddle is the attorney—Mansfield News.

MOTHER'S BIRTHDAY IS REMEMBERED

A very pleasant family dinner was given Mrs. William Loughbaugh of Shiloh Saturday evening by her children in honor of her birthday. Those in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Earhart and son Max of Lexington, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lookbaugh of Plymouth.

Tom Sibbett III

Mr. and Mrs. Keiser Sibbett of Shiloh are with Tom Sibbett who is seriously ill at his home near Delphi. Ronald Howard will teach school at Cranberry in the absence of Mrs. Sibbett, the regular instructor.

Fred Woodworth Dead

Fred J. Woodworth, well known to many of the older residents in this vicinity, and who has been a prominent figure in Cleveland banking circles the past forty years, died Monday at his home in Cleveland. Death was caused by a heart attack.

Woodworth was connected with the old First National Bank here, and during his residence in Plymouth won many friends for himself. He later became connected with a banking firm in Cleveland, and he rapidly rose to the top in his work. At the time of his death he was vice-president of the Union Trust company.

Surviving are several relatives.

Syrup Prices High

Maple syrup is priced very high this year, and as a result the market is low. Many farmers state that the sales are not so fast as in previous years, and no doubt the price, which is $25 per gallon, is responsible for this condition.

Telephone Line To Be Rebuilt

The idol of our eye—The Boughtonville Telephone Co., after standing the storms and tests for a quarter of a century was stricken and practically became worthless and useless. Over half miles of territory of lines, long stretches of broken poles and wires can be seen, caused by the burden of ice and falling limbs. The Board of Directors held a meeting Saturday night and the report is that they decided to rebuild the line. This is a fine idea. Material will be arranged paid for, no large salaries are paid only for actual service. It has a surplus of $800.00 which will probably buy the material, and like we did in days gone by, shoulder our spades and post diggers and volunteer our services for a few days, and we soon, as of yore, will hear the "Hello" of our neighbor. We had thought at one time we could ret along without the telephone, but now its loss becomes desolation. It was at one time a luxury—now a necessity. Let's rebuild and save the high cost service of another company.

Last Sunday was Palm Sunday. We are sorry to say the attendance of 28 was not complimentary to our Lord, in remembrance of his triumphant entry. Next Sunday is Easter. We are certainly looking for every member of all churches both great and small in their church listening to their own pastor as spokesman on His great memorial. Do not miss your own little church and its splendid services by listening in on some splendid orator in some great overcrowded church in the distance when it conflicts with your own home appointments at church. Detroit and Cleveland do not need you. They do not know you and have not even made known one conversion in those listen in. Oh! Be found in your own church next Sunday where you have assembled with the Brethren, where you heard God's call, and they know by name and give you the glad hand and brotherly greeting and have a part in the services. Love and life and their deep revelations, but most of all for the gate of prayer opening into fountains that quench immortal thirst. Come Occupants of the Blisy car were Mr. and Mrs. H. Blisy and child, and Lester Kimple of Willard, Mr. and Mrs. Cal Palmer and child, North Field.

Miss Margaret Moore, Mrs. Fred Moore and Miss Dorothy Dowd of New Haven, occupied the Langhurst machine.

None of the occupants were seriously injured. Those who witnessed the wrecked machines are puzzled as to how the occupants escaped death.

Asks For Seeds

Mrs. H. J. Baltzell, president of Plymouth W. C. T. U., received a letter this week from Miss Stoenhimer, to whom the W. C. T. U. sent clothing for the needy miners, stating that all goods had been received and to thank all who gave. She says "I fitted out a home of nine children, worthy people, one boy had gone all winter without underwear. Ten year old twins had no shoes or dresses to put on. A new baby came recently with no clothes at all to put on him. Mother is so good God will surely bless you all there."

Miss Stoenhimer speaks in the latter about wanting garden seeds to give out that these people may be able to help themselves now. If anyone has garden seeds they would give and will send to Mrs. Ian Clark they can be sent barrels of cloths, or alone, or if they want to give money for this purpose send to Mrs. Clark indicating what it is for or direct to Miss Dolma Stoenhimer, Dillon Vale, Jefferson Cor. Editorial-News And Comment On National Happenings

It is characteristically American to be "up-to-date," whether in dress, deportment or in our economic progress. In our personal affairs we want the latest garb; we want to ride in the newest motor car; we want to read the freshest book, see the most recent play, . . . In our business, too, the craving for novelty, newness, freshness. Garment-makers stimulate sales by alteration of style; automobile manufacturers, by a few minor changes and producing a new model. In old-world eyes this American characteristic seems like a form of extravagance—changing merely for the sake of change and not because it is a symptom of our national pulsation of progress. It is the same spirit that causes a manufacturer to scrap a gigantic plant to build a new one for greater efficiency; a landlord to tear down a skyscraper to make room for a larger and better building; a community to raze acres of structures to make way for a park . . . Education, too, engineering and thought have kept pace with this progress, and yet education is neither showy nor clamorous; it inspires no personal crusaders in its benefit; it is only a modest tender for public favor. . . . The new in education has brought the Junior High School organization the platoon school, the individual instruction projects, the vocational and manual arts schools. It has likewise shown itself in concern for health, resulting in motivated play activities, medical inspection, dental clinics, open air schools, investigations and adjustments to provide heating and ventilation of schools, the determination of safe heating and proper room arrangements for the promotion of light and other health influences. It is in evidence in its concern for cultural subjects, wherein art has gained a new place in the well organized curriculum. This subject has been made practical in that it affords an opportunity for creative expression and places the pupil in greater harmony with life's similar subjects. To this entire program has been added a wealth of material for motivating the basic "Three R's."

There were 23,579,000 motor vehicles in the United States in 1927. This is according to the figures just released by the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company's statisticians, who have compiled their records from January 1st totals computed by the registrars of each state. New York still holds first place in number of vehicles, but California is running a close second. Gas consumed in 1927 amounted to 9,897,066,000 gallons. Eighty-four per cent of all crude rubber imported was used in making tires and accessories for the motor car industry.

The chain of causes and effects, starting with present fashions in clothing is as complicated and far-reaching as the perfectly good reasoning of the eminent naturalist who pointed out long ago, that the clover in a country district is affected by the number of old maids living there. . . . The more old maids, he explained, the more cats, the fewer field mice; the fewer field mice, the more bumble bees, because most of their nests are in trees and the eggs and larvae are eaten by field mice. And, finally, the more bumble bees the better the cover is fertilized by pollen-carrying insects and the larger the clover crop.

After a week of pure politics and the usual horseplay on the Norbeck migratory bird bill, the U. S. Senate turned to actual business and passed the compromise Mississippi River flood control bill with only 90 minutes of discussion. The vote was unanimously affirmative; it provides $325,000,000 to be spent on the Mississippi below Cairo. All costs will be borne by the government contrary to the wishes of President Coolidge. But—before the House it still has obstacles.

Senator Smoot, of Utah says: "The Great Creator of this world has blessed America beyond any other country. He placed within her borders the basic materials upon which great industries are established and maintained. Her greatness is not found alone in her unlimited resources, but also in her manhood and womanhood."

Among them are the world's greatest story, the reverent dramatization of the life of Christ; superb acting by eighteen stars; 500 well-known players; and 5,000 extra people; the restoring of the historical period in build-

Joint Birthday Party

Misses Audrey Dinninger and Betty Brown invited a circle of friends to be their guests Monday afternoon at a birthday party. The affair was in observance of their tenth birthdays.

The guests met at the Dinninger home where games and contests were enjoyed. Prizes were awarded to

Misses Flannigan for hunting the most Easter eggs; to Maxine Myers for carrying the most eggs without dropping them and to Jean Carpen for making the greatest number of words from "Birthday."

At six o'clock the children were invited to the Brown home where a fish pond created quite a bit of excitement, each child receiving a package.

Lunch was then served in the dining room, the table being most attractively decorated in a color scheme of pink and white. A huge cake centered the table while early spring flowers were arranged at either end. Rabbits, chickens and other decorations in keeping with Easter were advantageously placed.

Place cards were in the form of a cleverly dressed doll in pink while tiny candle holders were favors.

The guest list included Maxine Myers, Alphine Doyle, Jean Curpen, Mildred Flannigan and Margaret Phillips, Rhea Kendig, Phyllis Clark, Mary Louise Miller, Ruth Himes and the honored guests, Betty Brown and Audrey Dinninger.

Both girls received a number of pretty gifts.

P. T. A. MEETING

The monthly Parent Teachers meeting was held Monday evening, April 2nd.

The meeting was opened with a short business which consisted of the Report of the Committee on the playground equipment, the report of the committee on the basket ball game.

The feature of the evening's program was a talk by Mr. W. C. Kramer. Mr. Kramer's talk was on "Raising Children Correctly." He told many of his experiences while acting as superintendent of Willard High School. He stressed the facts that parents should never criticize the teachers in the presence of the children; that the parent should get both sides of the question before forming an opinion. He stated that raising children is the chief matter of life.

Mr. Kramer's talk was followed by a musical recital by Mrs. Griffith, a piano duet by Mrs. Durnand and Mrs. Dawson and a violin solo by Miriam Hudleston.

Blue ribbons were awarded to blue ribbon children. Then the meeting adjourned and those present partook of refreshments and had friendly talks with their friends before going to their homes.

ATHLETIC BANQUET

Shiloh High School is having something new this year. An athletic banquet is to be given on April 10th, at the school auditorium in honor of the athletic teams. the direction of Mr. Rosenberry and altho it is rather small as yet, a larger increase is expected next year.

Following this came a band concert; a violin solo, a piano solo which were very good. Next came the High School Club in the form of pictures. None of the audience were frightened as the pirates didn't seem to be very dangerous, being well fed and almost weaponless. They sang a few songs, Adin Whatman having the solo part, and then left us all safe and sound.

Mr. Rosenberry played a bugle march accompanied by his son, Richard on the drums, after which Richard played several drum selections. He is only six but plays the drums like a veteran.

The grade operetta, "The Posy Bed," was the feature of the program. Some little girls planted seeds and wished to see how they would grow. They soon had buttercups, daffodils, roses, sunflowers and all other flowers imaginable running over the stage. It was very pretty and well rendered.

The Junior High department was represented by a quartet of boys dressed as old men and a chorus of girls dressed as sailors. Both were very interesting. By request of the audience, Mr. Rosenberry and son (after awakening him) played the bugle march again. We are hoping to have another such program next year.

Warren Bloom Tells of Florida

Those of us who have never had the pleasure of making a trip through Florida and other southern points will enjoy very much the following letter written by Warren Bloom, of Shiloh, who is spending some time in the south, to his parents. The letter in full follows:

2146 Prairie Ave.
Miami Beach, Fla.

Dear Mother, Father and All:

I certainly do think I could stay here all summer in this beautiful country. Some of us, or really most of us, imagine that it gets awfully hot the hottest day this spring. It is $40 during the summer months. Today is in the shade, and just as comfortable as we ever get in Ohio, because there is always an ocean breeze. The air is so balmy, too, all the time.

On account of cold waves which pass over the state, it is hard to raise a nice crop of tropical fruit. A person who has never visited this beautiful state naturally thinks there are lots of tropical fruit to be seen all over the state. Well this is wrong. Fruit here grows like chestnuts in Ohio. They choose certain kinds of ground and also a warm climate. You will see them sell a tree a mile from the ocean with much fruit on it on account of the salt air from the ocean.

Mr. and Mrs. Black want to plant orange trees on their grapefruit in the back of their new lot.

Their new home is certainly an attractive little place. Sorry I don't have a picture to send you of it, now. I will do so later.

The house has a solar system water heater, which requires two hours of sunshine each day to supply enough heat for a bath a day. That is both at all, because it is very seldom taking through the whole year, that the sun shines less than six or eight hours a day.

In addition I had just written to Paul and Rudy Rainier and Russell Wolf when Mr. Reid, Carpenter's chauffeur came and asked Aldine and I to go for a drive with him and his wife in Mr. Carpenter's Cadillac. We drove them over a new road which was not passable last winter and came out north of Miami about thirty miles. From there we went to the docks at Miami and took a boat to Key West. It came in. It was very interesting.

Some of the boats came in with lots of fish ranging in size from ten inches to about twenty feet, others came in which had been fishing in the Gulf of Mexico. We saw many here when I used to go fishing, nothing to brag of. The one which interested me most was a deep sea fishing boat, which came in with about eight or nine fish ranging from twelve to fifteen inches. I got a picture of those from the top of the post, and over the heads of the crowd, which will probably not show the fish.

When we were about to leave, heard some one say that there was a shark lying under where the fish were hanging, so I crowded my way thru the crowd to first sight of the shark, which was out of water.

It measured 104 feet long, its head was 23 inches across, weighing 1650 pounds. Two men opened the mouth of it and grabbed it. It came up to about 100 feet, others came in which had already swallowed too many of my size. Ha! Ha! Anyhow I don't intend to let one catch me if I can help it. Oh, we were very lucky this winter, we were crossing the Indian River on Sunday evening about 6:00 p. m. where we were going to stay all night at the Indianapolis Hotel. When we got about half way across a narrow wooden bridge, we saw a shark swimming at the top of the water. It was about only three hundred feet from us. Looked to be about six or seven feet long.

Mr. Brooks with his river plane fell to the Atlantic about a mile from this island where we stayed that Sunday night.

This gang I run with are willing to chip in and we will buy an old Ford touring to hock around in. We figured this would save Mr. Black's Lincoln and Mr. Carpenter's Cadillacs a lot, because we can get a lot of kick out of an old Ford. We are going to ask Mr. Black today and expect him to say, "Get one," gladly. We have plenty of good roads.

Mr. Black leaves March 19th, then Mrs. Black and Aldine will leave May 1st if plans carry out, but I would stay here long enough to put on the storm windows and close the house for the season. This would drive through, just be away until after my birthday. Mr. Black told me I could have nine days if I wanted that to have time. We have driven down in six but have planned to do when we did hard driving.

I am sorry to say that our worst roads are in Ohio and Kentucky. Our best roads are in Indiana and Tennessee also has fine roads.

I hope hat some day you folks, at least some of you, see this state for yourselves. The soil is excellent, no trees and everything is different here. Florida doesn't have ash elm, willow, hickory, locust trees and that kind but it does have one kind called oak similar to our oak tree. There are many varieties of pine and palm trees.

Trusting this will find you well I send you all my

Love and Best Wishes

SHILOH NEWS

Atty. J. A. Fenner of Cleveland Pays Tribute To Mr. C. H. Handley

I was a Freshman in the Shiloh High School the first year Mr. Handley came there and went through the High School under his teaching. I never had him equal as a teacher, nor knew his superior as a man. Though he was only in Shiloh four years, no one ever left a deeper or better impression on the scholars and the community than did Mr. Handley.

When I graduated from college, Mr. Handley came to commencement in honor of the occasion. I lived in Shiloh his last two years there, and have seen him nearly every year since and the early friendship between teacher and pupil has grown and been cemented with the years.

And now he is gone and we are in sorrow; yet this sorrow is to who we remain, and not to him who has passed on. Death is but an incident in life, as is birth; "Life is ever Lord of Death, and Love can never lose his own."

When in school Mr. Handley had us learn an injury verse which ran as follows: "We live in thoughts, not years; in dreams, not figures on a dial; he lives most who live the noblest, acts the best." Measured by this standard Mr. Handley had a fine life.

The right we heard of Mr. Handley's death, we listened to a radio talk on the Stars, which brought back vividly to mind the course in descriptive astronomy given by Professor Handley and which first opened to me the glory of the heavens and the beauty of the universe. The radio speaker in closing referred to the death of an astronomer, and that the epitaph on his monument was, "He loved the stars so fondly, he was not afraid of the night." This can be said of Mr. Handley.

So we have, and cherish pleasant memories of Mr. Handley, now gone from us.
