Dear Editor: I want to say a few words concerning the new rates asked for the Northern Ohio Telephone Company.

The citizens of Plymouth have just experienced a good increase in their gas bills, the village council signing a franchise that has been refused by several towns, and the gas company has so far been unable to collect the higher rates in these towns.

Now comes the telephone increase with absolutely no guarantee of service. When a customer makes a purchase he pays the goods before he pays. And if the telephone company wants more money, then the people desire better service. If the new charges proposed included free toll service to nearby towns in Richland and Huron counties we believe the franchise of the subscribers would not complain, but to pay a high rate just for the privilege of Plymouth seems quite unfair.

If a suitable exchange was installed so as to give prompt service without waiting, but why blame them for fifteen minutes to make a local call, or some other interference, then it would be, we believe, to the subscribers to endure a raise in rates.

We realize the phone company received a terrible loss in the recent storm, but why blame them for it just because a railroad has a big wreck makes no difference in passenger and freight rates, and there is no utility that operates without a sufficient sinking fund to take care of unusual losses.

Should the people of Plymouth sit by and be harassed with a higher rate or shall we ask the telephone company for an explanation?

Men and Boys Enjoy Meeting

Sometimes inspiration for the better things in life is hard to get from any one source. It is hard to get it from a single source, but those attending the Father and Son banquet at the M. E. church last Thursday night got more inspiration and genuine goodness from Dr. Brown's short talk which they have had for many years. Dr. Brown spoke on "The Beauties of Simple Things in Life" and with his many illustrations to bring out his subject, he made the evening one of the most enjoyable one for his listeners.

The supper was one of the first of its kind held under the auspices of the Methodist men, and indeed it brought out a spirit of friendliness and brotherly love. Father and son sitting side by side, man and boy exchanging words of greeting, seemed to spread the teachings of the lowly Nazarene more than ever in his teaching of brotherly love.

L. Z. Davis acted as toastmaster and he did the job well. Rev. McCrowm gave a toast from the fathers, while James Shephard spoke in behalf of the boys. Maurice Davis and Miss Shuey's orchestra furnished splendid music for the event, and the orchestra was well received and applauded.

It's hard to decide the best feature of the evening, whether the music, address or the supper served by the Friendship class should be rated higher, one above the other, but at any rate those present declared it one of the best affairs they ever attended.

Auto Accident

Fred Kappel of Shelby, met with an auto accident Monday night at 5:30 o'clock on the Shelby-Plymouth road near the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lynch just north of the March Run bridge. When you haven't anything better to do, it's great fun to sit down with the daily press, take the paragraphs as they come, and try to comment on them in the manner of Arthur Brisbane. Incidentally, since Mr. Brisbane can't last always and forever and there will come a day when someone must take his place, this practice may have a slight utilitarian value. That is, they might approach you some day and offer you $500,000 a year—oh well! They go for something in this order, not quite, but—
As this is written, the writer is not crossing the Great Divide on a train which makes the career of Columbus look like the deuce. Instead he is sitting in his residence wondering if it will stop raining so that he can chase the children out to mow the lawn. Water is a great fluid servant, but a poor master. In your house and bath tub it is your friend because you can control it, but along the Mississippi River you can't. That is of interest to the gentlemen in Washington.

The Peddler Stings

Despite repeated warnings, the common house-to-house variety of peddler continues on his happy and generally un molested way, selling everything from mousetraps to raincoats, gathering his victims here and there who are seemingly unable to withstand his wiles.

Some peddlers carry their stock of merchandise with them, this in communities that are unprotected by local ordinances. Then, there is the order taker who is content to deliver later, trusting to luck that you have not changed your mind or moved away in the meantime. But most to be feared is the fellow who gets your signature on an order blank and then demands a down payment. Sometimes they return to deliver your purchase and collect the balance due, and then again there are any number who take your initial payment and are seen no more.

An example of the latter species appeared recently at Grant, taking orders and money for items which he failed to deliver, only by merest

Five hundred years ago, Columbus learned discovery he could sail on a leg and float. . . . Today a young woman sits in her cell and wonders why she used a hatchet instead of a crowbar to slay her husband and why she didn't learn to cook at home before the judge gave her a permanent abode.

English woman held in New York for having married four American gentlemen in three months. Of course all the people on Wall Street will readily determine that this is trigonometry and not bigamy.

The market is going up and down. Wise men, of course, will gamble, but if they were wise they would bet on the United States. If all the water west of the Mississippi was suddenly poured out on our plains, there wouldn't be much left in the mountains. That's the surest bet to make if placed on the Stock Exchange.

Ten thousand people will crowd a New York baseball park some warm evening this summer to see two men hit each other with their fists until one or the other is exhausted. The money spent for this sort of thing will not help feed the hungry next winter. Civilization progresses, slowly.

Wise General Pseudo was born 23 years ago today. Since that time mankind has invented the saxophone, flesh-colored hose, the peep-peep auto horn, hot dog stands, step-ins and the radio. Civilization travels swiftly.

According to information from the great city of Detroit, Henry Ford, wiseman, is still making automobiles. If the gentlemen in Washington persuaded him to stop making automobiles and make little airplanes, it certainly would be hell overhead in about six weeks.

As this is written, the writer is on a train being pulled over the mountains by an engine which operates on moonshine and potatoes. Lovely country. Looking through the window one can see nothing for miles and miles. One thinks what a wonderful place to take a lot of our citizens and dump them.

Senator Borah decided that the people did not care as much about the Republican elephant as they did about Barnum's and gave up the solicitation of funds with which he expected to whitewash the O. P. problem. This interests the Democratic gentlemen.

One great thing about our American wealth is that it is getting further and further from the worker. Years ago a great English nobleman lay awake in his bed early one morning and knew that he had starved and barefoot parents were at work in his mill to make more money for him and now we have the same condition. Times do not change—much.

This is not written on the train going through Nevada where the Indians will ride their ponies and in mysterious caves in the mountains archeologists are studying prehistoric writings and hieroglyphics that date back thousands of years. No, sir. We chance was he later apprehended in a distant city and brought back to answer for his speculations.

The safe way is to shun all peddlers but if you must patronize them, make it a hard and fast rule to pay out no money until the peddler goes in and stay right at home and watch the Indians riding in automobiles chasing pedestrians of the roads and streets and try to figure out writings that will dissipate the bill collectors.

Heracleopolis, a Roman and Neopolis, a great communist, one thousand years ago debated while standing on soap boxes. It was said later that this quarrel of sectarianism was the great affair of the century. Times don't change much and we still have the soap boxes.

A Cleveland judge decided that several youths should spend a few months in the workhouse so that they could arise in the morning at the hour they had been in the habit of arriving home from all-night parties. This will be of interest to parents anywhere.

Ida M. Tarbell, noted writer and unmarried, gives her ideas on companionate marriage, but admits that she is inexperienced.

The president views a great parade of warships passing by his yacht and stands in meditation. Great country, this. Wealthiest on earth. But, will he or did the president think of a great fleet of airplanes soaring above the capitol heavily loaded with contraband liquor ready to drop on the city?

Dr. Generally Seated, noted chemist in New York, has discovered a mixture of carbolic acidities, which poured into a gallon of after-shave liquid, will make it suitable for unclogging stop-pipe-pinks. Some day we will be able to eliminate the plumber. Civilization and chemists are progressing.

Ninety years ago before this was written in Chicago, it was a city with not more than 3500 population and not a sound of a bomb could be heard—nothing but a stray deer that wandered along Michigan boulevard would draw the pop of a gun. Today, a city, fourth in size in the world, armies of bandits, organized in gangs and prohibition officers organized to fight the police in grabbing contraband.

As this is being compiled, there isn't a husband or wife murder on the front page. The country is improving.

Common Sense Facts
A MERCHANT doesn't invest his money for advertising merely to see his name in print.
He is too much of a business man to part with his dollars unless there is a good prospect of obtaining a legitimate return upon his investment.
He doesn't advertise goods that he can't recommend, because he knows he can't fool all of the people all of the time, and that such a policy would eventually put him out of business.
He doesn't gouge his customers, because he knows they would go elsewhere and buy for less money, and that would be the end of him.
It is reasonable to presume, then, that when he does advertise an article, that article is worth having and the price is within reason.
When you buy from a local merchant, that merchant's reputation for square dealing is behind the goods you buy.
Keep these common sense facts in mind when you go to buy and make the advertisements your guide, and you will make no mistake.

WHEN PROMOTERS USE "CHARITY" TO DECOY TRUSTFUL CONTRIBUTORS

Investigations of Various Schemes for Defrauding Public Out of Money Disclosed by Bankers Association—Many Kinds of Fake Industrial Promotions Used as Bait.

By W. R. MOREHOUSE
Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association

MILLIONS of dollars raised under the disguise of charity go to line the pockets of promoters. Ticket sales on raffles are commonly used, and while the loss to any one person who buys a ticket is small the aggregate loss for the United States runs into millions of dollars. Usually the promoters of these schemes first make a contract with some charitable institution to conduct a campaign for funds on behalf of the institution. They are to run the campaign in the name of the institution and share the proceeds. The whole scheme is often one of deception. To those who have been led to believe that their contributions go practically 100 per cent to charity, the following case we investigated should prove illuminating.

A number of promoters recently contracted with a charitable institution to put on a campaign to raise funds by the raffle of a new automobile. So far as the public could tell from the banners used in displaying the automobile, the full amount of the sale price of the tickets went to the institution. There was nothing to convey any other impression. Apparently it was open and above board and was being conducted by men who were contributing their time gratuitously.

For several days a new automobile mounted on a truck, was driven up and down the streets, with banners telling about the drive for funds for the charitable institution. One day the truck would go by displaying one of the popular makes of automobiles. A few days later it was paraded by displaying some other popular make. Periodically the truck would pull into the curb where it would park for several hours while the promoters pleaded with passers by to take tickets on the raffle and thereby help a deserving charitable institution to meet its bills.

Thousands "Touched" Thousands of people, touched by the appeal for help, bought tickets, the total sale running into the thousands of dollars. Contrary to the belief of the ticket buyers their contributions did not go 100 per cent to charity. Instead the charitable institution received but 25 cents on the dollar, the promoters getting 52 cents on the dollar as their net profit, or twice the amount received by charity, while the remainder of 22 cents on each dollar represented the amount charged against gross sales by the promoters as expenses.

In other words, every person who bought a 50 cent ticket for the sake of charity, contributed but 13 cents to charity and 37 cents to those promoting the scheme. Whether you give to charity or make an investment it will pay you to get the facts! Unfortunately there is a general impression abroad that ticket promotions are confined to oil, mines and new inventions. The truth is, many stock selling promotions are operated under the name of other industries.

False Claims A certain group of promoters investigated offered for sale stock in a proposed woolen mill. In order to sell the stock they resorted to the use of misrepresentation and false claims. After renting space on the ground floor of an office building fronting on a busy street they began their campaign. Orally and by printed advertisements extravagant claims were made for the proposed corporation which were grossly false.

DUST CLOUDS ENDANGER FLYING MEN UNTIL CITY OFFICIALS SOLVE PROBLEM

Spectators Can See Takeoffs Without Peril and Authorities Breathe Easier—In Every Sense—Since Experts Come to Aid of Aviators at Boston.

The Spirit of St. Louis Landing at Boston Airport, South Boston, Mass. Inset Shows "Lindy" and His Famous Smile.

WHILE Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, fresh from his triumphs in Central America and the West Indies, is now looking for new worlds to conquer aeronautically, city and aviation officials are planning new ways to make airports safer.

Fliers are interested in the dust problem not because they meet dust aloft, but because they must reckon with the problem when they are landing. Officials are interested because they are watched over the safety of thousands of spectators filled with a new zeal for aviation because of Col. Lindbergh's prowess.

So seriously have the officials of the Boston Airport at South Boston realized that question that they have conducted special experiments with dust-laying apparatus and chemicals to determine which are most effective. The problem has arisen only in recent years—one might say months—with the increase in "galleries" at the big aviation fields. Public interest has become so aroused to flying that it is so uncommon sight to see hundreds and even thousands of persons

COW BOY BAND AT SHELBY SATURDAY

Some cowboys are only drug store cowboys. And some cowboy bands are only cowboy bands. But some cowboy bands are both riding, shooting, bronco-busting cowboys and musicians as well. That's the kind of a cowboy band that the OPEKA HOUSE is bringing to SHELBY on Saturday matinee and night, May 5, for a program of music and cowboy roping and other stunts.

McGinty's Oklahoma Cowboy band were heard from the Crosley radio station, WLW, on October 25. Ac-ording to station officials the response of the radio audience was immediate. More than 6000 letters came to WLW in a week with appeals for the cowboys. Hundreds of people have visited WLW studios to watch their broadcasting. They return to Cincinnati almost every morning to give a program at noon from the Crosley studios.

The five men and one woman in the band can be identified when they arrive in Shelby, since they wear their "ten-quart" hats, their high-heeled boots, spurs, bright shirts and bandanas no matter where they are. "We have to wear them," Otto Gray, manager of the band, says. "We haven't any other clothes. We couldn't wear shoes because we were all raised in high-heeled boots."

Billy McGinty who organized the band was one of Colonel Roosevelt's "rough riders" and an intimate friend of the cowboy president. At the Cheyenne, Wyoming, Frontier Days he won the title of "The World's Champion Bronco-buster." Because he was a real cowboy and was conscious of the romance attached to the riders of the plains, he organized the cowboy band in 1925 in order to bring back to the present generation the music and songs of the early days in the west. McGinty sends his band on the road under the direction of Otto Gray, a cowpuncher who during his youth spent many years with a circus and learned showmanship in that way.

Gray and his wife are both expert ropers and do a number of fancy stunts. Their son, Owen Gray, is the band's comedian and sings side-splitting songs to the accompaniment of his guitar and his broken-down ukelele.

"Bill" Stonehammer, fiddler, is so sure of his power as a musician and as a rough rider, that he offers $1000 to anyone who can beat him both at fiddling and riding. Fred Wilson, accompanied always by his dog, Jack "Whitney" Rhenby play a variety of stringed instruments and also sing.

McLAGLEN HAS CALL IN "CARMEN" BULL FIGHTS

The mere fact that Victor McLaglen's palm was read for a scene in "Loves of Carmen" may or may not have had anything to do with his being buffeted about by a large angry bull. At any rate, the Spanish actress who predicted that the stalwart actor would meet with misfortune during the making of the picture hit the nail on the head.

Several weeks after the palm-reading sequence was taken Director Raoul Walsh commenced shooting bull-fighting scenes. The first few days passed without incident.

Near the end of the third day, as the director was filming the last scene, the accident happened. Victor swerved from the path of the charging animal with perfect grace, but as the bull swept past McLaglen's cape became entangled in the horns. Victor scrambled to his feet as the bull turned and charged him.

FAMOUS FANS

Thorough examination revealed nothing but minor injuries.

"No more bull fighting for me today," exclaimed Victor, "but I am certainly going to see that little lady who read my palm and find out more about this fighting business."

"THE LETTER"

There is high hope for those who believe in the coming supremacy of America in the arts in general and in dramatic art in particular in the triumphant career of the young American emotional actress, Katherine Cornell, who begins an engagement of one week at the Hanna Theatre next Monday night, in W. Somerset Maugham's play, "The Letter." For Miss Cornell has reached the top of the ladder. Everywhere she is hailed as the greatest of the younger actresses of the American stage, and everywhere her interpretations of her various roles are regarded as decisions which influence the whole art of acting. Usually an actress does not gain such authority unless she comes to us with the glamor of a foreign birth.

Miss Cornell, Americans are proud to realize, is a thoroughly American, and not only that—she grew up artistically in the American theatre and not after long courses of study abroad and a long period spent in artistic endeavor there, though Miss Cornell has played in London, but only as a thoroughly established American actress, and not in an American learning European methods of acting.

Miss Cornell is the daughter of American parents, of a family distinguished for its interest and share in the best of American culture and endeavors artistically, though neither of her parents was ever on the stage.

She studied acting in American schools after the usual academic education which a young girl of good family receives in this country. Then she made her stage debut with the Washington Square Players, a thoroughly American institution. Then came a period of Broadway appearances, the most notable of which was "The Green Hat," a play which elevated her to stardom.

BACCALAUREATE SERVICES

According to custom the baccalaureate services this year should be preached by Rev. McBroom in the Presbyterian church. However, there is a conflict this year. Rev. McBroom is engaged to preach the baccalaureate services at Shiloh the same evening. Therefore, the rotation order is moved up one year and the services will be held in the Lutheran church by Rev. Miller, Sunday evening, May 13.

DATE SET FOR ANNUAL LITERARY CONTEST

It is customary in Plymouth H. S. to have a literary contest between the two societies once a year. The winning society is awarded the silver cup for the following year. For the past two years the contest has been neglected, but we are striving to reestablish the old custom.
 The contest this year will be held in Hamilton Hall, on Monday night, May 14th. A small sum will be charged for admission, merely to cover expenses.

There will be one entry from each society in a Declaration, Oration, and Short Story. Two members from each society, and an alternate will participate in the debate. The subject for the debate is, "Resolved: That the village of Plymouth should establish a filtration plant for the public water supply."
 Some of the participants have been enlisted and others have not, as yet, been selected.

"Oh, here's to thee, Old P.H.S."

The school we hold most dear. We have been told that we seniors have sung our alma mater for the last time, and that before long we will be old P.H.S. We will receive our diplomas, in other words Commencement will be on Wednesday, the sixteenth of May. The exercises will be rendered at the Hamilton Hall and the speaker engaged is the well-known Dr. Freeman, Head of the English Department of Ohio Northern. There will be reserved seats for the immediate relatives of the graduating class. Details will be given at a later date.

GRADE NEWS

Fifth and Sixth
 Ruth Moore was selected for the remainder of the year as health officer. Miss Robinson's room and Miss Gill's room came to the fifth and sixth grade and sang.

We have new song slides for the picture machine which we appreciate very much.

On Friday afternoon we had an Arbor Day program. Zella Ruckman, presiding as chairman, several recitations and dialogues were given. The program was completed by singing the fitting composition of "Beauties of Nature." After the program inside the school we went out to attend the tree planting ceremony and dedication by the class of '28. This ceremony was completed by a musical number from the second and first grades.

BETTY ABLAKSON

Room Reporter.

Last week was arbor week during which time new trees were to be planted and old ones taken care of. Accordingly some Freshmen and Sophomore boys became ambitious and presented P. H. S. with a brand new tree, all trimmed and ready to be planted.
 It was planted last Friday afternoon and dedicated to the class of '28.

THE JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

The annual Junior-Senior Banquet was held on Friday, April 27th, 1928 at the Chamber of Commerce.
 The very clever plan of aviation was carried out through the brand of the banquet. It was dark when we entered the dining room, but by the aid of a Beacon, we found our places and made our landing at our respective places. At each plate we found a tiny airplane and a program. They were original, and were painted by one of our promising "drawers" of P. H. S. At different places on the table were card board planes, and hanging from the lights were more planes.
 The menu was as follows:
 Fruit Cocktail
 Creamed Potatoes, Veal Croquettes, Escalloped Corn, Salad
 Pickles, Rolls, Olives
 Ice Cream, Coffee, Cake
 After partaking of this deliciously prepared food, cooked by the Friendship class of the M. E. church and served by Freshmen and Sophomore girls, dressed in blue dresses, we made ready for our hop off.
 "Welcome," by President of the Junior class, Miss Mary Elizabeth Himes, as welcome, certainly made us feel as though we truly were welcome and not a badly nuisance. We put our trust in John Root, Senior President, when he replied in his speech by saying we were honored in being entertained by the noble Juniors.

Pilot Miller in his speech implied that we were starting on our journey into the world and in this journey we needed a strong plane which was likened to our bodies. A strong plane needs a good motor. Our motors were our "brains" and the cylinders were as many years of High School and College education we might receive. He also brought in that we must have a definite goal in view like Lindbergh.
 Miss Himes informed us that we were then ready to start. Whereupon we heard the mighty roar of a powerful engine and felt ourselves being lifted through space. Mrs. Miller gave us a delightful monologue in which she represented a young bride who had made her first pudding. We all liked it immensely as you can imagine we would.
 Arlene Straub next sang a solo entitled "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling." She did it so nicely that we clapped hard and she rewarded us by an encore "Just a Memory."
 Mrs. Jenkins next gave a poem in which she told of her many admirers. We were especially "tickled" when she told of one man who wanted her to fly away with him "like da chicken like da mosquito."
 Then came the surprise number. Miss Himes informed us that the surprise was that there wasn't any "P" in it.

Mechanic Jenkins read an official log of the trip dating from September 1927 to May 1, 1928.
OFFICIAL LOG
 "Good Ship Success"
 Friday morning, Sept. 5th 1927
 Weather—Clear
 Port of Attempt—France via England
 Non-stop Flight
 Crew—Pilot, Mechanic, Stewardess, two helpers.
 Passengers—Thirty
 Possible Cruising Time—Nine months
 Sailing fine for six weeks, when check-up was made of passengers. Some nauseated from altitude. Lower altitude necessary. Changed to 5,000 feet.
 November 28th. Another check-up made of passengers. Peculiar developments. Pilot Commander ordered all "nuts" tightened as rattles and other serious symptoms were evident.
 January 15th. End of eighteen week cruise period. Evident that some of the passengers would find trouble in continuing trip. Severe cases of drift noted due to passenger interfering with controls. Ordered strict observance of regulations or they would be placed in chains. Some passengers lost overboard during bad weather. One passenger sent to hospital with peculiar malady. Could not complete trip.
 February 24th. Inventory of position. Decided possible time for landing to be about May 18th. Are over English Channel. Ice Fate wanted to swim. Several passengers complain of the speed. Change rate to satisfy the weak. A malady known as "Pneumonia" set out among the passengers. One parachuted to a landing in Belgium. Could not stand the French. Others hung on. Time will tell.

April 6th. Physical examination of all passengers to permit them to port of entry. Heretofore not the best in some cases. May be detained by officials until recovered. Majority standing trip in fair manner. Chief symptoms of malady indifference and despondency. Doctor says they are weak but will recover.
 Fifth Cruising over Paris (Lafayette). We are here. Great throngs awaiting to see us land. Beau coup noise and dashing about by passengers. Cannot find their baggage. One lady very much incensed over failure of radio. Cannot get message from Bob Brack. Mr. Cornell insisted on stopping in London to get a monacle. Guess he wanted to ritz the Puddle Jumpers.
 Attempting to land. Perfect three point. Wish Levine could have seen that. Check rush for O.K. of passports. Group of passengers refusal of two. French Officials refuse entrance to fourteen. French training not sufficient. Must return to U. S. May return after fulfilling this obligation.
 Crew congratulates passengers on their ability to weather the trip. Wish those remaining a very pleasant journey in their tours of other lands.
 Official Pilot Commander Crew.

After this we sang our Alma Mater, speeches, congratulations, etc., and after passing a merry evening we went home very pleased with the success of the Junior-Senior Banquet.

"I'm just crazy about that darling breakfast nook you installed at our house," said a lady to us the other day. "If I had known that such a beautiful addition to my kitchen costs so little, I would have had John get one long ago."
 Wife: "Say, darling, buy me a food speaker."
 Husband: "Isn't your mother enough?"
 Dr. Crane says, "let's have more flowers, they are so cheerful and comforting." Setting a few nice plant boxes on your front porch or windows is one way to have more flowers. Right now we have some mighty nice lumber for making such boxes.
 A small boy in Cleveland went into business recently and prepared this announcement card:

 There are times when you would like to remodel your home, such as new hard wood floors, rooms changed around or an addition built on, or maybe you would like to build a garage, record your house or barn, yet feel that you cannot spare the money at this time to do it. We are pleased to introduce our new Time Payment Plan. With a small down payment you can pay the rest in small monthly installments, and enjoy the improvement now.
