Composition of War Vet to Be Broadcast

Allen McQuhee will sing a song for a brother buddy of the War in the Alwater Kent Hour on Sunday Night, August 5th. It is "Twilight," by Leonard L. Yost, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, of Huntington, West Virginia.

Leiland L. Yost is a War casualty, struggling back to health from a cot in Kerrville, Texas, where he has been confined to his bed for the last two years. Always having been interested in music, he recently learned to compose in an effort to find an interest that would occupy his mind and cheer him through his long hours of illness. "Twilight" is his first composition and has brought him instant recognition in musical circles. The song was accepted by the first publisher to whom it was offered, and has already attracted the attention of popular orchestras.

Sunday night it will be sung over the air for the first time and its young author will be listening in in Kerrville for McQuhee's voice to bring it to him from New York.

Some relatives who had chance to be visiting in the same locality he had not seen in forty years.

Mr. Judson states he observed their crops appeared to be as good or better than those around here and that their four principal crops, harvested in rotation were hay, wheat, barley and oats.

Mrs. Judson accompanied her husband but remained this week to visit relatives in Detroit. This was Mrs. Judson's first return trip in six years while Mr. Judson was back two years ago.

1 LIGHT-DRIVERS ANNUAL PICNIC AT BASSWOOD

Motorists should take caution to see that both headlights, and tail lights are burning properly when coming into Plymouth this week and for a long period after for Marshal Burkett issued a statement that all of drivers will be ticketed to appear before the mayor.

For the past several months a complaint has been registered that many cars have been traveling with one headlight and no tail light. This is considered a great evil by the public and the motorist who knows that his lights are not functioning properly and insists on driving his machine under this condition should be classed as a real lawbreaker.

The business section in which no tail light is required is as follows: West Broadway to Bell street; south on Plymouth street to High; east on Trux to Mulberry; north on Sandusky to North street.

The fast driver will continue to get attention by the local officials, and it will be well for those who like to stop on the gas to take caution especially when passing through the village.

WILLARD MAN BUYS AIRSHIP

Hundreds of people were thrilled Sunday as they watched R. G. Baker's new airplane rise and sail over Willard and vicinity from a field just south of that town. Blake has been an enthusiast of air travel for many years, and after considering every make of airplane he selected a "Travel-Air" type of plane greatly to be used by the United States government.

The plane is a neat job in appearance and finish and is capable of carrying two passengers and the pilot. The machine has all the latest safety devices and instruments and those who had the chance to view it on its first flight Sunday say it is certainly a surprise how easy the machine takes off and lands.

The plane is to be a permanent fixture for Willard, as Blake has already started the erection of a hangar on a lot touching the Railroad and Coleridge roads. The field has been leased for this purpose and rolling and smoothing has been completed.

A licensed pilot has been secured and it is probable that before many weeks have passed everyone in this section will have the thrill of "taking the air." Blake was busy Sunday afternoon selling tickets and as fast as the plane came down, there were passengers ready to step aboard, and don't forget that the ladies have nerve, too. Several of the feminine passengers exclaim that it's a real thrill and that they're in for aviation.

Among those from Plymouth who went up Sunday was Donald Anderson. Anderson is just in his early teens but he gave a good description of his first flight, and he says that the thoughts of going up in the air are such that they're in for aviation. Anderson says "As we rose up, gently yet quickly, and circled over Willard, the town itself seemed to be a map with the streets and buildings sketched as though by an artist. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks appeared about two inches apart, and everything visible was in miniature. During the flight the pilot gave a side-slip and there was nothing unusual or sensational about that, as it was very slight. On the descent one of the ground naturally thinks that the plane just makes a circle and glides to the landing. But I found that ever so often the plane drops a few feet at a time, and this is not noticeable as it is done so quickly and easy."

Shavings Utilized In Oakland Plant

There used to be a saying that the packing industry utilized every part of an animal but the squeal, yet even that doesn't give the packer the slightest advantage over the modern automobile manufacturer.

Visitors going through the plants of the Oakland Motor Car Company, at Pontiac, Mich., have noticed small piles of machine turnings, or shavings, accumulating every few minutes under various machines used. In the building of Oakland and Pontiac Sixes. Several men go from place to place carefully shoveling these turnings into steel containers. Not one visitor in fifty thinks to ask what becomes of them, pre-supposing that eventually they reach the scrap heap.

The fact is these shavings represent potential automobiles. Far from being scrapped, they are carefully salvaged and put through a reclaiming process. After sorting, they are run through a crusher and then placed in wire mesh baskets in a centrifugal wire mesh machine which extracts practically 100 per cent of the grinding oil. This is filtered and used again.

The crushed turnings are fed into a conveyor which carries them to a gondola railroad car ready for shipment back to the steel mills. Lowered freight charges result from the crushing. Un-crushed, about twelve tons will go into a car; crushed, more than forty tons. Fifteen carloads are salvaged a month, or twenty tons a day. This reclaiming process has been in effect at the Oakland plant for several years. It is another instance of the efficient mass production methods which make possible so much automobile for so little money.

SUMMER Health Talks

FLIES Sponsored by the Ohio Public Health Association

Flies are still flying in spite of long and persistent efforts to get rid of them. There are fewer flies than there were ten years ago but this year's crop is still carrying the germs of typhoid, and of the infantile diarrhea, and enteritis that make summer such a dangerous season for young children.

"Swat the fly" is the word earlier in the season, for killing a fly in April or May is killing his thousands of descendants at the same time. Of course, it is well to swat flies at any season of the year but by July there are more flies in most communities than there are swatters to swat them.

Flies breed in filth. There should be no piles of manure left around to act as cradles for flies. Ninety per cent of the maggots can be killed by applying one pound of borax, dissolved in twelve gallons of water, to every twelve bushels of manure—when it is impossible to get rid of a manure pile at once. Garbage should be burned or buried. Green garbage may be dried out in wire baskets until it can be burned.

Even with these precautions insuring a high infant mortality in the fly race, some of them will survive. These must be starved to death if possible. Leave no food standing uncovered. The strong odor of rotten fruit or spoiling food is especially delightful to flies. Bread crusts which have been moistened in four ounces of formalin dissolved in a quart of sugar water will attract flies and kill them. There are effective fly poisons, fly paper, and sprays on the market. In using sprays it is necessary to close doors and windows, and to see that no food is exposed to the poison. Dead flies should be burned without delay.

Voters! Attention

READ THIS STATEMENT OF PUBLIC EXPENDITURES IN RICHLAND COUNTY

Bert E. Kuhn, Commissioner, Makes Clear Where County Tax Funds are Used, Emphasizing Importance of Careful and Economic Administration.

As is generally known, the commissioners have complete control of all bonds issued and money borrowed. The county tax rate as determined by the budget commission this year is $4.85 per each thousand dollars of property valuation. The $4.85 is divided as follows:

1. General Fund $1,668 this amount being used for the operating of all county offices, the jail, county home, children's home, work-house, court costs, soldiers relief, blind relief, mothers pensions, crippled children and expense of indigent persons in state institutions.

2. Bonds, except road bonds, (refunding bonds and county home), $8,489.

3. Road, county and state, $1,010.

4. County Library, $9,013.

Special attention may be directed to two items, bonds except road bonds and road bonds retirement. It will be noted that $2,159 of the total rate $4.85 is used for those two purposes. Big bond sales in 1922 and 1923 is responsible for this condition.

Not for the purpose of criticism but to point out why a large proportion of tax money is now going to reduce bonded indebtedness and to pay fixed interest charges, I want to direct attention to the fact that during the years 1922, 1923 and 1924, road bonds totaling approximately $1,750,000.00, other than road bonds $402,900.00 were issued. During that period, the three years before I became commissioner, about 90 miles of road was built.

During the past three years, and since I have been an incumbent of the office only $248,332.00 of road bonds have been issued, (none in 1924) and a total road mileage of 153 miles has been improved.

In 1925, by vote of the people, the issuance of bonds to the amount of $210,000 to build a new county home, was authorized. The Building Commission issued but $185,000.00 worth of bonds, a saving of $25,000.00 to the taxpayers of Richland County.

Richland County has made a wonderful progress in the past ten or twelve years in the building of good roads. We have a fine state system augmented by the County system of hard surfaced highways so that none need travel far to get on an improved road. The crying need is for secondary system that will enable the farmer to get out of the mud. Farmers have paid directly or indirectly for every type of improvement.

I want to make it clear that I intend no criticism of expenditures and authorized bond issues by previous commissioners. The public demand improved roads and the roads were built but the figures show, neverthe-

MOODY IS TRUE ARTIST

When Marjorie Moody, soprano with Sousa's Band, sings, joy reigns. Miss Moody is from Melrose, Massachusetts. She gained a high reputation in her home city as a singer of charm of fine ability. Lieutenant Commander John Philip Sousa, in quest of a singer of her type for a band concert, engaged her at first hearing. She made an instant hit with his audience. That was a few years ago. She developed a wonderful repertoire and nothing was too difficult for her. Her perfect pitch always was apparent and she sang so truly and with such quality that she established herself everywhere that she was heard throughout the country. For several years Miss Moody has been one of the features of Sousa concerts. She demurred this season, for she wanted to remain at home. But the desire to go back to those places that had so graciously received her and to visit new places as well, induced her to change her mind. Accordingly she will be here with Sousa, and his Band when it gives its concerts at the "World's Greatest Agricultural Exposition."

T. W. Latham For Congress

Monroeville takes great pride in having two candidates for congress, former State Senator Thomas W. Latham, Republican, and Dr. W. C. Martin, Democrat, both being prominent in party politics.

Senator Latham has been a resident of Huron county for 60 years, having been born in a log cabin in Lyme township in 1864. He was educated at the common district school, and Northern Ohio University. He has been engaged in the hardware business, grain and milling and banking businesses. At the present time he is very active in dealing in farm lands.

Mr. Latham has been honored in the Village, and district and county, by being treasurer, chairman Republican Central committee and senator from the 30th district. He made a remarkable record in winning of this contest. All counties in the district except Ottawa, had at the primary candidates, yet Mr. Latham carried all counties, and at the subsequent election, passed a previous democratic majority of 6,500, by being elected by over 2,500.

The senator is an ardent huntsman and fisherman, and won the international amateur championship at trap shooting in 1905.

He comes from an old established family of New London, Connecticut, the Molcotts, Winslow, Warren, Allen and Dennison families.

Mr. Latham took a prominent part in the county during the World War. Gov. Cox appointed him Food Commissioner of the county; he also served on all patriotic committees. A son, James, volunteered from the University of Pennsylvania, returning after the close as a Lieutenant Royal Air Force.

He is a 32 degree Mason and Shriner, member of Isaak Walton League, Mayflower Society, Sons American Revolution, and is a Vestryman of the Episcopal church, as is Dr. Martin.

The two gentlemen being exceedingly popular and well known throughout the district, it is an even wager that both will be nominated at the primary. In this event there will be witnessed a contest similar to the senatorial election in 1918, when Mr. Latham ran against Senator Herner, both candidates being from the same town. Should Latham and Martin succeed in gaining the nomination, not only would they be from the same town, but Vestrymen of the church.—The Spectator.

Is THIRTY the Love? Deadline?

H. L. Menckner has been a headline for a long time. After establishing a record for himself on the Callington Sun, he went to New York, and in company with George Zane, he then contacted the magazine Smart Set, establishing one of the most popular American humor. At present he is editor of the American Mercury, a magazine venture which is proving a tremendous success. His books, mostly of an topical nature, are widely read. He is one of the most popular humorists in America. He is unmarried, but has always had interesting views of matrimony.

By H. L. MENCKNER

Doctor Durant's observation that no rational man ever falls in love after thirty is surely not new. I printed it in a book called "In Defense of Women" ten or twelve years ago. Nor was it new when I printed it. You will find it, if you search hard enough, in Shakespeare, and Shakespeare, I have no doubt, borrowed it from an Italian who had cabbaged it from Greece, by retreating in various forms, some of them voluptuous and others indignant. George Bernard Shaw has earned at least $35,000, by my estimate, since the year 1888. And it is still good for an occasional outfit of lecturer's gaunds for Durant, and a case of Asammanahauer Hinteckirch Anleese 1921 for me.

But, like all other truths, it is not to be taken too literally. I have seen men of thirty-five magnificently in love, and full of a fine, fierce pride in the fact. But these same men also were poets, and believed that a couple of quinine pills, taken before going to bed, would cure a cold. In other words, they were excessively romantic, which is to say, balmly Durant, I suppose, referred to more rational fellows, as I did in my book, and the Greeks long before either of us. Such rational fellows can no more fall in love, in the full romantic sense, than a dry congressman can resist a drink. Their very incapacity, it is indeed, is one of the chief proofs of their rationality.

For this romantic love, when all is said and done is simply nonsense, and hence not worth much mourning. Its cause, I am informed by agents in the medical colleges, is an ebullition of the hormones, its effects are indistinguishable from those of a somewhat prolonged and injudicious jag. The victim, looking at black, sees white. The lady who has knocked him off, seen through his glazed eyes, becomes an amalgam of Florence Nightingale, Marie Antoinette, Lola Montez, Edith Cavell, Grace Darling, and the tenth and best wife of Belshazzar, king of Babylon. His view of her, in the light of all persons, is apt to seem comical. And when he marries her, he commonly finds that it is pathfully erroneous. Very few early marriages are genuinely happy. They may last, but so do gallstones. I add politely that what is pain for the gander is probably pain for the goose.

But though the romantic love described in the works of the standard poets is thus mainly a function of youth, and cannot survive into actual maturity, I see no reason why a man sliding into the forties should not marry satisfactorily, and make a good husband. His illusions may be gone, but if the lady he claps his eye on is really charming there may be a great many soothing realities. The plain fact is that many females of the human species are lovely, and that their loveliness survives even the harshest of spotlights. They make pretty pictures, especially when competently made up. They have nimble wits, and are amusing. They know how to be agreeable. They are tolerantly cynical, and do not expect too much either of God or of man. I can easily imagine even the most hard-boiled of men falling for such a wench. In fact, I have seen them fall—and observed them happy afterward.

This, to be sure, is not romantic love. It is not idealistic. It sees nothing that is not actually there. But, as I say, what is there may be very charming. If it is, then it is apt to last. For charm is almost as durable as gallstones. It is no more a function of mere youth than it is a sign of illusion. The genuinely charming woman remains charming at sixty. She can no more fade, in any real sense, than a diamond can fade. It is not necessary to fall in love with such a woman in order to appreciate her. Appreciating her is a function, not of the hormones, but of the higher cerebral centers. In other words, it is a function of men beyond thirty-five.

As for women, I don't believe that they ever fall in love at all. They are far too intelligent to do so. When one hears of a woman falling wildly in love with a movie actor, or a egypt violinist, or the curate of the parish, one simply hears of a woman who is trying to bring the darling of her heart to terms. Let him show the proper signs of disturbance, and she will promptly forget poor Jack Gilbert. No woman above the intellectual grade of a cavalryman or a cockroach ever yields herself completely to romantic illusion. In even the prettiest fellow, when she has looked at him seriously, she sees a good husband.

Garver Followed Donahy's Advice

W. F. Garver Democratic Candidate for Judge of Court of Appeals for this district deserves the support of every citizen of this community. The Cleveland Times had the following to say about him in 1925 when he was a State Senator: "One lone Democrat, Senator W. F. Garver of Holmes County is making a direct bid for fame. He proposes to repeal a lot of ancient and obsolete laws rather than enact new ones." He is following the advice given by Governor Donahy in his message to enact only necessary laws and repeal a lot now on the statute books. The lone Holmes County Democrat seems to be the only legislator in the United States who takes the recommendation seriously and has started to apply it in a practical way."

AN OVERSEA HIGHWAY
Opportunity to make an oversea trip entirely by automobile or on foot. If one enjoys a really long hike, it is now an accomplished fact. This has been brought about through the construction of the Oversea Highway in Florida, which, when completed, will extend from Florida City, on the mainland of the "Everglade State," to Key West, the southernmost outpost of the United States. The route of this great highway is the dividing line between the waters of the Atlantic Ocean and the Gulf of Mexico. Except at Upper Metacumbe Key and at Sugar Lof Key, at which two points the Oversea Highway crosses the "Oversea Railroad," the route of the highway parallels the railroad for the entire distance.

For 130 miles of the way, this unique highway runs over small coral islands, known as "keys." Varying in length from twenty-eight miles to one and one-quarter miles, eighteen of these keys form the stepping stones across which this roadway runs. With but few exceptions, these keys are not more than three feet above sea level and, at times, some of them are covered with from six inches to a foot of water. Of course, the roadway has been graded up well above high water.

The surface of the keys and "fills" at some places, will be road, while twenty-six miles of bridges will be necessary to connect the highway with points on land.

Of limestone formation, these keys vary in hardness from material which may be dug with pick and shovel to rock of such hardness. The liberal use of dynamite, however, solved the problem for the road builders. Considerable quantities of 60 per cent strength explosive were used for leveling the high spots encountered along the right-of-way.

To obtain material for filling and grading at points along the course of the highway, a novel means was resorted to, this being the blasting of coral rock from beneath the surface of the sea. The fact that dynamite may be used for under water operations made possible the obtaining of the necessary material.

The Oversea Highway has been formally opened to travel. But, until further work is done, including the building of some bridges, it is necessary to use ferry service between New Key and Lower Metacumbe Key. Even so, this affords motorists what is, perhaps, the most interesting and remarkable trip to be enjoyed anywhere in the world.
