JURY PARTY IN AUTO SMASH-UP

Local Man In Auto Mishap With Party on Way to Willard From Norwalk.

A half dozen or more people were seriously hurt in a three-cornered automobile accident on the Peru-rd., not far from the Settlement Monday afternoon.

All were members of the Stewart motor club, or drivers of cars.

They were on their way down to view the scene of the murder at Willard.

The cavalcade of five cars carrying jurors and court attaches was on its way to Willard, going south. They turned off the narrow pavement to pass two cars coming north, and they made a lot of dust.

When one car coming north was passed, Wm. Lofland, driving a car of jurors, thought the road was cleared, and because of the clouds of dust was unable to see a Ford truck approaching, driven by John Schonacker, carpenter, with his daughter, Mrs. Irene Graham and her babe in arms beside him.

The Lofland and Schonacker cars hit head on with terrific impact. The Ford truck was almost demolished, and the Lofland Cadillac badly wrecked in front.

A second car of jurors following the Lofland car closely, smashed into the wreck before it could see what had happened.

In the Lofland car were Mr. Lofland and the following jurors: Branch Perry, of Fairfield; Wm. Scrafield, of Plymouth; A. D. Burgess, of Townsend, badly cut about the face.

Arthur C. Carver, of Wakeman; C. E. Ewers, of auditor's office, Jay Swaner of New London, badly bruised.

Wm. Lofland, driver, right knee dislocated and otherwise bruised and cut.

In the second car, which was driven by Ralph Lane, were the following jurors, only one of whom was badly hurt; the all were bruised and jolted.

Luan Kelley, Wakeman, right arm dislocated and body bruised and cut. Mrs. L. W. Cline, Ripley.

Mrs. J. G. Burns, Bellevue; Mrs. Roman Rutting, Bellevue; Wm. Messinger, New London.

Charles B. Canfield, Cottles. The driver of the Ford truck, Joseph Schonacker, was taken to Memorial hospital by an ambulance called to the scene. His leg is broken and he is badly injured about the chest and body. His daughter, who was traveling in the front seat, was severely shaken and bruised but not badly hurt.

The whole party returned to Norwalk and gave up the murder case for the time being. In the other three cars were court officials and other jurors.

Ray Bracy, court stenographer and Atty. Agler of Bellevue, were delayed in getting started, and so had to follow in the Bracy car, arriving about two minutes after the accident happened.

Authorities say this means a new jury will have to be empanelled and the murder trial started entirely anew.

Speed Program for Huron County Fair Completed: Many Outsiders.

Harness horses from near and far will be seen in action in the speed program to be featured at this year's Huron County Fair, Norwalk, Ohio, August 28 to 31.

Secretary Max M. Phillips, who is looking after the entries and general details connected with the program, predicts the best racing in years. Not only will the leading local horsemen be seen in action, but many of the outstanding experts who will be racing at nearby fairs just previous to the Huron County Fair, are coming here with their stables, thus assuring record fields in every event on the card.

The liberal purses set aside by the management, totaling $2,000.00 is proving to be a big inducement in bringing the outside horses here. The usual entrance fee is being charged.

PTHYLIAN HOME A GREAT HELP

Drs. Motley and wife, Searle and wife motored to Springfield last Sunday to join other Pthylians in their Pilgrimage to the Orphans home, the Shrine of Ohio Pthylians at Springfield. Here with 1,000 other visitors they inspected the home and grounds. The home is situated on a 40 acre estate and consists of ten buildings, located in the city of Springfield. There has been admitted 1500 children since its establishment. Today it shelters 215 children, the youngest 19 months old, the oldest 19 years. There are at present 23 orphan. These have one parent living. On this year twelve graduated from the Springfield High School and all but one have attained very fine positions.

The Pthylian Sisters in uniform of the colors of the order presented a finely executed drill forming stars, triangles, double triangles, rectangles and reversed, which brought forth plaudits from the visitors. Appraised value of premises is $1,000,000. Educational advantages are given to all inmates in whatever vocation they choose.

One visitor a motherly old lady, voiced her opinion which sentiment was shared by others. "The children God bless them are well cared for and taught good manners and seem better behaved than if they were with their parents and God bless the men and women of the Pthylian order who have opened their hearts to give the children a home."

W. D. Payne was also a visitor at Springfield and he was given a warm welcome by many of his old acquaintances.

Ohio State Fair Offers Patrons Varied Program

Sousa and His Band Headlines in Entertainment Features; A Galaxy of Other Attractions Also.

The 18th Ohio State Fair opens its gates to the public on Monday, August 27th, reviewing the elaborate preparation and arrangements for the 1928 fair, Charles V. Trux, Director, declares that the people of Ohio may expect the largest, most diversified exposition in the more than three quarters of a century's existence of the Ohio State Fair. More successfully than ever before the fair will portray vividly and effectively the agricultural and industrial greatness of Ohio. Not only will the fair be, as always, a great institution of vital education and a clearing house of ideas, but it will also furnish a wealth of varied entertainment to its patrons.

The liberal premiums and prizes offered by the management, amounting to $150,000, have attracted some of the finest livestock in the country. Entries from 21 states and Canada, much larger than those of last year, assure a $2,000,000 Live-stock Show, the outstanding feature of the fair. Ohio uses the single judging system in awarding its premiums.

The aircraft exhibition, which proved immensely popular last year, will be repeated on even larger proportions. The first all-Ohio art show, in the Woman's Building, will display the canvases of Ohio artists, loaned to the fair by Cincinnati, Cleveland, Toledo, Dayton and Columbus galleries. Gallery tours will be conducted by Karl S. Bolander, Director of the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts. Incidentally, Nelson's Marionettes will perform four times daily in the Woman's Building. Another innovation is the feature of the all-day newspaper exhibit. The educational exhibits of the various divisions of the state government are to be more extensive than those of former years.

Fair patrons are offered a program of recreation and special attractions never before exceeded. The outdoor features of the entertainment program will be, without doubt, the appearance of Sousa and his Band. The famous "March King" now on his Golden Jubilee tour of the United States, will present one hundred bandmen and two soloists, a harpist and a soprano, in concert twice daily. There will be a half dozen other bands, the 300 piece Boys' All-Ohio Band, the American Legion Band, the Dover Concert Band, the 9th Battalion Band (colored) and the Lancaster Boys' Industrial School Band. The public address system will make it possible for fair patrons to enjoy the band music in all parts of the fair grounds.

For the first five afternoons of the fair, horse racing will be the principal attractions. Purses for the speed program total $19,500, and special races will be held on Saturday, and again on Monday, when a great Labor celebration is to be held. Each day a variety of other attractions will be under way. The old time fiddling and dancing contests, begun last year, are expected to bring out many contestants and interested spectators. This year there is also to be the harness contests, the prizes to the successful contestants being Holmer harmonicas. In the various calling contests, there will be bird calling, chicken calling, cow calling, and even husband calling. Lovers of fine horses will find the Night Horse Show more fascinating than ever, since entries make certain the largest and best Night Horse Show in many years. A variety of vaudeville attractions will appear in the Night Horse Show intermissions, as well as at the special attractions before the grandstand in the afternoon.

The diversified entertainment program provided for state fair patrons by the management will be climaxed each evening by the elaborate spectacle, "A Night in Bagdad," with a cast of a thousand and chorus members and principals. Errol Flynn's masterful performance will depict the finale of the spectacle will be marked by a gorgeous display of fireworks.

BIG BARN BURNS SATURDAY MORN

A barn, the largest in this section of Huron-Co. located on the farm known as the Ray Child's place, north east of here, was totally destroyed by fire at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. The farm is owned by the Farmers Bank Company of Greenway and tenanted by Charles Phillips and Mack Phillips.

The barn was completely destroyed. It is reported that twenty tons of hay, the entire crop of wheat, a portion of the oats crop, a threshing machine belonging to Lawrence Atgeo and two or three sheep were also burned. The sheep had been rescued, but ran back into the barn and were caught in the blaze.

Tenants of the farm said that the fire started in the hay mow, and a bucket of water had been at hand they would have been able to save the property. The Willard fire department was called, but was unable to do anything to save the barn.

FRANK A. TUBBS OBSERVES 84TH ANNIVERSARY

Four Generations Present to Help Celebrate Event Tuesday.

Four generations were represented at a family gathering Tuesday in honor of the eighty-fourth birthday anniversary of Frank A. Tubbs, venerable pioneer resident of Plymouth.

At noon a bounteous dinner was prepared and served by his wife to the immediate family while brought out the day numerous friends called to extend their best wishes and respects through many nice gifts and flowers, showing the esteem in which Mr. Tubbs is held by all who know him.

Mr. Tubbs, the only living member of his family, is the oldest of nine children, and the son of Henry and Eva A. Tubbs. He was born in a log cabin on West Broadway, August 21, 1844. Just west of the site where the D. W. Ellis home is now located.

With the exception of several years he served his country when he volunteered in 1862, first in the 48th Ohio and later in the 11th Ohio Cavalry. Mr. Tubbs has resided in Plymouth practically his entire life. He remembers Plymouth as a very small village, mostly forests and Indian trails. Some of his experiences while fighting Indians would exceed the most imaginative tales you have read.

In 1867 he married Miss Lois Green and to this union were born three daughters, two of whom are living, Mrs. Irene Ervin of Mansfield and Mrs. M. G. Boyer of Toledo.

Several years after the death of his wife, he again married in 1892 to Mrs. Marie Wilson, widow of Robert Wilson, who has been his constant companion and helper for thirty-six years. Judging from the many visits to the "Tubbs home," she is a splendid cook and as entertaining as her husband.

Members of the family who were able to present Tuesday included Mrs. Irene Ervin, daughter Laura Jean Lott, great grand child of Mansfield, Mrs. Ernest Linn and children Donald and Helen, great grand child Mrs. Claude Waltz and son Jack of Crestline and Mrs. Sarah Lee of Plymouth.

INTERESTING NOTES OF WESTERN FARM

Word has been received from Dr. Geo. Searle, Jr. who is enroute to the west coast, and accompanied by Homer Lindsey have enjoyed the past week with Searle's first cousin, Thom as Vocal at Chance, S. D.

The ranch or farm which Mr. Veal owns is found very interesting, as of what consists of some acre, a field of one-half square mile, one corn-spits barley one-half square mile, each and 15,000 sheep. It takes four shepherds to look after the sheep.

Last fall it required the following for 1 people on the Veal farm: 750,000 bushels of corn, 17 Huttered Hogs, 1200 Bushel of Potatoes, Seven Beaves.

1000 bushel of potatoes were boiled for hog food, and other things are done on a large scale.

Chance is fifty miles from a rail road, and the temperature in summer goes as high as 102 in the shade and as low as 45 below zero in the winter. Dr. Searle is now in the Black Hills where he is enjoying the many sights of these famous mountains.

Members of the Plymouth Trap Shooters Club, and several teams from surrounding towns will hold a shoot Monday, Sept. 3rd, Labor Day, on the Ellis field here. The shoot will begin promptly at 2 o'clock. More are non-coments at next week.

BOY DROWNS IN STONE QUARRY

Arthur Wilbur Loses Life While Swimming Near Home.

Funeral services for Arthur Wilbur, who was drowned Monday night, will be held this afternoon at 2 p. m. at the Methodist church in Fairfield. Rev. A. J. Crimm will officiate.

Young Wilbur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilbur, living on the Henry Wilmet farm north of Boughntown, was drowned late Monday afternoon while swimming in an abandoned stone quarry. The lad was a good swimmer, and it is suspected he was a victim of cramps.

His parents missed him when he did not show up for supper after the day's work and finally started searching for him. They found his clothes on some banks of the quarry. Help was summoned and neighbors quickly responded. The pond was dragged and the body was recovered shortly after midnight.

The tragic event cast a pall over the whole community where the lad had scores of friends through his social qualities. The deepest of sympathy is extended to the bereaved ones by the community in their sad hour.

ELEANOR SEARLE TO GIVE RECITAL

Miss Eleanor Searle, Coloratura soprano of Plymouth who spent the past year in vocal study under Madame Caroline Lowe in New York City will be heard in a recital in her home town Thursday evening, September 6.

Miss Searle has proven in one year's work that she has unusual talent as the recital will demonstrate, and Madame Lowe predicts for her a brilliant future.

Her half hour on radio station W. C. L. N. Y. City every Thursday and Saturday afternoons brought many fine comments and her appearance at prominent New York Clubs and hotels bespoke her popularity, and she was usually invited for a return engagement. She sang many times at Madame Lowe's Sunday afternoon Musical Teas and was always very greatly enjoyed by the guests.

A very great compliment was paid Monday as a scholar of Columbia University as she was invited to be a part of the Italian department to take a prominent part in the Italian play "Gli Innamorati" by Carlo Goldoni which was given by the University. This she did with great credit to herself in spite of a severe cold.

She will be heard in a recital in Plymouth and her many friends will be anxious to hear her. Madame Lowe will arrange to be present to assist her at the piano.

SERIOUSLY ILL

Al Sourwine is reported as being seriously ill as a result of a stroke. His many friends wish for him an early recovery.

SERIES OF PARTIES GIVEN FOR OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS

Mrs. Charles Kapitke of Cleveland, invited to the country home of Mrs. P. H. Root where a delicious lunch was enjoyed. Mrs. Root chose for her color scheme pale green and white and the afternoon devoted to playing bridge.

Thursday Mrs. Chas. G. Miller was invited to the country home of Mrs. Anna Pate where a most enjoyable lunch was followed by bridge. At six o'clock Mrs. John A. Root invited those present to her country home where the guests enjoyed a swim until seven o'clock when a picnic supper was served.

Friday Mrs. Anna Pate entertained with a dinner-bridge which brought to a close the Plymouth visit of these guests.

CORN BELT IS WORLD'S BEST FARMED SECTION

To a politician there are fourteen states in the "Corn Belt" which would be to figure so importantly in the presidential elections but actually there are only ten states that lie wholly or in part within the agricultural Corn Belt. It embraces a small corner of Michigan, the western half of Ohio, the northern two-thirds of Indiana and Illinois, practically all of Iowa, most of that part of Missouri which lies north of the Missouri River, a narrow strip along the northern boundary of Kansas extending almost to the Western limit of the state, eastern and southern Nebraska, southeastern South Dakota and southwestern Minnesota.

The Corn Belt is the richest and best farmed large area in the Temperate Zone, according to the National Farm News Exchange. It is 500 miles long and 150 to 200 miles wide, and it contains about 150,000,000 acres, of which 85 per cent produces crops.

While it contains less than 5 per cent of the total land area of the United States, the Corn Belt produces 67 per cent of the corn crop of the nation and 40 per cent of the corn crop of the world. It produces, in addition more than 50 per cent of the nation's oat crop, 25 per cent of the wheat and hay, 67 per cent of the hogs, 60 per cent of the pure-bred cattle, 25 per cent of the registered dairy cattle, and 40 per cent of the nation's poultry and eggs.

WHEN POTATOES HIT 60 CENTS
Potatoes are being sold in New York City at less than a cent a pound, in spite of the fact that, according to George J. Callister, widely known agronomist, there are 150 major co-operative organizations in the United States that have a combined membership of 3,000,000 farmers and do an annual business of more than $150,000,000.

"Here we have the spotlight thrown upon one of the problems that must be solved before the agricultural industry will find itself upon an economic, business-like and truly profitable basis," Mr. Callister declares. "A cent a pound for potatoes is less than the average cost of production, to say nothing of freight, handling, trucking, middlemen's profits and other items that accumulate as the potato travels from producer to consumer."

"It costs the average farmer in the North Central states 53 cents to raise a bushel of potatoes; in the Central states it costs 45 cents; in the Eastern States 72 cents; in the North Eastern states 73 cents; in the South Eastern states 77 cents. The average is well above 60 cents."

"When potatoes are offered in such a bushel of potatoes," consumer-market as New York City at less than production cost, it means an enormous loss somewhere. It means that a major branch of the agricultural industry has failed to function in the interests of the producer; that supply has been allowed to exceed the known demand, or that fatally bad judgment has been exercised in the choice of a market and the time for marketing. In either case, it is not likely that farmers who market through cooperative associations were the losers."

THE PORTABLE BUILDING

In less than a month the Public Schools will reopen and we still have with us the dilapidated barnlike portable buildings in which the little ones are expected to start on one of the most important journeys in life.

This barn (or rather shack) has been in use eight or ten years, which is at least six years over the time allowed by the state law for the use of temporary or portable buildings.

If the mothers and fathers who have children starting to school this Fall would only take the time and trouble to inspect this building they surely wouldn't even consider letting their loved ones spend the winter months in such a building running the risk of severe colds and impairing their health for life. Ask the mothers who in past years have put their children through this damnable state of affairs. Time and again, children have been confined to their homes with illness contracted in this ill-ventilated, drafty and barnlike building.

If you ever visited the schools during cold weather you found these little tots with their overhoses and winter coats on to keep warm. There has never been a foundation of any kind under this building, which is in a deplorable condition. Why hasn't the School Board in past years, even taken the trouble to put a brick or cement foundation under this building, which would not have cost two or three hundred dollars at the most?

This would, at least, have kept the wind out from under the building and made it more comfortable as far as warmth was concerned.

We must, however, give our present School Board members credit in seeing the light of some of these deplorable conditions. As the old main building has been undergoing several improvements and modifications, it is also rumored that they have plans and specifications to submit to the voters this Fall on a new High School building, which will enable them to use the present main building for a Grade School.

If it is absolutely imperative to use the shack this year, there is still time to put some kind of foundation under this building and make the necessary repairs to put it in livable condition.

If we are so fortunate as to have the chance to vote on a School Bond issue this Fall, we should remember a Community today is judged by its Schools. Stop and think how our neighboring towns and villages must judge us in comparison with their up-to-date and modern schools. Isn't it a fact that families, with children of school age, hesitate in moving to Plymouth on account of the schools?

The Nuts Will Fall in November

With the state primaries out of the way, organization for the November campaign will begin. There will be a slight let up while the defeated congratulate the winners and a little time will lapse while leaders forget differences and heal wounds of the past several weeks strenuous campaigning. Some of the wounds just won't heal and while the defeated may keep quiet they will carry their differences to the polls in November. It's going to be a warm campaign regardless of weather conditions. Democrats feel that they have a chance to elect their entire state and national tickets, while Republicans are certain that Ohio can still be counted as solidly Republican. Good candidates have been nominated, and the fight is on. Radio will be used more than ever before during the next three months, and even if all voters don't get a chance to see the candidates they will certainly get an opportunity of hearing them. At the moment Ohio voters are too busy to think of election, but issues will be found that will arouse interest, and the light vote of Tuesday is absolutely no indication of what will happen in November.

From ninth place in 1926, the Oakland Motor Car Company has steadily grown until at present it is among the first four leaders in the industry in point of volume.

State Invests Big Sum

In Ohio State University Investment of the state of Ohio in the Ohio State University, its largest educational institution, last year increased to $17,093,287.43. Increase in the value of its endowment and educational plant during the year, was nearly $1,000,000. Bulk of the state assets in the university consists of the physical plant, including lands, buildings and equipment. These are valued, according to the report, at $15,896,877.37. The university's endowment, comprising the balance of its net worth, on July 1 totaled $11,112,590.06. Nearly all of the increase in the value of the university's assets last year came about through improvements and additions to the physical plant. The valuation was increased by spending $482,811.51 on buildings, $239,958.77 for equipment and $109,302.26 for miscellaneous physical items. The university's estate on July 1 amounted to $118.2 acres, the report showed.

Weather Ideal for Highway Improvement

Weather conditions have just been right for highway improvement work which is far behind because of the heavy rains of late spring and early summer. Harry J. Kirk, state highway director, said this week that more men are working on state roads at the present time than at any time during the past year. Detours are being eliminated each week, and roads should be in excellent condition during State Fair week. The department has just issued a new road map which will be for free distribution during and after the State Fair. It is one of the most complete ever published and will be mailed free to those who address Harry J. Kirk, state highway director, Columbus.

One of the greatest problems of the state is employment of thousands of able-bodied prisoners who now must spend their time in the idle houses at the Ohio penitentiary. HOG PRICE IS USUALLY HIGH

"The month of September is the month of highest average hog prices, with the price usually starting on the decline shortly after the first of October," writes J. W. Wulcher, extension specialist in animal husbandry at the Ohio State University, in a new free bulletin, "Pork Production in Ohio." This bulletin, illustrated, 48 pages in length, may be obtained by writing to the agricultural publications office at the state university, Columbus.

"The principal reason for the high September price," Mr. Wulcher continues, "is because most of the hogs have been carried through the summer on grass and are being fatted off on the new corn crop and consequently are not yet ready for market. This causes a shortage in hogs on the September market, with a resulting high price. The month of April is next in line after September with July following closely.

"The question is sometimes asked, 'what if every hog feeder would feed for the months of high prices, wouldn't those months change to months of low prices?' If a great number of feeders did follow that plan, the answer would have to be in the affirmative. But the fact is that the majority of feeders don't. For the man who is willing to adjust his operations in order to be a little ahead of the crowd, feeding for the months of high prices offers an opportunity for returns not enjoyed by many."

"THE NEW MOON" HANNA THEATRE

On Monday evening, August 27th, Cleveland theatre goers will be treated to one of those always interesting events, a first night in a theatre. This will be the opening of Schwab and Mandel's musical romance, "The New Moon," of which so much is expected because of the prominence of the producers, librettists, composer and directors, and because of the unusual quality of the cast.

Owing to the pretentiousness of the production of "The New Moon" and the advisability of holding several musical and scenic rehearsals before the opening performance the company will arrive from New York the latter part of the week and will take possession of the Hanna Theatre stage at once. Some 150 people are coming over with "The New Moon," including Laurence Schwab and Frank Mandel, the producers; Sigmund Romberg and Oscar Hammerstein 2nd, composer and librettist; Bobby Connelly, who is staging the musical and dancing numbers; Alfred Goodman, general musical director for the firm; Donald Laustager, the scenic designer; Charles LeMaire, who is responsible for the costumes. In addition, there will be about a score of principals, nearly 100 singing voices, a dancing group of 24 and the same number of musicians to augment the regular Hanna Theatre orchestra, and a contingent of a dozen heads of mechanical departments who will supervise the mounting of the show.

These producers, having given the stage such musical successes as "Green Hags," "Captain Jinks," "Sweet Little Devil," "The Desert Song" and "Good News," hope to make "The New Moon" the best and biggest musical show it has yet presented. The story, laid in the Caribbean Sea and old New Orleans, dealing with such colorful figures as French revolutionists and privateers roaming the Spanish Main, and shot with stirring scenes and embellished with musical gems, should make an emphatic appeal to every theatregoer. "The New Moon" is not just a big show. The producers have treated their theme with good taste and imagination and the cast has been selected with unusual discretion. The leading roles will be in the hands of Evelyn Herbert, Robert Halliday, Gus Gray, Max Fisman, William O'Neal, Marie Callahan, Edward Noel, Eubank, Howard, Lytle Evans, Earle Mitchell, Olga Albani, Rosita and Ramon, the Argentines and a dozen others.

The management of the Hanna theatre has made special arrangements with Messrs. Schwab and Mandel that "The New Moon" will be seen in Cleveland at popular prices, thereby doing away with any government tax.

In company with distinguished scientists and other notables from all sections of the country, Mr. Edison was here as the guest of George Eastman to witness first public demonstrations of the newly developed method of color motion picture photography. During the interview granted newspapermen by the venerable inventor, scores of questions on almost every conceivable subject were submitted to him. The questions were submitted in writing because of Mr. Edison's deafness, and his replies also were written in the copper-plate handwriting for which he is noted.

How to Make Hops Brev
We were handed the following recipe with the comment that several of our citizens might try it out. Here it is in FULL:

Chase wild bull frogs for three miles and gather up the hops. To them add ten gallons of tan bark, one half pint of shellac, one bar of home made soap. Boil thirty-four hours. Then strain through an I. W. sock to keep it from working. Add one grasshopper to each pint to give it a kick. Pour a little into the kitchen sink. If it takes the enamel off it is ready for bottling.

The old Clericnonian Literary Association met in annual convocate at the Guinea church last Sunday, Aug. 19, having its usual large attendance, supper banquet and interesting program. Mrs. Loa Lawes was given charge of the literary program who with Mrs. Bauer on the committee surely did themselves great credit in securing talent. Mrs. Rank, Misses Conger and Miller and Clara Beemer of the violin performed the musical stunts. A. W. Davis, Wm. Burwell, Dr. C. W. Noble, G. S. Catlin and Pres. Porquer were pleased on the Rostrom.

By resolution adopted the meetings hereafter will be on the 3rd Sunday of each month which happens to be as A. W. Davis said, on the 21st, the writers birthday. We will, no doubt, be rather hilarious at the next meeting. Everybody invited. Some of those splendid cake bakers over there are talking of a demonstration in cake baking and are very inquisitive as to the number of sodas to use.

Wm. Forquer of Willard heads the Association for another year: Vice President F. T. Sparks; Sec'y-Treas. Lella Heller Wilson of New London.

A disastrous fire broke out on the former Child's Bros farm west of Boughtonville Saturday morning, the fire striking the large barn with straw barn and cattle shed annex—burning a large quantity of hay and some grain and tools not possible to remove besides a new separator belonging to Lawrence Atyee, threshing at the barn at the time the fire started. No one seems to know the real cause for the starting of the fire—it might have been spontaneous combustion or wrapping of tough straw on the shafts and over heating. The Farmers Bank Greenwhich own the farm and are reported carrying of 5,000 on the barns.

At 4:15 a separator was sent to the Phillips Brothers—tenants are the big losers. The barns in part may be replaced.

Death Threats Fail to Halt Vain 5-Year Search For Lost Legacy

A treasure hunt that rivals any described in works of fiction, marked by death threats and involving a five-year search covering more than 4,000 miles, came to light yesterday when an attorney of a former resident of Oberstein, Germany now living in the Bronx, took steps to penetrate the veil which has hung over an elusive legacy said to be valued at $1,400,000.

Five years ago, August Wittmann, 39, 539 St. Ann's Ave. near Westchester Ave. was a carpenter in the town of Oberstein, which is near Coblenz. He pursued his occupation in peace and contentment and little dreamed that he would come into a fabulous inheritance, or that he, his wife Wilhelmina, and their young daughter, would spend years of hopeless searching for an actual trace of the legacy.

Now broken in health and penniless Wittmann lives in constant fear that mysterious death threats made against him may be carried out. He is convinced that there are enemies who are seeking to harm him, unless he leaves New York.

And although he has wandered for five years, Wittmann has found not a single clue to the estate he is supposed to have inherited. On the other hand, however, his investigations have revealed nothing to indicate that the legacy was a hoax, and he is certain that his enemies have covered up all traces of the legacy in order to prevent him from gaining possession of it.

Tidings of Fabulous Wealth

It was in November, 1923, that Wittmann, without ever previously suspecting that he might some day inherit a huge estate in America, was surprised by a visit from a government official, who notified him that his aunt had died in America and that an estate valued at $1,400,000 had been bequeathed to him and his brother, Jacob, who also lived in Oberstein.

As the story is told by his attorney, Peter A. Lee, 3113-3129 Bronx Avenue, near E. 154th St., Bronx, New York City, who is making the new effort to trace the legacy, the Oberstein authorities referred to Wittmann a letter apparently from the German consul in the United States.

This letter, addressed to the Coblenz authorities, stated that Wittmann's aunt, the late Margaretha Barbara Doh Schank, had died and that her estate, valued at $1,400,000, was left to Wittmann and his brother Jacob. The communication is now in the hands of Wittmann's attorney.

Mrs. Schank, who was also known as Bawey, was a childless widow, and the communication notified Wittmann and his brother that they were the only heirs and were entitled to the estate, which was designated as being in Ohio.

Shortly after the receipt of the letter, Wittmann was approached by a representative of Oberstein, who offered to advance the necessary expenses for him to go to America and claim the legacy.

Bank Advanced $4,000
The bank subsequently advanced Wittmann $4,000 in gold marks to defray expenses for the journey and also delegated Richard Bernhard, then residing at 721 Shippe St., Hoboken, N. J. to assist Wittmann.

They had no address but Ohio. Arriving in this country, Wittmann was met by Bernhard, and the two went to the Equitable Trust Company in New York for assistance. The trust company entered into correspondence with the Deutsche Raiffeisenbank and, at the request of the German bank, the company wrote their correspondent, the Huntington Trust Co. in Columbus, Ohio, to lend assistance in the search.

The Ohio firm referred the matter to its attorneys. When Wittmann, accompanied by Bernhard and two other men, interviewed the attorneys on Dec. 28, 1924, the Columbus lawyers, according to Lee, seemed to have discouraged the idea that there was any substance to Wittmann's claim. A few days later Bernhard, Lee says, returned to New York and reported that their efforts to find the estate were unsuccessful.

Suffered Break-Down
Wittmann, discouraged by his failure to trace the estate, remained in Ohio for some time with his wife and child. Two years ago, when he came to New York and set up his home in the Bronx, the unsuccessful search for the fortune had resulted in a physical break-down.

On June 11 Wittmann received his first mysterious letter. It was post-marked New York and read as follows:

"We wish to notify you that we are the creditors and know the family Wittmann to be swindlers. Please depart for Birkenfeld regions on the Nahr." It was signed with the initials "B. E. L."

Some days later Wittmann received the death threat.

"If you do not leave New York by the 15th of July, death will be your lot," the mysterious note read. It was signed, "E. L. and B. Michigan."

Attempt to Break Into Home

Several days later Wittmann learned that those who had written him the threats were apparently in earnest, for an attempt was made to break into his home, which was then on the ground floor at the St. Ann's Ave. address.

Wittmann has since moved to an upstairs apartment but he is so shaken by the realization that his enemies "mean business," that every sound wakens fear in his heart. His wife and his 16-year-old daughter, Hilda, are likewise in constant fear that harm will befall them.

Information concerning Wittmann's aunt or her holdings in Ohio is as scarce as it was when he first came from Germany, confident that he would figuratively walk into the inheritance.

According to Lee, the woman was about 80 years old at the time of her death. She last visited Germany some 15 years ago. Thereafter, she contributed liberally to the incomes of friends in Germany.

She corresponded to some extent with another nephew up to ten years ago, Lee continued, but he died and the correspondence stopped. Nothing definite, beyond the fact that her letters were post-marked from Ohio and that she was wealthy, is known.

Plans Systematic Search

Lee, in commenting upon the possibilities Wittmann has of recovering his aunt's estate, declared:

"It certainly appears that no sustained or systematic effort was maintained in Ohio to find trace of the legacy. That will be done now. There is a strong possibility that others have seized the estate and that the records and the letters have been so hidden as to be difficult to find, and that the threats received by Wittmann emanate from those who are in possession of the legacy or hope to obtain possession.

"It is also likely that having found the estate, Wittmann may face years of litigation in order to recover it." The attorney stated that he contemplated enlisting the aid of Ohio newspapers in printing the story of Wittmann's legacy in the hope that persons, who may have known his aunt, will come forward and volunteer information which may aid his search.

In addition, Lee expects to induce attorneys in that State to search the records for traces of Mrs. Schank and of the legacy. If no result is obtained there, he declared, it is probable that similar efforts may be made in every State in the Union.

Wheat vs. Fertilizer

All other things being equal the farmers who fertilize wheat liberally will produce the most profitable crop. Liberality in this case is not reckoned in terms of pounds of fertilizer per acre but in pounds of plant food per acre. There is a variation of more than 3c per pound in the cost of plant food contained in the various analyses, and you want to buy the analyses which furnishes the most pounds of plant food for a dollar. We find that many buyers fail to do this simply because the dealer does not offer the service to which the buyer is entitled. We are always glad to take up this phase of fertilizer buying in detail with those who are interested in getting the most for the dollars spent.

Mother of Warren Bevier Killed by Big Four Train

Tragic Accident Occurred Friday Night at Shelby While Aged Woman Attempted to Cross Tracks

The many friends of Warren Bevier were shocked to learn of the tragic death of his mother, Mrs. Jennie Bevier, which occurred last Friday night in Shelby when she was struck by a fast Big Four train while crossing the track on her way to a neighbor's home.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at the Burkhardt funeral home with Rev. D. B. Young, pastor of the Lutheran church, officiating.

The Shelby Globe gives the following account of the tragic accident: Mrs. Jennie Bevier, of 146 West Main street, wife of R. C. Bevier, was instantly killed Friday night about 1:20 o'clock at the West Main street crossing of the Big Four railroad. She was struck by passenger train 48 east bound and thrown and carried a distance of 200 feet north of the crossing. Her body dropped between the rails of the east bound track and the train passed over her. Every bone in her body was broken and death came instantly.

The engineer and fireman of the train did not know that their train had killed any person. They continued on their way stopping at Shelby Junction and leaving for Cleveland.

Pat O'Connor, Joe Rogers and Claude Packler were standing near the crossing and noticed the approach of Mrs. Bevier from the west. Just at this time No. 48 came along and when the train passed they failed to see Mrs. Bevier. They did not see her struck by the train but they were where to be seen when the train passed it led them to believe that she had been hit. Walking down the track about 200 feet they found her body.

About this time the second section of No. 48 have in sight when Clarence Cline ran west on the track and waved his flashlight back and forth across the track. The engineer brought his train to a stop before reaching the crossing and avoided running over the body.

The Burkhardt ambulance was called and the body taken to the Burkhardt funeral home on North Gamble street. There was some difficulty at first in identifying the body of Mrs. Bevier. Coroner Shreffler of Mansfield was summoned and it was two or three hours after the accident before it was definitely known who had been killed.

Mrs. Bevier at the time of the accident was on her way to the Nancy Cummings home on West Main street to return a pan in which she had the day before purchased a chicken pie from Miss Cummings.

She was 49 years of age and is survived by her husband and four sons and two daughters as follows: Warren, Ralph, William and Chester. Mrs. Grace Morrow and Mrs. Nell McPherson. She is also survived by ten grandchildren and one brother Robert William of Clinton. She has lived practically all of her life in the vicinity of Tiro and Shelby and for eight years the family had resided in Shelby Mrs. Bevier was a member of the Lutheran church.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Burkhardt funeral home and was conducted by Rev. D. B. Young, pastor of the Lutheran church.
