

ENJOY TOUR OF EASTERN STATES

After a fourteen-day trip through the east, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Trimmer returned home last week fully satisfied with their American first. The couple left here for Cleveland where they joined a group of Ohioans who, through The Wonder Tours, visited all the important points of interest in the east. The itinerary includes Buffalo, Syracuse, Utica, Albany, Troy, Rye Brook, Yonkers, New York, Boston, Providence, New Haven, New York City, Easton, Delaware Water Gap, Scranton, Binghamton, Elmira, Jamestown and back to Cleveland.

The party stopped over at Richfield Springs, and here Mr. Trimmer stated it is at least thirty big hotels, and every one filled with tourists or people who are taking advantage of the baths. After leaving Richfield we go to Rutland, Vt., where we see in operation the largest marble quarries of the world. In cutting the marble, a smooth piece of stone is used over which sand and water constantly flow, cutting the great slabs of marble into desired lengths. The drills, one of which we saw had 125 diamonds and it forced its way through the granite as though it were soft metal.

Our visit to Boston was enjoyed immensely and the many historical sights afforded us great delight in recalling early American history, the Old North Church, and monuments dedicated to men who served their country, as well as the many yards, revealed to us the fact that we should cherish our American citizenship. At the yards it was our privilege to see "Old Ironsides" the famous old battleship, which is being overhauled and put in a state of preservation.

Before going down to Boston we stopped over at Greenfield, N. H., where guides showed us around, and just as we finished his lecture, some wealthy woman, who evidently never saw an old landmark or home-stead, made the remark in our presence, "I could never understand why our President was born here." The guide thoughtfully made the reply, "Well, Madam, he said, 'that is very easy to understand; it happened that his mother was here at that time.' And the crowd roared."

In New York we found traffic very easy to go through inasmuch as one signal light probably controls traffic for four to six blocks, and every effort is made to keep the channels of traffic clear. The rapid transit and elevated help the local people to solve the traveling problem, and as a result, very few cars driven by New Yorkers in that city. One can ride on the rapid transit, a distance of a mile, for five cents for the sum of one ticket. Sight-seeing buses and taxis afford a happy medium of seeing New York and here one never gets tired of looking around. As a tourist and sight-seer we dropped into the famous Roxy theater, the largest in the world, and saw over 6,000 people. I am not saying anything about the show, but there were plenty of girls and a wonderful 15-piece orchestra to furnish the music, and that is show enough.

Another of the sights we saw was the Delaware Water Gap. Here the Delaware River breaks through the Kittatinny Mountains, about two miles long and barely wide enough for the river and a railroad track. Delaware Gap is considered the eighth wonder of the United States and is a nationally known resort noted for its scenic grandeur.

Mr. Trimmer says that he never saw such wealth as was shown by the tourists this year, and especially in the district between Boston and New York. So thoroughly did Mr. and Mrs. Trimmer enjoy the trip until they thought we were having a holiday through this section of the country should the opportunity present itself.

COLUMBUS PLANS LARGEST AIRPORT

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 11—Landing of almost two score transcontinental flyers in Columbus last week stirred enthusiasm for a municipal airport, planned by the largest and best in the world. Hardly had the last of the flyers reached the city when there was introduced in city council a bill providing for a bond issue of $500,000, with which to purchase land and build an airport to be owned and controlled by the city. The proposition was on once before but defeated by the voters. This was before the great mechanical birds of the air became so thick. Now everybody seems in favor of the establishment of an airport that will be just a bit bigger and better than any other in the country. The bond issue will be on the November ballot and will at least be able to get out a bigger vote than usual. Several fine sites have been proposed, but of course no purchase can be made until the bond issue is carried.

Mrs. Bryan Cram of Tiro had a narrow escape from being injured on Marvin avenue, Shelby, last Friday when the automobile she was driving struck a high curb and struck the pole. Fortunately, her machine cleared the spot before the pole, transformer and wire lives came tumbling down. Linemen Dornberger and Elliott were called to the scene immediately before one was injured.

A SURPRISE

A well planned party took place at the Legion Hall in Shiloh Friday evening, Sept. 7th, when Mr. Morris Mills with the assistance of the Sunbeam Club and the families gathered for a birthday party for Mrs. Mills.

After the guests which numbered about 55 were all present and in due time while the ice cream and wafers were being served the president of the Sun Shine Club presented Mrs. Mills with a lovely table cloth which was enjoyed by all, and a beautiful navy blue satin dress that had also been purchased by her husband. The party was so well planned that she did not even have the least inkling of it. When the small hours began to draw near the guests departed for their homes wishing Mrs. Mills many happy returns of the day.

BOY RETURNS; MOTHER HAPPY

After roving over the country for many months and finally drifting into Plymouth where he was sheltered and fed by Mrs. G. W. Muma, a homesick boy, Raymond Larrell of Moravia, N. Y., is back home again with his mother and Raymond can truthfully say, "Though it be ever so humble, there's no place like home."

Raymond came to Plymouth without money or friends and he was taken in by Mrs. Muma and given every care possible within her power, and so the day came when Raymond wanted to go home and he went on a pullman car or an automobile did he travel. Now, his mother, but we do know that his mother in prayer has been strengthened.

Mrs. Muma received a letter from Mrs. Larrell the other day and was glad to hear that she was well and that she was making an adjustment when the web drew his finger, cutting it severely. Medical attention was rendered by Dr. Searle.

"Just a few lines to let you know that Raymond arrived home yesterday. I was so glad to see him for I was so uneasy about him and did not get out of sleep while he was away, but prayed to Heavenly Father to take care of him and send him back home again. And I am thankful to God. The poor child was in a lot of trouble before he got home but our Lord, I guess was with him. He was so hungry and dirty it almost broke my heart to see him. He had to be washed and take a bath and put on clean clothes and fixed a good meal. He ate until I thought he would be sick, but he went to work this morning.

"My dear lady, I do thank you so much for what you did for my boy and he says you were so good to him and that you love God will do so much more for your kindness than I can.

Write and tell me what you thought of what you did for him and I will have him send the money. He says that he's coming back to see you again and wants me to come along but I am the mother of fourteen children and of course it is hard for me to get away. I have a little girl born the 11th of July. With the worry of Raymond on me I was in a very critical state for several days. However, God has truly blessed me.

"Will close for this time by thanking you with my heart and I will all ways pray for you that you may enjoy life's richest blessings.

"Yours sincerely,
Mrs. D. H. Larrell."

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: I find in our Bible of Christ's great commandment: "Suffer little children to come unto me for so is the Kingdom of Heaven." So this is why I cared for this boy. I am very grateful for what Rev. J. W. Miller, Mrs. Miller and Miss Florence Danner have done for our children and for when our work is done on this earth there will be joy and gladness.

SONG RECITAL IS WELL ATTENDED

One of the finest events that Plymouth has been privileged to enjoy was the song recital given by Plymouth's young songstress, Miss Eleanor Searle.

The church was most attractively decorated with masses of ferns and a beautiful supply of lovely dahlias, gladioli, and asters, with colorful clusters of Jumbo zinnias and red hot pokers.

Miss Searle made a charming finish to the picture, in a most becoming gown of rose-mauve crepe, simply decorated with heliopsis and pearls. Many friends of the young artist from Willard, Mansfield, Shelby blended their hearty applause with the host of Plymouth friends, and demonstrated their delight in the marvelous progress achieved by this young lady in one season in New York.

An appreciation of her work in Searle was the recipient of many lovely bouquets of roses and mixed flowers, carried to the platform by the charming ushers after the different groups of songs.

Mrs. Caroline Lowe of New York City, who has been Miss Searle's teacher was her accompanist throughout the program.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Himes received a hearty applause for her rendition of two numbers on the program, "Symphony from the New World" by Dvorak and "Hungarian Dance No. 5" by Brahms.

The ushers very prettily attired in evening gowns who assisted were the Misses Helen Pottle, Mary Fate Ruth, Nimmings and Lucile Fenner.

Demand for tubing from automobile manufacturers continues at a high rate while orders from airplane concerns is going forward by leaps and bounds.

FROM Our Point OF VIEW

A news story of the past week emanating from the Windy City tells how one member of its gangland was shot down in one of the busiest sections of Chicago, and police, upon investigation found on the person of the murdered man over $2065 in money, a bank book with a balance of over $25,000 and belt buckles and cuff links studded with diamonds. The victim was a bootlegger. He came to this country just seven years ago, probably penniless and without any support whatsoever.

Twenty-five thousand dollars is a nice size fortune to the average American citizen, and when we stop to ponder over the fact that about 90 per cent of our prohibition trouble is caused direct from the foreigner is it any wonder that a move should be made to keep the gates to this country closed?

Prohibition is not a matter of force but one of education. And about the best way to get results from education is for the federal government to get after these so-called men of law, or lawyers, to do away with long and tiresome trials of those caught peddling liquor and let the violator of the Eighteenth Amendment know that the United States laws are not to be tampered with.

Of course the English may be slow, but we do point with pride how they obey the laws of their country, and how if one is violated, the offender is given a quick and short trial and made to feel the force of the law. The other day three men paid the supreme penalty for a murder. The victim was attacked, beat up and thirty days afterwards he died. The three men guilty of the act were charged with murder and sentenced to death. That's what we get for the strong arm of the law, and that is what the United States is in the end of.

Southern Baptists have probably found out that "Confidence can be overdone." Many a dollar that some church member put into the collection box intended for the uplift of humanity in some foreign country probably went into speculation of a stock scheme here and there, for it has been revealed that their secretary and treasurer, a Mr. Carnes, has absconded with more than a million dollars in his trust.

The Baptists of the south might find it a little hard to build up the "spirit of giving again after such an episode of one of its officers." Confidence of church officials over the south is likely to be weakened by the wrong doing of the man Carnes, and should be ever be taken by the law he should be made to pay. But even that wouldn't return to those who gave the feeling of satisfaction.

Is THIRTY the Love? Deadline!

George Jean Nathan is well known as an editor, author and critic. He was born in Fort Worth, Texas, a dramatic critic, and he has been on the editorial staff of the New York Herald, a dramatic critic, and he has been associated with Smart Set magazine, a dramatic critic and editor since 1926, became with H. L. Mencken, associate editor of the American Mercury. He has long held editorial positions in various women and their place in the home, stage, and in the business world. He is unmarried.

By GEORGE JEAN NATHAN
The result of years in browsing in the philosophical pastures of Plato, Socrates, Hegel, Schopenhauer, Kant and Simon and Schuster is plainly evident in the case of Will Durant. The poor fellow has become infected with the philosophy cocoon, or metaphysical lead poisoning. He apparently cannot now view anything save through philosophical whiskies. He would apply the principles of Nicomachean ethics to hay fever and the transcendental dialectic to a Follies girl. He would endorse a brand of cigarettes with a quotation from the "Novum Organum." As an instance of the pot which has seduced him, we have his recent animal-versions on "Amour."

Fondling his beard, Professor Will has generated a profound veneration to the effect that no man, and by inference no woman, is capable of falling in love after the age of thirty. By love, the professor says, he means true devotion. Being a bachelor of long and reputable standing in the community, I am perhaps not the most appropriate party to enter into a debate with the professor yet it seems even to an outcast like me that he is much more highly equipped to write the story of philosophy than to produce philosophy himself.

As a philosopher, he may be said to have his weak points. In the first place, to argue that a man or a woman is incapable after thirty of succumbing to what is called love is to argue that only a man or a woman under thirty is capable of self-delusion. Alas, that love and true devotion, as the professor phrases it, are one and the same thing. Love and true devotion, unfortunately, are not always one and the same thing. A man or a woman falls in love much more often than he or she, if I may express it so, falls in true devotion. True devotion may be consequent upon love, but it is not love itself nor the propulsive power of love. Love, as Hellenogubius mediated, is the triumph of imagination over intellect. The delusion that one woman differs from another, the temporary conviction that there is nothing in the cocktail but genuine gin. It is a lovely vision of a man, a woman, a half-headed man and a slattern maiden from the enraptured heavens' eyes. It is artfully charcol-elder in a Charles Heidsieck '15 bottle. It is nonsense picking the eddies on the peak of Olympus. It is beautiful and it is plain. True devotion has no more place to it than love in a woman has in a Strauss waltz or in "Papa Loves Mamma." To say that a man can't fall in love after thirty is to say that he can't enjoy multi-farious or any other such analogous sense-stealing diversion after the same age. As a man gets older his capacity for making a fool of himself increases, and so his aptitude for love increases.

True devotion is hard to profess. Durant's phrase is hardly a gift at which to smile. Surely the professor would not have us believe that the love of boys and girls is either founded upon or inspired by any such phenomenon. This is a place to say too concrete about so delicate a matter, but even the professor, plied sufficiently with persuasive sentences, would admit that what he calls true devotion is somewhat removed from the necking and petting that the younger generation in turn calls love. That is true devotion, either implicit or potentially permanent, then I am ready to believe that Casanova's name was faint.

It is a platitude, grounded in statistics, that marriages after thirty are generally more successful than marriages contracted before thirty. While no Polygamaia, I have a feeling that devotion, if not love, must have something to do with the prosperity and endurance of the post-thirty match. Love may keep lovers together, but love alone in the accepted sense of the word, can't keep a married couple together. There must be something else and that something else, unless I am in error, is the peculiar hunger that goes by the name of devotion, respect, sympathy, understanding, or what not. Love is less prized at the altar of matrimony by the test of time and the trial of faith. A successful marriage is more of a bargain between friends than between lovers. Love is never allowed to retire. In it, though it be as deep as the deepest sea, there is always a "how-noon" for a bit of a glance at some other, man or woman. The parties are not only one country, but the love society generally has in the only one of all the world's order.

Editor Plymouth Advertiser, Plymouth, Ohio

Dear Sir:

We have the distinction of being the only party favor that hard President Abram Lincoln make speeches from the White House, at Washington D. C. during the Civil War. We even taught the colored boys to read, on the streets of Washington D. C. when off duty.

We were raised in a Republican atmosphere but cannot vote the Republican ticket, inasmuch as their "slogan" was years ago to foster the infant industries in the United States by adding a false tariff or plus profit on American manufactured goods the same tariff as Europe, in paying the United States treasury on the same commodity. This very slogan has made the United States, on the verge, of being a nation of grafters; by paying a tariff on American goods.

The Republican party as well as the democratic party favor a tariff on imported goods, from Europe on this problem the two old parties do not differ—only the necessities of life, such as clothing, sugar, coffee, tea, the democratic party do not favor a tariff. The housewives of the United States, pay over a million dollars each day, because there is a tariff on sugar, and the greater part of the sugar consumed in America (beet and cane sugar) is manufactured here. I truly believe; yes, I verily believe, that the President of the United States, should be God-fearing; and believe in the Deity of the Supreme Being and in the Deivity of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ; let him be Catholic or Protestant.

Instead of a man, who has no church affiliation whatsoever, Respectfully submitted

TWENTIETH CENTURY HOLDS FIRST MEETING

The first meeting of the Twentieth Century Circle was held at the home of Mrs. K. I. Wilson Monday evening when twenty-four members and four guests assembled to enjoy the program and social hour. A pot luck supper was served after which a very splendid program was rendered. A very interesting reading was given by Mrs. A. A. "A Trip to New York," and a paper, "Winter in Spitzbergen" by Mrs. Dick Mrs. Beck gave an entertaining reading, "Thoughts on Summer" others on the program did their parts in a splendid manner and the meeting was one that was thoroughly enjoyed.

A feature of the first meeting was a roll call when "summer recollections" were given in response, and the members found that among those present were many who had gone to the west and saw interesting parts of the country and state.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. W. W. Trimmer on September 24th.

The guests were Mrs. E. E. Weather, a charter member, Mrs. Sauer, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Himes.

Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Stock and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stock returned last week from a ten day's motor trip to Washington, D. C., which was enjoyed immensely. While there they were guests of Miss Ina Vi Stock who has recently been made secretary to the leading trial attorney in the Internal Revenue Bureau. Miss Stock has proven her ability in the business world.

Miss Mary Sheely will resume her duties as teacher in the Griffith School Monday.

Unfinished Letter Gives Faint Touch of Old South

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of letters written by F. D. Gunsaulus prior to his death in St. Petersburg, Fla. last spring. We regret that the work was not completed, but the letter below gives some idea of real conditions in the South.

Dear Mr. Editor and the other good people of Plymouth: I have not earlier fulfilled my quest promise to write something for the home paper because of sickness plaguing both Mrs. Gunsaulus and myself nearly ever since leaving home last fall. However, we are mending quite satisfactorily and are going to be read well when we reach Plymouth the first of June.

Our old reliable Advertiser is delivered Monday morning with considerable regularity, sometimes.

By the way does it ever occur to its readers that emblem of economic research and useful publicity is of real historic merit, and possibly the oldest newspaper now issued through a Richland county post office? Many good things came into that then veritable "neck of the woods" about the time it did (your humble servant for instance). That was nearly three-fourths of a century ago.

How many of its readers know who founded the Advertiser, or that President Lincoln gave much credit to one of its early editors as having done a great deal to put down slavery and preserve the union of states? How many of its present readers know his pseudonym, "Petroleum V. Nasby" or his real name, David R. Lock, later founder of the Toledo Blade, or that Mrs. Lock was a former Plymouth girl and aunt of our worthy citizen Mr. Guy Bodine?

It is no easy job to edit a village newspaper. Its office is to record the local happenings, to stimulate and promote friendly neighborliness and to supply the moral, social and business arteries with wise, generous and needed pulsations that put a kindly smile on every countenance and a goodly thought in every breast, the stimuli at all times, of the long pull, the strong pull and the pull altogether.

The successful journalist casting out all thoughts of self excepting as he is one of the many, and taking broad views from all angles masterfully dissipates radicalism and unsophistication into philosophic thought, activities of economical usefulness and common good stampeding constituency into plain fairness and justice to all. That course was pursued by the Beelmans, Mitchell and Frank, two of the cleverest of country newspaper publishers, as one of the other struck off the popular Advertiser while the understated rolled black sticky ink onto hand set type locked up on an old Franklin press just about three score years ago. What interesting reading the early files of this old paper would make.

But there were other "goings on" and other newspapers published in this great old country of ours at that time. Let us relate:

'ARMS AND THE MAN' AT OHIO

The second play of the New York Theatre Guild's subscription season in Cleveland is George Bernard Shaw's three act satire on war and the backward Balkans, "Arms and the Man," which will be presented at the Ohio Theatre during the week of September 17th, by the Theatre Guild's Acting Company.

Although the play was written long before a certain war was in progress in Europe, it has not dimmed the Shavian satire on the horror that is war. On the contrary, the play is perhaps more brilliant as a result of the World War.

It deals mainly with a group of persons connected, and very importantly, with one of those annual Balkan outbreaks that kept the world amased during the nineteenth and early part of the twentieth centuries. The principle characters in the play are the father, mother and daughter, the richest people in Bulgaria, and the proud possessors of the only library within its boundaries.

Of a Swiss mercenary, one Captain Bluntschli, the son of a Swiss innkeeper, who fought on the losing side and is forced to take refuge in Raina's room, the daughter, in order to escape from the Bulgarian soldiers who pursued him.

Raina is in love with a certain Major Sergius Saranoff of the Bulgarian army, who has won the deciding battle by leading a foolhardy cavalry charge. Captain Bluntschli disgusts her because of his preference for things to eat, mainly chocolate creams, rather than the vainglorious struttings and boasts of the Bulgarian soldiers to which she has become accustomed. However, the "chocolate soldier" finally displaces the brave Major Saranoff in Raina's heart, but only after many complications.

"And it is in these situations that the Adelphi Oracle reaches his highest peak. The satire, the brilliant Shavian Observations, all combine to make it a satirical comedy well worth seeing.

The cast is headed by Alfred Lunt, who plays the chocolate eating Captain Bluntschli, and Lynn Fontaine, who portrays the romantic Raina. Others in the cast are Hortense Allen, Ernest Cossart, Jane Wheatley and Elliot Cobby.

Mr. John Anderson, after witnessing the New York opening said, of it: "Best of the Guild revivals. A brilliant and entertaining comedy. Playgoers who know their way about will see 'Arms and the Man.' The others ought to."

RUPTURE SHIELD EXPERT HERE
E. J. Meinhardt, of Chicago, the well-known expert, will personally be at the Southern Hotel, Mansfield, Ohio, on Friday only, Sept. 21st, from 9 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. Mr. Meinhardt says:
"The Meinhardt Vacuum Shield" will not only retain the Rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case—usually giving instantaneous relief withstanding all strain regardless of the size or location of the Rupture.
CAUTION—Do not expose yourself to the danger of wearing oldstyle trusses. The Meinhardt Vacuum Shield trusses usually place the pad on the lump and not on the rupture opening. This often causes strangulation which usually necessitates an immediate surgical operation or results in sudden death.
"The Meinhardt Vacuum Shield" has no straps. It also protects perfectly sanitary and practically indestructible and can be worn while bathing.

Ruptures often cause Stomach Trouble, Backache, Constipation, Nervousness and other ailments which promptly disappear after the Rupture is properly retained.

Only gentlemen are invited to call at this time as special arrangements will be announced later for women and children.

NOTICE: Please do not write asking for literature or to be fitted by mail as this is impossible. Every case must be seen personally, therefore I visit this section every year—giving demonstration without charge, or will be pleased to fit you if desired. All cases that I have fitted here during the past five years will please call for inspection. Please note the above dates and hours carefully. A SUCCESSFUL SIX NOW WINNING EVEN GREATER SUCCESS is proving it 'Chief of the Sixes'

SPECTACULAR SUCCESS

In the tremendous success which Pontiac Six is enjoying is ample reason for designating this great General Motors car "Chief of the Sixes." Never has any new car risen so rapidly in the estimation of motor car buyers for during the first six months of 1928, over 136,000 Pontiacs were sold—the largest volume ever achieved by any car during the first half of its third year in production! This great public acceptance tells more of what Pontiac offers at $745 than even the most complete listing of such features as Fisher bodies, 186 cu. in. engine, the C-M-R cylinder head, cross-flow radiator, foot-controlled headlights, coincidental lock, etc., etc.! Come in for a ride today and learn why its sales sweep ever upward.

2 Door Sedan, $745; Coupe, $745; Sport Roadster, $745; Phaeton, $775; Cabriolet, $795; 4 Door Sedan, $825; Sport Limousine Sedan, $875. Customized All-American Six, $1000 to $1500. All prices include license, check and delivery. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.
