NEW LOCOMOTIVE SHIPPED TODAY

First of 60-Ton Type to Go in Service of Large Western Lumber Co.

After testing out and getting familiar with the giant new 60-ton Diesel Plymouth locomotive, E. J. Waincott expects to leave Plymouth today with the engine for Westwood, Calif., where it will go on duty in the big lumber camps of the Red River Lumber Co. Mr. Waincott, who has been with the Redwood firm for the past two years, arrived in Plymouth Saturday and has given thorough tests of the locomotive, and also acquainted himself with its operation. He is connected with the company in the capacity of Diesel engine mechanic.

Mr. Waincott revealed some of the huge operations of the Redwood Lumber Co., which is located in northern California in Lassen county. Westwood is the company's main site of the company, all stores, schools, theaters and other businesses are maintained by the company, and the churches are also built by the firm. Westwood is 5000 feet above sea level and no railroad runs into the town. Between 4000 and 5000 people are employed, and enough logs are cut in the summer to carry operations in the winter mill through from December to May.

It is hard to picture the extent of the operations for approximately 300 miles are leased for a 97-year period and the company has been operating on this lease for only the past 16 years. Thirteen steam locomotives of the regular type, two Diesel-electric engines, and other smaller equipment is necessary to handle the hauling problem, while 20 motor trucks are in service for transportation of men, horses, supplies and equipment. Mr. Waincott is very favorably impressed with the new Plymouth engine and he is confident that it will more than do the work that it is intended for.

RECITAL NEXT TUESDAY EVE.

Musical lovers of Plymouth will have the pleasure of hearing one of its home town girls in a song recital next Tuesday evening at the Lutheran church when Miss Eleanor Searle, identified coloratura soprano, under Miss Lane's direction, will present several selections from grand opera. Miss Searle has arranged her program with several other musical numbers which include "Robin, Robin, Sing Me a Song," "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses," "Pala Moon," "The Spirit Flower," and the "Laughing Song." She will be accompanied on the piano by Madame Lowe, and the organ by Miss Mary Elizabeth Himes, who also will render musical numbers.

Miss Searle has been in New York City where she has been an assistant in the Metropolitan Opera, and has been recognized as favorable material for a musical career. During her stay in the metropolis she won recognition of her art in many ways, and the home town folks will no doubt be pleased to hear this coloratura soprano in a recital here. A small admission of 50c will be charged to defray necessary expenses.

The recital begins promptly at 8 o'clock next Tuesday evening at the Lutheran church and your presence will give inspiration to the musical genius which Miss Searle possesses.

SHELBY-PLYMOUTH ROAD

The state gang of repair men have been patching the Shelby-Plymouth road with hot asphalt and this highway has again been blessed in these difficult conditions. Many waves in the pavement were eliminated by the repair men so that the road is even smoother than it was originally. Shelby and Plymouth people are slightly proud of this fine highway and are pleased to see the road so nicely repaired.

DECORATIVE ART ADORN CHURCH

Presbyterian Church Interior Greatly Enhanced by New Method.

That church edifice is the most beautiful in which it expresses the religious. The building itself is for the worship of Deity. It should inspire that cheerful and sympathetic feeling that is serviceable, tasteful, inviting and entertaining all with Christian accord.

That church architecture is best which has most of inspiration in it, of Christ-like character, inclusive love, of self-denial, of invisible reigning over and in the visible under type of Calvary.

Decorative art says that if the edifice is wood, the outside should certainly not be painted white; that white in full light is to the eye the most painful of colors; that it finds no friendly nature in white. Decorative painting in a representative art, either directly reproducing facts, or the laws and forces of nature presented in objects wholly akin to facts. Truth, therefore, becomes most important among its characteristics.

To understand the mechanical, vital and emotional forces at work in nature, is an imperative prerogative of excellence. The first element of excellence is correctness. The painter's power lies in the fullness of the truth reproduced under his brush.

Italian Plastic combines sculpture with painting, producing what is called in the fine arts "Plastic Beauty." After the plastic base is put on the wall, five more colors are added, in a little while the plastic impressions on the wall are permanent, just as the plastic impressions in human nature, soon become fixed.

All that is used is a small brush, different colors of paint and the artist's skill. The walls of many of the cathedrals of Europe are finished in Italian Plastic style.

The requirements of the decorative artist are rigid and exact. Mr. Howard of Norwalk, Ohio, meets all the requirements. He is a master of the Italian Plastic art. He will soon have the walls of the local, Presbyterian Church and Sunday School rooms, decorated in Italian Plastic. The wood work he is finishing in stiple. By means of small, short touch brush work he produced an even, softly-graded surface of light and shade, pleasing to the eye and very enduring.

"Funeral arrangements have not been announced. Burial is expected to be made in Seattle or Norwalk is not known.

3 ATTEMPTED ROBBERIES HERE

Looters Were Evidently Looking for Money Only As No Goods Taken.

Sometime during the early morning hours Sunday a thief or thieves entered two garages and a gas station with little reward for their efforts. When C. M. Ervin opened his place of business Sunday morning he wondered where the cash register was, as it was missing from its usual place. Upon investigation he found that someone had entered Ervin's Garage through a rear window and unlocked the door from the hinges that divide the garage from the gas station office. The register drawer was pried open, and damage done to the register. Mr. Ervin states that he seldom leaves the drawer locked but that Saturday night he thoughtlessly closed it after refueling all money, except a few pennies. He could discover nothing missing.

Ray Dinsinger of Dinsinger's Garage wondered if he left his safe door open Saturday night as he entered his office Sunday morning about 7:15. Dinsinger noticed that the contents of the safe had been "one through" and it was several minutes before he realized just what had happened. He returned to look around and found the glass of an inside door broken at the lower corner where the thief had reached inside and unlocked it, entering the office where he rambled through safe and cash register. A checkup revealed that nothing was missing from this establishment, and with the exception of papers and files in the safe nothing was molested. A few pennies which were in the register were untouched by the robbers or robber. Entrance was made through a side-window on the roof.

The Standard Oil Station was also robbed for it was here that the thieves probably filled the gas tank of their machine for Pat Clark states that he checked up and found between three and fifteen gallons of gasoline missing. A window was smashed in and the crank to the pumps, which laid on a shelf enabled the thieves to replenish the supply of fuel, with the exception of the gas tank and oil. Clark states that he saw a man especially dark in the fall and wearing a hat and many of them have already stated they would be willing to contribute toward a sum for this purpose.

Many applicants are on file to stand the examination which will be held here Saturday, Sept. 15 to fill the vacancy of the mail carrier route which was ducked by the resignation of Harry Dick.

from a hunt, when it is said that the car pulled out from the station at a rapid rate of speed going toward Shelby. The time was about 2 a. m. Sunday.

Marshall Burkett made an investigation of the robberies as did Sheriff Trimmer of Huron county, and it is generally believed that the work was done by someone familiar with the regularities of the business places in Plymouth.

As a result of the attempted robberies a goodly number of the local business men believe that it would be a good thing to put on a night watchman especially during the fall and winter months, and many of them have already stated they would be willing to contribute toward a sum for this purpose.

SCHOOLS OPEN HERE MONDAY

Everything in Readiness to Begin Fall Term; New Ruling Effectuated.

The local school buildings are in readiness for the opening of school next Monday after much redecorating, repairing and a general cleaning. The library has been rearranged and put in shape and all departments have been given careful attention by Supt. B. R. Miller, who has been very active during the summer months in making the conditions at the school as pleasant as possible.

Plymouth Public Schools will open Monday morning, September 8th, at 8:45. It is important that every pupil be present on the opening day.

TEXT BOOKS

As previously announced, the board of education will continue to furnish the books of the county. However, pupils will be required to buy their own writing manuals, arithmetic drill pads, spellers, history outline work books, and little high school laboratory manuals, and handbooks of composition. These supplies will not be given. Johnston's books, however, previously announced, but at the school. They will be sold for cash only, and must be purchased promptly or the pupil's record will suffer. Complete instructions in regard to these will be given the first day of school. Instructions concerning pencils and tablets will also be given on the opening day. These may be purchased anywhere, but each teacher will indicate her preference.

Those pupils who purchased Spellers for Summer school may continue to use the same book. If anyone wishes the children to have their own books, they may be bought at cost.

BEGINNING PUPILS

According to a ruling of the Board of Education which has been in force for several years, beginning pupils who are six years of age or will be six by November 1st, will be accepted. However, such an arbitrary ruling does not take into consideration individual differences in children. Some children are ready to start to school at an earlier age than others. This does not always mean that they are brighter than others. Some children develop physically and mentally more rapidly than others. It is good psychology and therefore good pedagogy to keep children working up to capacity. Otherwise their development may be stunted. On the other hand it is not good to push pupils beyond their physical or mental development. Such practice may create nervousness and weakened vitality.

In view of these considerations, pupils who will not be six by November 1st, but will become six before next 24th may be started in school at this time if the parents so desire. Provided the parents submit satisfactory physical and psychological tests. Supt. Miller will be at the office of the school Thursday and Friday of this week and will examine these pupils. The examinations will be individual and it will be necessary for pupils to be accompanied by parents or guardians. If it is not possible to bring pupils in the day time, call Mr. Miller on the phone at the school and make an appointment for the evening Phone 178.

Please understand that it is not necessary to have these children who will be six between November 1st and May 24th start school this fall. Many of them should not begin school for another year. If your child is in this group and you wish to consult Mr. Miller, please do so. Please bring pupils for examination as soon as possible. No pupils can be examined Saturday, for all the teachers will be attending at Mansfield. Monday morning, the teachers will be too busy organizing the school.

A FARM BOY WILL TACKLE THE FARM PROBLEM

Herbert Hoover chuckles audibly as he digs up reminiscences of an earlier Iowa in his speech at West Branch, where he was born 54 years ago. He spoke there to old friends and neighbors and he talked to them like old friends and neighbors. Mustering the delights of boyhood days, expressing his gratitude for the kindness of Quaker relatives, who helped make orphanhood bearable, and dropping into an entirely truthful vein as he imagined what Aunt Hannah, a staunch Quaker, would say if she could see the old Quaker meeting house converted into a movie theatre, he seemed to enjoy his homecoming thoroughly.

Farming has changed a great deal since young Herbert Hoover picked up his fundamentals near West Branch, but he still knows how it is done. The men and women who settled Iowa were hardy pioneers and they solved the farm problems of their day by self perseverance. It seems strange to Mr. Hoover, as to many other Americans, that some of their descendants should rely on the federal government entirely to help pull them out of the present rut.

He did not propose that the difficulties of agriculture shall be solved by government subsidies, by taxes or fees on the farmer. Rather he promised a better economic program for farming, a sounder marketing organization like that which industry has developed and in which his suggestions have played an important part. Mr. Hoover's idea is not to turn the farm problem over to Congress entirely. He intends to take off his coat and get down to brass tacks with the real leaders of the industry as he did at Cedar Rapids.

What is more, he proposes to consider the rugged characteristics of those who settled Iowa and the rest of the Middle West have been inherited by their descendants and whether under efficient and inspirational leadership, it will not be possible to lessen the difficulties of agriculture as rationally as those of any other branch of industry, without placing it under federal subsidy.

Is THIRTY the Love Deadline?

Robert Hughes was born in Missouri in 1872 and since that time has given plenty of evidence that he comes from the stars where they have to be shown. For many years he has been famous for his brilliant novels and short stories. Besides a literary career he once established a reputation almost as an attorney and once served as a member of the United States Senate. He has recently been running a very successful series of articles in newspapers throughout the country dealing with modern life and its problems. He is married.

By RUPERT HUGHES

The wife and with Will Durant is probably no sorry now for robbing men past thirty of the capacity for love that it is almost cruel to speak of it.

The greatest practitioner of his day, Doctor Oiler, became famous for what he never said, and people still blindly imitate the Oiler theory, though he has been dead for years and denied the statement that is glued to his name.

Colett Burgess wrote a quatrain stating that he would rather see than be a purple cow. It grew so popular that he dashed off another:

Yes, I wrote the Purple Cow.
I'm sorry now I wrote it;
But I can tell you anyhow,
I'll kill you if you quote it.

Doctor Durant may be equally dangerous by this time, but he has not yet denied the appalling words he signed.

"A man past thirty is incapable of love. A man above thirty may go wild over a blonde 'choring' that is not love. Love is absolute devotion—the desire to give full service to another."

It would be hard to cram more error and false implication into equal space.

Why is it impossible to love a blonde? There is a beautiful unconsciousness necessarily more lovable "for absolute devotion" and "full service," numberless records would seem to show that blonde chorines are able to extract from apertiffionaires more devotion, fuller service and self-sacrifice than any other class.

I have not space nor time to go deep into history but a few dazzling contradictions of Doctor Durant occur to me almost at once.

In the first place, the first man was past thirty when he loved the first woman. For I read in an Oxford catechism written about the year 1400 that Adam, who he was created was "a man of XXX winter of age."

It was after this time that Eve was created for his express company and she certainly was not first sight. Furthermore, as Saint Bernardino of the same period reports, women are cleaner than men, "for woman was made of a fine clear white man was made of a lump of clay."

Take a few of the most famous love stories; Antony and Cleopatra, for instance. Surely Antony loved Cleopatra; he gave up victory and all to follow her. Yet he was forty-two when he first met her, and she was about twenty-eight.

Where is there a more pitiful, passionate love story than that of Abelard and Heloise? Yet when Abelard met Heloise he was thirty-eight; she was much younger but her love continued on through life until her death when she was more than sixty, and she was buried side by side in Murray's words: "There has never been a passion more famous. It was great love."

Contrast with it the almost equally famous romance of Robert and Elizabeth Barrett Browning. He was thirty-two when he met her; she was thirty-eight. He had proposed the marriage so bitterly that two years later they eloped. His poetic references to her, "half angel and half bird," and her so-called "Sonnet from the Portuguese," written when she was forty are as glowing with love as anything in literature. If Browning did not love his wife, and if she did not love him, then somebody ever loved anybody.

Among men is the devotion of Gluck to his wife was famous. They met when he was thirty-five. Brothers never married but he could love; and his burning letters to his "immortal beloved," his "love letters," were written after he was thirty-four.

Hawthorne's marriage is among the perfect romances. He was thirty-five when he met her. One might go on and on and prove by innumerable further instances (amous and humble, that men and women can and do know true love when they are past thirty. Doctor Durant to the contrary, notwithstanding.

Help!

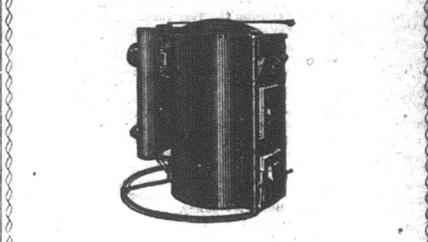

A family in Central avenue was having some cleaning done and a very high stepladder was left in one room. Mrs. X— was surprised to hear a shrill cry coming from this particular room: "For heaven's sake! Some one come here quick and get this child down before he breaks his neck!" She rushed into the room and found her small son perched on top of the ladder. "What is the matter, son?" she inquired.

"Oh, nothing," he answered. "I was just saying what grandpa would say if he found me up here"—in the middle of the ladder.

Old Coffin Uncarved

Salem, O.—A mummy-like coffin, weighing approximately 600 pounds, and six feet, six inches long, was found in an old cemetery on the Baptist Church property here during the transformation of some of the coffins to the Grandview Burial Park.

Bolts, eight inches apart sealed the box securely, leaving but a small "eye-hole" close to the top. The remains of a body, seen through the hole, failed to identify it.

Curiosity has set many citizens of Salem scanning old family chronologies, documents, birth and death records, county and city histories, and other sources of information in an effort to discover whose remains lie in the coffin, but their efforts have been in vain.

Only twelve of the 293 skeletons were re-interred with proper identity.

This strange coffin was taken to Grandview cemetery by Joseph Kirkhimer, caretaker, who was in charge of the exhumation of the coffin.

It is thought that some individual with peculiar ideas of death imported the iron box and requested that he be buried in it. This is the only explanation that can be offered.

CHAS. TAYLOR IS OLDEST RESIDENT

The oldest resident in Plymouth is the distinction that Chas. M. Taylor now holds. Mr. Taylor will celebrate his 91st birthday on February 13th. He was born in Lincolnshire, England and remained in the United Kingdom until he was 17 years old, leaving that country with his father for America. Mr. Taylor says that he remembers the trip was unusually rough and that the old sailing vessel was considerably buffeted by the waves. Upon arrival in New York City, England and son journeyed by rail to Dunkirk where they took a boat for Sandusky, later arriving at the home of relatives near Mansfield. The rail trip from New York City to Dunkirk as recalled by Mr. Taylor, was very rough. At times, he states, I wondered how the cars remained on the track.

Mr. Taylor has always been a tiller of the soil, and during his residence in this country has owned three fine farms. At present he is spending the remaining days with his daughter, Miss Mary Louise Taylor, at their home on the hill on Plymouth street. It is here that during the spring and summer days one can observe this venerable old gentleman on the porch of his home reading his papers, magazines and his Bible.

Mr. Taylor has two daughters and two sons to bring him enjoyment in his later days. Besides the daughter at home, there is Mrs. Thomas Thurst who resides just east of Greenwich, and the two sons have made their mark in the business world, W. E. Taylor of Toledo, who holds a responsible position with the Michigan Central Railroad, while the other, Melville Robert Taylor, is with the Cadillac Motor Co. of Detroit, and who lives near that City.

Mr. Taylor states that the Taylor family reunion will be held Saturday at Mansfield, and that he is the oldest living member of the reunion.

Owing to an injured eye, which resulted almost total blindness, Mr. Taylor was prevented from serving in the Civil War, but he served the cause as best he could at home. He has been a long resident of Plymouth and his stay here has won him the admiration and respect of many people. Labor Day was a busy one for him as he trimmed the lawn and cut weeds the greater portion of the day. Mr. Taylor gives no specific reason for his long life, but states that he has always enjoyed good health, and remains in that condition now except that he is a little feeble and weak.

MRS. C. S. RUBY DIED SUNDAY

Mrs. Catherine Stahl Ruby passed away at the home of Mrs. Georgia Boardman at 7:30 Sunday evening, death being due to complications and infirmities of old age. Mrs. Ruby was born near Wooster in 1850 and in 1871 she was united in marriage to I. A. Ruby. The deceased was a member of the Lutheran church, and in her active days devoted much of her time to its activities.

During Mrs. Ruby's residence here she won for herself a host of warm friends and acquaintances who regret very much to hear of her passing.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Georgia Boardman with Rev. A. M. Himes, pastor of the Lutheran church here, officiating. H. B. Postle was in charge of arrangements. Interment was made in Greenlawn cemetery.

The deceased is survived by two children, Mrs. Sarah G. Kaufman of Tulsa, Okla., and Dr. Clarence S. Ruby of Akron, and one sister, Miss Ellen Stahl of Plymouth, also five grandchildren.

Mrs. Ruby's death leaves a gap in the community of fine and respected women and her memory will be cherished for a long time by those who knew her best.

WILLIS DEWITT TO TAKE OVER BAKERY

Willis DeWitt, former Greenich bakeryman, will take over the local bakery here next week. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lehman who have so successfully conducted the business here are leaving Saturday for New London where they will operate the bakery there.

Mr. DeWitt is a brother to Wilbur DeWitt, and he has had a number of years in the baking business. He no doubt will continue along the same line the bakery has been operated under for the past year, and he will be given a cordial welcome to Plymouth by his many friends.

WAS VISITOR HERE

C. S. Ringle, former resident of Steuben, was in Plymouth last week, calling on all friends before he departed Friday for Irving, Ky. where he is interested in extensive oil operations. Mr. Ringle has been away from his community for about five years and has been active in the oil industry in New Mexico. It is said that he expects to return to this vicinity as early as possible to look over the oil situation in and near Attica. It is reported that operations are again likely to be started in this territory. Mr. Ringle has had first hand experience in the petroleum business and it is felt that his consideration of the Attica fields give them a bright outlook.

LIVESTOCK FARMERS GETTING EDGE NOW

Animal Industry in Better Fix Than Crop Producers, is Conclusion of U. S. D. A.

With the swing of the pendulum it begins to look as if the livestock grower instead of the grain farmer, were going to be at or near the top of the agricultural heap for a while. That is the conclusion drawn by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

With the purchasing power of farm products close to the highest point since 1920, the bureau reports continued financial improvement in the livestock industries, but lower markets for some of the major crops. "The cattle producers are once again in a strong position after hard times," the bureau says. "Hogs are apparently on the up-swing of a price cycle. The dairy industry is in relatively good shape, with market milk prices at about the highest level since 1920, and with cows at very high values. Even the sheep industry is doing well in spite of its expansion."

But in discussing the crop situation, the bureau reports "A very heavy movement of wheat to market, though more recently the lower prices have disposed farmers to hold their wheat if they are able. Conditions have not been very encouraging in the wheat sections during the past month. The declining market for wheat has been shared by corn and potatoes.

Moon-Patmore Wedding

A very pretty wedding occurred at noon Wednesday, when Miss Ruth Moon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Moon, became the bride of Mr. Kenneth Patmore of Cleveland. Rev. Edmund Lewis of Akron performed the double ring ceremony before an altar banked with ferns, cosmos and gladiolus.

The bride was preceded to the altar by the ring bearer, Helen Moon, and the maid of honor, Miss Velma Moon. The wedding music was played by Miss Dorothy Dows. Mr. Alfred Patmore, brother of the groom, was the best man.

Miss Moon was charming in a simple gown of orchid georgette carrying a shower bouquet of orchid roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride's sister, Miss Velma, wore a chiffon dress of delicate yellow and carried an arm bouquet of pink rosebuds. The ring bearer, little Miss Helen, was daintily attired in yellow and wore the rings in a yellow tea rose.

Only the immediate families witnessed the ceremony which was followed by a luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Patmore left for a motor trip east and will live in Cleveland on their return.

CHILDREN HOME

Sunday was a most happy day for Mrs. Mary Colyer of Plymouth Street when all her children, numbering eight, some with families, enjoyed a family dinner at her home.

Following a hearty meal, the family sat for a group picture and the afternoon spent socially.

Members present included Mr. and Mrs. Carl Barclay and Norman Colyer of Akron, Charles Colyer of Mansfield, Mr. and Mrs. Mahlin Colyer and son of Shiloh. Miss Flossie Douglas of Shelby was an afternoon caller in the same home.

Winter Season Opens at Cleveland Theatre with "The Guardsmen"

One of the most brilliant and delightful comedies will open the winter season at the Ohio Theatre, Cleveland, when the New York Theatre Guild presents its famous Acting Company in "The Guardsman," by Ferenc Molnar, on September 10th. It is the first time in the history of the guild that it has sent its actors and actresses on the road, to play in six cities, on subscription plan.

There will be a five weeks' season in Cleveland and tickets will be sold on a plan whereby those who wish to attend all five guild productions may purchase tickets at prices below the box office scale for single performances and thereby obtain the best seats on the nights they wish to attend the plays.

Besides "The Guardsman," "Arms and the Man," by George Bernard Shaw, will be presented on the week of September 17th, and later in the season "Marco Millions," by Eugene O'Neill, "Porgy," by Dorothy and Du-rose Heyward, and "R. U. R.," by Karl Capek, will be presented.

With the exception of a week in Cleveland last season and a short stay in Chicago, it will be the first time that Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, who head the cast of "The Guardsman" and "Arms and the Man," have left the New York stage in five or six years.

"The Guardsman" is a comedy in three acts dealing with the married life of a Viennese actor and his wife of six months. He believes that she is already looking for new love worlds to conquer, and for that reason disguises himself as a member of the Russian Guard.

He is immediately placed in an awkward position. If his wife loves him as the Guardsman, he is not a success as a husband and lover. If she doesn't, his pride in his acting ability is sorely wounded.

When the play was first presented in New York, Alexander Woolcott said of it:

"The Guardsman" is high comedy come true. A gay and plangent and truly satisfying evening in the theatre—blessed by a performance of such fineness and such buoyancy and such understanding, that there was much festivity in the heart of this interviewer."

Other dramatic critics hailed it as the best comedy of the season and a play that was highly satisfying in all respects.

In addition to Miss Fontanne and Mr. Lunt, other members of the first unit of the Acting Company to appear in Cleveland are Ernest Cossett, Horace Alden, Jane Wheatley, Eliot Cabot and others.

The same cast will appear in Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man" at the Ohio Theatre during the week of September 17th.

JOHN GILBERT IN A STIRRING PICTURESQUE ROLE
Plays a Soldier of the Russian Steppes in "The Cosacks"

DOES MAGNIFICENT WORK

At His Best as the Swaggering Hero of One of Year's Best and Biggest Productions Temple Theatre, Willard, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

John Gilbert is an incessant source of surprise with each of his new roles. The Yankee boy in "The Big Parade" was a far different character from his Yronsky in "Love," and "Backley" and the hero of "Twenty Miles Out" were equally far apart. And now comes something new, even for Gilbert—his role as a swashbuckling, braggadochio Cosack soldier, who, under his veneer of bravado, has the soul of a poet. It is a complicated role, and one that grips the very heart. It thrills with its sheer drama, and baffles by its truth to life.

Such is John Gilbert as Lukashka in "The Cosacks," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's vivid drama of the Russian steppes, playing at the Temple Theatre. It is a stupendous drama; huge in its great settings—a complete town was built as a locale for the play—huge in its great drama of the love of a father and son, and through it runs the central theme, the sweet love story of a boy and a girl. Incidentally, Recent Advertisers is the girl—Gilbert's sweetheart of "The Big Parade," and just as in this play, the surge and thunder of battle, the thrills and the sensations are all a frame of setting for the delicate romance that the audience follows throughout. Frances Marion made a masterpiece of the story, George Hill a triumph of the direction, and John Gilbert made a classic in acting out the principal role.

SEEKS $25,000 FOR INJURIES
Lester Pfeleider Brings Suit Against Wilmer Lutz for Loss of Fingers.

Lester Pfeleider has filed suit in common pleas court at Bucyrus against Wilmer Lutz, seeking to collect $25,000 alleged damages received on March 30, 1928, when he lost four fingers when he became caught in a buzz saw which he was operating. File charges the buzz saw should have been stationary.

The plaintiff relates that Alvin Lutz was at the time employed by Lutz as foreman of several men who were employed in sawing wood for the defendant. He charges that he was ordered, through Lutz's employ, to place blocks under the buzz saw in order to raise the sawing equipment to a higher level, and he further charges that at the time no effort was made to stop the saw which, he says, was the duty of the defendant through his foreman. While raising the equipment his fingers became caught in the saw, severing four of them at the last joint.

Pfeleider claims the injuries were solely through negligence and carelessness on the part of the defendant's employes and adds that his ability to earn a living has been greatly handicapped.

The new Buick is the new Style

More than handsome... more than luxurious... a wonderful new type of motor car beauty... a thrilling turning point in body design

It will be limited, of course! The new, the fine and the beautiful always inspire emulation. But so great is the cost of building the magnificent new Fisher bodies for the Silver Anniversary Buick that imitation will be possible only to much costlier cars, and even these will find difficulty in following where Buick leads!

But it is not in the matches grace and beauty of exterior design alone that the Silver Anniversary Buick surpasses other cars. In fact, powerful performance too, the world holds no equal for the Silver Anniversary Buick with Masterpiece Bodies by Fisher. And the motor-body, buying in such tremendous volume as to force the great Buick factories to work day and night to supply the demand, is elevating it to the prominence of a vogue!

Wheat vs. Fertilizer

All other things being equal the farmers who fertilize wheat liberally will produce the most profitable crop. Liberality in this case is not reckoned in terms of pounds of fertilizer per acre but in pounds of plant food per acre. There is a variation of more than 3c per pound in the cost of plant food contained in the various analyses, and you want to buy the analyses which furnishes the most pounds of plant food for a dollar. We find that many buyers fail to do this simply because the dealer does not offer the service to which the buyer is entitled. We are always glad to take up this phase of fertilizer buying in detail with those who are interested in getting the most for the dollars spent.

A New Declaration of Independence Needed

Our kind and esteemed friend, J. M. Taylor, of New City, sends us a copy of an article taken from the Manufacturers Record, and which well expresses one of the finest ideas we have ever read concerning genuine American political activities. The story will reveal some startling facts of the present political condition of the country and every true American citizen should read it and act accordingly. The story in full follows:

"Over 75 per cent of New York's population is of foreign stock, that is, born abroad or born of parents one or both of which were born abroad. Literally millions of them are alien in thought and in life to Americanism. And yet that is the state of affairs in the South, and through the South the country. The boast is openly made that the control of the Democratic party has been wrested from the South and is now concentrated in the city of New York and under Tammany auspices.

"If ever there was a time in the history of America when patriotic men and women were called to make a new declaration of independence, it is now. Some of our Democratic friends have freely said that they would vote for the devil if nominated by the Democratic party, and doubtless some Republicans feel the same way with respect to their party. Such men put party allegiance before patriotism; party before country. It is time for these men and women, if they are patriots at heart, lovers of humanity and their country, to cast aside this kind of political affiliation and act upon their convictions, regardless of the fact that they may have to cut loose for the time from all their hitherto cherished political views.

"Give me liberty, or give me death," said the immortal Patrick Henry. The time is here when men and women should say: "Give me liberty from mental party slavery or give me death." The Manufacturers Record pleads with the men and the women who love life a political machine, and who honestly believe, as we do, that the election of Governor Smith, with his pronounced "wet" views—whether the "wet" question be regarded from the economic or the moral standpoint, or both—would be a disaster to this country. We would appeal to all who hold this view to stand by their convictions four-square to every wind that blows, and to vote as in the light of God deep down in their hearts they pray. It will not do simply to refuse to vote. Patriotism demands that every man and woman shall vote. Failure to do so makes them recreant to their responsibility to this country and to all civilization. The man who does not vote is shirking his duty to his country.

"Much has been made of the fact that Governor Smith is a self-made man. Who in this country is not a self-made man? The talk of any one, whether he be Republican or Democrat, deserving the presidential office because of the fact that he is a self-made man may be described as the veriest foolery that ever found lodgment in an empty head." Millions of Americans are self-made men; men who have come up through dire poverty and lack of opportunity to head the great business organizations of America, to be leaders at the bar and in the pulpit, and in all the other avenues of life.

"We stand with Henry Ford in his recent announcement in this paper in hearty commendation of Prohibition as an economic, as well as a moral force, and that the law can be upheld.

"We cannot believe that the South is willing to sell its soul to the alien element of New York and to permit Tammany, with all the rottenness of its history, to dominate not only the South, but America."

Sam Reed of the New Haven-Delph road was in town Wednesday morning on business.

BITS OF LIFE WANT ADS

PLYMOUTH possesses a magnetic power, so says Henry Gremmer, a well-known celery grower, "for every Saturday night my car turns toward the direction of Plymouth when probably I intend going to other nearby towns." And so you see that Plymouth does have a drawing power. Let's keep it intact.

DETROIT is a smileless city, declares a man who is in position to know "I visit the largest cities in the country and I am a keen observer of the human masses as they surge to and from in the channel of city life, and oh my visits to Detroit it is remarkable to observe the number of souls that carry a smileless countenance." It is likely that many reasons can be given for this. On your next visit to the city of automobiles, observe this fact for yourself.

THE FAITHFULNESS of a dog is somewhat remarkable. My uncle told me once of an incident concerning his dog. He went out to a field on his ranch in Lower California to irrigate, and he left his coat on a post in one corner of the field, and when his work was finished he returned to the house, leaving his coat where he first put it. At supper time he missed his faithful dog, but thinking he would return to the house later in the evening the master retired. Upon arising the next morning he failed to see the dog around. On going to the field to get his coat, he found the dog perched contentedly nearby, where he had faithfully remained throughout the long hours of the night. This story reminds us of a dog we saw last Friday afternoon almost in the center of Public Square, perched almost as it were: "His Master's Voice." And here the faithful canine remained for sometime looking curiously at a relay machine that passed. No doubt his owner had brought him to town in a car, and thoughtlessly left him behind.

TOURISTS through our town Saturday afternoon and evening made the village appear metropolitan. Labor Day celebrators was the reason. But Saturday night in Plymouth was a gala one. It was the night of the final concert, and the band boys did their duty in making it a success. Everyone was visiting with old friends and the majority were smiling. No troupe in Plymouth isn't like these.
