SIDE LIGHTS FROM PUBLIC SQUARE

One would naturally think that John Beelman was going to open up a wholesale grocery in Plymouth from the way he had two big market baskets filled Saturday. Upon investigation we found Mr. and Mrs. Beelman had taken up their domicile in their big time new home, and John was just getting in a supply for the big house warming which was held Sunday, when all the members of the immediate family, and some that were not, gathered around a sumptuous table to eat and make merry, and to give the new house a feeling of "home" once more.

Marshall Burkett is laid up with a severely sprained ankle, the injury of which was received when he was in a tussle with a friend, Marshall Burkett, brave and fearless when it comes to facing real bad men, had to get injured when in play. Oh, well, such is life.

We haven't had any reports from our readers on the Billy Sunday meetings in Elyria. Perhaps the far-reaching salvation of this great evangelist hasn't reached this far yet, but we're confident before Sunday's six weeks are ended in Elyria hundreds from this section will have attended his meetings.

Radio enthusiasts, service men and dealers in Plymouth have been busy the past two or three weeks tracking interference which has greatly mutilated the radio programs in this town. Reports state that a wire without proper insulation near the power station was responsible for the noise, and this has been remedied. Thanks, fellows, although we have no radio set.

Seeing Frank Rogers buy a quart of milk at the local establishment residing in the way that he heard some time ago. The dust, apparently, was a farmer stated that he was working in a candy factory. When asked what a farmer could do in a candy factory, he replied that he milked the cows. Well, Frank, don't get sore, we've got to get your name in the paper sooner or later. But please don't buy any more milk in town. It creates a bad impression for you as a farmer.

Don't get the idea that this is a fun column. For it isn't. The facts stated herein are true, and are fit to read. Some day we hope to have a grand offer from some big metropolitan paper like the Plain Dealer. The Plain Dealer is a good paper. It is here in brotherly love, and it shows it by spending good money for advertising in the nearby papers. That's more than many of our home town merchants think it is. But let's not bring that up now.

You see, the success of John Love's column, "The By-Product" is due solely to the personal touch. Any man who has some of his experiences mixed in with good suggestions, etc. and who doesn't read his column?

"Truth is stranger than fiction." We believe it now. We asked W. C. McFadden, well known automobile salesman, how he went about his salesmanship talk when he tries to sell different makes of automobiles. He says: "I have one line, and it's the same." And so it must be. Any way, this is to let you know that W. C. McFadden is showing and selling the new six cylinder Chevrolet automobile, and we'll have to admit that it's a good looking job. Take a spin at it down at the Russell Garage. We're sure it'll give you a good time. It's the big man there.

B. O. Stock was a pleasant caller at this office Monday, and just about the time he got inside the door it began to snow. We can't understand the weather. Anyway, just after he left, it stopped snowing.

A short time ago a number of our sportsmen including Bill Ellis, Carl and Bert Leland and Beryl Miller went over to a Mansfield trap shoot. These four famous crackmen brought home FIVE big turkeys as a result of their manhood, and so when they were called out to view the spots we at once wondered how to get a turkey feed. So at last we got the goods on Miller and forced him to have the editor attend a sumptuous turkey dinner. And now you'll see that other boys will have their turkey dinners (Continued on Page 2)

GLEE CLUB WAS WELL RECEIVED

A house filled to its capacity greeted the Jonathan Glee Club of Central at the Church Memorial, when they appeared at the local M. E. Church Sunday evening.

Paul Shepherd, a former Plymouth boy introduced the club and gave a short sketch of the club's undertakings the past two years. Mr. Tom Taylor, the teacher, to whom all honor was bestowed for the splendid success of his class and Glee Club began with an enrollment of 12 and a possible regular attendance of from three to five. With his untiring efforts and the interest manifested by the class it is stated at times the class reaches the one hundred mark.

Catching a vision from Dr. Franks of Kentucky who vividly described the desperate need of the gospel among the mountaineers, the class decides to devote their time and efforts to raising funds for the "Bill Henderson Mission" not far from Pineville, Ky.

The Glee Club has traveled as far west as Pittsburgh and up into the Cleveland district and have been rewarded by raising sufficient funds to install at $1350 furnace and this year a lighting plant to the amount of $750.00 for the mission house.

The program was made up entirely of selected sacred numbers and presented in a very deserving manner. The club not only won the favor of its audience, but held their attention from the opening to the closing number. The spirit of enthusiasm in the voices of the young men, as well as their tone quality, made interpretation of their sacred numbers very delightful and drew warm applause from the audience. The director, Mr. Arnold Lehman, sang "Face to Face" very impressively during the offering.

Rev. McBroome after a vote of thanks to these deserving young men, pronounced the benediction.

COMMENDED BY REPORT

J. L. Judson, clerk of the schools of the Plymouth school district is commended for his work in the report of an examination held by Marj Haurst, state examiner, copies of which were on file at the officers of the county auditor and prosecuting attorney Tuesday.

The examination covered a period from Feb. 12, 1927 to Dec. 4, 1928. No findings for recovery were made by the examiner but suggestions were made as to the installation of additional equipment for the care of school records and general proceedings of the board in their handling of the work.

MILK PRODUCERS TO GO IN RETAIL

Cleveland, O.—The Ohio Farmers Cooperative Milk Association, a farmers' organization of 4,000 members with $55,000,000 invested in milk production, announced last night that it will take a place among Cleveland distributors in the immediate future, completing the producer to consumer connection in the Northeastern Ohio dairy industry.

It will be the second large farmer cooperative in Ohio to enter the retail field. Producers of Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky who supply Cincinnati, won a disastrous milk war there shortly after the war. There are several small cooperatives doing a retail business in this state also. The Ohio Farmers has been selling milk at retail in Ashland, Fostoria, Bucyrus and Palmetto, during the plants which it bought for nearly a year.

J. J. Prindle, president of the Association, announced the new move at a dinner of Association members in Hotel Winton last night. His reasons for the move were: (1) Failure of the 15 existing distributing companies to support the Association's Quality Milk Plan for Cleveland program. (2) Reduction of the producer to consumer expenses through the consolidation of 40 expensive distributing plants into three or four, and curtailing the duplication of milk routes. (3) Make more secure for the farmer what profits there may be from producing milk. (4) A coalition against distributors who are seeking, at this time when the association membership contracts must soon be renewed, to entice members out of the organization and establish independent and direct connections with them.

The announcement caused a hubbub among Cleveland's 150 milk producers. It had been hinted at last November in a published address of R. W. Strong, Secretary of the Association that reviewed in a published address of R. W. Strong, Secretary of the Association that reviewed a long struggle for recognition and cooperation between the organized farmers and the city distributors; entering the retail milk business was practically inevitable, for milk producers, he said. It is the duty of all industry to do its own retailing, he said.

Speakers at the dinner were: Harry Hartke, president of the National Milk Producers Federation and general manager of the Cincinnati Pure Milk Association, the retailing cooperative there; Charles Holman, Washington, D. C., secretary of the Federation; J. J. Prindle and R. W. Strong of the Ohio Farmers Cooperative Milk Association; Murray E. Lincoln, secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, and H. S. Ballard, attorney for the cooperatives.

TRAGIC ACCIDENT TELEPHONE CO. NEAR BELLEVUE SELLS HOLDINGS

Northern Ohio was severely shocked Tuesday afternoon when it was learned that a Lake Shore Limited (westbound) had struck a greyhound bus and snuffed out the lives of nineteen people and seriously injuring more than a score at the Monroeville crossing two miles east of Bellevue. Sixteen passengers were instantly killed and late reports Wednesday state that three of the injured had died in a Bellevue hospital.

Edward Butler of Cleveland, driver of the bus said the bus was 30 minutes late leaving Bellevue. Due to leave at 12:40 p. m. It was 1:10 before he assumed his difficult trip on the snow-covered highway with his cargo of human freight.

"Arriving at the crossing, I stopped the bus, got out and listened carefully," he said. "The snow was blinding. I cleaned the windshield and climbed into my seat and started. I heard nothing coming. Then came the awful crash."

Butler was hysterical for hours after the accident.

The bus, en route from Chicago to Philadelphia, had a capacity load of nearly 40 passengers from widely scattered cities.

The interurban was a westbound express, running from Cleveland to Toledo.

The force of the impact swept the bus from the highway and rolled it into a great ball of crumpled metal. The wreckage and the nearly two score dead and injured were crushed beneath the front trucks of the electric car.

It was an hour before the injured were removed and near evening found the last of the dead had been released from the carnage heap.

Passengers on the interurban suffered minor injuries from shock and flying glass. A few were reported scalded by burst steam pipes.

Every available doctor and nurse in the surrounding countryside was called to the scene. Passing motorists were pressed into service carrying the injured to hospitals and later the dead to morgues.

Heart-rending scenes were enacted in the hours that followed the crash. Injured passengers themselves hardly able to stand joined the rescuers in releasing the guilty passengers from beneath the wreckage.

Others crawled over the snow-covered field, looking at the faces of the dead, laid in rows, searching for relatives and friends.

All thru the night by the light of red flare, rescue crews toiled in the dark, clearing the tracks of the ghastly wreckage.

Bellevue was thronged with curious hundreds from all over the section.

GREENWICH WOMAN DEAD

Mrs. Phillips Snyder, 75, well known church worker, died at her home in Greenwich last Wednesday evening after an illness of two weeks. Cause of her death was given as senility.

Mr. and Mrs. Snyder recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary and during the course of their marriage, were separated for only four days. Funeral services were conducted from the Church of Christ at 1:30 p. m. Saturday.

Mrs. Snyder was born and always lived in Greenwich township and is survived by her husband Philip Snyder, three sons—Albert Snyder of Shelby, Wayne of Cleveland, Ohio, and Leland of Greenwich, and one daughter Mrs. Jay Snyder of Sandusky, N. Y.

BIRTH REPORT

Sixty-one children were born in Mansfield and Richland county during December, the vital statistical report at the health department shows. As in November the boys still have a very slight edge on the girls. Of the December births, 31 were boys and 30 girls, while in November 43 were boys and 40 girls.

The gift is a memorial in honor of the father of Mrs. Fisher, the late George Thiss. The value of the property is about $3,000.

The Plymouth telephone exchange was included in a huge transaction which took place last week when the Alliance Utilities Service Co. of Alliance purchased the holdings of The Northern Ohio Telephone company at a sum estimated around seven million dollars. The following story concerning the deal is taken from The Norwalk Reflector-Herald and will be of interest to the community here.

"The Northern Ohio Telephone Co. of which Frank Knapp of Bellevue is the head has sold its vast telephone system, the largest independent concern of its kind in Ohio, to the Utilities Service Co. of Alliance for about $7,000,000."

"The transfer of the property is to be made on April 1. E. W. Swezey is the chief executive of the Alliance corporation."

"Starting from a modest beginning, Mr. Knapp, by showing admirable business acumen, continued to expand his organization until at present the Northern Ohio Company has 45 exchanges and operates 30,000 telephone lines."

"The Northern Ohio embraced an important list of independent exchanges over this part of the state, the nucleus of which is the plant at Norwalk and the one at Bellevue. The Local Telephone Co. was the name till a year and a half ago, and it all came from the old Bellevue exchange which Frank Knapp and his able associates nursed and worked with thru many lean years. The Norwalk exchange became associated with it and then others both east and west, the growth being gradual, but steady. Headquarters are in Bellevue."

"The officers of the Northern Ohio are: Frank Knapp, president and general manager."

"J. O. Campbell, Gen. Supt."

"They own and operate 45 exchanges in this state."

THIEVES ENTER OIL STATION HERE

Sometime late Saturday night or early Sunday morning, thieves entered the Plymouth Oil Co. station and secured two tires and tubes which evidently they were in need of as nothing else in the station was molested. Entrance was made by smashing in one of the small window glasses. The thief, by unhooking the window, giving them easy access to the station.

Mr. J. E. Wirth, who operates the station, was somewhat surprised when he opened up for business Sunday morning, but counted himself lucky at not being a heavier loser. The station is covered by insurance.

CONSTRUCTION OF FORD VALVES

The design and construction of the valves are among the most important elements of modern automobile engineering and manufacture.

The designers of the new Model A Ford gave special attention to these factors and the result of their design and manufacturing specifications is a valve which is remarkable for its durability, close fitting and resistance to the oxidizing or scaling effects of hot gases.

The valves in the Model A Ford are made of carbon chrome nickel alloy. They are first die-cast and then ground with remarkable accuracy to the desired size. The stems have mushroom ends to give larger wearing surfaces and quieter action where they come into contact with the push-rod. The carbon chrome nickel alloy metal of which they are made is particularly resistant to wear and to the scaling effects of the hot gases which the valves must endure in their normal performance.

The Ford valve terminates in a cone over which slips a retainer, horse-shoe shaped, which holds the spring in place. As the cone head presents a large area to the tappet top, and as the valve foot is operating in oil, there is not the slightest risk of the valve-end burring over and there is no necessity for an adjustment to be fitted to the top of the tappet.

The oil bath in the valve chamber provides a cushion between the valve foot and the tappet top, silencing it effectively. On the ordinary engine, the valve end is either slotted or drilled to take the cutter for the spring cap and the removal of metal in this process considerably weakens the valve at a vital point. The new Ford valve actually is strengthened at the foot. This is considered the greatest single advance in valve design that has yet been made in the internal combustion engine. It has produced an almost invulnerable, trouble-proof, one-piece valve.

The Ford camshaft also has been specially designed to function for smooth, quiet performance of the valves. The Model A cams are so designed as to permit the push-rod to take up the clearance easily and not impart a blow to the valves, thus tending to quiet operation. The cams are wide-faced to give long life and are shaped to insure silent operations of the valves.

Mr. Miller thru his prowess as a trap shooter won a huge turkey during the holidays that was enjoying its liberty and putting on additional weight out at Bill Ellis' place.

CHANGE OF RESIDENCE

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Curtis of Shiloh moved Wednesday to Plymouth and will reside in the Anderson apartment on Park Ave.

Safety, silence and simplicity are features of the new Ford six-brake system

ONE of the first things you will notice when you drive the new Ford is the quick, effective, silent action of its six-brake system.

This system gives you the highest degree of safety and reliability because the four-wheel service brakes and the separate emergency or parking brakes are all of the mechanical, internal expanding type, with braking surfaces fully encased for protection against mud, water, sand, etc.

The many advantages of this type of braking system have long been recognized. They are brought to you in the new Ford through a series of mechanical improvements embodying much that is new in design and manufacture. A particularly unique feature is the simple way by which a special drum has been constructed to permit the use of two sets of internal brakes on the rear wheels.

A further improvement in braking performance is effected by the self-centering feature of the four-wheel brakes—an exclusive Ford development. Through this construction, the entire surface of the shoe is brought to steady, uniform contact with the drum the instant you press your foot on the brake pedal. This prevents screeching and howling and makes the Ford brakes unusually silent in operation.

Another feature of the Ford brakes is the ease of adjustment.

The four-wheel brakes are adjusted by turning a screw conveniently located on the outside of each brake plate. This screw is so notched that all four brakes can be set alike simply by listening to the "clicks."

The emergency or parking brakes on the new Ford require little attention. However, should they need adjustment at any time, consult your Ford dealer for prompt, courteous, and economical service. He works under close factory supervision and he has been specially trained and equipped to help you get the greatest possible use from your car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

OUR SCHOOLS

By Supt. R. R. Miller

The semester examinations are under way. The school year is half over, and soon report cards will be issued again. Some of the pupils and parents will be jubilant over success—some will be disappointed. Failure to reach the required standard will mean some of the pupils on to renewed effort—as it should. Others will sulk—"It isn't fair for teacher to grade so low." But isn't it? Is it fair for teacher to grade high and deceive a pupil into thinking he is mastering his work when he is really failing to make it? As a matter of fact, more poor teaching is covered up by high grading than any other way. If a teacher continually gives a large part of her classes high grades, don't jump to the conclusion that it is because she is such a brilliant teacher that all her pupils are making such excellent progress that all deserve high grades. Quite likely, just the opposite is true. As a general rule, the most thorough and exacting teachers are not high graders.

As our courses of study are being worked out more carefully, and as standardized tests are coming more and more into use, it is becoming more easily possible to measure the progress of pupils under a given teacher. It is also becoming more nearly possible to find out what other things besides poor teaching are responsible for slow progress of pupils. Often it is ill health, too often it is lack of sleep in bed at night, too often it is lack of the right kind of helpful attitude on the part of parents at home.

So Mr. Johnny comes home with failing marks on his report card, please don't say, "Well, teacher failed Johnny again." We don't have that kind of teachers in our schools. Teacher didn't fail Johnny. Teacher tried to promote Johnny, but Johnny failed. But teacher is willing to help Johnny to try again. Parents, will you help Johnny and teacher (1) by placing the blame where it belongs; (2) by encouraging the one who has failed to rise above his defeat and get the habit of success; (3) by standing with the teacher in her efforts and (4) by letting the pupil know you are with the teacher and our schools.

PROHIBITION'S BIRTHDAY

On January 15th, 1919 the eighteenth amendment, which prohibits the sale or use of any intoxicating liquors, was ratified. One year later, January 16th, 1920 the amendment went into effect. This amendment has shown its effect in several ways and particularly in the school. Ten or twelve years ago it would not have been unusual for the boys to drink on their way to a basketball game and be unable to do their best at the game. Today this is a very rare occurrence. Last Friday our school gave a program commemorating the birthday of prohibition. Not only our school but schools every where in the United States gave similar programs.

It is commendable that this remembrance be fostered by the schools. Perhaps no others were so greatly influenced by Mr. Volstead. By refreshing the memories of these children the influence is renewed to the parents.

Not until we think what the eighteenth amendment has done for our community and our school do we realize what it means to us. So may this be a day which will never be forgotten.

BASKET BALL

Our boys went to Weller, Friday night, to redeem the defeat sustained by Weller in the first game a few weeks ago. Plymouth boys started out by scoring the first basket. Weller then got in the lead and held this place until the game went off at the half. The score was P. H. S. 8 and W. 25. In the second half Weller boys continued to run up their score. Then suddenly something aroused our boys and they started to score. But before we had time enough to catch up with Weller, the gun cracked and the game ended. The final score was P. H. S. 39 and W. H. S. 35.

P. H. S. SIXTEEN LOST TO WELLER

Were you down to the game at Weller? Well, folks, you certainly missed seeing a great game. At half-time the score stood 15-10 in favor of Weller, but that seemed to inspire P. H. S. girls for at the end of their quarter the score was 21-31. The last quarter was violently contested by both teams and game ended Weller 27—Plymouth 35. L. B. '29

MANSFIELD RESERVES

Saturday mite, January 19th, Plymouth Hi's Knights of the Wooden Court journeyed to Mansfield and took a game from the Mansfield Reserves in an overtime period. The first quarter ended with Mansfield leading 10-6. Then the boys woke up and showed Mansfield how a real team plays basketball. In the second quarter they held Mansfield scoreless and scored two goals themselves. The half ended at 10 all. Neither team scored in the third quarter. At the end of the last quarter the score stood 15 all necessitating the playing of a two minute overtime period. In this two minutes Mansfield gave us a gift. The gift being the game. With about forty-five seconds to play one of the Mansfield boys did a very foolish thing. He fouled Barber. Barber sank both foul shots and won the game. The final score was 14-12. KEEPIING RECORD IS A SPUR TO SUCCESS

Hillsboro Woman Improved Flock After She Began to Keep Books.

Something about keeping a record of any activity seems to stimulate the desire and the ability to make a success of that activity. Such is the dedication in the accomplishments of many poultry demonstration farm owners in Ohio who started out to keep records of the performance of their flocks and of the costs and management of the poultry.

Mrs. Charles M. Lewis of Hillsboro, in 1922 owned an ordinary flock of single-comb Rhode Island Red chickens in that year she started keeping records of the poultry enterprise, and averaged an average of 110 eggs per hen per her flock.

Last year the egg production was 120 eggs, and in succeeding years it was 120 eggs, 157 eggs, 187 eggs, 192 eggs and 190 eggs. She credits the increase to her attention to the keeping of the flock records, and the better management practices which she was induced to follow in order to make those records look better.

Her first improvement was in the feeding of the chickens. Then she began to cull out the non-producers. Finally she began to select and use the best type of pedigreed males. Throughout her experience she paid attention to the methods which enabled her to grow healthy chicks which developed into healthy pullets and materially increased the egg production record of the flock.

COOKERS, DISHWASHERS ADDED TO OUTFITS

Were Most Popular Utensils on Shopping Lists After Efficiency Campaign.

More pressure cookers and dishwashers were added to the kitchen equipment of farm homes in five Ohio counties last year than any other kitchen utensils, according to the annual report of Miss Geneva Bane and Miss Zula M. Dowler, home management specialists in the Agricultural extension service of

The Parson's Column

Our consideration today will be of that problem of modern life, which involves us all, namely, the home. "Be it ever so humble there's no place like home," wrote the poet in years gone by; and down through the years as that sentiment has been quoted or sung it has always found a responsive echo in the hearts of those who heard. In these days however there are those of cynical mind, who ridicule the sentiment and point out the fact that to make folks of our day home is but a place to eat and sleep, when it is most convenient to do so and a hang out, when there is no place else to go.

It is a fact that the most of us are hurried along on the currents of life at such a rapid pace that we but pass through the portals of our homes only to snatch a bite to eat, or tumble into bed exhausted from the hurry of another busy day. But even at that there is a restfulness and ease in the atmosphere of home that is not found elsewhere.

I have a friend who is a traveling man, his grandfather would have thought his home life a mere farce, because his wife is always busied with one or another church or civic activity and they don't have much opportunity to spend evenings in their home. But he often is heard to exclaim, "My but I am glad to get home, I could live happily the rest of my life if I never saw the inside of another hotel room."

And in fact he has a real home, because there is a community of interest there. Husband and wife are each interested in the incidents and ventures that make up the life of the other and as they eat their meals or have an occasional hour of leisure together they enjoy an exchange of ideas and experiences. They have reared a family of fine children who have gone out into the world to take prominent places in the Christian and Civic leadership of their respective communities and after all the children the home produces is the best test of the home's efficiency. In these days of easy divorce the importance of this fruitage of the home is often lost sight of. But this father and mother, although constantly busy with outside interest they always had time to create an atmosphere of reverence and install in the minds of their children a sense of righteousness and justice. Neither was he too busy to take time to explain why certain things were desirable and others undesirable.

It is true that one can spend as much time within the four walls of home as our forefathers did. It is true that we cannot see as much our children as we would like to. But is it true that if we properly evaluate the benefits of fine children who can create a home atmosphere and influence that will prepare the next generation to meet life well equipped and that is the business of a home.

SHILOH'S "LOVELY LADY" PROVES MEEK YOUTH WHEN HE RECEIVES COURT RULING

Edward Wolff, who 30 days ago stirred the quiet little village of Shiloh to its very depths as "the mysterious widow," was but a meek-faced pleading boy Thursday afternoon in common pleas court as he changed his plea of not guilty to one of guilty to a charge of larceny.

It was "Eddie" who took his grandmother's best Sunday-go-to-meetin' gown and attractively garbed in it played on the fancies of an aged farmer.

At the old man's home the "widow," according to later confessions and

Judge W. Galbreath said, "In view of the fact you have been in jail that length of time I feel we may dispense without a further jail sentence, if in lieu of the opinion your grandmother needs the money more than the state of Ohio does so we will eliminate a fine."

"Now, I will sentence you to 30 days in the county jail and will suspend it on condition that you return to your grandmother, go to work and refrain from further female impersonations. It is now late and you will remain in the custody of the sheriff until Friday morning when you will be at liberty to go home."

Sheriff Schach told the court that Wolff had been a model prisoner during his confinement.

Huston and Huston are best attorneys. A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Mellick at the General Hospital in Mansfield Thursday morning and weighed seven and one-half pounds. She has been named Alice May. Mrs. Mellick was formerly Miss Vera Dick of this place.

There was also a check involved in the matter, but in view of the fact, it was not endorsed by the farmer nor did Wolff attempt to forge his name and consequently it was without value. Prosecutor G. E. Kalbfleisch accepted a plea of guilty to a charge of petty larceny instead of demanding the hearing on the charge of grand larceny which the grand jury returned in its indictment.

The plaintiff says that on Nov. 15, 1927 the defendant compelled her to leave their home on Brickman avenue in Mansfield and move to the home of her mother in Shiloh and since that time has failed to provide her with the proper food, clothing or home.

Attorney Paul F. Sprague appearing as counsel for the defendant, termed the case a mere prank and called the court's attention to the fact the escapade occurred 30 days ago or during the Halloween season.

She says in addition to the property the defendant owns an automobile and earns $5 a week. She asks that she be granted temporary alimony and fees for the prosecution of the case and when it is finally heard that she be granted reasonable alimony and a permanent amount for her support.

THE THIRD AND FOURTH GRADE NEWS

During the past few days several have been absent with the measles. As a method of encouraging cleanliness and tidiness on the part of the pupils, a health officer and room inspectors are elected each week. Those serving this week are Mary Emerald and Louise VanWagner. Some of the rules for good health that are being stressed are to bring a clean handkerchief each day and to clean the teeth and nails every day. Other officers in this room this week are Iona Baxter and Fred Waldhouse.

Last Friday Miss Ryan the County visiting teacher, told the third and fourth grade interesting stories. In the afternoon Miss Reynolds treated the room with candy.

Those who received 100 in Arithmetic examinations were: Mildred Fred, Woodworth and Antonette Claferrato.

The room has received new library books which the children are enjoying.

FIFTH AND SIXTH GRADES

Gertrude Smith is the champion speller of the room, having missed only one word so far this year. John and Elmo Lindeman who recently came over from Holland are progressing splendidly with their work and are able now to both read and write the English language.

Those receiving high scores in examinations are Cleo Wyandt 100 and Geraldine Long 99 in Arithmetic; Robert Cole and Margarite Weichel 100 in Spelling and Della Emerson 100 in English.

The next Literary program will be given by the Willing Workers on Washington's Birthday.

Margarite Weichel is librarian and Cleo Wyandt, room inspector for the next six weeks.

Visitors are always welcome.

MANNISH DRESS FOR DAY

Mary Nolan Says That Sports Clothes Are America's National Costume

In order to appear smartly gowned make your evening frocks and sports outfits as different one from the other as possible.

This is the advice of Mary Nolan who plays an important role in Lon Chaney's starring vehicle, "West of Zanzibar" coming to the Temple Theater, Willard Monday and Tuesday.

"My most admired sports costume is very mannish. It consists of a soft gray kasha cloth short tailored coat boasting patch pockets. The skirt is plain, short and also has a patch pocket on the hip. With gray felt hat and Deauville sandals to match I wear a bright red scarf to give the dash of color needed to complete the outfit."

"West of Zanzibar" was directed by Tod Browning who also wrote the original story. Elliott Clawson adapted the story for the screen. The cast, beside Lon Chaney and Mary Nolan, consists of Warner Baxter, Lionel Barrymore, Kasia Pascha, Jane Daly, Roscoe Ward and others.

Says Sam International peace pacts are all right in their way, but what is really needed is some such a pact on a scale suitable for a six-room house.

First and Second Grade

The first grade under the direction of their instructor Miss Dowd is making a study of Eskimo life. The second grade children have each made a poster to illustrate their work, a clever Eskimo scene has also been made in their handiwork.

The children of the second grade are very enthusiastic in their number class over a race. Each child has a picture of an automobile which he "drives" while learning combinations. At present the Lincoln driven by Gaylord McCullough is ahead, but the new Ford isn't far behind. Each child also endeavors to get a star by giving all answers correctly.

The first grade children are enjoying some new modeling clay, a new reading book, and some pretty picture books. A large poster was made, entirely of hand cutting, by Donald Chapman to illustrate the story of Three Bears.

The Primary grades will give the playlet "Pippin-Flap" at the Farmers' Institute Friday morning.

These on the Honor Roll for the last six weeks are: Virginia Felkes, Jane Thumma and Anna Dean Kennard in the first grade, and Wanda Angelo, Cincinnati, Rochester, N. Y., Jersey City, and to some extent New York City, being served by milk producers' retail systems, the move for national milk producers' cooperation was well under way. It is considered the counterpart move to merger of dairy companies like that of Telling Bell's Vermont Co. here into the National Dairy Products, Inc. and Borden's Milk Co., both of which aim to set up chains of milk companies from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

Competition between the nation wide organization may prove highly interesting. Competition on the Cleveland market has already become tense.
