

FEW CONTEST FOR LOCAL OFFICES

In the general election which will be held November 5th, the voters of Plymouth township, Richland County, will have but one contest to decide for local officials. This is for the office of Township Clerk. For this office Cleo C. Griffith and Elmer K. Trauger have both filed as candidates.

In the village of Plymouth itself there are but two contests. One is for mayors for which J. B. Durr and Dr. George J. Searle, Jr. have filed. The other contest in the village is for the office of marshal. The nominations for this office are David J. Burkett and W. H. Poth. In the village of K. Trauger, an opponent for clerk and Albert Hoffmann is unopposed for treasurer. For the village council there are six candidates and six to be elected. They are: Maurice Bachrach, E. L. West, Thurman R. Ford, Clay C. Gilbert, Joe Laak and Charles W. Brown. The board of trustees of public works there are three candidates and three to be elected. The candidates are: J. S. Fleming, C. M. Loftland and James Brown.

In Plymouth township the candidates for trustees are: H. A. Griffith, L. S. Steele and W. S. Tuttle. There are three to be elected. George W. Adams has filed for the position of township constable. He is unopposed.

For the Plymouth township board of education the candidates are J. E. Nimmons, G. W. Pickens and Willard Ross. Three are to be elected.

FORT FORMERLY STOOD IN HURON

A short distance west of Stenton on the Huron farm of Mrs. George M. Pearson, is the site of old Fort William Henry Harrison, a stronghold that was erected during the War of 1812 to prevent interference with the building of Commodore Perry's fleet on Lake Erie.

At the present time there is nothing left of the fort. A small tract of timber in almost a perfect square marks the site. While many of the people have noticed this timber tract, probably few knew just why it was just the shape it is. The fort was built of rough hewn logs from the forest that covered the entire county side at that time. The site of the fort, it is thought, was considered government land for some time and eventually it became covered with second growth timber. The timber marks the site of the fort.

It is thought likely that a movement will be started by the Daughters of the American Revolution to have a marker erected at the site of this old, almost forgotten, fort.

REDUCE COUNTY BONDED DEBT

The bonded indebtedness of Huron county now stands at $269,497.11. October 1st it was reduced to the extent of $88,705.02, by County Commissioner N. W. Lee, R. R. Robertson and Tom Bond.

The remaining bonded indebtedness includes the $50,000 bonds issued for the improvement of section line road No. 8. Thirteen miles of this highway is being improved.

Bonds issued for the township which will be paid back in taxes to the county, amount to $132,374.81 and the special assessment bonds amount to $44,064.01. Under the law of limitations, it is pointed out by the commissioners, the county could issue bonds in the sum of about two percent of the tax levied. This would amount to about $14,000. However, the present board of commissioners has decided to issue no more bonds.

The situation from the view point of bonded debt is made favorable because the county last fall voted a mill and a half road levy for five years. This will save the county from having to pay no interest charges to meet.

SHERIFF FINDS NO SLOT MACHINES

Sheriff R. A. Schad, of Richland County, in keeping with his promise of eliminating all slot machines in the road houses, inns and gasoline filling stations along the highways of the county, made an investigation the latter part of last week at all places where he thought it possible some of these gambling devices might be found.

However, according to a report coming from the sheriff's office, not a single slot machine was found after a thorough search was made by deputies from the sheriff's office.

Sheriff Schad stated that he was well pleased with the manner in which the proprietors of these business places had complied with the law. The sheriff stated that he had a number of complaints that minors had been permitted to play the devices. It is further stated by Sheriff Schad that the matter will not be dropped but any machine found in the future in a public place along the highways will be confiscated.

A Page From the Past

Perhaps few people living in the community know that at one time the road leading out west from Plymouth was known as the "Road to Hell."

The fact was the road was named according to a feature story appearing in a recent issue of the Mansfield News.

According to that story, a good many years ago, even before our home town was called Plymouth, but went by the name of Paris, the county commissioners decided that a road should be surveyed out to the west into the heart of that impenetrable region of swamp, huckleberry bushes and scrub trees, in short one of the most pronounced wildernesses remaining in the state. It was the region of "Hell" in the eyes of the men.

That was before the time that the fertility of this soil was known; before the time that people realized that this could be made into a veritable garden spot. At any rate the surveyor set about his work with some reluctance and very little enthusiasm. All was very well for the first two miles or so, but from then on things did not progress so good. The surveyor found himself in the heart of the wilderness. However, one is led to believe that the surveyor was not deterred and continued with his task for another mile and a half. He then gave it up, drove his final stake and turned back. He turned in his report which ended with the following words: "I drove the last stake in the heart of Hell. In fact, it was entered on the county records, and, it is said, that how the mussy tooth would divulge it were one to unearth it."

Since that day, however, the road was pushed farther on and instead of a vast impenetrable wilderness it finds some of the richest garden land in Ohio. Clearing away the underbrush and most of all unceasing hard work has made this the land that it is today. However, much of the region remains uncultivated, but eventually, it can be expected, that all of it will present the same appearance that it does around the village of Celeryville.

The story in the Mansfield News again brings out the old theory that this region was at one time a lake. This idea has been widespread in the past but in so far as it is known it has never been definitely established as an actual fact. It is at one time it was a body of water it was far back in the dim pre-historic past and for that reason the fact will probably never be established.

It is questionably though, more interesting truths, and legends that are interesting if true, have grown up around the New Haven marsh than any other spot in the state.

Willard May Supply Celeryville With Water

The village of Celeryville, at the north edge of the New Haven marsh, has asked the city of Willard to furnish them with water service.

The request was made at a recent meeting of the board of public affairs of Willard.

At this meeting nothing definite was decided but it will again be taken up at a future meeting. If Willard is favorable to the request it will, of course, be necessary to extend the water mains to Celeryville. The water would be used in the homes of that little village and also for the celery gardens during dry weather.

The city of Willard is already furnishing electric current at Celeryville.

HERE'S PLEA FOR OUR SCHOOLS

According to a legal notice appearing in this issue of the Plymouth Advertiser, the voters of Plymouth will be asked at the November election to approve a 3-mill levy for the support of the Plymouth Schools. Five years ago, an extra levy was voted. This levy runs out this year, and can be renewed only by a vote of the citizens. This levy is for current expenses and has nothing to do with the construction of the new high school building. That was provided for in the bond issue approved last year. As the building has progressed, payments have been made to the contractors, and there is enough money left to pay for the rest of the building when it is completed and approved.

The extra levy which the voters are asked to approve this fall is necessary because the laws of the state of Ohio provide that no tax outside the fifteen mill limitation may be levied without the consent of the voters. Few communities are wealthy enough to maintain a decent school without voting an extra levy outside the fifteen mill limitation. In our own county, this 3-mill levy has been in force in Mansfield, Shelby, Butler and Lexington. Nearly every other school in the county has some extra school levy outside the fifteen mill limitation. Last year, Shelby voted 2 1/2 mill extra levy. The voting of this 3-mill levy does not necessarily mean that the taxes will be increased. It merely means that as much of these three mills will be used as is necessary to meet the budget for school purposes.

As stated before, Plymouth has had an extra levy for school purposes which expires this fall. So if this levy is not approved, instead of having more money for operating the schools, we will have less. This would be especially bad at this time, for we will have some additional expense after the high school is moved to the new building. There will be need of an extra levy to help pay for the building, the portables will be abandoned, which will make some saving, but it is clear that it will take more fuel when the pupils are housed in rooms in which they have ample room, than it now takes when two pupils occupy a high proper for but one. If the three mill levy is rejected this fall, it will be necessary to make retrenchments which will greatly harm the effectiveness of our schools. If the 3-mill levy is approved, there will be funds enough to keep our schools up to a high standard. The difference in the cost to the average taxpayer will be small, but the difference in income for the schools will be the margin which will make the difference between poor schools and good schools.

According to the wording of the ballot, and on election day, make your cross opposite the words, "For the tax levy."

P. T. A. WILL MEET NEXT THURSDAY

The local Parent-Teachers Association will hold their regular monthly meeting at the school building next Thursday evening, October 17th.

The main feature of this meeting will be a Question Box. This is being done in order that questions that naturally arise in the minds of both teachers and parents alike may be asked and talked over at this meeting. In this way it is hoped that the view point of both may be seen and that it may mean an opportunity for the members of the association to do all take part in this question box. Supt. R. E. Miller, of the local school, has stated that he is willing to answer all questions that he can.

The program committee of the P. T. A. held a meeting on Thursday night of a complete program for this coming meeting has been outlined. The members of the committee are: Mrs. Stacy Brown, chairman, Miss Lucille Fleming, Mrs. E. B. Curpen, Mrs. Charles G. Miller and Mrs. Harry L. Dick. Mrs. Harold Jeffrey, presiding officer. The P. T. A. was present at the meeting.

In addition to the program for this meeting the committee has also outlined the programs for the November and January meetings. There will be no December meeting due to the winter vacation.

The meeting next Thursday night

WORK WELL UNDER WAY ON SCHOOL

Each day finds the new high school building at the north end of town a little nearer completion. Work is being speeded up in order that the building may be occupied at an early date as possible.

Supt. R. E. Miller, of the local schools, stated on Monday that it was not expected that the building would be occupied until after the Christmas season, unless perhaps it would be possible to occupy the auditorium and basket ball practice some time during December.

It can be expected that during the Christmas holidays a considerable amount of equipment that is now in the old building on Broadway will be moved to the new structure. This is providing that the latter has been completed. If such is the case school will be held in the new building during the second semester, and next spring the first class will graduate from this new building.

The first part of this week a visit to the building at the north end of town disclosed that the walls were completed, and that the roof was being poured. Steel window sashes were being installed, and when this latter work is finished it can be expected that the glass will be fitted into the frames. This with the completion of the roof will completely enclose the building in time for the inclement weather that is certain to come at this time of year.

When the building is finally completed Plymouth will be equipped with school facilities that are second to no other town or city anywhere. This building added to the present building allows for considerable expansion in the future. It means that Plymouth is keeping pace educationally with her sister communities. The final dedication, which will probably be some time this winter, will mean a dream come true.

Strange Figure Case In Crawford County

One of the most unusual law suits ever heard about has been entered in the Common Pleas court of Crawford county at Bucyrus.

Frank Wank of New Washington filed suit against C. E. Fry, auditor of Crawford county, and Ivan B. Smith, treasurer of the same county, to prevent execution of an assessment made against him as an alleged trafficker in liquor.

According to Wank's petition, on August 12, 1928, the auditor and treasurer of Crawford county, directed Auditor Fry to enter the name of Wank on the liquor tax duplicate of Crawford county and to assess him and against his real estate the sum of $1,000, together with a penalty of 20 percent, making the total amount of $1,200 from the 27th day of September, 1928, as having engaged in the trafficking of liquor of various kinds of wines, and fully availing the payment of tax imposed upon the business of trafficking in intoxicating liquors.

Auditor Fry then threatened Treasurer Smith, the petition continues, to charge this sum against Wank, and now the treasurer has charged it against his Wank's home in New Washington. Wank asks that the court declare the assessment void and to order it cancelled and asks that the treasurer be enjoined from selling his New Washington home to satisfy the state claim. He states that he has not been engaged in the business of trafficking of spirituous wines, malt or other intoxicating liquors, and that he has never intended to engage in that business and that there is no legal right to enter any such tax or assessment against him.

It is a matter of record in Crawford county that this same Wank was arrested before Woman Pleas Judge J. Walter Wright at Bucyrus on December 8th, 1927, and was fined $200.00 for possession of liquor. At that time more than 1800 gallons of wine was found at his home. This was destroyed by the sheriff and his force of men. Whether or not Wank engaged in the business after that is a matter of conjecture.

The strange part of the suit is the fact that a person is being taxed for something that according to law it is absolutely unlawful to sell. Undoubtedly the trial will be watched with much interest, not only for the legal side of the question but the finding out if Wank has sold liquor lately, which he claims he has retained from doing.

FIRE DESTROYS LARGE BARN

A fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the large barn barn belonging to Mrs. John A. Root, located on the east side of Sandusky street at the north edge of town, early Monday afternoon, involving a loss of several thousand dollars.

The fire was first discovered by man, working nearby at about one o'clock. The fire alarm was immediately turned in and the Plymouth fire department responded and were at the scene within a few minutes. However, the blaze had not been discovered upon enough to save the barn. These reports the fire started and the entire interior of the building was in flames, and all effort went to prevent the spreading of the flames.

The fire raged for about an hour. By that time all that remained was some of the charred-frame work which would have been consumed by the blaze but for the fact that it was possible to bring the fire under control once the roof and siding had been burned away. While it was realized that what remained of the barn was worthless yet in order to prevent any more damage, the fire was extinguished by the firemen.

The barn was filled with hay, and some unthreshed oats and wheat was in the mows. There was also some machinery in the barn, and also the leanto at the south end of the barn. A little of the machinery in this leanto was saved, but the flames had gained too much headway to save anything of any particular value. There was no live stock in the barn.

As stated the loss involves several thousand dollars. The barn still contains some of the machinery of value. While the frame work of the barn was old yet it was of the very best of timber, being entirely of hard wood and had been new siding had been placed on the barn but a few years ago and also a new roof. These reports the fire started one of the best barns in this section.

While the cause of the fire will probably never be known for certain, yet probably the best theory is that it was caused by spontaneous combustion, since the barn was filled with hay and straw. The wires had been wired for electricity and this lead some to entertain the idea that a short circuit or defective wiring might have caused the blaze. Mr. Root, however, stated Tuesday morning, that he did not believe this was at all possible. The wires had, of course, been carefully done and it was in the best of condition.

Another theory is that there may have been people in the barn and accidentally set it afire.

The fire seemed to have started in the cable near the roof at the north end, as that is where the first flames seemed to make its appearance. The blaze, however, quickly spread throughout the entire building and it was but a few minutes until everything in the interior was a mass of flames. That the barn was exceptionally well constructed is shown by the fact that it seemed a considerable time before any openings were made in the siding.

A brisk northwest wind blew the flames south towards the home of Miss May Fleming a few rods away. Vegetation between the burning barn and the Fleming house was soon affected. This was the first fire of the fire department. The flames also spread to the woods to the southeast but this also was soon extinguished by men with brush and other hastily procured fire fighting weapons.

Once when the blaze broke through the siding of the barn the heat was intense, and it was almost impossible to stand within two hundred feet of the blaze. Credit is due the Plymouth firemen, however, for setting close enough to work. A large door that had been torn from the lean to of the barn was used as a shield. The men stood behind this protected to some extent from the heat and poured water on the burning mass.

It was noticed when the fire engine was first brought into play a very weak stream of water was thrown. This was soon corrected and a hard, heavy stream was played on the blaze. However, since minutes mean everything at a fire it should be

HASSINGER NEW HOTEL OWNER

C. B. Hassinger of Ashland is now the owner of the Plymouth Hotel on Sandusky Avenue just north of the public square at this place.

Mr. Hassinger came into possession of the property on the 10th of September. Since that time he has been busy getting it into shape for a first class hotel. He stated on Tuesday that he is now ready to accommodate the public in the hotel and restaurant line.

The new owner has installed a barber shop in the front end for the convenience of his patrons. He has also installed some new furnishings, particularly bedroom furniture.

An item of interest in the connection with the reopening of this hotel is the fact that Mrs. Manie Canfield will have charge of the cooking. It will be recalled that Mrs. Canfield was the cook at this same place while it was owned by Mr. Smith for seven years.

It is apparent that Mr. Hassinger means to have an up-to-date hotel for Plymouth and for that reason it is worthy of patronage. The new owner made the purchase from E. T. Cassel who had purchased it from Mr. Smith, who had owned the business place for a number of years.

TO DEMONSTRATE ALADDIN LAMPS

Brown & Miller Hardware are making announcement elsewhere in this paper which is of particular interest to every home owner who is without electricity for lighting. They have just secured the local franchise for the famous new instant-light Aladdin kerosene mantle lamp, which gives a beautiful modern white light equal to ten ordinary oil lamps. It is over four times as economical as the best open-flame lamp, the reason being that it burns only 6 per cent kerosene to 84 per cent air. It will save its cost in a few months' time.

These new Aladdins may be secured in either bronze or nickel finish and are available in either table, hanging, bracket or floor lamp styles. The Aladdin Floor Lamp is something new and distinctly different—never before available in an oil lamp. All Aladdins may be equipped with either plain glass shades or decorated glass or parchment shades, except the floor lamp which comes with parchment shades only. All decorated shades are beautifully designed and are in five colors. Every home not equipped with electricity should have at least one Aladdin. It would be advisable to visit this store at an early date as possible while the line is complete so that you may secure a wider choice. Read the important announcement elsewhere in the paper for further details.

Mack, in his petition, claims he was permanently injured. He has brought the suit against both the Greyhound bus line and the L. S. E. At the time of the disaster thirty-four persons were riding in the bus and nineteen were killed, when the heavy interurban car rushed out of the fog and hurled itself squarely against the side of the bus. In this case there will be a formidable line up of attorneys on all three sides. Two Cleveland law firms represent the plaintiff; and G. Ray Craig of Norwalk represents the L. S. E. Co., while Young and Young of Norwalk will represent the Greyhound system. The suit is attracting wide interest for the reason that it is thought to blame for the disaster may be established at this trial.

ENTERS SUIT FOR LARGE SUM

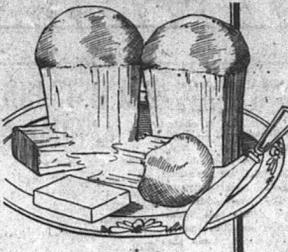

Russell Mack of Norwalk has brought suit for $50,000 for personal injuries he claimed he suffered while a passenger in the Greyhound bus which was hit by a Lake Shore Electric interurban car and which resulted in the death of nineteen persons at a crossing two miles east of Bellevue last January. The suit is brought in the Common Pleas court of Huron county and is the first personal injury suit in Norwalk arising from that disaster.

This was a social meeting, it is understood, and was preparatory to the regular monthly meetings which are planned. The teacher of the school is Mrs. Amy McConnell of Tiro. Mrs. Clyde Parker is president of the P. T. A. At the meeting Friday night refreshments of sandwiches, pumpkin pie and coffee were served.

NEWS FROM VILLAGE COUNCIL

At their regular meeting Wednesday evening the council were visited by a delegation of business men who presented a petition requesting the council to submit to the voters at the Fall election a levy of two mills for the support of the White Way. OHIO ELECTRIC POWER CO. LOSES

Word has been received in Norwalk that the state supreme court has overruled a motion filed by the Ohio Electric Power Co. for a review of the order case instituted some time ago by the city of Norwalk.

This, it is understood, leaves the defendant company with but one more play and that will be an appeal to the United States supreme court. It is indicated that the Ohio Electric Power Co. will take that step.

More than a year ago the city of Norwalk started outer proceedings against the company claiming that they did not have a franchise. The proceedings were first started in the court of appeals. The city won out in this and was also victorious when the case was carried to the state supreme court.

The company asked the supreme court for a review of the case but this now has been turned down.

This case has attracted state wide interest. If the Ohio Electric Power Co. loses its case in the federal supreme court, a new date of outer will be fixed and it will be necessary for the company to withdraw from the local power field.

The corporation is a well known power company. A number of years ago they acquired the electric service property of the old Green Lake in Norwalk.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McFadden, Mrs. Elizabeth Patterson and Mrs. Grace Kirkpatrick motored to Cleveland Sunday remaining until Monday.

Compare Fence Post Values Before You Buy

IF YOU are to get the most fence post value for your money be sure to exercise the same care in the selection of a steel post as you do in deciding upon other important farm equipment.

Critical buyers have found that all steel posts are not alike in quality, service, strength and dependability. Study carefully the post you intend to buy.

Is it made of tough, springy railroad rail steel that will give long years of service in the fence line? Is it easy to drive and install? How is it built? Will it hold the fence securely and resist shocks of charging animals without breaking? Will it permanently hold the wire in place and the fence in steady security year after year—as long as the fence lasts?

All these tough questions are answered in the Red Top Steel Post. Come in and let us demonstrate to you the extra value features that make Red Top the best fence post for you to use for all purposes.

PLYMOUTH IS AIRMARKEED

Plymouth is now marked for air-planes. In letters ten feet high aviators, which requires that all municipalities be as they pass over the village are told that this is Plymouth.

The sign has been painted on top of the assembling room of the Fato-Road-Health Co. plant. As stated the letters are ten feet high, and the entire length of the word is 30 feet. An arrow 44 feet long points directly north. The color used is orange on the black back ground of the roof. "Pat" Chappel, local sign painter did the work.

This is in compliance with a recent law enacted by the state legislature which requires that all municipalities be air marked. The order was sent out some time ago by the Bureau of Aeronautics to local village officials stating that it was required that this work be done. The village had the option of hiring local people to do the work, or the Bureau would do the work and charge the sum of $25.00 to the municipality.

At the meeting of the village council held on Tuesday night of last week the matter was brought up for consideration. It was the decision to have the work done locally and the location was decided upon. Mr. Chappel started the work Monday and had it completed by the middle of the week.

It is pointed out in the order received from the Bureau of Aeronautics that due to the fact that there is a considerable increase in air traffic this will be a great aid to aviators, since they will know just where they are. The arrow pointing north will also keep them acquainted with directions. It is stated, that from the air, particularly to a stranger, all towns look very much alike. For that reason, unless the name of the town is plainly marked aviators have the way of knowing the identity of the town beneath them.

The law required that the letter be from 10 to 30 feet high, according to the roof on which the sign was to be painted. Letters ten feet high can, of course, be seen for a considerable distance in the air.

According to the law it is also required that in addition to the arrow directing towards the north, another arrow is to be painted directing to the nearest airport. In this case it would be the Willard airport. Mr. Chappel, the painter of the sign, stated however, that he had received no orders to paint this airport marker.

It should be understood that this work is ordered by the village council and the expense is paid out of public funds.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

Mrs. Frank Tubbs was pleasantly surprised last Thursday when she was made the recipient of a beautiful cake baked by Mrs. Josephine Shreck, a beautiful China vase, and many cards, all being remembrances of her birthday. Mrs. Tubbs' "boys" as she calls them, referring to Mahlon and Mack Wilson, didn't forget the day, and she received a check for the occasion. The vase was presented by Mrs. Bertha Wase. Throughout the day friends and neighbors called to pay respect to this lovely citizen, and the surprises of the day proved quite a surprise.

We didn't come right out and ask just what anniversary she celebrated but she gave a hint that it was near the 80 mark, but you can't tell it. The Advertiser joins in with the community in extending Mrs. Tubbs the best wishes for the occasion, and hope that she will celebrate many more.

FATE OF RICHLAND COUNTY FAIR WILL BE DECIDED

ON OCTOBER 23rd

Whether or not Richland county will have a fair next year must await the outcome of a meeting to be held in Mansfield on Wednesday, October 23rd. At that time five members from the Agricultural Society, Agricultural Society will meet with the county commissioners to settle the problem. This announcement was made following a joint meeting of the county commissioners and members of the Agricultural Society. The commissioners desired more time in which to decide if they would give financial aid to the fair.

With a deficit of $10,025 and indications that the 1929 fair would run behind approximately $1,500 the fair board laid its cards on the table and asked the commissioners for advice as well as financial aid.

While the report of this year's fair is not complete because all bills and receipts are not in, yet it is estimated that the deficit will be of $1,500.

The deficit of $10,025 is represented by a note for that amount which was due on October 9th. All this is the accumulated deficit of a number of years.

It would seem that the Richland county fair is facing the same problem that faces practically all county fairs. That is unless a considerable amount is received from tax money to carry on the fair it will be necessary to abandon the idea. Inclement weather, it would seem, in recent years has been the chief trouble with a large number of fairs. This has kept the attendance down. Another trouble has been the issuing of a large number of free passes. Another expense has been the presenting of expensive features free in so far as cost to the public is concerned.

All things considered it would seem that the time is fast approaching when the county fair will be a thing of the past, unless there is a radical change made somewhere. It must be more financially successful or its abandonment will be found necessary.

OPERATING REVENUE FOR B. & O. INCREASES

The operating revenue for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for August of this year showed an increase of $880,725, over August, 1928. This report is according to a monthly statement of earnings and expenses sent out by the company from Baltimore.

However, for the month there was a small decrease in net revenue over August of last year. This is due to the large expenditures made for the improvement of railway property during August. In August, 1928, expenses were closely curtailed as compared to the same month this year.

The balance on the B. & O. for the first eight months of 1929 was $164,047,115. This is an increase over eleven million dollars over the same period of last year. At the same time, the net railway operating income is nearly five million dollars ahead of last year.

will open with the singing of "America the Beautiful." This will be followed with a short business meeting at which there will be the report of committees. The sixth grade of the school will give a ten or fifteen minute program. It is understood this will feature fire prevention.

A period of five minutes will be spent at this time in the learning of new songs. These songs will be taken from the song book of the National Parent-Teachers Association.

Then will come the main feature, the question box. Again it is wished to emphasize that it is hoped this question box will make problems clearer to both teachers and parents.

It is announced that there are two things that will be regular features for the program of every meeting. That is the opening of each meeting with the singing of "America the Beautiful," and the five minutes spent in the learning of new songs. Everyone who is at all interested in

BIG BARN

As to whether Mrs. Root will rebuild the barn it is not known. There is no house on the site.

This is the first fire that has visited Plymouth for some time and it is only natural that it created considerable excitement. A crowd gathered within a few minutes and parked machines were lined along each side of Sandusky Avenue for several hundred feet.
