

POVERTY EXISTS ON MUCK LANDS

We have read of appeals to aid the Near East Relief, of Red Cross, Home and Foreign Missions, and many other worthy causes, but right at the back door of Plymouth, you can see one of the worst poverty-stricken scenes that anyone has ever witnessed. Nine families in destitute circumstances have appealed to Haron county for aid, and Trustee Robert Nimmons, who made an investigation, states that it is impossible for one to visualize the awfulness of the situation that confronts the small colony of Kentuckians who are surviving, and we mean survive, on the black muck lands west of town.

A pitiful sight befell the eyes of Mr. Nimmons as he entered a two-room house. There in the middle of the floor three little tots, the oldest not over five, at their dinner out of the same plate, and all that they had was potatoes. Folks, imagine that. Little children hungry. In another two-room house there were nine children, and the parents make eleven, living in two rooms, and Mr. Nimmons reports that only two beds were seen, and that he supposed the children that could not be crowded into one bed slept on the floor.

Hunger, starvation, everything that a depraved humanity confronts these people, Kentuckians, yes. But remember, Kentucky has given about as many God-fearing statesmen and citizens to the country as any other state. And because this group of unfortunate souls originated in Kentucky is no reason why we should withhold a helping hand, and a basket of our bread, and a bag of our food, or a few old clothing, get in touch with Mr. Nimmons and he'll direct you to the location.

This is not an appeal through the county trustees or Mr. Nimmons. They are doing their part and here do it. But there are so many things a destitute family needs until you are most certain that whatever you give will be a thousandfold appreciated.

The investigation conducted Wednesday by Mr. Nimmons is the second or third plea of unfortunate families, and the fact that our people, people of our own race and blood are crying out to us for help, should make it more forceful than ever that we should look around our doorsteps first and then into the four corners of the earth.

And remember, little children can not prevent the present situation. Let us help our neighbor as freely as we help those of distant lands.

BADLY INJURED

Hayes Mellick was badly injured Thursday while handling manure, and it is not definitely known just what is the extent of his injury. Mr. Mellick was at the barn and called to his team to step up, and as they did so, he fell, landing between the barn door and the apron. It was a very serious fall that he escaped death. Medical attention was rendered at once, and other than severe bruises and a few cuts he is reported as getting along very nicely.

BUYS PROPERTY

O. S. Earnest has purchased the property on Dix street from the Mary E. Reynolds heirs and he expects to do quite a bit of remodeling, making this home modern in every way. It will be ready for occupancy around April 11. The deal was made through the A. E. Devore Real Estate Agency. Mr. Earnest will not move into the home.

D. M. Drumback, who has been here on business for several days, returned to his home in Salina Wednesday.

G. J. SEARLE TELLS OF FLORIDA TRIP

A very interesting sketch of a recent trip south by Dr. G. J. Searle is printed below, and his many Plymouth friends are glad to know that Mrs. Searle and Mrs. Searle are enjoying themselves down in the land of sunshine. They expect to return to Plymouth the last of March or the early part of April. The letter in full follows:

West Palm Beach, Feb. 19, '29
Friend Tommy:
As I promised you a description of my journey to the land of sunshine from the land of ice and snow I will give it to you between the reading hours to Jay Stotts who was taken sick about two weeks ago. I received a note from his doctor describing his condition with a request to come over to see him. It will be a pleasure to his many friends to learn that I find him at present improving and should be continued to do so, they will see him about April 1st.

This little shocked Jay a great deal and left him in a weakened condition, yet considering his symptoms as I found him and as I leave him tomorrow, Feb. 20th, we have great hopes of his full recovery.
Our first day out considering the condition of the roads snow and ice we made good time, 225 miles to Marysville, Ky. We passed through Columbus to Washington Court House from there to Hillsboro to Ripley and Aberdeen. O. crossed ferry to Maryland, where we remained over night. The next morning we were on the way to Paris, Ky. We passed through Blue Lick battlefield. Saw my friend Dr. Milton J. Stern at Paris, exchanged greetings and on our way to Lexington, Ky.

This is the famous blue grass region of Ky., through broad horse, beautiful women and whiskey and tobacco sections some of the latter were in progress in many towns through which we passed.

After leaving Lexington we passed over the foot hills towards Cumberland Gap. The road is winding around the hills and only looks like a road. Farming in the valleys and the roads completed to London, where we stopped. 180 Miles this short distance was accounted for by a queer rattle which disturbed our minds and after a day or so of travel discovered was due to a bolt having loosened causing a rattle.

Our next stop was a Cartersville, 314 miles. Cottonfields and factories dotted the sides of the roads. Bed spreads and comforters exposed for sale by the farmers. Pecan groves, peach groves around Macon, Ga. Instead of continuing to Chattanooga, we cut off at Cleveland in Dalton, this road was rather rough and narrow, but it cuts off about 35 miles.

Our next stop was at Jasper, Fla. Mrs. Grace Earnest, Mrs. Stella B. included. Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Earnest, Tomfield, Mrs. Harry Snider, of Akron, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Earnest and daughter, Marilyn.
LIPPUS DRY GOODS CELEBRATE SECOND ANNIVERSARY HERE
In order that the public may share with them in the celebrating of their second anniversary in Plymouth The Lippus Dry Goods Store announces a three day sale, beginning Saturday and lasting through Tuesday. Everything in every department has been cut to a price that will sell, and their advertisement on next four, this issue, will tell you of the more attractive offers. The sale is to last three days only, and remember folks, this sale includes new and up-to-the minute merchandise.

Perhaps we are wrong but we can't see where a department of rural police will be self-supporting, and in our opinion it is just another millstone around the taxpayers' neck. And as long as the people will allow legislators to pass bills that make a demand on the taxpayers' pockets, just that long will the law last.

Yours,
George J. Searle

The Town Doctor

The DOCTOR of TOWNS

OLD-FASHIONED IDEAS WILL NOT STAND THE GAFF OF MODERN BUSINESS

Before he could dream of discovery Columbus had to cleanse his mind of superstition and prejudice. Only the man willing to free himself from the shackles of "what used to be" is ready to entertain the new ideas which lead to progress.

In every branch of science, of business, of art, and even of sport, this is true.
Community progress is not less in the hands of the discoverers. The great advances have been made by men who explored new fields, unfettered by prejudice or tradition, for a prejudice blinds a man to the truth and, too, to a prejudiced man no argument appears reasonable.

The advice of scientific business is to investigate yourself, your business and your town.
New business, new towns, are fortunate in not being fettered by old traditions and ideas, fortunate that they have no baracles on their ships; but many towns date back a long way and too often refuse to accept new ideas and new ways of doing things. For that reason they fail to grow, fail to advance and keep pace with modern times. Existing in a modern day with thought, ideas and ways of doing things of the past modern opportunities are not recognized.

Old-fashioned ideas will not stand the gaff of modern business. If you are going to grow and do business with modern people you have to be modern, for new-fashioned buyers avoid old-fashioned sellers. The old-fashioned people and old-fashioned business will soon be gone and then "What is, will cease to be" for the town that has not kept up to and ahead of date.
Old-fashioned does not necessarily mean older people. It does mean those people who, because their grandfather before them did a certain thing in a certain way, think that that is the only way it can be done; the fellow who says the way and his idea is always right and the other fellow says it can't be done. In other words, it means the fellow who condemns everything which is beyond his range.

The only old-fashioned people who can be considered assets in the world of today are those that retain the boy mind; that is, those that are still capable of wonder, enthusiasm and experiment. When these three elements fall, the man who is out of his grave is out of place as far as progress is concerned, for a man can appreciate only that which he knows.
Things are changing these days, and changing fast. Good roads, automobiles, trucks, buses and airplanes are responsible for much of it. The telephone and telegraph are rushing us along to a new day, and the town that doesn't start DOING will some day be a village of the past.

Thinking people recognize that there is a new order of things, but the recognition is more evident in business than in the development and conduct of civic affairs. Business science has changed man from a fighting, hunting, savage blood, crawling on foot or paddling a canoe along winding rivers, painfully and slowly through the solitude of the great spaces, to a ruler of the earth, flying through the air, sailing under the sea, sending messages around the world without messengers or wires. You KNOW this, because you have seen it.

This same science will bring forth ever greater strides of development and changes in the ways of doing things that are applied to cities, towns and communities. IT WILL BE APPLIED—IS BEING APPLIED. Because you have NOT SEEN it you may not KNOW it, and not knowing it, fail to appreciate it.

Every town should recognize the advantages of this new order of things and start NOW to do that which is necessary to capitalize on the opportunity; but to do it, old superstitions and prejudices, if you have any, must be wiped out and a realization of a new order of things kept uppermost in your mind.

MUCH WATER

A considerable surplus of water was noticed in the most of the streams the first of the week as a result of the heavy snow. Many acres of land at Celeryville were under water the forepart of the week and this gave appearance of natural lakes. However, the surplus water at this time does not mean the land is under water, that the celery growers have begun operation of greenhouses, prior to the breaking of land and getting ready for another harvest of celery.

LIVELY HEARING IN COURT HERE

Three Willard youths charged with reckless driving and speeding will probably report Plymouth's Mayor's Court as a result of their experience here last week about 11:15 Marshal Burket observed the car coming through the Square at a rapid rate of speed and he halted to the driver to stop, but the driver "stepped on the gas" and kept going. Burket, accompanied by Norman Godfrey and Elden Boardman, followed the car within a half mile of Willard when Burket turned his machine across the road and prevented the pursued car from passing.

After much arguing and abuse Burket brought the three lads back to Plymouth and after a hearing their trial was set for Thursday evening. Harry Boetcher of Willard, driver of the car, pleaded not guilty and was fined $15.00 and costs. The three boys caused a court laughing and making wise cracks and Mayor Durr had to set down on them before he could get order in the court. The boys gave spectators much amusement for a while but after the trial they decided their fun wasn't quite worth the price.

JACOBS FOUND NOT LIABLE

As the outgrowth of a dispute between the Jacobs interest at New Washington, and the administrators of the estates of Lee Rothchild and Lloyd Carson, killed at Plymouth, Ohio, some time ago, when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a railway train, the state industrial commission decided in favor of the Jacobs interests, holding that Jacobs at the time of the accident did not have three men in his employ, that the evidence submitted in the case failed to show a joint partnership, and that the commission did not have jurisdiction to make an award in the case.

The claims were asserted against J. A. Jacobs, Mrs. Bertha Jacobs, and Fred Jacobs, all of New Washington, based upon the theory that Lee Rothchild and Lloyd Carson were employees of J. A. Jacobs, her husband, and Fred Jacobs, her son. J. A. Jacobs who has since died, was engaged in the timber and lumber business at New Washington. Fred Jacobs also did some timber buying and selling. The claim was made by the administrators of the estates of Carson and Rothchild, on January 7, 1927, had in their employ more than three employees which made them subject to the jurisdiction of the industrial commission.

Jacobs claimed that they were not partners; that each was in business independently of each other and denied that either at any time on or about January 7, 1927, had more than three employees and therefore were not liable for any award that the state industrial commission might make. It was also asserted that J. A. Jacobs, Fred Jacobs or Mrs. J. A. Jacobs at no time contributed to the state insurance fund and for that fact the claimants asserted that in the industrial commission had the right to order them to compensate the estates for the death of the two men who were killed at Plymouth at noon, of January 7, 1927, while riding in an automobile belonging to J. A. Jacobs, and while they were on their way to stump for Mr. Jacobs.

Attorney J. Myers of Bucyrus, represented J. A. Jacobs, Fred Jacobs and Mrs. Jacobs who defended against the claims made by the administrators of the estate of the two deceased men, who were represented by Attorneys A. S. Leuthold and F. Schaber. Attorney Myers maintained that there was no legal partnership and that the industrial commission had no jurisdiction for the reasons that neither J. A. nor Fred Jacobs had more than three persons working for either at the time of January 7, of that year, and further claimed that neither J. A. or Fred Jacobs as individuals or as alleged partners were subject to the order of the state workmen's compensation act.

A father can find no place in all the lives of great men where he can more naturally begin, to talk to his lad of the value of a high purpose in life than in the wonderful story of Jesus at twelve years of age saying, "I must be about my father's business." For that purpose impelled him all through his life and near its close he exclaims: "I have done the will of my father in all things."

No mother could find a better place to start talking to that girl of hers concerning those intimate matters that pertain to girlhood and womanhood, than that most wonderful story of the mystery motherhood which had its beginning with angels' annunciation to Mary of that to which God called her.

Within the covers of the Bible life is dealt with simply and frankly let us help our children to find its golden truths. This can best be done in the home.

SERVICES FOR T. S. HENDERSON

The morning service of worship at the M. E. church last sabbath was devoted to a memorial service for the late Bishop Theodore S. Henderson whose administration in the Cincinnati area was cut short by his sudden death on Monday, February 11th.

The pastor Rev. E. B. McBroom taking as a text, 1 Cor. 15, 10:—"By the grace of God which was with me," the pastor said in part as follows: "I know of no passage of scripture that could be more fittingly applied to the life of Bishop Henderson than this one, and of almost no account do I know of no one to whom it so completely applies. Redemption grace, was the mainpraying of his life. To him the Episcopacy was but a call to greater service not a position of special privilege. At all times he would have exclaimed, "I am what I am by the Grace of God." This attitude was beautifully illustrated at one of our annual conferences. One of the brethren had been found guilty of unministerial conduct and the verdict provided that the presiding Bishop call him before the assembled conference and reprimand him. After hearing the verdict Bishop Henderson said, "Brethren by the Grace of God and the confidence of my brethren I am a Bishop, but who am I that I should reprimand anyone. If the brother is present and will come to the Altar I will kneel with him and pray with him." When that prayer was finished we were all humbled in our hearts.

There is no one who knew him but would be willing to acknowledge the abundance of Bishop Henderson's labors.

One who knew him well tells how just after the close of the war he said "I have promised my God upon my knees that if he will permit me to live ten years longer I will do ten years work in those ten." Those ten years have just closed and there is none to say he had not made good his promise.

As a preacher his one theme was redemption by the grace. His message was always potent for he spoke of that which was within him. One was always conscious as he told of his accomplishments in the faith on that "Ye not I but the grace that is within me."

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there is no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken, like a special every thing for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every drugstore has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

DO YOU CARE?
Do you really mean it in anger or passion you burst forth with "I don't care." Don't you later come to the realization that you did care and discover that it is too late?
What is the cause of this outbreak? Can it be remedied? The cause is an aimless life without a definite ideal. Why is this? If you have an ideal and if you are endeavoring to follow that ideal it is superfluous to your mind. When tempted to say, "I don't care" you are prompted to think a moment and then if it does not conflict with your ideal, you can answer intelligently without a single regret. Now, friends when an older person comes to you, whether in school or on the street, and in a friendly way tells you your faults, don't sneeringly reply, "I don't care," but stop and think before you answer. Thus you establish an ideal, governed by the social laws which is a worthy ideal to follow. You are then bettering the conditions of your country. You are preparing yourself to meet life. You are putting something before the coming generation and which they can be proud of.
Because of these things, is it not a worth while undertaking to correct the "I don't care" habit? Let's endeavor to check this habit and in this way prevent a possible disaster to our friends or to ourselves.
R. N. H., '29

quarter bringing the score up to 34 in their favor when the final whistle blew, Adario only boasted 15.
The Weller-Lucas boys continued the tilt. This was very exciting game. Weller, then Lucas was at the lead. The final score totted Lucas 21, Weller 15.
The third boys game of the preliminaries was played Friday evening at 7:30. Plymouth met their foes, Ontario with the idea of a good wallop against their opponents.
Hatch, J. Bachrach, D. Bachrach, Long, Lebold, Barber, Webber, Mumma composed the fighting team who pulled a final score of 15. Barber was high scorer with Hatch and J. Bachrach made the remaining points. Ontario scored 11 points.
The Madison-Lexington game was a walk away for Madison. The final score was 34-12.
Saturday tolled the bell of fate. Shiloh met Lucas in a fast and furious game while Plymouth battled against Madison.
Shiloh was defeated by a score of 18-20. Plymouth was defeated by a score of 12. All indications show that if Plymouth could keep up their battle as they carried on in the first quarter they would be victorious. At this time they held a 6 point lead, but fate was against them.
The final game played between Lucas and Madison proved to be a decided victory for Madison. The score was 38-26.

CHAPEL

Mrs. J. W. Miller was the chapel speaker last Wednesday morning. Her topic was, "Lincoln and his relation to the Bible." She showed how Lincoln used the Bible as a handbook and by its use established his aim for his life work. She brought out many important things about his life that many readers fail to notice when reading his life. Her talk was very impressive and was appreciated by the students. We hope to have her with us again in the near future.

PLYMOUTH SEXTET DEFEATED IN TOURNAMENT

Plymouth girls played Shiloh last in the first round of the tournament and were defeated by a 12 to 7 score. The girls fought valiantly but were unable to stave off defeat. The score at half time stood 4-1 favoring Shiloh. The ladies from P. H. S. then came back determined to do or die. They participated in all the games, while they collected 5 points more. Shiloh amassed 8 for a total of 12 points. Thus perished the girls' tournament hopes for 1929.

about herself and her family. She told him the sad story of her lonely life for a number of years. She prayed constantly for the return of her idealized son, that the one wish of her heart could be granted. How happy she would be if her wish would be fulfilled. She raised her eyes as if in prayer and the man filled with love. He rushed to her side with a glad shout and cried, "Mother, Mother! you always told me that you would know her son and clasped him in her arms. They were both happy. This is the history of himself which he told his mother."
"I left home when about sixteen because we were poor and I wanted to earn money and grow rich. I went out West and worked on an orange farm about a year. I made enough money to treat in oil. This made me able to go through the California Medical College.
I graduated when twenty-four years old. In the meantime I became acquainted with a beautiful young girl, who lived in the town where I went to treat college. When I was twenty-three she became my wife. After one more year in college I became a Doctor in Los Angeles where she went to await the arrival of the chauffeur. The old lady went down into the library, off the reception room, where the presents were to be distributed to await the arrival of the chauffeur. Gordon, Sr. and his wife and excited children went into the reception room. A few minutes passed and the chauffeur opened the door. They were very much astonished to see a very beautiful old lady. The Doctor and his wife and introduced his mother to his wife, who was very surprised to see her. "Let us go to the children," Gordon and Blossom, this is your Birthday wish. This is your new gift. From the old lady she was very much excited, ran to the side of the old lady and were gathered up in her arms. Just then the butler came and announced dinner.
The Doctor's mother was very pleased to see her. She was very sensitive. After the dinner was over the old lady bowed her head and softly said, "I wish to see you, Peace on earth, good will toward men."

CHAPEL

On Wednesday morning, February 13th, 1929, Mr. Jenkins conducted the chapel exercises. He gave an interesting talk on Education. He quoted Dr. Henry M. Winton's definition of education which was: "A few fundamental mastered, a memory disciplined by christian principles. These are the essentials of a modern education." He gave a brief discussion of each of these topics which resulted in a very inspiring talk, especially to high school students.

GRADE NEWS

The First and Second Grades will go together and have a Patriotic program on Thursday afternoon at the school building. The opening exercises of these grades have been together all the school year.
Near the suburbs of a city stood a large, beautiful, stone mansion. Along a wide driveway grew some very large flowers and shrubbery. At the entrance of the home stood two large, stone lions and on both sides of them were four great marble columns.
The interior of the mansion was very handsomely decorated, and the rooms were tastefully furnished. A beautiful fountain threw up its spray in the center of the hall, and many gold fish were playing there.
Behind the home was a large flower garden with a variety of choice flowers. The flowers bloomed and grew in profusion all the year around because this home was in California.
In the library sat a beautiful, black-haired and brown-eyed woman tall and graceful. She was anxiously waiting for her husband, a doctor, to return from the city with a great constellation of children playing all around Gordon, Jr. about ten years old, was tall and looked like his mother. The black-eyed little Gordon, Jr. was very chubby; her head was covered with light brown curls, her age was about six years.
A limousine stopped at the entrance and the Dr. alighted. He was of medium height with brown hair and blue eyes. A large number of birthday packages were left in the limousine for the young doctor.
Gordon's wife met him at the door and they went into the library to look over the children. The children heard their father so they came scampering in the door. Gordon, Jr. and Blossom wanted him with them in the nursery. Blossom sat on her father's lap while Gordon, Jr. stood by his side.
"Children, what do you want for your birthday?"
"Daddy, I sister and I could only have a grandmother we wouldn't want anything else," replied Gordon, Jr.
"Let us see so do you feel very sad because he thought his mother was dead. At last he sought his wife for comfort. They talked along while about the past, and at last he decided to go to the town where he was born and see if any trace of his mother could be found. The Dr. would start early on the morrow.
He began to make preparations and left for the town in the afternoon, the next day. After a very tiring and eager journey he arrived at the old home town where he had lived as a child. He thought no one lived there because it was so desolate. The Dr. opened the door and walked in, but was much astonished to find a girl old there, whom he recognized to be his mother. He thought he would not speak of himself and see if she knew him. I. Gordon, was

SEVENTH GRADE

We celebrated St. Valentine day by having a party in our room. The red and white decorations were the work of Thomas Homes and he showed real artistic ability in adorning the room. Our entertainment was of two kinds—the following program under the direction of Doris Hatch was given:
Dialogue—Betty Alaskon, Lois Miller
Reading—Lucille Moore
Reading—Nora's Valentine
Doris Kramer
Reading—The Prettiest Girl Jim Root
Story—Lincoln's Autograph
Reading—Mother's Valentine
Helen Dick
After the program we played games, answered conundrums and enjoyed our Valentine Box. These were directed by Betty Alaskon. The Valentines were of great variety—ranging from the comic sheet to a bouquet of sweet peas.
Then our "cats" committee—Carl Holmes, Chairman, proved their worth by serving us with ice cream and heart-shaped cakes and candies.

JOKES

Mother—"Son, why are you always at the tall end of the class?"
"Because the children heard their father so they came all right."
First Soph—"Heard the multiplication table?"
Second Soph—"No, what is it?"
First Soph—"How many Times?"
Second—"Why do you call this a railroad?"
Bessie—"Because it whistles at every station."

FESSIN' UP

"When I've done something I know I shouldn't."
"I'm afraid to go to bed at night. For fear something'll be hidden there. Something big or ghostly white."
My ma she always knows
"When I've been awful bad
I've always say "Aw I ain't tired"
Or, "I've to talk to Dad."
She says, "That stinff's a gitten' old."
She knows that I's skeered,
"Ta go up them old stairs alone at night."
"Aw gee, but I ain't jeered."
Then Pa he always sets right in.
"And says to me, "You got to bed."
"And step I do right up them stairs,
"Though my feet feel heavy as lead."

I tell ya folks I never stop
"Ta argue with my dad,
Cause every one about us says,
His tempers awful bad.
But now I always take a peck
Beneath my single bed
Behind the chairs 'n in the closets,
Before my prayers I've said,
I know that I've been awful bad
"And I'll have to fess up soon,
If it's not in 'em night,
It's in pa the next forenoon."

THE MORGAN'S BIRTHDAY WISH!

In a low and wretched cottage at an old gray-haired woman. A Bible which she had been reading lay in her lap. She had been thinking of the days gone by. Her companion in life had passed to the Great Beyond a few years ago. One of her children had died when a child. The other, her favorite boy was somewhere adrift in the world. She was wishing that he could return to her on her birthday, which was only a few days distant. She believed God would answer her prayer. Leaning her praying and dreaming of the past, I will introduce you to different scenes.

Shelby Theatre Introduces Sound Pictures Monday

When Allwein & Shreffler open the Castamba theater Monday night, March 4, moving picture fans of Shelby will have many reasons for congratulating the local theater managers. They have had carpenters, decorators, electricians and a crew of sound and talking picture experts busy the last three weeks. So far, the only part of the improvement visible to the public is the new front constructed in the theater building. This gives patrons an enclosed and heated lobby which will add greatly to the beauty and comfort of the amusement place. In addition to closing the archway and providing a fine lobby, a marquee will be constructed in front of the theater, extending from the building to within two feet of the curb, thus protecting patrons and the front doors of the theater. The marquee will not be completed in time for the opening but a contract has been let by Allwein & Shreffler and the improvement will be made within the next two or three weeks. Radiators are being placed in the lobby and this place will be decorated with taxstone. The tile floor will be covered with a rubber mat running from the front doors to the theater doors.

Once inside the theater the patrons will be pleased with the many changes that have taken place. The interior has been redecorated, transforming the theater into a place of beauty. A crew of decorators has been working day and night. Scaffolding had to be erected in order that the decorators might reach every inch of space on the walls and ceiling. Decorating a room of this size is no small task and the work will not be completed until tomorrow night. The scaffolding will then be removed and the seating arrangement changed. A row of seats has been removed, giving additional room just inside the doors. The seats have been arranged so there is now one center aisle from the rear to the front of the theater instead of down the sides from the center to the south end.

The lighting system has been changed so there now are lights along both sides of the aisle from rear to front. Patrons are thus enabled to easily find their way down the aisle. Side-wall lights also have been installed and the ceiling lights will be used only at the opening and close of a show. New draperies have been hung throughout the theater and the aisles carpeted. In fact, Allwein & Shreffler have overlooked no needed improvement that would add to the comfort and pleasure of their patrons. The amusement loving public will have to see the place to appreciate fully the changes that have been made and how they add to the beauty of the theater.

We have recounted only a few of the changes that have been made in the theater, but there is another surprise in store for the picture fans. The closing months of 1928 brought sound and talking pictures into existence and Allwein & Shreffler are the first exhibitors in a city as small as Shelby to contract for the installation of sound-talking pictures. It will be a year or two before sound and talking pictures will be installed in the smaller cities. Allwein & Shreffler thus are not abreast of the times but two years ahead of them in Shelby. This year will bring forth finer and better pictures and they will be sound and talking pictures.

Allwein & Shreffler have installed their sound equipment at enormous expense, not only for installation but for maintenance as well and they are now ready to give the amusement loving people of Shelby the same service they would travel to other cities to secure. They have placed the picture business on a higher plan than has ever before reached and in their best effort to serve the public and be pioneers in the field of sound-talking pictures they certainly are deserving of the patronage of Shelby and the surrounding trade territory. The Globe congratulates the local managers on their vision of the future of the industry. It all spells progress in the moving picture field and if our local managers were not efficient they would be lost in the procession. It takes a lot of nerve and faith to invest thousands of dollars to provide a beautiful theater in which to entertain the public and we predict that Allwein & Shreffler will be given the enthusiastic and undivided support and patronage they so richly deserve.—Shelby Globe.
