Hawaiian Representative Pays Visit to Plymouth

After three years as representative of The Pate-Kook-Heath Co. in the Hawaiian Islands, H. C. Moll, paid his first visit to the plant here the first of the week where he became personally acquainted with the officers and also inspected the plant. Mr. Moll states that Plymouth locomotives of the Diesel type were the first to enter the industrial field in Hawaii, and that their design and modern improvement were superior over any other competitive engine, and that it is the industrial heads of Hawaii choosing the Plymouths to solve their hauling problems.

months for the first growth of cane and about 12 months for the "ratoon" or second crop. The cane is a continuous growth and needs very little cultivation and fertilizer. The railroads are built out into the large fields and the cane is loaded onto the cars, and from then on until it is turned into sugar the cane is never touched by hand. Automatic machinery for every operation makes the output a large one for the islands.

In an interview with Mr. Moll he related the life of the natives, the industrial growth, and many other changes which are noticeable through out the islands. In speaking of the weather, or rather climate, Mr. Moll said that the temperature throughout the year is never below 80 nor above 90 degrees, and that it is most pleasant at all times. The weather, he states, is one of the chief reasons why thousands of tourists each year are flocking to the islands and their playgrounds. And in addition to the wonderful climate the Hawaii Islands offer their gorgeous scenery.

Everyone on the islands work, says Mr. Moll. The men and women are in the fields together, doing the heaviest kind of work, and the children are not taught idleness. The average wage scale is from $30 to $40 per month. The pineapple industry in the islands is a gigantic one. Pineapples may be seen for miles and miles. The Hawaiian group produce about three-fourths of the world's supply of pineapples.

There is nothing more beautiful than to watch the glowing red lava at nightfall as it slowly makes its way down the mountainside," said Mr. Moll. The only active crater is Kilauea, which may be seen at all times, throwing out a slow stream of lava, which lately rolls down the mountainside into a desert of lava, which formed over an area of twelve miles. This crater is 6000 feet above sea level, 4500 feet in depth and one half mile in circumference. Haleakala is the largest inactive crater, and it is located on the island of Maui. This crater is 15000 feet above sea level and is about six miles in diameter. Visibility is very poor as the mist and fog interfere considerably. The mountains in the islands offer a wonderful spectacle, and they have within them secrets unknown to civilization, the origin of the islands, and how they became inhabited. It is said that the islands are a result of several volcanic eruptions in the Pacific ocean, and their topography bear out this theory.

Mr. Moll lives in Honolulu and likes it very much. He has resided in practically every country in the world, and he praises the islands very much for climate, scenery and accessibility to all parts of the Pacific. He is a member of the Elks Club at Honolulu, and resides in the club home in that city. On his visit here, he stated that Plymouth locomotives were very favorable in the islands and that several orders will be placed within a short time.

The islands are now made up of many races, said Mr. Moll. There are hardly any of the natives left, and they are fast becoming extinct. The white man makes up about 10 per cent of the population, with the Japanese in the lead with sixty per cent. The Chinaman, and Portuguese also have a large share. There are also the various religious, Christian, Budha, and Yoodoomist. The Portuguese, Chinamen and Japanese worship Budha while the natives look to their voodooes. The Hawaiians are a very superstitious people, and the religion plays a big part in their funny beliefs.

After visiting in Pennsylvania and Chicago, Mr. Moll will sail back to Honolulu, where he says is "the finest place in the world." He was very much impressed with the plant here, and in the modern manner in which the engines are built, and he predicted that the Plymouth engines will have a steady growth in the industrial field of the entire world.

There is nothing more beautiful than to watch the glowing red lava at nightfall as it slowly makes its way down the mountainside," said Mr. Moll. The only active crater is Kilauea, which may be seen at all times, throwing out a slow stream of lava, which lately rolls down the mountainside into a desert of lava, which formed over an area of twelve miles. This crater is 6000 feet above sea level, 4500 feet in depth and one half mile in circumference. Haleakala is the largest inactive crater, and it is located on the island of Maui. It is said that the islands are a result of several volcanic eruptions in the Pacific ocean, and their topography bear out this theory.

When a boat docks and the passengers come ashore to receive the natives of every description. The natives have a knack of making wreaths and headbands from the flowers and especially the carnations. Sometimes a wreath or braid contains as many as 300 flowers. And the gardens with the various hues and designs give an appearance of beauty that is hard to describe.

Another interesting thing about Hawaii is the leper colony on the Isle of Molokai. Here hundreds of humans afflicted with the disease are confined, isolated from the rest of the world, and it is a most pitiful scene.

"HOW STYLES DO CHANGE"

Farmers Still Ohio's Greatest Believer In Collegiate Education

COLUMBUS, O.—The farmer is still Ohio's greatest believer in higher education, judged by the annual report on the occupations of the parents of 13,857 students who attended Ohio State University in 1928-9.

Nearly three times as many sons and daughters of farmers were enrolled during the past school year as any other group. The number of students who gave "farmer or rancher" as the parent's occupation was 1857. Children of merchants were the next largest group with 675.

Sons and daughters of bankers, however, were relatively scarce, forming only the twenty-third largest group with 116. On the other hand, there were 547 sons and daughters of salesmen, 443 of transportation employees, 274 of real estate men, 410 of business executives, managers and superintendents.

In all 118 occupations were represented. The parents of 37 students were listed as retired, while with 1071 the mother was named as the parent and with 1858 others the parent was deceased or none was named.

Two children of professional baseball players were listed and four of golf professionals. "Politician" was listed as the parent's occupation by one student. Ten were the children of missionaries, and 36 of editors and other newspapermen, while 358 were the sons and daughters of federal state and local officers and employees.

Mrs. Wm. Caldwell has received word from her son Willard, stating that the Whitney orchestra, of which he is a member, is to play at Louis Point Beach, near Port Clinton, on Sunday afternoon and evening. "Bill" would be glad to greet any friends who might motor down to hear them.

Station Attendant Loses Probate Judge Bechtol Suffers Severe Attack of Acute Indigestion

Lloyd Schaefer of Wellington was subjected to a dire stroke of fortune Tuesday morning when a certain gentleman to whom he had been selling gasoline relieved him of the sum of $52 by the simple method of removing from a window ledge his pocket, a pocketbook containing that amount. Schaefer, who works at the Standard Oil Filling Station on East Main, had laid the pocketbook in the window for a minute, after taking it from his pocket, when he was called out to attend to a customer. He thought nothing of it until about a half hour later some one came into the station wanting change.

Probate Judge J. M. Bechtol of Huron County Probate Court, became suddenly ill Friday morning with an attack of acute indigestion. He was stricken near the W & L E. Crossing. He was later removed to his home. In a short time, Judge Bechtol revived and was able to converse with Common Pleas Judge Carpenter, who called at the Bechtol home, as soon as he heard that his associate had been taken ill. Late reports indicate that the judge is steadily improving.

RATTLESNAKE CUT REPAIRED BY TRUSTEES

The Old State road over which millions of dollars worth of grain was hauled to Milan on the old road and over which Charles Dickens, the novelist, traveled from Sandusky to Cincinnati in 1842. The last link in the pre-civil war days is fast being put into excellent condition between Norwalk and Milan. The last link in the program is the improvement of the Rattlesnake Creek Hill section, about three miles north of Norwalk. Norwalk township trustees recently took advantage of their option on about 250 tons of flux lime stone at the steel plant near Norwalk, and purchased the entire lot. With a part of this stone, the Rattlesnake cut is being widened and the old traction line embankment on the east side of the road has been cut back sufficiently to allow proper side drainage of the road bed.

CUT THISTLES

Attention is called to those who have neglected to cut the Canada thistles. These thistles are a nuisance in any community and the State and National governments wish for cooperation in combating the ravages of this particular thistle. It is reported that quite a number of these thistles are in this community.

Some Things About the Modern English Language.

A Radio Lecture Broadcast from WTAM, Cleveland, Ohio (1070 kilocycles, 280.2 meters) by Harry L. Rice, Head of the Department of English, Baldwin-Wallace College, Berea, Ohio. (Permission is given to any newspaper or individual to use this article, in whole or in part, if proper credit is given to the author.)

Some people have the not very pleasant habit of committing a two fold offense against themselves and others: first stating an opinion as a fact, especially in a field in which they do not possibly know their ultimate truth; secondly, backing up this opinion by a show of intense feeling, bordering on bitterness. Such a one is the lady who was expostulated because the high school principal insisted that her son should study some foreign language. After shedding considerable heat, the irate mother said: "Well, Mr. Brundage, you'll do whatever you want to, of course, but the good old English which St. Paul and the other men in Bible times spoke is good enough for my boy." When she had uttered this choice bit of ignorance, she felt that she had struck a blow for flag and native land, and she had a vague satisfaction also in feeling that she had struck another blow for the religious virtues.

In biblical times there was of course no language at all like our modern English, and for some time throughout the history of the world the same situation obtained. To be very particular in our statements, no one knows them that had struck a blow for flag and native land, and she had a vague satisfaction also in feeling that she had struck another blow for the religious virtues.

The coming of the French influence into England in the eleventh century brought the other important basic contribution to our language, the French, which was a direct lineal descendant from Latin. When a statement is made, it is never quite true, for other strains enter. But the French, which is a Latin language, and the Anglo-Saxon, which is a Teutonic language, are the firm bases for our English language.

The contribution of Latin to the language needs no explanation. It is to be recognized. Thousands of our words come from Latin, many of them directly through the French, and some through other Latin tongues, such as the Spanish and the Italian. In certain professions (particularly law and medicine) in science and in the ecclesiastical and philological world, Latin is still alive. Greek is very heavy.

language back of that, and where does it all end or begin? Yes, there are languages back of those I have mentioned, but the rewards for search and research get more meager as we go back of the bitter known languages. We should like to know how language started, and we have a right to theorize, but that is another story.

Emerson speaks in his essay on Nature of the "immediate dependence of language upon action." We can easily prove that this is at least partly true when we think of such expressions as "grounded," "the landing of the ship," "up in the air" (which is not so significant in this day of aviation), "rooted in the faith," "the planting of a thought," etc. Mark Twain, in retelling the story of Adam and Eve, has Eve assist Adam in handling out names. Mark says that the two came to what we call Niagara Falls, and Adam asks his wife: "What shall I call this?" Eve said, "Niagara Falls." "But how do you know," said the same-chirper, "that it is Niagara Falls?" "Because it looks like Niagara Falls," said Eve, and this same instructive scene is being acted out according to Mark Twain, gave us the name of the town nearby the Falls, North Tonawanda.

As we go some forward, however, from the time when the German and the French languages, and to a considerable degree, the Latin language, were striving for supremacy, even for existence, in England, we reach the age of our first great poet Chaucer, who by the force of his greatly written literary product gave the stamp of approval to the Midland dialect, and raised it to a position of preeminence in England. From that time, there has been a recognized literary English language. Chaucer died a little over five hundred years ago, and the language has changed markedly in that time, but the high school boy or girl with a little help, can read Chaucer.

English language as we know it today, and to indicate the changes that are constantly taking place. You will never get anywhere in your understanding or appreciation of our language unless you think of it as a growing and not as a static body of words. New words are being added all the time, new meanings are fastening themselves to old words, certain words are losing some of their old meanings, and certain words are dropping out entirely. A person does not need to be very old to have noticed a change in the meaning of such words as flapper and jitney. This same person may well remember the words horseless-carriage, locomotion sleeves, the Charleston, the demit, the ruffled skirt, but he rarely hears them today, except in historical sense. Even the humble buggy, the unknown taxicab, and the horse-drawn carriage are so obsolete a few years ago that it was "temporarily immortalized" in a popular song which may have helped us to forget whether we had any bananas.

In 1919 C. A. Smith sent out a very interesting little book, called "New Words Self-Defined." From this book and other sources, I have made a list of words to illustrate language development. Some of them are new words, others are old words used in new senses. The list follows: ace, addict, air, parboiled, bolshewik, parlor, bob-sheep, camouflage, dud, flapper, gas mask, No Man's land, over the top, pussy foot, radio, mike, swank, taxi (as verb), zero hour, jazz, flair, hit, hitch-hike, love-American, The J. Edgar Digest in April, 1919, just after the armistice, said: "We have been told a Latin family with the word 'stagnant' for two years or more." Recently I heard a man say that a certain student of his had been "over the top" in financial drives.

H. L. Mencken, editor of the well-known American Mercury, is not so well known for a volume which he wrote some years ago, "The American Language." This volume points out many differences between the American and the British language, and into that I cannot go. In addition, he shows how words change at times through our own faulty originality, and how they are changed in form and adapt a shorter form which sometimes attains the dignity of good usage. Our word mob, originally a Latin term, mobile, signifies, unquestionably a good English word now, but Addison objected to it because of its Latin origin. It was rather snappy. No writer of a short story today would say that they stopped for reason. It is always easy to find an instrument which Padonewski plays was originally the piano-forte, rarely is it found in its original form. Here is a list of some of the words which Mencken gives to show the contracted and abbreviated words of our time: pen (penitentiary); champ; phone; ad memo (for memorandum); pop (for popular); pep (for pep talk); select society; ju (for juice); electric current.

The tendency on the part of Americans to "make it snappy" he contrasts with the English method, which is to be more formal. There is a sign in the British Museum by a wash basin which reads: "These basins are for casual Ablutions Only." The American sign says: "Keep Off the Grass." Watch your overcoat! Mencken comments on our tendency in America to invent compound words such as joy-ride, hitch-brow, soul-sister, nature-father, stand-patter, long-haired, has-been, end-seating, grape-juice-alcoholic, pork-barrel.

Some of the words given above are still in the probationary stage, others are plain slang; some are almost if not entirely accepted by careful speakers and if written, they are all interesting, for they show how language grows. Here are some concerning which there is not so much question; yet they are for the most part not very old. If old, they have acquired new meanings, and are being used by Freudian, psychoanalysis, rayon, vitamins, nichelacker (in questionable sense), but it has "made" the dictionary. The zooming of the airplane, television, radiogram, intellectual, lonstner (still in shabby colonial), duplex house, telephoto, inferiority complex, professor, soviet, cereal (meaning certain kinds of breakfast food), to register surprise (or and emotion), talkies, a word that is still struggling. It is evident that words are individual and full of whims, as are children and airfaid dogs. Watching the language therefore repays anyone, if only in the fact that he is watching one more interesting way in which the mind uses one of its tools. Hutley, who was a "live wire," at one time said that he had never come into contact with any field of knowledge in which he was not interested. But there is another, and a more vital reason for watching, even for studying our language: everyone is using language every day, and it is hardly conceivable that a person should deliberately remain in ignorance of one of the tools which he uses daily. Why not watch the new words as they arrive, try to find out how they are pronounced, what they mean, how they are used? There is a thrill that comes with the acquiring of a new word, for this often unlocks a new part of the brain, and may bring with it a new idea. Ideas, properly they are rationally handled, make a man interesting, and no one desires to be uninteresting.

ing to good speakers, some from conversation, some in devious ways hard to explain. You will be surprised at the pleasure that is yours if you try to keep abreast of the times in language-growth. I do not refer to strange and unusable words. I refer to the new and usable words, and by implication to the vast stores of riches inherent in the dozens of words which are perfectly good, which our friends use, but which, for some reason, we neglect. Often we are content to get along with our mean little vocabularies when others in our group take unintended superiority over us by tapping the resources of the language. We act as do those who are near a clear pure spring of mountain water, and prefer to drink from a mud pool.

ENJOYS TRIP

Mrs. Pearl Smith has returned from an interesting, business and pleasure trip to the northern peninsula of Michigan where she placed twelve new salesmen for her "Never-fail" Cleaner. She took in many sights that were unusual and informing. She visited the zoo, the copper and iron mines and at one of the former saws a nugget forty-five pounds. The shaft was better than two feet long and over one foot wide at the greatest width. She spent the fourth at Mackinac Island where no motor cars are allowed and one travels over the island with horse and carriage. The old fort, battle ground and other historical relics are kept as formerly and aside from the modern and expensive hotel for tourists the entire island is very primitive and the residents delight in this fact. She encountered wild deer and porcupine as she traveled thru the country.

TERRIBLE STORM

The very bad storm which swept this section Saturday afternoon did much damage west of town where the water ran down the pike roads like a river during the cloud burst. Roofs were badly damaged by falling trees and small buildings were blown over and roofs torn off. Growing crops were leveled to the ground. Hay, wheat harvest and cultivating are delayed again as the ground was already moist enough.

According to figures compiled by a great public utilities company operating 996 automobiles of 53 different makes during 1928, Pontiac costs one cent per mile less to operate than any other low-priced car. Fine Hay

Much fine hay is to be seen in this community these days. Several farmers in and around Plymouth report it one of the best hay years for a long time. Seems mighty good to ride along the highway and smell the sweet clover, and its still better to see it in the hay loft. Editorials

The Supreme Court has said: "Good-will is the disposition of the customer to return to the place where he has been well served."

The disposition can be so fixed that it becomes a habit. It is not my custom to keep cigars in my desk, but once or twice a year someone hands me a box. I have observed that twenty-five will last three or four months, simply because I am accustomed to buying cigars in small quantities at the cigar stand in the office building.

REMOVAL OF RESPONSIBILITY

Some years ago when the Supreme Court handed down an important decision upholding or disavowing a union of two great railroad properties, a small newboy with a bundle of papers carrying the first news of the decision dashed down Wall Street yelling:

"Extra—see! All about the horrible merger." The business columns of the newspapers have been full of news of "horrible mergers." Merger and consolidation have been two of the most used words in business.

A bank official not long ago said that business was suffering from the executive who was waiting for a good fairy called "merger" to come along and consolidate his business with some of its rivals and leave him a fortune in his pocket and a noble salary as a vice president of the combination.

A leader of American business talking of a recent great combination tells this story: "I met not long ago one of those men who had sold his business to a new company and had been retained in a high-salaried post."

"I asked him how he felt about his new job and he answered 'Great. The burden has been lifted from my shoulders.'"

"Can a man with that sort of mind be really valuable to a new company with thousands of questions to solve? He can't look at his new job in the same way he looked at his old one when the business was his, when its success or failure was his success or failure."

"There's one of the great tasks which face some of these new companies—merely to get the right sort of new men but to get the best out of the old men."

THE REAL CENT'S WORTH

A cent will not buy much in these days of high costs! A post card and its stamp for groupings or the luxuries of the slot machines for children. But to find what a cent really does, turn to our transportation agencies on land and sea. Railroad rate experts tell us that 1.09 cents is the average rate per ton mile charge for the transportation of merchandise on all the railroads of the United States. The copper cent moves a ton of coal nearly a mile on a railroad. What's the price of getting it across the sidewalk into the cellar?

But the cent can perform greater miracles in transportation than this. From Culbertson, Nebraska, a ton of grain may be shipped 1,506 miles to Norfolk at an average rate of $10.94 per ton. At this rate a cent will pay for a mile and a fifth of the haul. At Norfolk the grain may be dumped into the hold of a ship bound for Hamburg, and be carried 6,191 miles across the ocean, at the rate of $4 per ton. And here the cent will carry a ton of wheat 15 1/2 miles!

Suppose the wheat is shipped from Hiawatha, Kansas, 1,276 miles from Norfolk, at a rate of $8.95 per ton. At this rate a cent will pay for a little more than one and one-half miles of the rail transport. At Norfolk it will perhaps be loaded on a ship bound for Genoa, 4,862 miles away. The rate to Genoa is $2.50 per ton, and in this case a cent will pay for the transport of a ton nearly 1 1/2 miles. If it is flour that is to be transported, it will cost $4.45 to get a ton across to Liverpool, and one cent will carry a ton of high-grade steel gages for the payment of $11.56 per ton, and the well-worked copper will carry it for a little more than 2 1/2 miles of the sea journey.

A boxed automobile of an average weight of 4,500 pounds shipped from Detroit will cost for the rail carriage of 690 miles to New York $18.15 per ton, at which rate the penny will pay for about 38 mile. At New York the automobile will be put aboard ship and carried 11,298 statute miles to Australia at $12 per ton, at which rate a penny's haul will be approximately 9 5/8 miles.

For a real cent's worth don't buy chewing gum, buy transportation by sea.

DIVIDED RESPONSIBILITY

One need not go far back to recall the day when a consumer thought only in terms of the retailer when he bought goods. He came home from the stores with oatmeal, shoes, a hammer and a box of candy and never knew the maker's name of one of them.

If the shoes were well and the candy was fresh the retailer got the credit; if the shoes wore out and the candy was stale the retailer was blamed.

Now in very much of our buying we divide allegiance. Smith's candy and Jones' shoes are Smith's candy and Jones' shoes whether we buy them in a specialty shop, a chain store or a department store. There's a divided confidence and a divided responsibility. But the allegiance is more welcome than the responsibility. If Jones' shoes give the buyer comfort or Smith's candy makes him sick, neither the retailer nor the manufacturer meets the situation with pleasure.

Business has been saying of late years that it is so regulating its conduct that the rule of "let the buyer beware" need no longer hold; that men who made and men who sold were standing back of their goods. But when one man makes and another sells there is always the question: "To whom shall the buyer look?"

The toy manufacturers would like an answer to this question. They say that a new problem in their business is the insistence of the retailer, particularly the mass retailer, that the manufacturer take all the responsibility even when there is no defect in the product. They point in proof to this clause in a purchase contract by one of our largest chain stores:

"You also agree to protect said Company against any loss resulting from injury by reason of the use or handling of any of your products."

The manufacturer is inclined to think that the retailer is driving a hard bargain. The great chains, the mail order houses and other mass merchandisers are putting new things into buying as well as into selling and the way of the manufacturer who deals with them is beset with new problems.

NEWS FROM DELPHI

Benison of the Antique shop of Plymouth was a caller at our house Monday night, and during the conversation conceived the idea that he had all competition hiked to a frazzle on prices of things old.

Mrs. Goldie Campbell Chandler left for Plymouth Monday morning where she will assist Mrs. Dr. Babcock with her house work.

Chester Craig has taken a position with Lee Sears-Rookback Store—now getting ready for their opening, August 1st in Mansfield.

Daniel Goon and family of Toledo were Saturday night guests of his brother L. A. Goon.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Good attended a gathering of the Edwards heirs in Canton Sunday getting a plan for settling the estate that had been under consideration for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Smith and family were Sunday guests of relatives near Atica last Sunday. Their son Richard stayed over to show them how to drive a horse on the hay fork.

S. C. Howard attended the Ray Parrot sale in Norfolk Fairground Saturday. He purchased a modern hand drill for drilling all kinds of small seeds, even up to corn—and 22 yards of Brussels carpet—just at present we are withholding congratulations.

Rev. Mrs. Jennie Crabbs of Westerville, O. was a mid-week guest of her sister Mrs. Lizzie Young. She was working towards Willard for Sunday where she will teach the Sunday School class she taught years ago when her husband the late Rev. C. U. Crabbs was pastor of the U. B. church.

The wind and rain storm was the most terrific and most damaging for the time it was at it of any storm we have had. All streams, basins and pools were over full within an hour. Mrs. Jay Walker probably, the only woman caught in the rain, took her drenching trying to move an old hen trying to hover her brood in a pool of water. Chas. Pown was caught in the rye field and built himself a thatch of rye bundles but it was not long until he had to take his soaking for the amount of wind and the amount of rain that fell surprised us that no great damage was done.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. DeWitt, Mr. and Mrs. Lester DeWitt and Miss Frances Moore of Boughtonville, R. D. #1.

and Mrs. Glenn DeWitt and family and Miss Florence Moore of Greenwich, Donald Smith of Barberton, O. spent afternoon and evening with lunch at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Harrington.

Olle Catlin is in Mansfield under the doctors care with sciatic rheumatism.

Phone trouble man, Harry E. Sillman accompanied with T. G. Campbell, were looking after trouble on wire 2 after the storm last Saturday.

The W. F. M. S. all day meeting for Plymouth Monday morning was well attended and most interesting.

We have been wishing we had the power of thought and gift of speech that we might get Christian people and members of the church to see what they are missing by not attending the prayer service, leaving to pray and testify in public, in fact groaning in grace. Last Thursday night we had three ordained ministers and two Laymen present. The writer thinks it one of the most spiritually powerful and inspiring meetings held for months.

Preaching next Sunday at 10 o'clock. Last Sunday, July 14th, through the kindness and generosity of W. J. Wilkinson and his wife, our daughter, the writer had the privilege of attending Lakeside for the first time in his life. Think of it! Born in Ripley—have lived most of our years here, have been up and down the lakes, but never in Lakeside. Dr. A. E. Smith, president of the Ohio Northern University of Adla, preached to an audience of 1700 (estimated)—Rev. A. R. Brown former Delphite presided.

The Gideon male quartette held fourth in the afternoon. They have sung together 25 years. Their combined ages total 271 years. The only one we have heard male quartettes from Delphi, Greenwich, Shiloh, North Fairview and Willard sing. We are saying that not all of the best singers are on programs at Lakeside. Nuff said—

Next Sunday will be the date fixed for the annual meeting of the Clergymen at the Guinea Church for a Noon Banquet and afternoon program. All are invited.

MAN FINED $500 IN LIQUOR CASE

Because Bigio Buka, 37, of Cleveland, violated a city traffic law in Norwalk Patrolmen Glenn Schamp and Fred Baldoff Wednesday night, found 45 gallons of white mule in his 1924 Cadillac touring car.

The arrest was made on East Main st., not far east of the center of the city. With Buka, was Philip Martino, 22, of Bellevue.

Buka was fined $500 and his companion was fined $250 by Mayor P. E. Weidemaier.

In his possession was found $455.00. The officers are not wishing to take any chance handling this amount of money deposited it in the emergency repository of the Huron County Banking Co.

If the fines and costs are not paid, the two men will stand committed to the Toledo works.

The liquor, which was of crude make, apparently, was run into a sewer at the city jail.

Two five gallon cans of olive oil was found with the liquor and the automobile were turned over to the men, who went on their way at once, upon payment of the fines.

EXTRAS SEEN IN "SCANDAL"

A "CAST" of horses valued at upwards of $250,000 and a group of "extras" whose collective worth run up to the hundreds of millions of dollars—such is the background of a "society" picture which actually was made with real society leaders of the younger set appearing in support of the principals.

The picture is "Scandal," filmed by Universal from the Cosmopolitan feature by Adela Rogers St. Johns, which will open at the Temple Theatre on Sunday. Laura La Plante is the star.

THOUSANDS OF EGGS DESTROYED, SEA GULLS ARE EXILED FROM ISLAND BY RECENT FLOODS

LAKESIDE, O.—High waters in Lake Erie have exiled countless beautiful Common Tern seaulls from their home on Gull Island, and have destroyed hundreds of unhatched young.

For the first time in many years, the gulls are to be found nesting here. Only the high water, and the fear of losing even more young, could have driven them from Gull Island, in the opinion of Prof. A. C. Conger, of Ohio Wesleyan University, noted bird authority who is now residing here.

Ordinarily inhabiting only isolated islands, the gulls are believed to have chosen this section rather than to face the danger of the continually rising waters.

While the high waters probably did not cause the death of many mature gulls, many thousands of eggs, laid early in the spring and being hatched by the sun, are believed to have been destroyed.

Here the gulls have been noted building their nests in the sand or in brush far back on the beach, away from possible disturbances. Because the hot sun is necessary for hatching, the nests are built between rocks so eggs may receive the full effect of the sunlight.

Gull Island annually is the home of thousands of gulls. The failure of many eggs to be hatched probably did mean a scarcity of gulls during the next two or three years.

Some of us might find happiness if we would quit struggling so desperately for it.

A stylish stucco is grateful for anything that ruins her appetite—even had news.

Is any feeling finer than that which comes from doing a hard job intelligently well?

“---as advertised”

How many times you see those two words in the course of a day's shopping: "This article for sale—as advertised."

And those two words are as welcome as they are familiar, for they form a bond of confidence between the merchant and yourself. They are his guarantee to you of worth and value.

Here is an article that has been described in your newspaper. Its merits have been told; possibly, too, its price. You know exactly what you will get when you buy it. You know its quality, its utility; you know how it fits into your needs. And when you buy it, you know you are getting not some unproved substitute but the specified article—as represented.

It is easy to understand why that phrase, "as advertised," creates a feeling of confidence. You have learned to depend upon consistently advertised products. You know that the maker has confidence in them, else he would not spend money calling your attention to them day after day, and month after month. You know that they have approved by the most critical of investigators—the buying public. And above all, you know from experience that buying goods "as advertised" is the best investment you can make.

WILLARD ASKS TWO NEW PLANTS

WILLARD — Efforts to bring two Chicago industries here will be made by the Willard Civic Club.

The Reliance Picture Frame Co. and the Universal Spring Co. are said to be planning to locate plants in smaller cities.

J. M. McDermott, assistant traffic and commercial director of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, in an address before members of the Civic Club urged members to invite the companies to locate here.

T. C. Smith is president and H. D. Hoffman is chairman of the industrial committee of the Civic Club of Willard.

HURON COUNTY BUDGET WILL BE SMALLER YEAR FOR COMING YEAR

NEWARK, O. — Huron county's budget for next year will be lower, county commissioners indicated today at the close of the annual budget hearing.

The fact that the county last year carried a five-year road bond issue will make it possible to spend less next year under the budget, it is believed.

Gasoline tax income last year was smaller than this year by about $10,000, also helping to allow a smaller budget.

CORNERSTONE LAID SUNDAY

Masons from the surrounding towns were here Sunday when they assisted the local lodge in the ceremonial exercises of laying the cornerstone at the new school house. Much interest was shown in the event as a good crowd gathered at the grounds for the occasion, which was a very solid and impressive one. Several grand lodges and other high officials were present and at the close of the exercises, Dr. Mente of Shiloh, gave a brief talk.

The Town Doctor
The DOCTOR of TOWNS
SAYS

"THANK YOU'S" ARE A MEANS OF
MUCH BUSINESS

There is a clear store I know where they will give you back the amount of your purchase if the clerk fails to say, "Thank you."

There was a string of drug stores in Chicago that appeared to make it a habit of not saying, "Thank you,"
they were forced to sell out at a loss.

There is nothing that grates on my nerves quite as much as to pay a check, a bill, or present legal tender in payment of purchase, and have the recipient of my money fail to express any appreciation for the patronage extended. And there are millions of others just like me.

One of the most successful mercantile concerns in the country has built its business on the motto, "It is only natural to trade where you are served best." Some cash register company might do good if they put a "Thank You" on their register, like cuckoos on clocks.

Why shouldn't the customer be thanked? If one man gave another a dollar and the received didn't even grunt to show appreciation, you'd call him an ungrateful cus and a poog specimen of humanity; yet, many a sale at a price equivalent to much more, is accepted with the air of "Well, it's coming to me." That is mighty poor business, or else inexcusable ignorance.

The cheery "Thank You," "Call Again," or some other such card on the inside of the door, or over the cash register, shows the right spirit and helps, but isn't enough. The American public are tickle buyers, and for that reason "business goes where it is invited, and stays and comes back to the place where it is welcomed and served best." There is many a business house, many a community, failing to make an expression of appreciation for patronage extended, that is hereby driving customer to its competitor, for it hasn't always what is done, but what is left undone that counts.

"Thank You's" never drove business from any store or community, but lack of them has cost many thousands upon thousands of dollars.

Son of Rev. Reeder Drowns

Ribberd Reeder, 21, son of Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Reeder of Elyria was drowned Sunday while swimming with a nearby raft about 2:30 p. m. at Ver-million-on-the-Lake. Though he ordinarily experienced no difficulty in swimming in the choppy lake Sunday he was exhausted before reaching his goal, and had to call for help.

A companion swimming with him was saved but Robert "Goosie" Our Will Anderson, two other friends, were unable to rescue Reeder.

His father, Rev. Reeder is in charge of the Elyria Home for the Aged, and spoke before the M. E. Missionary societies several months ago. Miss White recently left for that home.

Besides his parents, a brother,
Spencer Reeder, studying in Europe,
also survives.

sons Jack and Walter of Bucyrus, Mr.
Roy Farnel of Crestline, and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Farnel of Plymouth.

AN EVEN BREAK

In Bob Ingersoll's day there were those who wanted to hear Bob on "The Mistakes of Moses," and others who rather hear Moses on "The Mistakes of Ingersoll." In testimonial meetings we have heard men tell what the Lord has done for them, and these are the fellows we would like to hear the Lord tell what they have done for him and how they have "done" their fellows.—G. C. Lake in the Attics

New Grease 'Gun'

A car properly greased at regular intervals means longer life, easier riding and no squeaks. Few automobile owners realize the value of proper greasing, and there are many jobs that are just half done.

We take pleasure in announcing to the car owners of Plymouth that we have just installed a new MOTOR DRIVEN ALEMITE GREASING MA-CHINE and can give you a perfect greasing job. This machine is capable of forcing grease through to the vital parts of your car with a 120-lb pressure.

Drive your car in any time. We can give you quick service, a perfect and satisfactory job — you'll see the difference.

We take the "squeaks" out of the springs—try us.
