IN "WHO'S WHO"

In "Who's Who in America," a list of men who have contributed most to American life in industry, science and letters, there are a total of 7,821 names. Of this number 5,785 are college graduates, 1,245 high school graduates, and 868 who have an elementary school education. Obviously, then, if one wishes to be remembered after he has "shuffled off this mortal coil," beyond a little circle of friends, he has the best chance if he attains a college diploma. A considerably lesser chance if he stops his formal education after securing a high school diploma, and, apparently remote, indeed, if he has only been through the grade school. With that in mind we might paraphrase Greeley and say "Go to College, young man."

However, another thought enters our mind; What about those 868 men who after going through the grade schools laid down their books and took up the battle of life? Certainly they are deserving of no end of credit if they have reached the select circle along side of their brethren who have been more favored in the way of formal education. Certainly they fought a battle handicapped in such a way that it would seem impossible to us on the side line that they could reach the top of the ladder.

It is true, of course, that education need not necessarily stop after school days are past. There are ways to progress that are only bounded by the mind and intelligence of the man himself. We cannot believe that those 868 in "Who's Who" stopped learning or endeavoring to learn after their elementary school work had been completed. Certainly they learned something, somewhere and somehow, in a way that it not shown on a "sheep skin" or a credit sheet. And undoubtedly after they had gained this knowledge, no matter how, it remained with them long after many lessons learned in college would have been forgotten. There is such a thing, you know, as the University of Hard Knocks, and while the lessons come high they are usually never forgotten.

While again we say, so to college if you can, do not despair if you cannot attain that goal. Remember those 868 who have reached a high mark if they did it you can do it.

IT'S AN IMPORTANT ELECTION

This fall we have general election day the same as usual, although being what is generally termed the "off" year," many voters will use that as an excuse for remaining away from the polls. In the odd numbered years it so happens that the only officials elected are those who serve locally, such as village, township and school officials. The voters are many who say that those who hold these offices make little difference and for that reason do not take the trouble to make known their selection.

This, of course, is a wrong attitude. These local officials perhaps do more that directly affects our welfare for good or bad than national, state or county officials. Your village officers, township trustees or local school board members have entrusted to them by law things that directly affect you every day of the year. With that in mind it will be readily seen that the election this fall is just as important as the election that chooses a president or a governor. While at a national election there is not the bally hoo and the millions spent like there is at a national election, it should be all the more reason why the voter can make a careful selection.

While it is yet several weeks until election day we feel that it is perhaps not amiss to call these things to the attention of the voter. Decide now that you will assist to put in office the men who you want. Do not wait until after it is all over then complain about the selections that have been made by the voter who was public spirited enough to spend the few necessary minutes in casting his ballot.

W. C. T. U. HOLDS MEETING

The Plymouth W. C. T. U. met with Mrs. Henry Cole, Friday afternoon, with thirteen members and three guests present.

The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. Topping, and was followed by a short business session, during which Mrs. J. K. Hooper, Mrs. L. Z. Davis, Mrs. Jessie Phillips and Mrs. J. L. Price were appointed delegates to the Huron Co. W. C. T. U. Convention which is to be held in Norwalk, Sept. 25th, and Mrs. Georgia Boardman is to represent the Union at the Ohio W. C. T. U. Convention at Friday, October 22-25, in the First Methodist Church.

The topic of the afternoon, "A Law Observed Will Be a Law Enforced" was arranged by Mrs. Mabel Wirth. Mrs. Elmer Stotts in giving "The Fullness of Life," brought out the fact that experimental science, practical medicine, and the experience of Public Health officials all concur in emphasizing in one way or another the privilege and value of total abstinence. The consequence is that a steadily increasing number of the leaders of industrial, scientific and economic thought and action are realizing that alcoholic indulgence is a menace, rather than an aid to industrial and social efficiency.

The one great danger in the making of "home brew" was also stressed in Mrs. Stott's paper when it gave the illustration of a boy and his father climbing a steep mountain when the boy said, "Keep to the safe path, Dad, for I'm coming after you." Can we not bear treble of the child life of today saying "Keep to the Safe Path; I am coming after you?"

Mrs. Sam Trauger in giving the "History of Scientific Temperance Instruction" said, "From the beginning of its organization the woman's Christian Temperance Union was especially concerned with the child, its health, welfare and training, and its possibilities as a future citizen. And because alcoholic beverages menaced childhood and youth, the W. C. T. U. pledged itself to 'educate the young, to form a better public sentiment.'"

The U. S. Commissioner of Education, Hon. F. P. Claxon, said in 1920: "In the creation of a sentiment which has now resulted in national prohibition, the schools have played a very important and probably a major part. The instruction as to the harmful effects of alcohol has resulted in clearer thinking and in better and stronger sentiment in regard to the use and sale of alcoholic drinks."

"Superintendents of schools in many states agree that the temperance instruction must be continued to offset remaining ignorance as to alcoholic dangers in wine, beer and home brew, and to acquaint all children in the schools, and especially the new comers of foreign parentage, with the reasons for the position the United States has taken against alcoholic drinks that they may intelligently carry on what this generation has begun."

L. Z. Davis read an article, "How Our School System Does Essay Work," as told by the Superintendent of Public Schools of Clinton, Missouri. This superintendent says, "Our long experience with co-operation between the schools and W. C. T. U. in scientific temperance instruction has convinced us of its value for three reasons: First—The knowledge that the children receive through the lessons, and in writing the essays, year after year is valuable protective knowledge, forming a basis for the effects of habituating the child to the importance of teaching, which is intended to safeguard the health and life and form character."

Second—The writing of the essays by all the children of the elementary and the high schools gives definiteness to the instruction required by law that it would be difficult to get in any other way.

Third—Improvement in composition throughout the school is an important by-product of the work.

The W. C. T. U. ladies were delighted to have with them Miss Eva White, who was for so long a member of Plymouth Union. She gave an item which had been sent from National W. C. T. U. directly to the local president and which said, "The woman's Christian Temperance Union denies the charge by the Association against the Prohibition Amendment that the 18th Amendment has increased deaths from alcoholism. The only states where alcoholism is high are the wet states of New York, Montana, Maryland, Nevada and we expect it to be high in Wisconsin. The entire nation shows a big drop in alcoholism over the saloon era. Police arrest 'drunks' almost 'on sight' these days, whereas in the saloon era only about half were arrested."

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Florence Brokaw, October 18th, with Mrs. F. M. Gleason in charge of the program topic, "Harmful Drugs."

To the Friends Whom I Have Served for 33 Years:

On Page Six of The Plymouth Advertiser you will read of the Kennedy-Robinson Company retiring from business. No doubt this will be somewhat of a surprise—but, nevertheless, it is a fact. The Kennedy-Robinson Company, after having served this community for the past 29 years, is now going out of business.

The stockholders decided to close out their mammoth stock of clothing and Furnishings at retail, giving their friends the opportunity to buy their clothing needs (coming, as it does, just at the beginning of winter) at less than cost—rewarding them for their patronage during their twenty-nine years of service.

It has been my pleasure and honor to be associated with The Kennedy-Robinson Company during all these years. We have been one happy family—but there comes a time in all business when changes are made, and ours is no exception.

Now, being a firm believer in the slogan, "Truth in Advertising," I want to tell my friends, before this stock goes on sale, just what Jack Kennedy's plans are, so that when this sale is over you will know in advance just what is taking place. For, after all, a business man is a servant to the people—and it's the people he looks to for his business.

When the Kennedy-Robinson stock of Clothing and Furnishings is sold out and our affairs are closed, I will take over the lease of the room we now occupy, open up a clothing house and operate under my own name.

At this time I want to thank you for the patronage you have given my firm during its 29 years of merchandising in Shelby, and trust, as Kennedy, the Clothier and Men's Furnisher, I will be worthy of your continued patronage and live up to the slogan, "The Store That Never Disappoints."

Sincerely yours,

JACK KENNEDY.

Temporary Fences Save Time, Labor and Money

THEY cut labor costs by letting the stock do much of the harvesting. They turn into money much forage so often allowed to go to waste, enable you to rotate stock and hogs over different fields and maintain fertility. Live stock as well as hogs salvage much grain left in the field.

For instance—dividing either permanent or temporary pastures, hogging off part of your corn, turning in on legume crops—all these practices are profitable and all can be followed through using a few stretches of temporary fence here and there on the farm.

Temporary fences can be quickly erected on Red Top Steel Posts. With a Red Top Driver these drive easily through hardest soil at the rate of 200 to 300 a day. And after using them for temporary fences they can be withdrawn and used in your permanent fence line—makes your fence post dollar do double duty.

Come in and let us show you the advantages of the Red Top Post that make it the most dependable and economical post for you to use for all purposes.

CITY OF SHELBY IS MADE DEFENDANT

The city of Shelby has been named defendant in a $5,000 damage suit filed in common pleas court of Richland County by Nellie Baldbridge, an eleven year old minor, through Lee Baldbridge, her father.

In the damage suit it is claimed that the plaintiff was injured June 14th, 1929, when she climbed into a mulberry tree on Smiley avenue, in Shelby, and while so doing she was permanently injured by high tension wires running through the trees. It is claimed that the wires were not properly insulated and that the city authorities knew of this condition and were negligent in permitting it to continue.

It is set forth in the petition that the child had climbed the tree to pick some of the fruit, an act common among children passing along the street. It states that she knew nothing of the danger of electric wires. The plaintiff claims she was thrown to the ground and being severely burned about the arms and legs. She further claims that both arms are permanently scarred and weakened and that the thumb on her right hand is permanently injured.

The petition states that the city of Shelby knew of the condition of the wires for several months and that no effort had been made to remedy it.

As soon as the alarm was heard practically every automobile on the street headed in the direction of the

CHAPEL
On Wednesday, September 17th, 1929, P. H. S. had their first chapel session of the year. Mr. Wolfe was the speaker. He spoke on his experience while teaching at the Reformatory and the Boys Industrial School. He said the nice thing about it was that he could get out when he wanted to.

When he applied for the job at the Boys' Industrial school, he asked the employer what the requirements were. He said that they wanted a man five and a half to six feet in height and must weigh at least one hundred and seventy-five pounds, he got the job alright. He told about the life the boys had before they came to the industrial school, one of the boys had to live in chicken houses.

He asked the boys how it happened that they had to come there. Most of them said they started to steal a little, not away with it, and kept on stealing till they got caught. He said the boys that behave get along well, but if they are bad they get more severe punishment every time.

BROWNS IN DIVORCE COURT

Mrs. Mabelle Brown of this place first applied for a divorce from her husband Charles W. Brown of Shelby in the common pleas court of Huron county on July 11th, 1929.

Now the husband has also applied for divorce from his wife in the Richmond county courts. Both make practically the same allegations. Mr. Brown claims that on the grounds of extreme cruelty, both mental and physical. She claims that he only did her husband wrong and otherwise injure her, but also alleges that he swore at her and called her vile names. She further states that he has a violent temper, would not support her with the necessities of life and would not furnish her a home in Shelby where he lived.

Brown denies the charges made by his wife, claiming that he always conducted himself as a true and faithful husband. He says he always worked, when able and that he provided for his wife, even turning his pay check over to her so that she could pay bills she had contracted, but he has since learned that she did not pay them and claims he does not know what became of the money. He charges that his wife possesses a violent temper and that she has berated him in public as well as in private life. He further claims that she abused him, that she struck him when he was ill and as a result he was partly incapacitated. He states that during part of her married life they lived in Bucyrus and at that time he had been offered a good position in Shelby but that his wife refused to live in that city. Recently, he claims, he was taken to the Shelby Hospital for an operation and that during that time his wife left him and never returned.

As an answer to that last, however, Mrs. Brown claims she often visited him at the hospital. The Browns were married in Plymouth on October 27th, 1927.
