

SCHOOL LEVY IS DISCUSSED

Voters Must Decide Levy For School Expense As Legal Limit Is Reached This Fall

Facts, Figures, Common Sense Six years ago in order to meet increased expense of operating a modern school system, the voters of the Plymouth Village School District approved for a five year period, a tax levy of one mill, outside the 15 mill limitation for the operation of their schools. Last year, when this extra levy had reached its legal limit, the voters were asked to approve another extra levy. The legal form used stated that the vote was being taken on the "three mill levy." The voters felt that this was too large a levy and the proposal was defeated. Since that time a careful checking with the State Department of Education has shown that additional funds are necessary to comply with reasonable standards of educational requirements laid down by that office and a further checking with the county auditor reveals the fact that one and four-tenths mills outside the limitation will operate these additional funds. This levy will make the tax for operation of our schools but 4 of a mill higher than it was from 1924 to 1929. In view of the fact that we now have two buildings to keep up, this is a small increase.

As to the question of the need of the extra levy, the following facts speak for themselves:

The School Board last year, operated two buildings for but a part of the year. Yet they were barely able to get along by such means as the following:

- Cutting of all money planned for buying the books.
Using money received from basketball games and operetta for paying operation expenses.
One of the foremost reasons why the voters of the Plymouth School District should approve this additional levy is the fact that it will make the District eligible to participate in the State Rehabilitation Fund, a fund which is collected from the State at large and which we must pay but are not entitled to a share of, unless we qualify by voting the additional levy. It is all for school purposes.
It goes without saying that the one and four-tenths mill levy as presented by our present Village School Board, is a Common Sense idea, and the voters see it in their posterity to give this issue their wholehearted support.

BUCYRUS GIRL IS HURT IN ACCIDENT

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bash and Miss Mary Stone of Bucyrus escaped serious injury Friday evening when their sedan turned over and was completely demolished on the outskirts of Bucyrus. The Bash car attempted to pass another machine which turned directly into their path and caused the Bash car to go into the ditch. It was reported that the driver of that machine was intoxicated.

Mr. and Mrs. Bash escaped injury but Miss Stone was taken to the Bucyrus hospital for treatment, which, while painful, were not serious injuries.

Old Volumes Found In Trunk Mirror Times of Early U. S.

Books Published in Ohio Reveal Stocks and Whipping Posts Once In Vogue Here

The lure of antiquity is known to all readers, as a large percent of recognized authors use events, mythical and historical, in their writings. Titles of such are interesting to peruse, but not half as interesting, or thrilling, as when one picks up an old volume telling of the times contemporary with its publication. "Spotted with age, filled with old fashioned expressions, mirroring a day that is passed—these old books found here and there in attics, in old trunks, have become popular with people today.

In Benson's shop, in Plymouth, are a number of such interesting volumes, some a century old. They were discovered by Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Benson who purchased a small trunk at an old farmhouse in this district, carrying away with them a rich find of the old volumes packed inside. The trunk itself is a valuable antique, made of thin wood, and lined with what is now many years ago. It trunks could talk—what a saga of life! Tracks across the eastern mountains and western plains in covered wagons, perhaps in stage coaches, threatened by fire by Redmen and bandits, used on brief journeys, probably an imported novel, needed by those whose days were ended, hiding secret papers of state.

"Doubling that few living today have ever read the Gospel Advocate of 1829, a bit of description would be interesting. The Advocate was published every two weeks, a type of magazine, in Auburn, New York, by U. F. Double day and Allen, printers of 1829. O. A. Brownson was the editor. The volume No. VII, is evidently a bound collection of consecutive issues. The paper, though spotted with brown, is a clear white, probably an imported paper, about 10 lb. weight. The cover is of stiff brown card board, medium size. The heading reads as follows—"The Gospel Advocate And impartial investigator, devoted to the cause of Religion and virtue. Have we not created our father?—Hath not one God created us? Mal.

The Advocate was divided into five parts, Sermons, Editorials, Original Communications, Miscellany, and Poetry, and the first page is dated January 10, 1829. One interesting selection was "Astonishment of the Unitarians from the Washington (Ohio) Republican.

"An impostor was brought into the room on the 13th inst. who 'lared himself to be Jesus Christ, and that he had recently come from Heaven for the purpose of judging the world, which was shortly to be at an end. He attempted to prove his divinity by the scriptures;—his judgments here were rather nonsensical; for the citizens invariably believed him to be, not only an impostor but a felon whose actions had merited an acquaintance with handcuffs and fetters.

This strange prodigy is expert in quoting scripture and is not without followers; he has erected his throne for the purpose of judging the world on Leatherwood, about seven miles from this place where he has been for some time." (Continued on Page Five)

MAKES FINE VIOLIN AFTER OLD PATTERN

NORWALK—N. C. Holcomb of Norwalk has made a violin after taking measurements from an original and authentic Stradivarius instrument owned by his friend, Louis Brooks of Marshall, Mich. The back is made of hard maple from a board sawed from a tree trunk from the best trees of the old days. The top is made chiefly from materials obtained from Germany. Mr. Holcomb has made many violins, which are notably his best.

FINDLAY ROAD OPEN TO TRAFFIC IN SHORT TIME

The west six miles of the Benjamin Franklin Highway between Tiffin and Findlay, which has been under construction during the summer, will soon be open to traffic.

With the completion of this improvement, there will remain only five or six miles of gravel road between Tiffin and Findlay. This is on the program for improvement next year, so it is probable that the road will be closed the greater part of next summer. However the detour will be comparatively short, it is said.

Sample Ballots Are Distributed In Town

Under the direction of the W. C. T. U., sample ballots have been secured and distributed to every home in Plymouth.

Plymouth, being in two counties, makes it doubly hard to see that the proper ballots are distributed. These ballots were secured from the Republican headquarters and of course are "unofficial ballots." Names of candidates are shown and the "X" placed opposite the name indicates ONLY that the candidate is a Republican and not to denote questions that may arise. Mr. G. T. U. Had they been secured from Democratic headquarters, the "X" would have denoted their candidates.

A number of people have been making inquiry regarding this and Mrs. J. H. Balfour states she is willing to answer any questions that may arise.

The purpose of distributing these ballots are not to influence voters but merely that they may study the candidates, select those they feel are best suited for the office and vote correctly that their vote may be counted and not thrown out on account of error.

Economist Speaks On Farm Program

Professor Irving Fisher Gives Views On Prohibition

The National Grange sends this talk with the compliments of the oldest and largest farm organization which was given on the Farm and Home Hour program in cooperation with the National Broadcasting Co.

It is a review of the address of Professor Irving Fisher, political economist of Yale University, made under the auspices of the National Grange under a National Broadcasting Company network.

PROHIBITION AS AN ECONOMIST

I shall make two points in this talk (1) As to the actual value of prohibition. (2) As to deceiving the public.

First as to the value of prohibition. Many have the impression that the death rate from alcoholism now exceeds the rate before prohibition. The opposite is true. The statistics of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company have been unfairly presented by the wets. We are told that the deaths from alcoholism have increased sixfold with prohibition. This is true if we make comparison with the first prohibition year 1920 when prohibition was a new broom and sweep cleaner than now. But as compared with the average before prohibition we are still 29 per cent below it. Not only the statistics of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. but the official figures of the Government all show far fewer deaths from alcoholism now than before prohibition with the exception of a few places where there is little enforcement. Thus Maryland, which is the only state which never had a standard act concurrent with the Federal prohibition law is conspicuous by being one of the few states in the whole country which shows a higher death rate from alcoholism now than before prohibition.

The same is true of that other disease, insanity. It is the same.

As to the economic value of prohibition, there can be no question. I have not been able to find a single economist in the United States who believes otherwise. The estimates vary from a billion dollars a year to 10 billion a year, which means that to give up prohibition would be throwing away an asset worth the capitalization of 1 to 10 billion a year. Why should we especially now when we are not feeling any too rich turn up assets worth so many billions? Why not cultivate these assets and get out of them all there is in them?

Those who pay for bootleg liquor are those who have the most money to pay with, while before prohibition (Continued on Page Three)

MANY EMPLOYED IN ROAD WORK

Winter Labor Situation To Be Greatly Relieved By Work Furnished On Roads

Highway work will keep a large number of men employed through the coming winter, although the number will not be as large as during the summer, according to a statement by Director of Highways, Robert N. Waid.

Bridge work and grading in hilly country, where shovels can be used in deep cuts, are the two kinds of construction where work can go on all winter, and the department of highways will let as many of these kind of contracts this fall as funds will permit.

"You may say that Governor Myers Y. Cooper's drought relief program will not be diverted by political onslaughts or suits for political purposes." At the governor's suggestion there was recently transferred, $1,300,000 on a "dormant" state fund to the state highway fund for the employment of farmers and others on road work in distressed areas.

Grading in level country where there are only shallow cuts and small fills, must stop when the ground freezes. Grading is said to be continued until late November and resumed in early spring, usually about April 1.

Work on many of the larger bridges will continue through the winter. While some added expense is involved in protecting concrete work against freezing, this is often offset by the saving in moving materials over the ice or frozen ground.

Paving and bituminous treatment and the pouring of concrete cannot start until the frost is all out of the ground in the spring and the subgrade is solid enough to carry the trucks hauling the material, and the work must stop before heavy freezing starts in the fall. Road oils and tar can be successfully applied only in warm, dry weather.

Highway maintenance work on the other hand, keeps nearly as busy in winter as in summer, although they work shorter hours. This rule is reversed in case of heavy snows, when the men may put in many hours of overtime. There was a time when all road work was done by contract crews and had no winter. Now it is an all-year job.

MUCK FIRE THREATENS NEW PITTSBURGH AREA

The fire of the muck has caused many comment during the past few days, and is thought by many to be endangering the inhabitants of the marshlands.

The smoke and stench of the burning land could be detected for a great distance from the muck. On Sunday night a muck fire was started by the Ohio Farms company was destroyed, but all occupants escaped. The small settlement of New Pittsburgh has been threatened with disaster for the past two weeks.

Furrows have been dug around many of the homes, and it is feared that the road leading from Plymouth to Celeryville may be undermined by the underground burning. Visitors from many miles around have visited the muck during the fire as it is a phenomena to many unacquainted with the habits of the prairie.

DRY FACTS

It seems almost necessary for this committee to make some expression as to the present campaign. It is difficult to do this because as a matter of fact it is not a wet and dry campaign. It is an election of men to public office. But the candidates, some of them are advocating principles and measures that endanger the cause to which this committee and those we represent, are committed, and a defense is necessary. This defense we make, briefly.

We ask you to think these things out for yourselves and not to be influenced by exaggerated statements emanating from the large city papers or by men hired by a few millionaires to put out a propaganda for the return of alcoholic liquors that they may make more millions out of the poor man that spends his hard earnings for liquor when it should go for food, clothes and the comforts of life, for himself and his family.

We believe in the 18th Amendment and in the strict Law as the best and surest way of dealing with the liquor traffic. Government control in experiment in Canada is a disappointment. Sales of liquor are increasing with a corresponding increase in deaths, accidents, and misery in general.

Ontario is spending this year for Gasoline $10,900,000 and for Liquor $60,000,000. What will the harvest be? What the record?

1928 Last year of prohibition, deaths in auto accidents ..... 298
1928 Second year under so-called Govt. control ..... 477
Suspensions of licenses for reckless driving 1926 ..... 171
Suspensions in 1928 ..... 324

The 18th Amendment can be enforced and is not 100%, but where a reasonable effort has been put forth it has proven its worth, even in the bigger cities.

The Salvation Army reports that drunkenness has decreased fully 60% in the Bowery area, the wettest part of New York, and reports equally good are made from others of the larger cities.

Norwalk, Ohio Police Department in report of last fiscal year report 32 arrests for drunkenness during the year. This was but a few more than they used to report each week in the old saloon days. And this report can be duplicated in the towns of this state all over the country, even in the wettest states.

Mr. Bulkeley, one of the candidates for U. S. Senator advocates State Control. This sounds almost like treason to us. Is a man who would advocate this safe? "Divided we fall" was spoken by a real statesman, a real statesman, Picture Ohio dry, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and Indiana wet and wouldn't Ohio have her hands full even with federal help. It simply would not work.

The whole propaganda of the wet advocates is for the purpose of restoring alcoholic beverages. Do not lose sight of that fact. Had enough in the age of the ox-cart. Impossible today. They work only for money. No altruistic motive behind them. They care not from whom the money comes nor how. Hold them just where they are. Give them an inch and they will take a mile.

We do not wish to be partisan but there are good men, excellent, capable and well tried out, who stand for square for the 18th Amendment and on the temperance question in general. Vote for these men.

Under the legislative ticket, we recommend, as of this class, Roscoe C. McCulloch for U. S. Senator, Joe E. Baird for Congress, Allen G. Aigler for State Senator, C. C. Bebout and C. H. Burk for Representative. For sheriff, Harry D. Smith.

R. R. Jenkins,

G. E. Callin,

A. D. Sanders, Committee.

Gun Maker Sues Mail Order Chains

A news story copied from the Desert News, Salt Lake City, Utah, is given below. The merchandise in question is handled by the local store of Brown & Miller.

The Browning Arms Company of Ogden, Utah, inventors of numerous automatic and repeating firearms, both sporting and military, including the Browning machine guns, filed suit Tuesday in the United States district court in Salt Lake against Montgomery Ward and company and Sears and Roebuck and company, alleging wrongful use of the name "Browning" in advertising and selling automatic and repeating shotguns.

It is claimed that both Montgomery Ward and company and Sears and Roebuck and company are now advertising and selling guns not manufactured by Browning Arms Company, but are misrepresenting to the buying public that the guns are a product of the Browning company.

Want Profit Returned
It is asserted by the Browning Arms company that such procedure is capitalizing on the reputation and standing of the name "Browning" in the firearms business, and particularly that built up by the production and distribution of its automatic shotguns, and the Browning company seeks to have such methods discontinued and asks for the profit on the sale of such shotguns as have been sold since the introduction by Sears Roebuck and company and Montgomery Ward and company of the alleged deceptive sales methods.

The complaints point out that the defendants are mail order houses selling guns at retail to the public and operating retail stores throughout the United States. The complaints state that both Montgomery Ward and company and Sears Roebuck and company circulate catalogs of general merchandise in which, among other things, firearms are advertised, including Browning automatic shotguns, which are illustrated and designated, "The Genuine Browning Automatic Shotgun." It is alleged that Montgomery Ward and company also lists and illustrates a repeating shotgun which it calls the "Western Field," and that in the advertisements of the "Western Field Repeating Shotgun" Montgomery Ward and company prints conspicuously the word "Browning" as "Western Field Browning," and that the defendant also advertises an automatic shotgun which it designates "New Western Field Browning Design," the word "design" being printed in type so small as to be most invisible.

Deception Charged
The complaint states that "the so-called Western Field guns are not made or authorized by the Browning Arms company, and that the use of the name 'Browning' is calculated to and does represent to the public that such a gun comes from the plaintiff and is intended to be and is so understood by the persons to whom the Montgomery Ward and company catalogs are addressed."

The complaint against Sears Roebuck and company is similar, except it is stated that Sears Roebuck and company is advertising and selling a gun called the "Ranger" repeating shotgun with this description, "A Genuine Browning Model" and "Browning design."

Forty distinct types of firearms have been invented by the Brownings, eight of which were used in the World War.

Farmers in 69 Ohio counties benefited by reduced freight rates to the extent of $290,000 on the 2160 cars of food shipped to farms short of food from areas of surplus production. It is estimated.

Shift Your LAYERS into HIGH!

EVERY last Egg you have been bred to lay—that's High Gear Production! Increase your egg production every cent of profit possible from your flock—shift your layers into high with Larro Egg Mash and Larro Sewick Cream.

Larro Egg Mash was developed for "High Gear" performance, yet it is decidedly not a forcing ration. It has proved in eight years of continuous use that it brings more eggs, and more profit without sacrifice of health or vitality to the hen. It has brought out laying capacities in flocks that owners never thought of. It feeds the birds—flocks to profit producers!

If your laying flock is on Larro Egg Mash, it's not in "High".

Will Ohio Answer the Challenge?

Governor Myers Y. Cooper

YOU and yours, representing that great body of intelligent citizenship so often mentioned as "the backbone of the state", are facing a momentous test. Shall a safe and sound state administration, which has kept every promise, which has given Ohio good management, honest government and steady progress, be maintained? Shall a constructive program, to which men of integrity, of experience and with the courage of their convictions have given their best effort, be continued?

OR will you let specious arguments, promises that cannot be kept, attacks made on misrepresentations and a smoke screen of misleading propaganda, confuse you and divert you from voting for the best interests of the state, which are also your own best interests?

Does It Mean Anything to You THAT—

- the Pence Law, which allowed utilities to boost rates before justifying the increase, was repealed by this administration?
- the old election code was overhauled and made modern and efficient?
- a "Blue Sky" law, equipped with "teeth", was passed for the protection of investors?
- workmen's compensation claims are settled more speedily in the interests of those affected?
- a Department of Aeronautics was established bringing Ohio abreast of the times in this great new development?
- the State Library was reopened after being closed for months?
- more miles of highway were constructed than in any previous similar period and with considerable reduction of the cost per square yard?
- in spite of paying off an inherited debt of over $6,000,000, spending $2,000,000 more for education; expanding the welfare activities of the state beyond any previous record; in spite of reducing taxes by $2,000,000—in spite of every thing, this administration will have an unencumbered cash balance by January 1st of $5,000,000 in the treasury?

If these things have real meaning for you, if you want this same forward looking, progressive policy continued for the next two years, you have it in your hands to make that possible. The way to do it is to

Hallowe'en Party

Doors to the High School Hallowe'en party were opened at 8:00 p. m. Friday night. A large number of the student body were represented by very clever masking. All arrangements for the party were made through the Student Council.

At 8:30 p. m. the orchestra struck up a familiar tune which was the signal to start the Grand March. From the marching masqueraders three out-standingly selected the prize winners. The judges said that it was a very difficult task to pick the best dressed boy and girl; the funniest dressed boy and girl; and the cleverest-dressed boy and girl. Prizes that were given were: A necktie, a box of candy, a jar of candy, an ash tray, a pair of houndstooth slippers, and a candy dish. The prizes were won by the following pupils:

Boys—Cleverest dressed, Robert Darline; Funniest dressed, Donald Shaver; Best dressed, David Bachrach.

Social Here's and There's

Lewis Allen of Carey, Ohio, spent the week-end with Jimmy Root. He visited school Friday afternoon where he greeted many of his former classmates.

Lucile Fugh was shopping in Mansfield Saturday. Miriam Donnaworth motored to Gallon Saturday and was accompanied home by her sister, Helen Donnaworth.

Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Williamson and daughter Helen, and Mary Jane Powers attended the show in Sandusky, Sunday afternoon.

Ethel Beard, Leola Hackett, Louise Ross, Rhea Kendig and Freddie Keeler attended the Topedo conference in Cleveland over the week end.

Doris Lutz visited in Cleveland last week end.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Carnahan had Sunday dinner with the Murfins. Mr. and Mrs. Murlin visited Mr. and Mrs. John G. Fate, Saturday evening in Mansfield.

THE EYE

The eye which was planted a few weeks ago is doing very nicely now. It is up about three inches high. Of what it shows now, it makes a beautiful appearance of the lawn. The eye will be cut down before it has a chance to go to seed. It is sowing only as a bedding for the ground until spring, and then grass seed will be planted. Carl Holmes.

MR. WOLF

Beneath that mammoth frame Of human flesh and bones, Lies a heart of the purest gold That no other man owns.

His teachings are religious In their own little way, And he repeats each one From day to day.

May this man so fine and brave, Know all in life that's dear, May God watch over him and lead him To live many a happy year. H. D. '31.

SCIENCE COLUMN THE EAGLE

A genus of birds belonging to the order "Raptors," and to the same family as the falcons and the hawks. They are found in all parts of the globe. The size varies according to the species, but all attain imposing dimensions. The golden eagle measures about three feet in length, and the spread of its wings is seven to eight feet, while in the imperial eagle, the spread of its wings is only six feet. The eagle soars at prodigious heights, and its unobscured vision is very highly developed. It builds its nests in the clefts of the most inaccessible rocks, and generally hatch 2 or 3 eggs. The period of incubation is thirty days. If captured young, the eagles are susceptible of a certain amount of education; when taken old they are quite unmanageable. Besides the golden eagle and the imperial eagle, there are other species, such as the American eagle, white tailed eagle, Borelli's eagle, the tawny eagle, and the booted eagle; numerous smaller species are to be met with in tropical regions.

ORCHESTRA

Each orchestra is due to the High School orchestra that has been so willing to help us in all of our social gatherings.

Their ever readiness to "strike up the orchestra" has made many an evening more enjoyable.

The orchestra consists mainly of some of our most prominent schoolmates. Corral Scott, John Henry Gaskill, Don Elmsel, Donald Fetters, Cliff Foy Dolancy and last but not least, Mrs. Elmsel, who is an ever ready helper for many of the school's benefits.

Girls—Cleverest dressed, Doris Hatch; Funniest dressed, Mary Gohert, Ellen Anderson; Best dressed, Zella Ruckman.

The prizes these people won: Houndstooth slippers—Zella Ruckman. Jar candy—Ellen Anderson, Mary Gohert. Candy dish—Doris Hatch.

Box of candy—Ralph Scott, Robert Darling. Ash tray—Donald Shaver. Necktie—David Bachrach. Students enjoyed dancing and playing cards; the music being furnished by the High School orchestra. Later delicious refreshments were served, and all retired to their homes after enjoying a very pleasant evening.

BOYS' SPORTS

TRACK

The Plymouth High School barriers journeyed to Norwalk Saturday for a meet to be overpowered by a small margin by the Norwalk boys.

The boys, meaning nothing. Just keep on working and you will surely come home from Columbus with colors flying. The entire course at Norwalk was ten laps of the cinder track on the outside of the gridiron. Our boys are used to a regular cross country track.

BASKETBALL

Coch Jenkins made his first call for candidates for the varsity squad Tuesday when about 14 members responded.

The first practice is scheduled for Monday evening, October 27. The boys are divided into two groups, the seventh, eighth and Freshmen make up the Junior high group, and the other three years, the varsity squad. Mr. Wolfe is in charge of the boys' squad.

The chapel services this week were opened by the Pledge of Allegiance, followed by "Come All Ye Faithful."

Mr. Miller gave an interesting and worth-while address. One of the main points that he brought out was: In algebra two negatives make an affirmative but in Ethics two wrongs do not make a right. I am sure that the whole student-body could profit by Supt. Miller's speech.

To the Voters of Richland County:

In 1916 I promised the people of Richland County that if they elected me Prosecuting Attorney I would conduct the office in an honest, economical and business manner, prosecuting all law violators without fear or favor, recommending mercy only where a full investigation convinced me that one was worthy and entitled thereto.

I further promised that the very best of my ability would be given to all the duties of the office. I was elected and my record made while in office is the main reason I am a candidate this year. I stand on my record, I repeat and renew all the promises made in 1916 and earnestly ask the support of the electors of Richland County.

As an American citizen I believe in obedience to the laws of our nation, our state and our municipality, and I believe that all violators should be punished.

The office of Prosecuting Attorney is a very important one, for in addition to the criminal work he is the legal advisor of all county officers, township officers, school boards and all officials who have a part in county administration. He advises on legislation for the construction of all public improvements and this advice should be correctly given, for all legislation must conform to the laws of Ohio and in most instances must meet with the approval of the Attorney General of Ohio.

While Prosecuting Attorney before, I made a careful study of all questions presented to me and was very fortunate in having same approved by the Attorney General and sustained in our courts, and I promise, if elected, to give all the questions the most careful consideration before rendering an opinion and I guarantee courteous treatment to all officials who have transactions with the Prosecuting Attorney.

I was very successful in trials of criminal actions because I investigated every case thoroughly before same was presented to the grand jury. I believe it is the duty of the Prosecuting Attorney to discuss with the grand jury all cases presented and give his advice as to the merits of the case. I did not secure a conviction in every case but presented all evidence as I found it. I did not attempt to manufacture evidence in order to obtain convictions nor did I suppress evidence for the benefit of the accused. This policy will be continued.

I believe there are cases where first offenders, especially young persons, should be given every opportunity to rehabilitate themselves before being sent to any correctional or penal institution, and in this class of cases I will recommend to the court that such opportunity be given.

I ask your indulgence for being somewhat personal, but where one is writing an article on why he should be elected, it can hardly be avoided. If the principles and suggestions herein set forth meet with your approval I earnestly solicit your support, influence and vote.

Respectfully submitted, T. R. ROBINSON, Candidate for Prosecuting Attorney.

Your Lawyer Can Talk for 15 Minutes and No Longer

When your law suit reaches the Supreme Court of Ohio, your lawyer is allowed only 15 minutes for oral argument.

The Supreme Court of Ohio recesses in June and, after a vacation of about 4 months with full pay, resumes in October. I favor a longer period for oral argument on cases before the Supreme Court, and a shorter period of vacation for the judges.

CHARLES H. HUBBELL CANDIDATE FOR Judge of Supreme Court of Ohio

Do not forget that at the November election the names of candidates for judicial offices will appear on a separate non-partisan judicial ballot.

Governor Cox used to vote the sentiment that one Judge Wamsmaker on the Ohio Supreme Court was a wholesome influence, but that possibly seven Judge Wamsmakers at that bench might prove to be the radical habit of thought, and similar to those of the late Judge Wamsmaker are, applying the logic of Governor Cox to the present situation, he commended Hubbell's candidacy to the voters of the State of Ohio. five weeks. On the 12th inst. he accompanied his throne, and commenced the execution of his mission.

The impostor was taken before a magistrate of this place, who could find no accusation (mirabile dictu) against him, no law being applicable to a god; and consequently, Jupiter was dismissed."

The poetry contained deals generally with eulogies to satiric virgins who have departed this life, and occasional verses to the modest violets and blushing roses. A number of editorials and communications on slavery are printed. A recipe for the girl looking for a husband was "modesty, wisdom, modesty and virtue." One article reports the "Spiritual Condition of Infants," while another attempts to explain the suicide of a young man. Reuben C.

Pixier, Esq., of Sandusky county, was the Ohio agent for the magazine, and an admission for all prospective subscribers was "Those who never intend to pay are requested never to subscribe."

A first edition of "The Public Life of Capt. John Brown," by James Rodpath with an autobiography of his childhood and youth, was another find. It was published early in the year 1850 in Boston, by Thayer and Eldridge, 114 and 116 Washington street. The printing was done by George C. Rand and Avery.

The Life is dedicated to "Wendell Phillips, Ralph Waldo Emerson and Henry D. Thoreau, Defenders of the Faithful, who when the mob shouted "madman," said "saint." By James Rodpath." A picture and the signature of John Brown appears in the front of the book. The publishers—"would call attention of the public to the fact that a large percentage of each copy sold is secured by contract to the family of John Brown, and every purchaser thereby becomes a contributor to a charitable object which appeals to all freemen with a force that is irresistible."

The trial, hanging and death of John Brown is described in detail, and innumerable letters are quoted. The last speech of the man is given—"In the first place, I deny everything but what I have all along admitted—the design on my part to free the slaves."

Sketches of the Civil and Military Services of William Henry Harrison is the title appearing on a volume published in Columbus, 1840, by F. N. Whiting, R. P. Brooks, printer. The name R. P. Baker appears at the top of the book in faded brown ink. Authors are listed as Charles S. Todd, Late An Inspector-General in the United States Army, and Benjamin Drake, author of the "Life of Black Hawk, etc.,"—"quaque viriditas, et quorum pars magna futurus."

On the fifth page is the statement—Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1840, by U. P. James, in the Clerk's Office of the District Court of the United States, in and for the District of Ohio.

There are thirteen chapters, dealing with the parentage, education, army life, marriage, sub-division of public lands, Governorship of Indiana Territory, Indian treaties, interview between Harrison Tecumseh, the Indian, campaign in the Northwest territory, election to Congress in 1816, appointment to the minister's position to Columbia, the first and second nomination to the presidency, the parallel between Harrison and Washington, and his enjoyment of green old age in body and mind.

There are 154 pages of spotted yellow, and though the reading is complete, the edges have been chewed, by those indiscriminating poets, imps, who would just as soon chew "William Henry Harrison" as "The White House Cookbook." On the 163rd page is printed—in 1864, the governor of Indiana was upon the suggestion of President Jefferson, made ex-officio governor of Upper Louisiana.

The volume is small, only about 48, and at the end are the lines—Stereo-typed by J. A. James, No. 1 Baker St. Cincinnati.

Probably written for and purchased by the children of yesterday whose minds were to be trained in good moral tastes, was the book "Noble and Heroic Deeds of Men and Women." Below the title reads "Farm and Fireside Library, published monthly by Mast, Crowell, and Kirkpatrick, Springfield, Ohio, January, 1889, $2.00 year, 25c copy." The Deeds had for their editor Dr. D. Hartman, who fitted them out with a paper cover. The heroic men and women include sketches from George Washington to George W. Childs, philanthropist of Philadelphia. There can be no doubt that the little men and women of this time were raised differently than Joan Lovell.

Put into print a good many years ago was the Ohio Pioneer History. As the reader advances into the book, it is possible to lose touch with the familiar things about. The author, Isaac Crawford, has demonstrated that it not only fairly live the events in Colonel Crawford's Expedition to the Sandusky Plains in 1782. Close your eyes and move backward to the year 1782—

—one of war, bloodshed, and carnage. The Indian savages every opportunity to wreak their vengeance upon the unprotected borderers. The woods teemed with savages the most vindictive, and no one was safe from attack beyond the walls of a station, fort, or stockade. The tomahawk and the scalping knife, brought death in all the brutality of which the infuriated Red man was capable to young and old, to male and female settlers on the frontier. Crawford responding to the desperate call for help from the persecuted pioneers, fighting in the prairie grass and woods, very near the locality in which we are now living. The colonel met with a horrible death, so atrocious that even General Washington was greatly affected by it.

The story of Cressap and Logan (Tah-sah-jah) in the territory of what is now Ohio, is repeated. The scenes in the lives of these two men, a savage and a pioneer, are at times almost unbearable, but it is to be remembered that the minds of souls of those men cannot be judged by we who could not possibly see and reason as they did. Adventurers in the west in the 1770's are told; the causes and effects of the Dunmore war, considered the great event of the year 1774 on the western border.

But the high point of the paper-bound volume is last, and deals with "Ohio Territorial Laws, for the Punishment of Crime—by Charles B. Flood." The very things that are given in the code of early Ohio territory law are thought of today as being applicable to only the old, fading, Puritans of the early eastern coast settlements.

The introduction reads "A better class of men than the great mass of the first settlers of Ohio in other states have. They were, it is true, a frontier race—but were so in the best sense of the term."

The form of government used was that adopted by the last congress under the Articles of Confederation. The governor and the judges were appointed by the President. The leading citizens of the day were of the hardest Puritanic stock, or worse. A revival of the laws enacted would cause political death by even the utterance of a word. Every courthouse yard was allowed to be decorated with a "vigilant" man, officer and stocks. In the many laws dealing with punishment, a mob three or more persons, refusing to disband, can be whipped, not exceeding 39 stripes. Robbery at night was punished by 33 stripes. If the thief was made by the law-makers evidently decided that the thief was clever enough to not serve the stolen goods. Forgery and witchcraft were punishable in the manner. In order to make children or servants faithful, they could be publicly whipped, receiving 10 stripes. For larceny, and the party having no property, could be bound into slavery and labor for a term of seven years.

A drunkard was put into the stocks. He was usually fined five dollars for the first offense, and one dollar for each additional drunk. Dry wells were at one time used for "debtor's jails," but were later declared unconstitutional. Grift and scheming were evident early in the territorial life.

A direct descendant after the English precedents is to be found in the tracing of the criminal code of the territory. The code was imposed but little over for a time after 1802; the year of settlement.

By PROF. W. B. KRUECK

Some years ago the Wisconsin Experiment Station built a balanced ration as far as proteins, carbohydrates and fats were concerned, by utilizing the product of a single farm crop, such as corn, oats or wheat. They found in practically all cases where this was done, that the ration was lacking in some particular quality.

Now, the Michigan Experiment Station comes along and demonstrates again the importance of Calcium in the ration. They have found that the dreaded Milk Fever (tetany), which occurs in a great many dairy herds, can be cured by the use of a solution of Calcium Chloride. They have found that injecting about 60 to 100 C. of a 20 per cent solution of Calcium Chloride soon puts the animal back on the road to health.

As a matter of fact, in several cases where the air treatment had failed to produce results they saved the animal by injecting the Calcium Chloride. According to their reports, in some cases, the animal had recovered within six minutes after the ration was injected into the blood stream.

This should emphasize to the dairyman the importance of watching very carefully the Calcium supply that is available to his dairy cows, for the scientist has demonstrated that it not only has a vital influence upon the offspring but also upon the health of the individual itself.

His record in office shows that he distinctly deserves to be returned to the Senate. He is a statesman of the McKinley school—fearless, clean and capable.

He vigorously opposes the lowering of our standards of living as advocated by the internationalists.

He is opposed to those who have voted for tariff for revenue only and for the letting down of the bars of immigration to the hordes of cheap labor from abroad.

He fearlessly fights to protect our business, our wages, our agriculture and our homes.

Last fall I worked actively for the Constitutional Amendment to limit taxation and to make it possible to get tax relief for our farms and our homes. The voters of Huron County approved this by a vote of well over 2 to 1.

Since last November I have been serving on the Committee on Tax Legislation named by the Governor which has been working continuously to get a constructive tax program ready for the Legislature.

Tax relief can be accomplished only through careful economy and through constructive legislation and I ask your votes to that end.

ECONOMIST SPEAKS ON FARM PROGRAM

"miserable drinking," which caused poverty, was a crushing burden on the poor. Bootleg liquor costs 3 to 7 times pre-prohibition prices. It is a luxury of the rich.

The real economic burden of liquor is not so much the money wasted on it but the waste of productive power caused by the drinker. This has been reduced as drinking has been reduced. The vital question is the amount of drinking. It is here that the public is being most deceived. Yet even the statisticians hired by the anti-prohibitionists have not been able to figure out as much drinking as before prohibition.

The social value of prohibition is especially great in this age of machinery. Once we were satisfied with the temperance ideal, the temperance movement has long been recognized as necessary among locomotive engineers. Today we are all locomotive engineers; that is, we drive cars. Stockett, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles in Connecticut, says that the dangerous driver is the man who has only one or two drinks in him. He thinks he is sober, so he drives fast; but his nervous reactions are impaired just enough to produce an accident where otherwise there would be none.

We come now to the second and last point—the deceiving of the public. If prohibition is really so valuable, why is it that there are so many who do not believe that it is valuable?

How is it possible that so many people can be so deceived?

One reason is that the public loses its time-perspective. The drunkenness today is before their eyes. But the greater drunkenness before 1918 has passed into oblivion.

The present generation does not know what the old saloon days—and nights—were like. Let them read "Ten Nights in a Bar Room."

And besides this loss of time-perspective, there is a loss of class-perspective. Those classes which can afford to pay bootleggers find cocktails served by almost everybody in their set. But they do not realize what a small set that is.

Another reason why the public does not get a true picture is that the liquor interests are deliberately trying to distort the picture. The recent lobby investigation committee found ample evidence that the brewers are using the respectables of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment as a shirt-front.

They know that the real question is not between prohibition or some imaginary but undisclosed more effective form of control. The question really is between prohibition or the return of the saloon.

The chief points I wish to stress are:

- (1) that prohibition is far from a total failure;
- (2) that it is much more of a success than the public has been led to believe; and
- (3) that it can become a still greater success—in fact, becoming as such according to the observations of the new prohibition administration.

W. C. T. U. CONVENTION

For the third time, the city of Youngstown entertained the Ohio W. C. T. U. The convention was held in the city in 1882, in 1898, and again in 1928. Over 100 delegates from 15 states attended five hundred fifty-eight of whom were voting delegates. All of the officers were re-elected for another year. The state president Mrs. Florence Richards, presided at all the meetings, but in the absence of the vice-president Mrs. Viola Ruman, conducted the convention.

The city of Youngstown did everything possible to make the delegates feel at home. There was a sightseeing trip but there were cars for only about a third of those who wished to go. Visits were made to the jail and city hall. The mayor, chief of police, and sheriff, all declared themselves to be strongly in favor of prohibition and promised to do what they can to further the cause.

Four out-of-town workers spoke: Mrs. Len Gibbhead of Tennessee, Miss Roena Shaner of Missouri, Mrs. Mary Larris Armor of Georgia (better known as the "Georgia Cyclone"), and Dr. Clifford Gordon of Australia. All of the speakers said that never were young people so fine and capable as they are today. In Gifford works with young people, speaking before schools and colleges. Mrs. Armor said prohibition will win because she is praying for it, she has never failed to get anything that she has prayed for.

Several demonstrations of young people's work were given, church choirs and quartets sang, and there were several solos by Youngstown people. A colored boy from Columbus, who attended the convention with his mother, sang several times. He also went to the jail and was talked to by the observed prisoners. When he finished they were all in tears.

The Union at Plymouth was the only one in Huron county which sent a delegate to the convention.

Doctor Holt Celebrates Birthday

A very pleasant afternoon and evening was enjoyed by many friends and relatives of Doctor and Mrs. Holt who on Friday, Oct. 24, held "open house" reception in honor of the doctor's eightieth birthday.

Mrs. Holt's beautiful home "The Maple," was just adequate to accommodate the one hundred and fifty-four people from Cleveland, Mansfield, Shelby, Willard, New Haven, Ashland, Shiloh and Plymouth, who called to congratulate our highly esteemed citizen and appreciated neighbor, who finds so much real joy in working hard to keep the rest of us enjoying good health.

Many bouquets of beautiful flowers, birthday cakes and other tokens of respect were presented by old friends of the family.

Hostess at Hallowe'en Bridge

A charming hostess was Miss Lavern Sommerlott at her home on Park avenue on Friday evening, at a two-fable bridge affair.

Hallowe'en cats, with red streamers, pumpkins and bats gave the rooms a truly festive air. On the porch two grinning jack-o-lanterns greeted the following guests: Mrs. Harriet Farrar, Mrs. Mirtam Hershiser, Mrs. Phelma Brown, Miss Grace Dickson, Miss Mary Sheeley, Mrs. Irene Pettit and Miss Marguerite Boardman.

A lovely two-course luncheon featuring the Hallowe'en dainties, was served, after which Miss Pettit was presented with first prize, and Mrs. Hershiser was awarded second gift.

E. E. S. Class Enjoys Lively Hallowe'en Party

On Tuesday evening, October 27, the E. E. S. Class of the Presbyterian church held a very interesting Hallowe'en party at the home of Mrs. Wallace Smith, East of Plymouth. The class, in keeping with the occasion, were dressed in Hallowe'en masked fashion. The fantastic and fanciful style of dress and gown would be hard to describe; for each member was dressed differently from every other member. It was very difficult to guess who was who and it was very interesting to see how very quiet each could be in order to conceal identity. Contests, games and music formed the entertainment. About fifty were present. A vote of thanks was extended Mrs. Wallace Smith for her "open house" in providing the place for the Hallowe'en party, and aiding in different ways to make the entertainment so pleasing.

Masquerade Party Honors Birth of Mrs. Scelala Valk

Mrs. Scelala Valk of Shelby was quite surprised to find guests in Hallowe'en costumes arriving at her home Monday evening, and more surprised when she learned that the members of the D. of U. V. had planned the masquerade in honor of her birthday. Much comment was caused by the unique and attractive costumes and merriment prevailed during the guessing and unmasking. Games and costumes pertaining to the season were arranged throughout the evening.

Twenty-two members were present and at the conclusion of the evening enjoyed lovely refreshments. Guests from Plymouth included Mrs. W. C. McPadden, Mrs. Jean Seville, Mrs. Ed Phillips, Mrs. Lolla Bevier and Miss Harriet Rogers.

Miss Grace Dickson Hostess At Six O'clock Dinner At Country Home

Presiding at a six o'clock dinner Tuesday evening, Miss Grace Dickson was a gracious hostess at her home near Plymouth. Covers were laid for twelve. In the center of the table was a toothless jack-o-lantern with a lighted candle glowing through the eyes and mouth. Tall Hallowe'en candles in crystal candle sticks were arranged on either side of the pumpkin with smaller candles and holders at the ends of the table. Miniature pumpkins served as mini cups and favors, and were greatly admired by the guests. The names of guests were written on the arched back of a black tomato, near which were to be found orange and black paper hats of all sizes and shapes.

A delicious four-course dinner was served featuring King chicken and all the remaining Hallowe'en delicacies. Every guest vowed that it was the best dinner ever served, and "fit for a king's banquet." The dim lights of the candles made the dark witches, brooms, and skeletons appear twice as spooky as they looked about the curvins and in the corners of the rooms. Bridge tables were then arranged. After the scores were totaled, Miss Carrie Orewielier was awarded first prize, and Miss Martha Garnhart was consoled.

Enjoying the evening at the Dickson home were Misses Doris and Carrie Orewielier, Martha Garnhart, of Shelby, Lenora Kuhn, Mrs. Sheeley, Laverne Sommerlott, Ruth Baldut, Lucile Penner, Elizabeth Seely, Marguerite Boardman, Mrs. Phelma Brown, of Plymouth.

There were many beautiful exhibits, and a number of well known speakers and authorities on flowers spoke along lines relating to the blooms. Mr. Dick is an ardent flower enthusiast, and raises many lovely plants in his greenhouse and gardens.

rather in their glad rage, forty-three in number. Each individual was kept busy guessing the identity of his neighbor, which was indeed difficult because of the completeness of the disguise. The "twins" caused much speculation, as did also the four "Knights of the Road." The "Palma Gentlemen" caused much amusement, and the contents of their luggage caused great hilarity.

The members and guests were initiated into the mysteries of Hallowe'en up two flights of stairs, where the dance floor waited. Apples, chestnuts and popcorn furnished occupation during intermissions. Notwithstanding the great quantity of these which disappeared, there seemed to be no loss of appetite for the good things served later in the evening, not forgetting the pumpkin pie and doughnuts without complete.

The next meeting of the Guild will be held in the church annex, November 4, with Mrs. Howard Walters, Mrs. Clem Hills, and Mrs. Chris Shoop as hostesses. Members holding Dime Cards will please be prepared to turn them in at that time. All
