FIRST SCHOOL FOUNDED IN 1825

In the same year it was laid out, the people of Paris built a small house, which was to be used for both school and religious purposes. All denominations contributed to its construction and all used it. Aaron B. Horro was the first teacher, and an excellent school was conducted by him. A Mr. Brown succeeded Howe. Mr. McKelvey established a school for young ladies in 1830. Competent teachers were secured for the seminary, and the school became popular and useful. An additional school house was built in 1832 and this, with the first one built, served Plymouth until 1851. A union school was then built. This building afforded better accommodations than were at that time given in all Huron or Richland counties. In 1875 the present structure was built—and in 1930 the new P. H. S. was completed.

The Public Schools
The superintendents in charge since the organization as a union school have been as follows: 1850 to 1853, C. L. Raynor; 1853-59, J. B. Getman; 1859-64, J. B. Getman; 1864-68, J. B. Getman; 1868-70, J. B. Getman; 1870-72, J. B. Getman; 1872-74, J. B. Getman; 1874-76, J. B. Getman; 1876-78, J. B. Getman; 1878-80, J. B. Getman; 1880-82, J. B. Getman; 1882-84, J. B. Getman; 1884-86, J. B. Getman; 1886-88, J. B. Getman; 1888-90, J. B. Getman; 1890-92, J. B. Getman; 1892-94, J. B. Getman; 1894-96, J. B. Getman; 1896-98, J. B. Getman; 1898-1900, J. B. Getman; 1900-02, J. B. Getman; 1902-04, J. B. Getman; 1904-06, J. B. Getman; 1906-08, J. B. Getman; 1908-10, J. B. Getman; 1910-12, J. B. Getman; 1912-14, J. B. Getman; 1914-16, J. B. Getman; 1916-18, J. B. Getman; 1918-20, J. B. Getman.

The course of study consists of thirteen years; after eight years are spent in the study of the common branches, the next three years are spent in the study of the higher studies of the course. The schools are in excellent grade, there being two grades of one year each in each room, except in the high school, where there are three grades in each room.

HOTEL HAS ITS UPS AND DOWNS

The fate of the Plymouth Hotel seems to be following closely. Some time between sundown on Friday, and sunrise on Saturday, the former proprietor, Mr. Charles B. Hassinger, left Plymouth, and has not been found yet.

He was accompanied, apparently, by Rose Schonfeld, who has been assisting at the hotel since last fall. Walter Wecht, of Wooster, Ohio, owns the building, and Hassinger held a lease for the premises. According to F. L. Hackett, employed at the hotel, the water, light, and coal bills have not been paid. Wages are yet owing to several employees.

Wecht, who was in Plymouth on Friday, asked Hassinger to pay his bills, or leave. The manner in which the hotel man left, however, breaks the validity of the lease. Wecht returned on Monday, but made no definite statement. A checkup revealed numerous articles about the building, missing.

Hassinger opened the hotel in September, when he came here from Ashland. Rose Schonfeld gave her home as Ebreve, Ohio. The hotel will be open for a week at least under the supervision of Hackett. Wecht bought the building when Frank Smith sold out. Elga Castle, of Ashland, held a lease on the building before Hassinger obtained possession. The barber, who operated in the lobby of the hotel, was taken by the Franklin Finance Co. of Mansfield, on Thursday. It had been purchased from the Anderson Co. of Mansfield.

Hassinger has one daughter, Hester who resides in Ashland. Mrs. Hassinger is confined in the Wooster Institution for the insane.

Mr. J. H. Dawson of Shiloh was a Plymouth business visitor Tuesday.

Mr. Ted Berberich of Akron enjoyed the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Berberich.

John L. Clifton To Speak at Dedication of High School

FRIDAY NIGHT SET FOR THE FORMAL DEDICATION OF PLYMOUTH'S NEW $75,000 SCHOOL BUILDING; T. S. DAVIS ON PROGRAM

The dedication service of the new Plymouth High School building will be held on Friday evening, March 21. Plans have been completed, and the program will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

Dr. John L. Clifton, director of the state department of education, in Columbus will give the principle address. Dr. George Searle, Jr., president of the board of education, as chairman of the evening, will introduce the speakers. Mr. T. S. Davis, state superintendent of the Plymouth school, and Miss Mary Haupt state school examiner, will speak. Music will be furnished by the Plymouth Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Lucille Fennell.

Prof. T. S. O'Leary before the program opens the building will be open for inspection, and for a time after the service.

The new building has been erected at a cost of $75,000, and efficiently cares for the present enrollment of 150 students. A combination plan was worked out for the construction of the school building, auditorium, gymnasium and a seating capacity of 650. The playing floor is 38 by 68 feet. Acoustics have been improved by the use of cinder blocks in the wall construction. The combination plan has been used again in the laboratory, and the same room is used for general science, biology, chemistry, and physics.

The cafeteria lunch room, and the home economics department are combined together to good advantage. A study hall is conducted in the library, under the direction of the teacher. The commercial department, which has recently acquired much importance in the high school, uses typewriter desks, the plan being to accustom the students to office conditions. The location of the manual training room in the rear of the building removes the noise of the lathe from the recitation rooms, and also will make further expansion of this department possible.

A superintendent's office, two equipped recitation rooms, two rest rooms, showers, and locker rooms complete the building besides the laboratory.

Since 1875, the old school building, Old P. H. S., standing at the corner of West Broadway and Railroad streets, has served to prepare its students for the race of life. By looking over the list of graduates we find that many have forged to the front, and the heart of each is reverence for P. H. S. But change is inevitable, and a new P. H. S. was needed. Tomorrow night we dedicate the new P. H. S.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Troup returned to their home in Hammond, Ind., after a pleasant two weeks visit with their sister, Mrs. Samuel Fate and family.

Entertainers For Citizens of Paris

There were probably not more than four leveled log houses in Plymouth township prior to 1820. Those were owned by Alexander McBride, Mr. Griffith, John Long, Benjamin Wood, Jacob Vanhousen, Long and Vanhousen had boards supported by poles in front of their cabins, upon which was inscribed, "Entertainment," which meant in those days, "Hog, hominy and whiskey." The refreshments were enjoyed by the party to a moderate compensation. Whiskey was fifteen cents per gallon—the pure stuff—and was therefore used about as freely as water.

"Oh, Here's to Thee, old P. H. S." P. H. S. POST "The School We Hold Most Dear"

DEDICATION ISSUE

AN EFFICIENT BUILDING FOR A SMALL HIGH SCHOOL

In planning a building for a small high school, a very common mistake is made by merely scaling down the plan for a larger building. Very often this makes it impossible to conduct full sized classes. This makes necessary one of two things, overcrowding or keeping the size of the classes below that required for economical administration.

By avoiding this type of error and by making judicious combining of activities to be carried on in the same room, a completely up-to-date fire proof school building has been constructed in Plymouth, Ohio, for $75,000. To a large degree, the exceptional utility of this building is the result of the fact that the architect worked in close harmony with the superintendent of the schools, and in this way was enabled to adapt the building to the actual teaching conditions to be met in a building of its size and kind. As a result, the bond issue of $75,000 has proved adequate to complete the building which houses efficiently the present enrollment of 40 students, and will accommodate an additional 50 students.

COMBINATION GYMNASIUM AND AUDITORIUM

Avoiding the rather common mistake of building an under-sized auditorium and a small gymnasium with inadequate seating facilities for spectators, the architect planned a combination auditorium-gym, which as an auditorium will seat comfortable 450, and as a gym, has a 68x38 playing floor and will seat 400 spectators by using bleachers on the stage to supplement the 268 fixed seats. These fixed seats are also used for all student assemblies and other meetings when it is not desirable to use the portable chairs on the gym floor. The use of cinder block in the auditorium walls is not only an economy feature, but provides exceptional acoustic properties.

LABORATORY

Instead of having for each science a separate laboratory, which, in a small system, must be idle a large part of the time, there is one large combination laboratory. In the front of the room is a combination instructor's desk, and in the rear, a laboratory.

ACHIEVEMENT BANQUET

The Achievement Banquet, which has become an annual event, is to be held next Tuesday, March 25 at 6:15. The public is most cordially invited to attend. Anyone who wishes a ticket can secure them from the 7th and 8th grade civic club.

This year we are especially fortunate in having Mr. H. R. Townsend, Commissioner of high school athletics of the State of Ohio, for the principal speaker. Athletic letters will be awarded and all who have defended the honor of the school in any kind of inter-scholastic contests, will be recognized.

The dinner will be served by members of the Home Ec. Class under the supervision of Mrs. Harsessa. We wish to have a large crowd as possible and there is plenty of room, so come all and don't forget the date, Tuesday, March 25.
Prices—Adults 75c; Children 50c.

THE MAYFLOWER

The members of the Senior Class are beginning intensive work on the Mayflower. Letters announcing the publication have been sent of the alumni. The date for the delivery of the annuals has been set at about May 15. The annual year will contain a complete description and several pictures of the new building. We hope to make it of interest to those who spent their high school years in old P. H. S. and to those who are interested in our schools.

Junior Bachrach is advertising Manager of the Mayflower and any information concerning advertising may be obtained from him. The price of the Mayflower will be one dollar. Annuals may be reserved by sending to the Mayflower Staff, Plymouth High School or thru any member of the Senior Class.

GIRLS' GYM

The entire last period on Monday and Wednesday of each week is used for girls' gymnastics. Miss Panscott, the instructor, has the girls spend one third of the time for formal gymnastics, one third for exercises and one third for games. The class is held in the large gymnasium of the building, until nice weather, then there shall be hikes, out side games, and track. Although there are fifty, all dressed in the proper gym outfit of black and white, there is plenty of room in the gymnasium. Eleanor Snyder, '31

COMMERCIAL CLUB

The Commercial Club of P. H. S. held its regular meeting, March 12, 1930.

Following the reading of the minutes, the members of the club discussed some business matters concerning the raising of some funds with which to buy some extra equipment for the commercial department of the high school.

A supper was decided to be the best means by which to raise these funds.

AUTOCRAFT OF THE NEW SCHOOL

John understood what the new school meant
To the pupils, every one.
And he, wishing to express his gratitude,
Conversed with Mr. Mann

You see, he said, it's a wonderful school
With rooms ten and four,
And every one has black boards smooth
And the greatest hard wood floor

Radiators? Oh my yes!
Why was only the other day,
That one of our teachers got a little close,
And nearly flew away!

You see our janitor certainly knows how,
To build a cozy fire,
Windows are many and to open and close,
Is every pupil's desire

Speaking of windows I must tell,
About the shades of tan
Well to compare the color is very hard
Oh—say a sunburned man

I think it's just the hardest thing,
I ever tried to do,
To tell just how we love it,
To any person or you.

I might tell you about the out side too,
The site, the trees, and its dress,
But you see it's really not completed,
All the same it's nice, we confess.

HIGH SCHOOL DEBATERS IN SEMI-FINAL ROUND

COLUMBUS, O., March 26—Semi-final round of the third annual Ohio State High School Debating League tournament will be held March 27. Four teams survive from a field of 16 in the semi-finals. Fremont will oppose Troy, taking the affirmative of the question, and Ravenna will debate Canton McKinley, likewise having the affirmative side.

The question throughout the debate has been: Resolved, that trial before a judge or board of judges be substituted for trial by petit jury in the United States. The final championship debate will be held here April 5. The league is sponsored by the division of public speaking Ohio State University.

GUESTS AT HURON VALLEY

Mr. Dunlap left Saturday morning for Philadelphia where he will be connected with the Philadelphia Record. Mrs. Dunlap will leave in two weeks for Miami Beach, Fla., where she will spend some time with her mother who is enjoying the winter in Florida.

SH! NOT SO LOUD, PLEASES ALL

The play "Always in Trouble" sponsored by the P. T. A. was a success in every respect. The Auditorium was well filled and in spite of the low price of admission, a clean profit of $80 was turned into the P. T. A. Treasury. The Lutheran S. S. orchestra added much to the occasion, and their music, to judge from the glances we caught beneath the curtain, was enjoyed as much back stage as in front.

Dr. Gaskill is to be congratulated on his admirable work in coaching, and Mrs. Eastman to be commended in her selection of the cast. Every character, from Misery Moon to the newsboys, carried their part to perfection. Raymond Hatch as "Misery Moon" was a howling success, and upheld his reputation in portrayals of that type. It was worth the price of admission just to look at Carrie Gebert as the old maid, and Vic Munn, as the Awful Nut, and their clever acting coupled with their appearance, was one of the hits of the show. Dave Scrabfield as the old millowner, surely

PERU BOY IS YET MISSING; NO CLUE IS FOUND FOR MANLET BOY

As yet, no trace has been found of Walter Wilhelm, the 15 year old boy, who disappeared from his home in Peru on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wilhelm, his parents, last heard of the boy at noon on Sunday. At about the same time as the disappearance of the boy was noticed, the body of his close friend, Robert Manlet, 15, was found on the Steuben road about 80 rods from his home, with a bullet through his heart.

The missing youth had never been of a roving disposition, and had been much attached to the home circle. He had never been away from home for any length of time. His disappearance has aroused more interest in Huron county than has any case for many years.

When last seen the boy wore blue overalls, a blue jacket, both quite new, shoes, and a brown cap. His weight is 114 pounds, and he is five feet in height. A few friends and relatives state that Walter was of a retiring disposition which only deepens the mystery.

Funeral services for Manlet were held Thursday morning at 9:30 at St. Joseph's church, at Monroeville. Interment will be made at the Monroeville cemetery. On Tuesday afternoon the Sophomore class of the Monroeville high school, of which both boys were members, visited the Manlet and the Wilhelm homes to pay their respects to the families which tragedy has touched.

POSTMASTER WILL BE NEEDED AT SHILOH

Shiloh needs, or will need in the near future, a new postmaster. At the request of the postmaster general, the United States Civil Service Commission announces an open competitive examination to fill the position of postmaster at Shiloh at which a vacancy exists. It is expected that appointments will be made after the results of the examination are made known, but it may be that a promotion or transfer will be made to fill the vacancy.

Under an executive order of May, 1921, revised in May of 1925, the examination is held but the procedure is not provided for under the Civil Service Act. The date set for the examinations will be stated on the admission cards which are sent to applicants. It will probably be fifteen days after the date for the close of April 11, 1930.

On the day of the examination, applicants must submit to the examinee their photographs taken within two years, pasted on the space provided on the admission cards. Typewritten, or proofs will not be accepted. Applications containing full information as to requirements made and the character of the examination, are sent from the Shiloh office, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C. All applications must be filed with the commission prior to the close of business on the date specified. The examination will probably be held in Shiloh.

CONSERVANCE PLAN FOR COUNTY IS COMPLETED

Plans for flood prevention in Madison-twp and Richland county, which have been in the making for three years, are now open for public inspection in the Millpark building, Mansfield, room 216.

The plans call for an expenditure of $1,750,000 in construction work in the district above stated, and have been filed with the conservancy board, and approved a few years ago to devise a program of flood relief. The report was made by the Chicago engineering firm of Alford, Burdick and Howson, and stand approved by the board, according to Atty. Charles H. Workman, legal advisor of the board.

The program is called "the biggest improvement Mansfield and this section of the state has ever seen." Flood conditions, 40 percent greater than have ever been experienced here at risk care of. Territory included in the plans takes in all of Madison-twp and Richland county except two sections in the eastern part which drain into Blacky creek.

The public will have until April 12 to file any objections to the plan, and submit them to the Conservancy board in written form. A hearing on the plans and any exceptions will be held May 2 at 10 a.m. after which the plan will be adopted for the conservancy district.

PHILIP WEYGAND, SHELBY, STEPS IN FRONT OF AUTO

Philip Weygand was injured in Shelby Tuesday evening when he was struck by an automobile on West Main street. The accident occurred in front of Black's Furniture store as Weygand stepped from the sidewalk directly in the path of a machine driven by Hiram Littleton.

Littleton called the Barkhill ambulance coach and the injured man was removed to the hospital. After reporting the accident to police headquarters, Littleton was not blamed for the accident, as he had been driving carefully. Weygand suffered a fracture of one leg, and cuts and bruises, but is not in a serious condition.

Many a hotel menu card carries the name of Downend, and the name is frequently mentioned in meat market advertisements. May many more years of success be his.

HURON COUNTY HAS SIX CANDIDATES FOR SHERIFF

The recent so-called "slump" in business evidently did not effect politics in any way. The latest report has it that there are six men in the race for the position of Huron County sheriff.

The former sheriff, Edward Gregory is considering a trial run for the hotly contested office. Charles Crum, of Greenwich, has already definitely cast his hat into the ring, and the third Republican candidate is the present sheriff, Harry D. Smith.

PARKING LIMITS PUT ON MANSFIELD STREETS

A half-hour parking limit has been established in Mansfield for three downtown streets, Walnut, Main and Fourth, which were becoming notorious for the traffic congestion. A ten minute limit has been placed for parking on Mulberry-st, by the post-office building.

These changes in the parking limits will be effective on April 1, 1930, and should be observed by all residents and visitors in Mansfield. The action was taken at the council meeting Tuesday night, after a number of councilmen contended that the traffic problem was getting out of bounds.

Drivers Examined 7,000 School Buses

The examination and licensing of 7,000 school bus drivers in Ohio as a sequel to recent grade crossing disasters in Northeastern Ohio has brought Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown and officials of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles under him face to face with a situation hitherto unparalleled in the history of the state.

An opinion handed down by Attorney General Bettman prior to the school bus campaign states in effect that "anyone who operates a motor vehicle as an employe or for hire is a chauffeur within the meaning of the law and must be so registered."

It is estimated that there are 150,000 drivers in Ohio affected by this ruling of the Attorney General and as this number cannot be examined and licensed overnight by the available machinery of the Bureau, state officials feel that local enforcement authorities should cooperate by granting a reasonable time to license this vast army of drivers before starting prosecution.

Many motor fleet owners in certain sections of the state are protesting to Commissioner Wilson that local authorities are arresting their drivers for not having chauffeur's licenses. They feel that a reasonable time has not been granted them in which to comply with the law.

The W. C. Gump Company

At Main and Broadway, Shelby, is Sales and Service for the Nash and Chevrolet Car—is Pleased to Demonstrate any Model—Sales for Atwater-Kent and Day-Fan Radio and "1900" Washers.

Durability, beauty, comfort and distinction are embodied in the new models of the Nash and Chevrolet cars, which are now being shown at the salesrooms of The W. C. Gump Co.

The new Nash "400" is a car that typifies the most advanced ideas in motor car construction, and is an auto of many superiorities and exclusive innovations. All models are equipped and appointed most excellently, and everything that makes for greater pleasure and comfort in motoring has been added. No matter what price you pay for a Nash, it will have the famous centralized chassis lubrication. This is a most modern system and operates with no trouble and little exertion. Riding in a cushion of oil, Nash bearings last longer than those in other makes, while the entire chassis is oil cushioned. This makes for easier and more comfortable riding at the same time adding materially to the life of the chassis, the springs, and other vital parts of the auto. Life-time lubricated springs add to the life of the Twin Ignition 8 and 6. The springs are thus protected for all time against rust, and thus do not squeak or work inefficiently.

Offered in the Twin Ignition Eight, the Twin Ignition Six and the Single Six, the 1930 Nash offers a wide range of models from which to select. A variety of beautiful body styles completes the picture of a motor car that has been famous since the first car was constructed and offered to an appreciative public.

The "1900" Washer, on display here, is one of the most advanced washers of the day and is used by thousands of households in this section, and has given the utmost satisfaction in every case. It has many exclusive features and operates most satisfactorily under all conditions.

This firm handles the leading and finest sets now on the market, and they will be glad to demonstrate any set to your entire satisfaction. They handle the famous Atwater-Kent and Day-Fan radios, which have come to be recognized as among the leading sets now on the market.

In this review, we are pleased to refer them to our readers.

BIRTH REPORT

According to the February list of births reported by the health department there were 89 babies born in Mansfield and Richland county during the month.

The number of births recorded in this county for the past month shows a decided increase over the figures for the previous months. Dr. T. R. Meyer, city-county health commissioner pointed out. The average number of births for the past several months has been 75, he said.

Of this number 46 were girls and 43 were boys. In counting the report, statistics show that 60 of the births were in Mansfield and the remaining 29 in the county.

By the President of the United States of America
A Proclamation:

WHEREAS, by the Act of Congress approved June 18, 1929, the Fifteenth Decennial Census of the United States is to be taken beginning on the second day of April, nineteen hundred and thirty; and

WHEREAS, a correct enumeration of the population every ten years is required by the Constitution of the United States for the purpose of determining the representation of the several States in the House of Representatives; and

WHEREAS, it is of the utmost importance to the interests of all the people of the United States that this Census should be a complete and accurate report of the population and resources of the Nation:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Herbert Hoover, President of the United States of America, do hereby declare and make known that, under the law aforesaid, it is the duty of every person to answer all questions on the Census schedules applying to him and the family to which he belongs, and to the farm occupied by him or his family, and all other Census schedules as required by law, and that any person refusing to do so is subject to penalty.

The sole purpose of the Census is to secure general statistical information regarding the population and resources of the country, and replies are required from individuals only to permit the compilation of such general statistics. No person can be harmed in any way by furnishing the information required. The Census has nothing to do with taxation, with military or jury service, with the compilation of school attendance, with the regulation of immigration or with the enforcement of any national, state or local law or ordinance. There need be no fear that any disclosure will be made regarding any individual person or his affairs, or the due protection of the rights and interests of the persons furnishing information every employee of the Census Bureau is prohibited, under heavy penalty, from disclosing any information which may thus come to his knowledge.

I therefore earnestly urge upon all persons to answer promptly, completely and accurately all inquiries addressed to them by the enumerators or other employees of the Census Bureau and thereby to contribute their share toward making this great and necessary public undertaking a success.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the great seal of the United States.

A Short History of Plymouth Village Founded in 1825

Plymouth, then called Paris, was laid out in 1825, at the junction of latitude 41 and Beal's military road, (county line) by Abram Trux, John Barney and Lemuel Powers. It consisted of forty-one lots, and lay partly in New Haven township and partly in Plymouth township, Richland county. The village had a rapid growth. All of the original forty-one lots were sold within two years' time, and several additions were made to the town plan. The first frame building was erected by William Crall, and the second was built by three young men from Pottsville, by the name of Wilson. When the plat was laid out it included sixteen log cabins, occupied by Abram Trux, Patrie Lyche, Benjamin Woolley, King, Henry Rose, Abner Harkness, A. E. Bodley, Harlow Barney, John Barney, Henry Barney, Christian Culp, Hugh Long, H. F. Taylor, W. C. Enos and Lemuel Powers.

L. Powers was the first physician in the village; Enos, the first lawyer; Curtis the first tailor; W. Moore and John Skinner the first shoemakers; Hugh Long, the first tanner; Lynch the first blacksmith; R. Morfoot the first bricklayer and plasterer; A. Bodley the first wheelwright; and A. McLaughlin the first cooper.

The first tavern was built by James Dwyman. Two others were established soon after this by Jacob Heller and Mr. Linsey. Two distilleries were started—one by Lemuel Powers and by M. McKelvey. The latter discontinued his business because of injury, and the former became converted to the abstinence view and changed his distillery into a successful hat factory.

Plymouth was incorporated about 1824. The first mayor was A. Bodley, and the clerk was Morfoot.

In 1878 officers elected were: Mayor Jacob Culp; clerk, J. Beckman; council, W. Cuykendall, W. McClincy, H. Parker, Phillip Upp, J. Fleming, L. Gansaulius; supervisor Alexander Clark; treasurer, Daniel Wyandt; Marshall C. A. Beelman.

A change in name was proposed for the town, and Plymouth was suggested. The objections were "Plymouth was a damned Yankee name," "a cursed Puritan name," but the name was adopted nevertheless. The village took an early stand for Prohibition. R. Morfoot raised the first building that went up without the aid of whiskey.

Presbyterian Church
The first Presbyterian church was organized by Rev. William Matthews, February 22, 1819, and consisted of 41 members. The majority of the members came from the state of New York. The first elders were Levi Bodley, John Conklin, Abram Van Houten and David Gansaulius. The first building erected in 1824 stood about a mile and a half south of Plymouth. In 1823 14 members withdrew from the fold and began separate worship. A larger edifice was built in 1840. In 1853, 22 members withdrew and began the Congregational church. In 1879, the congregation consisted of 151 persons and held no debt.

Lutheran Church
The Lutheran church was organized in 1847. Original members were S. Truesler, Felix Fenner, Jacob Harmon, John Gross, David Ganoung, Charles W. Powers, Simon Turner, Felix T. Fenner, A. T. Hills, G. Hills, A. Denison, Jacob Pland, Peter Miller, W. Miller, J. Miller Elizabeth Fenner, Matilda Fenner, Caroline Light, Mary Light, Mrs. J. Miller. The church was built in 1842 at a cost of $1,500. In 1850 an addition was made, and in 1862 the auditorium was frescoed at a cost of $500. The membership in 1879 was 200.

Methodist Church
A formal organization was not made until 1831, although the church, worship had begun years before. In 1857 a brick structure was raised, at a cost of $8,000. S. H. Parker donated one and a half village lots, and another was purchased by the society. The membership in 1879 was 90, and Rev. Mattison was in charge. Trustees were: S. Parker, A. Upp, B. Rannels, J. Bell, S. Holtz, G. Ebit, J. Emmerson.

Catholic Church
St. Joseph's Catholic church was organized in 1872, by Rev. Father M. Pitts. A neat frame church building was erected the same year. Those who were active in starting the movement, which resulted in its establishment, and who have since been prominent supporters of the church, were: Joseph Mittenbuler, Wentzel Water and Jacob Stracker.

Plymouth Girls' Literary Society
Library
A Literary Society for Plymouth girls was organized in 1873. The members were 13 girls, from 13-15 years of age, the object being to arrange a library for their own use. The first officers were Ida Getman, president; Arte McDonough, vice president; May Culp, secretary; Celia Schonberg, assistant secretary; Rena Billstein, treasurer. The sum of $45 was raised in 1873 by means of a fancy fair. A bookcase and a few books were purchased. By means of socials, etc., the number of volumes was increased to 600. Officers in 1879 were: Lou Strong, president; Rena Billstein, vice president; May Culp, secretary; Jennie Culp, treasurer. The society occupied a room over the First National Bank, and the library was open to all.

Bank
The First National Bank of Plymouth was established in December, 1871, with a capital of $50,000. The following were on the Board of Directors: H. Breckenridge, J. DeViney, D. Slocum, L. Kilburn, S. Robinson, W. Cuykendall, M. Billstein.

New Haven

New Haven was regarded as a rival, in matters of Trade, of Norwalk and Mansfield in 1830. When the Sandusky, Mansfield, and Newark railroad was completed the town began to decline. Shoe making was once one of the principal industries. The principal business of the place was mercantile. There were at one time five dry goods stores, and sales of $500 a day, was not uncommon. Through the counsel of Judge Ives, the price asked of the railroad was too high, and the town was passed by.

OHIO SONG WANTED; OTHERS HAVE ONE, SO APPEAL IS SENT OUT

COLUMBUS, O.—"Wanted: A real Ohio song."

This appeal has been sent out by every resident of Ohio from the office of the state department of education, with the request that Ohioans submit poems from which the official song of the state may be selected. "Maryland has its own stirring song 'Maryland, My Maryland,'" J. L. Clifton, state director of education, said in commenting upon the song campaign. "Wisconsin has her stirring battle cry 'On Wisconsin,' but Ohio has neither an officially adopted song nor even a popular Ohio song. The department of education, realizing this need, is launching this campaign so that the state may have a song of which it can be proud."

Substantial prizes will be offered, it was announced, and no resident of Ohio is barred from submitting a song that will treat in a poetic way of Ohio's beauty, her worth in civic, educational and commercial progress. The rules will be few. The poem should have at least three stanzas, Clifton said, and the lyric submitted in order to be given consideration, must be of the high literary type, lend itself to musical setting and treat of the commonwealth, her greatness and her grandeur. If a musical setting is submitted with the poem, it must be of equal merit.

It is not necessary, however, to submit music with the poem, it was pointed out.

The winning song will be broadcast over several Ohio radio stations, and Ohio's 1,500,000 pupils will be afforded an opportunity to learn the song this year. It is hoped the singing of the song by 10,000 Ohio school children may be a feature of the National Education Association meeting here in June and July.

Colonial Schools Were Different

As we look out upon our modern brick and stone school houses with up-to-date class rooms, laboratories and gymnasiums it is difficult to realize the improvement in our educational system since the days when the United States first became a nation. The old time school master usually had teaching as a side line and the regular vocation might have been any of a half dozen trades or professions. It is not generally known that schools were first established in the colonies only to teach the young to read the Bible. The secular advantages of education were not realized until later. In an interesting article in the current issue of the National Republic on the subject of education in Colonial days, Mary G. Lockwood says:

"The lot of the colonial school teacher was even less happy than that of Gilbert and Sullivan's policeman. Judging from the duties listed for his performance in a seventeenth century New England 'Town Book' the activities with which the unfortunate schoolmaster was charged are as follows: 1. To act as court messenger; 2. To serve summons; 3. To conduct certain ceremonial services in church; 4. To lead the Sunday choir; 5. To ring the bell for public worship; 6. To dig graves; 7. To take charge of school; 8. To perform other occasional duties.

"The occasional duties included the carrying on of missionary work among such of the tribes of neighboring savages as could be corralled for the purpose. For his work, the schoolmaster received an annual salary something less than fifty dollars, and, if the community was generous, also the use of a house and garden. Driven by necessity, an industrious teacher by the name of Adam Roelandsen took in washings.

"In many cases the teacher was an indentured servant who had sold his freedom for a period of years in order to pay for his passage to America. Such men usually served only one family and, of course, received no pay. George Washington's father is said to have kept an indentured servant in his household as tutor.

"Richard O. Boone in his historical work, 'Education in the United States,' quotes a royalist of 1763 who claimed that: 'At least two-thirds of contemporary Maryland education was derived from instructors that were either indentured servants or transported felons.' These 'felons,' it must be remembered, had for the most part been convicted by the savage laws of those days for political offenses or seized for debt. The royalist observer continues, 'Not a ship arrives either with redemptioners or convicts, in which schoolmasters are not as regularly advertised for sale as are weavers, tailors, or any other tradesmen.'

"Women were not formally recognized as teachers until after the Revolution and did not become numerous until a much later date. The so-called 'Dame Schools' were little more than day nurseries in which a mother amused her own children and those of her neighbor while attending to her own housework.

"A man trying to drive a balky horse can find out just how his wife feels when he acts up that way.

Early Pioneer Celebrates Birthday

The oldest man of Greenwich township, who names the late Myron T. Herrick, among his friends, celebrated the rounding of his 96th year on last Saturday. He is Charles W. Hopkins of Greenwich.

Hopkins was the son of a pioneer, and later, a pioneer himself. By wagon caravan, he crossed the Allegheny mountains and journeyed with his parents to Greenwich, then only a cluster of log cabins. At 20 years of age he started work in the Greenwich postoffice, and later became postmaster in Ripley. When the Big Four sent its branch through the town, Hopkins headed the logs for the ties.

He first voted in the election in which Lincoln and Buchanan featured. The friendship with Myron T. Herrick began when the latter was a customer in Hopkins' butter, and cheese business. This pioneer attribute has been a part of his life and perseverance, in all things. He was possessed of all faculties until the day of the birthday celebration, when he suddenly realized that his hearing had been lost. The following is the story of the 96th celebration:

"Mr. Charles W. Hopkins was born in Tuckertown, New Jersey, on the 14th of March, 1835. He came to Ohio with his parents in the fall of 1840, traveling in two covered wagons in company with several other pioneers. "Not liking the general condition of things after six months of the new life, they returned to New Jersey. Five years later they again tried the journey west, this time traveling by water, by the way of the Hudson river, the Erie canal to Buffalo, and by rail boat to Huron, Ohio. They were met by friends and finished the journey by team to Greenwich, Huron County, Ohio, where he helped to carve out a home in the forest.

"Mr. Hopkins can trace his ancestors to Joshua Hopkins who was a passenger on the Mayflower which landed at Plymouth Rock in 1620. "He was united in marriage to Ann Mitchell, September 28, 1859, and he is the father of fourteen children. "He voted for his first president in 1857 and has voted at every presidential election since that time. Hopkins has always been a strong Republican.

"Believing in a strictly temperate life, he has never used alcoholic liquor, or tobacco in any form. "Mr. Hopkins and his wife joined the Methodist Church in their early married life and brought up their children according to strict religious principles, as his ideas of life dictated.

"The worthy man has retained all of his faculties and has an extremely good memory. As a conversationalist, this pioneer holds one's attention, not only being able to tell of things that happened in the long ago, but reads and is well informed of the affairs of the present time.

"His daughters, knowing that the 95th birthday of such a worthy American should be fittingly celebrated, planned a party to be held on the 15th of March, so that all grand-children attending school could attend. About 40 were present.

"An interesting visitor was Mr. George Frazer, an old friend who celebrated his 90th birthday in February. A special table was set for the two "boys," so that they could enjoy the dinner together. Telegrams of congratulations, and flowers were sent by relatives who could not be present."

Hopkins is spending his declining years at the pleasant home of his daughter, Mrs. Rose Miller, who lives on West Main street, in Greenwich. She has kindly consented to share her home with him, a fact which he deeply appreciates, as he frequently says, "This is a pretty nice place for an old chap like me." As the day drew to a close, the guests departed wishing the pioneer many returns of the pleasant birthday anniversary.

High Lights on J. L. Clifton

Dr. John L. Clifton, who will be the featured speaker at the Plymouth State Dedication on Friday evening, started, as have many other men who have achieved recognized success, at the bottom of the ladder.

After preparing for a career in teaching, he worked towards the top and served nine years as a superintendent of village and, later, city school systems. He was made assistant superintendent of state education in Ohio when his worth was realized. Several years later, Clifton was made a professor of education at Ohio State University, and it can be truthfully said that there is hardly a school of any size that does not have one or more teachers, once students in Dr. Clifton's classes.

Dr. Clifton has achieved recognition not only as a speaker before teachers' institutes in Ohio, but in many other states. He was appointed director of education by Governor Donahay, when Vernon Riegel resigned.

The duties of director of education are many and varied. He classifies and inspects the schools of Ohio; he superintends the courses in 1400 high schools, and must also approve the courses for the training of teachers; his is the responsibility for the distribution of the millions of dollars of the State equalization law; in 1927 the General Assembly gave to the department of education, the charge of the State schools for the Deaf and the Blind; Clifton is deeply interested in these institutions; under his guidance motion picture films are censored; he introduced rural education to Ohio.

1. Equal educational opportunities for all children.
2. A broad educational highway for the kindergarten to the university.
3. Trained teacher for every child.
4. Adequate school buildings and suitable educational equipment for all our school children.
5. Efficient supervision for every teacher.
6. Wise administration in every school system.
7. An open door for every adult who would continue his education.
8. Larger units of taxation.
9. A fine arts program in every school.
10. A health education program in every school.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE IS GIVEN DONALD ANDERSON

A birthday surprise party honored Donald Anderson on Tuesday evening given by his mother, Mrs. Bert Anderson. The guests who enjoyed a 7 o'clock dinner were Millard Hale, reddie Keeler, Stewart Meachum, Vincent Taylor, Reginald Ervin, Whitney Briggs and Mr. Peyton Thomas, besides the family. A number of fine presents were given Donald in remembrance of his 17th year. Games of rums and hearts proved the entertainment of the evening, and the boys left at a late hour.

YOUTHFUL NEW LONDON ROBBER IS CAUGHT

John Bloom, a youthful Jesse James was taken to the county jail in Northwood, Tuesday, after he had confessed to the robbing a New London store, and several petty school thefts.

Bloom, 16, the 16 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bloom of New London, Marshall Clarence Myers took the boy from New London to Northwood, on the charge of burglary at the C. A. Blackman's store, New London. The theft occurred early Tuesday morning. Entrance to the store was gained by the breaking of a window. Myers saw the boy in the store, notified Blackman, and the two caught Bloom.

He will probably be turned over to the juvenile court. Little loot was obtained.

BELLAMY RESIDENCE BURNS TO GROUND

The large main room house of Mr. and Mrs. S. Bellamy, Norwalk, was completely destroyed by fire last Friday night. The residence is located on the East Norwalk road, a short distance west of St. Mary's cemetery.

The fire broke out about midnight in the upper part of the house in the rear, and spread to all parts of the building in a short time. The city fire department arrived with two large pumps but had only two barrels of water to work with. The house had recently been re-roofed. The flames from the burning place illuminated the neighborhood and could be seen for many miles.

The Bellamy home is covered, partly at least, with insurance. Neighbors helped to remove the furniture, and the furnishings from the first floor were all saved.

FRIENDSHIP CLASS PARTY HELD TUESDAY EVENING

Mrs. John Hester delightfully entertained a large group of members and friends of the Friendship Class at her home on West Broadway last Tuesday evening. She was splendidly assisted by Mrs. Van Robinson, Mrs. Wm. Topping and Mrs. Leon Davis.

The color scheme for the evening was attractively carried out in bright green. After a short period of visiting the regular meeting was opened by singing "Blest Be The Tie That Binds." Mrs. Stotts led in a very impressive devotional service. She used for her theme the thirteenth verse of the fifth chapter of St. John and read from a Bible one hundred years old which had belonged to Mrs. Hester's grandfather.

Mrs. Stotts emphasized the idea that we should not let material things crowd out of our lives the great things of spiritual value, that we should not be so busily engaged in the work of the church that we forget Christ. She closed by leading the class in repeating the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. McPadden then conducted the business meeting in which several matters of routine interest were attended to and plans were made for sponsoring an entertainment in the near future. Several contests were then held which proved exceedingly entertaining. Mrs. Mac Edwards showed ed herself a true daughter of Erin by winning the prize in both the Shamrock hunt and the Barney Stone contest.

She also displayed ability in clock repairing. Other contests discovered experts in peeling potatoes and blowing bubbles. The hostesses served dainty refreshment appealing to the eyes as well as to taste in the delicate arrangement of the evening's color scheme.

Guests of the class were Mrs. Howe from Indiana and Mrs. Shoris of New York who are visiting their daughters

Mrs. Ingeha Scott and Mrs. Emma Holtz; Miss Helen Montgomery of Youngstown, the house guest of her aunt, Mrs. Desale Davis, and Mrs. Blanche Lofland of Sandusky Street. The meeting proved a most enjoyable one and the class looks forward to the next gathering which will be at the home of Mrs. Cora McIntire on the evening of April 15.

gave a realistic presentation, and we enjoyed his every appearance in his old wheel chair, although we held our breath several times, fearing he would roll out over the foot lights.

Wanda BeVier and John Reed as Rosebud Reese and Tom Risale, displayed their real histrionic ability to good advantage and their musical numbers were hits, the only criticism being that there was not enough of them.

Dorothy Root and LeRoy Brumbach as the Ragtime Girl and Ticket Seller, contributed their full share to the show, and their wedding scene was a riot.

Helen Hoffman as the Bohemian, had an opportunity to display her dramatic talent, and handled her role in a perfect manner.

Mable Doyle as the flower girl, was charming.

Marguerite Boardman and Eldon Nimmons as the country bride and groom, gave us one of the prettiest scenes of the evening.

Laura Gaskill, her family, Helen Miller and Ted Jenkins, created much amusement.

Stella Eastman, as the hard bodied female, put her characterization across well.

Hulihak Davis, Doris Lutz, Madeline Smith, and Marguerite Drew, as the college girls, with their songs and dance, added much to the entertainment.

Deryl Cramer offered his singing specialty in his usual pleasing manner, and this was enjoyed and appreciated by all.

The two newboys, Ben Smith and Bill Ross added a realistic touch to the depot scene.

And last but not least, every one thoroughly enjoyed the two dusky crows, Eliza Scrafield and Ruth Anderson, who with their clever dialogue "vocal" efforts, and "asthmatic" dancing, at the opening of the show, started the laughter of the audience. They were still laughing when the curtain went down, and if that doesn't mean the show was a success—well how much do you want for a quarter, anyway?

By One of the Audience.

WORD FROM ELIAS

Local friends have received word from Elias Helfer, who recently left for California, that he had a very pleasant journey, arrived safe, and enjoyed the many interesting sights through the West. He also states that he has purchased property and will make LaVerne his future home.

LaVerne is situated about four and one-half miles east from Los Angeles and is in the "Heart of the Orange Belt."

Elias who is also known as "Doc" has been a familiar figure for many years in Plymouth, and it is with regret that he no longer will hail his many friends with a "Fier Day."

Elias is well known throughout the community as well as by the railroaders with whom he came in daily contact while meeting the trains to carry the mail to and from the local post office. "Honeybee", his faithful steed was equally as well known. He will be greatly missed, but the best wish of the entire community are extended to him in his new home.

This application may be made by mail or otherwise upon blanks prepared and furnished by the Secretary of State and applicants can then receive examination at central points set up by Commissioner Wilson.

Every application for examination must be sworn to before some officer authorized to administer oaths and must contain the name and address of the applicant, together with a statement that he is of sound mind and memory and physically competent.

For this reason Chalmers R. Wilson, Commissioners of the Bureau of tor's desk, fitted with sink, water, gas and electric outlets. Next, there are 15 two student inelocum top tables. In the rear of the room are four four-student combination chemistry-physics tables equipped with sinks, water, gas and electric outlets. With this arrangement, there is no need for a separate lecture room and large classes can be accommodated in each of the sciences, general science, biology, chemistry, physics and geography.

HOME ECONOMICS AND CAFETERIA LUNCH ROOM

The same combination idea is carried out in this department. Instead of having separate sewing and cooking rooms, one large room is used. There are four four-student kitchens and an additional kitchen for the preparation of the cafeteria lunches. There is a model dining room and ample shelves and cupboards. The sewing tables are used for serving the cafeteria lunch. With a fitting room, built in ironing board, and sewing machines, this department is complete.

COMMERCIAL

Since there are not enough students to keep a separate typing room busy all day long, this department is equipped with combination desks. This plan not only conserves space by permitting all the Commercial subjects to be taught in one room, but has the additional advantage in that pupils may work under what are more nearly actual office conditions.

STUDY HALL LIBRARY

In order to conserve teachers, the library is housed in the rear of the study hall. In this way, the study hall teachers can supervise the work of the student librarians. A charging desk with wings extending almost across the room, serves to keep papers from the stacks, and also provides storage space for magazines and unsightly yet essential equipment. A convenient door provides access into the adjoining commercial department where students engaged in extra typing may be supervised by the same teacher.

SHOP

A busy shop is sometimes unsightly, so this one is located in the rear of the building, which is here of one-story construction. Located in this place, it can easily be enlarged to meet the demands of any future expansion.

CLASS ROOMS

In addition to the special rooms described above, there are three recitation rooms. The Superintendent's room is of ample size, with walking room. There are two rest rooms, and the shower and locker rooms are larger than those usually provided in buildings of this size. The architect is Granville Scott, Norwalk, Ohio. The contractor is the Hetrick Construction Co. of Columbus, Ohio.

HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT

The Home Economics girls of P. H. S. are now becoming used to their new department.

Our Home Economics equipment is all located in one large room. We were donated a number of cans which were divided into sets, each set being painted a different color. These are used for supplies in each kitchen. There are four unit kitchens and each one contains a kitchen cabinet, four stools, sink, gas burner, oven and the necessary utensils. The Manual Training boys are now working on some small drop leaf tables, which are to be used in the kitchen. The lunch room is at the north end of the room and is equipped much better than the old one. We have it arranged so by a slight inconvenience we can serve the small children at the other building.

Our sewing tables are nearly in the center of the room and are used by the students at noon for lunch tables. The department contains a built in ironing board and a dressing room, which the girls surely appreciate. The Home Economics girls have earned enough money to buy a nice supply of tumblers and coffee cups, which were added to our set of dishes, also some small articles for the unit kitchens. We have our small dining room, which is very modern but at the present time lacks furniture. The hopes are to have it furnished sometime soon. C. S. '32

THE SCHOOL CAFETERIA

The luncheon opened February 24. The Home Ec. II girls plan the menus, post them in both buildings, the Friday, before they are to be served. Everyone signs his name the day he wants to stay.

The Home Ec. II class get the supplies and prepare most of the lunch in class periods from 8:45 to 10:45. Two eighth grade girls finish the cooking from 10:45 to 11:45. These two girls and one Freshman girl serve at the High School Building, then clean up the luncheon kitchen.

Two girls from the Home Ec. II Class take the lunch down to the old building so the smaller children can have a hot lunch. Mr. Jenkins, Perry Grimmer, Mr. Miller, and Vincent Taylor make a steam table in the old building. The Parent Teachers paid for the material, and also for the receptacles. We wish to thank them as it was appreciated very much by us, an also by the children at the old building.

Four hundred and sixty-eight were served the first three weeks the luncheon has been operated. We try to serve the food at cost, and if there is any profit, it is used for equipment.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT

The new Commercial Department in the new school house certainly outshines the old one, which was one of the rooms of the portable. It is a standard class room with ample light and no wind can whistle through the windows. At the present time there are ten stenographers and six combination Bookkeeping and Typing desks. With the proceeds from the benefit commercial dinner on April 10, the Commercial Club hope to purchase four more combination desks. It is necessary now to use some old tables moved from the old school house.

Mr. Derr has said he can't remember how long he has been there. They detract from the present appearance on the room but by proper patronage to the dinner, this may be remedied. There are eighteen short hand and typing students and two studying secretarial work which is open only to Juniors and Seniors. The Gregg system is used in shorthand.

It is necessary for first year secretarial students to type 25 words per minute for fifteen minutes with five errors or less. They are to complete the shorthand principles in the Gregg Manual. Seven from the typing class have won the typing award, a bronze medal, which means these seven have reached the necessary standard. There is one pupil who has won a forty word word.

There are fifteen in the Bookkeeping class. They are using the McKinsey Bookkeeping and Accounting which is a two year plan. Mr. Derr has established a rule whereby beginners start out using blue or red ink paper. As they advance they are able to type 15 words per minute for 15 minutes they are entitled to use pink paper. When they can type 25 words per minute for 15 minutes, they are entitled to use blue paper. The ones who can type more than five hundred words per minute for 15 minutes are allowed to use green paper which is quite an honor for a first year student.

The typing class takes care of most of the correspondence of the school. They send out notices to the alumni each spring which means about five hundred to seven hundred letters. They also mimeograph all the exams. The Bookkeeping class keeps the accounts for school activities and reports to the School Board once a month. In all this is a most important department in our new school and one which which we could not get along.

MANUAL TRAINING

The latest department to be organized in P. H. S. was the Manual Training Department at the beginning of the school year of 1929.

The original plan was that a thousand dollars was to be expended for equipment, but as other things were more essential only three hundred dollars was allowed; therefore our equipment is rather limited. Of the three hundred dollars, a hundred was spent for four benches, the remaining two hundred being available for tools.

The P. T. A. furnished a lathe for which we are very thankful. Another machine which would be desirable is a power saw. Twenty-seven boys are enrolled in this class, each of whom spend an hour a day on some project on which he is interested, the project being of help our choosing.

Individual items which have been made are: eight bird houses, 32 fern stands, 2 chairs, 3 tie holders, 1 boiler rack, 3 smoking stands, 7 flower boxes, 15 end tables, 9 hall trees, 5 bird feeders, 4 jewel chests, 2 foot stools, 3 chests, 5 bookshelves, 8 pedestals 2 table lamps, 2 tool chests, 1 towel rack, 4 ironing boards, 1 wall shelf, 1 garden arch, 2 wheel barrows, 1 combination stool and step ladder, 1 flower trellis, 2 magazine racks, 1 library table, 4 book ends, 1 shaving cabinet, 1 engine pulley 1 manual trowel work bench, 1 shoe rack, 1 rosbush trellis.

Many articles have been made by the boys for the school which represent a saving of many dollars. They are: bleachers, two 12 feet picnic tables for cafeteria lunch in grade building, 4 dropleaf tables, 1 reference shelf, 2 chairs refinished, 1 office shelf, 6 chairs repaired, 1 work bench 24 ft long, 1 stool for library.

OUR LIBRARY

The library may well be regarded as the most important or one of the most important departments of the school. At any rate, we librarians think it is the most essential for we are certainly kept busy during study periods.

First, a few words about the location. We have been fortunate enough to secure a large oak desk which runs the full width of the study hall. This was placed in the back part of the room in front of the six long shelves of books. There is a special case for teacher's reference, including encyclopedia, etc., at the side of the study hall.

At Supt. Miller's request, the Mansfield Library has sent one of their staff of librarians to direct the organization of the library. This was done without charge as a part of the county work, for which the Mansfield Library gets county support.

Considering the large amount of work there was to do, we believe we have accomplished a great deal. Special instructions were given to the student librarians concerning the arrangement of the library. This is giving the librarians valuable experience and a large amount of credit should be given to our head student librarian, Harriet Cornell, who is donating most of her time outside of classes to library work. The typing class also deserve credit for their work on the library cards. L. A. P. '31

BULLETIN BOARDS

Among the new equipment in our high school are the Bulletin Boards. There are five in the building; one located in the lower corridor, which contains all general information including a school calendar, and important announcements; another is in the Home Economics department. On this board may be seen the latest modes and spring fashions beside a list of helpful hints for the kitchen. A third one hangs in the Latin Room. The material placed on this board pertains principally to Latin or English and pupils receiving A's in a Latin or English class must place at least three clippings on it in order to retain the grade. This is an incentive for reading the educational articles of our daily papers and magazines and an ideal way to improve your grade in these classes. A fourth Bulletin Board is located in the large study hall. On this board is published a list of overdue library books and articles concerning the library. The remaining one hangs in the upper hall and unnecessary questions if they are properly used. Any interesting contributions is always appreciated—Let's use them often. R. F. '30

SENIORS ARE P. H. S. CHAMPIONS

The Seniors did it, but not without some stiff opposition. Although the Sophs were held scoreless in the first quarter, they soon "pepped up" and showed they were also out to bring home the bacon. In the last quarter it looked as though the game might end a tie, but a fast spurt by the Seniors won them the game and also the championship. Jenkins was high scorer for the Seniors and Moore for the Sophomores. The final score was 34-21.

SPRING TRACK

Twenty-five answered Jack Jenkins' call for spring track last week. Running is being done in the street as there have not been sufficient funds to construct a track.

Some of the boys are majoring in track while others are devoting their energies in the road events.

Although it is not a very widely known fact the boys of our last year's team were District Class B. Mile Relay Champions.

Several of the boys have graduated. It will be hard to see them all with and prospect's look good for the season. Junior Bachrach is captain of this year's team.

The season schedule follows:

- Mansfield Reserves, at Mansfield—April 5.
- Willard, at Willard—April 11 or 12.
- Shelby, at Shelby—April 18.
- Mansfield Reserves, at Mansfield—April 25 or 26.
- District Meet, at Ada—Either May 9-10 or 16-17.
- State Meet, at Columbus—May 23-24.

FACULTY vs. BUSINESS MEN

In a game full of excitement and fun the Faculty defeated the business men.

The first half seemed to be in favor of the business men, the score being 3-0. In the last half, which was fast and furious, the Faculty picked up and defeated their opponents.

Reed was high scorer for the Faculty and Tucker for the Business Men.

A feature of the game was that it was played by the proposed new rules which do not require a center toss at the beginning of the game, possession being determined by a flipped coin. The team gaining possession has the ball out of bounds beneath the other team's basket. After a basket is made the other team has possession under that basket.

The final score of the game was Faculty 27, Business Men 22.

CHAPEL

At the chapel service on Wednesday, March 12, the first song was followed by a reading of the ninety-third Psalm by James Scherbert, and the Lord's Prayer, by all. There was a second song, "Annie Laurie," and announcements by Mr. Miller.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Green! Green! Green candy, green clothes and green flags, green things they call shamrocks. What's all this about?

It is St. Patrick's Day. But to begin with, St. Patrick was not Irish at all, but British, having been born in Scotland. He grew up under the Christian teachings of his parents. He often wondered if it would not be easier to be a heathen than a Christian.

One stormy night when Patrick was sixteen years old, some pirates from Ireland broke into their home. He was taken to Ireland and sold as a slave where he was forced to feed his master's swine. He was often hungry and cold, but he thought of his mother's teachings and it helped him to endure it.

One night in a dream, he heard a voice say, "You shall soon return to your home. Babel! a ship is ready." He set out for the seashore and there was a ship which took him back to Scotland. According to his mother's desire he stayed at home for some time. Again he had a dream, this time bidding him to go help the Irish. After some preparation he returned in 432 to spend his life, preaching among them. He won many people to the Christian faith.

The poor people used to worship snakes. No one dared to kill them and they were a great menace. Patrick went around beating his drum, and his power added to the noise, caused the snakes to jump into the sea. In all Ireland today you can not find a snake!

Patrick established many churches and schools. Poets and musicians came to these schools. They turned their harp to the service of God and their music was so beautiful that the snakes stooped down to listen. That was the harp became the badge of Ireland.

After many years of faithful service, in the spring when the shamrocks decked the land with their dainty green, Patrick died. Every where there was mourning and the ceremonies lasted for twelve days and nights.

Now, whether he died on the eighth of March or on the ninth, was not known. After much debate the Irish people added the dates together and now have the seventeenth for St. Patrick's Day. He was chosen as a patron saint and Ireland worships his memory and keeps it green forever. In every Irish family, there is sure to be a Patrick or Patricia. To this day, some people wear green in memory of St. Patrick.

THRESHOLD TO FAME

It may seem quite a distance from the street to the door of the school house, on these fine spring mornings and noons, but students afflicted with spring fever, think seriously what a short distance it is to walk to get your education. I know how many of you in a time of mental depression, have looked at the schoolhouse with scorn, but I'm sure if you would only stop and think what it means to you, you would greet this new school house with your cheeriest smile and deepest gratitude.

You could only realize now what a great privilege it is for you to be able to walk over the threshold of this new school building in after years, you wouldn't look back with shame when you recall how unthankful and ungrateful you acted. Now students, that we are becoming settled in this new building, it would be an excellent time to down the scornful appearances and obstinate ideas. No one could ask for a more beautiful portal to pass through than the one in our new building, so after we have left let us make it possible by our conduct here, to recall it with the fondest memories. E. S. '31.

PERSONAL ESSAY

Now, when I was a lad, I of course, being a man of twenty-five years now, we had an ideal athletic field. We had a team of one or two miles every night on our splendid track. In fact sometimes we ran almost to New Haven and back. Oh no! We had no cinders on it. It was all concrete and was a perfect straight-way for the one mile dash, except when it went up hill and down.

And our football field, was it a wow! It was fully twenty-five yards square and the grass was no more than two feet long. And teams, why one team, including all eight players, averaged almost one hundred and thirty-five pounds. I was well known to see all our track men played, why they averaged the twenty-five yards from end to end in twenty-seven seconds, timed by an Ingersoll. You would like to challenge us to a track meet and a football game? Why my man, if we could get our old teams together, we would do it. But lucky for you, we can't. Well, I'll come out and see your teams some time, but they can't compare with ours and our athletic field. H. F. L. '31

"Yes, we have a Chemistry Lab. in our new building. It is very nice, to be sure, and it's a great advantage to us, too. "Well, it may be alright, but I'll wager that instead of offering a better education it will only offer more work for the doctors and better advertisements for antiseptic. When I was in school we never wasted our time with such foolish things, why only last night, the neighbor boy was bragging over being the first to explode any thing in that plant, it will be the ruination of all our nerves."

This differs greatly from our own opinions of our experiment quarters and we consider it a great opportunity to grasp. And despite all criticisms we will keep on preparing Hydrogen and still live to tell the story.

THE MAGNATE THE CHRIST OF THE CROSS

By Rev. J. W. Miller

Sometime ago, the writer read an essay written by a cultured English Essayist. The subject of the essay was, "The Aversion of men of taste to the Evangelical Religion." The chief objection to the Cross, from the viewpoint of this English man of culture, the Cross of Christ is repulsive and has no place in modern civilization. For the Cross, men of culture will have nothing but aversion.

Observation and experience reveal something vastly different. You have seen that little, red painted piece of steel, called a magnet, doubled into the shape of a capital letter U. With this magnet you can pick up needles, tacks and bits of iron filings. It is an interesting but very mysterious instrument. It has a remarkable power to lift things.

Up in the sky is another magnet, more powerful than that. It is the moon; it does not look large to you; it is so far off. Yet the moon lifts up the whole volume of water in the ocean several feet each day, forming our tides. The moon is not great, but its lifting force in the world. The sun has a drawing power so much greater than the moon, that the moon's power would seem in comparison with it as the strength of our little finger. No one can understand the sun's pulling power. It is simply bewildering to our senses.

There is a more powerful magnet still. "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto myself." Who said that? What did it mean? Jesus Christ, the Son of God. He meant that if He was put to death on the Cross, it would be because He loved us, and was willing to die to save our souls from eternal death, as the result of sin. This fact would be told all over the world in time, and through all the centuries to follow, and would attract all peoples to Him. That story preserved in the Gospels, and showing the love for sinners, is actually lifting our race up to its moral level. You cannot understand the tremendous weight of that load. He is lifting, until you come to understand what it is for the souls of men to be weighted down with sin. The weight of material worlds is nothing compared to it. For nearly two thousand years, He has been drawing mankind up to Him in increasing numbers.

The Power of the Cross was first felt by the thief on the Cross; by the three thousand on the Day of Pentecost; by the millions down the ages. To resist the Power of the Cross costs more in time, in money, in convenience, in liberty—infinitely more—than to yield to His matchless Person!

Why Jesus draws men. Because of His matchless Personality and His unbounded love. As the kite in the air pulls on the string, so Jesus' love pulls on the heart. Jesus draws by His winsome gentleness; by His Marvellous compassion, sympathy and understanding; by His wonderful power, to soothe, comfort and uplift all kinds of nationalities and conditions of mankind. His gentleness wins children, his compassion wins the sinner. His power and Personality draw the strong and manly, and His love impels the world!

Jesus is the answer to the cravings and needs of the body, "I will give you rest;" of the mind, "Ye shall know the truth, and the Truth will make you free;" and of the soul, "This is life eternal;" "I will give them Eternal Life."

14 FEATURED PLAYERS

IN "HIT THE DECK"
What is considered the most pretentious musical comedy ever produced since the advent of talking pictures, opens Tuesday at the Temple Theatre. It is Radio Pictures' lavishly, technical production of "Hit the Deck."

Fourteen well known stage and screen players compose the cast which is headed by Polly Walker, Billie Beauty, and Jack Oakie, the sensational new comedians. Four in the list were brought directly from New York to Hollywood to appear in the picture, Polly Walker, Robert Gray, Frank Woods and Marguerita Padula. George Orey, Harry Sweet, June Clyde, Wallace MacDonald, Nate Sloss, Dell Henderson, Charles Sullivan and Andy Clark are the others.

Luther Reed, who directed the Radio Pictures musical extravaganza "Rio Rita," directed "Hit the Deck," assisted by Fred Fleck, a director in his own right.

Nine songs are included in the musical repertoire of the story. The "Hallelujah" song, a solo in the stage version, has become an entire sequence sung by 100 negro vocalists. TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, MARCH 25-26-27

SUPT. MILLER CLEARED OF DISHONESTY BY SCHOOL BOARD

In the inspection report of the accounts of the Plymouth Village Schools, based upon the examination made November 22, 1929, there is a finding against Supt. Miller. It must be understood that it is the duty of state examiners to report conditions just as they find them, without any regard to the motives or intentions of the parties involved. While it is not the purpose of the Board to shield any guilty person or cover up any dishonesty, out of fairness to Mr. Miller, we believe that the statement of the following facts is necessary.

During the summer of 1929, Mr. J. L. Judson handled the text books and work books bought by the students for use in the summer school. Mr. Judson had agreed to handle them for the fall school term, but just before school opened, he decided that he did not wish to be bothered with them. The Board could not get any other store to handle them, so Mr. Miller had the teachers sell them to the pupils. Each time, when the teachers paid over their money to Mr. Miller, he required of them an itemized list of the books sold. These lists are still on file in the office of the clerk, and they formed the basis of a complete itemized statement accounting for every book and piece of seatwork handled by Mr. Miller.

Before Supt. Miller could make a settlement with the School Board, Mr. Judson, the Clerk was stricken by a fall, and as a result lay in a semi-conscious state for several weeks. The Board, hoping for his early recovery, hesitated to appoint a successor. When Mr. Judson's continued incapacity made it necessary for the Board to appoint a successor, Mr. Miller asked what to do with the book money. He was told by the Board to hold it until the books had been audited and formally turned over to the new clerk. It was several weeks before the state auditor who was busy elsewhere, could come. When the examiner did arrive and made an audit, the money which Mr. Miller held had to be reported as a finding. There was no attempt at fraud, for the Board very well knew that Mr. Miller had the money and Mr. Miller made no attempt to conceal the fact that he had it. The examiner, at the time the audit was made, instructed Mr. Miller to pay the money to the school board to be credited to the general fund. It also developed that the Board had been holding back part of the salary due to Mr. Miller, and the clerk was ordered to pay to him all the money due to him. These transactions were made according to instructions as the books of the board of education, cancelled checks on file, and the books of the bank will show.

In this connection, there is one other matter which has no doubt caused comment. It is the finding of $4.47 against the People's National Bank. This was merely a clerical error, but legally had to be reported as a finding by the state examiner.

Any fair-minded person can realize how difficult it was for one inexperienced in the complicated method of accounting which the law requires clerks to use, to take over the books of another clerk when the former clerk lay in a semi-conscious state near to death's door and unable to converse with anyone. It was for this reason that the Board was unable to instruct Mr. Miller into which fund to pay the money, and so told him to hold it until the state examiner should arrive.

Tree Used as Corner Stone; Book in Cavity

KENT, O., March 21—For the first time in history, a living tree has been made to serve as a monument to a man whose life work is finished and as a "cornerstone" in which has been laid away the record of his organization of a science which made him famous.

The tree is an American elm, 50 feet in height and 18 inches in diameter, which was taken from a forest and replanted today at the entrance to Roosevelt high school as a memorial to John Davey, father of tree surgery.

A cavity nearly a foot deep was cut in the trunk of the tree and in the niche so formed was placed a copy of his book, "The Tree Doctor"—the book which made known his conception of a new science.

The cavity was then filled with sectional concrete according to the principles which Davey originated. The wound will start to heal immediately. Bark will creep over it and in time all traces of the "operation" will disappear.

THE FAIR-WEATHER MAN

During the recent days of fine weather did you notice the reading on your disposition thermometer? Did you notice a change in the reading after the preceding season of wet, cold days? In other words, just how far are you a "fine weather man"? It is entirely too easy for us to regulate our smiles with the sunshine. And entirely too many people do just that. Blue Monday may be a superstition, but the friendly laugh is quit likely to fade as the sun goes behind a cloud. With the sky a dull grey, the rain a monotonous beating, and the air a chill wind that causes coat collars to be drawn across, how much easier it is to feel funeral than like singing "Smiles!"

How much more sensible seems the pessimist than the optimist; how much more quickly does a trifling incident upset the day when the weather is disagreeable, when we experience a change of weather similar to last week. When Sol climbs high about noon, and the office door stands open so that the sounds of the highway come in, and a robin hops around the curbstone, we find that those worries and annoying duties slip off our shoulders and we revel in our optimism. Undoubtedly this practice is not the best. Our neighbor is not responsible for the weather. A surly word to him will never change the temperature. How unpleasant to live near, the fair-weather man must be, but how easy it is to be one!

THERE'S PLENTY TO DO

(By Glide Wieder)

One frequently hears from men, and also from women, that time hangs heavy on their hands, that they have nothing to do, that they are "bored to extinction" and are so afflicted with ennui that life is stale and profitless.

Does it ever occur to all such that there is an abundance of work for everybody and especially for those who "have nothing to do."

Reference is especially made to that fortunate—or possibly unfortunate—class that are not obliged to work for a living and whose time is mainly employed in the killing of it. These are the last who should complain.

Having plenty of time, and nothing to do save trying to amuse or entertain themselves, they above all others, should endeavor to imbibe something of the spirit of altruism, the desire to do something to better and brighten the lives of those whose environment may be somewhat drear and drab.

There is never a dearth of work to employ those who are willing to do something to bring a little cheer and sunshine into the surroundings of others.

There are elderly people, without children or friends, who are living lonesome lives, and would appreciate a friendly call. There are shut-ins whose physical disabilities prevent them from mingling to any extent with their fellows who would welcome visitations, a cheery letter, some little gift of books and magazines, or other manifestations of interest in them.

Have not many of us oldtime friends and acquaintances, not necessarily those who may need material assistance, but who are pining for a little of the association and companionship of years ago, when we were frequently their guests and partakers of their hospitality and bounty, while we may have in large measure overlooked them, because force of circumstances and their inability to entertain as formerly have caused us to see them rarely, if at all? Think it over—fair weather friends are a poor lot.

WHENCE COME FASHIONS?

There used to be a notion that a sort of secret conclave of designers and retailers and manufacturers met at intervals in Paris and decided on what women should wear. The facts seem to be otherwise, judging by the loud howls from these very classes of people in Paris and here when femininity takes the bit in its teeth and runs away with a style that upsets the trade from top o bottom.

Certainly public preference for a new novel, a new dance, a play, a politician, public interest in a new murder game, don't depend on any high convocation of expert opinion altogether, though these count, as the books-of-the-month go to prove. Women, like the rest of the public, spot something they like and go to it. It has some peculiar merit of its own at a certain time. Hence fashions. The astonishing rise of a hair style, a hosiery style, seems to depend on a mixture of influence from leaders and from the crowd. It can't be forced nor predicted.

We often wonder which of the two women in a telephone conversation considers herself winner of the endurance contest.
