STATE LAW MAY UNDERGO CHANGE

Ohio State Bar Association Opens Meeting At Cedar Point Wednesday

The Ohio State Bar Association which opened the mid-summer meeting at Cedar Point yesterday, will discuss a change in the state laws affecting almost every phase of activity.

If carried, will be described by a change in Allard's sentence—new laws for old. Laws affecting almost every phase of human relation from child adoption to settling of estates as well as the field of regulatory law governing motoring and aviation will be brought up.

An outline giving the approximate ground to be covered was submitted by William G. Pickrel, of Dayton, president of the bar association, in a bulletin of the more important subjects, and includes:

- Complete revision of Ohio probate law.
- Complete revision of laws relating to jury system.
- Trust companies and the practice of law.
- Proposed licensing of motorists and insurance laws to compensate for injuries in traffic accidents.
- Proposed retirement system for judiciary.
- Amendment to Workmen's Compensation law.
- Amend mechanics lien law.
- Revision of probate laws has been given two years study and action of the association upon the committee's recommendation on this subject will be of interest to every lawyer in the state.

The jury system opens a wide field for discussion of such subjects as prohibition and crime.

Insurance companies and automobile clubs will be much interested in (Continued on Page 8)

The panels represent the value of home and community hygiene and home nursing.

FARMERS FACE SHORTAGE IN HAY DUE TO POOR CROP

Because Ohio farmers are facing a probable shortage of hay for the winter feeding, many of the straggly fields which appear unworthy of being cut, may prove valuable.

Official forecasts by the federal crop reporting service indicate a crop of 55 per cent under normal, and in some areas under 50 per cent, with the half million tons of last year's hay still on Ohio farms may bring higher prices if sold this fall, than if sold when new.

More than that for any other crop, the price for hay is influenced by local conditions. Hay is bulky, hard to haul, and costs more to ship than other crops. According to the crop reporters the nearest good hay crops are in Nebraska, Iowa, and South Dakota—too far away to affect seriously the prices in Ohio. Dry weather during the past year, as much as the hay fields, has a most serious effect, and is followed by an increased demand for hay.

FLASH OF PACERS—FLORAL DISPLAY—AT FREE FAIR HELD AT MANSFIELD, O.

MANSFIELD, July 10.—Free horse racing, with cheering trotters and pacers flashing around the turns, the back stretch and past the big steel grandstand and the judges' stand! Free saddle horse show with the three and five galloped thoroughbreds parading under the guidance of colorfully attired ladies and gentlemen. Free game exhibit from the Ohio Department of Fish and Game, of much interest to the children and their elders as well. Free flower show with beautiful floral displays from the prize gardens of central Ohio. Free vaudeville, furnished by high class entertainers, augmented by three excellent bands.

All of this varied entertainment, clean and wholesome, may be enjoyed, without cost, at the Mansfield Free Fair, which is to be held an entire week, night and day, at the County Fair Grounds in this city July 20 to August 2, both dates inclusive.

The Richland County Agricultural Society decided this spring, after careful investigation, to substitute this big free fair in place of the usual county fair, and during the mid-summer, when the days are fair and the nights are warm, instead of late September or October when weather conditions are oftentimes unfavorable.

With no admission charge at the gate, it is expected that thousands from central Ohio will be attracted to this city during the week. The mid-summer attractions will be furnished by the famous Johnny Jones Exposition Shows, which boasts of many new and decidedly unusual forms of entertainment. This exposition, booked for only the biggest fairs in the entire United States, will be held in the city, the like of which has never been seen in this section.

Plane Cracks Up In Oat Field Saturday

A plane from Detroit, headed for North Carolina, crashed in an oat field on the Plymouth-New Haven road late Saturday afternoon, its four occupants narrowly escaping death.

The ship, an open biplane, and rather old, was apparently flying low over the Willard airport and landed in the oat field north of W. Topping, about one mile north of town. When taking off, the ship could not get altitude as there was no wind, and to avoid the wires along the road, the pilot slide-slipped the plane and crashed to the ground. The occupants of the wrecked plane, the pilot, a man and woman, and a child, seemed to differ in stating their identity when interviewed. When first questioned the man gave his name as Charles M. Kinsey, and stated that he and his wife and two-year old son were enroute to Buckhannon, West Virginia, and that the plane was their property.

Later it was stated that the plane, NCS283, belonged to the Gentry Flying Service, of Detroit, and the name given was Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Mosteller, and son. The pilot refused to give his name. The plane was dismantled immediately and taken back to Detroit, the occupants returning with it.

TAXPAYER HAS TEN DAYS LEFT

One Million In Taxes To Be Paid At Richland Offices By July 21, 1930.

For the taxpayers of Richland county there is less than a week left before the collection period closes. The payment of assessments for the last half of the year 1929 will have to be made before July 21, 1930.

The doors of the offices of County Treasurer John J. Charles will be closed on Monday, July 21, promptly at 3:30 o'clock. All property owners holding unpaid tax accounts will be declared delinquent and subject to the penalty imposed after the time limit has expired.

The offices of the treasurer are open at least from 8:30 o'clock in the morning until 3:30 o'clock, including the noon hour. The same hours prevail on Saturday. The new system of remaining open at noon was decided upon to assist the taxpayers who find it impossible to make their payments at other hours during the day. If any taxpayer is in need of information, such will be mailed to him upon receipt of a stamped envelope and proper descriptions of property.

During the remainder of the collection period deputy sheriffs have been stationed at the court house as a precaution against bandits, who might plan to exploit the county's office. This action followed a request received by Sheriff Aaron Davis by the treasurer.

There is yet over a million dollars, $1,100,000, to be collected in for the 1929 taxes. Only about $500,000 have been received since June 2, when the collection period opened. The final day for payments was extended to July 20 by authority from the board of county commissioners, and one extra day has been added as the 26th falls on a Sunday.

Wakes up Mr. Taxpayer, you have 10 days left!

HEADLIGHTS TAKEN OFF CAR BY BIG FOUR FLIER

The literal example of what is termed a "close shave" was enacted last week when both headlights were knocked off the automobile of Miss Faelette Emerson, of New London, when the front part of the machine was hit by the Big Four Flier. The driver approached the crossing which is unprotected from 9 p. m. to 6 p. m. and did not note the approach of the train until the tracks were almost reached. She applied the brakes and stopped just in time to prevent a fatal accident. Miss Emerson was so affected by the experience that she could not drive the machine home.

Plymouth Good-Will Hour Over WJW Featured Mayor

The history of Plymouth, or of any village with which one is associated, is always of interest. And of more than usual interest was the story of our little city as portrayed by the words of Mayor J. H. Barr, during the Plymouth Hour broadcast from WJW, Mansfield.

PAST
Master of ceremonies, my fellow townsmen, and my radio audience, I am pleased to have this opportunity to tell you something about the past, present and future of so thriving a little village as that of Plymouth, Ohio. No place in northern Ohio had a more colorful past than that of the village of Plymouth. To fully appreciate such a past one must let his imagination wander back nearly a century and a half to the time of the settlement of 1813. Had you been standing on the present public square about the middle of the month of October in that year you would have seen encamped about you 2000 Pennsylvania Militiamen. This band of adventurers were under the command of General Redburn Reel and were on their way to assist Major Croghan defend Lower Sandusky against the threatened attack of the British and Indians who started to invade Ohio during the War of 1812.

Merchants Ask Half Holiday Thursday

Plymouth Stores Will Close At Noon On Thursday

Following the custom which has been observed in Plymouth for a number of years, the majority of the merchants around the Square will close their doors on Thursday afternoon during the months of July and August.

It is probable that the grocers will continue to close their stores up through September. This half-day holiday means much during the hot summer months to those business men and clerks who have been working six full days out of the week, and should be given to them ungrudgingly.

It is hoped that all townfolk will cooperate with the system, and purchase necessary supplies on Thursday morning. The business merchants not including those shops that regularly close on Thursday, will close for the afternoon.

Harry Shutt, Geo. Saider, Darling Bros., H. Chappel, Rule Clothing Co., Holder's, Lippus Store, Crown Jewelry and Gift Shop, Hough, Mann, Cornell and Cornell, A. & P., Kroger's, Hatch's Shoe Store, Brown and Miller, Charles Miller.

FISHING TRIP CUT SHORT FOR REV. C. MILLER

Rev. Courtland Miller, of Louisville, Kentucky, was forced to return from his fishing trip at Six Lakes, Michigan, at an earlier date than expected, because of illness. Miller contracted a severe case of the flu, and remained in Michigan only until he regained enough strength to drive to Plymouth, where he was accompanied home by his wife and children.

Mr. F. Gleason, at whose home Mrs. Miller was a guest, has received word that they reached Louisville safely. Mr. Miles Bach, and Dr. J. T. Gaskill, of Plymouth, and Mr. Van Vliet, of Willard, were among those who made the fishing trip.

John Dodge Passes Away On Thursday

On Thursday evening, shortly after seven o'clock John Wesley Dodge passed from this life, at his residence on Nichols Ave. Death came at the age of 66 years, and three months. The body was taken to Miller's mortuary for preparation and was then sent to Lima by coach. The funeral services were held at the home of a son, Adam, on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment was made in the Columbus Grove cemetery.

The deceased is survived by three sons, and two daughters, none of whom are residing in Plymouth. Immediate death was due to alcoholic poisoning, but the condition of the man had been made worse by a severe case of pneumonia. Dotze was a resident of Plymouth during the latter part of his life.

HURON GRANGERS ASKED TO REPEAT EXHIBIT OF 1929

Huron County Grangers have been highly honored through a request of the management of the Ohio State Fair to repeat the exhibit made at the 1929 Huron County Fair at the coming Ohio State Fair, the last week in August.

The exhibit will also represent the official exhibit of the Ohio State Grange at the State Fair this year. As soon as the State Fair is over, the exhibit will be repeated at the Huron County Fair the following week on the dates of Sept. 3, 4, 5.

A few years ago the Directors of the Huron County Fair requested the County Grange to combine their efforts in one large exhibit showing county Grange in the county showcasing locally. The result of the exhibit of last year is a result of this joint effort.

People in general will be interested to know that the exhibit to be made at the Ohio State Fair will show a farm as it appears during the four seasons of the year and also represent the first four degrees of the Grange, namely, Spring, Summer, Autumn and Winter.

NORRIS M'BRIDE DIED SATURDAY

Funeral Services For Shiloh Resident Held Tuesday At Late Home

SHILOH, (Special).—This community was shocked Saturday morning by the announcement of the passing of one of its foremost citizens, Norris J. McBride.

Mr. McBride was summoned about 4:30, his death resulting from an affliction of the heart, with which he had been suffering for several weeks. He was the son of Thomas J. and Margaret Ann McBride and was born November 4, 1868, at the farm home two miles southeast of town and has always resided in this community, with the exception of two winters spent on his farm in Texas.

He was married April 15, 1890 to Miss Rosa A. Bridgeman, of Pa. Mr. McBride was endowed with many noble characteristics, and a magnetic personality.

He was a firm believer in the brotherhood of man, and was a source of financial backing for many young men in receiving their start in the business life.

Having been successful in all his business undertakings, it provided opportunity for philanthropy and civic interests which will be greatly missed in the community.

His constant devotion to his wife, who has been in poor health for some time, and his interest in the home and its surroundings are worthy of a fine tribute.

The funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his late home by Rev. F. W. Shirley of Mt. Hope Lutheran church. Interment was made in the Mausoleum at Greenlawn cemetery, Plymouth.

Chas. Dawson Dies at Willard Hospital

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon for Charles Dawson, of New Haven, at three o'clock. Rev. P. M. Reed, of Willard, officiated at the last rites, and interment was made in the cemetery at New Haven.

Mr. Dawson died at the age of 54 at the Willard Municipal Hospital Sunday night. He had been the victim of a lingering illness for a long period of time, and death relieved his suffering.

Left to mourn his loss is his aged mother, Mrs. Julia Dawson, of New Haven, two brothers, Fred, of Norwalk, and Harry, of New Haven, two half-brothers, William and George, of Willard, and a half-sister, Mrs. Eliza Channing, also of Willard. The deceased was unmarried.

For the greater part of his life, Dawson lived in the vicinity of New Haven, and was well known to residents. Besides his bereaved relatives, many friends are left to mourn his passing.

TAKING THE BILLBOARDS

The billboards along the highways of America have become a public nuisance. They are at their best an impertinent attempt to force advertising upon people during their hours of recreation. At their worst they are blots upon the landscape. One of the greatest blessings which the motor car has brought to the people who live in towns is that it provides a swift and easy way to get out into the country, to see the beautiful things which Nature has to show us. But when, instead of beauty the motorist sees on every hand huge structures advertising somebody's soap or cigarettes, frequently blocking the best and most beautiful views, half of the benefit of country motoring is lost.

It is not enough to denounce the advertisers who use the billboards. They would not continue to use them, doubtless, unless they found that it paid them to do so, though it is a very serious question whether the same amount of money spent in newspaper advertising would not bring larger results. The advertisers pay for the use of billboards, but they do not pay enough or to the right people.

It is not enough to pay the owner of the land on which a billboard is erected, a more or less nominal rent for the space occupied. There are others besides the land owners concerned. The privilege of arresting the attention of everybody who goes along the road is in the nature of a public franchise, and should be recognized and taxed as such.

In France that is exactly the way in which the billboard evil is kept down to reasonable limits. The French government has adopted a sliding scale of taxes. It begins with $24 a year per square meter for the smaller boards, up to 6 square meters. That figures out about $2.25 a square foot, or around $400 a year for a billboard of the standard "cheese" size. But the larger sized boards in France pay at a higher rate, up to $100 a square meter, or about $10 a square foot, for the largest. Some of the billboards on the main roads leading out of Paris will have to pay $16,000 a year each for the privilege.

That is a fair and equitable tax. It will keep down the number of billboards and those which are permitted will contribute toward the maintenance of the highways along which they stand. New Jersey has begun in a modest way to imitate the French and levy a small tax on billboards. It is something which every state, county, township and municipality might well look into as a means of providing additional public revenue and at the same time doing something toward abating a growing nuisance.

WHO ARE THE "RUBES"

It is about time the city people and the city newspapers quit referring to the American farmer as a "Rube" and caricaturing him as a low-brow European peasant, only slightly Americanized by a set of chin-whiskers a la Uncle Sam.

The trouble with city folk, especially in New York and elsewhere in the East, is that they get their impressions of the farmer, as of everything else, from European sources. Because the mass of people, tenants for the most part and tied to the soil as no American has ever been so tied, the city-bred, Europe-conscious people who have never penetrated any farther into American farms must be the same type.

Nothing could be farther from the truth. No individual or class of our people has been more prompt to apply new methods of science, new inventions, new ways of doing old things, than the American farmer. The implication when a city dweller refers to a "Rube" is that he is a stupid, unprogressive person, content to do everything as his father and grandfather did it before him. As a matter of fact, practically nothing is done on American farms today the way it was done a generation ago.

One of the things that has brought about the change has been the development of the numerous Colleges of Agriculture. Nothing like them is known in any part of the world. Old-time farmers used to sneer at the idea that college could do a farmer any good, but the progressive farmers of today are practically all college graduates, and the leadership in every movement for the betterment of farm conditions comes from these schools.

Our National and State Departments of Agriculture have enlisted in their service—the service of the American farmer—more men of high scientific attainment, engaged in vital research into the manifold problems which the farmer must solve, if he is to succeed, than are engaged in any other field of scientific inquiry. Our agricultural experiment stations have taught the "man with the hoe" not only new and better ways of doing things but the reason why they are better ways.

Instead of the inefficient, dull peasant, the type which stands for "farmer" in the city folk's minds, the American farmer has been too progressive, too efficient, if such a thing were possible. By improved and scientific methods he has increased production more rapidly than the demand has grown for his products.

The ultimate result of that will be, of course, that a smaller number of farmers will supply the Nation's needs. And the ones who will remain and prosper on the farms will be the ones best fitted by education and intelligence to do the job. And they will be even less like "Rubes" than the farmers of today.

GOOD BREEDING STOCK PAYS, SAYS PROF. KRECK

Does good breeding stock necessarily mean pure bred livestock? In my judgment it does not.

However, the foundation of practically all good breeding stock upon the average farm traces to Pure Bred livestock. In a great many cases a good herd or a good flock of animals can be traced largely to the influence of one or two good breeding animals which were used for foundation material.

The success of a great many constructive livestock breeders has been due largely to the fact that the breeder built upon a certain foundation. As a result, when the herd was developed if the sire that was employed mated with one of the individuals in the herd or flock the combination was usually successful with most of the individuals in the flock.

Too many men have been disappointed in the Pure Bred business due to the fact that they have tried to get in too rapidly. Often they have bought a large number of individuals that carried pedigrees regardless of the real individuality or production records back of them. In most of these cases the men would have been better off and would have made progress and been successful in the Pure Bred business had they given more attention and possibly a slightly larger investment to one or two good foundation animals.

Some of the younger generation in Boys' and Girls' Club work have made some remarkable success in this field of livestock endeavor. Their success, however, has been due largely to the fact that in most cases great care was exercised in the selection of the animals that made the foundation for their herds.

Great temples are not built in a day, neither are prepotent constructive herds of livestock assembled in a day. The breeder who grows into the business usually comes out successful while the man who buys in often is sorely disappointed.

DO FISH NEST IN TREES? IN CONNECTICUT THEY DO

EAST HARTFORD, Conn., July 10.—More than 50,000,000 fish eggs were taken from trees and bushes by the Connecticut State Board of Fisheries and Game along the Connecticut river recently and hatched in 225 lakes and ponds of the state.

Yellow perch swam into high water areas, attached their strings of eggs to submerged bushes and branches of trees, and departed to deep water. The high water receded and left the strings of eggs high and dry, blowing in the breeze. The fish and game department rescued the eggs, sent them to hatcheries, from which they were distributed to lakes and ponds. Most of the work was done at Kennebec Cove, in Glastonbury and East Hartford.

Sows took better care of their litters this spring than they have for at least eight years, or since the Federal Department of Agriculture first began to check up on them.

Thirteen per cent fewer pigs were fattened in Ohio this spring than last; for the United States the decrease was six per cent.

CANDIDATES SHOULD STATE MAJOR ISSUES—OMIT MINOR

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 10.—It is contrary to public policy and in violation of the true principles of representative government for candidates seeking public office to make pre-primary or pre-election pledges, or to answer questionnaires concerning proposed legislative questions submitted by minority groups and blocs; in the judgment of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, according to letters which have been sent by President Frank B. McMillin. This statement refers to all candidates for major state offices, candidates for the state legislature, and for Congress and the United States Senate.

The Ohio Chamber of Commerce advises belief in the policy of choosing men for office "upon the character, intelligence and judgment of those elected to public office."
