VILLAGE SCHOOL OPENS SEPT. 8

Approximately 315 Pupils To Begin School Term of 1930-31

For the first time students of Plymouth High School will begin their school year in the new Alma Mater, when the old 8:30 o'clock bell rings on Monday, September 8. Many plans are in the making by Superintendent R. E. Miller, and his assistants for the training during the year 1930-31 of approximately 315 pupils in the grades and high school.

With the new building and equipment, teachers planning with enthusiasm, and students pepped up for work and play, this school year should be the best ever for P. H. S.

Following the rule established by the Board of Education a number of years ago, beginning pupils will be admitted without examination if they have passed their sixth birthday or will have passed their sixth birthday by Nov. 1.

However, we will continue to supplement this rule by permitting children to enter, if the parents so desire, provided the child is well advanced physically, is of good health, and can pass an examination showing that his mental age is already up to the standard required for entrance without examination, that is, 70 months.

In the elementary grades the same teachers who taught last year will continue:

- First—Miss Stella Nye.
- Second—Miss Maxine Hartel.
- Third—Miss Mary Shiley.
- Fourth—Miss Florence Danner.
- Fifth—Mrs. Harriett Gill Farrar.
- Sixth—Miss Ruth McClellan.

In the High School, there will be two changes due to the retirement from the profession of Mrs. Harseema, and the leaving of Mr. Reed who will return to the University for work as a Master's degree.

FALL TERM OF COURT TO OPEN ABOUT SEPT. 6

Arrangements for the opening of court for the fall term are being made by Judge Irving Carpenter, at Norwalk. As the county fair will take place during the first week in September, the court session will probably not start until about September 6th.

It is probable that the grand jury will meet earlier in the month. No jury cases have been tried here for some time because many are away from home, and because of the rush of farm operations.

GREENWICH CHURCH HAS RECALLED REV. GRUBER

Rev. C. H. Gruber has been recalled to the pastorate at Greenwich for the coming year, by the members of the Church of Christ. For financial reasons there was some doubt as to whether the church could retain Rev. Gruber another year, but several of the congregation and others, not affiliated with the church, have succeeded in getting the entire amount of his salary secured in advance. A call was formally extended and accepted.

WAITE FAMILY ENJOYS VACATION ALONG COAST

Word has been received from A. O. Waite and family, who are residents of San Diego, California, that they are enjoying a fine vacation at Seattle, after a motor trip along the coast. Waite writes that the weather is quite cool, and that vegetation is not burned by the drought as in places west, with the exception of forest fires. The Waite family formerly made their home in Plymouth, and will be well remembered.

The Republican ticket is headed by Abraham Lincoln and Hannibal Hamlin, and the Democratic ticket by Stephen A. Douglas and Herschel V. Johnson. The names of the candidates for electors appear on the tickets.

CREDIT TO BE GIVEN FARMERS

Corporation Similar To System Used Following Tornado May Be Set Up

Columbus, Aug. 15: Following a meeting held on Friday, August 8th, of the General Agricultural Drouth Committee at the Dehler-Wallick Hotel, Frank B. McMillin, president of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the Agricultural Conference, announced the appointment of a committee on committees, which will set up local committees on credit and facts in all counties of the state where the agricultural and credit situation is serious as a result of the unprecedented drouth.

The committee follows: H. C. Ramsower, director, extension service in county of Agriculture, of O. S. U.; L. B. Palmer, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation; Walter F. Kirk, master of Ohio State Grange, of Port Clinton and Perry L. Green, director of the State department of agriculture.

In brief, the county committees will be asked to ascertain the following information: The condition of crops, the amount of forage and feed needed, the amount of credit necessary to assist the farmers in purchase of supplies, water needs for either home or livestock, seed requirements for fall planting, requirements to maintain breeding stock, if the county within itself has the facilities to meet the credit, and other problems involved in the drouth situation.

Various suggestions were given of assistance.

SNAKE WITH 12 RATTLES IS KILLED BY MERE LAD

Dick Peterson, aged 12, has the title of hero, for this lad, alone, conquered and killed a rattlesnake four feet and two inches long, with a garden rake. The rattler was found by a boy friend who ran to the Peterson home at all times. The snake was shot and killed the snake. The rattler, with eight rattles, is now hanging in the front yard of Dick's home, where the boy proudly exhibits it.

Local Library Has Tag Night, Aug. 23

The Plymouth Library will feature a tag night on Saturday, August 23rd, the weather permitting, from 7 to 11 o'clock. Just for a reminder—Are you enjoying the privileges accorded by the Plymouth Library? This is your library and its purpose is to serve you.

Do you know that you will find many of the new books on its shelves at all times? If there should be a book not listed in which you are particularly interested we will be glad to secure it for you. Mention it to the lady on duty. Miss Fox, Librarian from Manfield, accompanied by Miss Ewing, assistant Librarian, recently visited your library. They were very generous in their praise of the advancement that has been made here. For a library that is conducted and supported by the community, as ours is, it ranks far ahead of any others in their district.

If you are not acquainted with your library drop in on TAG NIGHT, Mrs. Jeffrey, our very capable Librarian, will be there to meet you and show you around. Purpose of Tag Night: New shelves are needed along the south wall. Our workers will wear white ducks, white blouses and red ties. If they have a white tag on top one of them; and the smaller contribution will be thankfully received.

Residents Over 70 to Meet on Sept. 6

Richland County Autumn Assn. To Hold Picnic

The Richland County Autumn Association has been making plans for the association picnic, the date decided on being Saturday, September 6th. The officers are preparing for one of the largest and finest meetings that they have ever had, it is stated, and arrangements are practically complete.

Every resident in Richland county who is 70 years old or older is invited to meet with members who have attended in past years. Last year over 200 residents of the county attended the reunion, and it is anticipated by the officers that even a greater number will be on hand this year.

Those attending should meet at the G. A. R. Memorial building at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, and from that point will proceed to the grounds of the Lumbermen Mutual Insurance Co., formerly known as the Judge Getts residence. E. S. Nail, who has been active in the work of the association, invited the group to hold the meeting on the company's grounds.

A dinner will be served promptly at one o'clock, after which a short program and suitable entertainment will be given. Coffee and ice cream will be furnished by the C. C. of N. in Mansfield, but each member attending is requested to bring a full picnic basket. Rev. D. B. Miller is the president of the organization, the late L. J. Bonar being the first president of the group. Shortly before his death Bonar was named president emeritus.

Pages of History are Turned Back for Readers of Advertiser

Volume "History of Huron and Erie Counties" Gives Many Interesting Details

Pages from the past, colored perhaps with the romance of second sight, are always interesting, both to the one whose life has not been touched with the recorded events, and to those who remember the life of yesterday. The history of Plymouth has been reviewed at various times, so that now the pages of the history of neighboring communities will be turned back, any reader remembers events of other days that relate to the history of either Huron or Richland counties, the Advertiser will greatly appreciate some communication with them.

DELPHI Delphi was once quite an active little village, and its future looked rosy. Its interests have waned. It would one day be a thriving place. It had two or three taverns or hotels in its most prosperous days, and several well-stocked stores.

The railroads, however, developed other places at the expense of Delphi, and for the past score of years or more, its interests have waned. The last stores in Delphi were owned by "Uncle William" Robnson and George Miller, a wagon and blacksmith shop, kept by James Irwin, and another by Charles Harrison. The first store in Ripley township was opened by Ovat Close.

FIRST RIPLEY SERMON The first sermon preached in Ripley township was by Rev. Joseph Edwards and in the home of Abraham Stotts. Twenty persons were present. John Stotts built the first brick house in the township which stands on lot 11, bounded north by the road, south by Richland, east by Greenwich twp., north by Fair, west by N. H.)

LOVELAND FAMILY Prominent among the early settlers in New Haven township, was John Loveland. He was born in Norwich, Windsor county, Vermont, July 29, 1788. He was educated in the common school of his native place, and for a time resided in Pennsylvania. During the winter of 1821-22, he came to Ohio and on June 29th arrived in New Haven township. For about two years he lived in what is now Plymouth village.

It may be he was married to Fiera daughter of Joseph and Elsa Dana, of New Haven twp. She died in 1831, leaving two children, John B. and William V. Loveland married a second wife.

Local Results of Drought Reported

Government Officials Interested in Drouth Situation in Huron County

The following telegram was received by County Agent, G. A. Hummon, regarding the drouth situation in Huron county: "President Hoover is deeply concerned over the drouth and possible evil consequences to farm families relief. Measures are dependent upon accurate information of needs of each county affected. The President has directed this department to make a survey of stricken areas county by county covering the following points: 1. Percentage of damage to grain crops also forage, crops based on present condition and assuming normal rainfall in the future. 2. Number of farm families unable to purchase feed for their livestock and approximate amount of feed above country's resources required to carry through the winter. 3. Nearest points where feed can be had. 4. How long available feed will last. 5. Extent to which local authorities and interests have helped and can help. The human side of problems is particularly important. Health of interest will cooperate to hold livestock and avert evil consequences of panic selling. Wire your report and include suggestions of possible measures of relief."

(Signed) Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture.

The answer to this telegram was figured on the basis of the last available census report of Huron county, which is as follows: "In reply to your wire will give following figures based on census report."

Huron Wins Over Galbraith in Richland; Bout Is Representative

Myers V. Cooper, present governor of Ohio, will oppose former congressman George White, of Marietta in the November election.

BRADFORD WILL MANAGE THE PLYMOUTH HOTEL

A recent transaction of business will again open the Plymouth Hotel for business. The new manager is John Bradford, present proprietor of the Home Restaurant, who has leased the building for a considerable period from Walter Wecht, of Wooster.

The change will be made as soon as redecoration of the rooms is completed. The counter and space for dining tables will be separated from the front of the hotel by lattice work, while three booths covered with awnings will be installed on one side of the lobby. Improvements will be made in the kitchen. The old dining hall on the second floor will be fixed for a free dance hall, with radio, victrola, etc., open at all times for patrons. Bradford has managed the Home Restaurant for two years, and succeeds Charles Hassinger as proprietor of the Hotel. Fire Hazard Worse Now Than in Years

Loss of Property, Crops And Wild Life Reported

A tragedy nation-wide in extent is being revealed in forest, fields and swamps as conservationists, fire fighters, and Boy Scouts and others find charred bodies or hopelessly maimed wild life in fire swept areas. This loss adds greatly to the loss in buildings, crops and even life.

Numbers of fawns have been found in pitiable condition, their little feet burned so badly that they were unable to walk. As an act of mercy, they were destroyed.

Continued dry weather increases the fire hazard which usually mounts to a peak in October, for it is in October that the biggest fires occur, tabulations over a ten year period show. Many states, alarmed by the destruction, are putting on intensive fire prevention campaigns. Automobiles are being tagged in several states with warnings to be careful of fire. Heavy fines have been given for fire regulation violations.

Cigarettes tossed from automobiles have started some of the worst fires, and it is believed that they are responsible for starting a large proportion of the thousands of fires already reported. Picnards warning one to be careful of fire have been placed along all highways in those states campaigning against the flames.

Only 1 per cent of the fires thus far reported were from natural causes. Lightning; all others were preventable, tabulation proves.

U. S. TOTALS 13,500 AUTO VICTIMS IN 1ST 6 MONTHS OF THIS YEAR

The number of deaths in this country due to automobile accidents the first six months of the year is estimated at 13,500. Of this number Ohio reported 359 for the first three months a decrease of 7.3 percent compared with a year ago.

Deaths from carbon-monoxide in Ohio, according to reports made by Dr. C. A. Neal, state director of health, from July 1, 1929 to the same date 1930, caused by gas heating appliances were 52, an increase of 11 over the year before. There were 127 cases of carbon-monoxide poisonings compared with 165 in the preceding year.

WORK STARTED ON NEW STATE BUILDING SEPT. 1

Actual construction of the new state office building in Front street, Columbus, will begin September 1, according to present plans. It is to be completed December 31, 1931, and will house the various departments which are located in seventeen different buildings.

The state will save $140,000 in rentals alone. There will be fire proof storage for state documents and records, while the working condition of employees will be greatly improved. Employment will be given to an average of 1,600 men for sixteen months, while a greater part if not all material will be purchased in Ohio. The new building will house all the departments and divisions except the elective officers.

Perches for Growing Chicks Suggested

Prof. H. D. Monroe Advises Use Of Low Perches

With the newer knowledge of feeding, fear of food and the use of poultry, caused by early roosting, has been eliminated. Crooked breast bones are caused by the lack of sunlight and minerals. Early roosting does not cause this trouble. There are many chick troubles that can be prevented by early roosting, and no harm can come from it. Early roosting prevents crowding, saves litter, makes it easier to clean the brooder house, prevents cocciidiosis and keeps the birds in good condition and appearance.

Small, low perches should be placed in the brooder house when the chicks are two weeks old. Small perches about four feet long and on blocks four inches high are very desirable. These roosts are placed around the hover. As soon as the chicks learn to use these perches they should be encouraged to roost high in the back of the brooder house. Temporary perches should be placed about one foot from the floor. As soon as the birds are old enough to take away the stove, put in enough perches. The roosts should be about two and one-half feet from the floor and about sixteen inches apart. The entire brooder house should be used for roosting.

Many poultrymen use a roosting arrangement which saves time and prevents smothering from crowding during the early brooding period. On all sides of the brooder house, except the front, roosts are attached to the side of the house about two feet from the floor. The roosts are attached to a frame which is hinged to the wall. On the lower side of the roosts, and covering the whole frame, poultry wire is stretched. When the chicks are small the front side of the frame rests on the floor. This gives the birds low perches. The wire under the roosts prevents the chicks from crowding to the corners. Even if they do crowd, those on the bottom of the pile will not smother. This roosting arrangement also keeps the chicks from getting into the drop places.

Early roosting should be encouraged. It will not cause crooked breast bones and this practice is one of the important parts of good breeding.

NIGHT HORSE SHOW FEATURED AT FAIR

THE MARKET OUTLOOK AS REPORTED RECENTLY BY PROF. P. G. RILEY

By Prof. P. Riley
I shall I keep the usual number of layers this winter! A few facts presented in the July 24th report of the U. S. Department of Agriculture report on poultry conditions should help answer this question.

1. There are the same number of chicks and young chickens of this year's hatch on hand as of July 1, 1930, as there were on July 1, 1929. The extra chicks produced by the hatcheries this spring were in replacement of farm hatching rather than being actual increases.

2. The number of hens on farms July 1st this year is practically the same as a year ago, but marketing of hens is heavier than a year ago. Probably fewer pullets will be saved this year than a year ago. This means fewer hens on farms this fall than last.

3. Egg production for July was decidedly lower than July 1929, and the heat was responsible for a larger number of poor quality eggs. Prices of storage eggs increased 2c per dozen during July for fall delivery.

4. On account of the large surplus of eggs in cold storage moderate seasonal increases in price of eggs can be expected this fall, but prices are not likely to be as high as last fall.

5. Prices after January 1, 1931, can be expected to increase considerably over the first half of 1930.

6. Following a year of low prices flocks are usually reduced too greatly just as they are increased too greatly following a year of high prices.

As a suggestion, keep about the usual number of good early hatched pullets, cull the old hens closely and do a good job of feeding and caring for the birds and the poultry flock will be profitable.

BREAK YOUR MATCH IN TWO BEFORE DROPPING IT TO THE DRY GROUND

New York, August 14: "Break your match before throwing it away," urges the president of the American Game Protective Association, in a message to 40,000,000 tourists, fishermen, hikers, canoeists, and campers who will spend their vacations in the open this season.

"Thus many forest, grass, and brush fires will be prevented. And pour water on your camp fire, be sure it is out."

SELLS LASH FARM AT SHERIFF SALE

The Cantwell Lash farm on the Bucyrus-Plymouth road west of Tiro was sold at Sheriff's sale from the steps of the court house at Bucyrus last week.

The farm was purchased by the First National bank of Shelby for $6,450. There are 134 acres on the farm, and accordingly it sold at the rate of $48 per acre. The farm had been appraised at $9,640 and sold for just two-thirds necessary for a sale.

The sale was forced by a foreclosure proceeding brought by the Central Life Insurance Co.

The Lash farm is one of the best farms in the Tiro community. It is good land on a main highway and is equipped with good buildings.

The farm is located on both sides of State Route No. 95, the Bucyrus-Plymouth road, and is the farm on which Mr. Lash has lived for a number of years. It is described as being the southwest quarter of the fractional quarter of section 31 in Auburn township and containing 194 acres; and also the southeast quarter of section 31 in Auburn township and containing 37 acres. These two tracts of land totaled the 154 acres after deducting the three acres that had been previously sold and also deducting the legal highways.

TREE SITTER FALLS 45 FEET TO DEATH

The endurance fad which is fast becoming a farce over the United States, claimed one of its first victims as Nelson McIntosh, of Ashland, Kentucky, fell from his perch, 45 feet to the ground.

M. E. ORGAN IS BEING REPAIRED BY G. MYSLAC

After a quarter of a century or more of active use the pipe organ at the local M. E. church, is receiving a much needed cleaning and repairing.

At the cost of over $125, George Myslac, will be employed in the work for well over one week, possibly two. Myslac represents the Vottler-Holtkamp-Spartling Company, with offices at 3265 W. 39th street, Cleveland.

Myslac states that the tone of the 1-manual organ is very sweet, and though not a modern instrument, is of good quality. There are 762 pipes that play, 8 that are dumb. Fourteen stops are used on three cuplers. There is a wind pressure on each pipe of 3 1/2 inches, to which all pipes are voiced. The interior of the organ is one mass of pipes, wires, holes, yet is so sturdy that it supports that weight of a medium sized man on the flat boards, etc.

Pupils will be expected to have their text books and supplies so actual school work may be begun during the opening day. For the convenience of those who wish to purchase used books from those who have completed their work in them, a list of books with the prices at which new books are sold appears below. Please do not take your used books to the school to sell, but take care of the matter among yourselves. It is generally understood that a used book in fair condition is worth one half the price of a new book.

STATE FORMALLY ACCEPTS SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANS

The state has formally accepted plans of the $475,000 Norwalk filtration project. Later however, the state department will check up on the various phases of the improvement as the different parts of the work are unfolded.

It is given out that the first part of the contract will be confined to construction of the trunk sewers and lateral lines that will be made necessary by the project.

Last to be constructed will be the sewage disposal plant proper on the land the city recently gained control of by option on the Old Plank road, a quarter of a mile or so north of the junction of Cline street and Milan avenue.

It will be probably several weeks before the city will be in a position to advertise for bids.

BELLEVUE ASKS THAT L. S. E. BE FORCED OUT

The city of Bellevue, in a petition to the appellate court of the Toledo district, asks that the L. S. E. Railway company be ousted from its streets, on the grounds that the defendant is without a franchise.

Only recently the Bellevue city council adopted by resolution, a decision to have quo warranto proceedings started. The filing of the suit marks a climax in a series of arguments between the city of Bellevue and the corporation, of some years standing.

The chief contention has been the question of street paving, and it is probable that, had the difficulty been settled, there would have been no ouster suit.

WE FORGET OUR BLESSINGS

An American girl, who recently visited Russia, in writing of her experiences in a contemporary magazine, makes some surprising disclosures.

She says that she was asked by a young Russian workman if it is true that men who are late to work at a certain great American industry are mangled in their machines as a punishment.

The workman was sincere in his question. He and others had heard that story. America was far away. It was a land of wealth and efficiency. They thought that perhaps only a torturous method could secure perfect obedience with its resulting productivity.

It is hard to realize that anyone can hold such a barbaric picture of us. It does more than make us angry at the manner in which we have been misrepresented. It awakens us to the background of cruelty and suffering which men must have in order to even harbor such an atrocious thought for a moment.

It indicates that a very small valuation must be put on human life in a land where such a story can gain credence.

We, in America, value life at a high premium. For centuries our wisest men have been working, trying to discover ways of adding years to life, and also of adding life to years.

But the chasm that stretches between us and some of the far-away places of the world, is considerably wider, than a mere ocean or two.

Over in China we have proof of this today. A wounded officer of Human provincial troops, who arrived at Hankow for hospitalization the other day, tried to shut out the pitiful scenes that he had witnessed.

He said that hordes of Chinese soldiers advanced into battle at Changsha, driving herds of fettered peasants before them, as a shield from the enemy. The arms of the peasants were bound behind their backs. Behind them came soldiers with guns, forcing them into the range of the soldiers who waited beyond.

The helpless men had to advance. The troops, who were firing on them, stopped as soon as they realized that they were killing innocent victims.

This story of the human shields will go into Russia. The young workman will hear it. Then he will remember that other cruel story which someone told him about us. He will begin to wonder if it is a myth or the truth. He will decide, perhaps that there is little fairness in life in America or any other place—and he will not know how mistaken he is.

We speak of hard times, business stress, lack of rain. We count our misfortunes on both hands. But we have carelessly formed the habit of forgetting our blessings. We have some, too, if we would just make a few comparisons between our own state of affairs and those of other parts of the world.

Sometimes, it seems, that China and Russia are as far away from us in this modern age of extensive communication and transportation as they were in the old days when they were merely blue and pink spots on the map in our geography book.

WHAT HERMITS MISS

There are some things that are beyond human understanding. How a healthy, normal man could seclude himself on a tiny island for 22 years is one of them.

Most of us have an urge, now and then, to escape from our cares to go adventuring, gathering the regret ends of romance, and stretching our souls. But we do it merely because we need a tonic to strengthen our exhilaration for the tasks and the human contacts that make our lives. Life goes stale if it doesn't give us a problem or two to solve.

But now comes the story of Charles Hardenberg, who is living a hermit's life on Little Watts island, no larger than an average city lot, in Chesapeake Bay. He grew tired of the world, so he ran away.

He had been a successful lawyer, owner of one of the largest libraries in New Jersey. But he didn't take a single book with him. He seldom reads a newspaper. He has all the time in the world, but he never troubles to make a garden. He doesn't live. He exists.

Across the bay the world has changed since he left it. Tall buildings have gone skyward. Automobiles have gained speed. Airships have winged their way close to the stars, and men have gone down to the sea in ships in more than one way.

Hardenberg has heard the faint ring of steel, the echo of martial music, and let them drift past his island home.

Hardenberg is bored. Small wonder, we would say. There is no one to whom he can boast if he catches a 10-pound fish. Therefore, he doesn't care what he pulls in. He isn't affected by the proposed two-and-a-half-cent fish-and-game tax. He doesn't care who is up and who is down in the Wall Street game of see-saw.

He has no inducement to see how long he can sit in a tree, for nobody would know it, anyway. He probably doesn't know that Lindbergh has a son.

The light of the stars and the songs of the wind have lost their magic for him. He has seen them too unbrokenly, without a background of appreciating. And he is alone.

He needs companionship, interests, a challenge to spur him on. Nearly every accomplishment in life has come because someone wanted to prove his worth to others.

We were meant to live in groups and work in groups. In nomadic days, when shepherds took their flocks to pasture where clear streams were flowing, they joined caravans. Human contact made life worth while. It made the joy of accomplishment sweeter.

No wonder the hermit can find small pleasure in his lonely games of solitaire. It isn't fun to beat yourself.

It is a queer mind which imposes on itself a solitude which, with almost no other exception, would be considered a punishment.

A happy man doesn't run away from life. He stays on the job. He realizes that he is going to be the same wherever he is. Therefore, he tries to cultivate a place of no trespassing in his heart where he may go for relaxation.

Most of us would bore ourselves too quickly, anyway, if we withdrew from the world. Hardenberg doesn't seem to be getting a great deal of enjoyment out of his experiment, either. Perhaps that is his trouble.

UNUSUAL SNAKE FOUND IN CHICKEN BUILDING

A snake unusual in this locality was found by F. J. Rogers of Bronson township, south of Norwalk, in his chicken house. Rogers upon entering the house found 7 out of a brood of 11 chicks dead, and attributed the loss to rats.

Upon moving a board which leaned against one nest, the farmer uncovered a snake more than four feet long, and of enormous girth. The reptile was very ugly. It was of dark slate color with long white stripes and little white dots between the stripes. At the neck, center of body, and at the end of the tail were extremely diamond shaped figures. The head was broad and tapered to a point and the mouth was wide. It was too large for a milk snake.

The body contained a good sized rat, which leads Rogers to believe that the snake should not have been killed.

WAS BLONDE GUNWOMAN, SENTENCED TO DEATH, A VISITOR IN PLYMOUTH?

The only remaining hope for Irans Schrader, the Blonde Gunwoman, and W. Glen Dague, now lies in an appeal to the state supreme court for executive clemency. The two conspirators face execution for the murder of a state highway patrolman, of last December.

Both were sentenced to be executed by the trial court after motions for a new trial were overruled. Hearsay has it that the Blonde Gunwoman and her two men pals stopped at the Palace Restaurant on their fatal night from police.

MYSTERY OF HAUNTED HOUSE IS NOW SOLVED

The haunted house northwest of Plymouth, has been torn down, and with its razing, comes the explanation of why it was haunted.

Workman, engaged on the road, found hundreds of tin cans between the walls of the house, which accounted for the noise heard there. The tin cans were tied together with wire and loop holes afforded easy contact with the cans. The wires were attached to longer wires reaching to a grove nearby. The house, known as the Green haunt for thirty years, bowed, as do most ghosts, to modern improvements.

4-H BOY OWNS TRIPLET SHEEP ON EXHIBIT

Triplet C-type Merino sheep, the proud possession of an eleven-year-old boy from McConnelleville, Morgan county, will be on exhibition at the Ohio State Fair, August 25 to 30. The boy, Dale G. Strong, agreed to bring the product of his 4-H club work to the fair.

Triplet sheep of the fine wool breeds are very rare, it is said.

The lambs, two rams and one ewe lamb, were born to an eight year old ewe February 25, On August 5 they weighed 66, 71, and 81 pounds. The ewe weighed 133 pounds. All are eligible for registration.

Dale belongs to the Morgan Sheep 4-H club of which his father, Chester C. Strong, has been leader for eight years.

Two exhibits which depict methods of avoiding livestock shipping losses are making the rounds of fifteen Ohio fairs. Losses to farmers and handlers of livestock amount yearly to almost a quarter-million dollars.

MANSFIELD. ON THE SQUARE OHIO

THE GOVERNOR'S FELICITATIONS

The Ohio State Fair is the panoramic portrayal of Ohio progress. For four score years it has annually burst into radiant bloom, to the glory of the state and the delight and profit of her people. It is state history writ into impressive displays, dazzling pageantry, educational motifs and pride of common wealths.

Ohio's pre-eminence as one of the greatest states in the Union is on no other occasion so splendidly and definitely established as during State Fair Week.

It is the consistent policy of the present administration to maintain the tone and integrity of this great exposition. It must be educational—in its origin and nature—it must be agricultural—it does, in short, prove an illuminating cross-section of the farm, industrial and commercial life of the state.

There will be much in this year's fair to hearten and do honor to agriculture. This state was founded on the responsiveness of the soil. Upon the success of agriculture rests the welfare of the entire people. It is therefore fitting that the State Fair remain true to the tenets of its inception, and inspiration down through the years. This may well be done without neglect to the existing industrial, commercial and social progress of the era in which we live. (Nor will the fair be lacking in features of wholesome entertainment combining the practical with the necessary lighter phases of life.)

The 80th State Fair is charted to be a joyous, helpful, safe and well worthy exposition for all of the people of Ohio and thousands of guests from sister states. Cordial invitation is hereby extended city and country people, one and all, young and old, to come to the Fair in full confidence that such visits cannot fail to please. Last year's fair surpassed all previous efforts in attendance and scope. Yet greater success is anticipated this year. The week of August 25 to 30, marks the fair period.

It gives me great pleasure to extend my greetings and, as an active member of state and county fair organizations, to welcome the "biggest and best" Ohio State Fair we have ever known.

meeting the credit situation created. Among them was the setting up of a statewide credit corporation, whose functions would be comparable to those exercised by an emergency corporation set up following the Lorain tornado. Agencies through which the Intermediate Credit Bank at Louisville, and the Federal Farm Board might function in Ohio were: That the re-discounting of agricultural credit held by local banks, through credit corporations which might be set up with a minimum actual paid in stock of $10,000, through properly financed cooperatives, and through well-financed livestock market associations.

The speakers classified the credit needs into three groups: 1—the best farmers who have ample credit and who are in no need of further assistance, or who, if they do need assistance, can readily be taken care of through local banks; 2—good tenant farmers who have no money but who, if a reasonable amount of credit was extended, could secure feed and roughage for livestock, and helped "over the hump"; 3—the poorer farmer who has no credit, no feed, and must sacrifice his livestock. The special problem is what can be done for the last group named.

time to Galska, daughter of Josiah and Polly Curtis, of New Haven. Seven children were born of this marriage. George W. was married Della Parker, of Plymouth. Loveland was at first interested in the distilling business, but later owned a sawmill and was quite successful at farming.

NEW HAVEN SOCIETY OF LONG AGO

The social whirl of New Haven was once the envy of all her less prosperous neighbors. Saturday afternoon was the time for amusement and play, and plactically the whole population gathered on the diamond shaped square to engage in various games, such as ball, picking quills, wrestling, running, jumping, etc.

The taverns were the scenes of much merriment. It was there that many hilarious jokes were planned and executed. Many a gallant young man and buxom young lady stepped off to the rhythm of the fiddle. Liquor flowed freely on all occasions and perhaps some things were done under the influence of the jug which would not have been done without it. Many assert, however, that New Haven was never known to be an excessively rowdy town.

"On one occasion nearly the entire population of the village went out in sleds to a locality by the side of the prairie to have a winter picnic, and after having a good dinner and a happy time, returned to the village with the sled stakes bearing each an empty jug."

When a wedding was announced great plans were made. There was a decided lack of formality and artistic decorations at the scene of the nuptials were unknown. Those invited usually traveled in an ox cart to the town. Sometimes the house was far from large enough to accommodate the crowd, and by removing a door from its hinges and placing it on two barrels, tables were easily provided.

"When Eliza Steward was married to Mary Rice, a boisterous bacchanalian crowd took forcible possession of the groom, put him in a sled, where they had placed a keg of whiskey, and compelled him to drink while they drove away and around the country."

ROUSE BLY AND THE FUGITIVE SLAVES

Among the most interesting traditions of New Haven are the stories built around the underground railway and the fugitive slaves. An abolitionist, Rouse Bly, risked both life and fortune in befriending the fleeing slaves.

About 1840 his house was used as one of the depots where the weary men traveling toward the north and freedom stopped for rest and food. The next depot on the underground railway was located at Norwalk and at Oberlin.

At one time, a number of southern slave owners assailed the premises of Bly for their property, and in the course of the search looted into the smoke house, where, hidden by the smoke, crouched the trembling slaves that they sought.

FIRST NEW HAVEN SERMON

The first sermon preached in New Haven was delivered by Rev. James MacIntyre. He was the only son of a settler, and came from New York State in 1814. He had no education or theological training other than his diligent reading from the few books in his possession. He was awkward, poorly clad and reminded one of Johnny Appleseed. He usually appeared ready for the meeting in a low cloth shirt, often worn in the manner of a frock, tow cloth pantaloons, one tow cloth suspended, a buckeye hat, and barefooted.

He spoke in a cracked voice, but his earnestness and conviction would make his audience forget and admire the argument of his sermon.

There were once six churches in New Haven.

JOHNNY APPLESEED

Johnny Appleseed's correct name was Jonathan Chapman, who was born in Boston in 1775. The tradition built about the man is that, hoping to benefit posterity, he planted appleseeds about the country, praying that they would grow and provide fruit and shade for travelers and settlers. He worked in the territory of Indiana and Ohio.

In 1811 he is found living with Caleb Palmer, in New Haven, whose farm was his headquarters during the war. Going in advance of the pioneers, Johnny would select a spot that suited him, clear the ground, and with the chopped trees build a crude fence which kept animals from browsing upon the twigs and leaves that grew upon the apple trees. All orchards were planted from seeds, as the strange man did not believe in cutting, or pruning in any way the trees that he was interested in.

He was of small build, wiry, and was quick and restless. He seldom shaved, and with his black and sparkling eyes often looked somewhat ferocious.

He dressed in castoff clothing, and was very careless as to his appearance. At one time he wore a large coffee-sack in which he had cut holes for his arms and head.

For a hat he wore a large tin dipper, in which he also cooked. However, as this was uncomfortable, he substituted a paste board contraption, something between a hat and a cap, which he wore after a while.

Religiously, Johnny Appleseed was a Swedenborgian.

On the public square at Mansfield at one time, a preacher was dryly discouraging upon the sin of extravagance. He called out "Where now is your barbed Christian traveling to heaven?"

Johnny, who was lying on his back in the air, timer, raised his bare feet in the same "Here's your primitive heathen!"

Thanking his religious almost too far, Jonathan Chapman put out his coffee-sack one evening to save the mosquitoes from being singed in the flames. In 1847 he died at the age of 72 in a settler's cabin in Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Drought Reports

on average reports of more than twenty-five representative farmers of Huron county. Percentage of damage to grain, forage and vegetable crops: Corn 50 per cent; wheat 10 per cent; oats 15 per cent; barley 40 per cent; hay 50 per cent; pasture 95 per cent. Of approximately 2000 acres of sweet corn for canning, damage to early crop 90 per cent; late crop 60 per cent. Potatoes, early and late 60 per cent. Practically all farm families have suffered feed for livestock at present time but few have been reported as having nearly exhausted their winter's supply of hay due to pasture shortage.

However, many families are not able to purchase proper rations for livestock. Amount of feed above country's resources required to carry through the winter based on percentage of crop this year as compared to normal production is as follows: Corn 85,000 bushels; hay, 25,000 tons. However, the surplus of crops based on this year's yields compared to normal exports are approximately 400,000 bushels of wheat and 40,000 bushels of oats. Of this surplus about 50 percent of wheat and 80 per cent of oats still remain in county and may be used as feeds to replace shortage of corn and hay. 3. Needs needed can be purchased locally while supply lasts. 4. Supply of available feeds will last to approximately February 1st. 5. There is no crisis in county at present, consequently local authorities and interests have not been called upon for help. 6. At present banks of county can handle situation. However, would suggest a low rate credit be established to enable farmers to hold and finish livestock until available bank funds become tied up. If rains do not come within a week or ten days prospective corn crop will be reduced fifty percent or more.

(Signed) G. A. Hummon,
County Agricultural Agent.

Any criticisms or suggestions regarding this report will be gladly received as further information will probably be asked for concerning the drought situation.
