

Old "National House" May End Its Colorful Career

Old Hostelry Does Not Sell Under Auctioneer's Hammer Saturday; Once the Scene of Gay Society Life

The era of the "small town" hotel is slowly passing. On Saturday last week, the old Warner Hotel, located in the eastern section of the Square, was put up for auction, and not a bid was made.

As does everything, even the hotel must accept the moving trend of civilization, and step out of line for something more efficient. It was a necessity before good roads were in vogue, and before even railroad service was surpassed by the auto. It is almost a matter of minutes between the cities where large hotels cater to patrons.

The exact date of the building of the hotel is somewhat veiled. A few residents recall the old frame building that first occupied the site, later being replaced by the brick, probably about 1840.

At that time it was managed by Mr. Wolfenbarger. No doubt the first lovers were taken in soon after the village was laid out. In 1825, an early account of a 19th century historian reads like this, "the travel on the Military road (Plymouth-Shiloh road) brought many strangers to the place."

The first owner was either Jacob Heller or Mr. Lindsay. The original tavern was a frame structure. It proclaimed its business by a flaring banner-shaped sign, topped with an old-fashioned, prancing, iron horse. At that time it was called the "National House." Sometime before 1870 it was purchased by George Connel.

During Civil war days the rambling frame building with its sumptuous second story and aristocratic inclosed porch was the pivot and key to the loyal activities of the community. It is said that, being on the Military road many noted army and political personages stopped there over night.

A curious tale of early romance clings to the old building. It is said that for many months Connel courted the daughter of a widow, and then

91ST BIRTHDAY OBSERVED BY AGED STEUBEN FARMER

Warren W. Parsons celebrated his ninety-first birthday last Wednesday on his farm near Steuben.

The day was quietly celebrated as the man is in failing health and his advanced age does not permit him much excitement.

Mr. Parsons is one of Huron county's oldest pioneers and was born in a little log cabin near here. When the Civil war came along Parsons enlisted in Co. D, 125th O. V. I., and later served in the 3rd Ohio Cavalry. He is known as the oldest Civil war veteran in this community. After the war the soldier was married and settled in Steuben.

For years the Parsons farm here has been noted throughout two counties for its choice vegetables and fruits and Warren Parsons has been the chief source of supply for dealers in many nearby towns. Now the aged warrior makes his home with a nephew whom he and his late wife adopted as a baby and brought up in their own home.

Mr. Parsons has an aged brother, Marion M. Parsons of Attica, who is 89 years old. The brother was also a soldier in the Civil war and served as a guard at Johnson's Island in Lake Erie near Sandusky. He was used as a prison camp and housed many officers of the Confederate army who were the flower of southern manhood.

Three-Day Bargain Festival Announced By Merchants

Enterprising Stores Offer Hundreds of Bargains to the People of This Community in Three-Day Fall Festival Affair.

With this edition of The Advertiser announcement is made by Plymouth stores of a three-day fall festival bargain event, an affair that should arouse the interest of the thrifty buyer. Three thousand copies of The Advertiser go into the mails today, and three thousand homes in this trade area will read the messages sent out by merchants whose advertisements appear in this issue.

It is always darkest just before dawn, and with the business slump of the past few months there has come a time for reaction. So prominent financiers and economists tell us. So, in accord with reductions from the manufacturer to the consumer, the stores here are taking this opportunity to offer unusual bargains.

Plymouth is known for miles around as a hospitable community—a community in which everyone likes to visit, and so with the fall festival, which begins today, and lasts through Saturday, we take this privilege of extending you a cordial invitation to come to our town and shop. You'll like our stores, you'll appreciate the service they render, and you'll go home, feeling that your visit with us has been beneficial.

Read the advertisements, large and small. They tell a message that will interest you, and by comparison, you'll find that you can get OUR MONEY just as fine a bargain as you would by spending money away from home. And, remember, when you make a purchase, just say: "I saw your ad in the paper."

Reduced Freight Rates for County

Richland County Farmers Are Listed For Drought Relief

Farmers in Richland county suffering from the effects of the drought are entitled to a reduction of approximately 50 per cent in freight rates for feed shipped in for feeding stock. This relief movement is given to this district as the county has been placed in the authorized drought area, according to John R. Gilkey, member of the drought committee.

The only way feed dealers can get this reduction in freight rates is to pass the reduction on to the farmers as this concession made by the railroad companies is for farmers only. The amount of feed that will be shipped into the county cannot be estimated, but the farmers are sure to reduce their flocks and herds.

To get the reductions in rates the shipments of feed must be made in car load lots, including hay, feed, and grain. The condition in the southern part of the state is much more serious than in Richland county as the late rains have renewed much pasture land.

LOLA LONG DECIDES TO REMAIN AT REIF HOME

The case of Lola Long, of Attica, which created much excitement in this district some time ago, appears to be finally settled.

The girl, now of age, has decided that her future home will be with the Milton Reif family, in the village of Attica. Her decision followed the statement of Judge Platt, of Tiffin that she had been technically wrongfully restrained and that she had the right to make her own choice.

Last January, Samuel Long, wished his daughter to return to her home near Sulphur Springs, as she had been residing with the Reifs. When attempt was made to take the girl by force, she disappeared, and returned after her 18th birthday. The young lady deeply resented her father's action in adjudging her delinquent, and refused to return. Her weekly wage for services at the Attica residence was devoted to the payment of a note held by Reif against Milton Long.

It seems the tariff is going to be the main campaign issue in those states where the candidates are not just sure how the folks stand on prohibition—Dayton (Ohio) News.

Brightening up the home

Simplify Fall House-Cleaning

QUANT old Scotch proverb says, "There's nothing so crone (cheerful) as a new washen house!" What an appropriate thought for this time of year—when the dust which summer deluges into even the most fastidious homes must be thoroughly dispatched before the Fall and Winter activities begin.

Of course the "new washen house" of the proverb isn't so literally necessary today, when most irksome soap and water scrubbing has been replaced by more satisfactory modern methods. In fact, the scrubbing of many a conscientious but old-fashioned house-keeper has nearly ruined her wood floors, removing all the natural oils and gum. The starved boards had to have pounds of life-giving wax before they regained their natural beauty.

The modern woman can be quite as efficient and systematic in her housecleaning as is her husband in the routine of his business. And it's largely because of her up-to-date housekeeping tools that the American woman is famous for staying young so long. She has the vacuum cleaner with its clever attachments, the electric wax polisher, capable household brushes and the wax preparations which prevent dust from accumulating.

If there's papering or decorating to be done that's naturally the first step. Investigate the practical new washable wallpapers. You may even waterproof your year old wallpaper by using a liquid wax glass, but test a sample first as an occasional paper is too absorbent for this treatment. Closet cleaning comes next, and how the church rummages sales and missionary barrels will probably benefit by what you find there!

Then the woodwork and floors must be cleaned and waxed to a satin-smooth polish. Using liquid wax is the best way to clean waxed flooring. Fall is also a wise time to begin treating your furniture with wax, to make dusting easier throughout the year and to protect your precious wood finishes from any possible disaster. For floors a thorough waxing is, of course, necessary, and an electric polisher will give the surface a wonderful, mirror-like sheen with practically no effort.

One of the best systems of ventilation in a poultry house is through the windows. If they open back at the top into the house, all that is necessary is to open them and let the fresh air in and the impure, moist air out. When it gets cold, make the opening smaller.

FARMER HAS HURON CO. MAP PRINTED IN 1859

Ralph Smith, who recently purchased the Bristol farm just across the line in Erie county, discovered in the dwelling house, an excellent map of Huron county, issued in about 1859.

A vast amount of information is revealed by the map, which not only includes the regular map features but carries pictures of various towns, the names of the farmers on their respective properties, and a business directory.

The map is of very large size and is a much more pretentious work than is commonly gotten out these days. Among the pictures of dwelling houses printed are the following: Dr. T. M. Cook, Monroeville, Stephen Sawyer, Lyme, Dr. Weaver, Sherman, G. A. Fish, Norwich; F. Vorel, Norwich; C. B. Niver, Oles; John Gardner, Norwalk; J. C. Ransom, Hartland; J. E. Hanford, Wakerwood; W. Branch, North Fairfield; Sherwood Wakeman, Fairfield; John Boughton, Pithville; Isaac Howe, and Alanson Sutton, both of Greenwich.

This map will be displayed at the home-coming event to be held soon at Pithville.

JOE BROWN, COMEDIAN, IS DOCTOR'S PROVERBIAL PET BECAUSE OF INJURIES

Some persons support musical comedies, they are called "angels"; others support prize fights, they are called promoters; some support doctors, and one of the most famous of these is Joe E. Brown. Brown estimates that if the doctors' bills he has paid during his twenty years spent in being funny by throwing himself from the stage to the orchestra piano for a continuous run of fourteen months, Tuesdays and Saturdays matinees, would be placed one on top of each other and let down to the bottom of the Atlantic ocean it would have saved him a great amount of money.
During the filming of "Top Speed," first National's musical comedy coming to the Castamba theatre beginning next Sunday, Joe E. Brown had the following injuries to prove that being funny was no fun at all:
A scraped nose, an injured chin and forehead.

DUTIES OF DOG WARDEN LISTED BY BEYTMAN

The dog warden and his deputies are charged with the duty of enforcing the laws relative to the licensing of dogs, the impounding and destruction of unlicensed dogs and the payment of compensation for damages to livestock inflicted by dogs, but that such officers are not authorized to seize or impound dogs running at large which are wearing a valid registration tag.

City police, however, may enforce city ordinances prohibiting persons owning dogs from allowing them to run at large on public roads, highways, streets or lanes, or alleys or upon unenclosed land.

The trouble about many of the probes is that there is not enough regard for property.—Savannah Morning News.

GRADE NEWS REPORTED INCLUDES ACTIVITIES AND PLANS FOR 1930-31 TERM

FIRST GRADE
There are thirty-one in the first grade. Donald Buzard has been absent on account of the sickness of his brother. When asked how many liked to go to school, all hands went up. They are getting accustomed to school ways and playing with other children.

THIRD GRADE
There are 24 pupils enrolled in the third grade, 12 boys and 12 girls. In the morning health inspection, Jean BeVier was chosen inspector general, with Betty Garrett, Roger Ross, Mary Katherine Derr and Halsey Heath as her helpers. The oral reading class has been divided into three different sections, called the Snowbirds, Bluebirds and Redbirds.

FOURTH GRADE
Another year is started. Now we are the fourth grade. We lost four of our number and gained two. One of our classmates is gone from our school forever. We hold him in loving memory. We now have eight boys and twelve girls.
Gene Cornell was chosen as health captain with Kathleen Martin, Lucille Carlick, Donald Bettac and Harlow Kendig as helpers.

We hope to make this one of the best years we have had and we call it now all try. Our room reporter from now on will be Carol Lee Sittler. Watch for our news.

FIFTH GRADE
The fifth grade has 21 people in their room this year. We have one new pupil, Edna Mae King. We have divided the room into two sides, the Red and Blue. These two groups have been playing baseball.

SIXTH GRADE
There are now thirty-two pupils enrolled in the sixth grade. There are fifteen girls and seventeen boys.
Our health officer for the month is Paul Root. The house keeper is Clara Leah.
A very fine gift of ten volumes of "Pictured Knowledge" was presented to our room by Mrs. P. H. Root. We are certainly very grateful to her for them.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The seventh and eighth grades, under the supervision of Mr. Wolfe, have physical education every Tuesday and Friday.
Those in the senior hall, not out for track under the direction of Mr. Jenkins, have physical education. The only sports thus far played are volleyball and kitten ball.

Student Newspaper Begins Sixth Year

With the copy of September 25th, the P. H. S. Post begins its sixth year of publishing school news of interest, not only to the students, but also the public in general.
The pupils themselves have found, written, and arranged the little paper, and "posted" it, and in this way have succeeded to keep the interest in school activities high. The Post was originated and named in 1925, by the Sophomore English class, under the direction of Superintendent T. S. Davis, now of the Cleveland Heights schools.

At intervals the news articles are read separately, and sold, but for the most part, the Post has been included in the pages of the weekly Advertiser.
The work of scouting for news, preparing it for publication, etc., is experience that will benefit the pupils concerned, and will never be forgotten. It is a loophole into the interesting world of the press.

So we wish the editors of the 1930-21 Post much success, and ask that all co-operation be given them. The Advertiser.

MUSIC

Glee Clubs at P. H. S. were organized during the past week. That interest in music is at a high point, is evidenced by the large membership in both the boys' and girls' clubs. The total is approximately 85 voices.
Officers for the clubs are as follows:
Boys' Club—President, Deryl Storck; vice president, Harry Long; Librarian, Don Einsel, Jr.
Girls' Club—President, Eloise Shaver; vice president, Mary Ruth Sittler; Librarian, Ruth Lebold.

Besides the glee club, a course in elementary interpretation and conducting will be afforded for those interested in curricular credit.
A party of seventh graders opened the school's social calendar by having a roast—Thursday after school. Chaprons for the affair were Miss McClellan and Miss Fenner. The girls pronounced the affair a huge success and we all hope that the entire high school may have a similar event in the near future.

FALL TRACK

When you see Coach Jenkins' fall track squad this year you will see six lettermen and two freshmen.
Walter St. Clair, a senior, as well as a veteran is to lead the Red and White into what is hoped to be the most successful season that it has ever had.
The only meet scheduled thus far is with Mansfield Senior High, October 4th.

GIRLS PHYSICAL ED.

The basketball activity has not yet begun in the girls' physical education classes.
Due to the nice weather they have been taking short, brisk, hikes out Sandusky street toward Willard and back, and have been enjoying this recreation immensely but still hoping that the basketball season will soon commence.
Late announcement: As this goes to press, we learn that we have a kitten ball game booked with New Haven girls here Thursday afternoon at 3:15.

SCHOOL LAWN

The appearance of our school building was improved during the summer by the grading of the lawn, the work being done by Shane and Delmer.
There is a new 35 foot flag pole in front of the building, presented to the school by Mrs. Clara Allen, a resident of Shelby, in memory of her father. Mrs. Allen also gave a flag. She and her daughter attended Plymouth school.
The formal flag raising will be held in the near future.

THE LIBRARY

The school library is started again under the much improved system. Every book is classified in standard order and the pupils have access to accredited fiction and numerous reference books. Money acquired from the lost and found department and fines go for the purchasing of new books. We hope in the future to enlarge our library and since we have the new equipment with proper cooperation we can progress rapidly.
Bandit: "One more crack out yah and I'll fill yah fulla lead."
Victim: "Sorry, but my name's Penn, not Pencill."
Friend: "How's your book coming?"
Author: "Not so good. So far it's been suppressed in only two states."

THE SENIOR CLASS

A modest class, an honest class
A class of twenty-three,
A class religious, fine and brave,
It means the world to me.
A class who stands for Plymouth High
We hope to win it fame,
A class who holds it close to heart,
Who loves its honored name.

A class who stands and sings with pride
Its Alma Mater dear,
A class who believes in Jesus Christ
And feels His presence near.

A class who honors its teachers all,
Alike, the poorest and the best,
Each little memory held close at heart
Till we are called to rest.
—H. D. '31

SUPT. R. B. MILLER

Honest, loyal and brave he is Superintendent of our school,
He tries to teach us all that's right,
He is no human's fool.

His sense of humor ne'er gives out,
His ready laugh rings clear,
He tries to help his fellow men,
We feel his presence near.

He teaches us the ways of God,
The ways of right and wrong,
May he live a happy life,
One that's dear and long.
—H. D. '31

THE CLOCK

Everyone was greatly excited Friday when an apparently new clock made its appearance in the lower hall. Its real identity was unknown to most of the students but now it is slowly being whispered about that it was the wall clock in the southwest room of the old building where it has ticked away many valuable hours. Let's hope it will continue the good work in our new building.

A REMINDER

On behalf of the seniors of 1930 we wish to remind the faculty of the following will that was bequeathed to them (For the benefit of the Senior class of '31).
To the faculty we bequeath the privilege of handing in demerit slips, but we also leave the following rules:
1. A test must be announced at least a week in advance.
2. The two days before the test must be spent in review.
3. No questions shall be asked on subjects more than four weeks old!
H. D. '31

JOKES

She: So you've seen me on the stage? What was I in at the time?
He: Three feathers and a string of beads.
Miss Young: "Tubby, were you late this morning?"
Tubby Webber, turning to Dave Bachrach: "Dave, was I late?"

Soph: "I need somebody with a pull right now."
Coed: "My father is a dentist. Can he help?"

Papa: Bobby, if you had a little more spunk, you would stand better in your class. Now, do you know what spunk is?
Bobby: Yes, sir, it's the past participle of spunk.

Cop: "What choo crying about, guy?"
Beggar: Baw, I just found a good recipe for home brew and I ain't got no home.

One: "I hear that the Joneses got a divorce."
Two: "Why, man! I live right next to them, and I've been hearing it come for two years."

Harry Long: "Do you think there's music in the stars?"
Jane DeWitt: "I don't know about that, but I know of the sun causing a belle to peel!"

Mr. Wolfe (concluding story): "And now, children, would you like to ask any questions?"
Bob Bachrach: "Yes sir, please, how do you get into your school?"

Jim Root: "A fellow in your class told me I looked like you, Pop."
Mr. Root: (proudly): "And what did you say my son?"
Jim R.: Gee, Pop, he was bigger than I am.

Big Musical Comedy Planned by Students

P. H. S. officially makes the announcement that their main extra-curricular activity for the next three weeks will be directed chiefly toward the production of a big musical comedy which will be seen at the H. S. Auditorium, Oct. 10. The cast will be made up of more than a hundred of Plymouth's most talented people.

We have been fortunate enough to book the latest offering of the authors of the John B. Rogers Producing Company of Fostoria, Ohio, an ultra-modern musical play showing under the name of "That's That."

"That's That" is bright, brand new, up-to-date in every particular and is to be the Rogers feature for 1930-31. The costuming and scenic effects are reported to be extravagantly elaborate and the musical score, written by Charles Gilpin, who has for some years composed the music for the University of Pennsylvania's annual masque and wig shows, is of a nature that raises it high above the plane of the usual offering of this kind.

We are already busy with definite business in connection with the production, preliminary to the arrival of the professional director from John B. Rogers Producing Company, who will stage the play.

The show promises to be a first class attraction with high entertainment value.

The scenes are laid in one of the deluxe hotels at Palm Beach, Florida. The action has to do with members of the elite social set in the midst of the usual winter social whirl, seeking diversion at this exclusive resort. The story is of the romance of a sensible son of a prominent New York millionaire, who conceals his identity and wishes to be accepted by the girls he loves because of what he is and not because of what he has. There are many interesting sidelights involving true-to-life comedy; there is a wealth of sure-fire comedy; there are shaggy tunes galore; extraordinary scenic effects and beautiful costumes of latest design and many other features which build up a colorful, entertaining and satisfactory show.

Richland Co. Men Are Named Members on Ohio State Board

Mr. H. W. Steel, of Shelby, O., and Mr. Chas. Hoffman, of Mansfield, O., are members of the State Board of Reference of The Children's Home Society of Ohio, the pioneer child-caring organization of the state, using foster home care only for their dependent wards. The Society was founded thirty-seven years ago to receive, care for, and train dependent children, and fit them for placement in suitable private families, as provided by law.

This organization was founded for child care work and is free from all sectarian, political, or race bias, and receives children who are of normal parents and are absolutely dependent upon the county or state for their support.

Mr. C. C. Darby, executive secretary, states that since the Society was incorporated in 1893, they have had the care of over twenty-two hundred children, and of this number about six hundred have been legally adopted in private families, while the balance were placed in foster homes and remain under the supervision of the Society until they become of legal age.

Traffic Jack Sharkey, sometimes The Boston Gob, but better known as the world's most valiant fighter, will fare forth to do battle with Vitorio Campolo, the South American Bantamweight. As to whether Sharkey will come out of his foudi deep, as per other battles we know not, but it is fond hope that at least the Big "Fats" will give the cash customer a slight break.

A wild and woolly tale of the western thriller type has been concocted to the effect that the Sailor Boy from Boston was poisoned. Well, now as to that, we cannot offer argument, but by way of warning to the Sailor, we do say don't let this fellow Campolo prove to be a second dose of poison.

Any gentleman or lady for that matter, wishing to apply for the management of the Chicago Cubs will find not the following requirements: Namely: "No" pennant in national league, knock of war's service, must be good business man, as well as know his baseball onions. No others need apply.

If you remember that sometime during the world series last year that Jack Wilson, the great Chicago Cub centerfielder lost an easy fly in the sun, well that is the secret of his numerous homers this year. Every-time Jack thinks of that misadventure he gets so hot and bothered, that he soaks the old pill jar out of the lot. So far this season that fatal fly has wended to him 35 times.

Ward High started of the grid season with a bang, when they took over Fredericktown 13-0 last Saturday. Frederick town outwheeled the Taylor gridders twenty pound to the man. Now if that's not overcoming the odds handicap "T" say no more.

And for once the Big Bam king of swat was not at the lead of the circuit during class. Whether the gent is tired of holding the limelight; or whether he is merely being modest and giving the other lads a chance we live not the faintest glimmer at any rate he is the one and only Babe Ruth no matter where he stands in the glass.

LOVE in St. Louis, they claim, that their Old Home term the odds has the national title, finished. So sure are they, that they are enlarging their park to accommodate World Series crowd. Not only that, but the applications for reservations are so numerous that the Cards office announced that they would receive no more orders for seats.

Old "National House"

suddenly married the mother. Both Mr. and Mrs. Connel died in the hotel that brought them a name and renown in the community. The only remaining member of the Connel family is George Connel, Jr., enjoying the last days of his life in the Pythias home in Springfield.

J. G. Rhodes purchased the hotel in 1880. But, then, for some reason, the tavern which was listed in 1879 as one of the leading business places, declined. After a Mr. Moore had rented and managed the place for some time, with lessening popularity, Frank Ervin, president of the First National bank took it over. Then it was managed by Mrs. Martha Lewis.

It was then that the famous old tavern reached the zenith of its career. It quickly became the high point in the social life of the community. The very epitome of the traditional "Gay 90's" was found in the village leading hostelry. Nightly there were gay dances and collations, with bustling dresses and flashy "beaus" in starched and conventional garb. It was the social center, and those who attended regularly its many colorful parties and dinners, were considered Plymouth's elite and "400's." They dictated the fashion and ruled the society column.

Sweeping wider with its influence, the little hotel became the center of attraction for some miles around. Banquets, dinners and dances and political meetings were scheduled there by organizations over a large area. Gradually it became of such importance that it was the sample room for state wide merchants. Only the best hotels were privileged to have "sample rooms" where salesmen could display their wares to the visiting populace. Thus it attained a prominence seldom reached by village taverns.

Ervin sold the inn to a Mr. Warner of Attica. The new owner met death suddenly in an auto accident when auto was a novelty. As no will was filed, the property went into the possession of Mrs. A. Sourwine. Many other colorful and historic legends are connected with the hotel and its surroundings. Some are found in musty volumes and old records, but the chief ones come from the old inhabitants.

New Haven was one of the principal stations for wagon trains north and south. Thus Plymouth became the half-way station on many journeys, especially when mud roads would not permit travel. As wagon trains went from Zanesville to Sandusky, on the Military road, Plymouth's three sided "square" was formed with a unique history.

Obviously the drivers did not choose to make a circuitous journey, so they started cutting corners when they came to the Plymouth business section. Gradually they wore away the northeast corner where the principal roadway crossed, until it became a recognized highway. Until that day it has remained that way. At that time, it is said, practically all of the most important business houses were on the northeast side.

New Haven lost its popularity when it failed to allow the Baltimore and Ohio railroad to pass through. In inverse proportion Plymouth's importance grew. Rivalry from the two other hostleries increased until the National house was pushed to maintain its lead. Perhaps it owed much of its business to "Snooper" the old porter, who met every train with his back and personally saw to the comforts of his patrons.

This has passed a famous landmark. It played its part in the community's development, but has passed away with modern conveniences which make no concession for tradition and legend. (Courtesy of Mrs. D. Hanck, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sponseller, Mrs. E. Loftand)

"The new unit is being erected to care for production of large welding machinery which the company makes. A 40-ton crane with a ten ton auxiliary hoist will be erected in the new unit. There also will be railroad facilities for loading and receiving on the siding which is included in the building program.

"The new addition will be completed about Dec. 15. Harry Sauer, president and treasurer of the Engineering company, will also have charge of the construction work. Thirty-five men will be employed.

CLOSING LAST GAP

Work has progressed so far on the rebuilding of the Linwood viaduct at Norwalk, that the contractors have nearly closed the gap over the W. & L. E. Railway. The bridge will be thrown open to traffic, probably in two or three weeks.

C. O. Wise, and family, of Bellevue, G. M. Donnemir and wife, and Mary Lou, of Shelby, spent Friday evening at the A. F. Donnemir home on Park avenue.

1930 Corn Crop is Less Than Expected

The 1930 corn crop is now forecast at 1,932,000 bushels which is 10.4 per cent less than the August 1 forecast, 34.2 per cent less than the 1929 production, and 26.6 per cent below the five-year average production. A decline in prospective production since August 1 occurred in 33 States, no change was shown in 7 states, while increases were shown in the remaining States.

Declines occurred in all corn belt States except Nebraska and Kansas. Increases were largely in Western States, where corn production is relatively unimportant. The area of low prospective yields, due to prolonged drought, expanded during August to include the States north and west of the original drought area and now extends from New York to the Dakotas, and also into the State of Texas.

The 1930 corn crop, as now forecast, would be the smallest crop since 1901, when 1,523,000,000 bushels were produced. It would be the first crop in that period of 29 years to fall below 2,000,000,000 bushels. The yield per acre of 19.5 bushels indicated by condition on September 1 is also the lowest since 1901 when the yield was estimated to be 16.7 bushels. The 10-year average yield is 28.2 bushels per acre. The condition on September 1 was reported at 51.6 per cent of normal, compared with 62.0 per cent on August 1, 1930 and a 10-year average September 1 condition of 77.7 per cent.

The estimate of probable corn production relates to equivalent yield of grain on the entire acreage. The low yields of both grain and stalks, and the shortage of other roughages and pasture, accompanied by early cutting of corn forage will tend this year to greatly increase the acreage harvested as silage and forage, and decrease the acreage husked and snapped for ear corn. The decreased production of corn actually harvested for grain will undoubtedly be greater than the reduction in the total production of corn for all purposes.

The changes from August 1 to September 1 in the outlook for corn production are as follows in the most important corn producing states: Ohio, 13.3 per cent decrease; Indiana, 10.7 per cent decrease; Illinois, 14.4 per cent decrease; Minnesota, 9.1 per cent decrease; Iowa, 11.5 per cent decrease; South Dakota, 16.7 per cent increase; Nebraska, 16.7 per cent increase and Kansas, no change.

Pity poor America. She's so broke her people had money enough to buy more automobiles, radios and electric refrigerators last year than ever before in the history of the nation, and they are breaking last year's record this year.—Florida Times-Union.

The one redeeming feature of the battle between Almee Semple McPherson and her mother seems to be that neither claimed a foul.—New York Post.

NOTES By a Country Editor

Agricultural and Conservation Interests in the Ohio Department of Agriculture.

Owl Can Scrap

Which is the meanest fighter, the chicken hawk or the great horned owl? One could get up a bet on this kind of a prize fight among sportsmen anytime.

Now just as a little tip,—don't put your money too strong on Billy Hawk, for it has been found out that Hooty Owl carries a powerful wallop together with a bad disposition. Billy Hawk looks the part, is quick and trim, has sharp ugly eyes and a bad beak, but Hooty has all of that with a bad eye included. He just spoils for trouble day and night. He says he's the who's who in Birdland rough stuff, and can prove it.

During a game exhibit of the division of conservation, Tony Pfarr, conservation officer in charge of the exhibit, placed a great horned owl in a pen with two chicken hawks. Hooty Owl at once seized up the two Billy Hawks. The hawks cracked their beaks and put up a whale of a bluff to draw Hooty out and make him show his stuff, whereupon Hooty ruffled up his feathers, hid back his ears, and when one of the Hawk boys made a sudden pass at him, Hooty turned in and thrashed the two of 'em off the perch, badly de-feathered 'em and put 'em up in the top of the cage quicker than it takes to write this story, completely upsetting the dope bucket on the hawk-howl bout.

A Harness Bull

Department of Agriculture officials have particulars about a bull that pays for his board and lodging, and at the same time keeps physically fit by pulling an ox cart at one of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's dairy experiment farms.

Oxford May's In. Owl, a Jersey bull, was broken to harness as a youngster and now is used daily for general hauling about the farm. By working off his surplus energy, "Ox" is kept gentle, not only when between the shafts but also when handled at breeding time. The chief advantage of working this blue-blooded aristocrat, however, is that the exercise maintains his virility and makes him a certain breeder the year round.

"Ox" earned his nickname, not only from the name appearing on his registration papers but because of his patient performance at his daily task of carting loads. He obeys orders, recognizing "gee," "haw" and "whoa back" as well as any ox.

Reformed by Love

One of the Ohio game protectors reports that recently a young man came to his home and surrendered a fish net which he said he had been using illegally operating in the streams of his home community. He explained his action by stating that he was soon to be married and was going to "turn over a new leaf." Thus are good influences at work to create sentiment for protection of natural resources and a greater respect for the law, says the game protector.

Wheat or Barley for Livestock

Farmers whose corn crops are short may save money by substituting wheat or barley, pound for pound, for corn, and by feeding these grains in much the same way and in the same combinations as they usually feed corn, says the Department of Agriculture.

When the price of corn is $1 a bushel, the value of wheat for feeding poultry and sheep is about $1.07, and for feeding hogs and beef cattle, $1.12, the department says. For all-purpose feedings, the department points out, a pound of cracked wheat or of cracked barley, or a pound of the two mixed in any proportion, is equal in feeding value to a pound of corn.

Erratic Squirrel Crop

Since the squirrel season opens reports from all parts of the state show that squirrels are plentiful in some sections but hard to find in other places. Game protectors report that squirrels have congregated along watercourses and in woods where mast and other food, particularly corn, is plentiful, as predicted in this column prior to the hunting season. There is no reason for a general scarcity as the dry season during the summer has been good for propagation of game of all kinds. Rabbits are unusually plentiful and when the season opens November 1st on rabbits, Ohio hunters will have the best shooting in years, according to all indications. Squirrels along the Ohio River, the Muskingum and lower Scioto and Miami are quite plentiful.

Special Levies to Be Voted on in Nov.

Three proposed bond issues and eight special levies are to be passed upon by the voters at the November election according to information given by Deputy Clerk John A. Massa, Sr., of the county board of elections. The voters will be asked to approve the proposed bond issue of $500,000 for school building improvements and additions and the $225,000 issue for an addition to General Hospital. The bond issue in the county interests the voters of Monroe township, where it is proposed to build a school structure for $97,500.

Special levies, the amounts and duration of the levy, are as follows: City of Shelby, three mills, five years; Madison twp., three mills, 3 years; Bellville, three mills, five years; Bloominggrove twp., three mills, five years; Levington village school district, three mills, five years; Plymouth twp. school district, two mills, three years; Worthington twp. school district, three mills, three years; Plymouth village school district, one and four mills.

Dairying Leads as Source of Income

Dairying ranked first, in 1929, as the leading source of income to farmers in 48 of the 88 Ohio counties, and first as a source of farm income for the state, according to a study just completed by Dr. J. I. Falconer, chief of the department of rural economics at the Ohio State University, and Robert E. Straszheim, research assistant.

In Richland county dairying was the principal source of income, providing 29 per cent of the total.

In Huron county, dairying was the principal source of income, providing 25 per cent of the total.

Hogs ranked first in 25 counties cattle in five, poultry in three, vegetables in three, and sheep, fruit, tobacco and corn each in one.

Farmers in Wood and Drake counties received, in that year, a gross cash income of more than $8,000,000 for their crop and livestock products.

In three other counties—Seneca, Wayne, and Hancock—the gross cash income to farmers exceeded $6,000,000.

In Richland county the gross cash income for the year was $4373 and the cash income an acre was $16.80. In Huron county the gross cash income for the year was $3590 and the cash income an acre was $12.90.

In 10 counties the gross cash income an acre exceeded $20. Hamilton county, in which dairy products are the chief source of income, led with an income of $28.70 an acre. Lucas county ranked second with $27.90; Montgomery third with $24.50; and largely derived from dairying;

TIMES HAVE CHANGED AT TIFFIN; HERE ALSO

Wood burning trains whizzing through Tiffin at the rate of 12 miles an hour, a valuable farm of 550 acres cleared and beginning with log house and fine barn begging for an owner at $2,100.

All of this was spot news way back in January, 1864 according to yellowed, time worn copy of an old paper discovered by B. D. Rider, of Tiffin, while making minor repairs to his home.

The farm for sale is described as a "well improved farm situated in Liberty township." It was complete with a good barn and granary, log house, and smaller building used as a smithy. The presence of a steam saw mill 15 miles distant was listed as an inducement for quick sale. The train mentioned left Tiffin daily at 8:25 and arrived at Berwick, nine miles distant by 9:20, just 55 minutes.

Scientific Care for Tuberculosis Patients

"We need more tuberculosis sanatoria in Ohio," says Dr. Charles A. Neal, state director of health. "If we are to successfully continue our fight against tuberculosis, adequate facilities should be provided for the scientific care and treatment of all who are suffering from the disease."

Ohio's laws provide that the county commissioners of any county having more than 50,000 population may erect and operate a county tuberculosis hospital. The director points out. The 1926 census will bring a number of counties, not maintaining a hospital, into this class. Many of these realize the need for and the economy of such an institution. Dr. Neal thinks.

A review of the state laws relating to tuberculosis shows that the first act regarding county sanatoria was passed in 1908 for the purpose of separating county charges afflicted with the disease. The Franklin County Sanatorium which was opened in 1909 was the first county tuberculosis institution to be provided under this law.

Another law, passed in 1909, provided that any two or more counties, not to exceed five, might combine to erect a district tuberculosis sanatorium to be maintained jointly by such counties. Records show that the first institution to be erected under this law was the District Tuberculosis Hospital of Montgomery and Preble counties. It was opened in 1909 in Dayton.

Later it was removed to a site six miles out of the city and is now known as the Stillwater Sanatorium. This law was amended in 1923 so that two or more counties not to exceed ten might, upon the favorable vote of the electors, form a district for the support of a tuberculosis hospital. In addition to the Stillwater institution there are now two other district tuberculosis hospitals in the state; one is the Mt. Logan Sanatorium which serves Fayette, Highland, Scioto, Pike, Ross and Jackson counties; the other is located at Lima and is supported by Allen, Van Wert, Mercer, Auglaize and Shelby counties.

Trumbull, Mahoning, Summit, Belmont, Clark, Stark and Lucas counties have followed in the footsteps of Franklin by establishing their own sanatoria. In Lorain and Licking counties the voters have approved a bond issue and tax levy respectively for the erection of county tuberculosis hospitals and plans are going forward for their completion, according to the building commissions of both counties.

An escaped lunatic was discovered playing in a Stillwater park. There may be others.—Florence, Ala. Herald.

More Light, More Eggs, Say Experts

Use Electricity To Lengthen Hen's Working Day From 8 to 14 Hours.

To induce hens to eat more feed and therefore lay more eggs is the purpose of equipping poultry houses with electric lights for the fall and winter seasons.

Since the domestic hen doesn't belong to a labor union the regular 8-hour winter working day may be stretched to 14, and the hens will labor on without a complaint, say poultry specialists for the Ohio State University Extension Service.

Farmers might make the working day for the hen a little longer, they say, but 14 hours is the maximum amount of working time that may be expected from chickens. But some poultrymen last year supplied a dim light all night long, and got results, they admit.

To prevent older laying hens from falling off in production, the poultry specialists recommend that lights be used immediately, and if these same birds are to be used later to supply setting eggs for next year's hatch, that the lights be discontinued about November 1st.

For the pullets which come into production this fall, the specialists say that artificial light should be used before the first of October, and kept going all winter and spring.

Some beneficial results to be expected from the use of lights are listed by the specialists. These are: Greater winter production, increased yearly production, hastened production of breeder hens, prevention of winter molt in early hatched pullets, hastened maturity of late hatched pullets, and an increased income from the farmer's labors.

DROUGHT RELIEF GIVEN THROUGH SIX CHANNELS TO AREAS IN THIS STATE

Director Green in the department of Agriculture, who was named chairman of the drought relief committee in Ohio, reports splendid progress in setting up the organization through which practical relief may be affected.

The campaign of relief is not for the present year only, but that assistance will have to cover three years. Farmers will require two years of normal crops to catch up with their losses of this year.

There is said to be a lot of misunderstanding as to the nature and extent of the proposed federal and state aid under this program. Those who are expecting a free-hand donation party are doomed to disappointment, but substantial help will be afforded say those in touch with the program. Relief will be in six channels: Freight reductions on incoming feed and forage, and outgoing livestock sent as feeders; credit expansion; employment for farmer hands; doing for them public projects; supplying forage. Red Cross relief in cases of actual want; and health protection.

BOXER REBELLION HERO WHO SCALED WALLS OF PEKIN WILL TEACH BIBLE

Thirty years ago, the name of Bugler Titus stirred the American public through the channels of the press to hero-worship. Today the name would not mean so much, but Titus is preparing to make his name familiar again—but in a different way.

During the Boxer Rebellion in China thirty years back American troops found Titus in a bad position. After succeeding in reaching the very foot of the walls surrounding Peking two companies were in great danger of being scattered by bricks thrown from the top.

Quick action was needed—and given by Titus, then but 21 years of age. Leaving his hat, weapons, and bag behind, Titus began to scale the weather-beaten wall which rose thirty feet into the air. The enemy did not spot him as he crouched at the top of the wall and hauled up his rifle and ammunition. He opened fire on the nearest enemies, surprising them, while other soldiers scaled the wall, and advanced on the Imperial city.

The youth was voted a cadetship by congress, and awarded a medal by President Roosevelt, the highest honor given to American soldiers for bravery under fire.

In all campaigns Titus has carried on work in two divisions. He has carried his bible along with his rifle. From Fort Benning, Georgia, Titus has been instructed to go to Los Angeles, where he will await his formal retirement from military service. Then he will begin active missionary work.

OHIO FARM EXPERTS TO GO ON AIR DAILY OVER STATION WTAM

Specialists in all lines of agriculture—experts in poultry, dairying, cattle, soils, economics, fruit growing, farm engineering, entomology—may now be heard daily over the radio at 11:40 a. m. through Station WTAM, Cleveland.

The college of Agriculture and the agricultural extension service of the Ohio State University, together with the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station at Wooster, have expanded their radio programs, and through the courtesy of Station WTAM will provide ten minute broadcasts daily for a period of at least three months, the time necessary to determine, it is thought, how well the public will receive regular broadcasts.

The first program was given September 15th, when Dr. H. Ramsower, director of the extension service, introduced the new radio feature. Director C. G. Williams, of the experiment station, gave a second talk on the following day.

The talks will be informational in nature and deal with the findings of the experiment station and the teachings of the college of agriculture of the state university.

Broadcasts over station WEOA, the university station, will continue as before.

CHANGES MADE IN GAME LAWS BY STATE OF OHIO

Only a few changes are noted in the Ohio game laws for this season's hunting. All of these changes are in the sections on migratory birds and are made to conform with Federal laws.

The game laws now provide different dates for migratory bird open season. These open seasons under the new laws are:

Gallinule—September 16 to November 30. Limit fifteen in one day.

Ducks, Geese and Coot—September 16 to December 31, and possessed during any additional season granted by Federal regulations. Limits: Wild ducks, fifteen in the aggregate of all kinds except older ducks and wood ducks, in any one day and not more than four geese or eight brant in the aggregate in one day or more than twenty-five coot in one day.

Jacksnipe—September 16 to December 31. Limit fifteen in one day.

Rail—November 1 to November 30. Limit, twenty-five in one day, in aggregate of all kinds except Sora. Sora, twenty-five in one day.

Woodcock—October 15 to November 14. Limit four in one day.

The squirrel season in Ohio will open September 15 and last until October 1. Sale of squirrels is illegal and the bag limit is set at four a day. The season on rabbits will open November 15 and lasts until January 1. The bag limit is set at five a day.

FALL FASHIONS for MEN

Reflect the Trend to Finer Fabrics

And offer more value for less money

Never before have we presented fabrics that represent greater individuality and ingenuity in fabric creativeness. To this achievement the finest American and European weavers have contributed. Worsteds in suits are finer in looks, better in wear and character than ever before. Never before have we offered such individual and handsome garments that represent so much high quality and good value for the money. If these fine clothes could have been produced ten or twenty years ago the prices in our honest opinion would have had to be 15 to 20 per cent more. Today economy of manufacture is at its peak.

Hunters Should Use Caution

The great army of waterfowl hunters began its first offensive in eighteen states on Sept. 15. Three more states will fall in line on the 24th, the others beginning attack on the ducks and geese on Oct. 1, Oct. 16, Nov. 1 and Nov. 20, according to their latitude, seasons opening earliest in the northern states. The season remains open from three to three and a half months.

Responsibility for enforcement of the bag limit and seasonal regulations rests upon the Federal government, except as state laws are more restrictive or coincide with the Federal law. When the regulations do not coincide the states are powerless to help effectively.

Recent changes in the Federal bag limit regulations have thrown the state and United States more out of harmony than before. The Federal daily bag limit on ducks and geese has been reduced to 15 and 4, respectively, but the law of 26 states permit a higher limit on ducks and 42 states a higher limit on geese.

The situation presented is therefore a critical one, so far as enforcement is concerned, as the Biological Survey has a force of only 25 game protectors in the entire country. Carlos Avery, president of the American Game Protective Association appeals to all members of that and other sportsmen's groups and to all other sportsmen to lend their aid to the Federal and state authorities to secure faithful observance of the regulations.

Fall Court Opens September 29th

September term of Common Pleas court opened with Judge J. W. Galbraith presiding, and it was announced, following a conference between Judge Galbraith and Assistant Prosecutor James Will that a grand jury session will be held Sept. 29th. Judge Galbraith was of the opinion that names of voters to serve on the petit jury for the fall term of court will be drawn this week but the jurors will probably not be called upon to report before Sept. 29, and possibly not until a week later. Next week the court of appeals will be in session here and as many attorneys will be busy in the appeal court the common pleas judge does not like to have other cases on trial at the same time.

Rest Days For Ducks in Wis.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Wednesday is a rest day for ducks in Wisconsin all during the open season. The birds may enjoy at least one day a week when they are free from bombardment. In most of Canada Sunday is a rest day for all game. Some clubs establish several rest days a week on their grounds. Some sportsmen advocate a rest period each day in addition to prohibition of night shooting. More rest periods mean more feeding time.

Some men have accidents because bees get into their ears, and others have a little honey in the seat beside them.—Boston Herald.

BANKS TO REOPEN

The first step in the reopening of the Buckeye Commercial Savings Bank of Findlay was made by Attorney General Gilbert Bettman in an application to the Common Pleas Court of Hancock county for authority to sell the assets of the Buckeye Commercial Savings Bank to the American First National Bank, also of Findlay, Ohio.

It is estimated that all of the depositors will later be paid practically in full in a series of dividends to be paid as the bank assets are realized upon.
