GAS COMPANY WANTS RENEWAL

Two Years at Present Rate, Then An Increase On The Last Three is Wanted.

At the regular meeting of the village council held Tuesday evening, regular routine business received its attention, and the village's approval was received, read and adopted, and other minor matters received discussion.

The main topic of the session was brought up when representatives of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. brought up the matter of securing a franchise from the village, as the present one expires in February. The pros and cons of the franchise was discussed and finally wound up by being tabled for the next meeting.

The gas company made an offer, it is understood, for the same minimum rate to be effective for two years, and after that date, the minimum rate would automatically increase 50c.

The present rate is one dollar, and the increase after the two year period would be $1.50 minimum charge. It is estimated that the gas company's gross receipts from Plymouth run around $200,000 a year.

Just what the outcome will be is being looked forward to by the village, as there were some heated arguments over the rate schedule, as proposed by the old Logan Gas Co., which was taken over some time ago by the Ohio Gas Fuel.

SIX ORDERS IN FOR PLYMOUTHS

January Opens With Good Indications; Many Inquiries on File.

Up to Wednesday noon orders for six locomotives were received at the Fair-Road-Health Co. plant here, which indicates that the new year is starting out with a little more hope than which 1930 came to a close. The locomotives are to be shipped as fast as they are assembled. The orders include two 30-ton, one 20-ton, one 8-ton and two 5-ton. Four of the Plymouths go to Canada while two travel south, one to Texas and the other to Louisiana.

These orders come from a group of prospects that should make 1931 a busy year for the local plant, and from the number of inquiries already on file on indications point to several more orders in the near future.

BANK MAILS OUT SIST DIVIDEND

On January 1, the Peoples National Bank mailed its stockholders its fifty first dividend, which means that for twenty-five and one half years this institution has paid out its regular semi-annual dividend in all an amount in excess of Eighty One Thousand Dollars. The dividend this time was the regular 4 per cent semi-annual which the bank has maintained for many years. In spite of the depression and hard times the bank's earnings for the year 1930 were a little above the average which speaks well for our local institution. The bank is open each Saturday evening the year round, and on all time deposits maintains a Christmas Savings Club and renders a banking service to please as well as to accommodate the public.

Cardington Game Gives Fans Thrills

Four Men Out On Foul—Briggs High Scorer.

There are times, so the old saying goes that a loss means victory. The basketball game last by the Plymouth girls to the Cardington team is apparently one of these cases.

The Plymouth team gave their basketball fans one of the fastest and best games of the year last Friday night on the gym floor, despite the final score of 35-21 in favor of the opponents. The game was played in the last quarter when the visiting players gave evidence of more endurance.

At the end of the first quarter the game was a tie. At the half the local team was leading by two points, 22-18, and held that lead until the end of the third period. Lucille Moore was high scorer for the home team, repeating the honors of the Lucas game.

Boys Cop Game Pans watched two matched teams close for the winning two points, and until the final minute of a coin would have decided the winner.

At the half the score read 11-13 Plymouth, with the last two quarters of the game promising a battle royal. One Cardington man, with Briggs, Ross and Walter of Plymouth, were sent out to the bench on fouls. One minute before the long yong the tilt was a tie, and officials were set for an overtime, but Myers proved himself a hero and brought the Plymouth side of the score board to 23, Bob Young of Mansfield officiated.

Dr. Meyer says that reports have been received that Plymouth water is badly contaminated. Whether or not the water used by the town or whether an individual well or two is contaminated, was not made known. Reports from the state on samples of the town water are expected in a day or so. Two additional cases of typhoid fever have been reported in homes near Plymouth village.

reached up and turned his coat collar down and put up a hand and smoothed his hair. After a little he got up and shook his big body.

"I believe it to get shaved," he said. "I'm a fright. You won't tell Lillian or Will about this afternoon?"

"Why should I tell them? It would just scare them both. Have you had lunch?"

"No. I don't think so; no, I didn't."

"Neither did I. I'll go downstairs and fix some coffee and sandwiches while you're shaving."

From the kitchen she could hear him moving about; then she heard the front door open and the click of the latch. She went to the hall and Lillian saw her. Lillian came back to the kitchen.

"You didn't answer the phone, so I came over—Loring's upstairs. He said he hadn't eaten"—she made a gesture to the preparations on the table.

Lillian nodded absently.

"Ernestine," she said softly, quickly, "I'm going to have a baby."

Ernestine kissed her. "I'm awfully glad."

"Did you know about all of Loring's trouble?"

"Will told me some—Loring's told me the rest—but the worst is over for him now."

"Poor kid," said Lillian. She leaned against the door a moment and smiled at her younger sister. It seemed to Ernestine that since she had last seen her, the hard surface had dissolved from Lillian.

"Isn't it funny? Now everything is different. I used to wonder how you could go ahead when things were so hard. But it's not so bad—in the thick of it, as it seems from the side line. Just to know the baby's coming makes all this mess of Loring's seem so unimportant—I don't care what arrangements we make. Oh, Ernestine, there have been times when I thought Loring loved you more than he did me, so these last few days he's been so sweet to me—so worried about me. He's humbled—it makes my heart ache. I can't tell you how I feel."

"I guess I know," Ernestine answered. "It's this business of marriage—but go on up to him, darling, and get him to eat something. All this will straighten itself out."

Lillian went up the stairs. Standing in the hall, looking after her, Ernestine realized that these sorrows were blessings—these were the things that bound a man and a woman together. This would break for ever Loring's old fixed lines about himself, and Lillian's belief that she had married for her own advantage. This would leave them close together, warm, heart to heart.

She turned the gas low under the coffee-pot, spread a napkin over the sandwiches she had fixed and slipped quietly out of the house. Perhaps Will was at home, and she would eat with him.

As she walked she began to plan all the new life. Her practical, efficient mind set itself with vigor upon the new problems. The removal to the lake—the need of a studio there for Will, the possibility of adjusting their life to changeable income. But Will was so active—he would doubtless have all the work he could do, within a year or two. Some day he would be famous, and he would find the world willing to pay for beauty as well as wit.

She walked more quickly—eager to be home, the young blood singing in her heart.

Some day—

DELPHI NEWS

The New Year

1931 is with us. We have opened a new ledger—filled with 365 blank pages for all of us to fill in. We like the beginning of a New Year. It seems to bring noble resolutions and beckon us on and on higher and higher, to the very peak of our every ambition and to every accomplishment. We used to tell our pupils in school that this old world would lose a lot if our striving to improve ourselves should be lost. As we read and gather news from all sources, 1931 bids us to step up and keep stepping up that we may climb to the very top of our possible heights.

This aggregation of songsters were volunteers from the choirs of the three churches, and the appearances were at North Fairfield, December 23th, New Haven, January 7, 1931, and will be at Delphi on January 25th. There are 23 voices in the chorus.

Christmas Programs

The three entertainments given in Ripley in honor of Christmas—on the 21st a pageant, teaching the essay of the Good Samaritan at the Congregational church; the next program by the public school on the 23rd; and on the 24th a pageant at the Methodist church, The Birth of Christ. A large audience attended at all places. During our active year in Ripley we have never seen the children appear so beautiful.

Sport Shavings

By BARBER

Last Friday, Jan. 2, the crew from Cardington town blew into port. Eh? Did I say blew—perhaps I meant brooded—at any rate they blew into town acting rather breezy—but later in the evening blew out feelin' blue.

But on second thought—and as one old wise bird smart cracked, that thought was mental dynamite, may we ask how is second that rated—but to resume our second thought, maybe the Cardingtoners only felt half-blue, as they won half the two games played.

We hold that the cash customer received ample returns for his investment last Friday night. In fact I've never seen two more heart-rending, soul-racking games than were those two. The feminine settees started the evening's exhibitions off with a bang, for as soon as the contest was underway the fair basketweavers began to judge in a scoring spree that set the spectators wild. First one side took the pill for a two pointer, then the other, with neither team able to grasp a decisive lead, until the final moments of the game, when Sellers Cardington's stellar center, broke away for two field goals in succession, thus ending one of the most free scoring girls' contests that these eyes have witnessed in some time.

The outstanding individuals of the girls till were Sellers; of there, Moore and Pugh, of here. Sellers is one young lady who knows the basket with clock-like regularity, and if you doubt the truth of this then account for the fact that she hung up 22 points of the 36 scored.

L. Moore seems to have discovered an eye for the basket, as she cared 17 points for high scorer's place for G. H. S. Then there is Pugh, and did she play a whale of a game, especially! Contributed 13 points as her share.

Between the Cardington quietest and the Pilgrim fire was staged the most hotly contested affairs of the season, and as in the girls game the excitement ran at fever pitch at no time either team being in a safe lead, it was only in the waning seconds of the game that Pilgrim was able to forge ahead for 23-20 victory.

Some radio feller was howling about this miniature craze and that flings to mind that this Cardington shaver didn't intend to be out for a flash of light, looping them at top speed. Now if those qualifications don't make a star, then Babe Ruth is a high diver.

Did you know that the Pilgrim quint's average tops the league?

OBITUARY

ALFRED WHEELER

Alfred Chesbrough Wheeler, son of Calvia and Mary Richards Wheeler, was born in Greenfield Township, Huron County, Ohio, January 18, 1857. He died December 26, 1930, aged 73 years, 11 months and eight days.

His early youth was spent in Steuben. He was married to Ida May White of Steuben. Three years later he moved to Plymouth where he lived close to thirty years. He was a member of the Lutheran Church for many years. Since living in Fairfield, he joined the Congregational Church. After leaving Plymouth, he was a resident of Willard up to the time of his wife's death sixteen years ago. Later on, he made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Maude McCormick of Cleveland. A few years ago he moved to North Fairfield, where he made his home until his death.

Mr. Wheeler was a man of sterling character, and held in high esteem by all who knew him. He was a man who will be greatly missed in the community.

Mrs. Wheeler preceded her husband to the Better Land 16 years ago. A daughter, Mrs. Maude McCormick, who has been living with her father the last few months, and granddaughter, Mrs. Lassette Van Horn, also two sisters, Mrs. E. K. M. Morris of Willard, and Mrs. Lillia Gresh of Akron, and a number of nieces and nephews, are left to mourn the passing of a good man.

His life and works live on, and we all feel our lives are the richer for having known him.

I heard a voice from heaven saying: "Blessed are the dead, who die in the Lord Jesus, for they do rest from their labors, but their works do follow them."

SANTA CLAUS HAS INDIANA OFFICE

There is a Santa Claus in Indiana. Just why the town was given that name is not divulged, but it has attained world wide fame.

James P. Martin, postmaster and general store operator in that Spence county town, does a rush work at Christmas time, sending mail and packages from his office so that children and grown-ups may receive something stamped "Santa Claus."

Letters and packages are sent from as far as New Zealand to be re-addressed and sent back in time for Christmas. Letters are received from Alaska, Australia, France, Germany, and other lands, asking that this and that be wrapped and sent to some friend from "Santa Claus." Martin is not bald, is not a roly poly man, and does not wear a red suit—but he is the one man in the world who can really stamp "Santa Claus" on every letter.

Restless CHILDREN

CHILDREN will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always Castoria! Castoria is the recipe on the wrapper, mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than a more powerful medicine.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy. It may be given in need. In cases of colic, diarrhea or similar disturbances, it is invaluable. A coated tongue calls for just a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad humors. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—the pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed.

Moore tossed in five baskets for Plymouth, while Mengert and Stotts were the sharp shooters for Lucas.

CARDINGTON TOAST

The Plymouth girls B. E. team after starting out with flashy playing lost a basketball tilt to Cardington in the last fifty minutes of play. Cardington winning 36 to 32.

At the end of the first quarter the score was tied, 10-10. In the last second quarter the P. H. S. girls led 22 to 13 and were still in the lead by 2 points after the third quarter, but the Cardington girls put in one basket after another until the Plymouth score was erased.

PILGRIMS TAKE A THRILLER

By T. Webber
 Friday 2-Fouls, fouls and more fouls, well, I guess it's all right since the boys won, but there certainly were a mess of fouls, in plain words it was a foul game. 19 of them for Cardington, 12 for Plymouth. The Cardinals team succeeded in placing one of their men on the side lines (because of fouls) before the first quarter was well under way. The Pilgrims came right back and put three of their starting lineup on the bench, Briggs, Wenter, Webber, guard, and Ross, forward. But the points collected by these three, when coupled to the markers gathered by Bachrach, Myers, and Hames were enough to take Cardington over the ropes to the tune of 20-22 score.

The score at half time stood 15-12 Plymouth. It was slip and tuck from there on till the end, Cardington shortly after the half started made a fielder and foul to put them in the lead 14-12. Then Ross of Plymouth tossed a basket, Myers dribbled in for another to make it 19-14 Plymouth. Ross and Webber then gracefully retired on fouls. Cardington then took heart and made a spirit to tie it up 20-20.

It looked for a minute as though the game would go into an overtime, but in the last minute Myers' rights forward stepped out and rang up a four-pointer to sew up the game for the Pilgrims 25-20.

PLYMOUTH DROPS CLOSE ONE

By T. Webber
 Tuesday 30.
 Plymouth at the present writing, has 7 victories to crow over, and one defeat, which was received Tuesday night in a close and hard fought battle with Lucas, at Lucas. The Plymouth careers are used to playing on a better floor.

We have no doubt the condition of the floor partly accounts for brand of basketball played, by the Jenkins team for it most certainly was not up to the usual high standard played by them.

However, the score at the half stood at 7 apiece. At the start of the third quarter the Pilgrims forced ahead to hold a lead of 3 points. Lucas came back strong in the fourth quarter to get a lead and hold it to the end. The only Pilgrim who had the least chance of a shooting eye was Ross, but he was not, and he only collected 5 points, which in the humble opinion of this reporter is not such very high marks when you think that the 12 markers obtained by Oswald of Lucas. The score by the way, was 18-13 with Plymouth on the wrong end. Nevertheless folks, don't lose hope, one setback in eight starts is at present the best record in the county.

LITERARY

THE WILDBEEBEST

The wildbeebest is an African antelope which is nearly extinct. It is four feet in height and about nine feet long. The feet and head resemble those of a buffalo. Both sexes have horns which meet at the forehead and then bend downward and outward, with a sharp turn. The neck is short and is surmounted by a mane of bristly hair and its mane is broad like an ox. It suggests the name of "horned horse" by which it is sometimes known.

DEVIL'S ISLAND

Devil's Island is the smallest of three islands about four miles off the northeastern coast of South America. The group belongs to France and here she departs her most dangerous criminals. The living conditions here are of the most terrible and nearly one half of all the criminals sent here die before they have lived six months in the terrible isolation. A criminal may be sent here for as small a time as seven years. After then he is a free man but very few ever return to the mainland for they go mad even before their sentence is expired. Their clothing consists of a pair of striped cotton pants and a shirt of the same material.

DRAGON AND DANSEL FLIES (ORDER-ODONATA)

The creatures of this order might be called the hawks of insectdom. There are about 20,000 known species. 900 of which are found in the United States. Although there are superlatives about these flies, they are sometimes called snake doctors, and that they saw up boys' ears that go wading in the creeks, and that they are horse stingers and mule killers, they are not harmful, they are a friend of everyone because they eat the fly and mosquito.

Some of these flies have compound eyes composed of 30,000 facets, which give them a wide range of vision. The head of the Dragon fly is attached to the body with a ball and socket joint which enables the insect to see beneath or above it.

To hold its prey it forms its six legs around it till it gets its front pair firmly around it, then it either eats it while flying or goes somewhere and eats at leisure.

The dragon fly breathes 115 times a minute and they breathe through spiracles.

The young of these flies do not look like the parent they have a thick body and head and they live in the green slime in creeks. Then when a may fly larva or a caddis worm or some water bug passes it opens its mouth and grabs it and chews it up and eats at leisure.

EDITORIALS

THE PYTHON (Python Molurus)

The python belongs to the boa family. The python differs slightly from the boa. They are found in Africa and India. They rival the boas in size and strength and have similar habits, such as hanging motionless on the limb of a tree or waiting in tall weeds or grass near the drinking place of other animals.

The victim once caught are instantly enveloped in their dexterous and sinuous bodies. They are able to kill either on an ox easily, but cannot swallow them whole. The limit of their swallowing is a crooked goat, (horns and all). The process of swallowing is very slow and many weeks may elapse before another meal is desired. Small rodents and birds of all fall victim to the great snake. They are nocturnal in disposition, hiding in holes and shady tree tops in the daytime, to fare forth at night to ensnare some victim in its folds. All pythons lay from 50 to 100 eggs on the ground in some dry grassy place, and the female guards them by curling around them and keeping them warm for about two months when they hatch.

The largest pythons are those of southern Asia, the first place belonging to the netted python, (python rectangular) of Indo China which often exceeds 30 feet in length. It has a light yellowish brown with squarish black markings and its skin glistens in the sunlight with splendid prismatic hues. It abounds in hot low-lying regions and has a very ugly and savage disposition and lives to a great age. Some pythons are of economic importance, but others have done a great deal of harm to man and will always continue to do so. The python is said to have attacked man but this is untrue; they however, will attack man's domesticated animals.

THE SOCIAL WASP (ORDER VESPIDA)

The insects included in this order are the yellow jacket, hornets and wasps that build paper nests.

The hornets nest is first smaller than a hen's egg and then as the family grows it gets larger till it is as large as a half bushel. The house is always built evenly so as it gets larger it keeps the same shape.

The hornets gather the pulp from old rotten rails and posts to build the walls of the house. But by far the inside material is taken and put on the outside. Some species of yellow jackets build nests in logs and trees.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to sincerely thank all my friends and schoolmates for their kind remembrances and letters during my recent illness, and wish to invite all to call on me at my home in Bough tonville.

FALL COLDS ARE PREVALENT NOW

By J. H. SODWELL

A stitch in time saves nine is an old adage. It is particularly applicable to the poultry keeper. Poultry diseases are more prevalent in these days of large flocks under confinement than heretofore when only small flocks were kept that wandered at will over large acres. Diseases at this time of year have put more poultrymen out of the game than any other single thing. It is up to every poultryman to keep ahead of disease by using every possible means at his disposal. Such common diseases as fall colds, bronchitis, roup, canker and chicken pox can almost be avoided if proper precautions are taken at this season of the year. As it is, at hatching time or shortly after that these diseases get their start and after they are started production slows up or stops altogether and the poultry keeper loses his profits for the year.

Ventilation is of great help in controlling or preventing these diseases. Where proper ventilation is maintained, drafts and wet floors give any disease a chance to get started and develop rapidly. Next to ventilation, sanitation is of vital importance. The medical profession acknowledges the fact that humans if contaminated catch colds and other diseases quicker than if the bowels are in good condition. The same reasoning should be applied to poultry. Plenty of green feed will keep the hen in condition which helps eliminate many of the diseases. Alfalfa cured in the sun, fed alone or when mixed with molasses, is probably one of the green feeds many poultrymen have neglected, but those that are using it find that the birds are getting more mineral matter and vitamins and the birds are in better condition to make more money for their owners.

Be sure to see that your hen houses are properly ventilated and that the birds are getting plenty of green feed during this time of year.

Speed up and Hold

Shop on Hi! It's action you want—action that will bring those profits! Use steady egg production to help you capture the high price egg market. Speed 'em up and hold them to continued high production—this is the pace that makes profits jump.

Lorrie Egg Mash and Sprouts makes perfect "egg" feeding profits in short order—without forcing them. Use Lorrie means business—it's always uniform—day after day, it's always the same. That's why it keeps your birds up to a steady, continuous laying rate and holds them there.

Start your pullets on Lorrie Egg Mash and Sprouts. This means High Egg production and greater year round profits. See your Lorrie Dealer at once for your own supply.

Lorrie is Complete
Lorrie is a complete egg mash—there are no extras to buy such as greens, vitamins, borax, etc. It contains everything necessary in just the right proportions to make you the greatest profit per feed cost.

FATHER OF LOCAL WOMAN IS BURIED AT FOREST, OHIO

Henry Harman, 79, father of Mrs. Bruce McQuown, of Plymouth, died suddenly Tuesday evening, December 30, following a heart attack, at his home in Forest, Ohio.

Mr. Harman, a carpenter by trade and a highly respected citizen of his resident town, was taken ill Tuesday morning, and passed away the same evening after a brief period of suffering.

Funeral services were held from the late home on Friday afternoon and were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce McQuown, and son Noel, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Shields, of Plymouth.

The deceased was born in Salem, Ohio, and became a resident of Forest with his parents when twelve years of age. He has resided there since. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. M. J. DeWitt, of Forest, three children, Mrs. Bruce McQuown, of Plymouth, Miss Alva Harman, of Forest, Mr. Earl Harman, of Bowling Green, six grandchildren, and one great grandchild.

Shop Talk

J. L. Smith of the locomotive steam department is slushing around Montreal, Canada. Word received from him this week indicate that it is about 12 below and he says it's impossible to keep warm. He'll probably think Plymouth is in Florida on his return home.

E. W. Heath left Wednesday night for Philadelphia in company with L. R. Beatty, one of the eastern representatives of the local plant. Mr. Beatty was here several days conferring with officials, and Mr. Heath returns with him to follow up prospects.

Luther Fetters is spending a few days in the east where he is checking up on locomotives for the plant. He is expected home this week-end.

"Nip" DeVier has lost that lonesome worried look and is all smiles again. That is a sure sign of prosperity.

Smith and Heath expect to attend the road show and national sand, gravel and stone convention at St. Louis, which opens up Jan. 12. These conventions will keep the boys out in St. Louis for about two weeks.

Since the first of January more inquiries have been received at the local plant for locomotives and clay machinery than for the entire month of December. This one point makes things seem a little brighter to the sales department.

WOMAN KNOWN HERE DIES NEW YEARS DAY

The death of Mrs. Flora Schreiner, 61, of Willard, occurred at the Municipal Hospital at 12:45 Thursday morning. Mrs. Schreiner had been in ill health for some time, and had been taken to the hospital for observation and treatment.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. William Ramsey, and three grandchildren, formerly residents of Plymouth, one sister, Mrs. Minnie Schwab, of Sandusky, and three brothers, William Grames, of Toledo, Henry Grames, of Sandusky, and Frank Grames, of Willard. The deceased was a convert of St. Xavier Catholic church.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning.

Sunday School Teacher Honored

As a courtesy to Mrs. Kate Taylor, retiring teacher, the members of her Sunday school class met at her home Tuesday evening, for a farewell party.

The hours were socially enjoyed and refreshments served at a late hour to the following: Misses Geraldine Smith, Leona Miller, Helen Rowlett, Blanche Leddick, Helen Williamson, Mrs. Gertrude Hampton and Mrs. Kate Taylor.

Mrs. J. W. Miller is the new teacher.

GREENWICH WATER SUPPLY IMPROVED

An order, it is reported, has been granted to the Huron County Director of Health, requiring immediate elevation of a water supply for the village of Greenwich.

Last year test wells were drilled and a satisfactory water supply was obtained on the Gross Gates farm west of the town. Because of financial reasons the work was not continued, and an appeal was made to the state for an order which would enable the financing of the pipe line to conduct the water to the homes in the village.

The residents of Greenwich are quite relieved that the order has been received, as pure water of sufficient quantity is absolutely necessary in the community. The present system—the reservoir for general purposes and private wells for drinking water—is to be abolished.

RUMOR UNFOUNDED

The rumor that there are several cases of typhoid fever in Plymouth is unfounded, and no danger of an epidemic is evident.

There are but two known cases, both being expertly cared for in hospitals. No action regarding the water supply has been demanded by state or county officials.

Live Fox Is Held

The live fox, which was captured at the fox chase east of Bucyrus, is held in a cage in the Ashley Boot Shop in Willard. Fred Brown, of Willard, purchased the animal and will keep the animal for a time.

ELECTED CHAIRMAN

Tom Bond, of North Fairfield was elected Monday morning as chairman of the Huron county commissioners. He succeeds E. B. Robinson, whose term of office expired the first of the year.

Glenn Wood, the newly elected commissioner has also taken office.

FREDDIE WALDHAUS HOME SUNDAY EVE.

Freddie Waldhaus, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Waldhaus, of Boughtonville, returned to his home Sunday evening. The lad was injured in an automobile accident while visiting at the home of his aunt, Mrs. A. J. Hermsdorfer, at Quincy, Illinois, August 21.

The injured leg is still in a cast, but the boy is improving and it is hoped that doctors will be able to remove the cast about March 1. As the days seem rather long to one who is forced to remain inactive, Freddie greatly appreciates the visits and letters of friends, at his home in Boughtonville.
