

DR. SEARLE HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Car Total Loss as It Plunges Into Embankment and Rolls Over.

Dr. G. J. Searle local physician narrowly escaped death Saturday morning when his Hudson car skidded on Morse's hill and overturned, completely demolishing the machine. After the mishap Dr. Searle extricated himself from the mass of twisted steel with two cuts and a few scratches about the face, caused by broken glass.

The mishap occurred about 10:30 while Dr. Searle was returning from a visit to Mrs. Shelby. As he approached the top of the hill a wagon which was being driven in the direction of Plymouth, and an oncoming car made a rather serious situation for the physician. Letting the Shelby bound machine pass, Dr. Searle whirled his machine to the left to avoid striking the wagon and the car, but he didn't quite clear his machine and struck the vehicle with just enough force to cause the Hudson to skid into the soft berm and tipple over. How the driver escaped instant death will always remain a mystery.

The Searle machine is a total loss while the wagon which was driven by Fred Hunter escaped without damage.

MORE CONTRACTS FOR MUCK TRACTS

The Ohio Farms Company, owners and managers of the marshland west of Plymouth, are signing up contracts with families to extend the work of cultivating 10-acre tracts of land. Contracts are being issued from the workers, the majority of them Kentuckians, already on the muckland, and from the muck district near Celery and Alper.

The county and a number of organizations at Warsaw and Plymouth have supported many of the families living on the muck at the present time during this winter, furnishing them with both food and clothing. Much of the work is done through the school located at what is known as New Pleasanton.

The living conditions in the majority of the homes are disheartening, and the problem seems to have no solution.

Two Fined for Chicken Stealing

Raid on Pugh Farm Costs Pair Handsome Sum For 14 Chickens.

Mayor Derr's court had a busy session Friday morning when Kinzel Garrett and Paul Bowman were arraigned on a charge of chicken stealing. The charges were placed by G. C. Fugh, who conducted the raid. The pair had half a mile south of Plymouth on the County Line road.

Fugh reported the loss of 14 chickens, and Marshal Burkett through "toes talk" and a check-up of evidence which he had at hand led him to believe that Kinzel and Bowman were in charge of the raid. A search warrant was sworn out for Garrett and when Marshal Burkett arrived to search the property Garrett admitted the crime.

Both men pleaded guilty before Mayor Derr and Garrett drew a fine of $30.00 and entry of $14.00 was $21.00 for the fourteen chickens, while Bowman received a fine of $50 and costs, making the total $50.00. Garrett made arrangements for payment of his fine, while Bowman was taken to the Richmond county jail at Mansfield to serve out his fine.

Friday was the 15th. Perhaps, thirteen chickens would have changed their luck.

A Pre-Easter Sermon The Divine Agreement

A covenant is an agreement between two parties, binding them to strict and co-operation on the basis of a definite, specified condition, mutually accepted. Life, in all its relationships, in the home, in business, and in the nation, as in the church, is based upon understandings and agreements. The covenant idea runs through all life.

In ancient Israel, friends like David and Jonathan bound themselves with covenants.

Kings confirmed covenants between tribes and their subjects. When tribes would live together and trade with each other they drew up covenants. Our marriage vows are bonds; our insurance policies and our treaties testify to the precousness, the power and persistence of this custom of making covenants. Ancient Israel carried this idea into the realm of religion. She conceived of herself as standing in a covenant relation with God. It is this daring conviction, held with reverence and gratitude, which made the religion of Israel so distinctive and powerful. It was a very courageous faith which so conceived of God. It was the great faith of the "holiness of our Lord" which is the supreme privilege of the Christian to be God's child. This precious idea of a covenant relation with God is confirmed by the words of Jesus. His disciples, He says,

"This cup is the new covenant in My blood which is shed for many for the remission of sin." Cup - Covenant - Blood - Remission. These are the great words that fall from the lips of our Lord in the Upper Room. These are the words we still hear as we sit with Him in the fellowship of faith. The Cup of the Covenant - The Blood of Remission.

Secure No Money But Make Bon Fire.

For the fourth time in the past few weeks, vandal boys have broken into the local Presbyterian church and ransacked the building for money. Once, they stole the Junior Department, birthday, money bank, containing a few dollars; on another occasion they stole the Adult School birthday money bank, containing about two dollars. A fourth time a third attempt was made to take away money by breaking into the church. However, no money was found. After the first robbery, every door of the church was securely locked. Monday afternoon, however, in the evening about five o'clock the vandals forced open the door that leads to the south entrance of the basement. They immediately searched for money. They went to the Junior Department room and broke the lock on the cabinet that contains the music used by the orchestra. Finding no money in the cabinet, they ransacked every drawer in the class rooms, and finding nothing, they scattered the contents of the drawers all over the rooms. TAX LEAGUE HOLDS MEET Suggest 40 Per Cent Reduction In Farm Appraisals.

The second meeting of the New Haven Township Tax League was held at the New Haven school house on Thursday evening, March 12.

After a report of committee there was found to be 153 members and only three-fourths of the township had been canvassed. It is hoped by the committee in charge to have every farmer in the township a member of this organization. Since farming seems to be the only industry which has not in the past formed any protective organization, it has suffered until at present its burdens have become almost unbearable.

The topic being given special attention presented is the reappraisal of real estate. At the present time it pays two thirds of the taxes while it only makes up one-third of the wealth of the state. Since the last appraisal six years ago statistics show that the farmer has paid on the average one hundred acre farm six hundred dollars in taxes. At the present time he pays two thirds of the taxes while it only makes up one-third of the wealth of the state. Since the last appraisal six years ago statistics show that the farmer has paid on the average one hundred acre farm six hundred dollars in taxes. At the present time he pays two thirds of the taxes while it only makes up one-third of the wealth of the state.

It is the opinion of the average farmer that a forty per cent reduction on the present valuation would be a just and lawful reappraisal.

Farmers has become such a burden that it is no longer a burden for the farmers to keep their farms than it was for them to pay for them.

MAYFLOWER ANNUAL

Yesterday as I glanced at the calendar I was really very much surprised to find that it was the fifteenth of March already. It hardly seems possible that the time has gone so fast. Truly, it seems like only two or three months ago that the doors of the school house were first thrown open and the first clear notes of the school bells sent out their appeal to young students, signifying that school was just at the starting point. I would it surmise you very much if I said that I was awfully sorry that this is my last year? (Teachers: don't take this as a hint.) I don't want to shock you but that is just my attitude. This year seems much more like play than all the other three put together and to think that soon I will have to leave here forever. It is nearly unbearable. These days have been the happiest of my life. Each morning when we step in the door a buzz like a swarm of bees greet us—every one is happy. At least we hope so, and then too there is always one teacher somewhere near that greets us with a beaming face.

Memories! They are sweet but will they last? Will they fade and leave me nothing to remember my school days by? No! You ask how I will remember? Listen, I have a secret to impart to you! The seniors of P. H. S. are putting out an Annual that relates as many of the little happenings as possible.

Those present were: Capt. Bachrach, Ross, Briggs, Webber, Long Myers, DeWitt, Munes, Manager Grimmer, and Don Elnesel, Jr.

A part of the girls and boys glee club gave two musical numbers which were: "Morning Invitations" and "Moonlight on the Colorado." They were both very well given.

Following this the announcements were presented, some of the most important were: All students wanting to buy annuals were given slips to be filled out, stating the number of annuals wanted. Also that the students would be seated according to their voices for singing.

After singing "Love's Old Sweet Song," chapel was dismissed.

Notice: It is your Annual—as well as ours! We are publishing it for your interest and we sincerely hope you will like it which you are sure to do. It will be impossible to do otherwise! County Champs are Wined and Dined

Last Wednesday, 13, at a bountiful dinner party held at Captain Bachrach's home, the P. H. S. basketball squad broke training after their long season of hard and fast observation of training rules. Coach Jenkins, who piloted the boys to the county championship, and Supt. Raymond Miller were also present.

The dinner started at 7:30 and the idea of how large it was may be gained by the fact that it was 9:00 when the folks arose from "feeding their faces." Then the usual round of card games was started. At one of them was the new variety of poker, called "Black Jack." It seemed that Jenkins smelled at this game. This lasted till somewhere in the vicinity of 10 p. m., and then the boys adjourned.

Senior News

While conversing with Jane DeWitt a few days ago I learned that although she hadn't yet finally decided what she was going to do for her life work, she did have a couple of ambitions which she was thinking very seriously about. The first of these ambitions was interior decorating. Personally I think that making beautiful homes would be a very interesting career.

Her second ambition is to be a nurse. It is very easy to imagine Jane tripping here and there between rows of white beds, comforting and caring for patients as she goes.

The 7th and 8th Grade Consolation Tourney

The 7th and 8th grade consolation tourney was held March the 9th. The two losing teams of the tournament, the Sophomores and the Panthers, played this game.

It seems that the Sophomores were a little bit better than the Panthers, though not very much.

In an exciting game the Sophomores won over the Panthers. The score was 7-4.

As this was the last game of the season we will have to bid basketball good-bye until next year.

Mr. Jenkins called the first track session on Monday, March 16th. 20 men responded to the call.

"Life's Avenue" by HULDAH DAVIS

Life is an avenue that spans the space between one's birth and death. An avenue that ends so abruptly it leaves us without breath.

Along this avenue hangs many a sign that warns the walking man. Of sins, of faults, of erring tasks "Avoid them, if you can."

This avenue bears many a cross that is in likeness to those we see. Perhaps, beside a railroad track or somewhere near a tree.

These crosses tell a story of man. That's waded deep in sin, it represents the death of modesty. Culture soaked in Gna.

Oh brethren, of this wide known nation Let's pave this avenue so short In love, culture, modesty, education. Unmarred by sin and the sort.

Ferry of Cuyahoga county, who has been in humane work in Cleveland 32 years, said that if the Foster bill became a law, it will disrupt Ohio's dog handling system, which he said was one of the very best, if not the best in the country.

Ferry says that while his department in 1930 setred 22,000 dogs and was forced to kill 80 per cent of them, he stated that his department will go to almost any measures to keep from taking an untagged dog from a crying child. F. B. Clark was present from Huron county.

REACHES 90TH MILESTONE

St. Patrick's Day marked the 90th birthday of Marion M. Parsons of Atica and well known in Plymouth and commonly. He was born in a log cabin in Huron county on another St. Patrick's day in 1841 and is known as the oldest Union soldier in Atica.

During the Civil war he served as a guard on Johnson's Island, when that bit of land known as a confederate prison camp during the United States' first war; he was also one of the squad who fired the last salute over General McPherson's grave, when the general was buried in the cemetery in Clyde. He still entertains the residents of Atica with vivid and remarkable tales of the war in which he took so active a part.

His brother Warren W. just 13 months his senior, was also active in the Civil war and now makes his home with Charles Doan, a nephew, whom he and his wife adopted as a baby.

Marion was feted at the home of his daughter, Mrs. F. H. Miller with whom he has made his home for a number of years.

FATHER'S SON SCORES AT SHELBY

As Manager Shreffler, of the Casmaba Theatre, predicted, "Father's Son" proved to be one of the best pictures of the year. Many Plymouth people enjoyed this unusually human story and were unanimous in voicing their appreciation.

"You know," says Shreffler, "I wish I could convince the theatre goers that when I boost a picture, I boost it because it has something worth talking about. I get information on all pictures before I show them and when I know that a picture is 'there' I want to tell them from the house tops and I want them to believe in me."

"Take my show for next Sunday and Monday, I would say a special matinee at 2:30; but that would make this conversation sound like advertising, but as I said, take "Little Caesar" which was taken from the novel by the same name and incidentally a best seller, is a gang picture. Now wait, don't say we are tired of gang stories, you probably are of the everyday type of stories, but not of the "Little Caesar" type. It deals with the crooks from a different angle. Imagine a story where the gang chief gets "his" well "Little Caesar" is just that story and it will be a better picture than "Father's Son."

I have the advanced information that it is full of action, characterizations that are as human as possible, especially Edward G. Robinson and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and that it is not the type of gang stories that people are tired of but the type they want more of. And you can tell them that I will stake my reputation as a showman on "Little Caesar."

Home Garden Helps Depression Period

Recently W. R. Beattie, Senior Horticulturist of the Bureau of Plant Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, in a nationally broadcast radio talk on the farm garden, stated that in every economic crisis through which the agriculture of any section of the country has passed the home-garden and other sources of home food supply have saved the day.

The farmer, however, hard times may be for him, who plants and cultivates his own garden has a form of insurance against privation that is denied the city worker. In this respect he is far better off than the thousands of unemployed in the cities, many of whom left the farm at the time of industrial prosperity and are now looking wistfully back at the land.

"If everybody engaged in farming," Mr. Beattie said in his address, "will produce plenty of fruits, vegetables, milk and butter, poultry and eggs, home grown and cured pork, also fresh meats to some extent, they can at least have a good living at home and that is more than a lot of people who are out of employment have today. 'But,' says the pessimist, 'that will only increase the difficulty and reduce the market for foods that are grown in a large way for sale.' Perhaps, provided the farmer has the money with which to buy the food, but suppose he does not have the money, what then? As a matter of fact, it is good business and economy to produce most of the living for the farm family and the hired help right on the farm.

A well planned and cared for half-acre garden will produce more vegetables than the average family can eat, during the period when the crops are maturing. Carrots, late cabbage, beets, onions, parsnips, potatoes and turnips can be grown and stored for use through the winter, thus cutting the winter food bills. One acre of garden was worth as much as 65 acres of cotton on a farm in Texas last year whose owner figured that the acre yielded a profit of $400.

Not only from the point of view of cutting the family food bills, however, that the vegetable garden deserves a place on every farm. Fresh green vegetables are among the best sources of invaluable vitamins, but entirely too frequently the farmer, busy with his money crops, feels that he has no time to bother with a garden even though his wife and the older children may easily be able to take care of it once it is ploughed. The result is that in many instances the farm diet is too much restricted to meat, potatoes and bread. Green vegetables, one of nature's best preventive medicines, have little place on the menu. Investigators have found that a large proportion of ill health in rural districts is traceable to the absence of a well balanced diet.

A vegetable garden planted this spring will return ample dividends in health and in helping to make the farm family self-sufficient, able to weather any economic storm.

P. H. S. POST

Literary
 Milton's "Lycidas" and Shelley's "Adonais."
 The two dirges "Lycidas" and "Adonais" have been called the two most highly wrought and finished of English elegies. Milton's poem "Lycidas" is written about his friend Edward King to whom he gives the name Lycidas. Shelley's poem "Adonais" is about his friend and fellow writer Keats. The occasions for lament were very similar but it seems that Shelley displays the greater feeling. Keats was no doubt a closer friend to Shelley than King was to Milton and Shelley also hated to see such a young and talented person as Keats die and so Shelley's grief is more personal. Shelley refers more to himself than Milton does and he also mentions other friends. The moral indignation is greater in "Lycidas," but there are many similar passages along this line in both poems. In both there is mention of flowers, Shelley mentions only the hyacinths and daffodils while Milton mentions many others.

Milton's dirge begins quietly, awells in his grief and moral indignation, then bringing in a note of hope, subsides and ends in a peaceful strain. Shelley's lament begins suddenly and expresses the main thought in the first line "If weep for Adonais—he is dead!" It then swings into a more quiet mood but breaks out in stronger lamenting from time to time.

The rhyme-scheme of "Adonais" is regular and the language is more beautiful than that used in "Lycidas," considering all features, "Adonais" is far more charming than "Lycidas," since there is deeper feeling displayed on the part of Shelley, despite his personal infirmary.
 "Even I chaw Wrigley's," said the bird as he ate a worm.

Great Lakes Fishing Season Opened Sunday

The 1931 fishing season was launched Sunday by the largest fleet of fishing boats that was ever seen in the Sandusky and Lake Erie Island regions. The industry will provide employment for more than 500 men.

Although Ohio farmers producing peas for canning or manufacture are planning a 10 per cent increase in their pea acreage in 1931, the total acreage for the United States will be about 4 per cent less than it was in 1930, according to rural economists at the state university.

considering all features, "Adonais" is far more charming than "Lycidas," since there is deeper feeling displayed on the part of Shelley, despite his personal infirmary.
 "Even I chaw Wrigley's," said the bird as he ate a worm.

Your Old Car Can Be Made Like New By The DUCO SPRAY SYSTEM

There is only one DUCO finish. It is made only by DuPont, who created it. DUCO—genuine DUCO—is the product which has pioneered in revolutionizing the finishing of automobiles.
 We do not say that no other finish is worthy of praise. But we do say that when you specify DUCO—genuine DUCO—for your car, you are absolutely sure of satisfaction.
 A lot of people think all car finishes are DUCO. Some of them believe that DUCO is another name for lacquer. This has made it easy for some shops to say "Sure we'll put DUCO on your car" and then go ahead with the job using whatever material they have on hand.
 Du Pont is now laying the true facts before the car owner. Du Pont advertising now says "All lacquer is not DUCO. There is only one DUCO—Du Pont DUCO. You may be offered something else in place of DUCO so insist on getting the genuine."

14 FEEDS—
IN EVERY THIMBLEFUL!

14 FEEDS...all in one tiny thimbleful. 14 good feeds which are there in just the right proportion. There's the story of a real chick starting feed...Purina Starters Chow. A real story because one thimbleful of feed is all one chick can put into its little crop in one day.

Out of this tiny thimbleful a chick must get so much. That's why the 14 different feeds are there. Cod-liver oil...dried buttermilk...alfalfa flour...grounded meat...wheat germ meal...linseed meal...those and eight other feeds are in every thimbleful of Purina Starters Chow...each one with a real job to do. Mixed over and over...960 times...every thimbleful alike.

The 1930 national feed survey of 1,234,513 chicks tells you the kind of a job these thimblefuls do. At six weeks of age, 92 out of every 100 Purina-fed chicks are alive and growing. And they weigh an average of one-fourth of a pound more than other chicks. There's the story for you! The proof that the 14 feeds in Purina Starters Chow (mash or all-mash) actually give a chick the many, many good things that go into a thimbleful of feed. Purina Starters Chow is here...ready for you to feed. Call or drop in on us in your next spare moment.

STATE DEPARTMENT GIVES FLU REMEDY

Columbus, Mar. 19.—Director H. G. Southard, M. D., of the State Department of Health, states that from January 1, to the present time 1161 cases of influenza have been reported. These attacks last only a few days, beginning with a running nose, a moderate degree of fever, cough, possibly some sore throat and general aches and pains. Recovery leaves the patient in a more or less weakened condition physically. Mother Nature's signals that one's normal activities should not be attempted too soon, for quite often such an attempt ends abruptly in pneumonia or leaves one with a middle ear or sinus infection. There is no specific treatment, rest in bed for a few days under the supervision of a physician and it may prevent serious after effects.

LOCAL W. C. T. U. KEEPS INFORMED

The following article, direct from national W. C. T. U. in Evanston, Ill., to the local W. C. T. U. president, is an example of how the W. C. T. U. keeps its members informed as to actual facts on subjects which the wet city press misrepresents.

A large body of local women organized into a W. C. T. U. means an informed, enlightened womanhood on all questions pertaining to the betterment of the home and child life in a community.

The program for the W. C. T. U. meeting which is to be held with Mrs. O. M. Peoples, Friday, at 2:30 p. m. will deal with another menace to the youth of our country, "The Menace of the Cigaret."

These meetings are always open to all who are interested.

Nothing has raised so great a storm of protest among the wets in recent months as our denial of their absurd claim that two million men would be employed in case of a repeal of prohibition.

Just prior to prohibition the liquor business endeavored to scare the country by proving that to 600 men in the liquor business and allied trades would lose their jobs. How can a business that had only 498,000 jobs to lose when it stopped, offer two million jobs in case of a resumption of the business, particularly under the reduced program promised by the wet formula?

Just prior to prohibition the census reported 68,920 men employed in the strictly manufacturing end of the liquor business. This was one per cent of the wage earners employed in all industries. Furthermore, these were fewer men and lower wages in the liquor industry, in comparison with money invested, than in any other business.

For example, for each million dollars invested the liquor business required only 77 men. In every other leading industry from four to ten and a half times as many men were required; and the amount of raw materials used by liquor was insignificant in contrast to other industries.

When the saloons closed, a great streams of money flowed from the liquor industry, with its few employees and small use of raw materials, to legitimate industries using tremendous supplies and employing many times the people in liquor manufacture. This phenomenon expanded the basic industries. Money in the form of increased wages went into more wage earners' pockets; and the economic change occurred which definitely raised American living standards, gave us more and better homes, and kept our bulk of savings at a high point through out a world wide depression in which the United States maintained itself at a much better level than any other country, particularly the countries with a large drink bill.

The probability is that an immediate repeal of prohibition in the court of a year would turn the course of American purchasing power from homes, home owning, home building, automobile buying, radio buying, clothing, food and education; so that there would be a business panic of severity and extent in contrast to which the present economic depression would be a minor experience.

WHY I CAN'T SEND YOU A CHECK, BY MR. A. TAXPAYER

When your creditors hang on your doorstep, and you are quite harassed, read the following, taken from the Shelby Globe, of a recent date.

The Globe representative met Max E. Dickerson, the well-known sage of West Main street this morning, and inquired if he knew of anything starting in the world of confusion. "Well," said Max, "a friend of mine sent me a little article on the tax question, one of the important issues of the day, which I think would be of interest to our readers. If you care to make use of it here it is." Max knows a good one, when he sees it and we cheerfully make room for the item.

"My dear banker: I wish to inform you that the present condition of my bank account makes it impossible for me to send you a check in response to your request. My present financial condition is due to the effects of federal laws, state laws, county laws, corporation laws, by-laws, brother-in-laws, mother-in-laws, outlaws, that have been foisted upon an unsuspecting public. Through these various laws, I have been held up, held down, walked on, sat on, flattened and squeezed until I do not know where I am, or what I am. These laws compel me to pay a merchants' tax, capital stock tax, excise tax, income tax, light tax, cigar street tax, school tax, surtax, inheritance tax, water tax, automobile tax, white way tax, hunters tax, dog tax, park tax, federal tax, state tax, county tax, carpet tax and a dozen others.

"The government has so governed my business that I do not know who owns it. I am suspected, expected, inspected, disappreciated, examined, re-examined, informed, required, commanded, and compelled until all I know is that I am supposed to provide an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need, desire or hope of the human race, and because I refuse to donate all and go out and beg, borrow and steal money to give away, I am cussed, discussed, boycotted, talk-

Southern Singer on WLW Program

Seeger Ellis, who made himself famous by recording his soft Southern voice on innumerable records for Victor, Columbia, and Okeh, now is expected to add the radio audience to his army of followers.

He has signed a contract with station WLW and the Crosley Artist Bureau and is to be featured on the air as a "spot" entertainer in commercial programs, and in solo periods of his own. WLW directors in New York recently to hire talent for the station, immediately spotted him as a "find" and are prophesying a great radio future for him.

He was born in Houston, Tex., not so very many years ago. At the University of Virginia he sang in the glee club, and played the piano continually for his own amusement and to entertain his fraternity brothers. It was not until he had graduated and returned to Houston that he found there was "gold in that thar' voice" and that a Houston radio station was more than anxious to give him a job. A trip to New York brought him contracts to make records, and later, contracts as guest artist for several network programs. He also made a successful appearance in London where he appeared at the Deauville Restaurant and made records for an English recording company.

As the composer of "blues," he has won considerable recognition from critics of modern music. In his "Prairie Blues" and "Sentimental Blues," he elaborates on the crashes and chirps of the Negro "low-downs."

At WLW he is scheduled for broadcasting at the following solo periods: Sunday at 7 p. m.; Tuesday at 4:15 p. m.; Wednesday 4:00 and 11:00 p. m.; Friday at 3:15 p. m.; and Saturday at 9:00 p. m.

ed to, talked about, lied to, lied about, held up, held down, and robbed, until I am nearly ruined. The only reason I am clinging to life is to see what is coming next."

WHY I MOVED FROM CALIFORNIA

Oh, come to the land of the western sun, Where every business is overdone; Where stores charge freight on goods made here.

If you ask the reason they think you queer. They serve you climate with all your meals

It is so blamed hot your back just peels.

The Anaheim Club includes the state From San Diego to the Golden Gate.

The movie stars marry twice a year, Would marry again if the coast was clear.

The grape fruit here is something fine, A cross between lemon and pumpkin rind.

Where cows eat barley instead of hay, And cream is lost in the milky way.

They sell house lots made by hand And make you believe they are really land.

The view of the ocean is really nice, But is included with the price.

They weigh the sack with the fruit, They weigh it again with fingers to boot.

They claim it's wet if it rains once a year, And you get so dry you can't shed a tear.

The chickens have winter and dogs have fleas, The desert wind blows and oranges freeze.

We shovel sand. You shovel snow, Just a stand off as far as I know.

So time up your shiver, start for the west, Where jobs are scarce and pay is less.

Bring all your cash and plenty of clothes, When you'll get any more, God only knows.

I'm telling this story, which I know is true As seen by me through eyes of blue.

If the Booster Club ever gets this back They will change my eyes from blue to black.

They asked me to write the truth to a friend, Now, I have done it and this is my end.

Don't think the above is all bogus, It's the truth, I moved from California.

the third subscription season of the Theatre Guild in Cleveland. This production will acquaint local playgoers for the first time with the brilliant stage direction of Herbert J. Biberman, who by his vivid projection of the spirit of this play added to the fame which he had gained by his work in "Roar China!"

This play deals with pioneer America almost of today at a highly dramatic moment of transition into the West of the present. The six scenes set in a novel and quaint style by Raymond Soyoy present the stirring life of Oklahoma about the year 1900 when the advancing farmer was beginning to eye with suspicion the habits of the picturesque but roving cowboys. Amid a great variety of colorful characters of both types who in pungent speech reveal the humor, customs and habits of their frontier existence, the playwright starts a melodrama in which Curley McClain, the cowboy woo in his characteristic fashion a pretty girl of the farms, Laury Williams. In their romantic clash, become involved all the forces that run free in the unrestrained of the prairies—bursts into songs of the great outdoors, deviltry, jamboree, and hale and hearty play of animal spirit. At the height of this merry-making the play brings to the stage the mysterious ritual of the western "shivoree," which contrasts strikingly with the tenderness and sentiment of rough men softened by love. As distinct from the ordinary western play, "Green Grow the Lilies" strives to distill the poetry, beauty, sturdy nobility, dark passion and folk aspiration and songs of the soil that went into the making of America.

Though genuine cowboys and ranch girls act and sing a score of authentic ballads, the typical Theatre Guild cast is headed by June Walker, Franchot Tone, Claire Woodbury, Richard Hale, Lee Strasberg, Ruth Churpening, Tex Ritter and others.
