

MARSH SCHOOL AND COMMUNITY

School Is Not a Curiosity But An Educational Institution and Similar To Other Schools.

Owing to various conflicting newspaper accounts of the marsh school and its patrons, the teachers feel that in justice to the children of this school, the air should be cleared as to the status of the school and as to the economic welfare of the marshland dwellers.

The school was planned primarily to educate the children of the marsh district which was formerly somewhat isolated and neglected, particularly as to educational opportunities.

The school opened October 13 with an enrollment of approximately fifty pupils of all ages, abilities, intelligence and race. The teachers feel that in justice to the children of this school, the air should be cleared as to the status of the school and as to the economic welfare of the marshland dwellers.

Like some other schools, the pupils come from families whose standards of living vary widely, from the lowest to the highest. This condition always complicates the work of a school, as children are quick to discern differences among themselves, particularly as to their standards of living.

Some of the children had formerly been attending well regulated schools and could take their place with credit in any school, while others had been attending any kind of a school at any time that seemed convenient to themselves or to their parents.

Thus the teachers were confronted with different standards of different training, and therefore, different personalities. Some had ideas and ideals, others seemed to have neither.

Children, however, in many respects are the same the world over. They respond quickly to kindness, to games, to music and even to education. A tendency, by general common consent, is observed that differences of nationality, of home training and of economic circumstances, tend to disappear.

Upon this fact the teachers of the marsh school have based the major part of their program. Co-operative lessons are planned for school-room and play-ground. Music and singing are a regular part of the day's activities. Through the kindness of Miss Bishop of Willard, the pupils are receiving systematic instruction in music on each week. Conducting work, manual training is provided for the boys, while a course in health habits and home-making is given for the girls by Miss Ryan, the Huron county visiting teacher.

The Plymouth Farm Women's Club is cooperating with the school in providing warm lunches. Co-operative meals are planned for school-room and play-ground. Music and singing are a regular part of the day's activities. Through the kindness of Miss Bishop of Willard, the pupils are receiving systematic instruction in music on each week. Conducting work, manual training is provided for the boys, while a course in health habits and home-making is given for the girls by Miss Ryan, the Huron county visiting teacher.

Some pressing needs of the community seem to be three which will be mentioned but not discussed in this article. These are better housing conditions, nursing care for pre-school children, and courses in education for adults.

BEST YEAR SO FAR

After all, 1930 was the healthiest year on record. Fewer late hours were spent in night clubs; more time was spent with the family; fewer children ran away; more good books were read; there was less riding and more walking, and more home cooking. There are compensations.—Los Angeles Times.

New Election Code Under Advisement

C. J. Anderson On Committee To Discuss Operation of Code.

Columbus, March 5.—The new election code, handed to the people of Ohio to become operative January 1, 1930 by the Eighty-eighth Assembly of the State was accepted as superior to the former code of law.

Probably the more important features of the new law included provision for a system of permanent registration, elimination of the extra primary election in presidential years and the paying of the way for the adoption of the voting machines. Notwithstanding the care exercised in their preparation, the test of these laws would naturally be found in their practical operation, and the experience of the past year brought to light a few inconsistencies which needed correction.

For this reason and acting under the authority of a House joint resolution, a sub-committee of six members has been named to consider various provisions of the election laws. It was also arranged that all bills in the hands of the elections committees of both houses be immediately referred to the sub-committee for its consideration. Senator C. J. Anderson, of Richland county is a member of the committee to meet with Secretary of State C. J. Brown, each night this week.

Two Men Placed On All-co Team; Defeats Shiloh By Score 29-16 in Finals.

Repeating Plymouth's victory of 1929, the high school boys' team played a superb brand of basketball and capped the county Class B tourney Friday and Saturday at the Mansfield high school gym.

The final game with Shiloh Saturday evening was taken by even championship playing, ending with the score 29-16. A safe margin was maintained throughout the game, and the teamwork was marked.

No outstanding star won the title, but each man was a cog in the smooth-running machine which overran Butler on Friday, Madison 20-20 on Saturday afternoon, and annexed the trophy in the evening.

Trips put in three baskets in the first two minutes of play. A number of plays, and teamwork emphasized by Coach T. S. Jenkins brought the score to 15-3 the first quarter.

In all reviews of the tournament, Plymouth has been judged the superior team of the county league. Muma and Bachrach can be thanked for keeping the opponents to a minimum score. Ross, forward, shot the lone free throw in the final game, while Shiloh made good five.

Sponge Divers, Bok Singing Tower Morro Castle--Visited on Journey

We left Shelby the afternoon of Feb. 9 on the Big Four R. R. and the observation car in which we rode was attached to our special train in Columbus.

The Southern tour was arranged by The Ohio Farmer Magazine, and the managers went along as planned many lovely things with us. The observation car went with us all the way, and every night we traveled there was a party given in this car. As soon as we arrived in a city and our train stopped, some beautiful hotel became our headquarters.

Our first stop was in Atlanta, Ga., where we went to the Piedmont Hotel for lunch, then were taken by bus to Stone Mountain where the history of the Confederacy is being carried. This is 16 miles from Atlanta. We drove past the Federal Prison, visited parks and residence sections and then boarded our train for the South.

The next morning we stopped at Ocala, Fla., where palm trees bordered the streets and orange trees are everywhere. I will tell you some of the things I enjoyed.

Job Seekers Not to Visit Washington

Civil Service Commission to Advise Unemployed Not To Apply At Capital.

Washington, D. C. March 6.—In a statement just issued the United States Civil Service Commission advised the public that applicants in Washington for the purpose of seeking Federal employment.

The Commission explained that the District of Columbia committee on employment has called its attention to a number of pathetic cases where persons have come from considerable distance expecting to obtain a permanent position on the strength of having passed a civil service examination only to become stranded and in some instances a public charge.

It was pointed out that even if a person has passed a civil service examination and has obtained a job, he has no assurance that a position will be immediately available to him. Appointments to Federal positions, the commission said, are made only as the actual needs of the service require, and in accordance with the civil service rules, and the absence of an applicant in Washington cannot in any way improve or expedite any prospects of employment he may have.

The commission stated in conclusion that no one should come to Washington expecting to receive a Federal position except in response to a definite offer of employment from a Government establishment.

Restless CHILDREN

CHILDREN will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always Castoria Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper, mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a restless mood surely than a more powerful medicine.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is need. In cases of colic, diarrhea or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. A coated tongue calls for just a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whomsoever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little complaint—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed.

DEAR FRIENDS AND PATRONS:

We wish to take this time "Our Fourth Anniversary" in Plymouth, to express our thanks and appreciation for your friendship and patronage in the last four years. We have tried to build a business and reputation on good quality, service and price. After studying earnestly the wants of the community we have added different lines from time to time, including floor coverings and a complete window shade department. Last season we purchased a complete new line of wall paper. Plymouth has not had a wall paper stock for four years previous and we added this line knowing it would be well received.

We aim to sell only high grade merchandise and have never knowingly sold seconds or inferior quality. If we buy the guaranteed article, we can sell the guaranteed article, and make a satisfied customer as well as business friend. This cannot be done on "seconds" or inferior quality.

We have tried to be "Home Town Citizens" in a "Home Owned Store" boosting "Our Home Town"

Always pleased to make new friends, discuss your plans and give estimates. Thanking you again for your patronage and pulling together for a "Better 1931."

Sincerely yours,
MR. AND MRS. H. J. LIPPUS,

HATCHERY OFFERS AID TO FARMERS

In this issue will be found an announcement for Knapp's "Hi-Grade" Hatchery of Shelby, in which the proprietor, Herbert H. Knapp, offers to do custom hatching for farmers who feel that they cannot afford to buy their full quota of chicks this season.

Mr. Knapp is one of the pioneers in the hatchery business of the country having had twenty-two years experience with mammoth incubators. He has hatched the enormous total of nearly ten million chicks and is rated as one of the nation's greatest poultry experts.

In all these years he has never had the opportunity to hatch eggs for other people. His incubators have always been in use "in supplying the enormous demand for his 'Hi-Grade' chicks.

This year he is using three of his newest machines to do custom hatching.

If you do not receive his proposition by mail in a few days write for it or call at his hatchery at 170 West Main St., Shelby.

Ralph Skinner in a $2,999 injury suit commenced in common pleas court against the Pennsylvania railway company asks damages on what is considered rather unusual grounds. On Nov. 17, 1929, he was riding in a motor car on the Bucyrus-Plymouth road. The machine struck a freight car that formed part of a train that was standing on the track and blocking the crossing. Skinner received serious injuries. He sets forth that the railway company should have given some sort of warning to prevent a collision of the kind. Young and Young are counsel for Skinner.

Pilgrim's Team Wins County Tournament

Pilgrims Come Thru Here and There at Plymouth Hi

Win 3 Games In Two Days Cop Tournament

Even the absence of Capt. Bachrach from the lineup did not effect the outcome of Plymouth's first game at the tournament. With Mumea and Myers as guards, Webber, center and Briggs and Ross at the forward posts. Butler was taken into camp easily as pre-tourney dope had predicted.

The Pilgrims couldn't get started in the first quarter and they only ran up 4 points to make it P. H. S. 4, Butler 1. As the second half got under way they began to get the feel of the strange floor and rang up a score of 14 to 1 Plymouth.

There was nothing more exciting in the second half than the continuation of running up points. Jenkins in the last quarter ran in his second team and the rather slow game ended 23-2. Butler not even tallying one field goal making both their points on fouls.

The passwork and guarding of Plymouth looked mighty good. In this game. Scores for P.H.S. were Webber 7; Briggs 6; Ross 6; Mumea and Myers 2 apiece.

DRUB MADISON

The game started out as a nip and tuck game. Madison took an early lead collecting a fender and a charity point. To make it Green and White 3, P. H. S. 0. Plymouth then made 4 points on fouls and sank a mess of long shots to end the half with a lead of 8 points. At the start of the second half Madison drew up to within 5 points of the Pilgrims, but Bachrach who was high point man in this game stopped a few baskets in rapid succession and the Plymouth crew was never in any danger from then on. The line up for this game was Mumea, Bachrach, guards, Webber, center, Briggs and Ross, forwards.

DROP SHILOH; WIN TOURNAY

Plymouth proved beyond all doubt that they had the best team in the county by running up a lead of 10 points in the first minute of play. Ross of Plymouth drew first blood making one of his special over the shoulder side shots. Briggs tossed in three more from under the basket and Shiloh called time out. It didn't seem to help them to any great extent and the Pilgrims tired out as they were playing championship ball and ran up

Here and There at Plymouth Hi

Bill Root, Dick Major and Paul Root attended the Temple Theatre in Willard, Sunday afternoon.

Miss Young spent the week end at her home in Bremen.

Miss Pancoast returned to school Monday after being confined to bed home with sickness for the past week.

Students and faculty members attending the Richland county basketball tournament were: Mr. and Mrs. Murlin, Stanley Gribben, Doris Hatch; Jim Root, Ben Smith, Laurence Cornell, Bob Bachrach, Bill Ross, Bill Root, Lucile Moore, Mary Anderson, Lucille Pugh, Ruth Lebold, Correl Scott, Leola Hackett, Helen Elmsel, Jane Bachrach, Huldah Davis, Don Elmsel, Jane Bachrach, Huldah Davis, Don Elmsel, Jr., Elmer Hackett and Helen Williamson.

Doris Cramer was a Mansfield shop girl Saturday afternoon.

Ethel Kendlig and Lois Teal spent Sunday afternoon in Willard.

Betty Jane Kessler attended the Ohio Theatre in Mansfield, Sunday evening.

Mr. Wolfe and family spent Sunday in Savannah.

Jean Curpen and Alphine Doyle saw the movie "Abraham Lincoln" at Willard, Thursday night.

Betty Brown visited in Willard over the week-end.

A score of 17-0 on their time honored rivals from Shiloh by half time.

Both teams tired in the last half but Plymouth seemed to have a bit more team work which by the way was one of the important factors in their winning of the tournament. Their brilliant defense led by Mumea stopped the Shiloh lads completely and their slow offensive was a thing pretty to watch. Men who scored points for Plymouth at the tournament were: Briggs, 25; Bachrach, 20; Webber, 15; Ross, 13; Mumea and Myers 4 each. Mumea who proved a veritable stone wall on defense earned a guard position on the all county team as did Briggs who was the high point man for Plymouth at the tournament.

The Jenkinsmen journey to Crestline this week on Friday and Saturday to take a crack at the district playing championship ball and ran up

Mary Stuart

Queen of Scotland, generally known as Mary, Queen of Scots. She was the daughter of James VI of Scotland. Upon the death of her husband, Francis II of France, Mary returned to Scotland, where her charm and beauty soon won for her the affection of her people. On account of her Catholic training, however, she was not welcomed by the most zealous of the Reformers, the stern John Knox making her life miserable by his severe denunciation of her. In 1565 Mary became the wife of her cousin Lord Darnley, hoping thus to unite all Catholic claims to the English throne as Darnley was next in succession to herself. The murder of Darnley, in which the Queen was suspected of having a part, helped to turn her people against her, and after her marriage with Bothwell, who was accused of her husband's murder, she was imprisoned and forced to abdicate in favor of her infant son. Escaping to England, she threw herself upon the protection of her cousin, Queen Elizabeth, who placed her in prison, keeping her in confinement for the center of numerous plots to place her on the English throne, and, being finally declared guilty of complicity in one of these, she was beheaded.

The Porpoise

Any small or moderate sized cetacean is usually called a porpoise, but the name is applied chiefly to members of the family Delphinidae, belonging to the toothed whales. The anterior pairs of ribs are pointed to the vertebrae by both a tubercle and a head. The sternal ribs are completely ossified. The cervical vertebrae are usually united. In the skull the bones are innated. The symphysis of the mandible is short. The teeth are always present, but vary greatly in number in different genera; they usually occur in both jaws and are simple. The blowhole is single and crescentic in form. Between 50 and 70 species of porpoise are known, representing 19 genera. They are greatly diversified in form and color. Some have a dorsal fin, while in others the fin is reduced in size, or is represented by a low ridge, or is entirely absent. The pectoral fins are equally varied in size and proportions, being short and broad in some forms and very long and narrow in others. The beak may be long or short, and is sometimes replaced by a narrow rim, or is absent altogether.

Different species of porpoises having special names as killers, grampuses, blackfish, beluga or white whale, etc.

The majority of porpoises feed upon fish, but others eat cuttle fish while the killers devour their young or other cetaceans. The stomach of a porpoise which was recently found on the West coast of Africa, contained leaves of mangrove trees and other vegetable matter.

Porpoises are gregarious animals gathering in large "schools" which sometimes comprise an enormous amount of individuals. They are the source of a considerable profit, on account of their oil, which is of a superior quality. The skins of the black fish and of the white whale are valuable for their skins, but the skins of most porpoises is too thin or too irregular in texture, to form good leather.

Be Yourself

By Huldah Davis

You may think yourself much better than your neighbors one and all. You may think that each should be at your waiting, beck and call. You may think each friendly neighbor to you is just an elf.

But your friends will like you better if you'll only "Be Yourself."

You may be what we call handsome. You may be so very smart.

You may think the blood is better that feeds your own heart.

You may wish at many times to show your snobbish self. But you'll never win friendship, if you won't "Be Yourself."

You may think you are the richest. You may think you are O.K.

You may think you've ability. To lead your neighbors way. You may have a smile to show. But you've put it on a shelf. Take it down and use it now. And then you'll "Be Yourself."

May Flower Annual

How fast the time flies. Soon the senior class of '31 will pass out of the High School forever with only memories of these precious days to escort them. Memories that will dim with the fleeting years. Memories that mean such a little now, but oh, the beauty of them later. It is only natural that other things will gradually crowd out the things we long to hold dear and for this reason the senior class is seriously at work on the 1931 Mayflower Annual. Within this book is placed many an endearing program of our High School days. Little things, jokes and clubs which would be sure to fade are there to stay forever. When our hair has turned to silver and our eyesight has dimmed we will treasure the book that holds so many memories of the sweetest and dearest years of our lives. Our children and their children will treasure it and we will hold it as something sacred forever and ever and ever.

Plymouth Wins County

The 25-14 score, the Pilgrims were further honored by the placing of two men on the all-county team. Selections were made by G. S. Wright, tournament manager. J. C. Carroll, head referee, R. L. Caldwell, referee, E. K. Schrack, scorer, and Oscar Rohlf, umpire. Briggs was placed as forward, and Muma as guard. Remaining team members were, Zody, of Lucas, forward, Friday, Ontario, center, Moser, Shiloh, guard. The Madison-Plymouth tilt has been referred to as a "classic" as basketball goes. The margin of 10 points was not attained until the last half of play, the nerve-racking first quarters being made interesting by Madison. Point for point scoring marked the final quarter. Briggs was the high-point man of the Plymouth games.

Moser, Shiloh, county guard, matched Plymouth's guard work, with equally fine play, and is in turn brilliant and conservative. Moser, with L. Russell, guard, piled up the majority of the Shiloh points. Before the final game Coach E. Shook's team downed Ontario, Weller, and Adario, winning in the semi-finals in the last minutes of play.

Firestone, Shiloh, took the foul shooting honors for the second season, making 21 free throws out of a possible 30.

Sponge Divers

Leaving Miami, our next stop was Jacksonville and from there we went by bus to St. Augustine, which is 46 miles from Jacksonville.

The first house built in this country may be seen there. We drank from the Fountain of Youth and saw the cross of stones, laid there by Ponce De Leon. We also visited the Mission and the old Spanish fort. After a drive about the city we returned to our train leaving at night, heading north. Next day we stopped for luncheon in Chattanooga. This city is completely surrounded by mountains. We drove up Lookout Mountain, went to Fort Oglethorpe, the National Park at Chickamauga, the scene of the battle of Missionary Ridge and the National Cemetery where 15,000 soldiers are buried. Boarding our train in the evening we left for home, arriving in Columbus at noon where we said good-bye to most of our party. I liked Cuba best of all the places I saw and I will always remember the roaring of the ocean and the beautiful big ships, but I would rather live in Ohio than any place I visited.

Early Sunday afternoon we went on board the "Tropique," the big 5 deck steamer that was to carry us to Cuba. As we sailed out of the harbor the ship's surgeon stood beside us and told us about the Gulf Stream. It was very rough but he told us it was normal, as it was only calm and glassy before a hurricane. We was much rougher on the return trip and many people were sick. It is 242 miles from Miami to Havana and after breakfast we sailed past Morro Castle. We were met by 7 passenger touring cars with the tops down and taken for a tour of the city. Women and girls threw roses in our laps and said "Any star." That was a nice way to beg for money.

The city of Havana with its narrow streets, moss covered stone buildings and odd old churches. There are also some of the government buildings and beautiful residence sections. Royal palm trees border the streets. Their cemetery is beautiful. The same grave is used for many generations of people and the whole cemetery looked like an uneven marble floor marked with beautiful flowers. After dinner we were taken to the country to visit some plantations. Here we saw sugarcane, pineapples and every kind of tropical fruit growing. The ground is so fertile and climate so mild that 3 crops of corn can be raised in one year. Ox teams hitched to wooden plows scratched the soil. In some of the country people have only bars for windows. There are no flies and the weather is never cold. The roofs of the houses are made of dried royal palm branches. These roofs have been known not to leak for over nine years.

Returning to the city we had two hours for shopping. Our boat left after dark and we stood for a long time watching the lights of our steamer disappear. Four of our party were invited to the captain's quarters and to the pilot house where only a flash light could be used on account of the man at the wheel who stands in the dark.

Some of our party carried fruit or flowers but none could pass the customs officials who examined our baggage.

Arriving at Miami next morning, we were taken to Coral Gables and then to a Seminole Indian settlement. The women wore hundreds of strands of beads about their necks and the men squinted on the ground sewing strips of bright cloth together on sewing machines for dresses for his family. The babies were cute but the whole camp was dirty. There was also an alligator farm here and some of the animals there are hundreds of years old.

We spent the afternoon at Miami Beach and gathered shells along the seashore.

Early the next day we left in buses for a ride to Davis Island and over Candy Bridge to St. Petersburg. After a sight-seeing trip of the city we went to Clearwater where we visited orange and grape fruit groves. The owner told us to eat all we could and carry away all we could. We next visited Tarpon Springs, the headquarters of the sponge fisheries. We saw many boats manned by Greeks who make long journeys out in the Gulf of Mexico and dive for sponges. That night we went to the South Florida State Fair. Each county had a display showing what could be raised in it.

Next day we went to Bradenton and Sarasota and visited the winter quarters of the Ringling Bros. circus. We saw the horses and zebras being trained for the next summer's show.

Tomb City is a Cuban city in Tampa. We were taken through the Havana-Tampa cigar factory there and were given cigars for favors. All cigars sold for 5c or more are rolled by hand. Leaving Tampa by bus early on Saturday, we visited Plant City, then went to Lake Wales and the Lake Wales Co. has 2700 acres in grape fruit and oranges and we drove through this section to the Bok Tower. We spent most of the afternoon there, as a concert was given at 3:00. Roses and all kinds of flowers were in full bloom there. Here I saw the first flamingoes. We boarded our train at Sebring and arrived at Miami about midnight.

The park on the Miami water front is beautiful and one might easily get lost in its beautiful rock gardens. Coconut palm trees are planted along the streets and in the parks. Admiral Bird's ship, "The City of New York" was anchored here and his dogs were in a tent nearby.

Poultry Farm and Hatchery

Offers Assistance to Farmers

No farmer can afford to neglect his poultry flock. He has nothing that regularly brings in cash at so small an outlay. The milk and eggs are the only farm products that can be taken to market any day and turned into cash.

It's true they are not very profitable right now, but what about a few months from now when both poultry and eggs are sure to be scarce. When the buying power of the public increases prices will automatically rise. Feed prices are the lowest in years.

START CHICKS NOW FOR NEXT WINTER'S LAYING

We know ready money is scarce with the farmer. That's the reason we are offering these suggestions as to how to finance your season's crop of chicks. That's why we have reduced chick prices to a point that allows us but a very small profit.

If you haven't ready money give your hens a thorough culling and keep only the best. Sell the others. The market price is comparatively good. Take that money and buy your chicks.

IF YOU CAN'T BUY CHICKS WE WILL HATCH YOUR EGGS

For twenty-two years we have refused to do custom hatching. Now we are willing to help you. Let us turn your cheap eggs into chicks.

We will devote three of our newest mammoth incubators (36,000 egg capacity) to hatching the farmer's own eggs. You will save half in the cost of your chicks. If you haven't enough eggs we can supply chicks the same age as your own.

If you do not get our plan by mail in a day or two phone us. Whatever you do don't be without chicks for next year.
