O. E. S. SOCIAL CIRCLE HONOR MRS. EASTMAN

The O. E. S. Social Circle will meet at the home of Mrs. Ruth Ruckman on March 14th with Mrs. Julia Einsel as assistant hostess. A good attendance was present.

Gov. Bricker Told of Ohio Promotion

A plan to promote the sale of products grown or manufactured in Ohio was explained recently to Gov. John W. Bricker (right) by Albert H. Morrill, president of the Kroger Grocery and Baking Co. Morrill told the chief executive that Kroger stores throughout the state will participate in Ohio Week, starting February 12. His company spends more than $44,000,000 in Ohio annually, including $28,000,000 for products of Ohio farms and factories. Morrill...

ent at the last meeting. (Thursday) at the home of Mrs. Maude Points assisted by Mrs. Harriett Robinson.

Honoring Mrs. Stella Eastman, the founder of the Social Circle, the group voted to rename it the "Stella Social Circle."

At the next meeting each member is requested to bring an apron or the makings of an apron to be made for the Bazaar.

PLYMOUTH GARDEN CLUB TO HAVE POT LUCK SUPPER

The Plymouth Garden Club will be held with Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Robinson on Friday evening, February 16th with a pot luck supper at 6:30 o'clock. The roll call will be "An interesting Tilt of News."

BROTHERHOOD MEETING, FEBRUARY 23rd

The February meeting of the Brotherhood will be on Friday evening, February 23rd at 6:30 P. M.

The program for this meeting was delivered to the committee in charge, composed of Mr. Harry Dawson, Mr. E. K. Trauger and Rev. Wolf as a program under "sealed orders."

This means that it will be another of those delightfully different programs such as the men enjoyed at the January meeting when no one, perhaps not even all the members of the committee, know what is going to happen.

One thing is certain about this meeting however — the kitchen committee make it no mystery at all that they will serve a meal equal to, and perhaps even better, if that be possible than the meal served at the January meeting.

FRIENDSHIP CLASS POSTPONED MEETING

Because on Tuesday evening, Feb. 20 there will be held in Norwalk a conference on religious education which all our Sunday School and Church workers are urged to attend, the regular meeting of the Friendship class will be postponed one week, and will be held on Tuesday evening, Feb. 27 at the home of Mrs. Harry Shutt, with Miss Jessie Cole as associate hostess. Please note the change of date and plan to be present.

ADDIE MAURER CIRCLE HAS GOOD MEETING

Eleven members and three guests, Mrs. Harry Trauger, Miss Esther Hamilton and Rev. Wolf were present Tuesday evening for the regular meeting of the Addie Maurer Circle of the Lutheran Church. Mrs. Floyd Sheely was hostess and Mrs. Mildred Utis reviewed the study book "German Refugees." The group voted to donate a monthly contribution for literature for the children of the church.

At the conclusion of the evening the hostess served refreshments in keeping with Valentine day.

NON PARELL CLASS MEETING MONDAY

The February meeting of the Non Parell Class of the Methodist Church will be held Monday evening in the church parlors for a pot luck dinner announced for 6 o'clock.

At this time plans will be completed for the Annual Washington Birthday dinner to be served on Wednesday evening. The meeting was announced for Tuesday evening, Feb. 20th but due to conflicting dates, the meeting will be on the regular night, Monday.

SOCIETY

STARS TO ENTERTAIN MASON'S

An evening of good fellowship will be sponsored by the Stars entertaining the Masons, their wives and guests on February 23 at the Lodge rooms.

Mrs. Maude Points was appointed general chairman for the affair while other committees appointed are as follows:—

Phes — Mesdames Alice Ellis, Glendora Moore, Anona Root, Ada Van Wagner, Catherine Sourvine, Harriett Robinson, Alta Munn and Zella Carter.

Sandwiches — Mesdames Gladys Fetters, Julia Einsel and Maude Points.

Coffee, tea and cream — Mesdames Myrtle and Donna Dawson, Decoration — Mesdames Mabel Stewart, Marguerite Pitzer, Orva Dawson and Mary Munn.

Entertainment — Mesdames Gladys Fetters, Anona Root, Julia Einsel and Marguerite Pitzer.

To purchase ice cream and potato chips — Mesdames Ingaba Scott, Catherine Sourvine.

Pickles — Mesdames Jennie Ruckman and Stella Eastman.

CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

Miss Rosemary Eberole will remember her sixth birthday with a great deal of pleasure. The anniversary which was Tuesday, was the occasion for a group of playmates to gather for a good time in observance of the day.

Seventeen little folks were present who enjoyed several hours of entertainment and lovely refreshments served by her mother. Rosemary was remembered with a number of real nice gifts.

MR. AND MRS. GEO. DAWSON OBSERVED ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. George Dawson of Richmond, celebrated their fifty-sixth wedding anniversary, Saturday, February 10, with a family gathering in the New Haven school auditorium. The children, grandchildren, the brothers and sisters, nieces and nephews of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson and their families were invited. A cooperative dinner was served at noon.

Mr. and Mrs. Dawson were married February 10, 1884, by the Rev. John Hill, pastor of the Chicago United Brethren Church and the homestead of his parents, where their son, Delbert Dawson now lives. They moved to the farm where they now live thirty-two years ago.

Methodists Leaders Convene in Cleveland

Local Methodist leaders in and near Cleveland will join in a mass meeting today, February 15, in the First Methodist Church of Cleveland as a part of the Methodist Advance, a nationwide movement commemorating the wider reach of Methodism as brought about by the recent union of its three principal branches.

Directed by the Council of Bishops, the Methodists Advance will continue until the General Conference at Atlantic City next April. Although the Advance program will be carried on in local churches throughout the intervening period, it will be featured by rallies in 82 principal cities, of which the Cleveland meeting is one.

Other rallies scheduled for Ohio are as follows: Cincinnati, February 16, and Columbus, February 22.

A group from the Plymouth-Shiloh charge expect to attend.

MADE TO MEASURE SUITS ARE NOT EXPENSIVE

When you consider appearance and perfect fit of a tailor-made suit, the cost goes way down. You have the advantage of selecting your own material and colors, as well as just the style you like for your own individual personality. And, too, you are assured of a perfect fit.

Right now is a good time to make your selection for Easter, as this important day is only six weeks ahead.

We are now showing our full line of spring styles and material, and you'll enjoy looking them over.

Prices start as low as $26.50 and up, and a small down payment will start your suit — then, you'll be ready for the spring season.

"OHIO WEEK" TO BE OBSERVED BY KROGER'S

During the annual Ohio Week, starting Feb. 12, Kroger stores throughout the state again will feature products from Ohio farms and factories, according to A. D. Points, manager of the local Kroger store.

Newspaper advertising and display material will carry the slogan, "Again You Save — Ohio Prosper." A poster depicting Kroger's $44,000,000 annual expenditure in the state, which includes a $28,900,000 purchase of items produced by Ohio manpower, will be displayed in Kroger store windows during the event.

"Founded in Cincinnati nearly sixty years ago, Kroger is an Ohio concern," Mr. Points pointed out. "It is only natural that our company should be interested in agriculture and industries within the state. During the sale Kroger will spot-light items for which the state is famous, many of them products purchased for distribution through Kroger stores in all of the states in which our company operates."

Principal Ohio purchases made annually by this company include nearly $500,000 worth of beet sugar, $2,300,000 worth of butter, eggs and milk, and $3,300,000 worth of Ohio canned and fresh fruits and vegetables. Products of Ohio paper mills account for $800,000 of Kroger purchases each year.

Kroger stores spend in Ohio a total of $6,000,000 for meat each year, more than $2,000,000 of this sum going for purchases made directly from producers. Purchases of lard and other shortenings in Ohio amount to $2,650,000 a year. This grain farmers and millers are benefited by Kroger's $630,000 annual purchase of cereals and flour. Soap and soap products manufactured in the state are purchased in the amount of $2,700,000 a year.

Included also in the large annual expenditure is Kroger's Ohio payroll of approximately $11,500,000 and rents paid property owners in the state, totaling $1,180,000. Each year the company spends $1,425,000 for light, heat, repairs and other services.

Local and state taxes paid by Kroger stores in Ohio amount to $854,000 yearly. Approximately $50,000 is spent for advertising, most of it for display space in local newspapers. Kroger gives year-around employment to 6,656 Ohioans.

Mrs. Myrtle Preston of West Broadway is convalescing from a siege of pneumonia.

Mrs. C. R. Thornhill of Plymouth Street is ill at the family home with flu.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Feichter attended the Huron County McGuffey meeting at New Haven Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Feichter attended the funeral of Mrs. Carrie Wurtz at Willard Lutheran Church, Sunday afternoon.

HELEN HAYES TO PLAY AT HANNA

Fresh from a Broadway run, where she won renewed assurance of her leadership among American actresses, Helen Hayes will return to Cleveland for one week on Feb. 19, in "Ladies and Gentlemen." Miss Hayes is co-starred with Philip Merivale in this comedy, the work of Charles MacArthur and Ben Hecht and produced by Gilbert Miller.

The association of Miss Hayes and Mr. Merivale represents a distinguished reunion, for it was Mr. Merivale who played the tragic Earl of Bothwell to Miss Hayes Mary Stuart in "Mary of Scotland." A more recent visit disclosed Miss Hayes at Queen Victoria. Nobody needs to be told that the play on that occasion was "Victoria Regina," greatest of her many successes.

"Ladies and Gentlemen" finds both stars in unaccustomed trappings. It is six years since Miss Hayes wore the clothes of today, and the confesse herself much easier in mind freed of the cloth-of-gold and stiff ruchings of royalty. When "Ladies and Gentlemen" opened in New York, Miss Hayes expressed particular delight with the role of Terry Scott because it reminded her "that actors have backs." In her six years as Queen Mary and Queen Victoria the courtesiers always withdrew from her presence walking backward, and six years, she felt, was enough of such obsequence.

The play which Hecht and MacArthur the last named being Miss Hayes' husband) have fashioned for the services of the co-stars finds them members of a California jury sitting in judgment on a murder suspect. The authors, having served their apprenticeship years as reporters in the Chicago courtsrooms, gratified a long-lived curiosity in this study of what things engage the juror's minds when locked away to meditate the evidence.

Terry Scott and the Mr. Hamilton, the foreman, find romance. For the first time in years she knows the release from the endless demands of the picture producer whose secretary she is, Hamilton, played of course by Mr. Merivale, similarly finds in his jury service escape from now the shackles which success puts upon man.

Others serving on the jury find their own diversions and antics. A club leader frets over the certain mismanagement lesser women are visiting upon her affairs. An alert mortician solicits trades for his prized burial plots. A typewriter salesman canvases prospects. A stripling from Yale pursues his armours. A worried mother wonders what it will take to win her grumbling spouse's forgiveness for her absence. Hecht and MacArthur have, according to their judges, chosen well of American types.

Gilbert Miller, whose choice of actors has been favorably noted in other of his productions to play here, offers a company of distinguished players in support of Miss Hayes and Mr. Merivale. They include Evelyn Varden, William Lynn, Robert Kith, Roy Roberts, Connie Gilchrist, Joseph Sweeney, Pat Harrington, Martin Wolfson, Frank Conlan, George Watts, James Sealey, Jacqueline Paige and others.

The Checker Club At Wayne's

We strolled around the other night; We paused along the way To chat a while in Wardie's club And Christy's gay cafe; We crossed the street to Tracy's place Beside the Broadway pines, In session down at Wayne's.

In awe, we took a seat to watch The great ones at their play, We marvelled at the moves they made And at their skill display. The pro champ Willie Ryan would Have taken cramps and pains If he had faced that checker club In session down at Wayne's.

Joe Laech was there with furrowed brow And Catalog K. Kuhn, Who vendors meat for Darling. He will be a butcher soon. And Scotty, too, was there with Wayne, Who gained his checker skill By playing Bill and Bob, the barb, Perhaps he plays 'em still.

They say they're gonna meet again, Some night it snows or rains. If so, we're gonna see again That checker club at Wayne's. —Checker Fans

SEVERAL readers have sent in their birth data since our last column appeared. However, two queries neglected to name their Problem to be considered. As a reader, you are entitled to receive — through this column — a free astro-analysis of any understandable problem you may care to submit, but remember — the planner you outline your question, the better will we be enabled to deal with it. . . . And, when enquiring, please don't forget the correct time of your birth—if it's at all available.

From time to time, we intend giving a condensed delineation of some reader's Horoscope erected from the proper data.

L. D. Wolfersberger will Broadcast Sat. over WHK Cleveland; Native of Shiloh

L. D. Wolfersberger, member of the Cleveland Plain Dealer staff will broadcast over WHK, Cleveland, Saturday evening, Feb. 17th at 6:15.

This broadcast is known as the Hobby program and is given to create a lasting interest in hobbies and the result of the education received.

Donald W. Martin who has charge of the program says: "Being a hobbyist personally, I am more than conscious of the extreme pleasure which our guest of last week must have in the possession of so many interesting relics to keep his memory ever fresh in the course of his studies and reading of Abraham Lincoln's life."

So this evening taking the hint which the month of February brings us and because St. Valentine's day is but a few days past we have a guest whose interview will give us a bit of the spirit of St. Valentine. Mr. Wolfersberger is a hobbyist of the first water. He has indulged in the joys of collecting many articles, but tonight we are going to discuss the subject of his hobby in an "old" hobby. This is a term which is used by stamp collectors when they refer to the entire envelope when it is saved, as compared to the removing of the stamps from these envelopes. The reason for this is that, to the student of methods of handling the mail, the postal markings on the envelope to which we have previously referred to on other programs, bring to light many facts about the handling and the history of the "cover" as such.

But as I am anticipating much of this information which may be had from our conversation with Mr. Wolfersberger this evening, let's find out all we can about his interesting hobby!

Then Mr. Wolfersberger will answer many questions and the first in regard to the first general use of envelopes in the Government issues in 1851, the first general use of envelopes. Prior to that time most letters were folded so that space for addressing was left on the blank or unwritten portion exposed for that purpose. Where the open ends of the paper met which was the reverse a drop of sealing wax or a small amount of water was applied and a flat iron was used so as to press together or seal the letter.

He will explain the interest in postal markings, the development of the stamp, the postmark and other markings and cancellations. He says many of these old cancellations are most unusual in design. Only when the entire cover is kept can one ascertain what this design was as compared with the fact that when removed the stamp naturally can only be seen that portion which appeared to show on the stamp itself. In explaining cancellations he says: "Many postmasters made their own cancelling devices by carving out the design on corks. This often took the form of the initial of the postmaster or maybe a lodge emblem or other such designs as hearts, stars and crosses. All of this amount of stories." He also will tell of the growth of sending letters by mail followed by invitations, tokens and greetings, among the most popular of which were Valentines. There were many special types of envelopes used along in the fifties which collectors called Valentine covers.

Of special interest to listeners on this broadcast will be his history of valentines, facts and questions from some that are familiar.

Quoting from Mr. Wolfersberger's answer to a question, "It is peculiar to the early days of the romantic and inspiring growth of our country that such tenderness and affection was manifested and found expression in the beauty of poetry and the harmony of songs. This is the best of these interpretations which lent themselves so gracefully to the most ardent love." In referring to the growth of letters Mr. Martin says: "I doubt if even Emerson anticipated the development of the dispatching of mail to the extent which has come to pass when we write, 'The power of a wafer to guard a letter as it flies on sea, over land, and comes to its address as if a battalion of artillery brought it, I took upon me as a fine meter of civilization.'"

Mr. Wolfersberger also contributed a fine collection of valentines for Mrs. Louis J. Ott of Mansfield when she spoke on Valentines at the Tuesday Book club meeting in that city recently.

The Public Library in Mansfield has asked for his collection to display next Valentine's day.

AN OLD FASHIONED VALENTINE
By Grace Nell Crowell
Today, were I to walk for miles, I'd search the shops in every town for civilization. I could not buy with tears or smiles, Or with my silver coin laid down, So sweet a thing and call it mine. As this old fashioned valentine.

White gleaming satin, frail clasped hands,
The ivory of old paper lace,
A tiny flower filled basket, A thing of fragrance and of grace;
A shepherdess—with silver crook, Stands poised beside a meadow brook.

In coat of rose and lavender, A shepherd lad across the stream,
Holds eager, reaching arms to her, His face alight with Loves White

Dream.
O shepherd boy—it has grown long
The years—the years—are grown to wait.

Pale pink, bright blue and deep sweet rose
No colors in the world so clear,
The loveliest a silver trumpet flows,
The breathless feel of wings are here.

All clean, high things that live and shine,
Are held in this old valentine.
This poem was given by Mr. Wolfersberger.

NO CONFLICT BETWEEN GOOD AGRONOMY PRACTICES AND AAA FARM PROGRAM.

There is no conflict between good agronomy practices and the AAA program, Elmer F. Kruse, chairman of the Ohio AAA, told 300 farmers, Wednesday, January 31, 1940, who attended the 28th annual Farmers' Week on the campus of Ohio State University.

"They go hand in hand. A farmer who goes along with the AAA program must of necessity follow the sound practices recommended by agronomists," he said. Under the AAA program, there are four definite agronomic practices that insure better land, he continued. They are planned production, seeding of proper legumes and grasses, lime and fertilizer applications, and erosion control and conservation of moisture.

Defending the principle of unadvised production of the AAA, the chairman pointed out that "when you do not use or abuse the soil, you are conserving it. Any plan which would encourage farmers to grow fewer crops that are injurious to the soil would be in the interest of conservation and constructive from an agronomic viewpoint," he declared.

The AAA has done much in the past to encourage the use of good seeds and better quality legumes and grasses. Today seed dealers and farmers alike have accepted recommendations of our agronomists, as supported by the AAA, that it is a good practice to sow only adapted seed. "Unadapted seed," he said, "is more apt to winterkill and if it does survive winterkill, it would mix with our home grown and adapted seeds, thus weakening the resistance of our legume crops."

The Grant of Aid program whereby farmers may purchase lime and superphosphate by deducting the cost from their conservation payments, is a definite step in encouraging the use of these two products for the building up of Ohio farm land.

In the past, the application of lime and phosphate entailed considerable cost, the chairman remarked. A great number of our smaller farmers whose farms needed lime could not afford to put into practice the recommendations of our land grant colleges and agronomists, because they had neither the necessary ready cash nor the credit.

The chairman concluded his talk by saying that "the AAA program is definitely in complete accord with conservation measures as outlined by these colleges and agronomists. The recommendations of our experiment stations which have been proved by practical farmers are included in the AAA farm program."

Farm Oddities

By Sam Gudd

Radio Commentator on The Farmers' Forum

It takes more than badges and a gun to impress Miles Miller, a farmer of near Sturgis, Mich. Miller was a member of a posse searching for robbers in a wood north of Sturgis when he was wounded upon two armed men. Miller raised his shotgun and commanded the two men to accompany him, ignoring their protests. The robbers fled and Miller was awarded a badge and a commission.

Sam Gudd cards, but he insisted "all you smart guys carry stuff like that" and took them. When Miller and his "prisoner" turned up at headquarters it was learned that the farmer had "captured" Police Chief Hugh Gordon and Detective Charles Taylor. Mayor Miller's face was a bit red, but who could blame him at a time like that?

Some chickens are dumb and others are just plain stubborn. We might conclude that others have mightier minds than the one on a farm near York, Pa., probably would be classified as both stubborn and brave because of what she is reported to have done. When a barn in which she was setting was destroyed by fire this hen refused to desert the nest of eggs and as a result got her wing and tail feathers singed. The shells of the eggs were colored a light brown by the heat, but didn't get there and faced the world. When you have a hen with these qualities you have a fowl to be proud of. We hope that oldie is completely recovered.

Soil Improvement Pays Farmer Big Dividends

INCREASINGLY ONE cent out of every dollar which the manufacturer of commercial fertilizer receives from the sale of his product is used to defray the costs of producing that fertilizer.

The remaining nine cents has to take care of taxes and insurance, of depreciation in the factory and equipment of interest and profits.

A survey of the cost of producing mixed fertilizer in representative plants throughout the United States revealed that of each dollar received by the producer at the plant, 91 cents went to pay for materials. Labor costs took another seven cents and profit and interest in manufacturing costs took 12 cents more.

All things considered, commercial fertilizer is about the lowest priced commodity the farmer buys.

L. D. Wolfersberger will Broadcast Sat. over WHK Cleveland; Native of Shiloh

L. D. Wolfersberger, member of the Cleveland Plain Dealer staff will broadcast over WHK, Cleveland, Saturday evening, Feb. 17th at 6:15.

This broadcast is known as the Hobby program and is given to create a lasting interest in hobbies and the result of the education received.

Donald W. Martin who has charge of the program says: "Being a hobbyist personally, I am more than conscious of the extreme pleasure which our guest of last week must have in the possession of so many interesting relics to keep his memory ever fresh in the course of his studies and reading of Abraham Lincoln's life."

So this evening taking the hint which the month of February brings us and because St. Valentine's day is but a few days past we have a guest whose interview will give us a bit of the spirit of St. Valentine. Mr. Wolfersberger is a hobbyist of the first water. He has indulged in the joys of collecting many articles, but tonight we are going to discuss the subject of his hobby in an "old" hobby. This is a term which is used by stamp collectors when they refer to the entire envelope when it is saved, as compared to the removing of the stamps from these envelopes. The reason for this is that, to the student of methods of handling the mail, the postal markings on the envelope to which we have previously referred to on other programs, bring to light many facts about the handling and the history of the "cover" as such.

But as I am anticipating much of this information which may be had from our conversation with Mr. Wolfersberger this evening, let's find out all we can about his interesting hobby!

Then Mr. Wolfersberger will answer many questions and the first in regard to the first general use of envelopes in the Government issues in 1851, the first general use of envelopes. Prior to that time most letters were folded so that space for addressing was left on the blank or unwritten portion exposed for that purpose. Where the open ends of the paper met which was the reverse a drop of sealing wax or a small amount of water was applied and a flat iron was used so as to press together or seal the letter.

He will explain the interest in postal markings, the development of the stamp, the postmark and other markings and cancellations. He says many of these old cancellations are most unusual in design. Only when the entire cover is kept can one ascertain what this design was as compared with the fact that when removed the stamp naturally can only be seen that portion which appeared to show on the stamp itself. In explaining cancellations he says: "Many postmasters made their own cancelling devices by carving out the design on corks. This often took the form of the initial of the postmaster or maybe a lodge emblem or other such designs as hearts, stars and crosses. All of this amount of stories." He also will tell of the growth of sending letters by mail followed by invitations, tokens and greetings, among the most popular of which were Valentines. There were many special types of envelopes used along in the fifties which collectors called Valentine covers.

Of special interest to listeners on this broadcast will be his history of valentines, facts and questions from some that are familiar.

Quoting from Mr. Wolfersberger's answer to a question, "It is peculiar to the early days of the romantic and inspiring growth of our country that such tenderness and affection was manifested and found expression in the beauty of poetry and the harmony of songs. This is the best of these interpretations which lent themselves so gracefully to the most ardent love." In referring to the growth of letters Mr. Martin says: "I doubt if even Emerson anticipated the development of the dispatching of mail to the extent which has come to pass when we write, 'The power of a wafer to guard a letter as it flies on sea, over land, and comes to its address as if a battalion of artillery brought it, I took upon me as a fine meter of civilization.'"

Mr. Wolfersberger also contributed a fine collection of valentines for Mrs. Louis J. Ott of Mansfield when she spoke on Valentines at the Tuesday Book club meeting in that city recently.

The Public Library in Mansfield has asked for his collection to display next Valentine's day.

NO CONFLICT BETWEEN GOOD AGRONOMY PRACTICES AND AAA FARM PROGRAM.

There is no conflict between good agronomy practices and the AAA program, Elmer F. Kruse, chairman of the Ohio AAA, told 300 farmers, Wednesday, January 31, 1940, who attended the 28th annual Farmers' Week on the campus of Ohio State University.

"They go hand in hand. A farmer who goes along with the AAA program must of necessity follow the sound practices recommended by agronomists," he said. Under the AAA program, there are four definite agronomic practices that insure better land, he continued. They are planned production, seeding of proper legumes and grasses, lime and fertilizer applications, and erosion control and conservation of moisture.

Defending the principle of unadvised production of the AAA, the chairman pointed out that "when you do not use or abuse the soil, you are conserving it. Any plan which would encourage farmers to grow fewer crops that are injurious to the soil would be in the interest of conservation and constructive from an agronomic viewpoint," he declared.

The AAA has done much in the past to encourage the use of good seeds and better quality legumes and grasses. Today seed dealers and farmers alike have accepted recommendations of our agronomists, as supported by the AAA, that it is a good practice to sow only adapted seed. "Unadapted seed," he said, "is more apt to winterkill and if it does survive winterkill, it would mix with our home grown and adapted seeds, thus weakening the resistance of our legume crops."

The Grant of Aid program whereby farmers may purchase lime and superphosphate by deducting the cost from their conservation payments, is a definite step in encouraging the use of these two products for the building up of Ohio farm land.

In the past, the application of lime and phosphate entailed considerable cost, the chairman remarked. A great number of our smaller farmers whose farms need lime could not afford to put into practice the recommendations of our land grant colleges and agronomists, because they had neither the necessary ready cash nor the credit.

The chairman concluded his talk by saying that "the AAA program is definitely in complete accord with conservation measures as outlined by these colleges and agronomists. The recommendations of our experiment stations which have been proved by practical farmers are included in the AAA farm program."

Farm Oddities

It takes more than badges and a gun to impress Miles Miller, a farmer of near Sturgis, Mich. Miller was a member of a posse searching for robbers in a wood north of Sturgis when he came upon two armed men. Miller raised his shotgun and commanded the two men to accompany him, ignoring their protests. The robbers fled and Miller was awarded a badge and a certificate for his gallant deed.

cards, but he insisted "all you smart guys carry stuff like that" and took them. When Miller and his "prisoners" turned up at headquarters it was learned that the farmer had "captured" Police Chief Hugh Gordon and Detective Charles Taylor. Mayor Miller's face was a bit red, but who could blame him at a time like that?

Some chickens are dumb and others are just plain stubborn. We might conclude that others have mightier minds than the one on a farm near York, Pa., probably would be classified as both stubborn and brave because of what she is reported to have done. When a barn in which she was setting was destroyed by fire this hen refused to desert the nest of eggs and as a result got her wing and tail feathers singed. The shells of the eggs were colored a light brown by the heat, but didn't get there and faced the world. When you have a hen with these qualities you have a fowl to be proud of. We hope that oldie is completely recovered.

Soil Improvement Pays Farmer Big Dividends

NINEY-ONE cents out of every dollar which the manufacturer of commercial fertilizer receives from the sale of his product is used to defray the costs of producing that fertilizer.

The remaining nine cents has to take care of taxes and insurance, of depreciation in the factory and equipment of interest and profits.

A survey of the cost of producing mixed fertilizer in representative plants throughout the United States revealed that of each dollar received by the producer at the plant, 91 cents went to pay for materials. Labor costs took another seven cents and profit and interest in manufacturing costs took 12 cents more.

All things considered, commercial fertilizer is about the lowest priced commodity the farmer buys.

First in the Hearts Of "His Countrymen" ... Even Until Today

WHAT greater tribute can be paid a man's memory, than the fact that he still represents the ideals of Americanism; is still high in the esteem of his nation; one hundred and sixty-five years after his deeds of heroism in fighting for liberty and independence of that nation. No monument is too great to express the worth and influence of this... America's first president.
