

PLYMOUTH WINS OVER SHILOH 50 TO 34

In one of the roughest games ever witnessed on the local gridiron, the Plymouth High School Pilgrims defeated Shiloh before the largest crowd ever to watch a local six-man game. The game was featured by high scoring by both teams in the second and third quarter, Shiloh garnering all their points and Plymouth scoring all theirs in these periods. The line-ups were as follows:

RE Lasch
LE Moore
C J. Hoffman
QB Cunningham
LH Thomas
Q Rule
Shiloh-
RE Meyers
LE VanWagner
C Cunningham
RH Russell
LH Pittenger
Q James

Plymouth's first score came early in the game, when Shiloh lost a fumble near the end of the first quarter. After a fifteen yard penalty for clipping, Cunningham scored on an end run. The try for extra point was missed. Plymouth 6, Shiloh 0. Shiloh threatened near the end of the first quarter, but failed to gain the necessary yardage. Early in the second quarter Cunningham reeled off a brilliant thirty yard run for a touchdown. The try for extra point was again missed. Plymouth 12, Shiloh 0. Shiloh then turned to their passing attack, James' pass to Meyers set up Shiloh's first touchdown. James plunging over from the five. On the following kick-off, Dick Rule ran the kick-off back for a touchdown in a wonderful piece of broken field running. Another extra point was missed. Plymouth 18, Shiloh 0. Another pass, James to Pittenger, was good for another touchdown, but the extra point was again missed. Another pass, this time James to Russell was good for another touchdown and the extra points were made, putting Shiloh ahead for the first and only time during the game. Later in the second quarter, Thomas scored on a double reverse. Plymouth passed for the extra point. The score at the half was 26-22 in favor of Plymouth.

Early in the second half, Cunningham made a brilliant run for a touchdown, this time for sixty yards. Immediately after this James went over for another Shiloh touchdown. Later in the same quarter, Cunningham ran for five. From there Dick Rule again scored, but the kick was missed. Meyers scored on James' pass into the end zone. The score at the end of the third quarter was 44-26. In the fourth quarter saw no scoring until the end of the last play of the game when Cunningham ran through center for 40-yd for a down. Final score 50-34.

This was the second time Plymouth also winning the first, 13-6. This was a very rough game, with several Shiloh players hurt. The Shiloh team took seven time-outs to Plymouth's two. The game was preceded by a demonstration by Plymouth students on the Square with the band marching and a cheering section gave cheers. After the game, a Victory fire was started and a snake dance held. Shiloh's marching band demonstrated during the half. The boys played their last game of the season next Thursday, Nov. 6. They expected their first attendance during the Shiloh game and hope it will be repeated for the Fairfield game Thursday at the local field.

However, this did not put the market price down on them. Will Link isn't bothered with farm restrictions, for he reports he has sold no grain off his farm for the past twenty years. He uses it all to feed his stock. Link's white heifer and black cow, the past ten years, has sold his egg out to one dealer.

Election Draws Big Vote; Derr Elected

Tuesday was a fine day for the election, and while politics didn't wax to a boiling point locally, a goodly number of voters turned out for the occasion.

In the race for Mayor in which J. B. Derr and Harry A. Vandervort were the candidates, Derr received 297 votes, while Vandervort ran second with 191 to his credit. Derr, who has served the village in previous years as mayor, made no campaign for his election. Vandervort, who has been a resident of Plymouth for the past five years, and who has never served in a public office locally, made an exceptional good showing in the race.

A. D. Points, independent candidate for councilman, failed to get into the "show" in Tuesday's election. While his race was a "write-in" affair, Points did make an effort, and as a result he registered a good vote for a "write-in" race.

Table with 4 columns: Position, Name, Votes, Total. Rows include FOR MAYOR (J. B. Derr 163, Harry Vandervort 115), FOR CLERK (James H. Rhine 230), FOR TREASURER (Leon Z. Davis 146, Mrs. Clay Hulbert 120), BOARD OF PUBLIC AFFAIRS (Otis Downend 187, N. B. Shepherd 171, B. R. Scott 174), PLYMOUTH SCHOOL BOARD (C. L. Hannum 222, J. F. Root 205, T. R. Ford 200).

In the council list there were six candidates whose names were printed on the ballot. Otto Kinzel, local building contractor, proved to be very popular with the voters, he having the largest number of votes. The vote for council proved very evenly distributed.

L. Z. Davis, present treasurer, won out over his opponent, Mrs. Clay Hulbert; James Rhine, with no opposition, retains his office as village clerk.

On the Board of Public Affairs there was no opposition. N. B. Shepherd, a member of the presiding board, was re-elected, while B. R. Scott, former board member, and Otis Downend, were two new members of the Board.

A. J. Lowry was elected Justice of the Peace of Plymouth Township, while Harry Christner was chosen constable.

P. A. Fackler received 105 votes in Plymouth for Justice of the Peace in New Haven Township. Plymouth voters favored the Huron county 1-2 mill levy, 114 for it, while 69 voted against.

For Plymouth Township Trustees Plymouth voters cast their ballots as follows: O. I. Dick, 82; Geo. W. Harris, 109; S. F. Stine, 50; Virgil Baird, 71; Geo. Cheesman, 144.

For New Haven Township Trustees Plymouth voted as follows: Feichter 20; Hodges 178; Noble, 33 and Wyandt 107.

One of the finest pieces of campaign promotion was staged by J. E. Hodges, who was out for trustee of New Haven Township. Mr. Hodges was confident that he'd receive Plymouth's support, and therefore put most of his effort in New Haven and Willard. Even there was no assurance of his election. And yet, a candidate has to receive a large number of Willard votes to get this office.

Hodges evidently made a very fine impression with the Willard and New Haven people for the election Tuesday revealed him to be the second highest man. Chas. Wyandt, one of the old line politicians and held in high esteem in this section of the county, polled the highest number of votes in Tuesday's election.

The tabulation in New Haven township for trustee is as follows: Chas. Wyandt, 178; Joe Hodges, 74; Walter Noble, 56; Feichter 47.

In the contest for election as trustees for Plymouth township were George Harris, 163; George Cheesman, 246; Virgil Baird, 189; S. F. Stein, 77. The first three are present incumbents.

Derr will succeed W. M. Johns as Mayor, and all officials will take oath of office on January 1.

ARMISTICE DAY ACTIVITIES

Commander Dr. Currier of the American Legion and Commander A. L. Herman of the Veterans of Foreign Wars have appointed a joint committee for Armistice Day who are: Albert Hartman, F. Moore, Joe Rogers, Clint Moore and R. D. Stull, but all commanders will serve on the committee.

Arrangements have been made for a flag ceremony in front of the post office in Willard at 11 o'clock with rifle salute, music by the Willard High school band.

A six o'clock dinner will be at the Lutheran church in Willard with after dinner speakers.

At The Hanna Theatre, Cleveland

"My Sister Eileen", the hilarious comedy that recently completed an eight month's run at the Hanna Theatre, Chicago, is booked for a week's engagement at the Hanna Theatre, Cleveland, beginning Monday, November 10.

"My Sister Eileen", is one of the works which, by their incitements to mirth, offer relief from present world conditions. Joseph Fields and Jerome Chodorov derived the plot from the diverting sketches by Ruth McKenney, written for the New Yorker, and published in book form nearly two years ago. The theatrical version, too, was materially assisted by the labors of George S. Kaufman as director.

The substance of the plot is related to the adventures of two sisters who betake themselves to New York from Columbus, Ohio, to win a career. Ruth Sherwood, one of the girls, is bent upon achieving success with stories. Eileen determined to make a name on the stage. They start this adventure from a basement apartment in Greenwich Village. Much happens to the sisters and some of it is extraordinarily funny. Most of the visitors to their musty abode are undesirable and uninvited. But the right ones turn up in time and all ends well.

The company is competent and smart. The comedy requires quick, highly vitalized action, and it receives it. Marcy Wescott, as Eileen, makes a diverting study of the sister who possesses more sense and a rather touching faculty of self-sacrifice. Phillip Loeb lends enviable aid to the proceedings as the landlord, Mr. Appolous, who fancies himself as a painter. There are numerous small roles played with skill and the jaunty briskness that the play requires.

The cast includes: Guy Robertson, Elsie Afton, King Calder, Edith Gresham, John Kearney, Eddie Hyans, Jr., Marjorie Dalton, Earle McDonald, Merritt Stone, Larry Sothorn, Donald Cameron, Gretchen Davidson and Audrey Trotter.

First Vaccinations The first vaccinations was performed in 1700.

LETTERS FROM BOYS IN CAMP

Editor's Note.—We're glad to receive letters from the boys in camp, and the home folks, we believe, like to read them, too. So if any of our boys have the "urge" to write, it will be greatly appreciated.

Dear Editor.—As I am the only Plymouth representative here in Camp San Luis Obispo, I'll describe it for you.

The camp is located midway between San Francisco and Los Angeles, five miles from the city of San Luis Obispo. As early as 1772 Spanish missionaries had constructed missions throughout this region. A small mission built of adobe bricks stands in the camp area. Located within six miles of the Pacific Ocean it has a mild climate the year round. A lot of fellows in camp from Los Angeles have never seen a snow storm.

The company received some replacements several weeks ago and most of them are Ohio boys. One happens to be Jack Ports nephew.

During the latter part of August and early September I was in Washington taking part in the Fourth Army maneuvers. We must have been on the wrong side of the weather man because it rained every day except one.

We made the trip by rail and saw the metric Mt. Shasta in Northern California and also the Shasta Dam (under construction) which is damming up the Sacramento River and will be one of the nation's largest. Returning we passed through Oakland and saw the Golden Gate Bridge and San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge. Several weeks ago I visited for several days at Yosemite National Park.

Whenever I get through the warehouse area I see one of F-R-H Co's locomotives. There is another at Camp Roberts, north of here.

The entire division is going to Los Angeles Armistice Day for a parade and see the 40 & 7th divisions football game.

This week-end has been set aside for visitors and a division parade was part of the program. Most any day it is expected to rain. The rains last till April. The rains never come during the summer months.

I'll be seeing the old home town within a month or two, and until then,
Yours,
Charles Rhine.

HISTORY OF THE ADVERTISER, YOUR LOCAL PAPER, AS TOLD BY JESSE E. LADOW OF MANSFIELD

Editor's Note:

We are greatly indebted to Mr. Jesse E. Ladow of Mansfield, a native of Plymouth, for the following interesting account of the Plymouth Advertiser, your local newspaper. He has spent a great deal of time and study in looking up these facts and we hope the article will prove as valuable to the many readers of the Advertiser as we have found it. It is the first complete history we have ever had the privilege of reading of Plymouth's only newspaper.

Acknowledgement is made to Mr. Charles Van Tassel of Bowling Green, Ohio, past editor and historian author of 'Book of Ohio', 'Great American Historical Classics', 'Story of the Maumee Valleyland and Sandusky Region', 'Great Lakes and Their Publications', for the exceptional aid his efforts have given me in arranging this article.—J. E. L.

By Jesse E. Ladow

The Nasby letters had much influence in their day and caused him wide fame in the north during the civil war. The title 'Nasby' is said to have come from the name of a town in England where a battle was fought under Lord Fairfax defeating Charles I. This was in a time of religious and political upheavals and developments came naturally along, and one of them came along in a shiftless worthless fellow in Findlay was circulating a petition addressed to the Ohio Legislature, who did little to support his own large family, the gravamen of which petition was to prohibit colored people from coming into Ohio, and asking the removal of all colored people then in Ohio. Locke saw this fellow at a favorite loafing place one evening and approached him with a request to see the petition which was readily shown to him and with his permission Locke proceeded to read aloud to the crowd its contents, taking pains to make his own comments on the details much to the amusement of the bystanders as well as the chagrin of this fellow. It is said that then and there Mr. Locke decided to run a series of letters under a pseudonym or non-descript name and after studying up one adopted Petroleum (after the explosive mineral oil) and Vesuvius, (the volcano) and thus he had his name coined, except he added the name 'Rev.' to it.

This 'Rev.' was supposed to be and the letters to emanate from an ignorant penniless democrat from Kentucky, and to be written in a coarse, ungrammatical, and to be full of whisky, the perpetuation of slavery, and a desire to become Post Master. These letters "took" those strenuous times and had wide circulation and carried much weight on the Lincoln side of the Civil War.

Mr. Locke's next important newspaper move was when he was called to Toledo, Ohio, to become chief editor of the Blade, and through the influence, largely of the series of Nasby letters, added much life and vitality to that newspaper which made it of real national importance. He was a past master of satire, ridicule and sarcasm which carried much argumentative weight that formed the basis of the series of Nasby letters that attracted the notice not only editors of the great newspapers of the United States, but literary men as well.

Mr. Locke never had an ambition for public office, and thus leaving his family and home surroundings for public office. President Lincoln tendered him a responsible foreign appointment; Grant, it is said, urged him to accept a foreign mission; but across Berlin, St. Petersburg, but all were declined.

During the height of the Civil War excitement and while Mr. Locke was resident of Findlay, he raised a company of recruits to go to the front and applied to the then Gov. Dennison for a commission as Captain, but to his amazement if not bewilderment, he was refused. But later on he stated in refusing it that he could do more good at home writing for newspapers than on the front line of battle; hence, he never became a soldier; though few brigades of Generals accomplished as much for the integrity of their country as this quiet editor of a small town in the country in the northwestern part of the state. But partially satisfied his conscience by sending a substitute.

The popularity of his writings largely the Nasby Letters) caused a demand for the appearance of the writer on October 1866, and then became sole owner and finally built up the weekly in general national circulation. The first few years of his editorship his writings his later was equal to that of any two men might accomplish. Ten years after the war and during the year 1871 he located in New York City in the position of managing editor of the Evening Charlotte Boston and Eleanor Garrett as new captains for the Volley Ball teams. Come on and see who will make the best captain for the Volley Ball season.

Home Ec
The members of our Home Ec class have been making dresses for the Red Cross to send to England. New we have started to make something for ourselves or for our little brothers or sisters. The Home Nursing Class, since it has completed the First Aid Course, has gone back to its books, "Keeping Mentally Fit." Our discussions on behavior are quite interesting.

Senior Class News
Last Tuesday the Senior boys took the newspapers we had collected to Mansfield and they collected fifteen dollars. That was a happy surprise to us. Merle Lutz and George Adams will be around to collect sales tax stamps this week sometime. We are going to make boxes and put them down at the stores. If you have any stamps, would you put them in the box? We will appreciate it very much. We hope to make out good on these, too.

Music Club
Now that football season is over the showy part of Shiloh's music will be put away until next fall. The football band can feel proud of their part in the fall show. This fall the organization made twice as many formations as last and the execution was very much better.

day by a score of 50-34. Myers starred for the Drummer boys by his brilliant pass catching and scoring twice. It was a hard fought game with a little roughness coming from both sides. They had to call the game 50 seconds before the game ended because of a fight resulting from this roughness.

All-School Party
Our all-school party is over for another year. One hundred and ten students turned out to make it a grand success.

A masquerade was the main feature of the evening, followed by skills put on by each class. Later in the evening, initiation of the freshman took place. This proved very entertaining, especially for the upper classmen. Refreshments consisting of sandwiches, pumpkin pie and cider were served. Dancing was enjoyed at the close of the evening. The Student Council deserves much credit for making the evening a success.

G. A. A. News
Much to our sorrow the soft ball season is ended. We had two well-balanced teams. It seems that Dorothy Diebert and her team ought to be congratulated for the splendid games they played.

The Volley Ball season is started but here the winners take a turning point. The winners are none other than Lorna Wittche and her team. Keep it up girls! Let Tuesday Charlotte Boston and Eleanor Garrett as new captains for the Volley Ball teams. Come on and see who will make the best captain for the Volley Ball season.

As to the three sons who lived in manhood in Toledo, two of them are deceased. They were said to have pursued commercial lines of business. The second son whose name was Robinson, trained more in his father's trade than the first, but the quality of the parent was not so apparent that he made the success his father attained.

In the Spring of 1881 Mr. Locke started to travel; a thing he supposed he never had time to do therefore, and he took his son Robinson with him. They spent months in travel and went to Great Britain, Ireland, France, Germany, Belgium, Switzerland, etc. and during this trip took time off to write it up in a very interesting and informative manner without mentioning the details in any angle. He dealt with people and their industry, habits, etc., which was all published and afterwards compiled in book form. These impressions were interesting, entertaining and valuable and the form he adopted was "somewhat after Mark Twain's 'Innocence Abroad.'" After returning from the European trip most of the time was spent in Toledo, which he considered his permanent home and to which place he persuaded his father to move and where he died after nearing the century mark, and before his son David passed away.

The government war records show that his father Nathaniel Reed Locke was a soldier in the War of 1812. He came to Toledo, Ohio at the urgent request of his son David, when he was nearing the century mark of his age, and there died before his illustrious son passed away.

David Ross Locke had one other specialty which he vigorously advocated and that was temperance—the reverse in principle of Mr. and Mrs. President FDR. His main slogan was "Pulverize the Rum Power!" His argumentative thrusts against intemperance were about as powerful and effective in their way as were his arguments against slavery. He wrote pamphlets, brochures, numerous, and some books, at least with numbers, and poems, "Hanna June", "Nasby in Exile," etc. The last was published in 1882.

and the work of the other Girl Reserve Clubs. In the United States. After the talk, Lorane Stevens a colored girl from the Y. W. C. A., led the group singing. We sang some very familiar songs and some new ones which she taught us.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening and a very enjoyable time was had by all those who were present.

Music Club
Now that football season is over the showy part of Shiloh's music will be put away until next fall. The football band can feel proud of their part in the fall show. This fall the organization made twice as many formations as last and the execution was very much better.

For their last game the band went all out to show the people what they could do. It was unfortunate that the on-lookers were not up on bleachers to get a good view of the band's efforts. The first formation was a large star. In the center of the star was formed a U. While the band played the Star Spangled Banner the U changed to an S and the S to an A. From this formation they went into a large wheel with the hub turning clock-wise and the spokes turning counter-clock-wise. From this formation they went into a large clock, the hands starting at 12 o'clock proceeding to the tick-tock of the drums to 3:30, which was game time.

At the rise of the curtain a racket is heard off stage and with a rush something with striped trousers, cut-away coat, mustache and goatee comes on the stage. Oh, it's Botzky, a Russian, about 30. He is a rough customer who lives by his wits. This part is portrayed by William Kepple.

Not long after this we hear someone crying "Hee hee my love!" What—another countess? Not! This isn't a countess, but a pretty little Russian adventuress about 25. This Lily, the sister of Botzky, who claims that the poor "Henpecked Hero" killed her love. This part is portrayed by Janice Moser.

Next week we shall reveal the part you are looking forward to hear about. The poor "Hen Peck-

Senior Class News
Last Tuesday the Senior boys took the newspapers we had collected to Mansfield and they collected fifteen dollars. That was a happy surprise to us. Merle Lutz and George Adams will be around to collect sales tax stamps this week sometime. We are going to make boxes and put them down at the stores. If you have any stamps, would you put them in the box? We will appreciate it very much. We hope to make out good on these, too.

Music Club
Now that football season is over the showy part of Shiloh's music will be put away until next fall. The football band can feel proud of their part in the fall show. This fall the organization made twice as many formations as last and the execution was very much better.

For their last game the band went all out to show the people what they could do. It was unfortunate that the on-lookers were not up on bleachers to get a good view of the band's efforts. The first formation was a large star. In the center of the star was formed a U. While the band played the Star Spangled Banner the U changed to an S and the S to an A. From this formation they went into a large wheel with the hub turning clock-wise and the spokes turning counter-clock-wise. From this formation they went into a large clock, the hands starting at 12 o'clock proceeding to the tick-tock of the drums to 3:30, which was game time.

At the rise of the curtain a racket is heard off stage and with a rush something with striped trousers, cut-away coat, mustache and goatee comes on the stage. Oh, it's Botzky, a Russian, about 30. He is a rough customer who lives by his wits. This part is portrayed by William Kepple.

Not long after this we hear someone crying "Hee hee my love!" What—another countess? Not! This isn't a countess, but a pretty little Russian adventuress about 25. This Lily, the sister of Botzky, who claims that the poor "Henpecked Hero" killed her love. This part is portrayed by Janice Moser.

Next week we shall reveal the part you are looking forward to hear about. The poor "Hen Peck-

Juanita Lacer, president of our club called the meeting to order and we opened by singing "Follow the Glean."

Next came devotionals, which were read by Ellen McMillan. This was followed by the installation of officers.

The Seniors then presented the Juniors and the new sponsors with their G. R. pins. Mrs. Mansfield was introduced and gave a very interesting talk on the meaning of the Girl Reserve emblem and the work of the other Girl Reserve Clubs. In the United States. After the talk, Lorane Stevens a colored girl from the Y. W. C. A., led the group singing. We sang some very familiar songs and some new ones which she taught us.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening and a very enjoyable time was had by all those who were present.
