

TWO DIE IN AUTO CRASH

MANAGER OF SHELBY STORE AND WIFE KILLED TUESDAY IN ACCIDENT

Carl F. Wycoff, 44, manager of the shoe department at Sanger's Store in Shelby and his wife, Alice, were killed instantly Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in an accident involving a Fairliek Stages bus and two cars on State Route 13, two miles south of Fred erick. They were enroute home after attending funeral services for Mrs. Wycoff's brother, James Marquis, in Lancaster.

State Highway Patrolmen at Mt. Vernon investigating the crash, said they believed Wycoff's car sideswiped one owned by C. L. Moushey of Mt. Vernon and swerved into the path of the bus, colliding almost headon. Mr. and Mrs. Wycoff were hurled through the front of their car. Mr. Moushey is well known in Plymouth.

Their 13-year-old daughter, Glenna Jean, escaped injury and possible death because she didn't want to miss school and remained in Shelby. The Wycoff family lived in Shelby about three years, moving there from Akron.

The bodies were removed to the Rhoades Undertaking Parlors in Mt. Vernon and later removed to Shelby.

Those injured, all of whom were in the bus were Richard G. Sponseller, Mansfield, the driver; Miss Phipps, 56, Lucasville; Lee Hershner, 38, Mrs. Alice Paques, 56, and her granddaughter, Jo Lee Hunt, 3, all of Mt. Vernon. They are in Mt. Vernon hospitals; none was believed injured seriously.

Million Dollars To Be Spent By Penna.

Nearly a million dollars will be spent in the Crestline Pennsylvania Railroad yards on improvements, according to a dispatch released this week. A total of $2,500,000 is allotted for the entire improvement program from Crest line westward to Chicago and the Crestline yards.

Already under way, the new construction will provide additional yard trackage and main line sidings, water, coaling and other supporting facilities, to speedy handling of wartime freight and passenger traffic, said J. M. Symes, a company vice president.

Five eastward and five westward relay tracks—each of 150 car capacity, will be constructed at Crestline, Symes stated. These improvements, he added, together with additional trackage in the present eastward and westward yards, car repair facilities, inspection pits and auxiliary coaling facilities, will cost approximately $1,000,000. Work on all phases of the project is being rushed to completion. No definite date for finishing the program has been set.

RELEASED ON BOND

C. K. Osborn of Plymouth was released on bond after being arrested by Sheriff Jesse W. Mellott on a war rant charging him with taking farm property illegally. Charles J. Lang, local rural mail carrier and farm owner, is the prosecutor. Osborn was released on a cash bond of $50.

New Dem. Chairman

Postmaster General Frank C. Walker, who was elected new chairman of the Democratic National committee, to succeed Edward J. Flynn. Flynn resigned as chairman of the committee because of his illness in Australia.

Seeing Their Shadow

Honor Roll To Be Erected

Under a project sponsored by Ehret Post, American Legion, an honor roll for all service boys is to be erected in Plymouth. Announcement was made last week by Commander Frank Weck, and already plans are completed for the construction of the roll.

Commander Weck pointed out that it will be necessary to have the cooperation of all families who have male members in any branch of the service. It is requested that you send in the name direct to Mr. Frank Weck, or leave it at the Advertiser.

The honor roll board is to be erected by OH Kinsell, and the names will be printed in blue ink surrounded by a red border on white cards. The entire board is to be placed under glass, and will be placed on the east side of the Peoples National Bank.

While the Legion has already on hand a small sum of money, it will be necessary to solicit citizens to help defray the expense of the board. Those who wish to donate may leave the money at the local bank with Mr. J. E. Nimmons or see Dr. I. E. LaBarre or Frank Weck.

It is hoped to have the board completed within three weeks. It is very important that everyone who has a member in the service report the name so that the board may carry all names from this community. The Legion has decided that all residents of Plymouth village and those residing on Plymouth Rural Route No. 1 will be included on the board.

Third Son Left On Wednesday For Service

Kenneth Ray McQuown left on Wednesday for Camp Perry to join the armed forces. He is the third son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce McQuown in the service of their country.

Norman McQuown has recently been promoted to Staff Sergeant and Nelson McQuown has been transferred to "Advanced Flying School" at Eagle Pass, Texas.

TWIN DAUGHTERS BORN

Twin daughters were born on Tuesday morning at the Shelby Memorial Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. John Laser, R. D. 1, Shiloh. However, one of the little girls died Tuesday evening, lessening the happiness of the family in their new arrivals.

Mrs. Laser is the former Audrey Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith. Mr. Laser is with the armed forces overseas, and she does not yet know of his new daughter.

You'll Take Your Milk In Quarts And Like It

Effective Feb. 1, housewives will be more apt to see that their daily milk bottle is placed on the door step or will find a 3c bottle change in their stake at the end of the month.

Pint and half-pint bottles are also out for the duration. So, if you now take a pint of milk per day, you will purchase a quart every other day and see that the bottle is placed for the milkman to pick up.

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard has issued the regulations to eliminate unnecessary expenditures in the distribution of milk. Other extensive reforms are being planned in the nation's food distribution system, according to recent dispatches.

Restaurants and hotels would be affected by this order but they would be required to confine their purchases to not more than two handlers unless each delivers more than 300 quarts. They cannot return unsold milk.

The milk order, as announced by Secretary Wickard, left to be worked out locally other distribution economies such as every-other-day delivery to homes and consolidation of duplicating deliveries. If those are not made voluntarily, a further order may be necessary, he said.

Other steps in the economy drive which will be worked out in the immediate future, Wickard disclosed, include a plan to assure farmers adequate prices for foods without raising retail prices.

IN HOSPITAL

Tommy Brown, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Brown, entered Mansfield General hospital on Tuesday evening for an appendicitis operation. His condition is very satisfactory.

MOVE TO CLEVELAND

Mrs. Wayne Somerset and Lota Somerset left Sunday for Cleveland where they will make their home. Mr. Somerset has been employed in that city for several months. Their household goods were moved the first of the week.

Work Started On Base Depot

Heavy construction equipment of the J. F. O'Connor company went into action last week on the new air base supply depot which is being constructed north of Shelby.

Bull-dozers, cranes, ditchers scrapers and carryalls are now at work and already the peaceful fields that were sleeping beneath a blanket of snow have been turned into one of activity.

Captain Glenn E. Shaw, senior officer of the U. S. Engineers corps staff directing operations, said principal immediate work is to provide drainage of the area to facilitate construction of warehouses and other buildings.

Within another thirty days the fields which were once pastureland and crop-producing ground, will be no more, for the way the construction gang are going at the job, it will be almost unbelievable that so much work could be accomplished in such a short space of time.

Sunday afternoon hundreds of people in the immediate vicinity travelled over the nearby roads to view the start of operations.

BLOOD DONORS CAN STILL REGISTER

If you have registered as a blood donor and have not yet been called for service, it is possible your name will be on the next list and you will be notified when and where to appear.

More than twenty have volunteered to give a pint of blood to the Red Cross and some of this number have already been called up, is only through this registered list that the Red Cross can be sure of getting its quota filled.

A card will be sent from headquarters in Mansfield when the mobile unit again comes to the city sometime in February. The January quota was filled because of the large waiting list and complete cooperation of donors. If you are willing to give a pint of blood, complete details can be obtained from Mrs. Mabel McFadden of Plymouth street.

INJURED IN FALL

Anasteth, 10-year-old daughter of F. Buckingham of New Haven, suffered injuries to her head in a fall on an icy playground at New Haven Friday. She received emergency treatment at the Willard hospital and was released on Saturday.

Mrs. C. S. Stover and Clarence of Shelby were Sunday callers of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Scarsfield. Saturday evening callers in the same home were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dillon at south of Plymouth.

Need Women For WAAC's

The launching of an intensive recruiting drive for the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps throughout Richland county was announced this week by Sgt. Donald C. Johnson of Akron in connection with the opening of a new WAAC recruiting office in Mansfield.

"We hope to secure several scores of women from every community the size of Plymouth," Sergeant Johnson declared. "Every woman enrolled in the WAAC frees a trained soldier for fighting duty, so by joining the WAAC a woman can hasten the end of the war."

Women from 21 through 44 years of age, with no children under 14 and no dependents, are eligible for the WAAC. They may obtain information and application forms by writing the U. S. Army Recruiting Station, Old Post Office Building, Akron, O., or by visiting the new WAAC office in Room 4, Post Office building, Mansfield, on Friday nights from 5:00 to 9:00 p. m.

"There are all sorts of things to be accomplished by women in uniform," Sergeant Johnson explained. "Accountants, bakers, clerks, cashiers, chauffeurs, messengers, draftsmen, librarians, musicians, radio operators, drivers, weather observers and many others are needed to help the Army do its job—win the war."

Completes Course

Twenty-seven hundred young men from various parts of the United States, who have been taking their basic training in the U. S. N. R. Officers Training School at New York, will graduate on Feb. 18th.

Among the group is David Brown, son of Mr. C. Brown of North Street, who, upon completion and graduation, will be an Ensign.

In a recent letter to his father, David wrote that he and another young man from his group were recent lunch guests of Mrs. Eleanor Scarle Whitney and were also presented with two tickets to the opera "Boislieude." A letter introduction from Mrs. Whitney permitted the young men to go behind the scenes and meet several of the members of the company which proved a real thrill to them.

Miss Betty Brown of Cleveland expects to attend her brother's graduation. He will return to Plymouth before being assigned to his duties.

TANK CARS BURN IN TRAIN WRECK

Six tank cars in a Baltimore & Ohio eastbound freight train were set after after 20 cars in the train were derailed at the Clinton evening. No trainmen were injured. Flames from the cars, laden with fuel oil, were visible for miles, and the Tiffin fire department was called into action to keep the flames from spreading to nearby homes, which were severely scorched by the intense heat.

Lutherans To Have New Pastor Soon

Rev. Frederick Lambertus of the Divinity Lutheran church, in Toledo, has accepted the invitation of the local Lutheran church council and expects to come to Plymouth within thirty days.

Some difficulty was experienced in getting living quarters for Rev. Lambertus but he has agreed to cooperate and with necessary repairs and changes made in the Lutheran parsonage he will occupy it.

The local church has been without a resident pastor for some time and it is most gratifying to the church council and membership that the pulpits will again be filled regularly.

PROMOTED

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hunter have received word from their son Bob that he has been promoted to Private First Class. Bob has a new change of address, which is listed under the Address List in this issue.

Around the Square

(By Phineas Whittlesseed)

FROM THE appearance of "Mildred's hose" those nylon and rayon manufacturers have certainly fallen short of their claim when they said "hose could be made to LOOK like silk and even wear better."

DICK HENDRICKS is among the first of the "victims" under the plan to raise three million soldiers. Hendricks, who operates the Hitting Post, and has been married for over two years, received his notice to check in on the 10th of February.

ED CHILDS AND JAKE MCINTIRE certainly enjoy their cup of java each morning, despite the fact that they talk politics.

JIM CROCKETT who works as a clerk at a local grocery wants it known that he KNOWS how to count. He's been practicing on his numbers, anticipating the arrival of the "Point" system.

I DON'T know but what walking on the ice isn't just about as bad as the cinchwalkers you try to cross the Public Square.

AS a matter of record John Beelman was re-elected president of The Peoples National Bank; J. E. Nimmons, vice president. C. M. Leonard, cashier. This happened at the annual stockholders meeting, and we all know that the Peoples Bank is the best one in town—in fact it's the only bank in town, unless you count in some of our streets. Well, anyway the boys are doing a good job—more money than they know what to do with—buying bonds, even if the government did have to OK, and in fact, it's pretty nice to have a bank in so that you can keep your money in it. Since rationing has become so popular, you can't go out and spend a dollar when you feel like it. Congratulations to the new officers for doing their duty well, and to the bank for its service to the community.

THEY couldn't get Alexander Swanson, Rimer, Alta, a frostbitten hiker, safely to a hospital any other way because of snow-blocked roads, so they hitched a tractor to his bunkhouse and hauled him. Swanson, bed and all, the 38 miles to Rimer. Swanson, frostbitten while working in the woods, was carried from his bed into the hospital after the bunkhouse was dragged to the hospital door.

YOU CAN believe it or not, but the story is going around that a detail of eight enlisted men was assigned to move the post library at Camp Davis, N. C. The men carried out the assignment, but left one book. Its title was "You Can't Take It With You."

TWENTY-THREE industrially important northern Ohio counties, including the Indiana line to the headwaters of the Ohio River, will be blacked out some time next month in an air raid test, affecting more than 3,000,000 persons. State Defense Director Ralph Stone announced.

FEARFUL that the United States may be the target for enemy air raids this spring and summer, the Ohio State Council of Defense has been mapping plans for the test in northern Ohio for the past several weeks. Stone said that residents of the State Defense Council have organized defense corps in the 23 counties and "found them ready for any emergency."

DURING the past year, Plymouth has had an exceptionally good Defense School and response, but lately the attitude has been, "Let George Do It." He has about come to the conclusion that Plymouth thinks the war is over and he'd just have to take his chances along with the natives.

The available supply of textiles for civilians during 1943 should not fall more than 10% below last year's production, according to Frank L. Wain, Director of the WPB Textile, Clothing and Leather Division.

Basing his estimate on the consumption that increased military and foreign requirements will be met through conservation measures, which have already been instituted, and allowing for possible production losses due to labor, power, transportation or other shortages, he declared that the output of fabrics should be sufficient to meet all essential civilian requirements.

There is no overall shortage of textile fibers, he said. There is a surplus of cotton which, along with our production of rayon and our production and supply of wool and flax, should prevent any shortage of fibers. Sheets, towel bedspreads and linens are expected to be available in quantities to take care of essential needs, he said, and the same holds true for knitted hosiery and underwear.

Housewives, who wrap their bread and find the loaves unsliced, need not be dismayed for lack of a fancy blade called the "bread-knife". Following the announcement that bakeries would stop slicing bread on Jan. 18th, there was a widespread buying spurge of such knives. Any keen edged meat or other type of slicing knife that is in almost every kitchen will do the bread cutting trick as neatly as the fancy blade.

Construction projects having a total cost of $1,214,450,000 have been planned in the last three months, in line with the WPB's policy of curtailing non-war work to free materials, equipment and labor for more essential uses.

Competent stenographers and secretaries can have their transportation paid to Washington, D. C. by Uncle Sam, who will also be happy to do their room hunting for them. WPB district offices will give them 30-day training periods at $1440 before sending them to Washington as it increases up to $2,000 depending on their experience and capabilities.

The OPA is campaigning to stop gasoline stations from accepting No. 4, 5, and 6 gasoline coupons before they are valid. Suspension hearings are already being held.

The broken-down condition of a large proportion of the tires turned in by motorists to the government has emphasized the necessity for periodic inspection to extend the life of tires now on cars.

The 152 class one motor carriers to the L.C.C. carried more than 30,000,000 passengers in September, a 9% increase over September, 1941.

A plan to mobilize commercial vehicles to augment facilities of local civilian defense councils in the event of war emergency or public disaster has been announced by the ODT for the critical areas of the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific coasts and the Great Lakes region.

Manufacture of anti-freeze solutions compounded with inorganic salts or petroleum distillates has been prohibited by the WPB, because of a rest of wide-spread complaints that certain solutions recently distributed in large quantities have been found highly destructive to radiators, ignition systems and rubber connections in automobiles and trucks.

This week more than 200,000 stores will remind housewives to save waste fats. Four weeks from now, some of the fats turned in at this time will be ready to fire airplane cannon. The six S's of waste fat salvage are: Save, Sell, Saponify, Separate, Ship and Shoot.

Laundries, which maintain a diaper service, may require a deposit covering diapers, containers, baby scales, bottle sterilizers and other infant necessities of a durable nature, which they rent to consumers, the OPA said.

To lessen any possible confusion and lack of understanding of the OPA's rationing system when it goes into effect, a comprehensive program of education on the subject will be carried on through public schools in Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, Indiana and Michigan.

Far-reaching liberalization of the requirements for agricultural deferments which is expected to keep many additional workers on farms has been announced by the War Manpower Commission's Selective Service Bureau. The revised guide provides that a local board would be justified in some cases, in deferring an agricultural worker who produced as little as 8 war units of essential products. Heretofore, 16 units was considered as standard.

In a move to protect young workers entering war time industry, the U. S. Department of Labor's Children's Bureau is setting up a series of advisory standards pointing out the hazards of the various occupations in which young workers are likely to be employed and listing kinds of work that are relatively safe or unsafe for boys and girls 16 and 17 years old.

The hours of operation of service stations throughout the country have been regulated by the Office of Petroleum Administration for war. The station may operate on two plans: Staying open not more than 72 hours a week and for not more than 12 hours a day, or staying open 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, but serving only T card holders during 12 of the 24. Over a billion dollars worth of army contracts have been placed during the last two months with concerns employing from five to 500 persons, the Smaller War Corporation announces.

A new regional WPB service designed to smash critical war production bottlenecks at the request of the armed forces by calling, into instant play any or all of the WPB's specialized services is being developed with excellent results in northern Ohio.

Workers will again find cotton flannel shirts selling for approximately $1.59 on retail shelves as a result of OPA's action establishing fair margins on these goods. Price inequities had forced withdrawal of these goods from the market.

A forthcoming OPA regulation will prohibit changes in quality, weight, quantity, ingredients and containers of toiletries and cosmetics except when such changes are required by war limitation orders and then the manufacturer must certify that the resulting product will give approximately the same results. An OPA representative told the Ohio Cosmologists Association.

HAVE TENTATIVE CONTRACT
NORWALK—On instructions from the city council, acting City Solicitor Britt Young has sent a tentative contract to the War Department salvage officials at Cleveland containing conditions regarding the proposed removal of 350 tons of LSE rails from Norwalk's Main street. A bond of $50,000 is asked to require the government to leave the street in proper condition after the removal of the rails.

Haven Loses to N. Fairfield

N. HAVEN WALLOPED 78 to 29; RESERVES WIN, 32 TO 15

North Fairfield gave New Haven a bad defeat, there, Jan. 22, the final score, 78 to 29, for North Fairfield. The game was slow all the way and New Haven gave N. Fairfield little trouble. With one New Haven player sick and unable to play, and a big shakeup in the lineup positions, New Haven did comparatively well.

The New Haven Reserves seemed to be on the beam and buzzed to a victory, 32 to 26. The boys were threatened only once by North Fairfield, at the end of the first quarter, when they were trailing one point.

The line-up was:

"I can't help it," he said testily, "there'll be formalities. Come tomorrow. The bank closes at three; we couldn't get through in time. I'm busy; good-bye!"

Mark stood a moment longer, looking down at him. He saw the little man's hand shake as he hurried to get on his feet. "It's early yet, Mr. Fosdick, and I'd be glad to draw some of that money."

The little lawyer whipped around in his chair and stared at him, then away to the ceiling. "I don't know," he said uneasily, remembering old Grant Barton's end. Money in that, though, the fellow a giant?"

CHAPTER I

"So you've come back, Mark Fosdick," the old lawyer swung around in his swivelchair and looked the young man up and down with a cold eye. "You've come back as good as a lizard," Mark laughed shortly, and sent the crowd bubbles through his nose. "I behave as you like, Mr. Fosdick," Mark said, his tone defying criticism and sounding like the awkward feeling of a recluse suddenly thrust out into the world. But the lights and sounds had an intoxicating effect; he felt like a man let loose into mad indulgence.

He had framped meals; he was up-to-bored that insistent, by-the-clock hunger began to clamor again, and suddenly emerged. Their exit would not go far to appease it here. But there must be a cafe or a tearoom where he could get a cup of coffee and a roll, or tea and a muffin. He remembered, in dim perspective, that muffins were heavy and "bling." He had turned the corner into one of the more seclude streets and was passing the entrance of a fashionable clubhouse—the name was on the door over a brass knocker—when two young men descended the steps, and he was so abrupt that they nearly collided with Mark, and they both stopped, staring at him with the eagerness of men seeking a long lost acquaintance.

You've never been in prison, Mr. Fosdick.

Mark looked full hungry at regular intervals, by the clock; he had been hungry now for hours. The sensation was new and not without zest; it was part of his freedom. He threaded his way through the crowded streets with the awkward feeling of a recluse suddenly thrust out into the world. But the lights and sounds had an intoxicating effect; he felt like a man let loose into mad indulgence.

He had framped meals; he was up-to-bored that insistent, by-the-clock hunger began to clamor again, and suddenly emerged. Their exit would not go far to appease it here. But there must be a cafe or a tearoom where he could get a cup of coffee and a roll, or tea and a muffin. He remembered, in dim perspective, that muffins were heavy and "bling." He had turned the corner into one of the more seclude streets and was passing the entrance of a fashionable clubhouse—the name was on the door over a brass knocker—when two young men descended the steps, and he was so abrupt that they nearly collided with Mark, and they both stopped, staring at him with the eagerness of men seeking a long lost acquaintance.

Mark gambled, and then he got stowed, two of the cardinal sins.

She's forbidden him the house, and he's gone. There's going to be an exclusive afternoon today, a big affair. Ted has no card. He's raw grumpy, and he's had a wagger with her that she's all about her rules, that she doesn't really know when guests do, that any fellow who's more than in the street—given a clean shirt could pass muster. I've taken the bet. I don't believe she'll receive anyone without credentials, she'll find a way to freeze the newcomer out, even if the first man he meets outside the club, give him the clothes and get him in—if I'll take him past the door and simply say, "This is Mr. — any old name! Now, do you see?"

Mark nodded. "I see!" he said, and laughed. There was vigor in his laughter, a jubilant ring of freedom.

The sound startled Archie, he looked up sheepishly, but Teddy joined in the laugh.

"I'm not here outside the club," he said, "that's the whole of it. It's a wagger—" he made a boyish grimace, and Archie began to see objections to his part in it, but his younger companion was eager to know his receiver's eyes expanded.

"What do I get?" asked Mark.

Archie frowned; it was plain that the wagger had been made in a rash moment; doubtless, the lunch had not been entirely dry, and the exhilaration of the moment was disappearing. Archie began to see objections to his part in it, but his younger companion was eager to know his receiver's eyes expanded.

"I believe you'll get," he said gayly. "You look game! I'll give you carry it off well, if you get involved to that previous dinner affair. I'll give you half-five hundred dollars."

Mark shook his head. "That's too good for me. There has been given me to understand that I'll fall anyway; be frozen out by the lady. I don't care, I'd get nothing—according to your conditions. I won't go a step unless I get the five hundred dollars. Now, do you see none for the occasion, gentlemen," he added with a twisted smile that set the other caught with some easiness.

Teddy laughed boisterously. "You're right, Ted, that's that; fair; I'll put up the stakes and I'll get you rigged out; now, what about a bet?"

Mark looked from one to the other thoughtfully. "One thing more you know, I'm not a bargainer."

"I don't think you've any right to ask yet!" broke in Archie. "I don't know unless I know." Mark retorted tersely.

"Oh, come on—he's got to know!" Archie said to Mrs. Lynn, she was a Vandever. Now, do you know?"

Mark shook his head. "I'm not out in Burke's Peague."

Teddy laughed boisterously. "She's Burleson's sister-in-law; she receives the name of Burleson's millionaire."

Burleson? Mark Grant stared at him. How could she be? This man had been one of his dead uncle's close friends, he had even testified to the fact.

Archie looked at him, curiously. "You know that name?"

Mark nodded. "I'd seen him; to come face to face with his own old world again! But he answered to me."

"I've heard it!"

Teddy was getting anxious. "Now you know it's a bargainer!"

ON COMMITTEE

The Speaker of the House of Representatives has announced the committees to which the various members of Congress have been assigned for the coming year.

J. Harry McGregor (Republican of Ohio) has been assigned to Roads, Public Buildings and Grounds, and Invalid Pensions.

Congressman McGregor is ranking Republican member on Invalid Pensions and second ranking Republican member of Public Buildings and Grounds, and was recently made Whip of the Ohio delegation.

Huron County Plans

To Have Fair Again

NORWALK—Huron county commissioner, Ray Gathergood of Monroeville, a member of the Huron County Agricultural Society, announces that a county fair will be held on the local grounds on Sept. 1, 2, and 3rd. No fair was held last year because of the uncertain conditions brought on by the war. Gathergood reports that when he attended the meeting of the Ohio Fair Managers at Columbus last week, the general opinion appears to favor the holding of fairs, because of the war importance of the food supply.

HOUSE and HOME

By MARY E. DAGUE
Author of Sister Mary's Kitchen.

Many of us have closed some of the rooms of our homes while others have filled every available space with as many persons as our rooms will accommodate. In either case certain rooms must do double duty, especially bedrooms.

There's no reason why a bedroom shouldn't mean much more in our scheme of living than a mere place to sleep. It should be a cheerful, sunny spot by day and a comfortable, restful one by night—a friendly retreat for each member of the household.

To this end every bedroom needs at least one comfortable chair for lounging and rest with a table and good light by its side. If the room is large enough to accommodate a chaise longue nothing is more luxurious and satisfactory in a bedroom than one of these "long chairs."

Instead of a bedside table, our great-grandmothers called them "candle stands," a small chest of drawers is most thrifty. The drawers will take up no more room than a table, will furnish the same table-top space and in addition provide room for the overflow from dresser drawers as well as room for many personal belongings for which there never seems to be a suitable tuck-away place in a room. Look for a writing table of some description is a real convenience in every bedroom. Placed near a window and with a desk lamp, a desk in one's own room makes letter-writing an easy and delightful task.

Naturally each room will be furnished with references to the tastes of its individual occupant. A boy's room will be quite different from a girl's room, but there are certain pieces of furniture that make for comfort and enjoyment whoever occupies the bedroom. Hanging shelves, a small bookcase or built-in shelves take care of the most things in the bedroom of a family accumulates and make a place for.

As you study seed catalogues read up on the fundamentals of plant life as details of these makes a good garden soil and how to get it. As you read make plenty of notes with reference to your own particular soil conditions.

Wood ashes are one of the best sources of potash, a most important plant food. Be sure to save all the ashes that accumulate from the fireplace and burn until spring in order to fertilize dry places in the basement.

You will need to order your fertilizers early since some kinds will be rationed if available at all. Use them sparingly when the time comes and in the meantime save your wood ashes.

ABOVE the HULLBALOO

By LYTLE HULL
The Hard Coal Strike

The strike in the hard coal mines can be over when this goes to press, but it is going to be a long time before the one hundred and thirty million Americans who are not members of the United Mine Workers of America—but who happen to be serving their country in one way or another—are going to forget it. Time will eliminate the details from our memories, but the sore will rankle on in their subconscious minds.

This is one of the most vital of the war industries, was called ostentatiously in protest against a 50 cent increase in dues to the union. In time of peace when it would not endanger the health of the public—a strike might conceivably be the sanest way to settle matters of this sort, as under our present laws there is no proper provision for settling the laboring of the union bosses. But these are not "peacetime"—needless to say—and in the American public started out of its usual good tempered composure by this strike. The public knows that they are the method of solving the trouble and the public will not be persuaded to wait.

One union official is quoted as saying that "This is a fight for principle," and "I'm in my local, have articles on the average, and over this issue of 50 cents." The balance of the 120 million Americans are sacrificing considerably more than 75 cents; some of them are sacrificing their lives—and for a "principle" which does not involve a 50 cent raise in wages. The leaders who caused this strike and the men who are carrying on, have this country in their principles for the baser ones. Those abandoned principles are: duty to the millions of their fellow creatures who have entrusted to them their comforts and their health; duty to the cause of union labor; duty to their no-strike agreement; and duty to the nation which has nurtured them and which is fighting their battles and protecting them.

Union labor doesn't deserve this slap in the face. Union labor has patriotically agreed to stop striking for the duration, and it has kept its agreements—with extraordinarily few exceptions. But people with souls in the fighting forces, and people who are sacrificing for their country, are enraged at the sort of thing that is going on in the anthracite district at the time of this writing, and unfortunately, they don't differentiate between union labor generally and the leaders who have risen against the decree of their union bosses in the hard coal industry. It's not the least bit of union labor generally, but the public the whole unattractive

CUB NOTES

Last Monday night the "Cub" Scout Pack No. 1 of Plymouth held its regular monthly meeting in the Lutheran church annex with over sixty Cubs, parents and visitors present.

During the business meeting it was decided to award the Cub flag to the den which had the most parents present at the pack meetings. The flag to be awarded on a point and percentage basis, counting two points for the father and one point for the mother. Monday night's meeting found Den No. 1 and Den No. 2 tied for the flag wherein it was decided that Den No. 1 should have the flag for the first two meetings of February and Den No. 2 for their last two meetings. Several other important matters were discussed and voted on by the parents during the business meeting.

Immediately following the business meeting, badges were awarded to the following boys by their respective parents—James Shutt, David Sams, Richard Lowery, Ronald Trauger, Gordon Roe, and Robert Hale. All of these boys have completed their first book of Cubbing, and Jimmy Shutt, in addition to completing his first book has also finished ten more tests, and received a gold arrow point as a reward. Robert Hale passed twenty more tests than required and received a gold and silver arrow point, and thus has advanced farther than any boy to date.

Following the presentation of the awards each Den presented a stunt to the great delight of the parents and visitors present. The Judges had a very difficult time in reaching a decision on the "Light House Keeper's Daughter," "An Old Fashioned School" (including the dunces), and a "Wedding."

However, with Louis Root playing the piano, "Here Comes the Bride," Charles Hannum as the minister, Jack Root as the groom, Allen Ford, making a very beautiful bride, and Marshal Clabough as the bride's father—the Judges agreed that the Cub charter would make an ideal wedding gift for Den No. 1.

James Root, Cub master, then entertained the boys with moving pictures, and several of the Cubs even saw themselves in the movies of last Armistice Day parade.

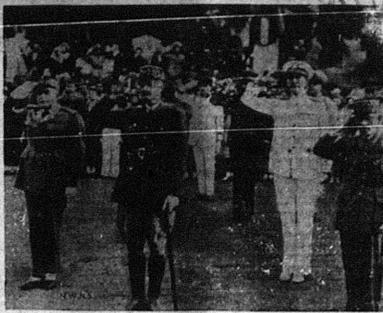

Before the meeting and after the parents and visitors enjoyed the fine exhibit of bird feeders, safety and Cub posters which the boys had made during the past month in their respective dens.

The boys are also doing their share toward the war effort, having collected nearly a thousand pounds of scrap and fats during the past month.

EQUIPMENT ADEQUATE

NORWALK—Snow plowing equipment here is said to be adequate to handle a major snow fall. Six plows are operated out of the local state highway garage on the six leading roads and Huron county has five trucks equipped with plows and three road maintainers that can be used for removal of snow.

French Officers Honor War Dead at Dakar

French and Senegalese soldiers who died in action in the First World War were honored recently at Dakar, French North Africa, by these French officials. They are, left to right, Gen. Gen. Pierre Boisson, administrator of East Africa; General Giraud, Admiral Glassford, senior member of the special American mission at Dakar, and Gen. Jean Barrau, commander of army, air and naval forces in French West Africa. This is the first picture to come out of Dakar in more than two years.

NOTE AGAINST IMPROVING

NORWALK—At a joint meeting of the county commissioners of Huron and Crawford counties Saturday at Bucyrus in the district of the Peter Pitsen ditch improvement project, it was decided to eliminate the improving of three-quarters of a mile of the stream in Crawford county on the farms of Henry Kemp and Isbell Milano. This water course flows southward into the Willard marsh district in Huron county and its waters enter the Huron river system through Marsh Run. On Feb. 3, county engineers will submit reports on the estimate cost of the project.

WELL AGAIN

John Wiers, proprietor of the general store at Celeryville, was able to return to his home from the Willard hospital the past week.

He has been seriously ill since December 10, suffering from influenza and complications.

BURIED AT NEW HAVEN

Funeral services for Miss Bessie Day of Willard, who died on Tuesday last week, were held at the home Saturday at 2 o'clock. Rev. Homer A. Neff of the Presbyterian church officiated and burial made in the cemetery at New Haven.

NO CREDIT BUYING

WASHINGTON—The petroleum administration has prohibited all credit buying of gasoline and other petroleum products by private motor cars, effective Feb. 1. The order provides that retail marketers or suppliers may not "grant," accept or participate in the granting, directly or indirectly of credit in connection with the sale of any petroleum product," but makes exceptions for sale to state, federal and local governments, for commercial use of motor boats, and motor vehicles displaying "T" ration cards.

ANOTHER SONG HIT TO BE FOR '43

A brand new song—never before published—appropriately illustrated in FULL COLOR—appears in The American Weekly with this Sunday's (January 31) issue of the Detroit Sunday Times. It's "SHADOW OF A DOUBT" by Freddy Martin, noted band leader, and you'll find it complete with words and music. Get Sunday's Detroit Times.

A REMINDER

Will those who have made pledges to support the program of Religious Education in our public schools kindly see that they are paid? Payments can be made through your church, the solicitor to whom you gave your pledge, to one of the ministers or directly to Mrs. E. E. Markley, local treasurer. Thank you.

WEARS FIRST STRIPE

Pvt. Donald Fox, stationed at Madison, Wis., is proudly wearing his first stripe and is now entitled to have his mail addressed PFC Don Fox.

LEAVES FOR CAMP PERRY

John Coe, son of Mrs. Florence Coe, left Wednesday for Camp Perry, Ohio, for induction into the armed forces.

Still Time To Join

There is still time for your name to join the March aiding the battle against infantile paralysis. Mrs. Mabel McFadden, local chair man, will gather up all the containers and send the contents in by Monday.

Boxes have been placed in practically all the business houses while the containers were also passed at the various churches, schools and clubs and other organizations. Plymouth has always responded generously to this great drive and no doubt will again measure up to former years. If you have not already donated, do so before Monday.

Miss Eva White Still A Reader of The Advertiser

It is always such a comforting thought in a world so topsy-turvy and unsettled as ours, that life can still be sweet at 90 and enjoy the good things of life.

In renewing her subscription to the Advertiser, Miss Eva White of Elyria, who makes her home at the Home for the Aged, writes "I am just as well as usual, but I will be 90 years old in less than two months and that is living a long time, though I can't think of its being possible that I am as old as I am. I haven't found 'old age' to be so tragical as some speak of it. Of course, I don't get out as I used to; but I am perfectly content in my own room with the radio, newspapers and access to a good library, good neighbors and friends. To be sure I miss my own people, but they are wondrously kind about writing and coming to see me.

"No words can express the terrible loss of my dear husband. His love is continuous and his power is greater than that of any dictator.

"I see that Rev. Haines is to be the minister for the service on February 7. I hope some of the Plymouth people will come too, as you did last year."

Miss White has been an inspiration and help to many in Plymouth while a resident of our little city and her influence is still felt.

Truck Invades Home

Elmer S. Richman of Buffalo and the tractor-trail outfit he was driving made an unexpected and costly visit at the home of L. J. Miller in Monroeville.

Richman's outfit jack-knifed and piled up in the front part of the Miller house, just north of the Huron River Bridge in Monroeville. State highway patrolmen who investigated said Richman tried to pass another truck, driven by Philip H. Malone of Monroeville. Arrested by the patrolmen on charges of reckless driving and taken before Mayor Clarence Zippfeldt at Monroeville, Richman was fined $20 and costs.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Brothers of the West Road had a somewhat similar experience Thursday evening at 6 o'clock when a car driven by a young man, failed to make the curve at the intersection in front of their home and came tearing through the yard. A large spirea bush helped to break the speed of the car which missed the porch only a few feet and it was necessary to circle the house three times before it could make the incline up to the road. No one was injured.

Point System To Be Explained Over WTAM

People in Northeastern Ohio will have an opportunity to learn more about the NEW POINT RATIONING system on Saturday, January 30 at 12:30 p. m. over radio station WTAM, Cleveland. Mabel G. Fernald, Huron County Home Demonstration Agent will explain the new system in relation to foods essential for health.

Every week, it is becoming more difficult for housewives to plan and prepare well balanced meals. Substitute foods must replace the less plentiful foods. Miss Fernald's talk will give suggestions as to how these essential nutritional materials can be supplied this coming year when commercial supplies will be greatly reduced in quantity.

Likes New Work

Renewing their subscription to the Advertiser, Rev. H. T. Wintermute of McConnellsville, Ohio, sends a short note and greetings to his many former friends in Plymouth.

They are well pleased with their new home and the work in the church is progressing nicely. Paul, their new son, tipped the scales at 16 pounds when five months old and of course keeps the whole family busy.

REMOVED HOME

Donald Fetters was removed on Wednesday from the Mansfield General hospital to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Fetters. Mr. Fetters is convalescing from a goitre operation.

Testify in Hard Coal Strike

President John I. Lewis and other officials of the United Mine Workers testify as they appeared before the War Labor Board to explain why 15,000 anthracite miners struck. TAX ON WAR INCOMES

If taxes are to be raised again during 1943, one of the fairest ways to do it would be to levy heavy taxes on those who are earning extra income because of the war.

War profiteering is recognized by all Americans as a decidedly unhealthy thing. If a big company makes a fortune out of manufacturing munitions, we are apt to suspect its stockholders of secretly hoping the war continues so their profits will continue to fatten.

But in this war it is individuals who are profiting most by the war—men who were in the habit of earning $30 a week and now, because of the man shortage and the activity of labor unions, are earning $100 a week.

Why wouldn't it be fair then for each man to report the income he received before we went to war and be required to pay an excess profits tax on the difference between that pre-war wage and the pay he gets this year?

Under such a plan the man who earned $30 and now earns $100 might pay 50 per cent on the $70 excess and he would still be decidedly better off than he was before the war started.

There seems to be no rhyme nor reason for permitting millions of men to double or triple their incomes out of the war and force those who are not profiting to pay for this extravagance through heavy taxes.

WOMAN'S PLACE IS IN ...?

By the end of 1943, one out of every four war production jobs will be filled by women and about one out of every two regular civilian jobs will be handled by a member of the gentler sex, it is estimated by the War Manpower Commission.

If this comes to pass—and it is already well on the way with four million women already in war plants—it would seem as though the name Manpower Commission will become a misnomer and should be changed to include womanpower.

Each year since the last war women have played an increasingly important role in business and in the professions and by the time this war ends they will have assumed a major position in industry.

Many of us may still feel that a woman's place is in the home, but no matter how we argue about it, it looks as though the home will become a secondary interest of millions of women. After the war things may tend to go back to normal, but the chances are that many women will be dissatisfied with being housewives and will, instead, want to have a hand in running business, industry and politics.

And we imagine some of the successful women in industry, in the professions and in politics, already are of the opinion that one home, in which a woman should certainly be in charge, is the White House.

Remember the good old days when you could work, or even conduct a business and you didn't even have to make out an income tax report?

Stalin and his Russians were evidently too busy to attend conference—of which we know little about except that it was held.

It's time to look through the flower and seed catalogs! Gosh, don't they make the pictures pretty!

KEEP YOUR MIND ON YOUR WORK

The year 1876 was an important one in the history of Philadelphia; at that year the City of Brotherly Love celebrated its world famous Centennial exhibition. Kings and queens and presidents visited the city. But an incident occurred that no one paid any attention to at the time. This was the burning of some peanuts.

A boy 19 years old had come to Philadelphia from Derry Township, Pa., to establish a business of his own. He had been working since he was 15 years old, and he had saved about $50 a year. In other words, he had a total capital of about $200. He had saved this money, penny by penny, and now he was ready to go into business for himself. He poured every cent he had into his venture. He had chosen Philadelphia, looking forward to the crowds that would swarm into the city during the Centennial exhibition.

At last he set up a small shop where he made candy and sold it to the school children in the neighborhood. A bar sold for a penny. He had worked out an idea of his own to make the candy more tasteful. This was the addition of peanuts. This was an additional expense which he could hardly afford—but anything to improve his candy. One morning he shelled his peanuts, slipped off the skins, put them in a pan and set it on the stove.

Suddenly he heard a noise in the street. He listened and his feet began to tap. A circus parade! Bands, Clowns and Elephants, Tigers, Fun. Of course a country boy (he had been born on a farm) couldn't resist the excitement, so he locked the front door of his tiny store, and ran down the street to see the parade. What fun!

At last, the parade was out of sight, and he started back to his little store, his chest full on the circus. As he approached the door he smelled something. He opened the door. No doubt now what it was. His peanuts!

He stood looking at the crisp, worthless pellets, and he made a resolve, then and there. Hereafter, all through his life, when he roasted peanuts he would keep his mind on his work. He would concentrate.

That boy was Milton S. H. Hershey, famous the world around as the originator of the Hershey chocolates. Milton S. Hershey made a success of keeping his mind on his business when he was roasting peanuts. Twenty-five years from that day he sold his business for exactly a million dollars.

Erosion Fating Jp. Farm and; Costs 4 Billion Dollars Yearly

With the American farmers called upon to produce a record amount of foodstuffs to sustain the Allied cause, they are faced with the task of getting the maximum from the soil without eroding their land to the ravine erosion which costs the country four billion dollars annually, according to the department of agriculture.

Continued reckless waste of the soil may sap the strength of the nation and its people, including men on the battlefronts of the world, and could be counteracted in terms of dollars, according to the department.

The stream of America and the might of the United Nations war machine lies fundamentally in the land, and to a considerable extent in the virility of United States farmlands plus an all-out production effort of farm families. Food, fibers and oils, all vital to the war effort, must be produced by America in increasing amounts not only for the needs of American soldiers, sailors, marines and airmen but also for the needs of United Nations fighting men.

Meeting farm production goals as in past emergencies is not safe to say the needs of American soldiers is fabulously wealthy in natural resources. America is barely playing catch up with the rest of the world in new virgin territory to open up for settlement and with erosion still gnawing at the land.

Dust storms or drought could prove extremely dangerous to achievement of food production goals which American agriculture must meet for the war effort. With production a nip-and-tuck job under the best conditions it is possible that the current level of erosion would severely cripple the United States in a long war.

The human race has been subsisting for thousands of years on a mere shell of vital soil matter, the layers of soil eroding from about five to twelve inches in depth over the surface of the earth, experts say.

Even the most fertile soil is a layer of relatively unproductive subsoil which requires centuries of maturing and growth to become fertile. Although it takes Nature generations to replace an inch layer of really productive topsoil, the erosion of Americans has reduced the average layer of topsoil in the United States from nine inches to between six and seven inches in only 60 years. Erosion, aided by reckless and wasteful timbering, farming and grazing, has washed one-third of the U. S. topsoil from the land in only three score years.

Even the men who were studying soil erosion were shocked when in 1934 a nation-wide survey of the problem was conducted. This survey revealed that 14 per cent of the total land in the country or about 222 million acres, had been severely damaged by erosion and that erosion was under way in varying degrees of intensity on another 775 million acres. The United States has wasted its soil resources faster than any other known nation or race that ever attempted to practice agriculture on an extensive scale!

Dear Tommy:

This is a long over due letter, isn't it? Well, Tommy, it is just like this: I always write to a very wonderful girl I know back home (my wife), then I just put off writing to you, but some day I missed you something interesting I'll write and tell you all about it.

Tommy, I received 10 Plymouth papers, Xmas cards and presents from home. It is sure swell to sit down and relax with a good P. A. and I don't mean Prince Albert. Well, I am still on top and going strong. If I could just get one foot on U. S. soil I could walk the rest of the way just for a look at good old Plymouth. I don't mind telling you I miss my home and Plymouth very much. I will go through hell and high water to get back.

By the means of the pen I want to thank the people of Plymouth, The Fate-Roof-Heath Co. and employees of F-R-H for a grand Xmas.

Tommy, I am late in wishing a Merry Xmas but never too late to extend my wishes for a Happy New Year to all.

As ever, Bill Ross

P. S.—Best wishes and regards to all my buddies. Hello fellows, I am on the look out for you. Some day I will meet up with some of you.

For each billion the government spends the average citizen will amount to approximately $3.125 per family. And if, at the end of the war, the public debt reaches 300 billion, as it may, the average family debt will be over $10,000.

Even from the viewpoint of our own money, however, it costs dollars or so, spent by the government, is still "small potatoes." The average cost for each billion dollars of million dollar government expenditure is only about three cents. So if we can have a post office stamp for a million dollars in Washington, or a big park built by the WPA, for the price of a postage stamp per family, we've got a penny. "What the heck," and let us have the million dollars.

I have been talking in averages so far, but actually it is the people who have a decent income who pay the greater proportion of our tax bill. Some families won't pay any taxes. Others of average income will have to pay more than $31 per billion to make up the rest of the tax bill. And, people with large incomes will be called upon to pay many times that $10,000 average necessary to get the country out of debt.

DEBT erasing Some people argue that the public debt is merely a bookkeeping notation and infer that, by some arithmetical juggling, it may be possible to wipe it out.

Expense accounts can do remarkable things with figures, but I doubt if even Einstein could devise a formula for paying the hundreds of billions of debt from the government's books.

Other wise thinkers, who hope to get out of spending, the rest of their lives paying government debts, suggest that the government might carry the debt on its books forever instead of trying to collect it. But if there is a 300 billion dollar debt, this means that about eight billion dollars in interest would have to be paid on it each year. At that rate, in 40 years we would have paid 300 billions in interest and would still have the 300 billion debt on the books.

Whatever plan is worked out, we are going to pay the war taxes for many years to come to pay the cost of this war and to pay off the massive war debt. The good idea if we all decided to go in for stamp saving in a big way.

Meetings Will Be Continued

A good attendance at the Methodist church, Sunday evening, attested the interest and community cooperative spirit.

The wish of the people was for a continuance of these meetings. Rev. Haines, president of the committee to make arrangements, announced a meeting for next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in the Lutheran church. There will be a symposium, and the subject "Prayer," will be presented by two women and two men. The two pastors will open the discussion with five minute talks. After the presentation of the subject by the appointed speakers, the question will be open for any one in the audience to participate. One of the speakers for the occasion is Miss Anna Benton, who will compare public and private prayer, answer the question, "Which is the most important," and give some of the hindrances to both.

The music is in charge of Miss Edith West, and Miss Dawson is the chairman for next Sunday evening.

The special music for last Sunday was a very effective vocal solo by Mrs. W. J. West. Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Henderson have given their time gratuitously for the benefit of the community. Much good has been accomplished through these meetings and expressions of appreciation are heard from everywhere for these worthy citizens.

Quoting Rev. Henderson: "I have found in the people here a community conscience. It is a feeling of unity and understanding and 'united.' Rev. Henderson has a sense of humor that is pleasing, but he never loses the Christian dignity and stands up for the right with a firmness of tongue. Both Rev. and Mrs. Henderson create an atmosphere of happiness that permeates their audience and makes a rich spiritual evening.

Everyone, member of a church or not, is invited next Sunday evening.

Shiloh School News

SEVENTH GRADE NEWS

We are very glad to say that last Monday morning a new girl, Patty Roe, was added to our ranks. Patty has made a total of 24 in our class now. We are very glad to have you Patty.

In English Class we divided up on two sides. The captains, Naomi Reed and Patty Roe chose their teams. Every time we hear someone on the other side saying bad English or slang we correct them and give their names to our captains. The side that says bad English or bad English will treat the other side.

FRESHMAN NEWS

Our English club officers for the following year are: President, Paul Heifner and Secretary, Virginia Kirkendall. We decided to bring in dues of 5c each for our class treasurer. The rest of the week was spent in a quiz program.

NEW STUDENTS

We were happy to welcome to our school two new students on Monday morning. They are Bob Miller in the 9th grade and Avis Miller in the Junior class. We're very glad to have you with us, Avis and Bob.

DRUMMER BOYS NEWS

This Friday night, January 29, Ontario will journey to Shiloh for a league game. All you loyal fans will want to be on hand.

As added attractions the lady teachers of Shiloh will have a high school girls at 7:15 and the Alumni team will play the Mansfield Athletic Supply after the varsity game.

Come out and boost your favorite teams!

SENIOR CLASS NEWS

The members of the class were entertained Friday evening at the home of Junior James. We had a nice time and it was enjoyed by all who attended. We wish to thank Junior and Mrs. James for their hospitality.

Thursday afternoon the class went to Shelby to have our graduation pictures taken. We hope Mr. DeVito's camera stood the strain.

As you probably know the class is selling magazines for the Curtis Publishing Co. This company features The Saturday Evening Post, Ladies Home Journal, Jack & Jill and Country Gentlemen. They also have a supplementary list containing other favorite magazines. See any member of the class who will gladly take your subscription. So far, Dean Arnold is our star salesman. So come on the rest of you and see if you can get ahead of him.

CHAPEL NEWS

One of the most interesting Chapel programs of the year was held on Monday, Jan. 25. It was made up of pupils who had interesting hobbies. They brought a sample of their hobby and gave a short talk on them.

Charlotte Seaton brought her airplane pictures which she had mounted attractively on cardboard. She showed her favorite pictures which were German Messerschmidt and Jap Zero.

A very variety of other new U. S. planes now in use in all parts of the world.

Jr. McQuate had an interesting collection of match covers on display. He told us that he started collecting them when he was out west. He has nearly 100 covers and all of them are different. One of the most interesting was a book containing matches which had stamped on them pictures of skeletons. He trades covers with friends that he made while he was in the west and thus has quite a variety of them.

Very delightful smelling collection was the perfume bottle collection of Betty Hammett. She has nearly 250 bottles of all shapes and sizes. She started her hobby sponsored by the Parent Teacher's Association. It will be held at the auditorium on Monday evening, Feb. 1. Please plan to come. Better still, please to take part in it.

It seems that a certain Seventh grade girl is very much smitten by the handsome features of a certain Junior boy. She has been staring at him for days. Why don't you give the poor girl a break, Bob?

I know all of you are planning on going to the local Talent Show sponsored by the Parent Teacher's Association. It will be held at the auditorium on Monday evening, Feb. 1. Please plan to come. Better still, please to take part in it.

I imagine all of you have heard of the new character around school, Bill Snuffbuckett. He's some relation to Yehudi. And Boy, does he get around!

our program. He has two books of coins, one containing old pennies and the other one contains Indian heads. He displayed coins and paper money, which dated back before the Civil War. He also had some bank notes which were used by the States before a National standard for money was set up. He has over 200 coins and other forms of money in his collection.

Joan Guthrie's napkin collection was very interesting. She showed napkins representing the months of the year. For example: January (the month of her birthday) a happy birthday napkin; for February, a valentine napkin; for March a St. Patrick's napkin, etc. She showed us the napkin from Dalton, which she got which she used to start her collection. It was larger than the rest and she had colored it herself.

Did any of you see the collection of dogs that was in Damer's Grocery store window two years ago? They belonged to Betty Stearns. Since then she has added many more to her collection. At the present time she has over 230 of them, large and small, china and wood. She has dogs from everywhere she has been in the last five years. Her friends have sent them to her from other states. Some of them were made by Pam Dalton, who is an expert at blowing glass.

Mabel Malone has an odd hobby—that of collecting bell buckles. She has hundreds of them, three of which were made in China as well as those she got directly from Germany. She has the buckle which was on her mother's wedding dress. She gave an interesting account of some of the others in her collection.

Marcella Clark brought a sample of her hobby to show the school. It consisted of salt and pepper shakers. The largest of those which she has are peacocks, about 4 inches long. They are made of dainty china. The smallest were about one inch high. She had a set of Quakers which were also interesting. She had a set from every town to which she goes.

Blanche Smith told us all about her scrap book on the war. She showed us the more interesting pictures contained in it. She started this hobby last January, soon after the outbreak of the war. In it she has articles on the different branches in the army as well as pictures of the local men who have gone into these branches. The book showed the effects of considerable work.

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C. (AP)—Even the smartest political interpreters are still puzzled over why President Roosevelt, facing the first anti-British Deal congress since 1932, set off political fireworks at the very opening of the new session by naming Edward Flynn to be "ambassador" to Australia.

To anyone in Washington who knows the political relationship between Mr. Flynn and the President, it was clear that the President was paying off a political debt—but no one here believes that Mr. Roosevelt was addicted to the New York politician that it was worth the sacrifice of reputation he made to give "Eddie" a break.

So far as the war program is concerned, however, even those who most strongly oppose the domestic policies of the President are expected to continue to give him the support he needs. It is very difficult for some congressmen to consider approving a federal budget of over 100 billion dollars, but it is known that the people favor expenditures of money, no matter how fantastic the amount may seem, if it seems necessary to guarantee winning the war.

Latest figures indicate that during 1943 Germany will spend slightly over $4 billion for war, Italy less than nine billion and Japan about seven billion—a total of about half of our expenditures. Among our Allies, England is expected to spend of 21 billion, and Russia 15 billion.

To produce more war supplies than all of the rest of the world, our people must make greater sacrifices than are now apparent.

Camp Carson, Colo., Damaged By Wind

Mrs. Earnest Davis has received a newspaper clipping from her son, Omar, stationed at Camp Carson, Colorado, giving details of the damage by wind and fire at that camp which totaled to more than a million dollars.

So widespread and various was the damage to private property that it was impossible to arrive at an estimate of the loss. Lights were out, roofs blown off and windows blown out at the camp.

RECEIVES OFFICIAL COPY OF REGIMENTAL PAPER

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hunter have just received a copy of "The Sea-Breeze," the official paper published for the 531 Engineer Shore Regiment. The edition is Volume 1, No. 1 and dated January.

The paper, a mimeographed four-page letter-size sheet, carries news of the company's activities. Bob Hunter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter, is a member of the band, and has participated in various parades staged by the engineers.

Paragraphs taken from the paper indicate that the boys are doing very well. "We had a swell Christmas dinner. We had turkey and creamed peas and dressing and fruit, and all the trimmings. Some of us had a bit of wine, too. We had more than that. A Christmas tree, carols, song-fests around campfires, and we gave a party for the kids in our neighborhood and went to church, also."

"So, in case you think we are having it tough, as Lord Haw Haw tells us: "We wish you'd stop worrying about us." The paper is very interesting inasmuch as it is edited solely for members of the 531st Engineers. A message from the chaplain; poetry and personal items about the boys, as well as short stories and biographies, make the sheet most interesting. A cartoon drawn by a member, is also featured.

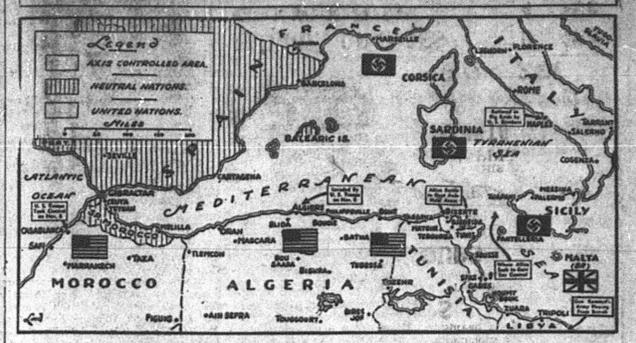

It is rather gratifying to know that the boys are getting along swell, and the news which the paper brings to Mr. and Mrs. Hunter is greatly appreciated inasmuch as it makes one feel that Bob isn't over there all alone.

Supplies Arrive at Malta

In spite of all that the Axis can do, the British manage to keep their base at Malta supplied with food, ammunition, and other necessities. Five large destroyers are shown carrying the supplies taken from a convoy by a barge.

Picture of Current Action in North Africa

As the battle of North Africa enters the final, all-out phase here is a map showing the positions of the Allied and Axis forces. What the picture will be when the fighting in the area has finished is important because the next activity will be centered on what has been termed the "soft underbelly of the Axis," meaning the Italian mainland, the French Mediterranean coast and the Balkans.

SCOUTS TO COLLECT PAPER

More than three tons of scrap paper and magazines were gathered last Saturday by the Boy Scout organization. Without any previous announcement this was an exceptionally good showing and the Scouts were unable to complete the canvass of the town.

BREAK IN GAS LINE CAUSE OF WORRY IN WILLARD

Residents of Willard were very much alarmed last Thursday morning when they found gas fumes coming up from their basements. A hurried call to the Gas Company soon disclosed that it was not escaping gas, but gasoline escaping from a broken 12 inch gasoline pipeline south of Willard and drained into the reservoir.

State highway patrol stood guard at the Baltimore & Ohio's railroad reservoir to prevent fire. A new pumping station which had been completed recently south of Willard near Route 224 and Celeryville road intersection had been tested two days before and the increased pressure may have caused the break, it is believed.

As soon as the leak was discovered the pumping station was shut down and the flow of gasoline stopped, but not until it had escaped in quantities that made it dangerous if ignited. Officials at once notified state police and they followed the course of the gasoline to the reservoir and established guards there so that no one would accidentally fire the gas and cause an explosion.
