

Christmas Seal Sale Starts Nov. 22

Tuberculosis is far from being under control in the United States. Since 1904 the disease moved from first cause of death to seventh, and the death rate has been cut 75 per cent. In spite of this, tuberculosis killed 60,000 people in this country last year and it is still the greatest disease killer of persons between 15 and 45. To these tragic figures is added the fact that this country is now threatened by a wartime rise in tuberculosis.

War, with its overwork, strain, anxiety, and overcrowded living and working conditions, creates conditions which foster breakdowns with tuberculosis and its spread from the sick to the well. The whole country faces the need of intensified tuberculosis control programs.

One of the most important weapons in the fight against tuberculosis is the X-ray. A chest X-ray is a part of the medical examination of all men before induction into military service. This step protects our armed forces from tuberculosis, which in World War I cost our government approximately a billion dollars in compensation, vocational training, insurance, and hospitalization for disabled veterans.

The 1943 Christmas Seal will be on sale November 22 as the national sale of raising funds to support the work of the 88 county-wide tuberculosis and health associations in Ohio affiliated with the Ohio Public Health Association. The Seal Sale is held in conjunction with the nationwide sale and will continue until Christmas.

This year, for the first time, the Seal of the American tuberculosis association is being used by the national tuberculosis organizations of England, Canada, Mexico and Brazil to raise funds for their respective campaigns against the disease. The use of the identical Christmas Seal by five of the United Nations is particularly significant in the face of the wartime rise in tuberculosis that is occurring in many parts of the world.

Mrs. M. Reed Is Stricken

LIFE-LONG RESIDENT DIES AT DAUGHTERS HOME IN TOLEDO

Plymouth's rapidly diminishing rank of the "Eighties" has another vacancy this week. Mrs. Maude Reed, who has been spending the winter months with her daughter, Mrs. Perry Hoyt of Toledo, suffered a stroke Monday morning and passed away Tuesday morning. She had not complained of feeling ill, although she had been convalescing from a previous stroke which she suffered last July.

The body was returned to Plymouth and is now at the Miller-McQuate home of North Street, where services will be held Friday afternoon at two o'clock Rev. H. L. Bethel, pastor of the Presbyterian church, will officiate and burial will be made in the family lot at Gracery.

Mrs. Reed was the daughter of George and Susanna Hoffman and was born in Plymouth, July 18, 1861. With the exception of but a short period, her entire life was spent here. Her husband, William Reed, preceded her in death ten years ago last May. They observed their golden wedding anniversary on December 14, 1932. She was a staunch member of the Presbyterian church and supported and took an active part in its various branches. Sunday was not complete unless she was able to attend the services. She was a charter member of Plymouth Chapter, O. E. S., and regularly attended the meetings until recent years.

Survivors include the daughter, Mrs. Hoyt, two sons, James Donald Reed of Toledo, and Floyd Hoffman Reed of Detroit; three grandchildren and five great grandchildren. Mrs. Nora Wyster, formerly of Mills Avenue, is a sister-in-law.

Found Not Guilty

Junior Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Reed was found not guilty last Wednesday morning in Mansfield Juvenile Court of participating in the theft, destruction and sale of a large copper kettle from the field of Mrs. Bertha Sealhous. Wayne McDougall, subpoenaed as a witness, gave sufficient evidence that Junior was not implicated in the affair. The trial was heard in Judge Cramer's court.

The trial was the outgrowth of a charge preferred by Wm. Johns when he found the kettle taken from the field used by him for his cows. Earl West, who pleaded guilty to the offense, was put on probation for a year by Judge Van Horn of the Norwalk Juvenile Court.

The Spirit of Armistice Day

Shelby Pastor To Speak Here Sunday Evening

The Union Sunday evening service held in the Presbyterian church last Sunday evening was well attended, there being near 150 present.

Three laymen spoke on World Peace. Mr. Phillip Moore declared that our schools must do more than teach arithmetic and history, but should train for life in a democracy and to appreciate freedom. Both James Root and Harold Sams stressed the Church's opportunity to undergird the effort to secure lasting peace with a vital religion. Each speaker gave the congregation much to think about.

The girls' chorus, consisting of girls from the 7th and 8th grades of our school, sang as a special feature. Beautiful Lord Jesus, Mary Alice Weller was accompanist and Joy Bethel, director. Richard Hampton led the hymn-sing in such a way as to prepare the congregation for the thoughts of the evening.

Next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock, the guest speaker will be Rev. Darwin Haynes of Shelby. Arno Dawson will conduct the singing, and special music will be furnished by the Junior Choir of the Methodist church and the Ladies' Quartette of the Presbyterian church.

You will help yourself and others by being present at this union service.

This is a very timely item as it deals with the problem of juvenile delinquency.

Your purchase of a ticket from Wayne Ross, Eldon Sourwine, Richard Wharton, Warren Wirth, Russell Baker or Jack Hampton will be greatly appreciated. We are trying to buy Air Scout Uniforms so that the Squadron can be properly sworn in.

TOWN and FARM IN WARTIME

WFA Releases Canned Goods Approximately 2,790,000 cases of canned peaches, peas, and tomato catsup were released to consumers recently by the War Food Administration. The canned goods probably will not reach retail shelves for several weeks. These foods were a portion of the reserves owned and held by canners to meet possible emergency requirements of the government.

Reduce Octane in Gas Premium gasoline used by civilians will be reduced from 78 and 80-octane to 76-octane to conserve tetraethyl lead and volatile gasine fractions, both of which are required in the manufacture of high-octane military gasoline. More than 50 million gallons of gasoline, fuel oils, lubricants, and other petroleum products are going directly to the fighting forces every day, the Petroleum Administration for War disclosed. One-third of all gasoline produced in the U. S. is now required for military purposes.

Plenty of Turkeys The civilian turkey supply, just starting to come on the market, will be almost as large as last year, according to the Department of Agriculture. However, this year's demand will probably be much larger and shoppers will be wise to put in orders early. Men and women on duty in the American armed forces, at home and abroad, will be served a pound of turkey at dinner Thanksgiving Day and will have all the traditional "fixins'.

V-Mail Christmas Presents

Relatives and friends still have time to send Christmas gifts via V-mail notices of war bond gifts for Christmas. The Army Postal Service has assured delivery by December 25 of all V-Mail notices sent before December 1. War bonds as Christmas gifts will help to hold down inflationary buying of scarce merchandise, and will be a financial cushion for the service man or woman upon return to civilian life. The Treasury Department added.

Raise Hamburger Point Value

The ration point value of hamburger has been increased from seven to eight points per pound. OPA has also broadened its definition of hamburger to include additional meatier cuts of the lower grades of beef.

Increase Civilian Food Supply

More peas, beans, rice and shell-dish chases are going to be available for consumption. Supplies have been increased by the removal of reduction of government ration points.

DO YOU remember when the Armistice was signed, how the terms were so drawn that they would make Germany an outcast forever, as far as trade and recognition were concerned? It was just a short ten years after World War One that she put out feelers for trade and found them very receptive, and within a short time Germany was again accepted into the fold of commerce.

TODAY is Armistice Day in Plymouth and to our boys who saw Service abroad and at home, we salute you. There is every reason to believe that your thoughts today will carry you back through some of your experiences — and the same time stand at attention to those boys who are in service today, again fighting to make democracy safe! But are we certain? Ralph Bellamy of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, states that the censorship of the newspapers in this country is something to be alarmed over. And, from what we know, Mr. Bellamy isn't talking through his hat!

THE BANK is closed today, but our post office, local factory and stores will carry on as usual. They will observe an Armistice Day Program at the high school this morning, but other than that no special plans have been made for the day.

TED ROBERTS, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Roberts, is home for a 10-day leave. Ted is one of a quartet of boys from Plymouth who left the old home town on Dec. 26, 1941, and this is his first visit back. Ted is cook on the U. S. S. Craven and states it was difficult to find his "hand legs" when he stepped out of the water for months at a time. He spent in seven major battles, his boat was undamaged excepting for machine gun scars. Other boys who left at the same time were Bill DeWitt, Bill Fetters and Charles West.

IT'S NEEDLESS to say that we were mighty pleased to see our friend, Sgt. Gene Cornell, who arrived home last week for a visit with his parents and relatives. He is the same old Gene—taking army life in his stride and really enjoying it. Gene has had many experiences and has travelled in many states, but "it's really good to be home," he says.

ANOTHER Plymouth boy, A. C. Henry, from "way out west" is home on leave, dividing his time with his wife and son in Shiloh, and his mother, Mrs. Edith Henry and family of Plymouth.

AFTER TWO months' maneuvers "Kenny" Myers was certainly tickled to receive a 16-day furlough. He arrived Tuesday and looks very good for what he had been through. Kenny is located at "Tent City" near Camp Forrest, Tenn., and is a cook. From what he thinks of the maneuvers—well, they're almost actual warfare.

WOMEN of Plymouth and vicinity should avail themselves of the opportunity to look over the Fall and Winter line of Suits that will be on display at RULE'S on Monday.

SMALLER NEWSPAPERS

The old expression, "not worth the paper it is written on" employed to denote something of no value whatsoever, is hardly applicable anymore in the face of the fast-growing paper shortage in this country.

Although the shortage has affected the supply of all kinds of paper, the greatest problem at present seems to be with newsprint, 75 per cent of which has been supplied to this country by Canada.

Each year the newspapers of the United States use about a million tons of newsprint. This year, because of the shortage, the dailies have been put on rations and are forced to get along with 10 per cent less paper than they used last year.

Weekly newspapers have not been curbed in their use of newsprint, since they used such a small percentage of the nation's supply. It is estimated that the total amount consumed by the 10,000 weeklies of the country is only 18,000 tons. But the weeklies have been asked to use no more newsprint than they find absolutely necessary and most weeklies have cut their usage of paper considerably.

Therefore, in some stories are kept out of this newspaper which some readers think should appear, and if others are shorter than some readers think they should be, the reason will often be that the publisher did not feel justified in adding additional pages in the face of the present situation.

ARMISTICE DAYS

Although none of us will celebrate Armistice day this year with the joy that it was celebrated in 1918, there are many reasons why the memorable occasion of the ending of the last war should continue to be a holiday in this country.

Most outstanding of these reasons is that it was on Armistice day, 25 years ago, that the Germans admitted, for the first time, that they didn't have the physical or material strength to carry out their plans to dominate the rest of the world.

It is a tragic thing that, after having thoroughly learned that lesson only 25 years ago, a new generation of Germans should now be attempting to accomplish the very thing which their fathers proved was impossible. It is also a tragic thing that the rest of the world permitted Germany, in that short period, to build its military strength to the point where they could even hope for victory.

Now it is simply a question of teaching the same lesson over again and it is clear that the education of the new generation of Germans is about completed.

As we celebrate Armistice day in this country this year and in the years to come, it should serve to remind all of us that we must never allow Germany to prepare for war again. We want two Armistice days to celebrate armistice that the second one will not be far off—that will be enough Armistice days. We want the next Armistice day not only to be celebrated as the end of this war but as the day on which permanent peace began.

Jungle Fighters Return to Civilization

By Technical Sergeant Murrey Marder, USMC

Aboard an Evacuation Ship off the New Georgia Coast. (Delayed)—It's this morning and the boys are sitting along through Kula Gulf with eyes peeled aloft at the clouds for unwanted Zeros.

Behind us are Bairoka and Enogal and the lean-to we live there. There is greenery and a lot of ferns and bushes and looks inviting reflected in the coral-clear water, but behind the bushes are the boys' swamps and slippery jungle trails.

We came aboard in the blackness last night and it is clear that we got quickly through the dark we forgot about bombings and looked for a place to sleep.

Bunks—real honest-to-God bunks —with mattresses! And sinks and showers.

Somebody's kidding us. When we wake up in the morning we're going to be back in the mud and we'll shoulder our packs again and somebody will fall in the mud again and we'll pull him out by the hands, and it's getting light again. The boys better get up, Charley'll probably be over to drop a couple of eggs for breakfast.

But there are eggs—and these don't explode and scream through the air—they're something chickens lay.

Imagine, eggs! When's the last time we had eggs? Fried sausage? I don't believe it. You mean real fried sausage? The marine and soldier can't get their shuffles around. They've got full plates in their hands but they don't believe it either.

See that kid there? He's got yellow jaundice. Came through the swamps with us. Does he look like a guy who knocked out a machine gun with a grenade, does he? Does any of them look very tough, do they? But they took Maramusa and Tiro and Enogal and the Japs think they're pretty good. The Japs said their troops wiped out the raiders at Bairoka, but these marines aren't very tough.

What are we doing pulling out of there? Well, some of these kids have been in the bush for weeks

They've been through hell but they got their share of Nips. Some of them are green and a lot of them can hardly stand but they'll be o. k. in a couple of weeks and go back again for more.

"Topside some of the marines are lounging around, looking at the water. Maybe they can see some of their buddies' faces there.

A sailor walks over and leans on the railing and he says to some of the boys: "An apple!"—one marine whippers hoarsely, unbelieving. "What are you chavin an apple?"

"Say, buddy . . . uh, any more of those?"

"No, they're whole locker full. You guys help yourselves."

"There's a mad dash for the fruit locker with much shouting and grabbing.

In the afternoon a sailor spots something in the sky and everyone lines up on the portside to look.

Black specks in the north towards Bougainville. They're closer now. Six flights of zeroes. Zeros? Corsairs?

"You going below?" asks someone.

"What for? These canvas-covered decks on this little tub won't stop popcorn. May as well stand here and watch."

"What for? They're right over us . . . they're diving now!"

The specks grow in size. They're dropping down directly over the ship. "Well, I'll be . . . seaulls!"

"It's just mucking along all around here yesterday and today they're dropping down on seaulls. Nobody laughs very loudly.

Nerves are tense. It takes a little while to forget. Tomorrow, though, we'll be in safer waters. Our planes will be overhead and they'll be dropping whippers around.

Then a safe haven where the casualties get off of steel instruments, sterilized. To. And lots of good chocolate and cold drinks and maybe movie.

Boy! Wonder if they'll even have nurses and daughter were visitors.

An Burma presented a Senior Scout neckerchief. The Pine Tree Patrol were the winners of two games of Steel the Bacon.

Troop One now has 35 Scouts registered. Jim Kruger, Leonard Kellner, and Richard Roe have been dropped from the rolls of the troop. Keller and Fenner were second class Scouts.

Board of Review will be held in the Troop Rooms Monday evening 8:30. Regular troop meeting will be held as usual at 7:15.

Troop One will be the guests of the Troop Sponsors next Thursday evening in the Methodist Church at 7:00 P. M.

The Methodist Laymen have promised a good time for everyone. Eats and a good show will make up the greater portion of the evening.

Immediately following the entertainment, Troop One will hold a Court of Honor. Parents and friends are cordially invited to attend the court.

Air Scout Squadron Formed Registration papers for the first Air Scout Squadron in the Johnny Appleseed Area Council were forwarded by local Scout officials to the area office in Mansfield, last Thursday.

Permission has been obtained from Mr. W. B. Parsel to name the Squadron in honor of his son, the late Capt. Elmer "Benny" Parsel.

Parzel Squadron personnel is made up of Mr. Harry Kemp, Squadron Leader; Warren Wirth, Squadron Pilot; Wayne Ross and Elden Sourwine, Flight Pilots; Russell Baker and Richard Wharton, Assistant Flight Pilots. All Air Scouts have passed the apprentice rank.

Parzel Squadron will be registered as a separate troop, using the same troop sponsor and committee that serve Troop One. A word of praise is due the Methodist church laymen in the support of two troops in a town the size of Plymouth. The interest of the boys must lay deep in their hearts.

Major activities of the Squadron thus far has been to attempt to raise sufficient funds to purchase Air Scout uniforms. These were the stand at the Halloween festival and the Spaghetti supper last evening.

Mr. Elton Robertson has been added to the Troop Committee to take over the additional burden imposed on this group by the formation of the second troop in the village. He has served as a Base councillor for the past year and a half.

For the present time the Air Scouts will meet in the Troop rooms. Meetings are held bi-monthly. Any youngster 15 or over is cordially invited to attend these meetings which start at 8:00 o'clock. Dates of the sessions are posted on the troop bulletin board.

Official presentation of the unit to the public will be made at a later date.

WAR FUND DRIVE STARTS HERE SOON

Many people in the last several weeks have asked: "When is Plymouth going to have its War Fund Drive?" At one time brings us back to the same old story of the village that lays in two counties.

Supplies were sent to the village chairman, Don Eisel, Jr., for the entire village. The supplies sent were sufficient for only ONE solicitor. These were promptly given to one of our local citizens to cover her territory with the matter was then sent to the county chairman for enough supplies for ten workers. Whether supplies were low or not we do not know but they returned enough supplies for only TWO solicitors. Another letter was immediately sent requesting enough for seven and we received THREE sets.

This may explain the delay in the War Fund drive in Plymouth. Our goal has been set a little below $200.

Solicitors at the present time working on the War Fund drive include Messrs. C. McFadden, Floyd Sheely, Dave Scafield, Chas. Lookabaugh, Willard Ross and Karl McGinty.

As soon as sufficient material is received two workers will be appointed on the Huron county side.

Funds turned in at the present time total $35. Let's put Plymouth over the top, by giving as much as we can.

For more information will be made at the Fate-Roost-Heath Co.

Open New V-Mail Station in Chicago

A new V-mail processing station, serving approximately twenty Midwestern states will open Nov. 15th in Chicago.

Maj. Kenneth H. Connelly, 6th Service Command postal officer, said the new station is expected eventually to handle 47 per cent of all V-mail entering and leaving the country. A staff of 427 persons will do the work.

The new office will result in saving some thirty hours of time required for the average V-letter to reach its destination.

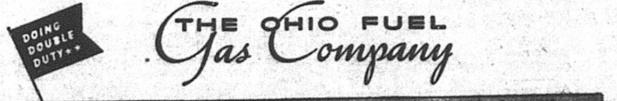

The new station will not mean a change in the method of addressing V-letters, he explained. The only difference will be that local post offices will route the letters to Chicago instead of to the local post office.

Production Experiences Modern Miracle; Less Farmers, More Crops

Record Output Is Stocking Larder of U. S. and Allies

Thanks to the development of agriculture, the American farmer is performing a miracle of production. With the same number of acres, fewer farmers are producing 42 per cent more food than for the corresponding year of World War I, and they are satisfying the needs of a better fed army, a greater population and the requirements of our Allies.

Reports just released by the U. S. Department of Agriculture show that food production since 1939 has had a constant upward progression to its present record level, while from 1914-18 it was sporadic and only in the latter year did it assume notable proportions. The World War I peak was reached in 1918 when it was 9 per cent above what had been in 1915.

Total food production in 1943 is up 20 per cent over 1940, with the expectation that 1944 will see it pushed up still farther. Per capita food production is 20 per cent greater this year than four years ago, while in 1918 it had increased only 6 per cent.

Higher yields per acre have been largely responsible for increases in production of important war foods. According to the department of agriculture figures, wheat, rice, potatoes, dry beans, barley, all hay combined and corn and sorghum crops with sizable increases in acreage yield. In 1942, for example, 267 million more bushels of corn were produced from 21.4 million fewer acres than during 1917 (corresponding World War I year). Crop reports show 1943 with a probable harvest of 644 million more bushels from 7.9 million fewer acres than in 1918.

Cows Give More Milk. In the realm of livestock, poultry and eggs even more startling figures have been reported. Production of eggs has increased more than 1,000,000, or 28 per cent, with an increase of total milk production in 1942 of 45,000,000 pounds over the 1918 figure. Egg production per hen is on the same high level. In 1918 one hen laid an average of 85 eggs a year. Today one hen means 112 eggs, an increase of 28 eggs per bird over the 1918 average, or 20 per cent. Total egg production is about twice as much this year as it was in 1918, or five times as much.

While, on the whole, the number of animals on farms on a per capita basis is smaller than in World War I, the output of animal products on a per capita basis is much higher, due to heavier weights and greater production per animal.

1939 was 8.6 million acres. By 1941 had been increased to 11 million. With the impetus of agricultural goals and the support-price program, the harvested acreage rose to 18.6 million acres in 1942 and will total about 22 million acres in 1943.

Emphasis on feed crops for livestock in World War II has been due to the smaller acreage in production at the outbreak of the war, plus heavily increased demand. The combined production of feed grains has been substantially larger in the present war, average production in 1915-18 being about 89 million tons compared with an average of 109 million tons in 1940-43, a difference of 22 per cent.

Poultry production responds more rapidly to changes in demand than any other livestock commodity, according to government reports. Between 1939 and 1943 the number of chickens on farms increased 80 per cent and chicken meat was upped 60 per cent.

More Production Problems. World War II has had more difficult production problems to meet than farmers faced in World War I. The level of mechanization of agriculture has curtailed the manufacture of farm machinery, while at the same time requirements for that machinery are more greater. The labor shortage, resulting from the absorption of farm workers by the armed forces and industry, has made the planting and harvesting of crops and the maintenance of a large farm labor force extremely difficult in some areas.

Farm labor shortages also exist in the First World War, reports show, but were alleviated somewhat by increased mechanization of farming. Besides a smaller armed force, it is pointed out that during the 1920-30 period, and they're eating to a large degree by the Allies, so that the manufacture of farm machinery was unnecessary in view of the tremendous food production job done by the farmer during the present war period, culminating in the all-time production record of 1942. Even so, civilians are still allocated as much food as they consumed during the 1920-30 period, and they're eating more per capita than at any time in the 20's or 30's. Nutrition experts say the per capita food supply is richer in all of the essential nutrients than in 1935-39, and that with the exception of vitamin A and ascorbic acid, the vitamin and mineral content of the foods consumed during the war period will be at least as high as in 1941 and 1942 despite the fact that total food consumption will be less.

Changes in food habits may seem unnecessary in view of the tremendous food production job done by the farmer during the present war period, culminating in the all-time production record of 1942. Three weeks in Washington, D. C. (CNWS)—The walkout of coal miners on the day preceding government officials agreed to have hurt the Democrats at the polls, for it is felt throughout the nation that the administration should never have permitted a second coal mine strike to be considered.

Aware of the fact that there is a great shortage of coal, many people, including government officials, do not understand why the government was so hasty about returning the mines to the operators without first having reached an agreement with mine leaders which would have prevented another strike. And after returning the mines to the owners, when a strike was seen approaching, they don't understand the government's stalling to the formal and laborious proceedings of having the War Labor board consider the matter, which is an unacceptable offer to the miners on the eve of the strike and wait until the strike was in full swing before referring it to the President for action.

Each election now in the background, some members of congress will try to put through drastic legislation to control unions, but because the election of real importance to most congressmen comes next year, it is not expected that any worthwhile cut on labor activities will be enacted.

It is being made increasingly clear, however, that higher wages paid to war workers means higher taxes must be paid by the rest of the people, and the committee is making a real effort to reduce rather than increase government expenditures. In considering a new tax bill, congress will probably not agree to the $10,000,000,000 goal set by the administration, but the other half will be provided by a reduction of government expenditures.

Praising the efforts of the house and senate committee to cut government expenses, Senator George, head of the senate finance committee, said he believed that government expenses could be cut by as much as 10 billion dollars. His personal estimate was $1.5 billion. Senator George said that the finance committee will strongly support the house committee's action. The house committee is continuing to have difficulty on agreeing to a tax proposal on general sales tax, which had been suggested by many groups of consumers, was defeated by the committee by a vote of 16 to 8. Chairman Doughton said that this ended the issue of a sales tax as far as the committee is concerned, but it will be remembered that he said the same thing last year about pay-as-you-go which was finally revised and made law as a result of the pressure of public opinion.

The house committee fails to work out a tax plan which meets the approval of the people, which is the matter, the new tax law will finally be written by the senate committee after the house has approved an inadequate bill. In spite of what Mr. Doughton says, there are many here who believe that the tax that measures will include a sales tax on all consumer purchases with the possible exception of food.

Meanwhile, the President has approved the one tax measure which has come out of the committee. Instructions on Sunday from 9:15 to 10:15 a. m. for the grade and high school children.

I have been moved around quite a bit here and am in the best of health. I was moved to Camp Davis, and now to Ft. Fisher, N. C. just forty-five miles from Davis. We men like it very well compared to the desert. I have had the sun and yes, but also shade. Hal "Used to" a little shade do.

I saw Bill Fetters letter and what he said about Still, was the way I did graduate from good old P. H. S. but I still cannot let a home town down. I just hope Shiloh puts in all it can and may be the better team wins. I were would like to be over there in putting them thru the loop for old P. H. S. but time will not stand still. I guess the two teams will be rivals but not like it was when we were there, who knows. Well this is a short letter but

CHAPTER I

Sarah Daffodi liked the couple as soon as she saw them, though she had never considered renting an apartment to young people before. Her other tenants were middle-aged or older and dreaded noise. There was something oddly settled about this young pair, a certain quiet serenity, a shining composure that caught at the sympathy of her heart and touched their youthful charm.

"I read your advertisement," the girl said and her voice was lovely, clear as Sarah's cherished crystal ball, but with a golden warmth behind the twinkling blue eyes.

The young fellow felt his responsibility, his dark, steadfast gaze looked a steady purpose. "It's a three-room, to sublet? We want three rooms by March first. In a voluntary way, we exchanged a sparkling glance with the girl.

"From her desk chair Sarah could see to replace and the few pieces of her mother's furniture which transformed the other half into a comfortable practical living room. Built-in bookcases replaced the office cabinets, the clawfoot sofa and the breakfast table were replaced by break-front with its treasure load of old china and glass. Chintz draped the windows and two large oval braided rugs laid on the floor tied the divergent sections into a smoothly harmonized whole.

Tenants sometimes said that Sarah Daffodi possessed two personalities. One was the woman who loved. Undoubtedly she puzzled this boy and girl who had come in to replace the old tenants. "The rooms are on the top floor," Sarah explained pleasantly.

"The girl held her tiny knitted pillow in her lap and her gleaming hair, which she had cut straight, was swirled in a beautiful, long thick bob to her shoulders. She wore it in the service. Her eyes, like rolls, like wings, framed her small face.

"Her eyebrows and her eyes matched her hair perfectly, Sarah Daffodi thought appreciatively. "Yes, she cut the grass herself, she said in answer to the question mirrored in the two pair of dark eyes that peered through the window blinds, since Mr. Daffodi's death ten years ago.

"She said there isn't anything you can't do." Enormous respect made the girl's lovely face grave. "Yes, she cut the grass, washed the memorandum pad, 'Stuff and nonsense' list. If you really wish to take the apartment—"

"You're heated," she told her, Andrew Thane and Claude Moore. They planned to be married early in the following week and would like to move in that week-end.

Sarah's pencil wrote the word "lease," beamed. "You're taking over the Merding lease, you know—runs until October."

"If you care to stay beyond September thirtieth, a new lease will be made in your name. From force of habit she glanced at her desk calendar—Tuesday, February 22nd, 1943. "Something that had been knocking at the back door of her mind, seemed to be coming alive as she presented distractions, suddenly found its place. She said quickly, "Aren't you sure you don't want to take the apartment?"

Andrew Thane's quiet, dark face did not quicken. "I'm registered," she knew. "I'm taking it over to the girl. 'Aren't you two taking a chance by marrying at this time?'" Her mind telling me how old you are."

"We've talked it over carefully and we think we're doing the right thing."

"The Merdings were very lucky to be able to sublet so late in the year. The little silver checkbook in Mrs. Waters' expert lean brown fingers flashed brightly in the dimly lit room, which she formed in its wake.

Sarah Daffodi had never seen any other work of art. Mrs. Waters' in variety and design. Her closet shelves and chests contained a little silver cabinet in which she had stored bedspreads, table sets, edgings for bed linens and other things. Mrs. Waters' several sets of curtains, all exquisitely made, never used. "I had just a glimpse of the man's face—"

Four sets of tenants could not enjoy the garden as one big family. "They used to bicker incessantly over their wangs and there were times when I could cheerfully have wrapped their sheets around their necks and pinned them all on good high line." After several years of complaints and warfare she had developed the present plan.

"Each apartment entitled to the full use of the garden and lawn for drying and bleaching clothes, one day a week. This includes the laundry room and equipment in the basement. Of course if it should happen to rain on Thursday, you'd be out of luck for that week. You have to expect such a performance now and then."

"Why, that's wonderful!" The young people manifestly regarded the originator of this program as the genius. "It had worked out fairly well, she said modestly, barring an occasional controversy when someone wished to trade his day and night crochets for a washing exchange. "With the first four days going to the tenants, I'm left with the last three. I wash on Wednesdays I cut the grass and tidy up the garden generally and Sundays are for the community spirit. If it wants to develop. Mostly it's riding out in the country, except for a few hot days in midsummer."

"We read your advertisement," the girl said.

marked hopefully. King Waters sat at the knee-hole desk, his back to his wife and to Sarah Daffodi. He was making out the rent check for March. "In the hope of garnering a little goodie, Emma Waters always managed to arrange so that the check must be called for in person.

Over his shoulder King Waters said casually, "That young chap's probably headed straight for training camp. I'm surprised they married before his number's called. Kids haven't a grain of sense when it comes to realities."

"I suppose they'll be having late parties," his wife sighed. "I know they're right over our heads, too."

"I don't think you'll be troubled by noise overhead," Sarah spoke with authority. "Both Mr. and Mrs. Thane go to business, they can't afford to keep late hours."

From the desk Mr. Waters said, his tone mild, his pen scratching. "I suppose she's keeping her job because she expects him to be called for training."

Andrew Thane's quiet, dark face did not quicken. "I'm registered," she knew. "I'm taking it over to the girl. 'Aren't you two taking a chance by marrying at this time?'" Her mind telling me how old you are."

Enjoins Operation of Noisy Newspaper Press

In a memorandum filed Monday Judge E. H. Savord enjoined Ross Day and Mrs. F. A. Day, Milan publishers of the Milan Ledger, a weekly newspaper, from operating their 12 1/2 ton press after 9 o'clock any night of the week.

The order was entered after considerable testimony was taken in a suit filed by Albert and Golda Rueh, proprietors of the Milan Inn, a restaurant and hotel adjoining the newspaper office, who sought to enjoin the defendants from using their equipment, claiming it resulted in noises and vibrations which were injurious to their business. They asked that the defendants be enjoined from operating the machinery and presses under such times as the noises and vibrations were eliminated.

The defendants, however, stated the property was purchased by the plaintiffs for their hotel with the full knowledge that a printing shop was operated next door, that it was impossible to eliminate the noises and regulate the hours of operation of the presses due to the inability of advertisers to meet stated deadlines.

"WOMEN and GOLD" — Stories of Love, Devotion, Treachery, Sacrifice. In every generation the combination of Women and Gold has led men into adventure, intrigue, battle and often to doom.

Read... starting in The American Weekly with this Sunday's (November 14) issue of The Debutante. Every day one hundred applications for automobile tires are received, while the maximum number which the panel can issue in one day is ten.

That is the tire situation in Huron County as far as passenger cars are concerned. For farm vehicles the situation is even worse, the chairman stated. The passenger car quota takes in all in regard of truck tires is rapidly becoming worse.

Mr. Canfield issued an appeal to automobile owners asking that no application for a tire or tires be made unless the need is acute. The problem of allotting the small number of tires available is one of the most perplexing of the board has to meet. The picture for the immediate future is no brighter and there is every likelihood that many passenger cars and trucks in Huron County will have to be temporarily absent from the highways.

The second day drew to its close with the wealthy jurymen still unconvicted.

"Well, gentlemen," said the court officer, entering quietly, "shall I order twelve dinners, as usual?"

"Make it," said the foreman, "eleven dinners and a bale of hay."

Doings In Washington

By CONGRESSMAN WILLIAM LEMKE

By Congressman Wm. Lemke
The dream of a fourth term came to an abrupt end. The elections last week sent that dream skidding down the aisle of time. How could it have been otherwise? The million little Hitlerites stepped on too many toes. A free people were in open defiance of the unlawful directives of an ignorant bureaucracy.

The fathers and mothers whose sons are in the armed forces suspect that our foreign affairs are being just as bungled as our domestic. They resent the attempt to subsidize ourselves and then have their sons pay our board bill when they return. The ugly performance and graft under lend-lease shocks their conscience.

Great Britain replacing the American label with their own on the lend-lease goods that we give them does not set well. This, especially, when the shelves of our own groceries are empty. Again lend-lease is giving thousands of pairs of silk stockings "to the dark maidens of Africa," when long ago they were denied to the American woman, is resented.

The people are getting tired of being taxed for the foreign "give me" Jimmies. They are for total war but not for total loafers. They

PHEASANT, RABBIT SEASON WILL OPEN ON NOV. 19 IN STATE

The season on pheasants and rabbits opens in Ohio Nov. 19, at 11 o'clock Ohio time. The official closing time for each day will be 5:30 Ohio time or 6:30 Eastern War Time. This is as late as a hunter can see to shoot at this time of the year. The season closes Dec. 4. Ohio hunters will have only thirteen and a half days.

The daily bag limit will be two pheasants with four in possession after the first day. Rabbits may be taken this year until Jan. 11, ten days later than usual.

The season on coon comes in Nov. 15 and continues until Jan. 15th.

Some farmers in Wood-co are reported to be threatening to bar all outsiders unless they are able to get shells themselves.

Pheasants are reported to be more plentiful even than last year and the crop of rabbits is also declared to be above the average.

Gasoline rationing will prevent the usual throngs of hunters from traveling long distances to hunt birds it is believed. Last fall on the morning of the opening day, Route 224 was a solid string of ears going west from Wood-co east to Akron and beyond.

Christ Clopper, 78, Willard farmer, and Mrs. Alice Bender, 81, New Haven.

are willing to feed the starving of other nations, but they are not willing to feed the foreign rubbish who should be in their country's uniform rather than begging from us. Forty-eight of these from 48 nations are again on their way to Washington for a so-called food conference. Here's hoping that the United States Treasury locks its vaults before they get here.

We are sure that in the 1944 election government by bureaucracy will be completely annihilated. The wreckage will be great—$300,000,000 debts. Yet the American people will rise to the occasion. Our sons and Generals will win the war in spite of it. They will help us clear away the wreckage and build once more in the true American spirit of progress.

There will be no more regimentation. The farmer will plant as he pleases. In place of penalties there will be cost of production for the farmer, a living annual wage for common labor, old age compensation for the aged and a square deal, not a new deal with points, stacked cards and loaded dice, for small business.

We are not going back to the Dark Ages. The returning soldiers will be given an opportunity to engage in individual productive enterprise. They will be enabled to create their own jobs and jobs for others rather than to ask for jobs that do not exist. There will be friendship and cooperation for peace and decency of the world. But here will be no surrender or destroying of our own nation to advance the imperialistic ideas of foreign horse traders. If you doubt this wait until our sons come marching home.

PAPER PICK-UP SET FOR SATURDAY, 20
The local Boy Scout Troop will make a collection of newspapers, magazines, cardboard and paper, Saturday afternoon, Nov. 20.

Collection will be made with the aid of the village truck, some time Saturday afternoon. We are asking all those who can, to tie your papers securely. Binder twine is very hard to get a hold of and our paper must be tied before we can sell it. Troop One has collected paper for a period of over three years now and we ask that you continue to save your paper for us as you have in the past. Collections will be made once each month this winter. At the present there is a very acute shortage of paper. Dig deep in that cellar, or out in the shed for those stacks of magazines and newspapers and we will see you Saturday afternoon, Nov. 20th.

WILD ANIMALS
PLAGUE NORWEGIANS
Bears, wolves, wolverines, and foxes have staged such a comeback in Norway during the past three years that they have become a plague to the Norwegian farmers. Stripped of their firearms by Nazi order, the Norwegians are unable to combat the pests. Wolves, formerly confined to northern Norway, have spread southward. One Gudbrandal farmer recently lost 35 sheep in a single night.

FOUND GUILTY

The shoes will have canvas uppers and soles made from remnants and heavy woven fabric, reinforced with vulcanized rubber. Shoes of this type larger than misses' and youths' size three will be rationed.

TOWN & FARM

(Continued from Page One) - set-side orders. Present conditions indicate there will be enough dry beans to provide about 10.4 pounds per capita for civilian consumption in the 1943-44 marketing season, compared to 8.6 pounds in 1942-43.

Unsalted Butter Price Down
Maximum prices of unsalted butter have been reduced by 1/4 of a cent a pound, which means direct savings to consumers. Other changes made by OPA in the price regulation for butter will act to end inflationary pressures which had arisen. Unsalted butter previously had a 1/4 premium over salted butter.

Plane Production Reaches New High

Production of all type of aircraft reached a new high of 8,362 planes in October, including the largest number of heavy bombers ever produced in a single month, it was announced recently.

Country Grain Elevators Exempt
Country grain elevator establishments which employ not more than eight individuals now are exempt from applying for War Labor Board approval of wage and salary increases, even if the establishments are part of a chain which employs a total of more than eight, according to WLB.

Pickle Prices Up

Quart jars of pickles will cost about one cent more since OPA has put maximum prices on all pickles (except fresh cucumber pickles) and picallini. The regulation applies to sales by all persons except wholesalers and retailers. Wagon wholesalers are included, however.

Cut New Car Quota

Only 20,000 new passenger automobiles have been released for rationing during November, OPA has announced. This is the lowest figure since rationing began and represents a reduction of nearly 35 percent from the October quota of 30,800.

Millions Sign Home Front Pledge

More than 12 million pledges have been signed during OPA's Home Front Pledge Campaign - "The Citizens' Battle to Kill Black Markets and Hold the Line Against Higher Prices." In Minnesota, so many rural families signed the pledge that the district OPA office ran out of forms, and had to stipulate that one member sign for the entire family. When the supply ran low in Evansville, Ind., newspapers printed the pledge so the campaign could carry on. Similarly, in West Virginia, 1,030,000 pledge cards were printed without charge to relieve a shortage. Newspapers in San Francisco and Wenatchee, Wash., likewise printed the pledge form.

Ceramic Stove Model Built

The first ceramic cooking stove model to be built in the U. S. was recently demonstrated at the National Bureau of Standards. The stove contains only 80 pounds of metal, mostly cast iron. The prewar all metal model which it supplants weighed 1,085 pounds. The ceramic stove is designed to be heated with anthracite or coke. It uses only about 10 pounds of fuel in 24 hours and if it is fired every 12 hours, it will be ready for use at any time. It is expected that the first ceramic cooking stoves will reach the market around the first of the year. The purchase price has not been determined yet, but it presumably will be lower than that of the all-metal ones.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Yes, I'm afraid there's no denyin' it, Judge... jeeps and trucks and other kinds of motorized equipment have taken the place of the good old horse in modern warfare."
"It's true of lots of things in this war, Eben. Every day we hear of new tactics and requirements and new uses of products. For instance, take the alcohol that is used for war purposes. In World War I, this vitally needed product was used mostly in making smokeless powder, chemical warfare materials and medical supplies. Today it must do far more... it must provide the base for such indispensable products as synthetic rubber, shatterproof glass, lacquers, plastics and many other of our requirements so essential to victory."
"As a result hundreds of millions of gallons are required every year... half of which is being produced by the beverage distilling industry. Bet you didn't know that, Eben."
"As a matter of fact, I didn't, Judge. That's a mighty important war contribution that had escaped me completely."
