

Plymouth Ready For Blackout, Entire Village To Participate

In the very near future Plymouth is to be blacked-out as a part of the program that includes Huron county in the area for the first test blackout of northern Ohio.

The matter of an alarm to warn the people has given the village officials considerable concern. For the present, the Fate-Root-Heath Company has permitted the use of the shop whistle as a means of giving out the alarm. However, the whistle will not be used for the entire two minutes that are required, but only as a signal to attract the attention of ing at the mayor's office where he gave the auxiliary police of the local civilian defense corps final instructions as to their part of the job of keeping order during the blackout and the alarms leading up to same.

The mayor and council have also expressed satisfaction with the cooperation they have received in organizing the defense units of the village.

Father - Son Banquet

FOUR CHURCHES JOIN IN AFFAIR AT HIGH SCHOOL TUESDAY NIGHT, MARCH 9.

The various men's organizations of the four Plymouth churches have completed plans for a Father and Son Banquet to be held next Tuesday night at 6:30 at the high school auditorium.

While no definite program was available for publication, it is definitely stated that a well-known speaker will be present to give the main talk of the evening and that movies will supplement the evening's entertainment.

Tickets are now on sale, and as a father, you owe it to your son to attend this banquet—for it is one event which makes the tie more binding.

The banquet will start promptly at 6:30, and the entire affair, including the speaker and the movies, should be completed by 8:00 o'clock. So this will not entirely "kill" your evening.

Those anticipating attending may rest assured that the evening will not be a dull one, and, too, because the men of the four churches have charge of the affair it is assurance that it will be highly entertaining, both for the young and old.

Next Tuesday evening, March 9, at the high school auditorium—Let's make it a date!

Oh, yes! If you don't have a son of your own, bring a little fellow—you'll find an extra boy in town that will need a Dad for that night.

Huron County Real Estate Tax Now Due

County Treasurer, Harold B. Collier, is mailing real estate tax bills for collection of 1942 taxes.

He states that these taxes may be paid any time between now and April 1, 1943, without penalty. After that date penalty will be charged on all unpaid taxes.

Mr. Collier said the type of bill this year has been changed, and explains it as follows:

The notice sent out contains tax information for both halves of this year's taxes. With this type of bill and in view of gasoline being so scarce, one may easily pay the one-half tax on the first half, if they so desire, and avoid another trip later.

The extreme right column is the amount due on the first half. Special assessment of the notice appear in the next column left. The column marked June Tax is for the second half of this year and payable by September 10, 1943 without penalty.

Treasurer Collier calls special attention to the fact that information for the full year is contained on this notice, and therefore must not be destroyed after the first half is paid. It must be retained for data pertaining to the last half. Anyone mailing in the first half tax must enclose postage for return of the amount and receipt for the amount paid.

NORWALK TRUCK LINE PAYS BIG FEES

The enormous volume of business transacted by the Norwalk Truck Line was made evident Monday when the company's president and general manager paid $86,889 at the Norwalk office of A. H. Specht, motor vehicle tax collector, on 787 Ohio units.

This does not include the licenses paid on some 150 trucking units by the company in other states, including Michigan, Indiana and Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker who now reside in the D. Doran property on Birdwood avenue has rented the E. A. Stotts property on Sandusky street and will take possession the middle of the month.

The Enemy on the Home Front

WORLD CALLED TO PRAYER

DAY OF PRAYER TO BE OBSERVED IN PLYMOUTH: ON MARCH 12

The World Day of Prayer will be observed March 12. A united service for the entire community will be held at the Plymouth Lutheran Church at 8:00 P. M. Many will participate in this service. Mrs. Helen Hoffman is in charge of the arrangements.

Jesus said: "Men ought always to pray and not to faint." While we are all aware that we ought to be praying many times daily during this crisis in our world, yet we ought to gather together in prayer at this particular service and pray as one man. Therefore, let everyone, who can, come and fill the Lutheran church with praying people. Jesus prayed, as recorded in the 17th Chapter of John's Gospel, that we might all be one, even as God and He are one. It is time that the Church of the Living Christ begin to unite and to cooperate in every program provided in the great struggle against the evils that are cursing mankind.

Some time ago one of our lads wrote home to his friend and said that he was glad to see that we were having a prayer service and told about his chaplain's having a service for him and his buddies each evening.

Friends of Plymouth, this ought to be sufficient to bring us together. We ought to pray for the young men and the young women who are out there in the front line of the battle for the things that we hold dear. Let's make the home front what it ought to be!

PAUL ROOT SAFE IN AUSTRALIA

Paul Root writes to his wife and parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Root that he is now in Australia safe and feeling fine. The latter Feb. 1943. Very little could be written except of a personal nature because of censorship, but he did say that their gang was still together and that the natives of Australia treated them fine. The trip over was also very interesting.

FOOT INJURED

Frank Bland returned home from a visit with his brother, Marian Bland of Ferrysburg, who is confined at the East Side hospital, Toledo, as the result of an accident while shredding corn. He unexpectedly stepped back of the shredder and his right foot was severely cut and badly mangled.

TRANSFERRED

LeRoy Collins, who was inducted into the army at Camp Perry, has been transferred to Ft. Knox, Kentucky.

TICKET SALE FOR MCKINLEY DINNER REPORTED HEAVY

Heavy sale of tickets for the annual McKinley Day Banquet at Norwalk High school on March 5 throughout the county is reported by Mrs. Helen Lippert, ticket chairman.

Because of present condition in regard to food, it was necessary to close the sale of reservations to the banquet by Wednesday night. For the same reason no tickets can be sold at the door, as the planning must be for exactly the number of reservations. Since the banquet is on Friday, other food will be prepared for those who do not eat meat.

The program this year will be featured by an address by U. S. Senator Taft and Robert Bingham of Columbus. Probate Judge Luther Van Horn will be toastmaster. Roy Gathergood, recently-elected president of the McKinley Club, will be chairman.

Huron County May Be Placed In Lake Erie Trapping District

Through the efforts of Representative Frank Pierce of Huron county, the county will be included as part of the Lake Erie Trapping District.

Representative Pierce presented this measure in House Bill 310 asking that the county be placed in the Lake Erie District. The bill was approved by the House last Thursday and will probably go before the Senate this week.

MRS. CAROLINE GOLDING DIES IN ELYRIA HOME

Mrs. Caroline Golding, 88, former resident of New London and Willard, died Friday evening at the Elyria Methodist Home for the Aged.

Sister-in-Law Dies

N. B. Rule received word Friday of the death of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert R. Rule of Fall City, Neb. Mrs. Rule was approximately 70 years old, but details concerning her death were not received. Her husband, two daughters and an adopted son, all preceded her in death.

GOES TO LOGAN, OHIO

A. G. Reidy, former owner and publisher of the Greenwich Enterprise newspaper, has been appointed to Logan, Ohio, where he has accepted a position as mechanical superintendent of the daily paper there.

HULBERT CHOSEN VILLAGE MARSHAL

WILL SUCCEED MOORE ON A SIX MONTHS' PROBATIONARY PERIOD

At the regular session of the village council held Tuesday night, village marshal to succeed the late Otis Moore, Hulbert will try out the job for 6 months, and if at the end of that period, the council feels satisfied, he will be given permanent appointment. The office pays $160.00 per month.

Hulbert is well known in Plymouth, having operated a blacksmith shop here for years, and for the past few years has acted as "extra" policeman." He has been regularly employed at the high school as assistant custodian. Hulbert has a large circle of friends and there is no doubt but what he will fill the job in the manner which the citizenry desires.

There were no applicants on hand for the position at Tuesday night's session, and inasmuch as Hulbert was familiar with the work, officials took prompt action by selecting Hulbert for the job.

Mayor Dorr stated that the village will require a deputy marshal and asks that any young man who may be employed locally, and can spare a few hours on Wednesday and Saturday night, make application for the position. The deputy marshal pays a salary averaging $400 per year.

PAPER GOES UP

The Canadian and American governments announced late Saturday a $4 a ton increase in the ceiling for standard newspaper paper.

The announcement was made jointly by the Office of Price Administration and the Canadian Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Around the Square

(By Phineas Whittesseed)

ZERO WEATHER in March is far too severe for the coal pile. But anyway, we can think about Spring.

IF PLYMOUTH is a criterion for the State and Nation, there is bound to be a food shortage. If you want the proof, turn to the Classified Column and see the number of those quitting farming.

AMERICAN CAN CO. stock is bound to feel the shock of rationing. Perhaps I'll satisfy myself. I used to think that we couldn't live without a can opener, but now it looks like we're going to have to do that very thing!

ALBERT MARVIN was reprimanding Junior the other day. The conversation sounded like this: Albert to Junior—"D in work, D in effort, D in conduct. That settles it, Junior. From now on, you and I are through." Junior promptly replied: "Stop kidding yourself, Pop. Just remember that I'm still an exemption on your income tax!"

NEWT RULE has a yen for cherry sodas in the middle of the afternoon. Newt says he figures he has a little in common with George Washington, although he never chopped a cherry tree—but I do like the flavor of cherries, says Rule.

THE WEEK'S MORON story goes to Robby Robinovitch of the Factory Radio Shop, who tells of the man who took a bicycle to bed with him last night. Now of course! He rode it when he walked in his sleep!

I TALKED all of the boys around the Square will agree that we missed Otis Moore the past week. The Old Square just doesn't seem natural without Otis parked at it some point.

LUTHER BROWN, Scouter, is becoming very popular as an "after dinner" speaker." Well, it's all right for he works for the Gas Company.

I'VE never seen any woman any more thrilled over learning to knit than Mrs. Elizabeth Hendricks. But what strikes me pink she's putting all her efforts on a big sweater—all her own.

THE WHEAT isn't coming out so fast as ever. The lifting of the penalty tax, John Ginzvorth of the Plymouth Grain Elevator believes that the farmers' bins are all empty.

THERE IS ALWAYS a tie between father and son—and son usually wears it. But let's have a look at the tie between the Father and Son Banquet to be held at the Plymouth High School. Good food—I don't know how they'll get it—but we will take a chance.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK—Success depends on the proper functioning of the glands—especially the sweat glands.

FRANK ROGERS is getting to be a butter and egg man—the regularly brings in a basket of eggs once a week. But, we need a ceiling price has been set.

SECOND WAR FUNDS CAMPAIGN BEGINS HERE

Monday, March first, marked the opening of the second War Fund Campaign of the American Red Cross. Their slogan this year is "Give Double If You Can!" In Plymouth a systematic house-to-house canvass is being made under the able guidance of Mrs. Mabel McFadden, who has so generously given her time and efforts in previous campaigns. Reports to date are that the village will really come through with their proportion of the national goal of $125,000,000.

The American Red Cross has moved swiftly to meet its unprecedented war-time tasks at home and abroad—move swiftly to help it meet the multiplying needs of global war! Wherever our troops may go—there too goes your Red Cross—ready to aid in disaster or enemy action—to give counsel—to make for service men a home away from home—to render invaluable service to our prisoners of war—to collect and distribute the precious life-saving blood plasma—to meet the needs of emergencies with food, shelter, clothing, medical care and civilian training! Your Red Cross needs your help—give generously of your money, your time, your energy.

If you failed to be contacted, a phone call to Mrs. McFadden or district solicitor will bring prompt results.

GOES TO SANDUSKY

Mrs. Jennie Martin, who has been working at Conger's home restaurant has resigned and gone to Sandusky, where she will be employed. Her son, Fred, is also employed in that city.

IN AFRICA

Recent word from Pvt. Stanley W. Shaver, son of Mrs. M. H. Shaver, says he has reached his destination safely and is now somewhere in North Africa. Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Major also had a letter from the past week stating their son Richard is in North Africa. Also that he was fortunate enough to obtain a small gasoline stove and several of the boys are doing their own cooking at night on a "kitchen" to eat hot soup.

DELIVERY STOPPED

The Central Delivery for Plymouth grocery stores ceased to function Saturday. With the new point system going into effect Monday, grocers decided there was no longer any need for the delivery service. This will be a benefit, no doubt to the business men, but those elderly people in Plymouth, who have been dependent upon deliveries, will find it quite a hardship.

Black Markets Threaten Nation's Supply

Heavy Demand for Goods Spurs Deliveries on Sly

Many Retailers Pay Say Food Trucks Extra Money for Hi-Jacked; Many Meat Supplies Goods Upgraded

America has a "black market." That, in short, is the name that has been pinned on the illegal distribution of commodities throughout the country since the government began to regulate production and establish price ceilings.

For the most part, the "black market" has existed in meat, so much so that Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard warns that unless operations cease, civilians will get less than two pounds of meat a week when rationing starts. Increased employment and higher wages have put more spending power in the pockets of the people. Those who are used to eating well don't feel like changing their habits now, and the army of new workers in busy war industries build up big appetites and get bigger pay checks to spend.

But army and lend-lease requirements are taking a large portion of American meat production, particularly in pork and beef, and the government has set slaughtering and packing quotas for civilians, amounting to 90 percent of 1941 consumption. This means civilians can purchase about 30 per cent less meat than they could two years ago, even though the demand has increased since that time.

With this condition prevailing, a host of illegal practices have come into being. Some violations have been unintentional, arising from an ignorance or misunderstanding of the law. But a good many others have been deliberate efforts at underhandedly supplying the demands of the trade.

Cattle Killed in Country

Sold to Retail Outlets

Fanciful stories have arisen about the old Capone gang's dealings in restricted commodities to recoup lost from gambling and law racketeering. But more factual, although less exciting, practices have been revealed.

Some of these practices concern farmer or country slaughter of animals and sale to small town retailers. In such cases, just several, or maybe even one, head of cattle are involved; but federal officials are concerned with the amount of waste and unsanitary conditions. Legitimate meat packers, slaughtering and packers of badly needed cattle volume. Some farmers are supposed to be paying packinghouse slaughtering fancy prices for coming to the barn yards to kill animals.

In the New York area, some retailers were reported to have bribed speculators and paid bonuses for choice meat. Dealers are selling $200 to $300 about 25 hindquarters of good beef. Retailers then sell cuts above ceiling prices to willing customers.

Retailers Sign False Invoices to Get Meat

The New York area, some retailers were reported to have bribed speculators and paid bonuses for choice meat. Dealers are selling $200 to $300 about 25 hindquarters of good beef. Retailers then sell cuts above ceiling prices to willing customers.

The department of agriculture estimated the marketing of over 7,000,000 pigs in January, for instance, but only about 2,000,000 were shipped. Packers are trying to figure if "black market" operations might account for some of this deficiency.

They voted on the one who acted the best consequence. Dorothy Brook got the most votes.

She was made to share love with Jean and Jeanette Forquer and sing it to the tune of "Oh, Susanna." She did it very well.

THE SNOOPER ! ! !

My second guess said to be so dumb that she thinks that "bacteria" is the rear entrance to a "cafeteria." It's a new way of putting it but the idea is the same.

I've heard rumors that the mail from Lucas to Shiloh has fallen off considerably since Thursday night. I think Janice Black could tell us more about it. How about it, Janice?

In case you were wondering, the ring which Jean Hoffman is sporting (which is just the fit, by the way) with the help of a roll of paper, has a large "X" on top of it which, with the hand, she could go "dunk." The only question now is "Which guy does it belong to? Or is that a military secret?"

OPA was said to have received confessions from some butchers in the eastern states of New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware that they conspired with distributors in obtaining illegal supplies of meat.

According to these confessions, the butchers paid higher prices than civilians should have paid, but not delivered although listed in invoices and paid for higher grades while receiving inferior grades. One said that the butchers claimed it was necessary for them to engage in this practice if they wanted to get their ordinary quota of meat from distributors to keep their shops operating.

One of the common procedures in the "black market" has been in the upgrading of different cuts of meat. By upgrading lower grades, of course, operators have been able to obtain higher prices for their sales.

Hi-Jackers Dilute Coffee; Bootleggers Get Sugar

Large quantities of beef, coffee and sugar are reported to have been hi-jacked. It is reported that coffee is stretched by mixing cheaper brands with the best, with the mixture being sold at top grades prices.

Sugar hi-jacking has been for the benefit of legal dealers only. Rationing of sugar is supposed to have cut deeply into the inventories of bootleggers. To get the necessary stocks to keep their stills going, they have resorted to hi-jacking.

Capitalizing on the increased demand, certain "black market" operators are resorting to the sale of inferior or substitute goods to summer outlets. Horse-meat is supposed to have been sold as beef. Hamburger sold in low-price restaurants has to undergo regular tests by government chemists. Some districts in an effort to maintain healthy quality.

About the best solution of the problem might lie in increased production of food; but with army and lend-lease requirements, it is not likely that farmers will have problems of labor and machinery, little relief can be expected from that source. The federal agricultural commissioners predict a 10 per cent decrease in crops from last year.

The exact nature of "black market," especially in meat, is unknown, but packers think it is big. The department of agriculture estimated the marketing of over 7,000,000 pigs in January, for instance, but only about 2,000,000 were shipped. Packers are trying to figure if "black market" operations might account for some of this deficiency.

They voted on the one who acted the best consequence. Dorothy Brook got the most votes. She was made to share love with Jean and Jeanette Forquer and sing it to the tune of "Oh, Susanna." She did it very well.

The committee for the carnival stunt in our class are John Young, Alice Seaman, Dorothy Brook, Jean Forquer, and Patty Roe.

THE MARY HILARY TAYLOR CHAPTER VI

"I've been chasing you half a block, Uncle Herbert!"

CHAPTER VI

SYNOPSIS

Released from prison after serving fifteen years for a murder he didn't commit, Mark Grant goes to the office of a lawyer named Fostick to collect a legacy left to him while he was in prison. When Fostick tells him he will have to wait until he has satisfied a party to help Teddy Banks win a bet with Archie Landon. Although Mark Grant was not real nervous, Fostick introduces him as "Stewart Byram." At the party Fostick and Landon, and Burleson's niece, Pamela Rodney, Burleson does not recognize him, and Mark decides not to reveal his identity to Pam until he finds the real murderer. He is lunching with Pam when Fostick joins them. When Pam asks Fostick if "Mr. Byram," Fostick pretends not to know him. Mark goes out to call a taxi for Pam and when he returns he is surprised to discover that Fostick has not told Pam who he is.

They looked at each other. Bitterness and shame and blind rage at the old lawyer seemed suddenly swept clean away; Mark only knew that he loved Pam!

"Of course you saw that something was wrong?"

She gave him a sweet, frank look. "No, I didn't know you liked him. You're excited again, aren't you?"

"That's neither here nor there," said the girl, more bluntly. "He is seventeen, wasn't he? What's he like now?"

Fostick considered. "He's big, good looking; got a snap to him. You wouldn't know him. I advised him to go West."

"The West is the best place for him; he can live it down there. Fifteen years, isn't it? By Jove!"

Burleson nodded. It seemed to Fostick that he had aged lately; he was less erect, less keen.

OTIS ERWIN MOORE

Otis Erwin Moore, son of Wm. and Isabelle Moore, born June 10, 1891, died Feb. 24, 1943. United in marriage in 1911 to Pauline Hooker of North Carolina. To this union were born two children, William of the U. S. N., and Mrs. Henry Eppele of Sandusky, Ohio.
Surviving besides his widow and two children is one grandchild, Betty Lou Moore, age 8, of Willard, Ohio; one sister, Mrs. Charles Lloyd of Clarksville, Mich., and one brother, Russell of Lake City, Mich., and a host of friends.

A TRIBUTE

As a man liveth, so he dieth—and the fact that Otis Moore had lived a useful life was exemplified by the many floral offerings and the large number that paid their last tribute to him. The services held at the Lutheran Church last Saturday afternoon were impressive and befitting. Those attending felt it their honor and duty to pay tribute to a man who they have known for many years, and who had served them well.
Death coming when it did, found Otis Moore doing just the thing he liked to do—always doing something for some one. And yet, he expected no recompense. Every favor, every act that he has performed for his friends—done so freely, in spirit which Christ would have us do it.
Kind, considerate, thoughtful of his duties, Otis performed them well, while acting as marshal and street commissioner. On the coldest nights of winter—the early hours of dawn, he saw to it that the cinders were spread and that everything was in shape—no one requested of him to do his work in any hour of the day or night, but when there was work to be done—he was there to do it. He had the interest of the public at heart, and he served his public well.
Yes, death does have a sting, and we in Plymouth will feel it, for it will be a long time before we will feel it follow in Otis Moore's footsteps—to faithfully perform his duty, to do the little acts of kindness that meant so much to us as a whole, and as individuals.
The deepest sympathy is extended to the bereaved ones, and those around the Square will hold the memory of this beloved citizen for many years to come—these are the sentiments of a friend to a friend—PWT.

DRAFTING FATHERS

Whether fathers should be drafted into the army is undoubtedly one of the most discussed topics of the day, both in Washington and in the American home.

It is the consensus of opinion that this drastic step, which would break up thousands of homes, shouldn't be taken unless absolutely necessary and nobody seems to know just how necessary it is.

Army spokesmen say that to have an army of over 10,000,000 men, it is essential to draft fathers. Others figure such an army could easily be built up without taking fathers.

But before drafting fathers begins on a large scale, it would seem advisable that some regulations be enacted about dependency. If a man's wife and children can be supported by private income or by relatives they are of course not as dependent upon the father as those families which have no visible means of support except the earnings of the head of the family.

If it is necessary to break up homes, it would seem only common sense to take those men whose families can get along before taking those whose families would become public charges.

LEARNING TO SAVE

Getting the money together to pay our income tax has been a major problem for most of us. It has taken a lot of sacrifice, scrimping and saving. But after the first payment is made, we may be able to find some satisfaction in having proved to ourselves that we are capable of saving such a large sum of money.

Many people who have never been able to save a cent in the past have found that, when it is absolutely necessary, they are able to put aside a sizable proportion of their income.

After doing this it is unfortunate to have to hand it all over to the government. But if we can, as a result of income tax, make a habit of saving—and can keep that habit after the war is over and income taxes are reduced—we may eventually thank Uncle Sam for teaching us a lesson which we would never have learned in any other way.

If, in the future, we can continue to save for ourselves as much as we are now saving for the treasury, our dreams of owning a new home, of retirement and of education for our children are apt to come true.

DALE CARNEGIE 'How to Win Friends and Influence People' Author of

A JOB LOST, A FUTURE WON

In 1915 a young man in Birmingham, England, went for a walk. That walk changed his life. It made him a rich man. His name was Frank Irving Fletcher.

Crossing a railroad track, he saw a scrap of newspaper which was being blown about by the wind. He idly picked it up; was about to throw it down; then looked at it more carefully; a want-ad page from a newspaper. He needed a job, so he read the ads one by one.

He found one that appealed. Then he looked sharply. The job was in New York. But it was the kind of job he wanted. The salary was $18 a week.

But New York was 3,000 miles away! The glow faded from Fletcher's eyes. 'Fears and misgivings swept over him. Suddenly his spirit stiffened. He'd go to New York! He borrowed some money and five days later was on a boat, landing in New York practically broke. When he went after that job he had come 3,000 miles to get, it had been taken.

Fletcher set his teeth, put his head down, and charged. Result a job, at $10 a week. Now he could eat!

Two weeks later he got a better job, at $12, pretty soon another at $15; then at $18; all in two months. The Thompson-Starratt Company, Inc., a great construction firm, advertised for a secretary. Fletcher applied. He was competing with a string of other applicants, but his air of invincible confidence in what he had to offer—the mark of the born salesman—got him the job.

A few months later the company wanted an advertising man and they told Fletcher to look around for one. He wanted the job for himself, but he had never written an ad; knew nothing about it. He knew it would not do the slightest good to say he could fill the job. He would have to prove it. He decided to write sample ads to show them.

He knew the policy of the company, but he didn't know their writing style, so he got all the back ads he could find and studied them. He set up all night, and produced sixty short, snappy ads. He turned them in to one of the officials, saying he believed he had a knack for ad-writing, and asked him to read them. The official read them and was so pleased that he got into his car and drove to the addresses of two other executives to show the ads to them. Fletcher got the job. Salary $2,500.

By LITTLE HULL

Of the People, for the People, And by the People

That is the most important phrase in the English language—or in any other language. It describes a form of government devised by our clever, farsighted forefathers 150 years ago; patterned somewhat after the ancient Greek and Roman democracies prior to their decay and their usurpation by minorities.

Many of us have known Communists, Nazis, Fascists and Monarchists. Each will tell you that the people are happier under his form of government than under any other.

Who? People! The members of his party—or the great mass who are not members? The citizen lies in the principle that the citizen must follow an allotted, routine plan of which submerges and destroys his own initiative. The result, in the long run, is a foregone conclusion: "The citizen lies in a wheel and becomes a fixed cog in it; the managers develop into what is known as a "ruling class"—and we are right back where we came from.

Communism in Russia; Nazism in Germany; Fascism in Italy—if they should continue for 50 more years, will develop into the same old type of autocracy and feudalism which dictatorships have turned into from time immemorial. It could not be otherwise. Human nature does not change over night, nor over a century, nor over ten centuries; and all the high-falootin' dreams of the stary-eyed theorists about "all men being equal" if they will only "join up" with the Communists or the Fascists or the Nazis or some other like left wing philosophy—simply grope out of ignorance of what has happened so often in the past.

If we in our country ever allow an overdose of bureaucracy to obtain such a strangle-hold that ours develops into a one-party government, we too will become a two-class nation—the masters and the servants.

dem and can enjoy himself (at-most) as much as the Democrat. It isn't what you name your form of government that counts: It is how that government really functions. And any nation which is run according to the judgment of one man, or one group of men, cannot afford the same opportunities for advancement and happiness as can a nation which is operated by the people for the people.

The great fallacy of individual, or group, management of a nation lies in the principle that the citizen must follow an allotted, routine plan of which submerges and destroys his own initiative. The result, in the long run, is a foregone conclusion: "The citizen lies in a wheel and becomes a fixed cog in it; the managers develop into what is known as a "ruling class"—and we are right back where we came from.

Communism in Russia; Nazism in Germany; Fascism in Italy—if they should continue for 50 more years, will develop into the same old type of autocracy and feudalism which dictatorships have turned into from time immemorial. It could not be otherwise. Human nature does not change over night, nor over a century, nor over ten centuries; and all the high-falootin' dreams of the stary-eyed theorists about "all men being equal" if they will only "join up" with the Communists or the Fascists or the Nazis or some other like left wing philosophy—simply grope out of ignorance of what has happened so often in the past.

If we in our country ever allow an overdose of bureaucracy to obtain such a strangle-hold that ours develops into a one-party government, we too will become a two-class nation—the masters and the servants.

This Week in WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C. (NWNS)—"The thing that amazes me most about Washington," said a prominent member of the government, "is that in spite of all the fights, the confusion, the waste, the fast-changing regulations and the many changes in personnel, we still seem to be getting things done."

That statement expresses a general attitude in Washington. Practically everyone here is extremely conscious of the many muddled and complicated situations, but they are optimistic in the belief that we can accomplish more, in spite of muddling, than other nations can accomplish no matter how efficiently their war program is managed.

The most dangerous fight, of the many pitched battles going on in Washington, is that between the army-navy leaders against the War Production board. As it stands now the WPB has the upper hand in that it has been given power by the President to direct the scheduling of munitions output—a function which the war and navy departments are convinced should be given to them. This fight has reached the point, said one military official, where chairman Nelson of WPB will either be forced to quit or the under-secretaries of war and navy will resign.

Mr. Nelson, however, has indicated that he has no intention of quitting nor of giving in to the army and navy—and he has strengthened the power of WPB by giving Charles Wilson, his executive vice chairman, practically the same powers as he wields himself. The army and navy are also battling with congress over the selective service. Congress feels strongly that there is no need to draft fathers until all other available men have been drafted, and it favors legislation to provide that no fathers in a state shall be called until all unmarried men under 38 as well as those without children are taken. There is also another battle regarding selective service being waged by the farm bloc which is pressing for legislation to provide that no more farm boys be drafted until next January and that farmers now in the army be released during the farming season. Because of the critical shortage of labor on farm areas, the congressmen from farm states believe such a regulation is imperative and they also want the Manpower commission to rule that men cannot leave the farms to go into war industries without approval of their local draft board.

Action by both houses of the new session of congress makes it apparent that the members intend to get the legislative body back in the driver's seat of government and will no longer simply be "yes men" for the President. The most obvious example of this so far is congressional action to get rid of the $25,000 limitation on income which went before his constitutional powers in issuing this order in the first place and they feel that even if a curb on large incomes is to be continued, it should be as a result of congressional action.

It is expected that the greatest test of power, as between the President and congress, will come when legislation is considered to curb labor unions, to prevent strikes and slowdowns and to freeze labor's wages. This is admittedly a touchy subject which may be avoided temporarily, but it is apparent that the present congress is in no mood to make any further concessions to labor and, as soon as any new difficulties flare up, a flood of labor regulation measures are apt to be introduced.

Opening Round in Tunisia

This map indicates the various phases of activity in the opening battle between U. S. and Axis troops in Tunisia. It was in the initial phase of this action that the extended lines of the American troops were cut by Rommel's strong tank detachments. One Nazi column smashed forward from the Maknassy region (2 on the above map) and reached Sbeitla (1). Gafsa (4) fell to the Germans and Feriana (3) also had to be surrendered. This opened the way for the Nazis to push on and take the vital Kasserine pass. Here a furious struggle took place and the superior fire power of the enemy forced U. S. retreat. Military experts contended that all of this activity resulted from the German desire to create a diversion from activity of the British eighth army striking at Rommel further south—through the fortified Mareth line.

Cabbage Patch, but Not Mrs. Wiggs'

American doughboys and British families converge in the cabbage patch at one of the U. S. army's service of supply depots in Britain—all part of the mammoth agricultural program of Americans and Brits. In the foreground, Private First Class Estelle Brown of Maryland, Mo., does the honors, while Fred Stone, of His Majesty's forces, stands by.

OPA Heads Study Point Rationing System

SUCCESSFUL PARENTHOOD

YOUR CHILD'S REST

Do you know when your child is tired? It is not always easy to tell for different children show fatigue in different ways. Some become increasingly active as they tire and appear to have more energy at the end of the day than at the beginning. Others show weariness by irritability and are often wrongly called difficult when they only need more rest. Others whine and revert to baby ways as they become fatigued. And some have the instinctive good sense to slow up as their energy slackens.

Study your child, then, so that you recognize fatigue symptoms. Unfortunately it isn't always possible to cure them with rest, because one of the commonest causes of sleeplessness is becoming overtired. So try to prevent the appearance of fatigue by "cutting under." Our family doctor used to say, "That is, you begin providing the atmosphere for rest before the child actually becomes tired. Then he can slip gradually and without resistance from activity to lesser activity to quiet and relaxation, and finally to sleep."

A child is not always resting as he should even when he is asleep. You know yourself how a disturbing occurrence or something dreaded for tomorrow will keep you tense and strained throughout several hours of uneasy sleep. If going to bed is accompanied by fretting and fusing, with threats of what will happen tomorrow if "you don't get your sleep," the act of falling asleep becomes something the child resists in order to stay in the limelight of your concern, or else something he feels he must work at because of the dangers of not sleeping. Instead, sleep should be a natural and pleasant drifting off, something you neither consciously help nor hinder.

Naturally to induce this effortless tiredness is quiet atmosphere is needed, though it is not necessary to shut out all sound or light. Rather, there is a gradual change of rhythm like "letting the old car die" in a rope swing. An unhurried reading or story-telling period is the oldest and still the best prelude to getting ready for bed. Then during the actual preparation of washing and undressing speak more softly than usual and talk in an unexcited, if all-over manner about pleasant happenings of the day. Most nursery school teachers recommend an affectionate but extremely casual good night. But since bedtime is the usual time for a child's prayers we see no harm in adding a gentle song or two, both for the child's and the parents' enjoyment. But we agree that it is better not to have a lot of kissing and hugging and repeated goodnights. These prolonged leave-taking carry too much a suggestion of parting and are apt to leave the child excited or vaguely uneasy.

Some young children seem to differ in the amount of sleep necessary to give them that reserve of energy which indicates the occurrence of something dreaded for tomorrow. It is as follows: Birth to 4 or 5 months, 18 to 20 hours; 4 or 5 months to a year or 14 months, 16 to 18 hours; 1 year to 18 or 20 months, 14 to 16 hours; 18 or 20 months to 3 or 4 years, 12 to 14 hours.

Above all make going to bed pleasant, not something to be dreaded. Never leave a sleeping child alone in a house or in charge of a completely strange person. He might awaken and the terror of having one more familiar to answer his call may make going to bed a fearful thing for years to come.

KROGER OPA "POINTS" THE WAY and KROGER MAKES IT EASY

... for you to buy your rationed foods and to get full point value when selecting your needs of these valuable food items. You will find the number of ration points stamped on every rationed item in the store. In addition the ration points will be clearly shown alongside the price tags on the shelves and bins. It will be easy for you to "spend" your points to the best advantage, remembering of course that it takes more points to buy good quality merchandise than it does to buy the cheaper grades—the only difference is in the price.
