

MANSFIELD GETS AIRPORT GRANT

CITY TO PROVIDE 1,000 ACRES OF LAND; GOVERNMENT GIVES $600,000.

Approval of a $600,000 government allocation for the development of the Mansfield airport was announced Monday by the civil aeronautics authority.

Mayor W. J. Locke said the city would be asked to provide 1,000 acres of land near the present airport north of the city for the development. Work on the project will start late this year.

The development will place Mansfield in the class with the state's largest cities in airport facilities. Approximately 50 army fliers are being trained now at the city airport which has been developed primarily with private funds by Captain J. R. Harrington, airport manager and local industrial executive.

Local sources, informed by Congressman J. Harry McGregor, had disclosed early Monday that the grant had gone thru late last week but that it was not expected to work would begin for another year.

Two sites are believed to be under consideration. One is directly north of the present municipal airport and the other is northwest of the present town, which would place it over half way to Shelby.

TEACHER SITUATION IN PLYMOUTH IS CRITICAL

The Plymouth village Board of Education met in regular session on Friday evening at eight o'clock with all members present. The regular routine of business was conducted.

After considerable discussion, it was decided that since there is a scarcity of qualified teachers with four years or eight year certificates, applications of those possessing limited teaching credentials will be considered. Local applicants having previous teaching experience are preferred, however those having full necessary credentials will have priority over the limited.

Said credentials must be presented to Mr. J. E. Hodges, director of the Board of Education, or Mr. L. Bailey, Superintendent of schools. Application blanks may be secured from each of these persons.

LIGHTNING STRIKES BARN; CONTENTS ARE DESTROYED

Lightning struck the barn on the Sam Sponseller farm a mile and a half south of Plymouth Monday afternoon shortly before six o'clock.

Fire which was started by the lightning bolt destroyed all the contents of the barn, belonging to Leslie Fellows, who resides on the farm. The team was burned to death, as well as hay, feed, three pigs and other equipment.

The loss of the barn itself will run several thousand dollars, and the livestock and other material owned by Mr. Fellows, will run into several hundred dollars' loss.

Mr. Fellows, who had been cultivating a field near the barn, had left his home to go up to his father's place, and assist him. At the outbreak of the fire neighbors notified Mr. Fellows of his misfortune. Mrs. Fellows was in Plymouth at the time and arrived home just as the barn was in a mass of flames.

It is stated that Mr. Sponseller intends to rebuild a bank barn in the place of the old one.

SPLENDID PROGRAM ENDS SESSION OF BIBLE SCHOOL

Climaxing two week's of instruction and study, children who attended the Daily Vacation Bible School, gathered Sunday evening at the Presbyterian church and marched through the Square to the Methodist church where they presented a program for public approval.

The church was filled with parents, friends and those interested in this work. Beautiful baskets of flowers, bouquets, the American Flag and the Christian flag decorated a pretty setting for the children.

Children in the beginner's department sang songs, presented memory work and rhythm work under the tutorage of Mrs. H. H. Feyer. The little tots did remarkably well and received hearty applause.

The primary class presented the 23rd Psalm in unison, the ten commandments and a number of songs. The junior group's part consisted of Bible verses, memory coupled, songs and recitations. The intermediate class studied the story of their lesson and gave short reviews and answers to questions asked by Rev. Bethel in the absence of Rev. Lambertus.

The offering was used to help defray expenses of the school and diplomas were awarded to those who attended regularly.

Special awards were given to Bobby Wirth, Marie Muma, and Marla Smith, Misses Little folks who were most regular in attendance and having the finest attitude every day and the best note books.

Display tables with the children's handwork including the notebooks, pictures, art work and novelties were placed for inspection.

The school was under the supervision of Miss Joy Bethel with co-helpers as follows: Rev. Bethel, Rev. Lambertus, Rev. Haines, Mrs. Haines, Mrs. Louis Gebers, Mrs. L. Smith, Misses Juanita Ruckman, Ruth Ford, Kerma Derr, Miriam June Johnson, Mary Ellen Thomas and Phyllis Haines.

The Amberjack carried a complement of 60 crewmen and was thought to have been on duty in the Pacific. Mr. Oates is now serving on a destroyer making his headquarters in Australia.

Will It Be Another 'Too Little and Too Late'?

A - BOOKS UP FOR RENEWAL

TIRE INSPECTION RECORDS MUST ACCOMPANY ALL APPLICATIONS

The Huron County Ration Board has announced plans for motorists to follow in obtaining renewals for their Basic "A" Gasoline Ration Books ("D" Books for motorcycles). Applications will be available at all filling stations, garages and tire dealers about June 20, and everything is to be done by mail. It will not be necessary for anyone to come to the Board office to obtain the new "A" Book.

Owners whose surnames begin with the letters A thru E are requested to mail their applications to the board at Norwalk between June 22 and 26; F to L between June 27 and July 1; M through R, July 2 to 7, and S through Z between July 8 and 12.

It is necessary for the applicant to complete the application form in detail, paying particular attention to proper address and to correct listing of the serial numbers. The back cover of the first "A" book must be submitted with the application as well as the old tire inspection record. Every inspection record must show at least one tire inspection by an authorized inspector.

Twenty-five volunteers have been recruited thru the auspices of the American Women's Volunteer Service and they are being trained under the supervision of Mrs. Mildred Wildman, volunteer service chairman for the Ration Board. They will start work on July 5 to process all applications and issue the new "A" Books to reach all motorists on July 21st. The books will be mailed in special window envelopes provided for that purpose. It is expected that 10,000 motorists in Huron county will apply for renewals at this time.

Applicants who failed to ask for War Book Three by mailing their applications to Columbus, Ohio to the Local Ration Board after August 1. The regulations now forbid the Board to give out any applications before that date. This will not work a hardship on anyone because War Book 3 will not be used before September. Write for an application on August 1.

WASHINGTON - The office of Price Administration has announced that Stamp 18 in ration book one, which became good for the purchase of rationed shoes Wednesday, June 16, will remain valid through Oct. 31.

The validity period of Stamp 18 is only 11 days longer than that of Stamp 17. The OPA said that the rate of shoe purchasing under rationing had been reduced in line with war-time curtailments from the all-time high in shoe purchasing during 1942, but the rate remains approximately the same as set in the period from 1936 through 1941. The same regulations that apply to Stamp 17 will continue in effect for Stamp 18.

Around the Square

(By Phineas Whitteford)

JACOB WIERS of Celeryville stopped in Saturday night to give the Advertiser a clear track for another year. Mr. Wiers had his leg pulled for a little information about the growing of healthy lettuce and celery. Sure, we learned something. And we can tell you about that paper they put over the long straight rows of tender, young celery.

THOSE OF YOU who have seen this mystifying dilemma will admit that it looks strange to see miles of paper spread out over a field of jet black dirt. Mr. Wiers informs us that this paper holds in the heat, even if the sun shines only a half hour a day. As a result, the celery plants are kept warm, especially in early Spring, and they show a rapid growth over those that are not protected. "We've seen as much as three weeks' difference in growth of celery under this form of protection," said Mr. Wiers.

DESPITE THE heavy rains and late Spring the outlook this sea son for celery is the best in years. However, there's a manpower shortage that is going to make a real difference when the crop is ready to harvest. Labor shortage in the celery gardens is keenly felt, not only in the harvesting of the celery, but in the shipping rooms as well.

IF YOU HAVE visitors this summer and want to show them the sights, don't forget to take them through Celeryville. It's probably old stuff to you, but to me, I get a real thrill out of the straight rows and the green celery - no matter how often I see it - and a stranger who has never witnessed the growth of celery, will also marvel at the beauty and appreciate such an undertaking on such a large scale.

DESPITE HIGHER prices on all foodstuff, one Plymouth grocery clerk revealed that customers are more concerned about the points than the cash.

TIME CHANGES everything, and it also adds wrinkles, too!

WEATHER this week as you like it - hot, cold, dry and wet - we like variety, and we get it, too. Unexpectedly some times when we're caught in a shower.

HOWS YOUR weed crop? Mine is just lovely. I some times think that I'm taking care of the vegetable end of the garden, while the Lord takes the weeds - and He does a better job!

JOHN FACKLER was avistin' in town this week. John's been in the hospital for an operation, and on top of that developed pneumonia. But you can never tell it now! It must be Army life!

JIM SCHRECK is in Columbus mixing around with the township trustees during their state meeting. Jim's trying to care of the boys that FRH will be building Silver King Mowers again 'after the war!

I THINK that everyone who attended the "graduation" exercises of the Daily Vacation Bible School, will agree with me that it is always a grand sight to see any youngster get up in public and recite his part, even though you can't hear him, or he feels excited about facing an audience. The affair Sunday evening was inspiring, colorful and entertaining. It is a fine thing for Plymouth to have people willing to help the youngsters in their early life, and to train them properly. Religion may not do anyone any good, but I've always found that the more you have the easier it is to tell right from wrong, and that isn't going to hurt anyone these days!

THE NAVY has two more recruits from Plymouth added to the ever increasing number of young men leaving for service. "Clerk" Reed and "Dutch" Wilford leave this morning for Detroit. As a part of their enlistment, they are to be assigned to either Pensacola, Fla., or Corpus Christi, Texas. Well, so long boys, and the best of luck!

PROTEST ASSOCIATION NEWS

Excerpts from the plea made by Wm. Lemke, and Robert H. McNeill in behalf of the Farmers Protest Marketing Quota Association before the United States Supreme Court in Washington, recently. The case was the result of a suit filed by Kenneth Bender and others against Claude R. Wickard, Secretary of Agriculture, to refrain the collection of a penalty tax on wheat for 1941.

State of Facts

In their offer of proof the appellants show that they are farmers from the States of Ohio, Kansas and Michigan in Pennsylvania. That among other crops, they planted winter wheat during the crop season of 1940-41, 8 months before Public Law 74 was passed. Three of the appellants are not, and did not intend to, sell any of the wheat raised. They planted the wheat as a rotation crop and used it for family consumption, seed and feed for livestock. They show that unthreshed wheat they do not wish to thresh and is not fit for feed for livestock or poultry.

One of the appellants ever cooperated with the AAA Program, because to have done so would have meant a financial loss. None of the appellants ever received or accepted a subsidy on any other benefit from the AAA Program. As taxpayers they were damaged by the AAA Program—they helped to pay the cost of that program. It placed a ceiling price, and not a floor, on agricultural products.

The appellant, Beckman, is further damaged by these acts because his farm is not economically profitable for the production of corn or cultivated crop. He will sustain a further loss of $2,000 because, then, one-third of his farm equipment is suitable for raising wheat and not a floor, on agricultural products. The appellant, Beckman, is further damaged by these acts because his farm is not economically profitable for the production of corn or cultivated crop. He will sustain a further loss of $2,000 because, then, one-third of his farm equipment is suitable for raising wheat and not a floor, on agricultural products.

The witness, Kennedy, in his Offer of Proof, shows that the domestic price of wheat during the period in question was not $1.16 a bushel, but .85 to .90 a bushel. That the loan value was 98 cents. He shows that parity and soil conservation payments were not a part of the price of wheat. The cooperatives with the AAA Program pay dearly in toll, expense and acre reduction for these payments. They are not a charity.

This witness shows that the statistical stipulation to the effect that our export of wheat and flour diminished between the periods of 1920 from 23 per cent of total production to less than 10 per cent in 1940 is only a half truth. This decline was not due to overproduction, but, was due to the fact that we had no wheat to sell or export. He shows that during that period there was a general decline per capita of wheat available for world consumption. During the eight year period from 1933 to 1940, there was an accumulated deficit of wheat each year. During those eight years we consumed more wheat than we produced. We imported more wheat and wheat substitutes than we exported.

He shows that in his statistical stipulation, the Secretary of Agriculture completely ignored the fact that while the increase in the production of wheat from 1904 period to 1935-1939 period was 16.2 per cent, the increase in population for the same period was 62.9 per cent. He shows that on the basis of average per capita rate of 3.7 bushels it required 208,100,000 bushels more wheat to feed our nation in 1940 than it required in 1919.

He shows that the same is true in connection with the world increase in wheat and population. He shows that the world production per capita of wheat has decreased since 1919 from 2.22 to 1.86 bushels by 1936.

Argument

Article I, Section 8 of the Constitution reads: "The Congress shall have power . . . to regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the several states and with the Indian tribes."

Let us not lose sight of this language. To regulate, by no stretch of the imagination, means to destroy. Otherwise there would be nothing to regulate. Among the several states does not mean within a state any more than with foreign nations means within foreign nations or with Indian tribes means within the tribe with the Indians. It just means between the States.

It most assuredly does not mean that Congress has power to regulate, restrict or destroy all production and all consumption on the individual farm within a state. Such a meaning cannot be twisted out of the language used by the framers of the Constitution.

If that language means that Congress must stay within the constitutional granted power, we have no objection. But it also follows that no form of federal activity can constitutionally thwart the powers reserved to the states and the people. Hence, the reach of that power also extends to those federal activities which in a substantial way interfere with or obstruct the exercise of the reserved powers of the states and the people. This is a two-edged sword which must be respected alike by the Federal Government and the State Governments.

How far can Congress go under the power to regulate commerce among the several states? Can it direct the uses to which commodities which are produced and consumed by their producer on the very place of their production and within the limits of the property boundaries on which they were produced and which property belongs to the producer who is also the consumer?

 In the face of the language of the Interstate Commerce Clause is not such a position absurd? Can there be anything involved more local in nature, and, therefore, more intrastate in character?

If these acts are constitutional then the producer of any article can be penalized. Then he certainly can be penalized for eating canned goods or drinking coffee which have come to him in interstate commerce.

Then where is the line of demarcation where liberty is divided from serfdom? Can Congress enact, and the courts enforce, a law preventing self-sustenance? Can such a law if upheld by this Court promote the formation of a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity?

Would this Court hold that if these appellants at times consumed corn bread made from corn procured from the stream of interstate commerce, that the sur-planting of this bread by home-made wheat bread made of home-produced wheat constitutes interference or obstructions of the power of Congress to regulate interstate commerce?

Even if the property involved should be 160 acres in the corners of each of four states is interstate commerce involved in any manner by the handling and consumption of commodities within the boundaries of said property by the owner thereof. The truth is, such commodities are neither into or interstate commerce. They do not become subject to the Interstate Commerce clause.

Despite the fact that the Supreme Court in its recent decision ruled that the 49c penalty tax on 1941 crops is constitutional the Ohio Marketing Quota Protest Association will oppose any payment of the penalty.

Representatives of the organization who made a trip to Washington to hear the Bender case, were not greatly impressed with the attitude of the Court.

One member of the Ohio Marketing Quota Protest Association points out that the O. P. A. is subsidizing the packers to the extent of three hundred million dollars, and yet the government insists on collecting the 49c tax penalty on the 1941 wheat crop.

Members of the local 'Protest group pointed out that a continuous regimentation program of farmers will force the independent farmer into a union, and this situation is shaping up more and more each day.

Even though the Supreme Court held constitutional the Filbourn case, we were not surprised. Their grumpy attitude showed they did not know from practical experience what it was all about. Remember, the Supreme Court ruled that it was not compulsory to salute the flag, while our boys are across the pond losing life and limb to protect and defend good old Glory!

Every man, woman and child should be thankful that we have some good American farmers who have foresight enough to plant more wheat than the AAA allotment allowed, for that is the bread your family is eating today, for THAT great surplus turned into a shortage!

Now, we are asking all members of the Protest Wheat Association not to pay your 1941 penalties and if any trouble arises, see your State Board for further information. The fight is not over.

and as long as our Government will keep on the Federal pay roll over 200,000 slackers and non-producers, doing nothing of any benefit to anyone, on the AAA and the so-called War Board, we will fight penalties through Hell and High Water!

We have a war to win and we must win it! We cannot win it by putting Bureaucrats on the Federal pay roll wasting money, which should be used to buy Tanks, Guns and Planes for our boys' protection! Wasting money just to get votes for the administration while the rest of us slave and sweat to pay them.

DRIVE FOR OLD RECORDS ON FOR MONTH OF JUNE

Just in case you have broken a few records since the last drive was put on in Plymouth or you have done a little housecleaning of the record cabinet, local residents are reminded that they can still be put to good use.

Another drive throughout the month of June is being sponsored by the Auxiliary of the American Legion with proceeds from the sale of the records to be used for the purchase of new records for the recreation halls at Army and Navy centers.

Locally, the records can be left at the Brown & Miller Hardware store and placed in the container there for that purpose, or if anyone has records and are unable to bring them in, a call to Mrs. E. L. Earnest, Mrs. S. C. Brown, Mrs. Charles Lookabaugh, and Mrs. Wm. Wechter, will bring response.

LETTERS of Interest

June 9, 1943

Dear Tommy:
I'm writing to have you inform my friends in the Advertiser that beginning June 19, 1943, my address will be changed to the following:

Cpl. Ronald B. Griest 35411053
320th Medical Bn, Hed. Det.
APO 95, Care P. M.
Shreveport, Louisiana.

This is due to the fact that we (the 95th Division) are starting on maneuvers in Louisiana at that time. In a tough life, such as maneuvers, mail will be one of the most welcome things a fellow can think of. Just to know that your friends remember you is the main idea—regardless of how trivial the news that is received.

Each week I read the letters from the soldiers who write in to the Advertiser and think just how impossible it is to put into words the enjoyment that we men away from home derive from your paper. If the folks back home only realized just what news from the loved ones and friends back home only meant, they would write more often and send news regardless of how insignificant it may seem. Just meeting someone from which does my heart good. Personally, I have no complaint to make, because I hear regularly from most of my friends and folks. But I have seen fellows go for two or three weeks without getting any mail, wondering and worrying about what might be wrong back there. It is hard enough when you know things are o.k. but when there is a doubt, it's doubly hard. You have my permission to give Advertiser readers this message.

I missed being at the school activities this year more than words can express. I read thoroughly each article that you printed on these activities, picturing mental, as well as I could, the scenes and events as they transpired. That was the best I could really do. I certainly look forward to the day when I can go back to teaching again.

As to my work here I have little to tell you. As you know I am the assistant to the Chaplain in this Medical Battalion. I do his office work, play for religious services, have charge of all music and am, in general, his handy man. When in the field, which may be during the month of May and will be for sometime in Louisiana, I assist him in the hospital tents trying to cheer up the boys with games and literature. It's really very heartening to see how the boys will treat the Bible and other religious tracts after they have been hurt. I'm sure I shall see this increase within the following weeks—many men get hurt on maneuvers.

I hereby send my friends my best wishes. I hope it is possible to be with all of them soon. If anyone cares to write, I shall do my best to answer; however I'm not sure how good my mail will be during these maneuvers.

I'll thank you kindly, Tommy, if you will be my informer again. It is the only means by which I can reach all my Plymouth friends. My regards go to Mrs. Thomas, Sid and Mary Ellen as well. Keep up the good work.

Sincerely,

R. Byron Griest.

Dear Friend Byron:

It's press time, but I'm going to take time for long enough first before putting the old sheet to bed, to tell you that I know the readers of the Advertiser will enjoy your letter. I printed it in its entirety, because it did not contain a portion of it lacking interest.

I was putting through the old PHS Mayflower annual the other evening and I saw your picture. Naturally, it brought back memories of your many activities in the school here, and I am sincere when I say that your absence at the closing of school was keenly felt. The operettas you staged while in Plymouth were far above the average, and I think now we realize more than ever the tremendous amount of time and effort you must have put into them.

Things in general are about the same here, except more and more each week, there are old faces missing and new ones coming in. Letters like yours, and others I have received are about the only inspiration I have of continuing the good old Advertiser. So you see, your letter helps build up morale on this end, just as ours do on your side of the fence. I'll try to write again soon, but if and when you get time after the maneuvers, drop us another line.

Sincerely,

Tommy.

NOTES FROM OUR READERS

A note from our old friend, Bill Caldwell, up in Pontiac, Mich., this week, advises us of a change in street number and wishes the Advertiser to be sure and find him.

Quoting Bill, he says: "You can never know how much we enjoy the Advertiser, especially Mother. She seems to feel that every day should be Advertiser day. We must admit, Tommy, that our hearts have been saddened at some of the more recent news. The last, of course, being Plymouth's loss of that loyal civic minded friend, Newt Lure."

We missed our Memorial Day visit to Plymouth this year; we mean not only our failure to get there, but the meeting with old friends as well. Give our regards to any friends and tell them that mother is slowly recovering from her stroke and we hope she will be visiting Plymouth through the summer is over."

Another New Subscriber

A note in our mail this week was a most surprising surprise. Mrs. Mildred G. Walker, who owns and operates the Akron Hotel in St. Petersburg, Fla., sent in her subscription for the Advertiser. Mrs. Walker has been born and raised in Plymouth, daughter of F. D. Gunsaulus and finds she gets lonesome for home town news. Mrs. Walker was after moving to the southern state, we lost track of her, but now welcome her again among our readers.

GORED TO DEATH

Funeral services for Mrs. Effie Mitchell Cook, 80, were held Saturday from the Ontario Community church with burial made in the Ontario cemetery.

Mrs. Cook was gored to death by a bull in a field near her home. The bull apparently had trampled on her body after knocking her down.

SACRIFICE . . . Fun

With tears in his voice, a business man told me of the one big sacrifice he had been called upon to make in this war.

He said that he hadn't uttered a word of complaint about rationing, he never raised an objection to cutting down on sugar, coffee or gasoline, he paid his taxes without a whimper, he spent all he could on war bonds, he gave two evenings a week to work with the local war council, he turned his house upside down to contribute all he could to the scrap drives. He said none of these things seemed to him to be worthy of the term "sacrifice." He wished he could find more things to do to help but this war over with in a hurry.

But, he said, the war really hit home with him when, on a beautiful Saturday afternoon in June, he suddenly realized that he wouldn't be able to use his car all summer for five short miles to his golf club. All winter he had looked forward to that thrilling drive of the season. Many a night he had lain picturing a shiny white golf ball zooming down the middle of a beautiful green fairway. And now, with his golf course in perfect shape and his clubs all polished and ready for action—the war was narrowed.

PLAY . . . summer

Millions of men and women in our play-loving nation will probably agree that the greatest blow of the war to them has been some similar sacrifice of a simple pleasure.

Many a fisherman, who has survived the cold winter on a struggle with a giant fish, is now practically crying out in protest that he can't get to his favorite fishing spot. Women who longed for a dip in a peaceful summer resort are biting their lips as they look away from the ads of 1943-model bathing suits.

And even those of us who merely looked forward to an annual period of relaxing in the country are sighing over the war regulations which practically force us to spend the summer at home.

We have proved that we aren't the softies that Hitler claimed we were. We can sacrifice with the best of them. But we've had too much fun in our lives to let the summer go by without at least enjoying the vicarious pleasure of letting our minds dwell now and then on memories of the summers of the past.

WOULDPAY AS YOU GO JULY 1

WORK DONE IN JUNE WILL NOT BE WITHHELD; FORMS AVAILABLE SOON

The Treasury Department reports that it is getting out information both to employers and employees on how the new pay-as-you-go income tax collection system which President Roosevelt signed into law last week, and which goes into effect July 1, will affect those included under the measure.

The withholding provision will not be felt until the second week in July. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury said that employers will be required to make the first paycheck covering services for a pay period which began on or after July 1. No withholdings will be required from any paycheck which includes compensation for work done in June.

In other words, anyone whose regular weekly payday falls on Friday or Saturday which would be July 2 or 3 would not be subject to the new withholding provisions until the following week, because the first payday in July would include payment for some services performed in June.

For those paid on a semi-monthly basis, usually on the 15th and last day of the month, the withholding would not be made until July 15 when they receive their semi-monthly check.

Must File Certificates

If you are an employe, and not in one of the exempted classes such as agricultural labor or domestic service, you will be required to fill out a small blank entitled: "Employer's withholding exemption certificate."

It will contain your name, address, Social Security number and information about your marital status and the number of dependents you have. The treasury has prepared an explanation of the withholding tax which may be obtained by addressing the nearest collector of internal revenue and requesting a copy.

The responsibility for doing most of the bookkeeping under the pay-as-you-go system falls on the employer. Employers who collect more than $100 monthly must pay the money into the treasury-authorized depository each month. Employers will have until the 10th of each month to make the payments.

Employers also must make quarterly returns to their collectors of internal revenue and show the aggregate amount of taxes withheld during the quarter.

DOINGS in CONGRESS

By Cong. Wm. Lemke.

THE PRESIDENT signed the 75 per cent Ruml Tax Plan. Under this law if a person's income in 1942 was $100,000 then $75,000 is exempt. If it was $1,000,000 then $750,000 is exempt. This law is a tax escape plan for the big income persons and a tax collector's plan for the farmer, the laborer and small businessman. The law withholds 20 per cent of the fixed income and salary group. It adds confusion to confusion.

CONGRESS SUCCEEDED last week in forcing the resignation of Joseph Weiner, Russian born immigrant, who was put in charge of Civilian Supplies under Donald Nelson. It was Mr. Weiner who allowed the farm implement manufacturers only six-tenths of one per cent of the country's steel with which to supply the farmers' needs. He was one of the all wise, vindictive bureaucrats who did not know that he did not know.

WE ALSO GOT RID OF Professor Galbraith who was the all wise, vindictive wrecker in the OPA. Some of his fellow workers in the OPA told me that he was not dishonest but just incompetent. They said if you asked him to fix the price of an egg that by no stretch of imagination could he connect the egg with the hen that laid it.

WHILE OUR SONS are giving their lives and limbs on foreign battlefields, graft is again rampant in high places. About three weeks ago Congressman Voorhis revealed another oil scandal. The Attorney General ordered the contract with the Standard Oil Company of California cancelled.

CONGRESS PASSED the Anti-Strike Bill. A bill opposed by all who know the situation. To divide our people will not help the war effort. To insult labor that has been producing the ships, the arms, the planes, the food and clothing for half the world is unwise. Organized labor consists of 48 per cent of our population. They have just as many sons in the armed forces as the rest of us and are just as patriotic. This bill was passed because of the coal strike. It does not represent the calm judgment of Congress.

I AM AWARE that those who are making a profit out of this war are again hiding themselves behind—not in—the soldier's uniform. We used to look with contempt upon a man who tried to hide behind a woman's skirt. It ought to be equally contemptible to hide behind—not in—a soldier's uniform. Our sons in the armed forces are not labor baiters. They know that the American people are and will continue to make every sacrifice to bring this war to a speedy and victorious end.

 Lt. Robert E. Garrett writes a letter to his mother on June 12, at 5:45 p. m. and 3500 feet in the air. He says:

I received your letter this morning, but was unable to answer it because of another x country trip. Yesterday I flew to Houston, Texas on a low altitude, 200 feet x country. We were supposed to fly back to Randolph Field last evening, but the weather closed in and we stayed in Houston and came back this morning.
 There were 29 ships in the formation. We came through some bad weather and had a lot of fun doing it.
 After we returned we ate dinner, then drew up our maps for another x country. We had our choice of about seven places to go.
 Another fellow who is piloting now from the front seat, and I decided to go to Tulsa, Okla. We will arrive there about 7:04 tonight. Then stay all night and start back to Randolph by 8:30 or 9:00 tomorrow night. I flew from Randolph to Dallas and then my friend in the front cockpit took over when we stopped for gas and got our weather clearance.

We are passing over a part of Texas now which looks very much like the country around western Ohio. Very flat, very green, and very scattered about over the land. It's very beautiful now. To my left is a wide space of very clear blue sky, while ahead and at the right are low layers of puffy clouds.
 We have quite a tall wind. Just estimated the speed as 180 miles per hour. That will get us in Tulsa a little ahead of time. And now, have a good time, for believe me, I am,
 Robert
