

DOINGS in CONGRESS

By Cong. Wm. Lenke.

Congress overrode the president's veto of the Anti-strike bill. Just what the effect will be on the nation only time can tell. This war is not over. In place of dividing our own people we should unite them. Next week congressman Engel of Michigan will show that some corporations have made over 100% profit out of this war over and above all taxes. Congress, as yet, has not outlawed profiteering.

While our sons are fighting on foreign battlefields a few men and women in high places are trying to sell their nation. These advocate a world government and the destruction of our own. In this new government we would just be a minority state. We would be citizens of this government and in addition of being taxed from Washington. This would also be taxed by it. And in case of war our sons in the future would be drafted by this world government.

This little clique of hybrid and hyphenated Americans represents less than two per cent of our people but it is well financed. They have control of practically all the avenues of publicity, the theatre, the metropolitan press and the radio. They are extending their poisonous fangs into our school system. The time has come when educators must challenge this un-American propaganda. They must not swallow it hook, line and sinker.

There are many schemes to accomplish this purpose. The British economist, Keynes, would create an international money commission. This commission would create money out of thin air. This new money would be called bancors not dollars. Bancors would be a better name. Under this scheme each nation would get a percentage of the bancors—big chips. We would get 12%, Great Britain 30% and the other nations 58%.

These bancors would be used as money in trade between the nations. Since no other nation will have anything to sell, when this war is over, we would still be the Santa Claus of the world. We would use imaginary money—bancors—to buy our goods with. In a short time we would have all their worthless bancors and they would have our goods. Then we would divide the bancors up again—that is the good neighbor policy—and then start all over again. They would keep on getting our goods and we would be repeated until the resources of our nation are depleted, until we were brought down to the same standard of living as the coulees of China and the poor untouchable hinds in India and the peon in latin America.

This matter has been referred to the enforcement division of the Office of Price Administration.

Mr. Harold Henry of Monroeville also appeared before the board to answer for misuse of his automobile by his minor son and suffered the loss of 12 four gallon coupons and agreed that the son would not drive the car unless accompanied by a parent or competent adult.

WATCH THOSE WEEDS!

MACHINE GUNS and planes are what the kids will want this Fourth of July—no simple stuff like fireworks!

WASHER and liquor rationing, no gas for sale, and restrictions on travel this certainly should prove a Safe and Economical Fourth.

WASHED the car Saturday afternoon shortly after lunch and didn't it rain? I'm beginning to think I'm an old rain-maker.

STAFF SERG. JIM LINDSAY—husband of Geraldine Ramsey Lindsay, was quite honored recently when, for the first time, he was commended publicly for his superior soldierly bearing while passing in review. Incidentally Gerry and Jim celebrated their first wedding anniversary Saturday, June 27. Their address is 9450 S. State St., Midvale, Utah.

BILL ROSS, Plymouth's "old salt", who has probably sailed the seven seas in seven months, blew into port last week—incidentally Norfolk... and rushed up to Plymouth for a few days' visit with the Mrs. and friends. Bill is getting to look more like a sailor each trip, and he's getting to like the navy better with each trip out.

SATURDAY MORNING Bill visited with his friends down at F-R-H and it's needless to say that we were all glad to see him. Bill said he never received his mail, Bill said "I know the Navy takes care of every thing when we hit port, there's always mail waiting for us. It's shipped out of the states by plane. We have never seen any of the magazines, and it's needless to say that I look forward to receiving the Advertiser. It's even passed around to a number of boys aboard ship, and believe me, between the home paper and the letters I receive, my morale certainly peeps up at mail time."

SO MANY BARE FEMALE LEGS seen on the streets these days are so pale, hairy, ungly, bruised, scarred, bitten or scratched, that the male pedestrian has no trouble keeping his mind on his business.

DAN CLARK of West Broadway has recently received a certificate of life membership in Richland Lodge No. 201, free and easy, of which he is very proud. He has been a member of the organization for almost fifty years and held a similar record in the Odd Fellows lodge before it dissolved in Plymouth. Mr. Clark is 85 years, doesn't look it, doesn't feel it, and says he is good for at least 15 more years. Let's hope he makes it.

THIS SHOULD COOL YOU OFF—It's only 24 weeks to Christmas, so the Navy came out this week with regulations for mailing of Christmas parcels and letters to Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard personnel overseas.

All Christmas mail should be posted for those service men between Sept. 15 and Oct. 31, in order to date. Packages should not exceed five pounds in weight, 13 inches in length or 9 1/2 inches in length and girth combined. And says the Navy, please don't include such gifts as weapons, intoxicants or poisons. Aw go! and the last two could be such nice presents for our enemies.

WE gratefully acknowledge the very interesting letters sent in by a few of the boys this week. We'll try to answer them soon.

SORRY to report that Cpl. Byron Grant didn't go on maneuvers, but he's in the hospital instead. His address is in this issue—drop him a card.

OH, NO—Not 16, but 17—That's why Arline Shibley was so happy Tuesday—well, congratulations, Arline, and keep those eyes twinkling!

THEY'RE GAINING ON US

Among the indictments which the framers of the Declaration of Independence drew against George III was this one:

"He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance."

Ohio runs its state government with 25,000 employees, but the Federal Government has 90,000 employees in Ohio; 44,500 Pennsylvania state employees, but 215,000 Federal payrollers in Pennsylvania; 1100 working for Wyoming state government, but 6200 Federal workers in that state.

The figures tell graphically what we have permitted to happen to our once proud concept of home rule. Washington sends out among us from three to six times as many people to tell us how to run our business as we employ to govern ourselves. Not counting the Army and Navy, there are more people on the Federal pay roll than on the pay rolls of all the 48 states, plus all county and municipal governments, which includes all our policemen, sheriffs, deputies, firemen and public school teachers.

Not so long ago most Americans had no contact with the central Government except through the congressmen, postal employees, the Federal judge and the U. S. marshal. That was only a bare dozen years back, before it became the fashion to call on Washington for help every time the water main sprang a leak or a new tree needed planting in the public park.

Now we have Federal offices and officers everywhere, telling us when to reap and sow, telling us what to buy and sell and at what price, how long to work and at what wage, what to eat and how to cook it, what to wear and how to make it.

Sure we're in a war and have to submit to a certain amount of regimentation. But, as Sen. Harry Byrd points out, 55 per cent of Federal employees are engaged in activities not connected with the war effort.

This is a larger and tougher war than the last one. We have to have a much larger Army and Navy, but do we need one civilian Government payroller for every 2½ men in uniform, when in the last war the ratio was one civilian employee to five in uniform? There are, moreover, too many of the men in uniform employed at tasks which could be done by civilians over military age.

We have 2700 lawyers working for the Office of Price Administration. Britain has only 10 lawyers in its price and rationing agency. Maybe that helps explain why Britain's price control is succeeding where ours isn't.

Well, the Government still belongs to the people. Every two years, through the ballot, we have something to say about it. We elect the Congress, which controls the pursestrings and provides the tax money for hiring all these "swarms of officers." If we don't elect the kind of Congress that will cut down the tax eaters to a controllable size it will be our fault that they take our Government away from us.

The number of taxpayers still exceeds the number who are making a career of being on the Government pay roll. We cannot be sure how long that will be true. Sen. Byrd discloses that since two years before Pearl Harbor the number of payrollers has increased 50 per cent every six months. They're gaining on us.—The Cleveland Press.

It was very encouraging the past week to note that the 38 Governors who assembled in Columbus for their annual conference, realized that their state rights had about but all disappeared. There is plenty to be done by the Governors, and there is more to be done by the voter and taxpayer. More than ever, a three-cent stamp is well worth the price. Write your Congressman or Senator, and give him your views and opinions on the things that effect our national and domestic life.

The editorial, taken from the Cleveland Press, speaks out the sentiments and thoughts of the average small business man and farmer in this community. It reveals to some extent the vast number of employees that are unnecessarily on the Government pay rolls, and who are not earning their satl. And, as the Press states, unless we do something about it, we will soon be engulfed by complete regimentation, and not only will we lose our Freedom of Speech but all the other Freedoms that go with it!

LET US TAKE THE BENEFIT

With the new 20 per cent withholding tax becoming effective July 1, local taxpayer's money will not benefit the community, as the tax will be collected by the Federal Government.

Inasmuch as we are going to pay this additional tax, why not support a two or three mill levy this fall in order that we may properly operate our schools? The additional tax we pay through the voting of the extra levy will be deductible from the withholding tax. Through the extra levy it will mean that we will receive directly the benefit from higher taxes, whereas if we pay out the extra money through the withholding tax we will have nothing to show for it.

It seems that with our school finances in such a critical shape, caused mainly through the loss of income through sales tax, and appeal for more money by war plants, many of our teachers will be tempted to give up the profession, unless we can offer them more money. Our local school board should take under advisement the possibility of placing an extra tax levy before the voters this fall. Certainly, Plymouth cannot be expected to keep up the standards as that set by other schools in Huron and Richland counties, for we are the only corporation in these two counties that does not have an extra income for school purposes.

USELESS DOLLARS

In July, 1940—before we started doing anything about getting ready for war—the average American—man, woman and child—received $47.92 a month in income.

Now, with the war at its height, the average American is earning $85.03. Thus the average family income is almost double what it was before the war.

Although taxes have risen and prices are higher, there is still enough margin to make it apparent that Mr. and Mrs. America are profiting from the war from the purely, dollars and cents standpoint.

But even those who are getting fatter pay envelopes than they ever got before are rapidly becoming aware of the fact that dollars don't mean much unless you can get the things you want with them. This country has always been noted for its reverence of the dollar—but that reverence is vanishing rapidly. We are learning that you can't eat dollars, you can't wear dollars and you can't travel on dollars. There are plenty of us today who would be glad to get fewer dollars if we could spend those we do get on gasoline, roast beef or silk stockings.

A MEMORABLE FOURTH

It used to be that the Fourth of July was celebrated with 12 hours of ear-splitting explosions. This year, we'll be lucky if we even hear a cap pistol going off.

That is probably just as well. For the Fourth of July this year should be celebrated with greater reverence than at any time in the history of our country—and somehow reverence and fire-crackers don't go together.

We have become so accustomed to independence that our day for celebrating it was primarily a day for relaxation and festivity. But this year millions of men will be working in factories on the Fourth of July—and other millions will be fighting all over the world—grimly determined to preserve the independence of our country—and watching pretty fireworks in community parks, this year we want to see fireworks of another kind. Fireworks of steel blasting at those enemies of ours who dared to try to rob us of the independence which we have been celebrating for 167 years.

DALE CARNEGIE

Author of "How to Win Friends and Influence People"

LEARN FROM YOUR FAILURES

I am writing today about three men who failed. I am writing about them because most people think they know only victories.

The first man on our list is Abraham Lincoln:
1832—Defeated for the legislature.
1833—Failed in business; lost everything he had and was $1,100 in debt.

1832—Defeated as a candidate for speaker of the house of representatives.

1840—Defeated as a candidate for elector.

1843—Defeated as the candidate for commissioner of the general land office; and the additional candidacy for congressional election.

1846—Defeated for re-election to congress.

1848—Defeated for president.

1858—Defeated in the race for the United States senatorship.

In fact, his life was given up to defeats and disappointments.

Our second man is P. T. Barnum: He once tried to sell illustrated Bibles. The title of this column was "Sears' Pictorial Illustrations of the Holy Bible." In this undertaking, he was cheated by his agents and sub-agents, who, if they had read it, obviously hadn't taken its teachings to heart. So that venture failed.

Next he started a newspaper with no money and lots of enthusiasm. He called it "The Herald of Freedom." In 60 days from the time his paper was launched, he was in jail on some technicality. He edited the paper from his cell for a time; then it failed completely.

He started a non-traveling show in a saloon, with the high-sounding name of Vauxhall Garden. The show lasted two months, then disappeared from public view.

He started a boarding house. He failed at that, too.

He invested all the money he could raise in a venture to manufacture bear's grease. It was supposed to grow hair on bald heads. It didn't.

He bought the rights to manufacture a patented fire-extinguisher. It extinguished his money.

He wrote a lecture entitled "How to Make Money." That paid dividends. It was the first real money he had made.

He went into the circus business when he was 60, with success so great as to astonish the world.

The third man on our list of failures is Napoleon Bonaparte. He did not believe in the observation balloon corps which the French army maintained, and finally disbanded it. A single observation balloon at Waterloo would have saved him! He did not believe in a navy, nor in the effectiveness of naval warfare, and stubbornly held out against anything that had to do with the navy. England believed in the navy, bottled him up, and finished him off at Waterloo. His retreat from Moscow was the most disastrous of all. The tale of that retreat, of the starvation, freezing and butchering, is one of the most horrible in all the annals of slaughter.

So if you have had a few failures chalked up against you, don't worry about them. Regard them merely as lessons you needed to learn. Remember that all men have failed at some time or other. The one thing for you to do is to keep trying.

Swedish Runner Wins First U. S. Race

Gunder Haegg, Swedish runner, is congratulated by General Arnold, army air force commander, after Haegg's triumphant American debut in which he defeated Greg Rice in the 5,000 meter run at the National Championship AAU meet at Randall's Island stadium in New York. Mrs. Eddie Eickenbaker, wife of the famous war ace, and Swedish Minister Wilhelm Westrom look on.

LICE AND MITES IN THE CHICKEN FLOCK

Before the victory poultryman proceeds very far with the production of pullets for fall layers, he will probably find some opposing forces, states D. D. Moyer, Extension Poultry Husbandman at the Ohio State university. Among these are external parasites commonly known as lice and mites.

Lice can be detected on infested birds at any time. The parasites are about one-eighth inch long and are yellowish or grayish. Mites, however, are intermittent feeders, that is, they feed on the birds at night and spend the day hidden in the house. If you observe these small insects in the evening they are gray. In the morning, they are filled with blood and have a reddish color.

Lice hatch in about a week and mature in 10 or 20 days. Once the parasites make their appearance they multiply very rapidly. Lice can be controlled if houses are kept clean and sparrows and other birds are excluded. Screening the windows to keep out these carriers is important. If the flock does become infested, first, determine whether lice or mites are present because separate treatments must be used.

For lice, nicotine sulphate can be painted on the roost just before roosting time, at the rate of one ounce to 10 to 12 feet of roost space. The nicotine fumes will kill the mature lice but a second application in about a week is necessary to kill the ones which hatched from eggs that were present when the first treatment was given.

For mites, the house must be thoroughly cleaned and the interior and equipment such as walls, roosts, and nests painted with a compound of Cresol cresol dip, or a disinfectant and wood preservative such as Carbolineum. However, birds must be kept out of the house until the fluid has soaked into the wood and the surface is dry. If the house is given a thorough cleaning and disinfecting this fall there should be no trouble with these parasites in the victory flocks.

PRELUDE TO WAR

By LYTLE HULL
FOR POST BELLUM APPETITES

After this war there will probably be even more changes in our way of living than there were after the last war, for with each succeeding decade we seem to progress more rapidly in the sciences and in mechanics. Maybe in a few million years we will grow smart enough to devise some method of preventing the wholesale murder called war.

War is a devastating destroyer, not only of material things, but far more important—of that most vital element in our social setup—youth. But even war has some compensations—in that it hastens scientific and mechanical research and evolution. It has been said, for instance, that the tremendous advances made in the prevention of social diseases during our First World War have almost balanced the destructive effect upon youth occasioned by the terrible loss of life during that war. Spectacular steps were taken in surgery, aviation, radio, manufacturing methods and unnumbered other lines.

This war will create like advances and, if anything, even more sensational. As an instance—the tin can which has "suckled" our new generation since infancy, will in many cases be replaced by paper containers of frozen foods. Fresh frozen delicacies from far off lands and unfamiliar climates will be purchased at the corner grocery shop just as we now buy a can of tomatoes from New York state or of pineapple from California. And these delicious foods will be just as fresh in the stew pot in Poland as they were on the day they were picked in Siam or Palestine.

Ships will be fitted with enormous sub-zero space and will carry the freshly frozen meats, fruits and vegetables of one part of the earth to another. Every grocer will have glass covered, low temperature cases from which the marketer will select her groceries just as the now does from bins and shelves and counters.

Every mechanical refrigerator will be equipped with a large compartment which maintains a temperature of around zero, and when the frozen groceries or meats are delivered they will be placed there until used. Separate low-temperature containers—whole before the war were so expensive—will be manufactured at prices which the majority of families can afford to pay. They will be made in much smaller sizes, also, because every grocer will have "frozen storage" and it will not be necessary for the nearby family to carry more than an all supply.

There are today about 65 varieties of frozen foods. After the war there will probably be several hundred and many of these will be cooked before they are frozen. Let us hope they are not also pre-masticated and pre-digested; there is still a certain amount of pleasure in those occupations.

Great processing plants will doubtless spring up in every country and in districts adapted to the growing of fine vegetables; and perhaps near the great storerooms of Chicago and Fort Worth. Thus fresh picked fruits and vegetables and properly killed and hung meats will be processed on the spot and shipped in "sub-zero" trucks, airplanes, railroad cars and ships to the far corners of the earth. And there won't be any ration books; we can gorge ourselves to death.

CUBS PLAYED SHELBY TEAM

The Cub Scout Pack meeting at Seltzer Park was well attended Tuesday night with forty people from Plymouth and the balance of a crowd of 120 boys and parents from Shelby. Plymouth Cubs met the challenge to win the game and carried away the first game 13 to 3 with the second teams of both packs playing. The next game was won by the Shelby Pack 2 with a score of 9 to 0 with the first teams competing. Frank King and Stewart Hawk of the Shelby team, and James Root of Plymouth were the coach and trainer for the Plymouth teams. Both sides showed good signs of stiff practice, and the sidelines furnished plenty of riotous cheering while the game proceeded at Seltzer's Park south field.

The regular June Pack meeting followed in the main pavilion, after which refreshments were enjoyed. Next of Plymouth, then Shelby West-side were also present with a crack team, but due to short time were unable to participate in the ball game.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Why can't we have a swimming pool in Plymouth? From what I have seen of Plymouthites gathering at neighboring pools lately, it would be grand support for a pool of our own, don't you think?

They even tell me that the young people are willing to start a fund for such a purpose if the public is willing to make their contributions along with them. So not be surprised, if, in the very near future some youngster calls at your home asking for a small donation toward the swimming pool fund. Just put yourself in their place and imagine you are working for the same thing they are so earnestly working for.

I know plenty of older people who would benefit by this form of recreation as well as the younger ones.

From all the materials that are going to waste in the desolate "old grade school site" and which is an "eyesore" to the people living near as well as the community as a whole, it seems to me it could be used to a better advantage.

From all reports, the young people didn't get much support from their past recreation problems, so, come on Public, and give to a something that is not only beneficial in a recreational way, but a healthful one as well. Are we a generous public?

A NEW DAUGHTER

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Blackford are the parents of a daughter born Sunday afternoon at the Shelby Memorial hospital.

MRS. MIRIAM BECKWITH REACHES 90TH BIRTHDAY

Just because she celebrated her ninetieth birthday Monday isn't any reason for Mrs. Miriam Beckwith to be a "back number". She has an exceptionally good memory, enjoys good health and assists with the household duties daily.

Although Monday was the actual date, the family observed it on Sunday and had a family dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Beckwith of Tiffin and Mr. and Mrs. Ott Kinsel present. The afternoon was then devoted to open house with neighbors and friends calling. She was remembered with cards, plants, flowers and gifts of money.

Mrs. Beckwith is a native of Richland county and has resided in Plymouth for the past 62 years, 37 of which she has lived in her present home. She is the mother of three children, Lloyd of Tiffin, Mrs. Addie Kinsel of Plymouth, and a daughter, Ethel, deceased. Her husband "Hetnie" well-known merchant died seven years ago. She makes her home with the daughter, Mrs. Kinsel and while her eyesight is fading, she greatly enjoys the daily radio programs, as well as the ball games.

Last Day To Purchase

Your Auto Tax Stamps

Today, July 1st is the last day for purchasing the automobile use tax stamps for the ensuing year. That is, if you expect to use your car today and thereafter. Of course, if it is up for the duration and you do not use the car, it won't be necessary to purchase the stamp until you drive your car again. They are on sale continuously, the cost being determined by the number of months it is used.

No papers are necessary for securing the new stamps, which this year are of a sickly yellow hue, just the $5.00.

Hospital Superintendent To Remain in Willard

Miss Gertrude Baker, superintendent of the Willard Municipal hospital, has agreed to remain at the head of the hospital at the insistence of the board. Since announcement of her resignation on May 28th, the board has received many urgent appeals by letter and in person that Miss Baker be retained if at all possible. She has been in charge since the town has had a municipal hospital.

HAVE YOUR OLD FISHING BADGE?

With the bass season open in all sections of Ohio, except Lake Erie, which opens July 1, and a new "spurt" in license buying resulting, conservation commissioner Don Waters today made another appeal to purchasers of fishing licenses to hunt up last year's "badges" in which the licenses must be displayed.

Many folks heeded the suggestion earlier in the year but a check of license dealers recently reveals that the percentage of those furnishing their own badges is rather small. "We can't get the metal for badges," Mr. Waters said and suggested that some folks having more than one metal container had turned them in at the time they purchased a license.

ASK COOPERATION OF HOUSEWIVES

The Office of Price Administration is appealing to all housewives and others purchasing foodstuffs and groceries to immediately devise a plan of spreading out their purchases during the month-end as far as possible so as to avoid last-minute rushes at retail stores which could upset and demoralize the even flow of rationed commodities. For the six-day period between July 1-7 six blue process food stamps will be effective. Blue stamps K, L, M will remain valid through July 7. Stamps N, P, Q become effective July 1 and remain so through August 7. Red stamps J, K, L, M, N for the purpose of meats, fats, oils and cheeses expired on Wednesday, July 31. Blue stamps P, Q, R, S become effective on the following dates: P, July 4; Q, July 4; R, July 11; S, July 18.

With shortages already existing throughout every section of the country in many rationed items, the seriousness of unsystematic buying cannot be too forcibly brought to the attention of War Price and Rationing boards. It is hoped that the recent experience with expiring store stamps, where stores were virtually besieged by customers trying to spend their expiring stamps, will not be repeated in meat and processed food establishments.

LETTERS FROM OUR BOYS IN THE SERVICE

Somewhere in Tennessee
June 22, 1943
Hi, Tommy:
Now that maneuvers are over and we are back to normal life again I will try to write a few lines. The tank outfits are not heard of much. I will try to describe some of our activities and what we do.

blackout without any instruments or be called to fix a set while a tank is moving. We did it day and night on this maneuver and now we have some of your very best radio technicians.

During these maneuvers we were left aside, one reason we won every problem in the three months of maneuvers. We did the same thing while we were on the desert of California.

We are just as good a shot with any gun as any of the other outfits; the boys get practice on firing ranges as do the rest.

Some of the infantry units that were against us would move all night to get into position then when day light would come in a few minutes against the iron monsters.

We can also fight dismounted and are trained for it.

I have served two years in tanks and was a driver most of the time, the length of time for a driver is most over that time. I finally was turned over to the communications section, driving a tank across country is the roughest ride you can get.

It has come time for me to close and my time is getting short so I will have to go back to work.

Radios are easy to repair in a shop but try to repair one in a for the paper. But I will try to tell you a little about the island where I am located. First, I am well and still going strong. I am gaining weight every day. It seems to me, for I only weigh about 195 pounds now. It won't be long until I am as big as my dad, but not the belly that he has.

The weather over here is very good. We have hot days and a little rain. When it rains it doesn't let a little down but it comes down in buckets full, and when the sun shines, it is a real sunshine.

We have a good camp and a good battalion to be in. In which I dare not say what we are doing, but we are doing our best to help lick the Japs and their buddies.

We have orange, lime, lemon and coconut trees. Wouldn't it be nice to have an orange tree in your front yard, and you could just go out and pick them when you wanted an orange? Well, the people here can pick them right in their front yards. Of course the coconut trees are just a little tall for a woman to be climbing, but some of the young kids would enjoy climbing them in Plymouth, just to get to the top.

Well, this is about all I can say this time Tommy, about the island and for the people there is a white race and a dark race and both are very nice people.

I have been getting the paper alright and look for it every week. I suppose the square is about the same, and the shop is working good.

Be sure to send the paper that you put this in, I would like to see to who story looks from the other side. I have been raised from Sea 1/c to Coxswain. I may make the last grade some day, I hope.

Lots of love,
Bill Moore

North Africa
June 1, 1943

Dear Mr. Thomas:
Just a line to say hello to everybody, and to let them know that everything is going along swell. It is getting very warm and sultry here as the summer days begin to roll in. We are pretty well prepared for the diseases which are very prominent over here. We take antiripin pills four times a day, and wear the ones used to prevent malaria fever. The mosquito over here is a lot larger than in the states. I happened to be on guard duty one night and was in a commotion in the air. Well, right above my head I saw a sight I never will forget. There were three mosquitos flying over here, they picked up an Arab's cow. I heard one of them say as they went over, where in the devil will we hide her, so that the big fellows will not find her? This is just an idea of how large the mosquitos are over here.

We are now arranged very well and as nice a place to sleep as any of the fellows have over here. We are dug down in the ground about five feet. This is the 2 of us that sleep in the same tent. The hole is dug about fifteen feet long and seven feet wide. This we have covered over with four another half inches, making a double tent. Then down through the middle of the tent we have a trench. This is about four feet deep, and an added protection against bombing. We have plenty of room in the tent for our gear, and we use candles to read by, that is, when we can get them.

We have the tent fixed so that one of my buddies can sleep on either side of the tent, and a fellow can fix up a pretty swell place if he just uses his initiative. I have had the pleasure of seeing a few sights while on the road that I would not have cared to miss for anything. The one odd thing that I have noticed over here is that, as long as I have been over here I have never seen a house that has been made of wood. All of them being of cement, and there are really some beautiful homes, as nice as any I ever have seen.

The other thing that I noticed is all, or most of their telephone poles and all of the bridges are made of cement also. They have cut some very fine concrete through some of the hardest rock, with nothing but home-made and a few G. I. tools. One thing about the inhabitants of Africa is that they have a very keen mind, at making different articles, with the poorest of tools.

I have as yet to see any action. The only thing that I have been able to see is a bombing, which was a good fifteen miles away from the time. The incident made a person feel a little queer at the time it was over, I also was near or in other words right beside of it. A German soldier after he had captured them. They joked with the boys, but were a little hot tempered. They were well fed and clothed. They seemed to be very confident that they were going to beat us, but I have an idea that their minds are changing after the way that we are moping them up now.

I have seen their captured cars and motorcycles and numerous other things that the fellows have been able to get after taking some place held by the enemy.

Yes, the war in Africa is now mostly history, and before long, all of us will be able to tell how we mopped up the Axis, which we all hope is soon.

Well I have not much more to write about, except that I want to say hello to mom and dad and the family, and to all of my friends.

I am now working in the headquarters intelligence section, and am getting along fine. Gee, I never knew before how it felt to be intelligent, but, all kidding aside I really like my work.

I am receiving the Advertiser now although it is a little late, I did it over and over and I do believe that I miss none of the news. It is one thing that I really wait for in mail call.

Well, it is time to go to work so I will say so long until later.
I remain as ever,
Pfc. Archie P. Garrett

possibly, probably—certainly in fact—another teaching position. But it would not be without Aunt Lavinia. And it would be with an Aunt Lavinia constantly more difficult to explain to normal people.

He ended, "Boys and girls of Clifford, children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren of free men and free women—your town counts on you to stand for right, to hold the light of honor burning bright and free." He stood up, he pushed his chair away. "Of honor," he repeated solemnly.

Susan helped type and address envelopes for a while and went around to talk to members of her class who were living in Clifford. But as soon as her school closed, she was sent for by some Cadoret corps officer as it was just into the state whom she had promised to visit, and after that Canby's time was so much taken up with driving over the mountain and back to allow him to give more than cast-iron help to the boys' fight.

Both sides adopted every campaign device the other side invented. The other side was a little better and invented new ones of their own. The Bowen-Randall-Gardner works were so well written as the ones arranged by Timothy with Mr. Dewey to help him strike the accurate middle of the Clifford note. They did not need to be; the wine they offered needed no bush. The other side was a little better and invented new ones of their own. SHILOH NEWS

A. T. FERRELL PASSES AWAY

It was a feeling of personal loss among a host of friends at this place when news was received by George Shafer early Thursday morning of the death of Albert T. Ferrell. Mr. Ferrell died at his home in Saginaw, Mich., at 8:00 o'clock Wednesday evening, having been in failing health for several months.

Mr. Ferrell was a native of Shiloh. He celebrated his 80th birthday on February 6.

He was the son of Silas and Anzella Chew. Ferrell, attended Shiloh school and received his business training at Ohio Northern University.

He was associated with his father in business here a few years, and after his marriage to Amelia Sherman of Plymouth on Feb. 16, 1889, they located in Saginaw.

His business achievement in the manufacture of farm implements made him a multi-millionaire.

In his home city he was the man that financially and morally supported all civic projects. At one time when the Welfare League campaigners had worked hard and failed to make their quota, it was A. T. Ferrell that said: "I pledge you what you need." It was a climatic gift of $2,000 that covered the shortage and put them $1,000 over the top.

He was the donor of the bronze plaque which was unveiled on Thursday, May 5, 1938, when the Handley School was dedicated. Mr. Ferrell and Mr. Handley had been life-long friends.

His philanthropies have never failed his home town. He made Mt. Hope cemetery beautiful with his generous gifts of money, and he also provided the means for the landscaping of the cemetery which will be a lasting monument to his memory.

Ferrell Field, the baseball diamond, was named for the donor. He frequently contributed $100 gifts to the boys for the upkeep of baseball in Shiloh. He was a member of the first base ball team of this place and never lost interest in the game.

His patriotism was shown in the gift of several hundred silk flags, one for each pupil. Many of those pupils cherish those flags today.

He was especially interested in the centennial of Mt. Hope Lutheran church, and the purchase of the new organ, and of which he frequently referred, and was happy for its great success. His personal gifts to friends will commemorate his memory in their lives, always.

Surviving are one daughter and two grand daughters. Funeral services and burial were in Saginaw. Several cousins reside here.

RECOVERING SLOWLY

Eddie Kranz, who received a dangerous head injury on Tuesday of last week, and received treatment at the hospital, is gradually improving and a host of friends of the family will be glad for his complete recovery.

CHURCH LADIES ANNOUNCE MEETING

The WSCS of the Methodist church will meet with Mrs. E. R. Haines in Plymouth on Thursday, July 8. Miss Ada Gedney and Mrs. Ruth Forsythe are the assistant hostesses.

Grand Matron Inspects Chapter

Saturday evening, June 26, was a gala night in the history of Angelus Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star. Presiding the meeting the official guests and the officers of the chapter were entertained at a splendid dinner at the Tower Restaurant.

In the chapter room was a gorgeous display of white lilies and red roses. The lilies were in honor of the Grand Worthy Matron, Lily Cooper.

The flower garden effect in the dining room was admired by everyone and many favorable comments were made by visitors as well as members. The art displayed there was the work of Mrs. E. J. Stevenson.

The grand worthy matron inspected the chapter and the ritualistic work was given for two candidates.

The grand matron commended the work of the worthy matron, Ebba Briggs, and the worthy patron, Mrs. E. Briggs, very highly and for these outstanding points gave the chapter a report of "excellent."

During the exemplification instrumental music was furnished by Mrs. E. C. Geisinger and vocal, by Mrs. O. C. Butler, and Mrs. Paul Ruckman, and all appreciated by the group, which numbered about one hundred.

Refreshments were planned for the entire group by Mrs. Jane Hamman, Mrs. Leona Moser, Mrs. Jean Smith and Mrs. Inez Hatfield. Mrs. Beatrice Malone and Mrs. Constance served, and Mrs. Beatrice Guthrie poured.

Official guests included the grand worthy matron, the district governing matrons from districts No. 4 and 10. Grand representatives of Louisiana and New Hampshire and the president, vice president, and secretary of district No. 10. Other guests, a number of worthy matrons and patrons with their members from Findlay, Medina, Mansfield, Bucyrus, Carey, Upper Sandusky, Plymouth, Shelby, Crestline, Gallon, Greenwich and North Fairfield, were also in attendance.

W. W. NESBITT WILL INSTRUCT IN TIRO SCHOOL

The Cass Village Board of Education agreed at the last meeting to share the services of W. W. Nesbitt, local vocational agricultural teacher, with the Tiro schools. This means one half day teaching in each school. Both the Tiro and Shiloh boards prefer a full time teacher, but due to the shortage of teachers it is necessary to do this as an emergency measure.

The war has caused a shortage of vocational agricultural teachers, due to the fact that 35 are leaving the work in this state and only five are available for replacement, consequently at least 30 schools will have to double up if they are to have instructors at all.

AFTERNOON MEETING OF FAMILIES

ABOUT OUR SOLDIER BOYS

U. S. Coast Guard Training Station, St. Augustine, Fla.

Dear Grandma: I'm sorry I couldn't write before but I have been pretty busy. Before I forget, thanks a lot for the book I find it swell to read. Thanks again. How are things with you? I sure hope everything is all right.

Things here are swell and I like it a lot. We get up at six o'clock and at 6:45 go out. I am a P. P., or permit dicit with the band. I wish you could come to Florida and see this station. It is sure nice. It was a big hotel and now the Coast Guards have taken it over. Each room has its own bath. There is a big garden in front, and it's swell to look at. We go to play when the flag is raised at 8 o'clock. We have until 8:30 and then go to band practice until 10:30. At 11:30 we eat again. Every day we play a concert at 12:15 for the officers. They are very nice. In the afternoon we practice a little while, then the rest of the day is our own, if we don't have to play for a dance. We play for dances on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays. We don't play on Sundays, and we get out of the station at 10:30 and have until 12 to get in. We have it nice, but I get pretty tired, too. The dentist is here fixing our teeth, and they sure are getting fixed good. The hospital is really something to see. They have everything you can think of and then some. On the 6th of July I am going with the band to West Palm Beach to stay a few days. I am looking forward to having a good time. The food we are given is swell and so is everything else.

I suppose my writing looks a bit lax, but I am laying in bed and I think you will understand. Well, Grandma, I think I better close and tell you a little more. Love, BUDD

This letter is from Milton Lyie Guthrie to his grandpa, Mr. Luther J. Guthrie. Bud, the name by which he is best known, will be 19 on July 12. He was a member of the high school band at Akron, and when his teacher and band instructor was conscriptioned to take as many of his pupils as possible for Coast Guard Service, Bud was chosen because of his exceptional musical talent, and his parents gave their consent. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Guthrie of Akron.

SIX INCH SERMON

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

'A People In Distress'
Lesson for July 4: Exodus 1:6-14; 2:23-25.

'Golden Text: Exodus 3:12.'
We begin the third quarter's sermon, "God in the Making of a Nation: Era of Moses," with a picture of the Israelites in distress as the Pharaohs of Egypt were originally nomads and shepherds, and their origin and the ascendancy of Joseph led those kings to deal kindly with shepherds from Palestine. But in time a king arose "who knew not Joseph." And the natives who restored the throne to an Egyptian were not kindly disposed toward the Israelites.

Further, in nearly 400 years, the Israelites had no increased in number that Pharaohs were content to regard them as a menace to the safety of Egypt in time of war. And was another oppression of the Israelites with the design of reducing their number and of breaking their spirit.

We see the opportunity of God's providence in this oppression. The Pharaohs were a number who prospering in Egypt, had forgotten God. But they turned unto Him in "Joseph." And the natives who restored the throne to an Egyptian were not kindly disposed toward the Israelites.

Box From India Arrives
Souvenirs from India, the land of magic and mystery, were received in Plymouth last week by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gebert from their son, Neil, stationed in the Far East country.
This is the fourth box Neil has shipped home, each containing some native objects. A complete set of ivory chess, several elephants and a lion, were among the native objects. They are all beautiful with small gems for eyes and ivory for the tusks. This last box, though, was a vicious looking affair. Three large native knives that could be used for anything from cutting bamboo for their huts to beheading an enemy or perhaps killing an animal for dinner, were in the shipment. All the knives were hand-made with the handle wrapped at just the right place for a good hold with small strands of bamboo.

Then there were three hammered brass bowls with small indentations, said to be religious symbols. One of the bowls was filled with Indian money, annas, 2 annas and so on. Recently, the Dominion called in all money and re-issued a new series with King George VI inscribed on all coins. The natives, while not very well educated, are wise to the new issue and carefully inspect any coins paid them for work and make sure they are the legal coin.
A tablecloth, handwoven, was enclosed in a Fanny Farmer chocolate box, sent months ago to Neil by Mrs. Howard Smith. That the candy arrived at its destination was surely proved by the fact that the box made the return trip to Plymouth.
A musical instrument of some kind made from bamboo was another interesting object. Just how to go about playing it, tho, was another deep mystery from India. Perhaps when Neil comes marching home again he can give a demonstration of all these curious things—all but the knives, please.
