PEA CROP ABOUT HALF OF NORMAL

The pea crop grown in the district for the Crompton Canneries of Norwalk, will be less than half of last year, according to Herbert Pressing, manager. The peas also are of poorer quality, due largely to the early growing season.

The company had about 500 acres of peas planted in Huron county, according to William F. Scheid, field supervisor of the company. In addition to the peas, the cannery has 1600 acres of sweet corn already planted and about 600 more to plant.

The company also has 180 acres of cabbage in the Norwalk area in which many of the plants were lost. Replanting is impossible because of the shortage of plants.

Around the Square

(By Phineas Whittlesed)

WHEN I FOUND BEN BLANCH and unloading roof paint from the truck, and when the nails arrived in Brown & Miller's basement, I asked him: "Why don't you drive the truck through the door up to where you're stacking the cans? Ben made some kind of an alibi as to the reason why he didn't, but replied: "I'll tell you what I used to do when Bob and Fred Nimmmons ran the place. They'd buy their nails and wire an carload lots, and when a shipment would come in, I had to unload it. I used to drive a team of horses hitched to a wagon, and when the nails arrived I'd load up and drive clear through both doors to the south wall in the basement, and then BACK OUT the wagon and team." To which I can truthfully say: Ben knew how to handle his team. He told me that the space between the door was so small that the singletrees would rub against the side of the doorway. He's afraid of denting the hub cap on his truck, if he'd try to do it today.

SEVEN COME ELEVEN—That's the birthday of Victor Weaver, Wednesday, July 7, and Ye Hon. Phineas Whittlesed's comes the 11th. Ye, as a boy, grew up in Plymouth on his parents' farm west of town. He graduated from high school, and in some way took up with the Lehman's who operated the bakery here for a couple of years, and then moved to New London. Ye went along, and in the span of a few years he's married and a family, and works at the baking trade. Well, fellow congratulations and you should know by now that the kid dies like papa's pies and cakes better'n mama's!

LAST FEBRUARY Mr. Barcelona

opened up a leather supply house in Jacksonville, and has so far met with success, even under present conditions. Asked about conditions in the southern states, Mr. Barcelona made this prediction: "Food is going to be scarce, due mainly to manpower and to the fact that growers don't want to raise crops next year. For instance, to show you what I am referring to, here's an example. In Jacksonville we are paying 30 cents per pound for tomatoes, and pick them—2 cents grower had the good luck of producing a big crop of tomatoes, but no help to harvest them. ## MARY ANETTA HOLMES WEDS ENSIGN DAWSON

Monday's edition of The Mansfield News-Journal printed the wedding of Miss Mary Anetta Holmes and Ensign Robert E. Dawson, which occurred Sunday afternoon in Mansfield. The details of the event are as follows:

Candles shone softly over a formal wedding ceremony Sunday afternoon when Miss Mary Anetta Holmes and Ensign Robert E. Dawson said their "I do's" at the altar of the First Christian Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. Holmes, 462 1/2 Bowman street, and Ensign Dawson's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dawson, R. D. 1, Plymouth.

Traditional white satin was worn by the bride as she was given in marriage by her father. The lovely gown was fashioned with a tight-fitting bodice, full skirt with a short train and the sweetheart neckline was trimmed with seed pearls in the shape of leaves.

Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift from the bridegroom. She wore a finger-tip length veil which was attached to a tiara of seed pearls and worn virgin style.

She carried a white satin prayer book with one white orchid. Vows were exchanged before a flower-banked altar, arranged with beauty baskets of Picardy gladioli, blue delphinium and lilies and white asters. Palms formed a background for the two-seven branch candelabra.

Nuptial music was softly played by Mrs. H. R. Clingan, organist, previous to the ceremony at 2:30 o'clock. Her selections were "Liebestraum," by Liszt, "Romance" by Rubenstein, "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice" and "Indian Love Call."

Staff Sgt. Raymond Holmes, brother of the bride, was the soloist, singing "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me," accompanied by Mrs. Clingan.

Mrs. Paul Eley of Spencerville, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid and Mrs. Eva Imler of this city (Mansfield), was matron of honor. Mrs. Imler's gown was of yellow chiffon made with short sleeves, sweetheart neckline, tight bodice and full skirt in floor length style. The bodice was fashioned with chiffon bands which ended in little bows in the front. Mrs. Eley's frock was of aqua chiffon fashioned with short sleeves, a round neckline, tight bodice and full skirt, floor length. The sleeves were styled with two small strips of ruffing. Both attendants wore a single strand of pearls.

Mrs. Imler carried a bouquet of blue delphinium and pink roses and Mrs. Eley's flowers were pink pompons, asters and white roses.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Holmes wore a street length dress of navy blue sheer with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias.

Mrs. Dawson's frock was of a single strand of pearls. The bride's train was of a street length powder blue sheer with white accessories. She also wore gardenias.

Ushers were Paul Eley of Spencerville and Leo Russell of Shiloh, cousin of the bridegroom. Serving as best man was Stanley Huston of Shiloh, the bridegroom's close friend. Nuptial service was read by the pastor, Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger.

Following the service a reception for 50 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents. Refreshments were served buffet style from a table centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Lighted tapes and small American flags were also table decorations.

Later in the day the couple left for a trip to Michigan. For traveling Mrs. Dawson wore a light blue alpaca sheer two piece suit, with navy blue accessories. Her corsage was of orchids. Following their wedding trip they will reside at 306 East Walnut street, Kokomo, Ind.

The bride was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and has been secretary in the office of the superintendent of schools here for several years. She is a member of the Alpha Pi Sigma sorority in Mansfield. Ensign

ABOUT OUR SOLDIER BOYS

Here is an interesting letter from Sgt. Robert Moser, who is in Texas, and was written Sunday, June 27.

Dear Mother: Here I am, way down in San Antonio, Texas. I've really been getting around lately. Down to Louisiana and then back to Texas. We had a very long and hard trip to get here, but I enjoyed it very much because of the beautiful country I got to see. We left Louisiana maneuvers area at 3:30 Saturday morning and got into San Antonio about 8:30 Saturday evening. The distance was 435 miles but in an army truck it seemed about 1400 miles.

The country around Paris made me dislike Texas, but people often told me about the beautiful country down along the Gulf of Mexico, but I really didn't think there was until I saw it. It is beautiful with palm trees, beautifully colored homes and flowers. We went through towns that compared favorably with any of those in Ohio, but there were much more beautiful, mostly because there are not many factories.

We went through Lake Charles, Orange, Beaumont, Houston and many other attractive cities. We are staying at Ft. Sam Houston in San Antonio. It's located practically in the city. We have nice barracks and I tasted my best food since I have been in the army. We brought enough drivers to take back 78 trucks. It will be a convoy three miles long. The size of trucks is to be in one long string. It will be a hard trip back but we're going to take two days to make it because some of the men are inexperienced drivers.

Last night I went down town in San Antonio to see the sights. It's a very pretty town and it recalled to my mind a lot of history I had in school. Most of the people here are Mexicans which greatly adds to the colorfulness of the town. There is a small stream and it is named the Alamo. It is a really beautiful sight in one long string. It will be a hard trip back but we're going to take two days to make it because some of the men are inexperienced drivers.

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

God Calls a Leader.
Lesson for July 11: Exodus 3:1-12.
Golden Text: Exodus 3:10.
The first thing God did in making a nation was to call a great leader. He was a man prepared by the best education the world at that time afforded. And he had the training of an experience of forty years spent as a shepherd in the very country through which he was destined to lead his people.

But neither culture nor experience had availed anything without God. Moses had slain an Egyptian who was beating an Israelite, but he accomplished nothing and was forced to flee from the country. During his forty years as a shepherd in the land of Midian, he must have lost all hope of aiding his oppressed people in Egypt. And his task attempt to lead his people to his own hands had delayed the deliverance of his people for a generation.

Yet the time had come when culture and experience would be used when God commanded and prepared the way. The lone shepherd was brought to the crowning experience which every man must have to serve his people: God revealed himself to Moses in the burning bush. And when Moses shrank from the task of deliverance, God assured him of his own Almighty Presence and gave him as a token the promise that God and his delivered people would worship on the mount of Sinai that towered above them.

And the Sinai of our dreams, if we commit ourselves wholly to God's service, should lead us on day by day, with the assurance that God is with us.

Approaching Wedding Date Revealed At Lovely Party

The approaching marriage of Miss Thora E. Buckman, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fay Buckman of Plymouth, to Carl William Laubscher was revealed Friday night to a group of eleven friends at a party given by her mother, Mrs. Marion Buckman, at their home in Mansfield.

Friends learned of the approaching marriage when luncheon was served. Clever favors made of gumdrops in the form of tiny women were used. The hat worn by the candy model was comprised of a small thimble for the crown and lacy dolly trim. In a tiny scroll placed about the waist were the words "You don't have to keep it under your hat. The date is 7 7 7." Under the hat was found another scroll revealing the date set by the couple for their wedding.

The luncheon was served at small tables. Each table was centered with a rosebud.

During the evening cards were placed at three tables.

The couple will wed on August 15 in an open church ceremony at the St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church. Rev. Paul Saleste will read the nuptial services.

Miss Ruckman is a graduate of Mansfield senior high school and is employed in the office of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Her brother, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. $300,000,000 FROM CHILDREN

Estimates indicate that the school children of the nation, encouraged by their teachers, bought in the neighborhood of $300,000,000 worth of war bonds and stamps during the past school year. For ten months, that would show a purchasing rate of $30,000,000 a month.

Now, with the children on a two months' vacation, let us hope that they don't take a vacation from saving. The investment of the school children is needed as much as ever and, in addition, it would seem a shame to teach the children of our land such an excellent habit and then let them break away from it during the summer.

During July and August, the encouragement for the continuation of buying war savings stamps must come from the parents. Even though the parents may be investing heavily in bonds, it would seem advisable to enable their children to earn the money to buy regularly.

HEADLINES FOR HITLER

Whether or not Mr. Hitler had anything to do with the recent race riots in our country, he was certainly heartily applauding while they were going on.

In fact, as Hitler has looked over the headlines in our newspapers for several months he must have got a lot of enjoyment from them. The strike in the coal mines was undoubtedly his favorite story and the other strikes and threats of strikes also made juicy tidbits for his reading.

Imagine how thrilled we would be if we read that all German coal miners had stopped work or if we read that some of Hitler's prize munition factories had closed down because of strikes or that German munition manufacturing was slowed up because of absenteeism.

It is true that Hitler has had plenty of bad news to read lately too—headlines about our plans to build 100,000 planes in a year, headlines about paralyzing raids on his factories and headlines about Allied victories all over the world.

But to win this war quickly we must give Hitler nothing but bad news. In his present mood of grabbing at every straw, a strike, a riot or a slow-down in America means new hope and new morale in Germany.

COOPERATION—THE ESSENCE OF TRUE PROGRESS

In the fall of 1937 the town of Ware, Mass., had a staggering blow. The company which operated the cotton mills announced that it was going to suspend; not only suspend but it had sold all the property and machinery to people in the South. The company had been operating for more than one hundred years. It had supported the town. The town was stunned. The living of the people depended on the cotton mills; that was very food. And now the mills were not only to be closed but to be moved away.

The town selectmen got together and found that the men who had bought the mills would take $50,000 for them. Then the selectmen hit on an idea. They called the people together in the town hall and asked them to cooperate instead of bickering and fighting as they had been accustomed. They were told that if they could raise $32,500 they could keep the fourteen mills there. The town hall was packed, jammed; loud-speakers were set up; the street was filled.

The people realized that if they didn't work together, they would sink. Old quarrels were patched up; ancient enemies forgotten.

Stock was sold for $5 a share. When the gavel fell for the last time, every cent of the money was subscribed. The number who had bought: 962.

The Ware Trust company, a bank which was 115 years old, offered to lend the people money at a low rate of interest. The people flocked to it. The payment to the Southern owners was met.

Now the selectmen had to find a company who would move into the cotton mills. They approached a shoe company, told their story, invited them to send representatives to look over the mills, sold the shoe company the idea, signed. The shoe company converted an old weave shed into a shoe plant. In three months the shoe company had 400 people working in the old cotton mills.

The selectmen went to visit a woolen company, told their story; the woolen mill sent representatives, moved in. Two companies now.

Then the "Ware Knitters" moved in.

Well, today the town of Ware has seventeen different industries; no two of the companies make the same kind of goods. On top of this the town of Ware (as it is called) has almost three times as many people working in the old cotton mills as the cotton company had. And the payroll is much larger than it was. The people are prosperous and happy.

What a fine lesson there is in this: Cooperation. What wonders it can accomplish. If the people had begun to quarrel and fight, the town would have been lost. This lesson can be carried into almost every business. Instead of working at cross-purposes, with bickering and petty quarrels, keep your eye on a bigger, finer goal. The advancement of all.

LETTERS FROM OUR BOYS IN THE SERVICE

Pt. George G. Meade, Md.
July 1, 1943
Dear Tommy:
I've been reading in the Plymouth Advertiser what all the boys have been doing and thought they might like to hear what the M. P.'s do. (beside picking other soldiers up).
Last week we got orders we were to go to New Port News, Va. and pick up a bunch of prisoners of war. We left camp at 11:00 and went to Camp Patrick Henry where we stayed for two days, because the boat was late coming in. Then at last we left Camp and went into the docks and we got there in time to see the last train load of German soldiers leave.

What surprised me, was the way the German boys are built and disciplined. They were the biggest and huskiest bunch at fellows that I ever saw. While they were being loaded on the train you didn't hear a sound out of them.

Our boys got a big kick out of watching them march. When they started all in step with no leader, they did the typical "German Goose steps".

We had all Italian prisoners on our train. They are a very nice bunch of fellows and they don't like Mussolini at all. They call him a "puffed toad". They are very much under fed and all sizes. They never had a good meal until our mess Sergeant fed them. They hadn't seen any meat for over a year.

All of them were glad to be in this country. The M. P.'s were armed with 45 cal. Thomson sub machine guns. There were 50 prisoners to a car and two guards inside and one on the platform at each end of the car and all windows were locked, which I think was unnecessary, because you couldn't have chased them out of the car.

I was talking to the boys that escorted them from Africa and they were short of M. P.'s to guard the prisoners so they gave guns to Italians and let them guard the Germans. The German is very sullen. One of their officers spit in the guard's face and well, being an American you can imagine what happened to him. Anyway he won't spit in anyone else's face for a while.

We had 298 prisoners on our train and we took them to Georgia to some internment camp. You can print what you want to of this letter and I don't want to take up too much space, so I'll close and be looking forward to the next issue of the paper. Tell all the folks at home I said hello and hope to see them soon.

Sincerely,
James Phillips

News Briefs of Interest to Employees Gathered Here and Yon Around Our Local Plant

SO MANY INTERESTING NEWS items have been floating around lately until I've decided to resume an attempt to tell you each week about the little things in life, which to many of us, is still news. We don't intend to print the "scum" or drivel from the cupola, but if you have a visitor, or know of something which you think the rest of the boys would like to know about, tell us.

IN TALKING to Elmer Markley Friday morning, he told me that he was leaving Friday evening for the Bucyrus hospital, where he will undergo an operation and for treatment. Elmer hasn't been feeling good lately, and on top of it all his nerves are a little tense, at least that's what he says. Elmer isn't Scotch by any means, but he's been anticipating the operation for quite a while, he needs the treatment, a two weeks rest cure, and a general rest. "So, I've decided to get the whole works at once, and at the end probably do a little fishing," so states Markley. Well, good luck, fellow, and we'll be thinking of you.

IT WOULD have been a whole lot less painful if Dominic Dorian had had a manicure instead of using the same in the pattern shop. Thursday, while working on the sander, in a most mysterious way, Dominic got his fingers right up against the fast-running strip of sandpaper. As a result his four fingernails were neatly trimmed (too much so), and his fingers badly and painfully burned. He was forced to stay away from work a few days. And, we're glad the accident wasn't any more serious than it turned out to be.

JUNE PROVED to be a low month in accidents over the plant. Since the beginning of the Safety Campaign or contest, which started the first of June, the number of mishaps greatly decreased. February was the banner month, there being 17 accidents recorded, and June's mishaps only totalled eight. For the six months ending June 30, there were 78 accidents which required the services of a physician. No first aid cases are included in the above figures.

SINCE THE SAFETY campaign started June 1, everyone seems to have taken a real interest in copying the award, the American Eagle Safety Plaque for their individual department, but the results are far beyond the expectations of all, as there were many ties. In the factory division, 8 out of 12 departments tallied up the same number of points, and in the foundry four out of six departments crossed the line, neck and neck, making four ties. This proves that by "thinking" accidents can be reduced.

MANY CHANGES in OFFICE personnel have taken place in the past year, especially among the girls. We'll try to introduce them to you from time to time, and let you know "who the many" are. First, we'll tell you about the little lady who is named Dolores Byerly. She's from New London — just out of high school, and started work here six weeks ago. You'll find her in Harry Vandervert's office working on all kinds of records, and HOW she works... just as busy as a bee all day long. I can't give you a clear "word picture" of her... but I'll try... blond, blue eyes, and I'd say about five and one-half feet tall... 110 (the weight is my guess from observation). She's personality plus, and just the ideal type office girl... she doesn't chatter all the time. I asked if she had any hobbies, and to this she replied: it takes me 45 minutes to get to work, and I'm at the office at 7:00... leave at 5:30 and by the time I get home, a bite to eat, I'm ready to sleep. Hobbies? I have no time for them." She didn't say anything about her "boy friend" hours.

conceived by a group of officials and employees is the "Employment Benefit Fund" which was set up here at the plant some time ago. The fund will be used for employees who are on the sick list and who pass away. At death the benefit pays $150, and if an employee is off from work due to illness, he receives for two weeks, $20; three weeks, $30; and four weeks, $40. The fund is built up through contributions by the Fate-Root-Heath company, the Plymouth Order of Merchants (shop union), the Foremen's Association and the concessions. It may be added that the concessions include the milk, candy and peanut machines. James Root is the chairman of the committee and other members are Rollo Van Wagner, Ned Earnest, Otis Downend and Park Mosler.

Washington, D. C. (NWNS)—Ever since the state governors got together in Columbus and compared notes on how the federal government is gradually taking over control of their states, there has been a rapidly developing movement here to cut down on the activities of out-of-Washington offices of federal agencies.

Some of the governors pointed out that the number of federal employees located in their states is five to six times as great as the number of state employees. They analyzed how these federal agencies were taking over one state power after another. As the facts came out, the governors became more and more angry over the situation and finally all got together in passing a resolution to have their executive committee stop any further encroachment on their territory. They intend to have every new piece of legislation creating a peacetime bureau examined—and to work out amendments to such legislation which would put the administration of new bureaus under the state government.

Congressmen, who want the support of their state governors, are reviewing the statements of the governors with great interest. They realize that the majority of state leaders are in agreement with the sentiments strongly expressed by Governor Herbert B. Maw of Utah, who said:

"Today the bureaus are non-political. They owe their allegiance to no party. They are affected by no elections. They are not controlled by the will of the public. Yet they are one of the strongest single political influences in the nation, throwing the weight of their huge voting power not necessarily in support of those candidates of either party that are striving to carry out the mandates of the voters, but in support of those who will sustain them in their bureaucratic security and will not disrupt their organizations."

Political analysts here were particularly interested in Governor Maw's reference to these bureau workers as "non-political." It has been the general opinion that, since many of the bureaus were created by the New Deal, they are a strong New Deal force. But Governor Maw made it clear that, having become secure in their jobs, the bureaucrats were loyal only to themselves and would support whatever party would assure them that their particular bureau and their particular job would be supported.

Most of the more conservative members of the federal government, who have objected to the growth of bureaucracy anyway, see it as an extremely healthy sign to have the state leaders laying plans to get power away from the federal government and into the state governments.

Some keen observers here are under the impression that the federal bureaucracy is getting even bigger than the New Deal wants—and that its leaders now realize this by having millions of federal employees, they have created something which is beyond their power to control. When there was a scarcity of jobs and the New Deal gave work to thousands of people, those people became strong supporters of the party in power. But now, with jobs as plentiful as they are, this loyalty to the government is no longer so apparent.

Library Gets New Books

The local library underwent a thorough housecleaning the past week when the Misses Mildred Sloan, and Edith Jones of the Mansfield Library of which Plymouth is a branch, completed a six-day inventory.

Old out-dated, torn or out-of-date books were removed from the shelves and replaced with either new or better books on the same subjects. Several recent cash bequests, one from Mrs. Eleanor Gearl Whitney and another from Mrs. John A. Root, permitted the board to purchase a number of the newer books for which there has been a great demand. However, the number of requests far exceeds the amount of cash with which to purchase them, so if anyone would like to assist along these lines, any contributions will greatly aid the work.

Club Book Grows
Thirty-five members are now enrolled in the Sky Cruisers Club for young readers of the library. To date 100 planes are in the air, each plane representing a book read by a member. To complete the work each member must read 10 books within ten weeks and at the conclusion of this period will receive a certificate. The group is now in their sixth week, and before the contest ends approximately 300 planes are expected to be in the air.

New Books Listed
New books listed recently and now available are as follows: VALLEY OF DECISION—Lorenport; SEVEN CAME—THRU—Rickenbacker; GUADALCANAL DIARY—Tregaskis; MOTHER RUSSIA—Hindus; ELKAN COMEDY—Sarro; LIGHTS AROUND THE SHORE—Daman; CIRCLE IN THE WATER—Hull; THEY WERE EXPENDABLE—White; SHIP'S DOCTOR—Hooker; WOODS—Wilkie; STAIRS OF SAND—Grey; STRANGE WOMAN—Williams, and HUNGRY HILL—Du Maurier.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS
Next Thursday, July 15, Mrs. Martha Brown will celebrate her 92nd birthday. Until her advanced years made it impossible, Mrs. Brown enjoyed keeping up her own home, but recently she has resided with her son, Ben Parsel, of the Bucyrus road.

On July 18th, Mrs. Maude Reed will mark up her 82 birth day. Until the past week she has been capable not only of doing her own housework but also the care of her yard. At present she is recuperating from a heart attack suffered on Monday morning.

Another citizen of Plymouth who chatted up another birthday this month on July 6 was William Scarfeild, who was 73 years old. Mr. Scarfeild has been a farmer all of his life but until the past several years has resided in town to take life a little easier.

Best wishes from the village are extended these venerable citizens.

DOINGS in CONGRESS

By Cong. Wm. Lanks.

WE ARE traveling a dangerous road—the Road of Subsidies. Subsidies mean National Decay. When the Roman Empire was on its last leg, its rulers gave subsidies to prolong their rule. Is it possible that the bureaucracy is also on its last leg? Is it attempting to continue its rule of waste by giving subsidies? Subsidies are a deception and fraud. They would put millions on the public teat that has already been sucked dry to the extent of $114,000,000—the public debt.

SUBSIDIES ARE based upon the theory that we can tax ourselves into cheaper living. They are a delusion because if we pay them out of present taxation, then, for every fifty cents we receive we will have to tax ourselves $1.00. The other fifty cents will go to the pay-rollers that dish them out to us. Since we are already 114 billion dollars in debt subsidies will have to be paid out of additional borrowed money. They will have to be paid out of taxes collected when the war is over.

THEN WHEN our sons return from the victorious battlefields they will be compelled to help pay our board bill. I appeal to every father and mother, who has a son in the armed forces, to every brother and sister of the boys in uniform, to register a protest to such a cowardly and dishonorable attempt.

THE FARMER cannot be fooled. He knows that when the subsidy went into force on butter he was rolled back four cents a pound. Again, when the subsidy went into effect on beef, the rancher was rolled back one cent a pound. He lost $14 on every steer. Who got the subsidies—let the OPA answer. The consumer and producer were rolled back. The pay-roller and processor will get the subsidies.

THERE IS no honesty in subsidies. I know that 95 per cent who know what it is are opposed to it. The President's veto should have been over-riden. His message was not based upon facts but upon political expediency. I am sure it will be punctured by sad realities.

SUBSIDIES HAVE nothing to do with inflation. Inflation has been caused by printing three times as much money—eleven billion dollars—more than we ever had before. This money was given to the big concerns and now we are trying to siphon it away from the little fellow with one hand and feed him subsidies with the other. Ridiculous, but tragic.
