MAJ. MILLER

Major William Miller, 35, former Willard High school and University of Alaska football star, is missing in action during a flight over Austria, the War Department has informed his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Miller, of Willard.

After graduating from college, Major Miller taught at Plymouth high school and enlisted in July 1941. He was promoted to captain a year ago and went overseas in November, 1943.

He was recently promoted to major and has been the leader of a squadron of B-24 Liberator bombers, including 500 men, part of the 15th Air Force. His last letter to his parents stated that as squadron leader he accompanied the planes on every third mission. Major Miller is a brother of E. B. Miller, Plymouth, and has visited in Plymouth on several occasions since his enlistment into the service.

During the period in which he was listed as missing, exceptional heavy air raids were being made by planes both from the English and Italian bases. News reports released at this time stated that scores of fliers were forced to leave their planes, and it is believed that Major Miller may have been among the group.

DAIRYMEN PLAN TO ORGANIZE SERVICE UNIT IN HURON COUNTY

Nearly 100 Huron county dairymen met at the court house last Thursday evening and organized a Dairy Service Unit in Huron county. This dairy service unit is to include market service, owner-sampler testing, dairy herd improvement test, and plant test for those not already receiving this service.

A temporary committee was elected to set up the program in the county. The officers elected were Joe A. Lawler, Lynn township, chairman; W. F. Porter, of Blenheim township, vice chairman; Maurice Caswell, R. D. New London, secretary, and Harold Monroville and A. E. Gans, Blenheim, as members of the executive committee.

The action to organize a service unit followed a discussion given by C. C. Christian, Extension Dairy Marketing Specialist from Ohio State University, in his recent lecture at Willard last Tuesday.

HOLD MEETING

The Huron County Revision Board, consisting of Auditor Kent H. Woodward, Treasurer Harold B. Collins and C. E. Austin, chairman of the Huron County Board of County Commissioners, will meet in a few days to hear complaints regarding the recent periodically re-appraising of Huron County real estate performed by the Clemenshaw Co., a private auditing concern at a cost of $23,000. In the past the re-appraising was done by appraisers appointed in each taxing district at a cost ranging from $9,000 to $19,000.

GAS ADVISORY GROUP SET UP

INDEPENDENT FARMER TRACTOR COMMITTEE TO FUNCTION IN SHELBY AREA

Recent decision by the Office of Price Administration to permit marketing of tractor gasoline directly to their ration boards rather than through the Triple A for their tractor gasoline has resulted in the authorization of two agencies to act in an advisory capacity in the area of Plymouth and Shelby. Shelby Ration Board Chm. LeRoy Coffey disclosed Tuesday that officials of the Marketing Restriction Board met with Shelby ration board members and officers Monday afternoon and reached an agreement by which their county president, Carl Carnahan of Plymouth, and Foster Fuchler of near Shelby, county secretary, would submit names of three farmers from each of the four townships, Sharon, Jackson, Plymouth and Cass, to Chairman Coffey. From this list one man will be selected from each township to provide an advisory committee of four to sit at the Shelby ration board office to pass on off-highway gasoline applications. These men may not be affiliated with this protest association. They will receive no pay for their services and probably will meet two or three times a week in the beginning. Farmers will apply for their entire year's estimated needs and will be issued coupons for 60 percent of what the committee allows the rationing board to permit to be allotted this autumn.

The Triple A township committee will continue to operate as originally set up for those farmers who wish to apply through it.

MASONIC LODGE HOST TO STARS AND FELLOW MASONS MONDAY

Last Monday evening the Plymouth Order of Eastern Stars, their families and several out-of-town Masons with their families, were graciously entertained by the local Masons in the lodge rooms.

Upon entering the lodge room and being seated the ladies were presented with beautiful red, pink and white carnations.

Harry Trauger, Master of the Lodge, opened the program of the evening by extending a cordial greeting and welcome to the guests. He then introduced Forest Van Wagner, a Past Master of the Lodge, who informed the Stars of the program which was to follow had been planned for their benefit and in appreciation of the fine services served for the Masons on various occasions, during the past year. Mr. Van Wagner then stated that all the members of the cast were composed of the personnel from the Westinghouse Co., Mansfield, and that many of them can be heard frequently over radio station WMAN.

The first part of the program was an old fashioned minstrel, black faces, interloper, end men and so forth. The minstrel had several negro spirituals and semi-classical songs were rendered, both by the men's chorus and by solos. A tap dancer, who could really shake his feet, immensely pleased the audience. Between musical numbers the Masons and their guests were kept quite hysterical by the jokes, riddles, and puns from various members of the cast, and the audience seemed especially pleased when several of the local Masons were made victors of the jesters.

After a brief intermission the entertainers continued with quite a variety of acts and splendid musical selections including an eccentric dancing, a magic act and a chorus of dancing girls (or were they? You'll have to see Chub Van Wagner for evidence).

Without doubt, one of the highlights of the evening was the beautiful voice of Doris Rank, a prominent singer of Mansfield, and one who can be heard frequently on the radio. She rendered a lovely Spanish song and the ever famous "Rosary."

After ending the program (and what an ending! refreshments, consisting of ice cream, cake, and coffee were served to over one hundred who were present.)

Everybody admitted that the evening was well spent, and that they had witnessed one of the finest and clearest programs ever presented in Plymouth, all expressing their hope and desire of seeing the same group of entertainers back again in the not too distant future.

DEADLINE NEAR

ONE MORE WEEK IN WHICH TO PURCHASE LICENSES

Cylon W. Wallace, Registrar of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles today called motorists attention to the fact that only a short time remains to obtain their new 1944 auto license plate, before the deadline of April 1.

Wallace pointed out that there will not be an extension of the deadline until March 31 if anyone driving on April 1 with the old plates will be subject to arrest.

Only one plate will be issued this year and it is to be displayed on the rear of the vehicle.

Motorists are asked by the War Price and Rationing Board to write the number of their new plate on the cover of their gasoline ration book and tire inspection record.

In Plymouth, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Ervin are the deputy registrars and new plates can be purchased through them.

BANQUET FOR BALL TEAMS

LOCAL SQUADS 'GO AFTER' FOOD AT BANQUET HELD IN THEIR HONOR.

The closing event of the basketball season was the banquet held at the Evergreens in Mansfield on Thursday evening, March 16. The small private dining room was reserved for the occasion, where twenty persons enjoyed a sumptuous repast, which consisted of choice of meats, potatoes and gravy, lima beans, salad, pie, almonds, fruit, ice cream, cake, coffee, rolls and butter.

During the course of the dinner, Supt. Bailey, who has coached the team, presented awards to the Juniors and Seniors of the squad. Those receiving the gold basketballs were Sid Thomas, Quentin Ream, James Rhine, Tom Moore and James Crockett. The Juniors who received the gold medals were: Robert Berberick, James Rhine, Paul Scott and Gordon Sealth.

Some of the remarks heard by the reporter at the banquet:

"I sure was some feed. I believe I will have to loosen my belt."

"Us Reserves had decided to demote you Seniors until the game with Shelby at the tournament."

"Gee, this is good. What more yet to come? Where will I put it?"

Thanks, Mrs. Haines and Mrs. Baird for staying at home, so that all of us students could go. You sure were good sports."

"Even though we didn't win many games for you, Mr. Bailey, we always knew you were for us. It sure was some feed. It was worth a lot."

"Some of us are going out to play the game of war. We know that if we've taken out some of the boys we'll take our place. We know we will have every loyal red-blooded, whole-hearted American cheering for us. Let's go, fight and win, boys."

With such a fine spirit the party broke up to attend a show of the various choirs, wishing for Plymouth the best and most successful season ever had in its long career.

MISS S. BARAL

After a lingering illness, Miss Sarah Baral, 85, died Saturday at the Mansfield sanitarium hospital. Little is known of her early life, but for a number of years she resided near Plymouth on the Bucyrus road. After she was unable to care for herself, she was removed to the Mansfield institution, where she died on Saturday.

Survivors include one sister, Mrs. Mary A. Bradley and one nephew, Wm. G. Bradley of Willard. Three nieces, Miss Anna Gibbs, Mrs. Nellie Yankers, of Cedar Mt., and Miss Julia Cheney of Chicago, Ill.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Miller-McQuade funeral home in the Church of the Presbytery, 1000 S. Main St. Burial was made in Greenhawn cemetery.

11 LOCAL BOYS TO ENTER NAVY

Next Wednesday morning at 5:30 o'clock when the bus leaves Mansfield for Cleveland with a load of boys and young men for their induction into the Navy, every male member but one from this year's graduating class will be on it. Jim Rhine who won't reach his 17th birthday until April, hopes to join the Marines soon after, and that will make a one hundred per cent enlistment from the class of 1944.

Two members are already serving in the Navy. One is Eugene Betts of the Marines. Harold Biller, with Thomas school with the same grade and failed to return this year, is serving in the army.

Supt. E. L. Bailey states that the boys of the evening were their diplomas at the close of the current school year, and while it is a little early to predict, it is the hope of all that they may return on leave for the exercises.

It not only takes every male member of the class but the entire basketball team. Robert Berberick, a junior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Berberick, and Willie (Pete) Buckman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ruckman, both in the same age group, have signed with the seniors and will go with them.

This situation is without precedent in the village and makes the home front realize just how close the war is drawing home.

Major events of the seniors have been held; the Junior-Senior banquet, the Athletic banquet, the operetta in which many take part will be held tonight, and tomorrow evening a farewell will be held in the auditorium by the Senior girls.

The boys who leave next Wednesday are: Tom Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Moore; James Fetters, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Fetters; Quentin Ream, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ream; James Crockett, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marvin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marvin; George Shaffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shaffer; Dan Kirkpatrick, son of Mrs. Gertrude Kirkpatrick and Norris Kirkpatrick; Clarence Mills, son of Mrs. Kugel Mills and Braden Mills. Seventeen-year-old boys, but not Seniors.

Robert Berberick, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Berberick; Willie (Pete) Buckman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ruckman.

I VOTE Evelyn Moore and Zanette Briggs as being tops on the dance floor. The ole jute box really does its stuff when they stroll out for a twist.

WE CAN'T SAY how many, but congratulations go this week to Mrs. John A. Root, who celebrated a birthday Tuesday. Due to a severe cold, she has been confined to her room this week, and we're happy to report at this time that she is somewhat improved.

LUNCHED with Jno. Beelman at noon Wednesday, and in our discussion of age John handed out, what I think, a good piece of advice. "I'm sure in your work done before you are 60."

But he hasn't exactly followed his preaching, for he still manages to look after a farm, and duties of a bank president, in any way of thinking he's still interested in livestock.

JEAN SMITH, who has a boy friend overseas, was too excited to finish mixing a soda at the B & G when her dad walked in with two W-Mall letters. It is news news, that Jean quit work instantly!

WE REGRET to report that C. H. Russell continues seriously ill at his home on W. High Street. We've missed seeing him on the Square for many weeks. We hope he'll soon be up and around again.

A TAXPAYER over in New York City whose income tax form listed $98.85 for religious contributions to a deacon, federal collector spent daily in feeding pigeons in parks. That's my religion, the taxpayer explained. "It brings me nearer to God," P. S.—The deduction wasn't allowed.

JUST another reminder—news items reaching The Advertiser later than 5:00 o'clock Tuesday afternoon can NOT be published in the current issue. With NO help, we have to stop setting type in order to do floor work and complete the task of getting the paper out at 6 o'clock. We will appreciate it if reports of events occurring over the week-end will be sent in on Monday morning.

A GREAT many people are of the opinion that the Plymouth State might be closed just any evening now. This IS NOT SO. Although Mr. Ramsey has been called to the front of the Presbytery, he will be in the late May call, and so the shrine will be notified in due time.

On PC Boat
Elsworth Ford, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Ford, was recently assigned to a PC boat (patrol craft) as a senior radioman. He has been stationed in California.

Returns to Camp
Cpl. Walter Myers returned on Sunday to Camp McCoy, Wis., after enjoying a three-day pass with his wife and daughter.

In Plymouth Sunday
Pvt. LuVier Barber visited his wife and family in Willard a few days the first of the week. Sunday he called on former Plymouth friends. Barber was recently transferred to Camp Reynolds in Pennsylvania.

On Furlough
Bob Ross arrived home unexpectedly Friday evening from the Pacific coast, where he has been on active duty. He will return by April 1 to Seattle, Wash., for further duty in the Navy.

Brothers Get Together
Mr. and Mrs. Moody Spenseller have received recent letters from their sons, T/4 Carl Spenseller and Glenn Spenseller MOMM 3/2 that they are still enjoying their almost weekly visits together. Just where the boys are located is not known but supposedly in the Southwest Pacific. In the Army and Navy, respectively, the boys met after several years' separation.

Feb. 22, 1944
Dear Tommy:
Receive the paper right along and it is always a welcome home town letter, as we read every word of it, especially the page from the boys in the service, as we are very well distributed over the globe, and through the paper we can keep in touch with one another.

Certainly did enjoy the Xmas letter to us and it brought many memories back to good old Plymouth. Have travelled and seen quite a bit since I left the States, but there is no place like the States. I am now in New Guinea, very little civilization, and what there is, is nature, and of course, plenty of G.I.'s. The natives are friendly and very good workers. They live in small huts in little groups or villages. Have visited a few and took some good pictures showing native life. It is very hot here. In fact, right now it is around 133 degrees, but the nights get cool enough for good sleeping.

Say, tell Eddie Curpan I took a little fishing trip the other day, but not like on Lake Erie. About 20 of us were lucky enough to go. It was sponsored by the Red Cross in a large sail boat manned by natives. We had quite a day. Went out in the ocean to some small islands and caught a few fish—one nice perch, but the others were mostly small tropical fish, very beautiful in color. Of course we had to explore the islands and killed a coral snake—(deadly poison) and brought it back with us, but the trip itself was very beautiful. The natives are certainly skilled with a sail boat and swim around in the water like a fish.

Have neglected writing you no more some time. The days though the days roll by so fast all we do is sleep and work.
We work from 7:00 to 6:00, six and one half days a week, so with the heat, we are pretty tired most of the time.
Our chow is fair, but the men that invented the dehydrating process is a friend of a New Guinea soldier. The natives are fat. But once in a great while we do get fresh meat and potatoes—so can't complain.
We have seen some of the most beautiful tropical scenes here in the evenings, with usually a little rain added—then a large rainbow to set the whole sky aglow, making it a perfect picture, with the mountains for a background.
An enclosing a little poem one of the boys wrote about New Guinea. Thought it was pretty near the truth, so am passing it on.
Tell every one around the Square I said "hello," and that things look pretty good over here now.
Sincerely,
Cpl. Frank Chapman.

Dear Frank:
There is no doubt but what the home folks will enjoy your letter, for especially did I can't imagine any guy in New Guinea talking about "beautiful rainbows." But, the scenery must be wonderful, and I wouldn't mind having the opportunity of seeing it, even if I had to join up with the army. Glad you said things are looking pretty good over there. I gather from the news given us that the islands are getting back over to a slow but sure process. Bob Ross of the Navy is home, and his ship has been in your territory, I believe.
No doubt your letters from home give you all the dope in and around Plymouth, and as far as news in the Advertiser is concerned, it's plenty tough to scare it up some weeks. I can't truthfully say that things in the old home town are about the same, for they aren't. By that I mean that the absence of so many of the boys is very noticeable, and help is very scarce. In fact, the stores do manage to get the doors unlocked, but that is about all. One feels very timid about asking for an article of luxury of any kind. So that as it may be we are all faring very well—all working long hours and doing double duty, so the majority of us feel our obligation in the furtherance of the war effort.
I haven't seen your Dad or Mother for some time, but I frequently see Henry. He's taking on a heavy load on his new farm, but you know Henry—he's just a hound for work. And the funny part about it, he's as skinny as ever—no increase in weight, but he eats enough and often, too.
Farmers around here are worried over the drought, but it has been broken with a couple of heavy snows and rains, so what now should show up good.
George Chesnut and Fred Ross have quit the farm and are now living in town. There are a number of others, whom you no doubt know, that have quit farming. But the ones that are staying are having plenty of work to do.
It's the first day of Spring in Plymouth, and to our surprise we got "snowed under." The robins are back, and the grass is showing a slight tint of green—and by the way the maple sap is running to full capacity! So when the trees start budding, and the birds singing their morning call, I feel like singing a little ballad to Spring myself.
I suppose you boys in New Guinea know that there is going to be an election in the States this Fall? We at home believe there might be one—and from what I hear you may have an opportunity of voting, or at least interested in politics, over there? If the President, Governors, Members of Congress and Senate get together, you may receive your ballot in time. I've often wondered if a soldier ten thousand miles away from home and facing a gun could really be interested in voting for a Congressman, a Governor or even a President. Perhaps you can tell me your attitude.

Say, judging the length of this letter, or my reply to yours, I had better sign off, or I'll have written you more than you did! Well, so long, good luck, and keep us on your list for another page or two in the near future.
Sincerely,
Tommy.

Ed. Note: Owing to the lack of space in recent weeks, the letters printed below are a bit belated, but will be found interesting.

Mrs. A. F. Cornell received the following letters acknowledging Xmas remembrances:
England

Dear Mrs. Cornell:
I was so pleased to hear from you today and that it was the last present I got from home, and two days after Christmas, the promise of The Advertiser for another year was the best yet. Steve the best last for sure this time. I enjoy the paper very much, hear about everything and everyone at home is a real treat and I appreciate it very much.
I did have a very pleasant Yuletide season. I spent the 25th in a British camp living, eating and celebrating with the Tommies and on the 26th we had a return visit from the same and a party for about 200 kiddies from a nearby town. It was really a cheery sight and certainly lifted the spirits with the Christmas spirit to see the faces of those kiddies when the G. I. Santa, all dressed up, pranced out and found a present under the tree for each.
Thanks again,
Harry Vandervort.

West Pacific Area
Hello Folks:
Thanks for the Christmas box. I surely enjoyed it. It didn't last very long, but it sure was good. It was in good condition, too.
Well, I suppose you are having winter there and it's early summer here. In fact we have some native tomato plants that are blooming now.

The ground is sandy and digs well. We must sleep below the surface of the ground in a special hammock. In my hole I have a boy from Cleveland. He and I cribbed the inside of the hole with poles and also covered the roof with poles. We are OK. I see Pete once in a while, but I must take more time to visit. We had a slight earthquake but no one was injured.
Well, that's all for now and happy Easter to everyone.
T-4 Carl B. Spenseller.

Some where in England
Hello Tommy: Just a line to let you know we arrived OK over here. It sure is a change compared to the U. S., but we can get used to it, and have.
I got plenty sick on the boat but that was to be expected. I guess we had a nice voyage but a couple of times it got pretty warm.
My address has been changing quite a little bit or I would have sent you my APO before. I have not received the P. A. for some time but it will catch up with me. Mail is slow, but give it time.
It is rather hard to get used to this "left side of the road stuff," but so far we have gotten along OK. It turns you around a little, but it is coming fast. The weather is wet here about all the time, but I have waded mud before. We do not have artics so we get feet ailed every day.
Well, the bottom is coming up fast so take care of yourself and the town. Cause we will be back soon.
Harlow Kendrick.

In a short note from Gus Dick in the land of "Somewhere" he writes that he began the New Year by washing his clothes, shaving and getting all cleaned up and then no place to go. Gus is with the Merchant Marines and says they have a radio and library with good books and magazines to help pass the time. Cards, checkers, chess and galloping dominos (dice) are also diversion.
The censor snagged that portion of the letter which told where he was, but he concluded that he had traded his fountain pen for a "FEZ" which is a tall red hat with black tassel on it, so he wrote on he writes with a pencil. Where did you say they were "Guns" Gus?

Dear Folks:
A few more days gone by and no word from you, so will write a few lines anyway.
If anybody ever says anything about going camping when I get home, I'll just blow up.
Am sitting here by the fire and I must say I am very comfortable, but it still isn't like being in a house. We have tents that will accommodate eight, but there are only three in this one—two mechanics and myself. We sleep in one half and use the other half to work in and store our equipment.
We have a stove and can keep real warm. To sleep we have plenty of blankets, and I am not sleeping on the ground! Some of us have folding cots, others have made bunkies for themselves.
We sure have been eating swell over here lately—better than we did when we were in the States.
What is new back around there? What is the general opinion of the war situation, and when are people expecting it to end?
We have had two windstorms, but we managed to keep our tent down and kept our equipment dry, but some of the other boys weren't so lucky. Their tents blew down and everything got soaked.
We have been having pretty nice weather the last few days, but we have had some pretty cold weather—in fact the ground was frozen.
Everything is OK over here, and I am fine. Hope it is the same over there. Will close for now. Write soon. Give my regards to all.
Love, Mac.
P. S. I wish to thank everyone who sent me Christmas cards and boxes. I sure enjoyed all of them.

WAR BOOM BRINGS RISE IN U. S. FARM LAND PRICES

Long Range Earnings Best Sign of Property's Value

What goes up must come down!

Many people are forgetting the truth of that saying nowadays in their over-optimistic calculations on the value of farm land, according to the U. S. department of agriculture. Those miscalculations often lead individuals—under a "boom" influence to pay too much for rural property, an economic error that concerns everybody, not just the person who made the unfortunate and costly purchase.

When the land boom bubble is pricked, acres that were purchased at exorbitant prices must be sold at auction; taxes can't be paid, bonds go in default, and banks close their doors.

Yet indications now point, say USDA officials, to a land boom in the making of proportions never before known in America.

The history of land price inflation in the United States has shown that it takes but a relatively small percentage of transfers, compared with the total number of farms in a community, to open the road to eventual disaster. Demand for farm land and the number of sales made in a given region determine price levels, and both are influenced by the general level of prosperity.

War Inflationary

Because war has a way of stimulating inflationary tendencies in a nation's economy, it is pointed out that periods of such inflation are usually accompanied or followed by a sharp rise in demand for farm land and a parallel upward movement of prices. The last land boom—the one that reached its height immediately after World War I (1918-20)—ended with land values being on the downgrade for 18 years. Beginning in 1920, reports show that farmers lost by forced sale a total of more than two million farms. During the last 22 years, the equivalent of one-fourth to one-third of all land in farms has gone through forced sale, the chief cause of most of these sales was found to be the initial mistake of paying too much for land.

During the lull period from 1919-21 rural speculators received only 38 per cent of the gains that were realized from farm real estate transactions. The remaining 60 per cent achieved if the possibility of speculative profits was largely forgotten. They point out that little economic disturbance would result if reasonable operating income probabilities—plus the value of the farm as a home were the chief motivating force in farm land purchase.

As an indication of price fluctuations, farmers received an average of 14.07 per cent for hogs in January of 1943, in comparison with 10.35 for the same month in 1942 and 7.26 in 1941. Prices dipped to $1.8 in 1940.

The price of wheat was equally spotty, a bushel bringing $1.47 in January of 1943, $1.06 for the same period in 1942, and .73 in 1941. In 1940, it was up to .84.

Whereas milch cows brought $10.20 in January of 1943, they drew only $8.70 during the same month of 1942, and $64.00 in 1941.

Since much of the difficulties in boom times come from a succession of mortgages—second, third, fourth, and even lower order—that are taken by various owners of a farm, in the period before the crash comes, efforts have been made to re-evaluate a farm on a conservative basis. Farm land appraisers are now urged to use a "normal" valuation based on earning capacity of the land, calculated on average yields for the particular farm together with estimated average normal prices for farm products expected to prevail for a given period of years. Costs of labor, machinery and other production costs are taken into consideration and a reasonable return is figured on the investment.

The Farm Credit administration of the U. S. department of agriculture uses the normal valuation appraisal exclusively in making loans to farmers. A number of insurance companies that invest funds in farm mortgages also follow a similar plan.

Preliminary figures for 1943 show total farm-mortgage debt of $6,350,000,000, of which $2,600,000,000 is held by federal land banks and the land bank commissioner; $891,461,000 by life insurance companies; $478,078,000 by commercial banks; $163,370,000 by the Farm Security Administration, and $2,714,156,000 by all others.

Even with farm income rising and war-time stimulation in 1942, 3,270 farms with mortgage values of $10,588,589 were foreclosed, while general delinquencies on mortgage payments amounted to $13,220,742.

Expert believe that reductions in land price fluctuations could be a grand evening. We really had loads of fun!

Afterwards there was singing and games.

Six-Inch Sermon

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

The Sacredness of Life.

Lesson for March 26: Genesis 1: 27; Matthew 12:11, 12; Roman 14:19-21; 1 Corinthians 6:19.

Golden Text: 1 Corinthians 6:19.

It would be well for any man, when tempted by his own high creation, prominently in his mind is man created in God's image. His mind, with its thinking, feeling and willing, makes man a person, conscious of himself and others. And in his soul—in which he may be moral and spiritual—is most like God.

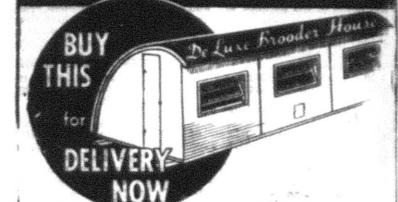

Why think of the ideal as seldom coinciding with the real? It would be better to consider the ideal man as the real, as God designed him to be, and consider the sinner as an alloy of the real.

Jesus was answering his critics concerning the Sabbath, when He asked the questions of Matthew 12:11, but He was also setting a high value on human life. Man is indeed better than a sheep. Man should respect this truth with regard to himself—according to set matter above mind, body above soul, and careful to seek first the kingdom of God. He should also follow this truth in his dealings with others. He should not try just to use his fellows for his own gain. They are not chattels or pawns, and they are better than sheep.

Man is more than all sacrifices made by him, and yet so much more, that we should be careful not to offend Him by aught we do. So Paul resolved that, if eating meat which had been offered to idols should offend some of His people, he would nevermore eat meat.

Last we learn of the sacredness of life, as we learn that man's body should be the temple of the Holy Spirit. Certainly to be the very dwelling-place of God, is the closest and best of the relations we may sustain to Him. And in gratitude for the blessed privilege, we should offer ourselves—our bodies, our motives, our wills—freely to God that He may find a fit abode in us.

As a result, we claim we know what we want in the way of liquor legislation and feel those at home should wait until we return before instituting further legislation on liquor control."

"Out of fairness to our boys over there fighting, Judge, how could we disobey such a wish?"

DOCTOR BILLS

By an overwhelming vote in a recent national poll, the people of this country made it clear that they think something should be done to make it easier to pay doctor and hospital bills. But by an even more overwhelming vote, the same group of people made it clear that they did not think a federal insurance plan, which would involve a six per cent deduction from their wages, as proposed by a group of congressmen, is the right answer.

In other words, the poll made it clear that doctor bills are considered a real burden, but, as opposed to a federal protection plan, the people hold the doctor bills to be the lesser of the two evils.

The poll thus indicated that the plan most people want is one worked out by the doctors themselves rather than by the government. And we imagine that the medical profession is at this time working on possible plans to ease the burden of doctor bills without government assistance. One plan might be to work out a basis by which we could pay a doctor as stipulated for each year to keep us well without additional payments being required by those who are unfortunate enough to suffer from serious illness.

NEWS FROM ENGLAND

During the recent coal strikes in this country, we heard a number of people say it would be almost worthwhile to have a few bombs dropped over here in order to make the miners realize that there is a war going on.

But the news from England indicates that even bringing the war to our own front yards wouldn't alter the situation. For the English miners have seen plenty of bombs fall on their homeland. They have seen homes ruined and friends killed during the blitz. They know that perhaps the greatest battle in history is soon to be fought.

When hundreds of thousands of men in both this country and England are willing to show such callous disinterest in their war role, even when their own sons and brothers are fighting at the front, it makes any patriotic American keenly aware of the limitations of his understanding of the mysteries of human conduct.

HAVE FAITH IN CONGRESS

When the founders of our country established a Constitutional form of government, they sought a system of checks and balances which would prevent usurpation of political power. The executive, legislative, and judicial branches were made independent of each other.

Our country has twice during the past decade witnessed the wisdom of the founding fathers. It has seen the legislative branch of government reject a bill urged by the executive branch to dominate the judicial branch, when the phrase, "nine old men," was coined to discredit the U. S. Supreme Court. It has now witnessed an attempt by the executive branch of government to discredit the legislative branch itself, by referring to its recent tax action as a measure to "relieve the greedy and impoverish the needy."

If the latest tax bill passed by the Congress is insufficient to meet the needs of the nation, the executive branch of government should go to Congress with an intelligently worked out, non-partisan plan for additional wartime taxes. Instead of using language toward Congress intended to shake confidence in that body.

Our citizens must never forget that their duly elected representatives in Congress are the greatest safeguard that stands between their personal liberties and the subjugation of their rights from what ever source. We may have our differences of opinion with Congress, but we must not for an instant relax our vigilance in upholding that body as essential to American Constitutional government!

RUTHLESS POLITICS REVEALED

The struggle against expanding Federal authority has reached up into New England where the citizens of Vermont rebelled against a proposed $29,000,000 government power dam that originated as a $6,000,000 flood control project. The Attorney General of Vermont has warned that the proposal is a direct violation of States' Right in that the States involved are opposed to it and have no voice in the plans. He pointed out that flood control measures could readily be financed without Federal aid, and added: "I don't think Vermont would have ever come into the Union as the fourteenth state, if our forefathers had known we were going to become merely puppets whose strings were to be pulled from Washington. Congress is the people's only hope to stem this tide toward centralized and administrative government."

Disguised in trappings of flood control and irrigation, with electric power production as a "side-line," a determined body of socialists has pushed ever harder for public ownership of the electric industry in this country, well knowing that if they could impose their alien political philosophy on electric power, the way would be open to socialize other industries and finally establish a national socialist form of government. In attempting to gain their objective, the Federal power politicians have promoted tax exempt government hydro-electric power projects deliberately designed to force out of existence heavily-taxed private power companies upon which the States depend for revenue. Projects such as that pending in Vermont have been planned, carried out and placed under the management of Washington bureaucrats in complete disregard of State and local authority.

The power socialists, by ignoring States' Rights, clearly reveal the ruthless character of their schemes. Vermont's General Attorney was not exaggerating when he said that only Congress can stem the tide.

BLACK MIRACLE BROUGHT TO LIGHT

A lump of coal is not dramatic compared to battleships and tanks plunging through enemy defenses with guns blazing. But before there could be today's battleships and tanks there had to be coal. Moreover, it had to be available in a quantity and form which required years of effort and scientific research on the part of the coal industry. Thanks to such research, coal is one of the most important and widely used materials in the war effort.

A large steel company recently devoted a page advertisement to the part coal plays in making steel. This single company consumes 17,000 tons of coal every day of the year—enough to heat 2,500 family dwellings for a long, cold winter. Modern steel is the result of blending coals of various types, grades and ages to obtain stronger, denser, burning fuel for the blast furnaces. Sampling, testing and blending is done at the mines. A ton and seven-tenths of coal is required to make one ton of steel.

After the war, research now being conducted in coal will bring untold benefits to everyone. For example, experiments are being made on pipeless heating and stoves and appliances, eventually will be heated by stoves no larger than small radios.

The coal being consumed in this country has lain dormant in the ground for three hundred million years. Modern industry has at last brought it to light—a black miracle.

S. navy forces, Southwest Pacific, return to a forward base on a PT boat after witnessing the successful U. S. assault on the enemy island. Shortly after this photo was taken, MacArthur made the surprise announcement that the attack was originally planned as a reconnaissance raid.

Above the HULL by LYLE HULL Preventive Warning

The German people take intense pride in their "national monuments." The destruction of the great universities at Heidelberg, Leipzig and Bonn would break the heart of many a patriotic Teuton. Add to such a national tragedy the bombing or dynamiting of every relic symbolic of the past greatness of their ancient race—romantic Nuremberg, beautiful Regensburg, the palaces at Nymphenburg and Dresden, the historic old castles on the Rhine and the Moselle, and the thousand and one edifices which are as sacred to the German mentality as is Westminster Abbey to an Englishman or Notre Dame and the Palace at Versailles to the French.

Consider what it would mean to practically every German who had not lost his identity and all sense of decency through association with the gutter-born National Socialist party, if the almost unshakable relics of the world's past in the museum at Berlin were taken forcibly from the world, or if those two of the world's most magnificent collections of the "Great Masters," in Dresden and Munich, were lost to them forever.

The Germans are by no means all phlegmatic and unemotional creatures, and they are not all the Hitler and his roughnecks, nor are they all swaggering Prussians. Many of the most sincerely patriotic of our enemy's people think far more of their native land than they do of the fatal ideology which is sweeping it toward ruin; and many would doubtless risk their freedom, and even their lives, before they would contemplate such losses without making their voices heard where they might have effect.

There is much talk—whether true or not—that Hitler intends to take to Germany every movable work of art from France, from Italy, and from the other conquered countries, and that he means to leave blackened ruins where the great cities and the sacred monuments of these countries now stand. Possibly he would be persuaded by his advisers to forego the sadistic enjoyment of committing such a great wrong with danger of retribution for their native land; but if these advisers were prompted by an official warning—sent to Germany RIGHT NOW by the governments of the United Nations—that they will definitely retaliate in kind for every theft and for every act of useless and wanton destruction perpetrated against the highest conquered nations—the pressure might become so great that even mad Hitler would not dare commit the acts which civilization now fears from his retreating armies.

The Germans might take a certain amount of satisfaction in believing that Rome and Paris were looted in the ground, but if they were officially warned now, by pamphlets dropped all over Germany, that such destruction would eliminate Berlin, Munich, Dresden and every other city in their land—a large proportion of the German population might become so violent to be ignored by the Nazi authorities.

The "warnings that be" in Washington, London and Moscow are naturally better informed than the ordinary civilian as to the volume of fire which exists behind all the smoke about Hitler's intentions; but if there is even the slightest possibility that he contemplates a crime which will rob civilization of such a large proportion of its irreplaceable treasures—then every conceivable precaution should be taken to prevent it, and such a warning of notice to the United Nations in the German people—might seem to be one of them.

Dale Carnegie Author of "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

ONE WAY TO HANDLE 'THE DIFFICULT'

It wasn't so long ago that on one of the New York Central's crack trains—the Erie Avenue Special—from Chicago to New York, I found the dining car steward particularly pleasant and eager to serve. Boiled potatoes were on the menu, but he assured me that if I preferred I could have mashed, hashed brown, French fried. And wouldn't I like some ketchup or chili sauce for my steak? It was not only the service but the sincere spirit behind the service that impressed me.

Did he do all this in order to get larger tips? That may have had weight, but the commercial variety of graciousness seldom works. It has a phoniness quality that is difficult to conceal. The kind of service that produces good tips, steady customers and abiding friends is the service that springs from character, the service that is conditioned upon a desire to make life a bit easier and more agreeable for our fellow passengers who are riding this planet with us, the kind of service that an ex-carpenter was talking about nineteen centuries ago when he said: "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

I asked my dining car steward, Thomas Knox, how he handled his difficult passengers. "When I find a man who kicks and complains about everything," he said, "I just listen and smile while he talks."

There is an idea: the next time you find a husband, a wife, a child, a sweetheart or a customer complaining, why not let the kicker kick until he gets the kickitis, while you listen and smile? Try that purely as an experiment and see if it won't work better than arguing, defending yourself or complaining in return.

After you have tried it, why not write and tell me what the other person said, what you said and what happened? Maybe I can use your story in this column to inspire others.

Ellis Gimbel Jr., operating head of the Gimbel department store in New York, invited a man into his private office and said: "Please be seated there at that desk where I usually spend eight hours a day; imagine yourself in my shoes; and please tell me how to solve this eternal problem of selecting and training our personnel; this problem of inspiring our sales force to be courteous, alert, enthusiastic; this problem of serving the public so effectively that they always will want to do business with us."

Mr. Gimbel confessed that his biggest problem was not purchasing, advertising, display, or collections. His biggest problem is winning friends and influencing people.

Many business men are learning that same lesson. Many of our largest corporations pay public relation experts a top-flight figure, to tell them how to win and keep the public's approval.

Increasing numbers of business houses are realizing the value of this most important work and thousands of dollars are spent each year in good will efforts.

Washington, D. C. (GNWS)—Claiming that the supply of men under 38, available for selective service is "reaching the bottom of the barrel," the War Manpower Commission is making plans to get rid of the 24 classification in order to exempt men in those essential industries which are not directly engaged in war production. In addition, war plants are being asked to free more men in the 18 to 28 group and there is also talk of drafting single "women for non-combat service."

The WMC says that under present rules probably not more than one of every ten fathers serving in the 24 classification will actually get into military service, not only because of the large number who are in essential occupations but because of the great leniency being shown toward fathers by a large number of draft boards. It has also been found that a large number of fathers, particularly in the higher age groups, are not physically fit for combat service.

The biggest supply of physically fit men, it is said, are probably those who have been deferred because they are employed in war production plants. In a number of war plants, men have recently been laid off, but rather than laying off those who come to be taken by the army, some companies, because of seniority rules of unions, have let men over 28 go and kept those under 28.

This procedure was recently attacked in New York by Col. Arthur McDermott, director of New York City selective service, who announced new regulations ending this practice. "Our job," Colonel McDermott announced, "is to provide men to meet the demands of the armed forces, and we cannot be concerned with seniority questions. These men, between 18 and 28, are loaned to industry by selective service." Colonel McDermott also pointed out that no deferments will be

GARDEN CLUB MEETING
 Mrs. Ethel Bartholomew was hostess to the Garden Club Friday evening, March 17. There were eleven members present and one guest, Mrs. Hull of Churubusco, Ind.

Mrs. Bartholomew conducted a short business session at which time a gift of $5.00 was raised for the Red Cross. Rev. Bethel was the program leader for the evening, the subject being, "The Importance of Plants." He discussed their importance in regard to beauty, shelter, food, and warmth. Without plant life, there could be no human life.

The roll call "Tid-bits" brought many bits of information which are generally useful to gardeners. The next meeting will be held the third Friday in April at the home of Mrs. Eva Smith. The meeting usually held on the first Friday in April was omitted on account of Holy Week.

BROTHERHOOD MEETS
 The Lutheran men of the First Evangelical Lutheran church met at the regular session on Monday evening in the church annex. Despite the stormy weather and snow a splendid gathering of men was there.

An excellent program had been prepared. The chairman opened the meeting with the devotionals and prayer was offered by the pastor. An interesting paper on "A Successful Marriage," was read by Mr. Beaver and briefly commented upon.

The main feature of the evening was a Sports reel by George Rogers of Mansfield, showing the 1943 League Baseball Games as played by the big leagues. Two other movies were presented—both comics, all of which were thoroughly enjoyed. Lunch was then served. After lunch the men played three Dart-Ball games which caused much mirth and interest. The "Yankees" beat the "Cardinals" by one game.

The meeting in April will be held the third Monday in the month. It will be "Fathers and Daughters Night." Rev. Bruce Young of Shelby, has been secured as the speaker. Other features of interest will be on the program.
