

PAATRIC HOME CARRIED OUT IN COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

For the first time in the past eleven years, and possibly many more, members of Plymouth's graduating class planned and presented their own program without the aid of a guest speaker. The class this year has twenty-five members, 13 girls and 12 boys. Out of the latter group, nine boys are in the navy, two subject to army call, and one enlistee in the Marines, and so as a tribute to the boys in the service the program was carried out in a patriotic theme.

Stage decorations were flowers, national and school colors, and a huge silver anchor and helmsman wheel, tied together with blue and white rope, which symbolized the class colors. This was the last time this group will be together as some of the boys left on the 1:15 train from Crestline to meet their date at Great Lakes Training school at 11 o'clock this morning.

Music was under the direction of Mrs. Dorothea Jump with Miss Joy Bethel accompanying on the piano. As the processional was played, the audience stood as the posting of colors by Freshman and Sophomore boys and girls took place, followed by presentation of ministers, the Senior Class and faculty, with Junior Class members as escorts under the leadership of Paul Scott, president of the class. The Pledge of Allegiance was given and the singing of one verse of America preceded the invocation by Rev. Haines. Several musical numbers were sung by the High School chorus and the following members participated in the program as follows:

- President's Oration Evelyn Moore
- Class History Jane Martin
- Reading Beverly Neely "It Can Be Done" Guest
- Phyllis Miller
- Class Poem Louise Guadagnino
- "The Quest" James Crockett
- "Ava Marie" (Schubert) Mary Alice Weller
- Short Story Patricia Topper "I Love To Hear You Singing" (Wood)
- Senior Girls Quartette
- Supt. E. L. Bailey, who has been head of the schools for 11 years out of the 12-year course of these young men and women spoke briefly on their close association, not only as superintendent, but teacher, coach and friend and wished them "God Speed" on their way.

The Navy boys, home on a leave upon completion of their boot training at Great Lakes, Ill., made a colorful sight in their blue uniforms as they received their diplomas first and occupied the central place on the stage flanked by the other members of the graduating class. The Navy boys are George F. Shaffer, Dan Kirkpatrick, Thomas Moore, Clarence R. Mills, Quentin H. Ream, Robert W. McFarland, James Fetters and Albert Marvin, Jr.

Duane Hunter, also of the Navy, who has been in the service since last Fall and now stationed at a naval base in New Orleans, was unable to be present. His diploma was presented by his mother, Mrs. Bert Hunter, in his absence.

A fitting ending to the program was the singing of "A Perfect Day" by members of the Senior Class, followed by a fine response, "Farewell To Thee" by the Junior Class quartette. Rev. H. L. Bethel pronounced the benediction.

Other Class Members
James Rhine, enlistee in the Marines; Sid Thomas and James D. Crockett, subject to army call; Paula Jane Martin, Beverly Neely, Arlene Lucille Steele, Mary Alice Weller, Pearl Elizabeth Heubarger, Mildred Irene Evans, Evelyn Marie Moore, Phyllis Miller, Patricia M. Topper, Florence McDougal, Mary Frances Burrer, Louise Guadagnino, and Sally Fenner are the other members of the class who wore blue gowns, caps with white tassels, the class colors, and the girls wearing red and white corsages.

Unusual Record
Miss Sallie Fenner, a native of Italy, and a student of Plymouth schools for the past eight years, has an unusual record. Coming to Plymouth without knowing a word of English, she was placed in the first grade and as she mastered the language, was quickly promoted from grade to grade until last year she completed her high school education at the John Hay High school in Cleveland by attending summer school. She had her credits transferred to Plymouth in order that she might graduate with this year's class. At present she is employed in Mansfield and returned for the graduation exercises.

MEMORIAL DAY TO BE QUIET

PLANS INDEFINITE; STORES, BANK AND POST OFFICE TO CLOSE ON TUESDAY.

Memorial Day in Plymouth will probably be very quiet; up until Friday evening, and no definite plans had been made for a speaker, band or parade.

The American Legion expects to have an out-of-town speaker, but for some reason or other a definite answer had not been received. The Ganges Band which has headed the Memorial parade in Plymouth for years, will probably play again and weather permitting the crowd will assemble in front of the American Legion Rooms at 10:30 and march to the cemetery. In case of rain the program will be held at the school house. Veterans, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and school children, as well as other organizations are invited to join in the march.

Business Houses Close
The local bank, post office and a majority of the business houses will close for the day and housewives are urged to make their purchases early for over the holiday. Grocery stores and meat markets expect to remain open for a few hours Monday evening for accommodation.

Sunday Services
Memorial Sunday services will be held at the Presbyterian church with Rev. E. R. Haines, pastor of the Methodist church, delivering the sermon. The service is set for 8:00 o'clock and an invitation is extended to the general public to those who are hearing the "Farewell To Thee" by the Junior

REV. LAMBERTUS GIVES INSPIRING TALK TO SENIOR CLASS SUNDAY

Highlighting the program of the Baccalaureate service for the class of 1944 from Plymouth High school Sunday evening was the return enmasse of the eight senior boys, who earlier in the year, had enlisted in the Navy and just completed their boot training at Great Lakes, Ill. Out of a class of twelve boys, nine are in the Navy, one has enlisted in the Marines and the other two, who failed to pass the navy exam, are subject to call in the army on their 18th birthday. There are also thirteen girls in the class, making a total of twenty-five.

Rev. Frederick Lambertus of the Lutheran church gave the address of the evening and spoke on "Life's Nobler Aim." He was assisted by Rev. Haines in the invocation, and Rev. Bethel pronounced the benediction. Other numbers were "The Lord's Prayer," by James Moore, and several selections by the High school orchestra. Mrs. Dorothea Jump presided at the piano for the processional and the recessional.

Excerpts From the Address
Basing his thoughts for the evening on Phil. 3:13-14, "I count not myself to have apprehended, but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling." Rev. Lambertus spoke of the anchor, not only as the navy insignia, but used it as the symbol of hope and rescue.

"Since the anchor is the symbol of hope and rescue, may the same become for you in your service both hope of survival and rescue when in danger. The anchor is something on which we may depend for security, a ground of trust.

"Those of you who enter the service and those who intend to, should also aim in life to use an anchor of faith in these restless days. By faith, I mean not a jittery faith, full of uncertainty, unpoised, irresponsible action that seems to be a matter of many minds, but a faith that believes in God. Right now men and women are in need of a strong sturdy faith, because many of us are torn out of the security of the past and out of the accustomed pattern of living to be sent to far off places, perhaps a forgotten place to sweat and struggle and face the possibilities unthought of a little while ago.

"Moreover you will be in need of an understanding faith and an understanding of God. Next to an understanding of faith and of God, we ought to have an understanding of yourself, and last but

BIBLE SCHOOL OPENS MAY 31

REV. BETHEL IN CHARGE, ASSISTED BY CAPABLE LOCAL STAFF.

Plymouth parents will again have the opportunity of sending their children to Daily Bible Vacation school despite the many difficulties and restrictions.

Rev. H. L. Bethel, pastor of the Presbyterian church, accepted the general superintendency and plans are being worked out to have a capable and complete staff of teachers. A number of those who assisted in former years are now in defense work and cannot help this year, but to date most of these places have been filled and before the opening session every vacancy will be filled.

The school this year will be shortened to eight days, beginning on next Wednesday, May 31 and closing the following week on Friday, June 9th. The hours are from 9:00 to 11 a. m. daily excepting Saturday. Rev. Frederick Lambertus will be in charge of the Intermediate department and classes will be held at the Lutheran church; Mrs. E. R. Mary Ellen Thomas will assist Mrs. Fackler and these children will convene at the Presbyterian church.

The morning worship service for the Intermediate and Junior group will be held daily at 9:00 a. m. at the Methodist church, and Mrs. Willard Ross will preside at the organ.

A complete and splendid line of study has been outlined with the aid of Miss Doris Rhodes, teacher of Religion at the Methodist church in the public schools. Church history will be taught the Intermediate; Discovering Bible Lands has been chosen for the Junior, and the Primary Bible book will be the same book which they began last year. Mrs. Fackler, who conducts a kindergarten during the year, will choose her own material.

These teachers and assistants are giving their time and efforts gratis and hope they will have the fullest cooperation of parents and children in this line of work.

TANKS OF SUNSHINE

Sometimes we wonder if automobiles run on sunshine. For it is apparent, on every bright sunny day, that even the "A" card holders, who always seemed to be running out of gas in the colder months, find some way to get out on the road. If it wasn't for that insatiable appetite for driving in nice weather, it seems quite possible that the government might relax gas rationing somewhat this summer. But, realizing the itch to drive which besets most of us during the warm months, they are probably afraid that if we are given an inch we would take a mile.

We heard of one man who, having no gas, backs his car back into his garage and sits in the room, and just sits there. When Americans are that fond of automobiles it is apparent that gasoline rationing cannot be lifted entirely until the supply is practically unlimited.

DIVIDED THEY STAND

As far as we can see, both the officials of Montgomery Ward and the leaders of the CIO union were right in their claims about the extent of the loyalty to the union among the employees of that company. When the election was held the union won out by a vote of 2,340 for the union as compared with 1,565 against it. But there were 4,757 employees eligible to vote, meaning that 332 did not express an opinion. It is obvious that most of those were not very strong for the union or the other way showed up for the election. Actually, the union therefore did not quite get the support of 50 per cent of the employees. Of course, in an election of this kind, not much consideration should be given to those who are not interested enough either way to express their opinion. But the vote does serve to indicate a sharp difference among workers in the same plant over the benefits of membership in a union. We sometimes get the habit of thinking of all workers in a large plant as being devout union supporters. This example shows that there is almost as great a difference of opinion about unions among those in unionized plants as there is among the people as a whole.

Three Weeks in Washington

Washington, D. C. (NWS)—Following a series of almost weekly changes in selective service regulations, which left hundreds of thousands of young men in an uncomfortable position of having no idea how they stood in regard to the draft, the director of selective service has finally issued an order clarifying the situation. This order, it is believed, will stand for at least six months, although Major General Hershey, director of selective service, would commit himself no longer than to the statement that it was "permanent for today." The new order is still based on the principle that exemptions will be granted only to those who are doing war work, but local draft boards have been instructed to be most lenient with men over 30 and to defer essential workers in the 20 to 29 class for at least six months. In the younger group, in order to get deferred, the men must be both engaged in a war industry or war-supporting activity and necessary to that industry. The men over 30 will be deferred if they are engaged in such activities whether they are considered essential to those activities or not. Men under 25 will not be deferred unless they are essential to one of a very few vital industries or are farmers. The easing up of the drafting of men over 25, General Hershey explained, is due to the decrease in the call for men by the armed forces. If the army and navy should again increase their requirements, the regulations will undoubtedly have to be revised. General Hershey inferred that the main purpose of taking any men over 30 from now on would be to get much to fill the needs of the armed services but to use them as examples to encourage other men over 30 to seek jobs in essential industries. The order left the decision on essentiality up to the local draft the veteran. There should be no coupon clipping in connection with veterans' legislation. The veteran was inducted into the armed forces by the Government. The Government, and not the individual or concerns, should assume the responsibility of his rehabilitation.

THEN, THERE IS THE EDUCATIONAL provision. This provision is also largely restricted and qualified. Some Members were so afraid that some veteran might get an education at the expense of the Government, who was afraid to pay for his own. Why distrust the veterans? Are they not just as much entitled to our confidence as the President, Mr. Lehman or any other person? Why blank check one and hobble skirt the other?

CONGRESS VOTED $9 BILLION dollars for lend-lease to foreign nations. I gave it other President. These bills are not the $9 billion as he pleased. Congress voted $1,350,000,000 for an International WPA. They gave Mr. Lehman a blank check to spend upon his international pals as he pleased. But, this same Congress becomes very economical and skeptic when they deal with the veterans.

IT IS THE SAME OLD STORY. Vote billions to spendthrifts and foreign people. But, when we come to deal with the veterans, put hobbie skirts on them. And qualification after qualification, restriction after restriction, until there is very little benefit, if any, for the veteran for whom the legislation was intended. Start out with beautiful words and wind up with nothing but red tape and more red, lay confusion and more confusion.

A ride 200 people will never forget. It was a miracle that none of them was killed because the engine went temporarily out of his head and was subdued by the fireman just in time to avert a major tragedy. Six Inch Sermon

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

Paul encourages the Corinthians. Lesson for 20-21 Corinthians 4:5, 16-18; 5:1, 5:18, 14:19. Golden Text: I Corinthians 8:9. In the first verse of the lesson Paul tells us that he is not a true Christian minister—he forgets himself, exalts Christ, and serves for Jesus' sake. In verse 10, Paul contrasts the material with the spiritual. His words encourage Christians to faint in the face of affliction. At that moment and should lead to great blessing. Things seen all will run away, burn to fire and go out and will end in hell. No man has seen electricity—only the shining track of the lightning and the lights in his home and city, but he cannot doubt its presence. No man has seen love itself, though he knows it. No man has seen his own soul, himself, but he cannot doubt his existence. And through faith, which we call belief, he believes he will live forever. For when his "earthly house" (1 Cor. 5:1) which he dwells in will be "dissolved," he will enter his eternal home "not made with hands." Surely the radiant hope of a blessed immortality is enough to encourage any Christian. The love of Christ empowers men to work for Him. This is the love manifested on the cross. Paul writes he will no longer regard himself as a man, but will exalt Him as Saviour and Lord. The world may scoff at the teaching of Jesus, but it most needs Him as Saviour. So may we exalt Him, and understand that the world despises His sacrificial death by His resurrection and offers eternal life to all who believe in His name. Let the love of personal hope and the chief theme of our preaching be that "God is in Christ reconciling the world unto himself, who has committed unto-us the word of reconciliation.

CHAPTER VIII

Dr. Wampler upon meeting the postman offers to deliver two letters to Mrs. Maturin, owner of the Pole Star House. One of these letters is from the British government ordering her to hold herself ready to take care of dependent relatives. Mrs. Maturin is naturally filled with indignation at the thought of an advertisement to the London Times in a hotel bar from military objectives. John Wampler does not seem to decide to go to Pole Star House. He tells his chief about it and departs. And Mrs. Maturin advises Mrs. Pollock of Pole Star House, believes that signaling is such an outlook. John Wampler and notes a jet window signal—let her know because she is out to the point and makes the signifier.

"It's my young lady, sir," and then out came all the stupid story. They were busy at the hotel, and sometimes at the last minute he couldn't get out and then he couldn't get out and then he couldn't get out on the top of the hill and there wasn't time.

"She's housemaid up at the Grange," said Alfred, almost weeping.

"But don't you know that you are not allowed to signal?" said John and then he burst out laughing.

"Who cares here?" burst out Alfred. "There's Miss Hannan, up the top of the hill, with her shutters; I've seen her only she doesn't know. And I'm not going to tell her anything about it. Wink, wink, wink, back from the sea, too, once there was. And he's not going to say anything about it."

"I see. How bright the moon was," said Alfred. "Well, Jim," he said, "I think you've had a lesson tonight that you won't forget in a hurry."

"No, sir," said Alfred humbly. "No, sir," said Alfred humbly. "No, sir," said Alfred humbly. "No, sir," said Alfred humbly.

"Yes, sir," said Alfred, vastly surprised. "Yes, sir," said Alfred, vastly surprised. "Yes, sir," said Alfred, vastly surprised. "Yes, sir," said Alfred, vastly surprised.

"I see how it was," said Alfred. "I see how it was," said Alfred. "I see how it was," said Alfred. "I see how it was," said Alfred.

"Love is the very devil; I've gone through it and I know."

how was he going to endure it, now that he was embarking on this endless tedious job of rounding up at the girl he loved. Five o'clock. As he stood there the old clock in the hall accompanied wheezed out the hour. Should he go up to London and tell his chief that he must be seen from this job? That some one else must take it on. That although he entirely realized that in this profession personal consideration counted for nothing at all, he was not able to adapt himself to such an outlook. John Wampler buried his face in his pillow and groaned.

His groan deepened the soft opening of the door. "Your tea, sir," Grace, in cap and apron, stood there.

"Good God, how did you know I was awake?" A fine gentleman decided Grace a milly her cozy little smile. Such grand pajamas, all stripes and silk and open at the throat.

"I heard you open your door, sir," said Grace, feeling very nervous. "John, stuffing a pillow at his back, prepared to drink his tea and eat his butter and jam slowly. To a priceless servant that he thought. Tea, yes, it was clearing his brain. He would get out to London that morning on the nine forty-five, see the chief and tell him as much as he thought fit. He would tell Mrs. Maturin at breakfast. It was just as well that she should accustom herself to his unexpected comings and goings."

"When shall we have the pleasure of seeing you back?" Joan was sending to the hall smiling. It was an awfully good-looking man Mr. Wampler was.

"I'll be here day after tomorrow," said John, standing aside to allow Mrs. Manvers-Pollock to pass into the dining room.

"You aren't leaving us, are you?" Mrs. Manvers-Pollock's hard eyes seemed to stare at him. "Just as she had got to know him, he was going."

"You're putting his hands on my arm," said John, putting his hands on my arm. "And I've got to hurry or I shan't catch my train. Good night, Mrs. Pollock. I shall be back in two days. . . . What would she find her mind wandering. Mrs. Manvers-Pollock suddenly. Was he becoming so odd with that abandoned woman who lived in the little cottage perched up on the cliff?"

"I see how it was," said Alfred. "I see how it was," said Alfred. "I see how it was," said Alfred. "I see how it was," said Alfred.

"I see how it was," said Alfred. "I see how it was," said Alfred. "I see how it was," said Alfred. "I see how it was," said Alfred.

"I see how it was," said Alfred. "I see how it was," said Alfred. "I see how it was," said Alfred. "I see how it was," said Alfred.

"Yes, I know the type of thing and intelligence," said the chief. "You must be of the type I abhor, neither hot or cold."

"Others might not see eye to eye with you," said John. "It is all right, as it is to you like." The chief pressed a button.

"Speaking," John could hear the wretched voice coming faintly from the receiver. "It's this, sir. The pudding face the intent. It concerns E. You will remember, sir, that I have two, Western circuit. He has got it taped, up to a point. But is handicapped by having fallen in love with the lady concerned."

"Can the girl give you valuable information?" "Yes, invaluable." "Then tell him to go ahead. We'll spare the girl if she tells us what we want to know and produces proof."

"That's good, sir." The chief listened for another moment or two and then disconnected. "Could you hear anything?" "Yes," John got up and walked to the window. This must be how the chief intended to see the result of the tapping. He had got it taped, up to a point. But is handicapped by having fallen in love with the lady concerned."

"I see how it was," said Alfred. "I see how it was," said Alfred. "I see how it was," said Alfred. "I see how it was," said Alfred.

Doings in Washington

By CONGRESSMAN WILLIAM LEMKE

WHILE THE NATION breathlessly awaits the invasion, the House passed the Veterans' Bill. This Bill has some merits, but is nothing to boast about. It provides for veterans' unemployment insurance at $20 a week for 26 weeks. If the veteran participates in a strike, then he will not receive the insurance. This guarantee is how justifiable the strike may be. It makes no provision for the discharged veterans' dependents. Their allotments cease the moment the veteran is discharged. How can an unemployed veteran support himself and his dependent on $20 a week?

THE BILL PROVIDES THAT IF a veteran buys a farm or a business, the Government will guarantee his venture up to 50 per cent, limits its guarantee to $1,500.

THE PERMISSIBLE interest rate is six per cent per annum. The government pays this interest for two years. This interest amounts to $180 for the two years. That is what the "stay-at-homers" think is being liberal with the veteran. I think it is an insult to his intelligence.

THIS $1,500 IS NOT A DONATION. It is a guarantee to the party making the loan to the veteran. If his venture is a success he pays the $1,500 and not the Government. If he fails the Government has first lien on his property for the $1,500. If he succeeds then all the revenue from the Government is appreciation for his services—for risking his life and limbs—the small sum of $180 interest.

I SUBMIT THAT WE SHOULD not ask to make money out of

GEORGE WOLEVER, WELL-KNOWN RESIDENT DIES IN CLEVELAND

George Wolever, president of the Shiloh Savings Bank Co., died at St. John's hospital, Cleveland, Saturday afternoon. Mr. Wolever underwent an operation in February and was recuperating at his home, when complications made it necessary for him to return. He was taken to the hospital in McQuate's ambulance on Monday, May 8, where everything possible was done for him. He was born on a farm near Holmesville, Nov. 11, 1865, and followed farming all his life and made a success in his chosen vocation. He was a resident of this community for over forty years. He was made president of the Shiloh Savings Bank Co. in 1938, following the death of C. G. Wolfersberger, and was the fourth president since the bank's organization in 1901. He was a student all his life. Was an able speaker, who never failed to give valuable information whenever called upon in any public capacity, and was also adept in private conversation. He was not only a popular speaker, but an efficient master of ceremonies, a place he was often asked to fill.

He was a member of the F. & A. M., No. 544 of Shiloh, and a consistent member of the Methodist church nearly all his life, and was an officer in the church for many years.

A former mayor of Shiloh, he was interested in the civic projects, and was the sponsor of our Military Service Roll.

A good, clean, Christian gentleman whose life was enriched every year.

Last rites were held Tuesday at 2 p. m., at the McQuate funeral home. His pastor, Rev. E. R. Haines, officiated.

Burial was made at Holmesville.

Surviving are his wife Alice, one brother, Sam, and one sister, Miss Anna Wolever, both of Holmesville.

Mr. and Mrs. Merton Benedict of Shiloh, Ohio, announce the marriage of their daughter, Margy Irene to Ship Cook 2c John C. Elliott of the United States Navy, on Saturday, May 13th. The double ring ceremony was performed in the spacious chapel of the Y. M. C. A., at Norfolk, Va. The bride's attendant was her aunt, Mrs. Lucille Rader of Shiloh and the groom was attended by Chief Petty Officer Barneybee, Quartermaster on Mr. Elliott's ship. The bride wore a tan suit with red accessories and a corsage of red roses and gardenias with a tiara of the same in her hair. After the ceremony the couple were entertained by friends at the Starlit Room at the Monticello Hotel in Norfolk.

Mrs. Elliott is at present residing with her parents at Shiloh and is employed at the Shelby

Air Depot. Mr. Elliott is the son of Mr. & Mrs. Arthur Elliott of Shelby, O., and is a graduate of Shelby High school, Class of '42. He is serving aboard a sea-plane tender in the Atlantic Ocean.

TWICE STRICKEN IN SAME HOME

The community was shocked on Monday afternoon to hear of the death of Mrs. Mary S. Stiving. Mrs. Stiving had been in poor health a number of years but the end came suddenly.

She died at the home of her son, Earl, where she had resided the past eleven years. She was a native of Richland county and was born Oct. 24, 1871. Surviving are three sons, Earl of Shiloh, Funeral services will be held Thursday at 3:00 p. m., at the McQuate's funeral home. Rev. E. R. Haines, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating.

Burial will be made in Oakland cemetery, Shelby. She was a member of the Methodist church in Shelby.

Mr. Stiving has the sympathy of all in his double affliction.

COACH HANDS IN RESIGNATION

Coach Charles Williams extended his resignation to the Board of Education last week. His fine work in the class room and in the department of athletics will be hard to duplicate next year.

Coach Williams came to Shiloh from Otterbein College, where he was an outstanding athlete. He did much at Shiloh to put the athletic teams on a winning and sportsmanship basis.

The school and the community wish him success in his new position.

CUSTODIAN OF SCHOOL QUILTS

Harry Guthrie, school custodian for the past eleven years, extended his resignation to the Shiloh Board of Education, to become effective on the first of August. Mr. Guthrie has served in this position longer than anyone else who has janitor. His familiar presence will be missed when school opens next Fall. The school officials and the students bid him success and prosperity in the work he follows next year.

DIES IN WEST

Word was received by friends here of the passing of Mrs. C. Ruth Opdyke Gaines in Los Angeles, Calif., Friday, May 19th.

She was lovingly called by many friends here, was born at the family farm north of town Feb. 1, 1870, and was the daughter of C. L. and Sarah Mass Opdyke. She attended the Shiloh schools and began her teaching in the schools at this place. Through her energy she secured two college diplomas and recognition from a nationally recognized college in California.

She was a woman of more than ordinary erudition and achieved high positions in the teaching profession and in the business and scientific fields.

Her husband died three years ago.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Kate Anderson of Los Angeles, and Mrs. F. V. Stout of Willard, one brother, Laurin Opdyke of Los Angeles.

Her passing is a personal loss to a number of very near friends in this community.

HELP SOLDIERS

This community project for sponsoring the food for soldiers at the Crestline Service Canteen on Saturday, June 3, is nearing completion.

A little explanation, we hope, will make it clear to everyone that all credit or honor will go entirely to the community as a whole, and not to any class or organization. A committee is looking after the work.

The clubs of the community are furnishing the cup cakes for the boys and all other residents are asked to contribute money for the purchase of meat and coffee.

Please hand your contribution to anyone of the committee, or if not convenient, leave it at Page's Store. The committee is composed of the following: Mrs. E. F. Elliott, Mrs. Paul Rader, Mrs. Harmon Roethlisberger, and Mrs. E. J. Stevenson. Mrs. Rudy Rader is chairman.

REMODEL RESTAURANT

Mrs. O. M. Murphy left Tuesday to visit her mother in Florida. During her absence Mr. Murphy will remodel The Tower Restaurant.

GIFT TO SCHOOL

On Thursday evening, May 18, the Senior class of '44 bid farewell to the halls of old Shiloh High.

Before leaving they gave something for a remembrance. Coming back to Shiloh High a few years from now, we hope to see the school grounds much improved, because our class has financed the improvement of our school grounds. Already shrubbery has been planted and grass seed has been sown. And as the grass grows and makes a more beautiful school, the school has promised us that they will have a marker made telling the world at large of our gift to the school.

We hope that this gift will show a small measure of the appreciation we feel toward the school board and faculty for their help and guidance during our school days at Shiloh High. —Janice Marie Black

WILL ENTER SERVICE

Miss Lucille Gedney, who has been teaching in high school at Republic, has returned to her home here. Lucille has successfully passed all examinations required for service training and will leave June 14 to become a WAVE.

ENTERS HOSPITAL

Emery Braden was taken in the McQuate ambulance to the Willard Hospital, Sunday evening.

INTERESTING MEETING

A one hundred per cent attendance of the B-Square Club, four guests, nine children, and an ideal day made for a happy occasion. A chicken dinner was enjoyed at noon.

The afternoon session was opened with devotions by Mrs. Adele Huddleston. Business was in charge of the vice president, Mrs. Mary Forsyth.

The roll call was answered by giving the name of a favorite bird or something special pertaining to the bird.

The club voted for each member to make two dozen cup cakes each for the Crestline Service Center. The program directed by Mrs. Grace Howard, consisted of readings and music on the subject of "Mother's Day." An outstanding number was a vocal solo by Mrs. Beatrice Kochenderfer, "What a Friend We Have In Mother."

The June meeting will be with Mrs. Kochenderfer at Adario.

ALUMNI RECEPTION

The reception and dinner given by the Alumni Association for the Class of '44 was a great success. Eighty members and friends were present. Not as many attended from a distance as formerly.

The pot luck dinner was unusual with a variety for each table.

R. R. Howard served as toastmaster for the occasion. A welcome was given the class by Doris Reynolds, and the response was made by the president of the Class of '44. Special music composed of a piano solo by Janice Black, accordion solo by Marcella Clark, and vocal solo, Aubrey Henry. The Madison High school orchestra of nine young men, furnished splendid music for the dancing and cards and visiting was the diversion for those who didn't care to dance.

get a good view of everything that went on. Boy, did he fix us up — we were really in the front row. Exactly five minutes to one case two motorcycles, slick and then came the car with the King, Queen and Princess Elizabeth in.
 The car they were in was one of those kind that the driver sits out in the open and right back of him was a big glass and three big glass windows in the doors. You could see them very plainly. But then on top of that the car following the King and Queen had General Montgomery in it. They stopped just a little way from us and got out. They stood and waved a minute or two then walked over to inspect the troops. Boy, it was a colorful affair.
 The King looked pretty tired but kept smiling. He looks, to me anyway, as though he wanted to get away from it all. He was dressed in a naval uniform and naturally wore medals of all descriptions. He appears to be rather frail.
 The Queen looked just the opposite of the King. She looked very fresh and kept smiling and waving. She is a very attractive woman and appears to me to be everything a Queen should be. She was dressed in a light blue dress, hat and gloves. The way I happened to notice how she was dressed was because of a lady standing behind me. When they passed she yelled right out, "Oh, look, the Queen is dressed in blue." Now, how could I overlook that fact with her yelling in my ear?
 Princess Elizabeth is a very pretty girl. She is about eighteen and boy is she good looking. Never had much of an eye for royalty but she is plenty o. k. She was dressed the same as her mother. She seemed rather shy and tried to stay in the background and I couldn't see as much of her as I did the rest.

 General Montgomery is every inch a soldier. He is rather tall and stands very erect. He seemed very modest and tried to give the King all the limelight. He was dressed in an ordinary English battle dress with the customary baret. He was very tanned as you can well imagine after all his months of fighting in Africa.
 As I have said before it was a colorful affair and something that I was very fortunate to see. Naturally the local people were very thrilled and I got quite a kick out of some of the minute details which they would remark about the King's, Queen's and Princess' person.
 Well, I've got to close now and will write again soon. I am feeling fine and everything is o. k.

LT JOHN FACKLER SEES ENGLISH KING AND QUEEN AT A REVIEW

It isn't often we stay-at-homes get first-hand information on royalty. However, Lt. John Fackler writes in detail of his experience of seeing the English King and Queen pass by. Here's the letter, written somewhere in England, to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Fackler:
 "Dear Folks:
 "Well today for a change I have something to write about. Today has been a day I should not forget for a while. This morning at about 11:30 o'clock a friend of mine and myself were standing in front of a church. We had been to a funeral and were waiting for our jeep. A civilian woman came over and was asking us the particulars about the funeral and so forth. She introduced herself as being the wife of the chief of the county. She then said that since we were strangers in a strange country she would tell us something that was soon to take place. She continued by telling us that if we were at a certain place by five minutes to one this afternoon, the King and Queen would be there reviewing a parade. She said the reason they were keeping it quiet about the exact time they would be there was that there would be such a crowd that no one would see anything. She was very sincere about it so I looked at my friends and asked him if he wanted to go because I was all for going. So off for camp we went to get something to eat and hurry back.

 We arrived back at the place where the woman told us about about ten minutes to one, and there was quite a large crowd and several ranks of uniformed men. Just by dumb luck we asked a bobbie where we might stand to

Put an End to 'Soft Soap'

A recent Gallup poll shows that 86 per cent of a cross section of American citizens agree with the criticism expressed by the soldiers, back home from the war front, that the civilian population "does not take the war seriously enough." Dr. Gallus says: "The attitude on the part of soldiers—'that home front is not bearing its share of the serious work of the war, according to some observers, leads to a sharp division between soldiers and civilians. Such a division, should it develop, is looked upon by Secretary of War Henry L. Simson as grave enough to hold it to the possibility of defeat."

To the question—"What do you think should be done about this situation, if anything?"—suggestions fall into two main categories: "One, give people a more realistic picture of war as it is at the battle-fronts. Two, impose heavier sacrifices on civilians here at home."

Regarding the first category, voters suggest more movies with grim battle scenes, more lectures by men back from the fronts, more information in the newspapers with less sugar-coating, less suppression of bad news, more radio programs dealing with the horrors of war."

The suggestions dealing with the heavier sacrifices on the home front would institute a labor draft, would force people to buy more bonds and curb pleasures, even close up amusement places."

Now you don't have to bully Americans into "taking the war seriously" by labor drafts, or forced bond buying, or by curbing their pleasures. You only have to tell them how serious things are, and how great the hardships our men are having to undergo at the front. There are those who have lost their sons in this war, and there are those who have lost their homes. Week what is happening to their boys. These people take the war seriously—and so would all Americans if they were told the unpleasant facts as well as the pleasant facts. But how in the name of common sense can the American people, loathed anywhere from three thousand to six thousand miles from the battle fronts, appreciate the hardships of our soldiers unless they are given some inkling of what those hardships are? Between government censorship, by town daily newspaper soft-peddling and radio wishful thinking—we here at home are led to believe that the war is just one easy success after another. We are asked to donate blood for our wounded, but according to some of these organs of information the wounded seem to be nearly always the enemy. We are asked to buy more war bonds to help defeat the enemy, but we are told that we have practically bombed so many of their ships, that they have comparatively few airplanes left, that their factories are mostly in ruins, that their submarines are being sunk, that their German air still fight with less than no soldiers, submarines, tanks and planes.

Why are the front pages and the air-waves always filled with glowing accounts of continuous victory and a small heading on a back page vaguely intimates that the Japanese may be gaining slightly against the Chinese in Hunan Province. The situation in China is much more than serious and the blow to China would deal a terrible blow to the Allies. But how can Americans "take the war seriously" if they are not told of these and other unpleasant facts? Why are we always being "soft-soaped"? Don't they think we can "take it"?

Dale Carnegie

Author of "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

DRAMATIZE YOUR IDEA!

Do you want to get somebody to do something for you? Well, there is one simple way to make this appeal. Dramatize it!

The RCA-Victor company, Camden, New Jersey, was doing war work. The company found that the greatest drawback in getting the work out was the men and women workers. The head of the departments were not prompt among the workers imploring them to be more prompt. The results were disappointing. The company then had speakers deliver messages on the subject of punctuality. The speakers dealt in glowing terms. Results still inadequate.

Then one of the bright boys in the advertising department thought up an idea for an action. The company had a pasteboard ruler six inches long made. A ruler was included in each pay envelope. Printed on the back was this: "Workers in one of our plants lost 172,980 minutes in one month because they were late."

"Poland was conquered in only 37,440 minutes."

"France was conquered in 44,640 minutes after the Maginot line had been broken."

"Make it a rule to be on time."

The vivid dramatization worked wonders—did more than all the lectures and pleadings. The workers could see in one glance exactly how serious were the consequences when workers were habitually late. The very next day after these cardboard rulers went into the pay envelopes, there was a marked improvement in punctuality in that plant. The company had reached its employees by dramatizing the thought for them.

The same company wanted to get its employees to turn in ideas, and a request was issued to put up notices to that effect. A few ideas straggled in. But not the quantity the company had hoped for. Then the company decided to dramatize the appeal. So it had a cardboard replica of a microscope made; about six inches long. Then in the middle of the paper microscope it fastened a penny. Printed on the paper microscope was: "A penny for your thoughts. Dollars for your worth-while suggestions." Then along the handle of the microscope was printed: "Examine your job for ideas." One of these paper microscopes was put in each pay envelope.

Ideas came in faster than they ever had before in the history of the company. Cash prizes were given for the best ideas, but what had broken the logjam was the paper microscope with its penny and the catchlines.

A few months later the company created a poster showing aviators on a raft in the South Seas. Then the catchlines were kept. Captain Edger had a cardboard replica of three weeks. Your ideas will sink Hitler. Let's sink him."

More ideas came winging in.

Thomas A. Edison was troubled by the workers in his East Orange plant coming in late. One day, at five minutes after the hour, he had a sign printed and hung over the face of the clock. It said: "I am ashamed to look at you." So if you have an idea to present, dramatize it.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Did you hear that Tom is going to be inducted into the Army next week, Judge?"

"Yes, Frank told me this morning down at the barber shop. Our town's got a lot of men in the service now, Jim. In fact, all towns have. I was just reading in the paper where there are more than 10,000,000 men away from their homes in the armed forces. And, from all reports, they're doing a grand job bringing victory closer every day."

"We folks at home have a mighty big obligation to those 10,000,000 fighting men. We've got to produce the food to keep them well fed. We've got to keep them supplied with the ammunition and equipment they need to finish their job. We've got to help the Government pay for all these supplies our men need by buying more and more War Bonds. We'll have another big chance to do that by helping to put the 5th War Loan drive over the top, Jim."

"And, in addition, we must be sure that, while they're away and can't express their opinions, we don't go voting on and deciding any things that will displease them when they come back."

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH HOLDS 125TH BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

The members of the church and congregation met at the Presbyterian church on Thursday evening, May 18, 1944, to celebrate the 125th anniversary of the founding of the church. Carrying out the birthday idea, tables were decorated for each month of the year. The bountiful covered dish dinner was served cafeteria style and guests were seated at their birth month table. The pastor and members of the session found their place at a table centered with the church birthday cake, which was beautifully decorated with candles and lilies of the valley. This cake was made and decorated by Mrs. Alta Briggs and Miss Florence Danner.

John W. Lanus directed the group in the singing of familiar songs. The pastor, Rev. H. L. Bethel, gave a brief talk on "How Does God Get His Work Done," using illustrations from the missionary journey of St. Paul.

This was followed by the roll call of the active membership of the church, which numbers 126. Mrs. Nora Wyandt, who is out-of-town at present, has been a member of the church for seven 1/2-five years. Mrs. Hattie Perry and Mrs. Loretta Hatch were the oldest members present, and Elaine Roe and Nancy Miller were the youngest in attendance.

Everyone stood when the birthday cake was lighted and from its light the individual candles at each place were lighted. Mrs. Bethel cut the cake and it was served to all.

A modern note was added to the celebration by listening to the broadcast from Station WMAN, Mansfield, The Plymouth Harmonettes, Misses Weller, Vander-

REV. LAMBERTUS

(Continued from Page One) - not least, we must have an understanding of faith about others. Rev. Lambertus illustrated his point with numerous short stories and also stressed the idea of "Forgetting the things that are behind." Past achievements must be left, advantage taken of the new opportunities that lie before you. A person who cannot forget is just as bad as the person who cannot remember. "Press onward! The soul of the church, accompanied by Mrs. Marie Guthrie, dedicated one number of their program to the church anniversary, singing the hymn, "The Church's One Foundation."

One feature of the arrangements especially pleasing to the ladies, was that the men served on the dish washing committee. Since 1819 this church has been a part of Plymouth, and it hopes to carry on for many more years serving God and man in the life of this community.

perseverance cannot lose. Imprison it and you will have Pilgrim's Progress, blind it and you will have Milton's Paradise Lost; deafen it and you will have a wizard like Edison; put it into a log cabin and it will show its way to the White House like Lincoln; commit it to the frozen north and it will find the north pole like Peary; return its poems three score and ten times you will have the nation's poems like those of Riley. Constant aim will bring success."

He closed his address by stating "in the end you may reach the highest rung on the ladder of success, or you may not. But all of your success will turn into failure without Christ." Paul says: "I can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me." This faith in Christ must be a faith which stand in reverence now and always to the closeness of eternity and to the values of life that are true values. If that's your faith, nothing can defeat you. Such are the people who are God's amazing victors. Somehow we ought to be in their company."
