

MANY INTERESTING LETTERS ARE RECEIVED FROM OUR SERVICE MEN

A subject in which everyone is interested these days is "Our Boys in Service." It overshadows everything else, and the main topic of conversation in clubs, homes, business, etc., is what they are doing and where they are located.

This week the Advertiser publishes a number of letters, some sent in direct, some received from their folks for reprinting. We cannot personally contact our parents, but if they will either take excerpts from letters received or send to the office we will be glad to print them.

The Advertiser has an exceptionally large mailing list to boys in service and we have been busy all the time again that their only contact with other boys in service is through the home town paper and how glad they are to hear about them. So, if you want to make the boys happy and keep the community alive as to where-abouts and experiences of our boys, just send them in. Perhaps they won't be printed the same week as sent, but we will publish them as the space permits.

Somewhere in France, 19 July 1944

Dear Tommy:

Since my arrival in France I have had many letters from many friends—all wishing me well and giving me that moral support so necessary for the job I am in. I trust this letter will answer to all of them my sincere appreciation for their kind thoughts for me and my safety.

As some have heard I arrived in France on "D" day after watching the show for a few hours before "H" hour from our ship anchored in the enemy waters during those hours the tension was terrific and the celebration reminded you from sight and memory of a glorious military job. We were late 20's. Upon landing, however, the story was a bit more exciting. One of my best friends was fatally wounded while we were which didn't help me any. After 24 hours of hard work in a tank (provided by the hospital).

From then on it was like Shiloh on free show nit with the exception that in Shiloh we would not on the belly. My most difficult job was to attempt conversation with the "supermen." The French are a swell bunch to work on and I am cooperative for the treatment, etc.

After about two weeks one of the headquarters surgeons came along and asked me to deliver a baby in the home. To me that was the first music I had heard. With an interpreter I managed to get acquainted with her. She talked with her for a long time, hearing how she lived for four years in France, but most of all she was loved and lived in her condition, during the invasion in her house where she could watch the landings. For those who would like to see the soldier in her foxhole, then an American officer passed and noticed her ill, and gave her the pills, which was the first she had seen in four years.

Last week (July 13) I was called to deliver a baby. I was called to get acquainted with her. She talked with her for a long time, hearing how she lived for four years in France, but most of all she was loved and lived in her condition, during the invasion in her house where she could watch the landings. For those who would like to see the soldier in her foxhole, then an American officer passed and noticed her ill, and gave her the pills, which was the first she had seen in four years.

I imagine many of you remember the old "rattling" door in my office. After repairing it many times I now have it set up in my new administrative office. It is a great deal of enjoyment to patients awaiting attention. I made the remark today "I couldn't get a rest in my office, but I'm glad I'm writing this."

am listening to Abbott and Costello from London, re-broadcast. Our American station is really our best morale booster with the well-known programs from the States without the soap operas or any of the passionate purple love stories. Some one is doing a wonderful job for our little pleasures.

Yesterday afternoon I made a twelve hour trip in eight and visited a number of other hospitals. In one, the colonel asked my home address, and when I told him Shiloh, he said he had heard of it, then proceeded to tell me of Dr. Pierce from Mansfield being with them. I went to supper in their mess tent and there was Dr. Pierce across the table. After that we had a long hot session of experiences. Incidentally, he is the first man from Richmond county or vicinity that I have met since being overseas. Through him and a recent letter from Dr. Dawson he had received, I managed to find the whereabouts of many of the Mansfield men.

Tommy, thanks so much for your paper—it reaches me regularly—something that I think is weeks old, but it certainly does me good when it comes.

Now, I must close this epistle here. I will answer the many letters from friends in Shiloh and Plymouth and that we will all be home for Xmas—our new slogan. With the best regards to all, I am,

Sincerely, Dr. Butner.

Clair Foraker Back in England 7-16-44

Dear Mother:

Just a few lines to let you know I am well and getting along fine. I got a few senseless letters which was very nice. I got a nice box from Margaret and one from Don Shaver, so I am pretty well supplied. I got back in England now. So I will have a little more time to write. I have a lot of letters to answer. I will write you again soon.

FARMERS PLAN RALLY HERE AUGUST 13

While the program is as yet incomplete as far as announcing speakers, H. H. Fackler states the committee arranging for the farmers picnic and business meeting of the Ohio Marketing Quota Protest Association, hopes to announce a list of speakers on the platform for that day.

Wm. Lemke, Congressman from North Dakota, and Harry McSherry, Congressman from the 17th Ohio district, have signified their intentions of being present. There is a possibility that other well-known names in public life will also be here at the picnic.

The picnic and business meeting is scheduled for Sunday, Aug. 13 at the Mary Faye Park here. The public is invited, and those attending are requested to bring well-earned passes. Additional facilities will be installed at the park for the day.

The packer, who is state chairman, pointed out that there will be much business to be taken care of at this meeting. The business session will probably be held in the morning hours, to be followed by dinner at noon. Speakers will take up the time in the afternoon.

It is estimated that between four and five thousand farmers will probably attend in Plymouth and the immediate vicinity are urged to attend, whether they are members or not, as matters of vital importance will be discussed at this time.

Cannery at Norwalk Acquired By Stokely

Announcement was made at Norwalk last week that the Stokely Brothers Co., of Indianapolis, had purchased the Crampton Cannery Co., operators of food canneries in Ohio including the Pressing division at Norwalk, largest cannery of sweet corn in the state.

The Stokely company, which operates about 50 canning plants along the coast, will continue operation of the Norwalk plant, which employs up to 170 men and women. H. G. Pressing will remain in charge under the new owners.

The Pressing division also plans to continue to produce and distribute a large outlet for farm products in this district.

Around the Square (By Phineas Whittlesseed)

IT SEEMED like old times to have "Doc" Hefler call on us Saturday. The only thing missing was "Honey Bee." Doc, at 84, looks like a million, but suit newly pressed, collar and tie, and a new straw hat -- you'd never believe anyone could look so young!

WE were talking the other day to Henry Fackler about local crop failures.

"Crop failures?" he asked? "Yep. I've seen a few of 'em in my day. Now in 1894 the corn crop was purty' nigh nothing. We cooked some for dinner one day and saw ate fourteen acres of corn at one meal."

I agree that the failure this season wasn't quite so bad!

HERE IS HOW TO GET SOLDIER BALLOTS

The Huron County Board of Elections announced today that it is not necessary for a relative to call to give the Board an address or application for an Armed Force Ballot.

They may request the same sent by mail or have some one else call at the office for them. If a person calls for the application for someone else he had better give the Board an address of the person that the ballot is to be sent.

They also may be returned to the Board by some other person or by direct mail to the Board of Elections at the Court House in Norwalk.

The office is open each day from 9 to 12 and from 1 to 4 except Saturday when the hours are from 9:00 to 12.

If a person can't get into the office during these hours call the Clerk of the Board, Paul Tucker, phone 4531, 32 Walnut St., Norwalk, and he will make an appointment for them to come to the office at any hour convenient to them.

SIDEWALKS TO GET "ONCE OVER"

Regular routine matters were brought up at council meeting on Tuesday night which included reading of minutes of the previous meeting and payment of bills. No outstanding legislation is before the village body at this time, with the exception of a street improvement program. It is possible that this program will be started within a week or so, and calls for the resurfacing of several streets and alleys.

With a critical shortage of help prevailing in Plymouth, it is almost impossible to carry out any kind of improvement program, but the Mayor and council assure the public that something will be done.

GAS FOR BOYS HOME ON LEAVE

No ration will be granted for passes for the leaves or furloughs for less than three days, at the suggestion of the Army and Navy.

The member of the Armed Services should apply for gasoline rations to the War Price and Rationing Board having jurisdiction over the automobile he is to drive and he should present proper leave or furlough papers.

THREE WEEKS REMAIN TO PAY PROPERTY TAX

With three more weeks remaining before the August 20 deadline on second half of 1943 Richmond county real estate taxes, more than $450,000 still remained to be collected.

Payments continued to come in slowly last week with only $42,274 being added to the total. County treasurer Charles Payne said more than one-fourth of the individual taxpayers still must make their payments.

Utilities' payments, few of which have been made at present, are expected to push the total much nearer the $767,000 charge.

JULY TURNS OUT TO BE HOT DRY, CROPS DAMAGED

JULY WAS EXTREMELY DRY; SOAKING RAINS ARE URGENTLY NEEDED.

July, 1944, which started so profitably, ended up with a near drought. The total precipitation for the month was only 1.54 inch, or nearly one-half of its (56 inch) feet on one day (the 12th). The normal rainfall for July is 4.02 inches so there was a deficiency of 2.48 inches. There were only seven days with 0.1 inch or more of rainfall during the month. 18 days were 0.10 inch or less and only 3 were cloudy. With so much sunshine and little rain pastures, meadows and lawns turned brown and Victory gardens shriveled up.

The outlook for corn--our great American crop--is dubious unless good soaking rains come soon. Oats have been harvested but the yield is reported light.

TEMPERATURE--The highest for the month was 97 degrees on the 11th; the lowest on the 1st and 21st. The average for the month was 72.3 or one-half degree below normal. There were 10 days when the thermometer hit 90 or above and six nights when it dropped to 50 or below. The prevailing wind from the northeast (10) whereas most of our rains during the summer come from the south or southwest.

Here's hoping the wind changes soon! J. A. R.

WM. ELLIS HURT BY HAY BALER

While assisting in the operation of a hay baler Monday afternoon at his home on West Broadway, William (Bill) Ellis had the painful misfortune of having his left foot caught in the feeder of the baler, badly crushing it around the heel and ankle. Mr. Ellis was assisting Fred Sutter, Rome, who was hauling the straw with his outfit, and in some manner Ellis' foot became entangled in the feeder. Luckily for him Sutter stopped the machine before Ellis suffered further injury. George Cheesman, a neighbor, assisted Mr. Sutter in extricating the injured man from the baler, and in removing him to his home nearby.

Ellis' leg is known to hundreds of friends in this section, will be laid up for some time, and it's not going to be an easy job for him, especially at this season of the year.

LT. FERRELL WRITES FROM FRANCE

Dear Aunt Jette and All:
Before it gets too dark in my tent to see, I'll try and write a few lines. We are in the front, but use after dark and I can only manage to find my cot by candle light. Our black out must be complete as after dark our large Red Cross can't be seen.

The sun seems to shine more in France than it does in England and makes washing our fatigues much easier as we can do our washing and it dries in a day. We sleep on our clothes to press them, so our ironing isn't much of a problem.

It is now the first time since I've been in the army that I've really felt that there is a war on and that it isn't just a game. We are in a new place, but we can see what has happened previously and know the price that people pay for gains and losses.

Our soldiers are the best. The French people near us are very nice to us and would give our boys anything they have. The boys especially like the cognac and cider and go for fresh eggs. I have several boys who always bring me an egg every day so I get mine through a middle man.

Write when you have time, Aunt Jette. Our mail is being awaited event, and seems to come in bunches.

We save and re-read the old letters until a new lot arrives.

Hope you are well and best wishes to all.

Love,
Ed. Note: Lt. Mary Ferrell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ferrell of this place. She is a graduate nurse and is in the field General hospital and was employed there before enlisting. Aunt Jette is Mrs. Harry Haun.

FOR THE ESSENTIAL CAMPAIGN

CLOSE, BITTER ELECTION IS FORECAST BY BOTH SIDES

By AL JEDLIKA

Although the American people have taken their politics less seriously since the outbreak of the war, the coming presidential campaign promises to develop into a ding-dong battle, with the voters themselves stirring up most of the heat while the candidates match wits in an effort to be as non-partisan as possible in their approaches.

Although President Roosevelt again will be the Democrats' standard bearer and the administration will have every advantage because of its incumbency during the war, the Republicans are serious in their campaign in nominating Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York as their candidate.

Glamorous as the district attorney who smashed the racket in New York City, then went on to make a good administrative record as governor of his state, Dewey not only possesses some of the personality needed to offset the President's, but he also has the keenest political mind the Republicans have brought to the electoral lists for a long time.

Between the labor vote which decidedly will be President Roosevelt's, and the farm vote which has not been lost for Governor Dewey, the great mass of independent voters in whose hands will rest the election will be the deciding factor.

This is not to say, of course, that the labor or the farm vote are cut and dried. The labor vote, since the result of the election may turn upon some event of the war, or important sections of either class may be befriended or alienated by some action of one of the contestants, as could easily be said.

No sooner had both parties met for their conventional than they began to conduct their campaigns, with

Myalgia-Muscular Rheumatism

By Dr. J. B. Warren

A pain over the heart may cause a fear that it is a heart attack. A pain in the chest may be thought to be pleurisy, pain over abdomen may be thought to be appendicitis. These pains may all be due to myalgia or what was formerly called muscular rheumatism.

However, in muscular rheumatism, the pain can usually be traced to cold, dampness, exposure and massage is the treatment for myalgia.

CHAPTER V
Madame Fabre-Lusignan becomes indignant when her old butler, Rudolph, tells her about the little girl who is kept in a picture in the paper showing a young girl and her cousin are kept in the picture. The Princess Meridel of Gratten and her cousin are kept in the picture to seek refuge with rich uncle in most hidden place.

"And I shall leave you, too, Baron, and you, M. Goujon; to talk of old times. Madame troubled very little about her butler, Rudolph explains his clumsiness by pointing to a picture in the paper showing a young girl and her cousin are kept in the picture. The Princess Meridel of Gratten and her cousin are kept in the picture to seek refuge with rich uncle in most hidden place.

"You are not ill, child," Madame had noticed how much lower than the others Rosine was emptying her glass. "Oh, perhaps you do not like my party?"

"Oh, but I do, Madame Laurin. I do indeed. I love this party. It is only because I do not that I was thinking—"

"Now, child, you must not think when I am not here, that I was thinking—"

"No, no, no, Madame Laurin. I do indeed. I love this party. It is only because I do not that I was thinking—"

"No, no, no, Madame Laurin. I do indeed. I love this party. It is only because I do not that I was thinking—"

"But Roger promised to kill this one and Roger is strong. He will cross the King again, for the King is strong. Yes, Roger will kill this one surely."

And they stole away, out of that room, away from the picture of Michel Fabre that smiled at them in the doorway.

It was the day following the coming of the little English evacuees who were to, find a home at Phillips. Meridel looked at the little girl who was to show the old lady a letter Rudolph had received from the butler in charge of the little girl. Meridel entered when madame's rich voice called "Entrée!" from the door.

"I shall be out in a minute—ah, it is you, Meridel." The door to her bedroom was open. "Make yourself comfortable, child."

Meridel did not hear. The room became gray and the moment she looked at the little girl eternally, said, heartily, "I am glad at the picture of Michel Fabre and slowly walked toward it as if drawn to by an invisible force. She picked it up and looked at it, studying every lineament of the little girl's face, realizing how true, how minutely perfect, had been her mind's image that struck her, the chief thing—the strong wide mouth, the broad forehead and aquiline nose."

Madame had been standing beside her for moments, watching her work in the lower story, away her young breast rose and fell. And madame was old and wise as the wind and she had known love and thus recognized instantly what she saw in Meridel's face.

"Who is he?" Meridel asked. "That is the little girl's name, I forgot myself. This man—may I ask—who is he?"

PROCESSED AT MIAMI FLA.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Aug. 3.—Second Lieutenant Paul H. Root, 25, Plymouth, returned from service outside the continental United States, now is being processed through the army air forces redistribution station No. 2 in Miami Beach, where his next assignment will be determined.

This is one of the redistribution stations within the AAF Personnel Distribution command. At AAF redistribution station AAF returnees from theatres of operation are examined by especially selected medical and classification officers whose joint findings are used in recommending new assignments. Theme of the AAF redistribution program is designation of each man to duty for which he is best fitted. Returnees live at a redistribution station under conditions that encourage natural response to processing, the greater part of their two-week stay being devoted to rest and recreation.

AAF personnel, enlisted men and officers alike, are assigned to a redistribution station upon their return to the states but do not report to the station until completing a furlough of leave of three weeks.

Alfred, husband of Betty S. Root and son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Root, all of Plymouth, won the distinguished flying cross and the air medal. As a C-47 pilot he flew 95 missions during 16 months in the Southwest Pacific.

He attended Plymouth high school, and before entering the army in January, 1942, was employed by the Plymouth Locomotive Works.

WILLARD BOY DIES IN FRANCE

Sgt. Sammie Slusher, 22, husband of Mrs. Anna Slusher, Willard, written up as one of the heroes of the North African and Italian campaigns in the "Stars and Stripes," last February, was killed a week after the invasion of France, according to a telegram received Monday last week by his wife.

He had been wounded and awarded the Purple Heart and had been decorated with the Silver Star. The telegram gave no details. Sgt. Slusher was married eight months before he went overseas.

Mrs. Slusher is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Barking living on the Guinea corner service road. She has been working in Marion.

COMPETITION WILL BE KEEN

One thing we can be sure about in the postwar world, competition is going to be keener than ever. The urge will be strong for companies now operating at double and triple their prewar volumes to make new lines of civilian products. Thus they will hope to provide more jobs than before the war and to utilize full capacity which has been expanded for war production. Consumers of course will benefit too, since lower prices, better products and more service would be a natural sequel. General Mills, Inc., has announced definite plans to augment its food processing business by manufacture of electrical appliances for household use. We may expect that plans of other companies to engage in production of new types of consumer goods will come to light in increasing numbers the nearer we move to the day of Germany's final crack-up.

NEW COLUMN TO BE ADDED

About fourteen years ago H. M. S. Richards, an evangelist of national note, began a devotional broadcast over a local radio station in Long Beach, California. In two years the initial success of this program encouraged the adding of two more stations.

The speaker's appealing address and sound Bible presentations soon won the confidence of thousands of listeners. The broadcasts were early recognized by those far afield as being an outstanding contribution to religious broadcasting.

Six years ago, upon the urgent suggestion of the listeners, the broadcast was launched on a western network of twenty-six stations under the name of "The Voice of Prophecy." It has been the consistent policy of the broadcast to keep individuals in the background and Christ in the foreground. Great success attended the program on the west coast.

Two and a half years ago the program went coast-to-coast. Soon afterward, arrangements were made to carry The Voice of Prophecy program in Spanish and Portuguese in Central and South America. At present this non-profit program is carried by 430 stations in the Western Hemisphere. Arrangements are now being completed for a translated version of the broadcast for China.

The Voice of Prophecy pioneer in launching and presenting series of Bible correspondent courses in English, Spanish, Portuguese, German, Italian and Russian. A similar series is provided for juveniles and another for the blind in Braille. Enrollees number over two hundred thousand. Branch schools have been established in Australia, New Zealand, China, South Africa, Hawaii and in every country of Central and South America.

Mr. Richards contends that the Bible should serve as its own interpreter, and the sound Bible presentations of The Voice of Prophecy have built up an immense listening audience.

Some weeks ago The Voice of Prophecy, Inc. offered to the newspapers of the western hemisphere a weekly feature column, Bible Questions And Answers. The response from the press was immediate. Over four hundred newspapers have already arranged to carry this weekly column.

The readers of the Plymouth Advertiser will be glad to learn that this column will appear weekly as a special feature of our paper.

FRIENDLY NATIVES SAVED MARINES ON GUADALCANAL

A very interesting account of U. S. Marines in action was told last week in The Willard Times, and the story will be interesting to quite a number of Plymouth people.

Sgt. Robert W. Yochum of the Marines came home last Wednesday after spending 26 months fighting in the South Pacific. He was with the Marines who first landed at Guadalcanal, fought at Buna, Bougainville and Fitch-haven and has five months of taking part in five major operations and a Presidential citation. He will be home for a few days and then report at Indian Head Gap, Md., Marine station. He was wounded in action and is not fully recovered.

He and Lawrence Lawson of Celeryville, were the only Willard boys to land with the first invasion troops when the Americans first landed in the Solomons. He and Lawrence fought together with 50-calibre machine guns and anti-tank guns. The Marines were cut off and existed for three months on captured Japanese rice, he says, and did not think they would ever come out alive. They would not have survived if it had not been for the natives. The diminutive colored people did not like the Japs because they had abused them and their wives, and they constantly aided the Americans. The natives came every day to report to the Marines the movements of the Japs, told how many were in parties and what they were doing. The little men kept hidden in the jungles, kept killing the Japs off and very few of them were captured. Sgt. Yochum said.

"The Solomons will be no place for Americans to go and settle after the war," Sgt. Yochum declares. Temperatures range from 130 to 140 degrees, the rainfall is as heavy as any place on earth, the atmosphere is humid and the jungles are alive with every kind of insect and overrun with snakes and lizards. Yochum related Jan. 10, 1942, his father, J. E. Yochum, a B. & O. engineer, died during a battle.

Doings in Washington By CONGRESSMAN WILLIAM LEMKE

CONGRESS met Aug. 1, but the only to the Missouri River Basin states, but to the nation. FOR YEARS the Missouri flood waters joining with those of the Mississippi destroyed millions worth of property and human life in addition. These waters should have been advertised for irrigation, power and other domestic uses. Some states where these vast quantities of water are so many dry years as wet years. For every dollar lost by floods one hundred have been lost by the drought. These waters must be harnessed for domestic use. They must not be permitted to destroy life and property in their mad rush to the ocean.

THIS IS no need for delay. No one should be allowed to delay human welfare for his political future. This project has enough glory for all. It will cost one billion, two hundred and fifty million dollars. It will add billions to the nation's wealth. No one in my state or any other state, can claim sole sponsorship of this project. No plagiarism will be allowed. The project was first launched over twenty years ago by people who were interested in refilling Devils Lake in North Dakota...

THE NORTH DAKOTA Legislature, some twenty years ago, made an appropriation for a survey. The matter was brought to the attention of Army engineers. They reported that the project was not financially feasible. The fight was continued. Recently the Army engineers made another survey. Colonel Pick found the project not only feasible, but highly desirable. The project is now assured. There is a difference in the plan, however, between the Army engineers and the Bureau of Reclamation and Reclamation. The Army

Successful Parenthood by MRS. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS Associate Editor, Parents Magazine

FATHER CAN GIVE PERSPECTIVE Handling over day to day discipline to Mother doesn't mean that Father has no active function in his children's character building. On the contrary, it is Father who can give perspective to the whole process who can help Mother take the long view when daily companionship with growing children sometimes makes life seem a continual rough house. It is Father, too, who can best differentiate between a series of misdemeanors and an actual character weakness in a child. And it is Father from whom both sons and daughters take more readily accept advice on self-improvement. For if Mother offers it on top of such frequent reminders as washing hands before meals, being ready for school on time, etc., it is apt to get lost in the practical, but often smothering, demands of daily living. For example, one cannot imagine Thomas Jefferson's daughter dis regarding her father's suggestion, written in a letter from France in 1787, that she give more serious attention to "things new and good" because of his fear that she would develop a taste for the "fashion and industry and activity." No doubt young Miss Jefferson had any number of instances of her father's of her music and drawing, her Latin translations, her needle and house-keeping management. Her father could raise these daily activities to the status of character asset by pointing out the dignity and happiness which could be brought into her life. For a present-day example of a father's letter pointing out character pitfalls, we like the one written by First Miss Thomas M'Clintock whose son, Roddy, has been a motion picture star since he was 10. The letter wishes to use the water primarily for navigation. The Bureau claims that flood control, irrigation, power and other domestic uses should come first.

THE ARMY would build four or five large dams to store the water for navigation. They would build one at Garrison, N. D., one hundred and eighty feet high. This would flood the entire Missouri River Valley from Garrison some from upstream strong action is taken to deal with them. The engineers of the Bureau recommended ninety dams. They would add several million acres to irrigation lands. They would furnish power and light to farmers and give the surplus water for navigation. They would prevent floods by using the water. They would provide farms for veterans.

THIS IS the issue before Congress. A subcommittee of six members from the Committee on Irrigation and Reclamation has been appointed to hold hearings in all the states affected. These hearings will be held. I am one of the subcommittee. I know that I voice the sentiment of that committee when I say that no politics will be permitted in the hearings. We will gather the information. All parties interested will be given an opportunity to be heard. I feel confident that when the committee gets through the waters of the Missouri River and its tributaries will be saved for the states that need it for irrigation, power and domestic uses, and the surplus for navigation. Thus the whole nation will be benefited.

Washington, D. C. (WNS)—"Peace jitters" are the chief worries of the war administrators here, who fear that the two infections of the national blood stream are going to cause serious disruption of the home front unless strong action is taken to deal with them. The "peace jitters" term was used by Robert Patterson, acting secretary of war, who in a recent press conference, said they already have affected war production and will affect it more seriously in the near future. Mr. Patterson described "peace jitters" as a state of mind inspired by the false belief that the war is about to end. He said that the trend among war workers to try to establish themselves in peacetime pursuits at this time is alarming and said that there already is a shortage of over 200,000 men in war industries.

Mr. Patterson added that many labor leaders feel the department has failed to get over to the public the true picture of what "war effort" really means and think that it may be impossible to teach civilians the importance of war work without first securing their going on the war fronts. It is possible moving pictures may be used more extensively in bringing this truth to the people. At present, such films are being shown each month to 7,500,000 to 8,000,000 war workers and Mr. Patterson believes the results have been helpful with that group. The "peace jitters" psychology was decidedly stimulated by the news of the German revolution in Germany and in the German army, the successes of all Allied armies and the changes in the peace program and the hints of peace feelers being attributed to the war department. The war department holds no illusions about any of these developments resulting in peace before we have fought many hard and bloody battles.

One official at Mr. Patterson's headquarters said "There are tougher and bigger battles ahead. Anyone who reads the newspapers ought to know that." But the news reporters here, who probably read the newspapers more avidly than any group in this country, cannot see how the war department expects the public to see anything but early victory in the air, when the news stories are concerned almost entirely with the power and success of the Allies and the weakness of the enemy. One prominent reporter said that if the war department has good reason to expect the war to last longer than the public anticipates, it must have information it is holding back which should be released at once. On the other hand, there are others who blame the newspapers and radio for making every small step toward victory appear to be a major triumph.

But there is no question that war work must be continued until actual victory arrives and steps must be taken to prevent war workers from losing their interest. The great interest in the coming election is expected to be another reason for bringing this matter to the labor unions actively engaged in campaigning, with certain industrial groups also being active. It is with congressmen concentrating most of their attention on the ballot box that the war effort is being slowed down in production. And there is no one here who believes congressmen will be willing to pass any legislation, unless it has a political aimed at forcing men to stay on the job. When congress reconvenes next month, unless there are emergency conditions which demand action, it is probable that the war effort will be little more than a formality and that most congressmen will go back to their own constituencies without campaigning during the fall.

There are usually enough causes for friction, between nations fighting a war, between nations without writers and public speakers adding their burrs. In those infrequent moments of peace which the nations of the world are permitted to enjoy, the popular sports of having each other out, enthusiastically and mutually indulged in, but only someone oblivious to his own advantages has ever purposely antagonize an ally in time of war. These are many writers and public men who believe it their duty to attack with pen and voice the American Communist and his American (or rather un-American) brand of communism. And just as these are the most common attacks these writers and public men on the trumped-up charge that they are helping to cause friction between this nation and Russia. This faked assumption is absurd to the point of insanity. "Communism" has nothing to do with Russia or with Russian Communism. As well assert that American Socialists are really (National Socialists)—just because they use the same name.

who is supposed to reign in the regions below. That these subversive and rather repulsive gentlemen are gaining ground for their movement in our favored country, is granted. That they will finally achieve to enslave us is possible but improbable. Very recently in New York City, a speech of State Senator Frederic H. Couderc, a violent anti-American Communist, was indignantly censored by a local radio broadcasting station. One of the reasons given was that the speaker had cast aspersions on our allies and other material calculated to spread distrust between our allies and ourselves. Does a speech or a written article contain aspersions on our ally Russia because it warns of local Communist activity? Or is the country to the task of destroying the government which the sovereign people have chosen to elect and maintained for over 150 years? Would Russia be casting aspersions on our ally the United States, if the criticized or stamped out Russians or foreigners—who were plotting to convert her government into a democracy? Certainly not and Americans would be the first to recognize the fact that the Russian government is Russia's form of government is her own business—not ours! And it should not be our business in any form. The Russians doubtless consider us to be the least-likely to interfere with their self-determination and self-seeking trouble makers to plot against our existence, and could scarcely be expected to have any other view. One time some state senator aimed a few caustic remarks at a certain local broadcaster and his tribe of "Americans."

ADISES CHECK RESTAURANTS ON BATTERY TO POST PRICES

With a few weeks cooler days will be here and motorists will begin to drag when you step on the gas pedal. The weather bureau has a change in the weather, Jud Morrison of the Sohio Station on Sandusky street, suggests that a regular check on a battery, the life of it can be determined. So, as winter approaches, you can easily tell whether or not your battery will last through the season without any trouble or if you are confronted with a battery failure. Morrison points out that there is no charge for a battery check-up and that it is a service which James Crockett, who operates the Sohio Station, try at all times to render a friendly service, which includes wiping windshields, checking the tires, etc.

IN FRANCE—Doughboys of the Ninth Infantry Division, fighting on the Cherbourg Peninsula, have been awarded the newly-created Combat Infantryman Badge by Major General Manton S. Eddy, Division Commander. Among those receiving the awards was Cpl. Quentin M. Squire, of North Fairfield.

The awards were made in England shortly before operations on the Continent began. The Ninth Division, which landed on the beaches with early elements of the invasion, was one of the first to enter Cherbourg.

This Division, with its now-famous red, white and blue rosette shoulder flash, was originally organized in July, 1918, but did not see overseas service in World War I. It made up for this deficiency, however, in World War II, landing in North Africa and fighting its way through Maknessey, and was the first infantry unit to enter Bizerte.

Later the Ninth fought in Sicily as part of Lieutenant General George S. Patton's Seventh Army. Elements landed at Palermo on August 2, 1943 and fought through the center of the island, helping the First Division capture Troina, and later to defeat German positions at Randazzo.

LETTERS FROM OUR BOYS

I am going to write to you. I am going to be a tough this week. I will try and get my picture taken and send them to you. I sure wish I could come and see you on my turlough but that can't be done.

The weather is nice here now and the country is very pretty. They have very pretty lawns and flowers at all the homes. If I can get a pass I am going to town this evening. I will either go to a show or go out to the park. That is all there is to write this time so I will say goodbye.

Love to all,
Clair (Foraker)
Wed. July 12

Dear Folks:
Now that we are permitted to write about where we were before coming over here for the invasion, I can write in detail and tell you things which previously were military secrets.

We were stationed in Sandown on the Isle of Wight which is a small island just off the coast of Southampton, England. It is really quite a beautiful little place as the whole island is only 16 miles by 20 miles and since it is entirely surrounded by water, you could go from any town to another and still be on the sea.

It is noted as a resort place for very wealthy people from all over England and many parts of America, so there are many nice hotels and boarding houses in every town where you eat and sleep at quite low rates.

The town we were in reminds me a great deal of Atlantic City as it has a beautiful sand beach and a large pier and many nice hotels, all of which overlook the sea.

The hotel we were billeted in was on the esplanade leading down to the beach and it was only about a hundred feet from our front door to the water's edge and we could get up in our room and see the beautiful sunrises and sunsets over the sea and the moon light shining on the water some evenings was really gorgeous and when the weather warmed up it was really a grand place to be stationed.

The last few days we were there it was very warm and in our spare time we were allowed to go swimming and to sun ourselves on the beach.

We did plenty of work while we were there, preparing for our job over here, but the captain was swell to us and gave us every opportunity he could to have time off.

There is a steep cliff rising vertically from the sea for a distance of about two miles and on top of here the cliff walk is all lined with nice residences with big yards and gardens which overlook the sea from the height of about 150 feet.

Elliott's have their home up there and believe me it is really a lovely place and I hope that some day Jeanne and I can return there and accept their kind invitation to spend a vacation with them. They have 30 bedrooms there and cater to a very nice clientele during the summer season in peace time and they must have done very well as he hasn't worked much as his health doesn't permit it, but they surely have a lovely house and beautiful yard.

We went through the Caribbee brook in Newport one afternoon and it was really a sight worth seeing, as it was all in natural form as it has been since I was built in the 16th century.

I visited Cherbourg today with Jim and Bill and enjoyed walking all over town and seeing the sights, etc., but it is a great deal like the French Quarter in New Orleans.

Everything is OK here and I hope you enjoy this description of Sandown, etc.

Lovingly,
Alex (Bachrach)

Dear Tommy:
It has been a good long time since I have written to you, so I will take the time now to do it. Things here have been pretty good and they can sure place those 88's of theirs. I sure have seen a lot since I arrived here in France and I expect to see more (I hope). What makes it so tough is the big hedge rows. Jerry gets in them and is hard to get out, but our artillery soon gets him on the move. They are pretty good shots, but some of their snipers couldn't hit a barn with a rock if they were inside. Don't ask me why, cause he couldn't tell me or wasn't able.

I sure give the top hand to the infantry. They are the real dough boys of this war, not a regular GI. They sure should get all the pay they can get and more besides.

They say Jerry has not very many planes left; well don't let them kid you. But if they keep coming where we are it is P. S. (tough soap) Ha, Ha.

I have run across a lot of these German wooden bullets. They are cheap looking but are pretty dangerous.

As of today, I have not met a soul that I know from around home, but give me time.

There was one thing that really gave me a deadly shock, that was the clipping my wife sent me about Gene Cornell. He was a very good pal and friend of mine. I tried to see him a couple of times in London but no soap. He sure was one grand fellow to know and he was always a swell person to me. We fellows will miss him, but not like his parents.

We sleep in foxholes over here and plenty deep. It is not like at home but plenty safe and we stick to them pretty close.

Well, the bottom is coming up fast, so will close. The old P. A.'s sure hit the spot and I always look forward to them.

As ever,
Pvt. Harlow Kendig
